General Editor's Foreword

We are proudly happy to place herewith in the hands of the students of Classical Indian literature Prof. Handiqui's critical translation of Pravarasena's Setubandha, which is one of the few works that mark the highest achievement in the major literary genre of Mahākāvya. No recent work of Prakrit literary scholarship matches the present work in richness of the exegetical materials culled after a meticulous scanning of numerous commentaries so as not to miss any significant detail. The Setubandha can fairly compare with the Saptaśataka of Hāla in points of age, importance and a continuous tradition of high literary esteem. The latter work had quite early received thorough attention it deserved from a scholar of Weber's stature; the Setubandha, it seems, was reserved for Prof Handiqui's mature scholarship.

The difficult task set to himself by Prof. Handiqui was primarily to recover and ascertain the original meaning and implication of Pravarasena's verses. The enormity of the effort involved in such an undertaking can be figured out by considering the fact that for this purpose one is required to deal with a thousand year's textual confusion and wild overgrowth of divergent interpretations. Moreover, the earlier Commentaries are lost. All the preserved Commentaries are removed from the original by several centuries, and they were written during the period when Prakrit had lost its earlier vigour and vitality, so that a considerable number of forms and expressions had become obscure or altogether incomprehensible. This made it quite difficult for the commentators in numerous cases to spot scribal errors, decide genuineness of a reading and give the correct meaning of an expression without indulging in guess-work. Prof. Hindiqui inspite of his advanced age and failing health has spared no pains in making available profuse extracts from various unpublished commentaries, thereby presenting very valuable data for the exegetical and textual history of the Setubandha. His translation is based on a critical consideration of the numerous alternatives offered by the vast and varied exegetical materials. His notes to the translation are sure to prove a feast for the students of Prakrit.

The elaborate Introduction deals with all the important aspects of the poem like authorship¹, date, source and influence, form, cultural and geographical background, language, metre, literary worth, commentarial tradition and textual recensions. The detailed outline of the contents of the poem, spotlighting passages of significance, will be found very useful. The problem of exactly characterizing the Prakrit of the Setubandha is highly complicated. What features were considered in the indigenous grammatical tradition as characteristic (exclusive or commonly shared by other literary Prakrits) for Mahārāṣṭrī; what was the relationship of the stylized literary Mahārāṣṭrī with the colloquial speech of the Mahārāṣṭra region during the early centuries of the Christian era; what recension or recensions of the Setubandha provided basis for the rules and observations of the Prakrit grammarians; which of the readings found in different commentaries and Alamkāra works are old and original : such problems shall have to be tackled before we can arrive at tenable conclusions in this regard. In the section on the language of the Setubandha Prof.

1. One can form some idea as to how much Pravarasena had become legendary by the time of later commentaries, by noting the fact that Pravarasena's family name 'Vākātaka' was corrupted beyond recognition. Kṛṣṇavipra has prākṛtānām mahārājāḥ for vākātakānām mahārājāḥ and Kṛṣṇadāsa has also vaakappa for vākātaka (Vide Introduction, p 16)

Handiqui has provided us with much food for thought concerning this problem.

Numerous commentaries on the Setubandha composed in the South, the *Setutattvacandrikā*² from Bengal, the Rāmaśetupradīpa of Ramadāsa of Rajasthāna etc. evidence a revival of Prakrit studies in the second millenium of the Christian era. The commentarial extracts given by Prof. Handiqui will be very useful also for the later history of Prakrit studies.

It is quite evident that the future scholars working to settle various recensions and prepare a critical text of the Setubandha shall have to build on the foundations laid by Prof. Handiqui. The readers will no doubt welcome this translation and study of the Setubandha with several years' painstaking and careful work at their back, and appreciate them as a major contribution in the field of Prakrit philology. The Prakrit Text Society is not only extremely glad to publish this work, but it is also grateful to Prof. Handiqui for very generously bearing the publication cost of the work and donating it to the Society.

2. On p 98 of the Introduction Prof Handiqui has drawn our attention to the fact that the Commentator Kulanātha cites a Deśi lexicon different from the Deśināmamālā of Hemacandra. It may be observed in this connection that in the setutattvacandrikā, a seventeenth century compilation from earlier commentaries of Śrīnivāsa, Kulanātha, Lokanātha and others, a Deśi lexicon called Deśisāra is cited. It seems to have been composed in Ānustubh metre and gives meaning equivalents in Sanskrit. In the Deśināmamālā of Hemacandra, the citations from one of the earlier authorities have the same features. It is likely that the Deśisāra was among the sources that served Hemacandra.

PREFACE

The Setubandha is the only extant Prakrit Mahākāvya that has come down to us from early times. The date of composition (circa fifth century A.D.) makes it a notable link in the evolution of the Mahākāvya in Prakrit and Sanskrit. Further, as pointed out in the Introduction, the Setubandha has exercised unmistakable influence on Bhāravi and Māgha; and its importance lies in the fact that it represents a significant phase of the development of Kāvya poetry after Kālidāsa. Pravarasena's poem is often quoted in Alaṅkāra works, which points to the esteem in which it is held by Sanskrit writers on poetics.

The Setubandha, also called Rāvaṇavaha, was critically edited by S. Goldschmidt, and published for the first time in 1880 at Strassburg then in Germany. A German translation of the text followed in 1884 as the second volume of the work. The Setubandha was published in India by the Nirnayāsagar Press, the second edition of which appeared in 1935. The only merit of this edition is that it contains the commentary of Rāmadāsa on the poem as well as the Sanskrit chāyā. Goldschmidt had utilized this commentary in manuscript, and had also access to an imperfect manuscript of the commentary of Kṛṣṇavīpra.

It was on the basis of the above materials that I had commenced translating the Setubandha from Prakrit. But after translating a few hundred verses, I realized the need to consult other commentaries besides that of Rāmadāsa; and at my request my lamented friend Dr. P. K. Gode, Curator, Bhandarkar Oriental Research Institute, Poona was kind enough to obtain for me transcripts of several unpublished commentaries from different manuscript libraries in India. The commentaries appeared to be of great value for a critical study of the poem, and it was thought advisable to include extracts from them as a supplement to the translation. The correction and revision of these extracts compiled from transcripts of imperfect manuscripts involved considerable time and labour; but a study of the commentaries encouraged me to undertake the translation anew with a better idea of Pravarasena's style and use of the Prakrit language.

The translation generally follows Goldschmidt's edition based on the text of Rāmadāsa. It will however be seen that it does not always agree with the printed text of Goldschmidt, or that of the Nīrnayasagar edition, because, except in a few cases, I have followed Rāmadāsa's readings only when they agreed with those of his predecessor Kulānātha. The relevant details have been explained in the opening section of the Introduction; and in all such cases of discrepancy, reference may be made to the Extracts where the readings of the principal commentators including Rāmadāsa have been clearly shown as far as they could be ascertained.

The Extracts include substantial portions of the important commentaries of Kṛṣṇavipra, Mādhavayajvan and Kulānātha besides occasional excerpts from certain other commentaries. Details of all the commentaries utilized for this work and information about the original manuscripts will be found in the relevant section of the Introduction.

The book has been in the press for several years, and had to be printed at different places under difficult conditions. This stood in the way of continuous pagination necessitating the division of the volume into two parts.

In conclusion, I wish to pay homage to the memory of Dr. P. K. Gode for his kindly help and cooperation which enabled me to continue working almost without interruption.

Dr. A. N. Upadhye at whose suggestion I had undertaken this work passed away to my great sorrow shortly before the publication of the volume. Without his help and encouragement it would have been difficult for me to complete the task in my declining years marked by ill health and bereavement. I express my sincere gratitude to him

I am indebted to Sri D. D. Malvania, Secretary, Prakrit Text Society, for his unfailing courtesy and earnest efforts to expedite the publication of the volume.

INTRODUCTION

The present translation and the text of the Setubandha.

The text of the Setubandha followed in the translation is that of the critical edition of Goldschmidt¹ which, on the whole, presents the Prakrit original as explained by Rāmadāsa in his wellknown commentary on the poem.

The different commentaries on the poem, utilized for the present work, revealed, however, a large number of variant readings, which could be classified into several inter-related groups. There is a considerable number of readings, for instance, in which Rāmadāsa of Rājasthān and Kulanātha of Bengal agree, differing herein from the South Indian commentators represented by Krsnavipra and others. There is, however, another group of readings in which Kulanātha, who is earlier than Rāmadāsa, agrees not with him, but with the Southern commentators, and nearly always the readings of this group yield a better meaning than those of Rāmadāsa. We shall presently speak about the recension followed by Rāmadāsa and its relation to the other recensions of the Setubandha; but so far as the translation is concerned, we have, in the interest of clarity and intelligibility, consistently followed Rāmadāsa's readings only where he agrees with Kulanātha, and in most other cases preferred those which Kulanātha has in common with the South Indian commentators.

1. Rāvaṇavaha oder Setubandha Prākṛt and Deutsch herausgegeben von Siegfried Goldschmidt 1. Lieferung : Text, Index Strassburg, 1880,

There are a few exceptions to what has been stated above. In one or two cases, e g., Setu 3.8¹, Rāmadāsa's readings have been followed, as they appeared to be the best. Besides, there is a small number of readings in which the commentators differ from each other, and even the South Indians disagree among themselves. In such cases, too, unless otherwise stated, Rāmadāsa's readings have been followed faute de mieux.

In a translation based on different commentaries containing many alternative explanations, it is not always easy to hit upon the right meaning of a word or a phrase, especially on account of the vagueness of Prakrit as a medium of expression ; and there will always be room for improvement in the rendering of particular verses. In Setu 1. 22, for instance, it would be better to take velā in the sense of samudrajalavṛddhi, as suggested in Kṛṣṇavipra's alternative explanation, so that the rendering might be : 'The pure-rayed pearls, the stars,..... shone in the ocean of the firmament, adhering to its flood-tide, the night.' It is needless to give other examples. The extracts from the commentaries appended to the translation contain adequate material for an evaluation of the different interpretations and variant readings.

The Setubandha : an outline

The Setubandha of Pravarasena deals with a portion of the story of Rāma from the return of Hanumat from Lankā with the tidings of Sitā to the death of Rāvana, with special emphasis on the construction of the great causeway between the mainland and the island. The poem, though written in Prakrit, is wellknown to students of Sanskrit literature from the eulogistic references in Dandin's Kāvyaadarśa and Bāṇa's Harṣacarita. The reference to Pravarasena and his Setubandha in one of the introductory verses of the *Harṣacarita*¹ shows that the poem is earlier than the seventh century A. D.; and it is, in fact, believed to be about two centuries earlier than Bāṇa. Before we go into the question, it will be convenient to give an outline of the contents of the poem Canto I. Description of the autumn. Hanūmat returns from Lankā with news of Sītā. The martial hosts of the Vānaras led by Sugrīva march to the shore of the Southern sea, accompanied by Rāma, on their way to the Rākṣasa capital where Sītā is held captive.

1 It now appears that Rāmadāsa's reading in this verse is also found in the commentary of Latakanamiśra.

Canto II. The Vānara host is paralysed with fear at the sight of the ocean which is elaborately described Canto III. Sugrīva in a warlike speech tries to stir up the valour of his followers. He exhorts them to exert themselves and traverse the ocean to destroy the enemy and rescue Sītā. He appeals to their sense of responsibility and praises the value of the silent performance of one's duties.

This responsibility is yours. The master's authority is restricted to command. The lotus beds in the pools burst into bloom by themselves. The sun only adds to their lustre v. 6

Rare are the honest persons that silently achieve their tasks. Few also are the trees that yield fruit without their flowering being noticed. v. 9

Sugrīva stresses the role of prestige and martial reputation, and dwells on the character of the valiant warrior.

It is unthinkable that one's prestige, never lowered before, should be humiliated by others, the prestige that hath been built up with a sense of pride, and maintained from one generation to another.

1. Kīrtih pravarasenasya prayātā kumudojjvalā / sāgarasya param pāraṃ lapiseneva setunā //

Martial reputation radiates enthusiasm, and its value cannot be appreciated by those who lack ardour for war. It is hard to regain, once it departs, tarnished by disgrace.

The valiant, who welcome the advent of war, and preserve their equanimity in weal and woe, remain steadfast even in danger, faced with a calamity brought by fate. vv. 18-20

Death is preferable to the loss of self-respect.

Death, not long life, is preferable for one that hath lost his pride, even if he takes possession of the enemy's wealth, maintains the renown of his family, and upholds the moral law. v. 45

He tries to evoke the sympathies of the Vānaras by an impassioned appeal in which he gives utterance to his loyalty and devotion to Rāma.

While Rāma's heart is full of sorrow, and afflicted with delusion, and is like the moon, the mainstay of the night, when obscured by the clouds;...let none pity the lot of Sītā, suffering like a day lotus plant wilted by the cold-rayed moon! While Rāma's heart, pining with love, is distraught with grief, what craving can one have for one's fading life? vv. 47, 48

Sugrīva is vexed at the failure of his speech to produce any visible effect on the Vānaras who remain as stolid as ever. He now changes his tone, and breaks out into a wild exaggeration of his own powers, declaring that he will alone traverse the ocean and ravage Laṅkā and slay Rāvana without waiting for assistance from such unreliable followers.

Canto IV. The Vānaras are warmed up by Sugrīva's provocative speech. He is criticized by Jāmbavat, who begins his speech with a colourful reference to his miraculous longevity going back to primordial times. He counsels patience, and cautions Sugrīva against rash and precipitate action and reckless initiative, and reminds him of his responsibility as the leader of the army. Rāma, however, reiterates his confidence in Sugrīva; and Jāmbavat suggests that they should request the Ocean to provide a passage to the other shore. Meanwhile Vibhīṣana arrives by air with his followers, and is presented to Rāma, who extols him for his virtuous conduct in sharp contrast to his Rākṣasa origin, and then consecrates him as the future ruler of Lankā.

Canto V. Rāma undertakes a religious fast under the moonlit sky to induce the Ocean to facilitate the crossing. But, in the morning, incensed at the unresponsive attitude of the Ocean, he gives vent to his wrath by discharging his fiery arrows whose flames envelop the seething waters in a vast conflagration.

Canto VI. The Ocean emerges grievously wounded by Rāma's arrows. He is supported by his consort Gangā, and utters words that are 'cogent though soft in tone, deeply significant though brief, dignified though polite, and outspoken though accompanied with praise.' He regrets that he has incurred Rāma's displeasure by trying to maintain his pre-ordained stability and untraversable character, but tells him plainly that he has grievously suffered on many such occasions on account of Rāma's exploits during his career as Viṣṇu. Nevertheless he declares that the unhappiness caused to Rāma by his resistance grieves him more than the physical suffering inflicted upon him by the conflagration. He appeals to Rāma to save the waters which have to be stored up for the deluge; and points out that even if the waters are dried up by any means, the sodden seafloor will be as impassable as ever. The only way to reach Lankā is by a bridge of mountains to be built across the ocean (vv. 9-17) Rāma approves the idea; and at his command the Vānaras, who are represented as giants endowed with supernatural strength, set about uprooting the mountains all over the mainland, and fly to the seashore loaded with mountains poised on their shoulders.

Canto VII. The Vānaras proceed to build the causeway 'that was to be the touchstone of their valour; the precursor of the overthrow of Rāvana's might, the abiding symbol of Rāma's fame' Heaps of mountains are vehemently dropped into the waters, convulsing the ocean and rocking the earth, but this does not produce the desired result.

Formed by the mountains that were continuously released, and came in a long unbroken series, the causeway appeared to be built in the sky, but vanished as it plunged into the sea. n. 70

Canto VIII. The remaining mountains are placed on the shore, and the sea becomes calm. The Vānaras are worn out with toil, but the situation is saved by the genius of Nala, who at the request of Sugrīva applies his skill to the construction of the bridge. He methodically fits the mountains together as they are dropped in, and succeeds in building a causeway linking the Malaya mountain on the mainland with the plateau of the Suvela on the island of Lankā.

Soaked in water, and clinging together, the mountains, with the join imperceptible, were not parted from each other, even though battered by the raging sea. v. 32

The causeway is named after the great Vānara architect.

Did Nala's Way drop on the sea, fashioned in the sky? Built long ago, was it hauled from the Malaya range? Did it come into being in the waters of the sea? Did it emerge from the nether regions, complete in structure? v. 57

The deer (on the mountains of the causeway) looked at the ocean, and the people at Nala, all together, with eyes full of fear lest the mountains should topple down and the waters of the mountain streams that cascaded far into the sea rose aloft as they dashed (against the waves) to the music provided by the jubilation of the apes. v. 65

Some characteristic features of the bridge of mountains are mentioned.

Portions of the causeway, built of crystal rocks, and interspersed between the mountains, seemed at places to be rent in the middle, being similar in colour to the tranquil sea.¹ v. 91.

Peaks of the Himālaya, covered with snow, and those of the Malaya, fragrant with the broken sandal trees, could be clearly recognised, even though built into Nala's Way. v. 92

On completion of the causeway, the Vānaras cross over to Laṅkā unopposed, with the result that the demons become remiss in carrying out the orders of their master Rāvaṇa.

Canto IX. The Vānaras reach the Suvela mountain which is elaborately described.

Canto X. The sun sets as the Vānaras occupy the Suvela. The canto opens with a long description of the evening scenery followed by an account of the gaieties of love of the young women of Laṅkā under the shadow of the impending disaster.

Canto XI. The evening has not proved as delightful to Rāvaṇa as to his subjects. He pines for Sītā amid the reproaches of his wives, who, after observing his condition, 'did laugh at him; but having laughed, could not help pitying him.' Musing for a while on how to gain Sītā's favour, Rāvaṇa concludes that she might perhaps yield if she saw the severed head of Rāma, because

People dare violate their cherished principle out of fear, when they are helpless and humble for lack of friends, and see no cause for shame, with all hope gone owing to the loss of protection. v. 29

Ordered by Rāvaṇa, the demons produce a severed head of Rāma by magic, exactly like the real one, and proceed to the pleasure garden where Sītā is held captive. Her pitiful condition is described in a number of verses (39-50). The demons are moved to pity, but leave the head before her, as ordered by Rāvaṇa.

1. i.e., the transparent rocks looked like breaches through which the waters of the sea seemed to flow

Sītā was seized with grief when she espied it, and began to tremble as the demons brought it near, and fainted when they said it was Rāma's head. v. 53

She shed no tears nor could even look at Rāma's head. Having fainted, she only sank to the ground, helpless like one dead. v. 56

With eyes closed as she swooned, she felt only bliss free from the pangs of separation, with the sorrow caused by Rāma's death forgotten for the moment. v. 58

Coming to herself, she bemoans her fate.

During separation from thee, I kept somehow alive in the hope of seeing thee, and thus have I seen thee. My hopes, although they were coming to fruition, were not fulfilled.

The Earth will have another lord, and Royal Fortune pass to many an eminent man. How is it that this uncommon widowhood hath befallen me alone? vv. 77-8

She feels ashamed that she is alive after witnessing the severed head, and fears that she will be remembered as a woman that lacked the courage to die.

Trijatā, a Rākṣasa woman who had befriended Sītā, tries to console her in her grief. She lays stress on the divine character of Rāma, and asks her not to judge him to be on a par with other men. How could she believe that the earth could hold Rāma's severed head without convulsions like the overturning of the earth and the commingling of the oceans, or the collapse of the mountains? The wind still breaks the branches of the trees in Rāvaṇa's palace garden, and the lotus blossoms there still close in contact with the rays of the moon, showing that Rāma is alive, and the forces of nature continue to function under his protection (vv. 90, 91).

Rāma will come to her before long.

Soon wilt thou see Rāma happy with his bow unstrung, and serene and free from wrath, his face worn and pallid on account of separation from thee. v. 93

Trijatā points to the pleasure garden, laid waste by Hanūmat who was but a servant of Rāma, a symbol of the humiliation of Rāvaṇa's pride (v. 95). Then she says—

Fainting and sinking to the ground, languid and drooping, thou art under such a delusion that even knowing it clearly to be a deception of the demons, I am likewise stricken with grief.

Why hast thou no confidence in Rāma even now? He hath built a causeway between the Suvela and the Malaya before the eyes of the united demons, and stormed the peaks of the Suvela. vv. 97,98

Paying no heed to the admonition of Trijatā, Sītā sinks down upon her bosom, and then suddenly recovering herself, speaks again—

Tell me if I am the same that first saw this head and sank to the ground, and then recovering from the swoon, see it again, and cling to life. v. 103

Thou hadst sped hither, o scion of Raghu,.....to save my life worn by the sorrows of separation; but I destroyed thy life, myself remaining alive. v. 106.

She looks at the severed head once more; and begs Trijatā to suffer her to die (v. 113). But her death, she says, will be a shameless one, 'despicable because of lack of love,' since she 'accepted widowhood with a cruel heart' instead of resolving to die on seeing the head (v. 114).

'This is the fate of all, but such an end is unbecoming to those who have an exalted sense of honour'. As she uttered these words she threw herself on the ground, beating her breast. v. 115

No more did she wish to lament, nor smote her breast, like an enemy. She shed no tears, but checked their flow. Her heart was bent on death. v. 117

Trijatā consoles her again. It is impossible even to imagine what Sītā has thought to be true. Referring to the burning of Lankā by Hanūmat, she argues: a single ape made the wails of the people re-echo through the houses of the city; how could Rāma die with the demons unscathed (v. 122)?

It is impossible. Rāma cannot be killed. The world will soon be without any demons. I say so because I have foreseen it clearly. Believe me. To whom is the destruction of his race dear? v. 123

She is aggrieved at the change in Rāvaṇa's character that makes him stoop to such meanness while Rāma is alive (v. 127); and reminds Sītā of his heroic achievements.

Think not that the power of Rāma's arms counts for little. Its efficacy was seen in the slaying of Vālin. On account of it, the ocean, driven by his arrows, hath granted a pathway across its waters. On account of it, Lankā is besieged v. 128

She relates her dreams presaging Sītā's glory and the death of Rāvaṇa; and asks her to take heart and cease from weeping. 'Let the illusion vanish, ignored and futile, and empty because the truth is known'. v. 131

Sītā is not consoled by Trijatā's words until she hears the yelling of the Vānaras and Rāma's war-drum at dawn, heralding the preparations for the impending battle.

Canto XII. The canto opens with a description of the morning scenery (vv 1-20). Rāma takes up his bow, and the Vānaras arm themselves with mountains and trees. The demons, awakened by the roll of Rāvaṇa's war-drum, hastily take leave of their mistresses, and rise up in arms against the invaders. 'Even as their mistresses restrained the martial zeal of the warriors it grew more ardent because of the rancour harboured against the enemy, all the more because they were reminded of the possible humiliation of their master (c. 51)' The leaders of the demons equip themselves with armour, which is described in detail (vv. 54-63). Meanwhile, the Vānaras close in upon Lankā and completely encircle the city; they smash the moats and demolish the fortified gate.

The rivers of Lankā looked like the brooks streaming down the steeply sloping mountain and meandering on all sides, because their bejewelled embankments were smashed down by the apes, and the waters poured into the neighbouring hollows v. 75

The army of the demons begins to move after the storming of the city by the Vānaras (v. 81). The movement of the vast multitude through the gates of the city is described in a few verses

The army took a devious route, unable to make its exit all at once: it was impeded by the congestion of the chariots, and crammed into the space between the mansions, with the elephant corps crowded into the gateways of the city. v. 89

Thus impeded at the gates, the army of the demons moved out of the city, dispersed along a wide front, like unto a river issuing from a cave with a single entrance, and flowing wide over the plains. v. 93

The Vānaras rush forth, 'like a forest fire driven by a violent gale', on seeing the demons emerge through the gates.

The army of the demons swelled, the infantry ready to strike, and the cavalry, advancing on the flanks; the elephants urged on by the goad, and the chariots driven at full speed. v. 96

The wrathful warriors assailed the enemy, and were assailed in turn. Full of exalted martial pride, they slew and were slain. Only they yielded not on account of their zeal v. 98

Canto XIII. The fighting continues. The demons who are well provided with horses, elephants and chariots are worsted in their encounter with the mountain-hurling Vānaras.

The chariots were dashed on the ground as the apes swooped down on them. The elephants, thrown up by the apes as they sprang into the air, had their limbs broken. The captured horses ran away, and the demon warriors were slain by the pursuing apes v. 22

The troops scattered, with the tangled mass of chariots broken by the elephants, and the horses trapped in the chariots, and the foot-soldiers stumbling over the horses, and the elephants tumbling over the former. v. 71

The horses stood motionless, pursued and seized by the tail by the impetuous apes; and the chariots, with the fighters killed and the drivers fallen, were whirled away by the horses, frightened by the apes. v. 76

In spite of their reverses, the demons return to the fray.

The demons resumed the burden of war abandoned by them, and summoned their fading courage; retrieved their lost renown, and became unconquerable by the martial hosts of apes. v. 79

The concluding verses describe a series of single combats between the chosen leaders of the demons and the Vānaras: Prajangha and Sugrīva, Aśaniprabha and Dvivida, Vajramuṣṭi and Mainda, Vidyunmālin and Suṣeṇa, Tapana and Nala, Jambūmālin and Hanūmat, and Indrajit and Angada (vv. 80-99). The leaders of the demons are slain with the exception of Indrajit, who has a trial of strength with Angada, marked by vicissitudes that alternately give hopes and fears to their followers.

Thereafter when Indrajit's spirit was broken by Angada by dint of martial zeal, the apes made merry thinking that he was slain; but the demons rejoiced, because they knew that he had vanished by magic. v. 99

Canto XIV. Rāma actively participates in the fighting, and his arrows play havoc among the demons. At nightfall Indrajit, flying aloft from his chariot broken by Angada, moves about invisible in the sky, and discharges the miraculous serpent arrows at Rāma and Lakṣmana, which penetrate through their limbs, paralysing and binding them fast. Rāma, followed by Lakṣmaṇa, sinks to the ground.

When Rāma fell, the world was stupefied as when the mental faculties fail. It was suddenly plunged into gloom as at the setting of the sun. It appeared to be bereft of life as when the (severed) head falls to the ground. v. 34

The Vānaras, anxious and bewildered, 'keep still as in a picture, their eyes fixed on Rāma, and hearts smitten with grief.' Sugrīva, whose eyes are sprinkled with consecrated water by Vibhīṣaṇa, sees the hitherto invisible Indrajit and chases him to the gates of Laṅkā.

Forgetting at the moment his grief for Sītā, Rāma bewails the fate of Lakṣmaṇa and bids farewell to Sugrīva.

So lose not heart. Depart quickly by that very causeway, and see thy kinsfolk; Hard it is to know the working of fate. v. 48

Choking back his tears, and without answering Rāma, Sugrīva asks the Vānaras to carry him and Laksmāna in comfort to the city of the apes. Then in an emotional outburst he declares his resolve to chastise and kill Rāvāna that very day.

I will break his Candrahāsa sword with my hands even as it is plunged into my shoulder, while his weapons will tumble out of his chariot, grabbed, kicked and smashed by me. v. 52

With my hands I will part, pull and sever each of his groaning heads from the body, and dash it down; and with my nails tear out his heart, attached to Sītā in vain. v. 54

Learning from Vibhīṣaṇa that the arrows are live serpents, Rāma meditates on the mystic formula sacred to Garuḍa, the serpent-destroying bird that carries Viṣṇu on its back. In an instant the mighty bird rushes in, raising a violent gale and stirring up the sea with its speed; and the serpents disappear as soon as Rāma embraces Garuḍa (vv. 56-61).

Hearing of the deliverance of Rāma by Garuḍa, Rāvāna entrusts Dhūmrākṣa with the conduct of the war. In the fatal encounter of the demons with the Vānaras he attacks Hanūmat with arrows and other weapons that prove ineffectual. The latter wrecks Dhūmrākṣa's chariot at one fell swoop, and after snatching his bow from him, mocks at the demon. He then strangles him to death (vv. 62-69).

Hanūmat kills also Akampana, Dhūmrākṣa's successor, 'tearing asunder his limbs one by one, and scattering them about,' after which Prahasta takes the field (vv. 70, 71).

The remaining verses describe the combat between Prahasta and the Vānara leader Nīla, who hurls at him mountains, trees and boulders that are swiftly riven by the arrows of the demon. Ultimately Nīla springs high into the air, and hurls a massive rock, shattering Prahasta with the blow.

Canto XV. Shedding tears at the death of Prahasta, Rāvaṇa goes out to fight, and chases the host of Vānaras out of the battlefield. They are rallied by their leader Nīla; and Rāvaṇa, hit by Rāma's arrows, beats a hasty retreat, the Vānaras making fun of his chariot as he hurries back to Lankā.

Faced with ruin, Rāvaṇa wakes up the sleeping Kumbhakarna who sallies out after a hearty laugh at the trivial command to kill Rāma. At the sight of his stupendous figure the Vānaras run away, dropping their mountains; but, after protracted fighting, his arms and then his lofty head are struck off by Rāma's arrows. Hearing of Kumbhakarna's death, Rāvaṇa is on the point of returning to the fray, but is held back by his son Meghanāda, who asks him to give him a chance to prove his worth; and promises to kill Rāma, or even outdo him in his feat of withering the ocean (vv. 25-29).

Meghanāda hastens to the battle and routs the Vānaras, but is slain by Lakṣmaṇa as he proceeds to the shrine of Nikumbhilā to worship for victory. Smitten with grief and despair, Rāvaṇa attacks Lakṣmaṇa and pierces him in the chest with a lance. He is resuscitated by the plants of a mountain brought over by Hanūmat, and fights with the demons as before (vv. 46-47).

Mātali, the charioteer of Indra, now descends from heaven in his master's chariot, and presents Rāma with the massive armour of Indra. As soon as Rāma mounts the chariot placed at his disposal, Lakṣmaṇa approaches him with Nīla and Sugrīva; and begs him to direct his wrath to something weightier than the killing of Rāvaṇa, and relegate the task to one of them. Rāma expresses his confidence in their capacity for success, but declines the request, asking them not to snatch Rāvaṇa from him, who has come face to face with him, like a wild elephant falling a prey to a lion's jaws (vv. 48-61).

Meanwhile Rāvaṇa sets about overwhelming the host of Vānaras with his arrows, but the fight now resolves itself into an archery contest between Rāma and his adversary, 'marked by equal valour, and momentous because of the certain death of one of them.' At long last the cluster of Rāvaṇa's heads is severed all at once by Rāma with a single arrow (vv. 62-79).

Vibhīṣana laments the death of Rāvaṇa (vv. 84 ff.).

'If I am pious, I who forsook thee, unforsaken by thy other kinsmen who shared thy joys and sorrows; then, o king, who should be counted first among the impious?'

Sorrowing over the killing of his kinsmen, Vibhīṣana spoke to Rāma as he checked his oncoming tears with an effort more unbearable than death, like unto a mountain whose streams were dried by the heat of summer. vv. 88,89

He begs leave to fall at the feet of the dead Rāvaṇa and Kumbhakarna, and touch the head of 'the child Meghanāda,' his nephew. Moved to pity by his lament, Rāma orders Hanūmat to perform the funeral rites for the lord of the demons.

Taking with him Sītā, purified in the fire like a bar of gold, Rāma returns to Ayodhyā 'to crown Bharata's devotion to him with glory.'

Pravarasena and the Setubandha

That Pravarasena, the author of the Setubandha, was a king is generally accepted by our commentators, but they record different traditions about his identity. Kulanātha, in his gloss on Setu 1.12, says that there is a tradition (śruti) that Anurāga is another name of the poet which he records in the concluding verse of each Canto. Anurāga is, in fact, one of the poets to whom a few verses of the Gāthāsaptasatī are attributed by the commentators of that work; but there are also some verses ascribed to Pravarasena separately. There is no reason to assume that the same writer is quoted under two different names.

Kṛṣṇavipra's reference to the authorship of the Setubandha is more difficult to understand. He calls Pravarasena the Mahārāja of the Prākṛtas; and the phrase used by him is curiously like the peculiar expression employed in referring to the kings of the Vākāṭaka dynasty in their inscriptions. He says at the end of his gloss on Canto 1: iti prākṛtānām mahārāja-śrī-Pravarasenasya rājñah skandhakākhye kāvyē etc., followed by the remark: prākṛtānāmīti nirdhārane saṣṭhi.¹ Another commentator Kṛṣṇadāsa makes exactly the same remark except that he uses the word madhye after prākṛtānām, making any grammatical observation unnecessary. Kṛṣṇavipra is a South Indian, and Kṛṣṇadāsa appears to be the same. It is difficult to say what they mean by prākṛta. Besides, Kṛṣṇadāsa goes on to say that Vaakappam is the name of Pravarasena's family (Pravarasenakulasya nāma).

The colophon at the end of the Setutattvacandrikā commentary refers to Pravarasena as a 'Cāhuāṇa king'. The statement is obviously wrong, as no king of that name is found in any of the branches of the Cauhāu dynasty, which, besides, belongs to a rather late period of Indian history.

Rāmadāsa who belongs to Rājasthān introduces an altogether new story about the authorship of the Setubandha. He says at the beginning of his commentary that the poem was composed by Kālidāsa for Mahārāja Pravarasena at the command of Mahārājādhirāja Vikramāditya. It may also be noted that the colophon at the end of the different Cantos in some of the Setubandha manuscripts belonging to the recension of Rāmadāsa refers to the poem as 'composed by Pravarasena and made by Kalidāsa' (*siri-Pravarasena-viracit Kālidāsakae dahamuha-vahe mahakavve*¹). The report that the Setubandha was composed, or perhaps revised, by Kālidāsa is apparently based on a tradition current in Rajasthan, and not found in any of our commentators other than Rāmadāsa. Another such report seems to have been current at the time, as Rāmadāsa says in his gloss on Setu 1.9 that, according to some, Pravarasena is Bhojadeva², apparently the famous Paramāra king and author of the first half of the eleventh century, an absurd date for the Setubandha. So far as Kālidāsa is concerned, considerations of style if not the date of composition militate against the attribution of the work to the famous poet, a point to which we shall presently return.

That Pravarasena, the author of the Setubandha, was a well-known king can be deduced from an inscription of the Cambodian king Yaśovarman, who reigned in the last decade of the ninth century A. D. Verse 34 of this inscription says in praise of Yaśovarman :

Yena pravarasenena dharma-setum vivṛṇvatā ।
paraḥ pravaraseno'pi jitaḥ prākṛtasetukṛt ॥³

1 See NS edition. In Goldschmidt's edition the reference to Kālidāsa is found only at the end of three Cantos

2 Pravaraseno bhojad² itī kecit.

3 Inscriptions of Kambuja, ed Majumdar, p 99 The Asiatic Society, Calcutta, 1953.

Here, by a kind of word-play common in Kāvya poetry, the court panegyrist makes a comparison between Yaśovarman and Pravarasena. The former is also pravarasena 'one that has an excellent army'; but while he built a bridge of piety (dharma-setu) consisting of his religious foundations, the other Pravarasena made only a prākṛta-setu, which at first sight means an ordinary bridge, but really means the Setukāvya composed in Prākṛta. The fact that a distinguished king like Yaśovarman, the founder of Yaśodharapura, the first capital of Cambodia,¹ is compared with Pravarasena shows the extent of the Indian king's fame as a poet in cultured circles in South-East Asia.

It is not very easy to determine the identity of Pravarasena, as several kings of that name are known to Indian history. Of these we may eliminate Pravarasena I and II of Kashmir whose reigns are included in Kalhana's Rājataranginī. The real name of the first was Śresthasena who was known also as Pravarasena and Juñjīna.² The second was his grandson and a much more important ruler whose career is treated at length in Kalhana's Chronicle (3.106-378). He has been assigned to the second half of the sixth century A.D.; and is said to have introduced the art of constructing bridges of boats (nausetu) by having a great bridge of this type built over the Vitastā (3.354). The Rājataranginī, however, does not attribute any literary activity to Pravarasena; and there appear to be no valid grounds for supposing, as is sometimes done, that he was the 'author or patron' of the Setubandha.³ It is well-known that Kalhana, while describing political events, occasionally gives valuable information about contemporary writers as well as the literary activities of particular kings. The Setubandha was a famous work for centuries before the completion of the Rājataranginī in 1149-50 A.D.; and is referred to by Kashmir writers on poetics from the ninth century onwards. If it were the work of Pravarasena of Kashmir, it would be difficult to explain why Kalhaṇa should have concealed the fact from his readers.

The other two kings to whom the authorship of the Setubandha could be attributed are Pravarasena II of the elder branch of the Vākātaka dynasty, and Pravarasena II of the younger branch of the same family of kings who ruled in Vidarbha, or the region comprising the former Central Provinces and Berar. The former has been assigned to the second quarter of the fifth century A.D., and the latter to the early years of the same century.¹ Pravarasena II of the elder branch is preferred as the author of the poem, apparently because he had a longer reign, and is much better known from his inscriptions. As a matter of fact, all the inscriptions of the elder branch of the Vākātakas so far discovered, except a few, belong to the reign of Pravarasena II. He was a grandson of the famous Gupta emperor Candragupta II through his daughter Prabhāvatīguptā married to the Vākātaka king Rudrasena II. It is also conjectured that Kālidāsa, believed to have been the court poet of Candragupta II, was probably deputed as a counsellor to the court of Pravarasena, and composed for him the Setubandha, as reported by Rāmadāsa.

As we have seen, Rāmadāsa's statement seems to be based on a late tradition current in Rājasthān; and whatever its value might be, it is impossible to accept the Setubandha as a composition of Kālidāsa on stylistic grounds. Keith is, on the whole, right when he says that the suggestion that Kālidāsa is responsible for the Setubandha 'is excluded by the style, with its innumerable plays on words, alliterations, recondite similes, exaggeration, and its enormous compounds.'¹

The report that the Setubandha was composed by Kālidāsa seems to have been unknown to Bāṇa, who lived only two hundred years after Pravarasena, and praises the achievements of the two poets in separate verses in the prelude to his Harṣacarita. Among later poets, Kṛṣṇakavi, of uncertain date, pays quite different kinds of tribute to Kālidāsa and Pravarasena at the beginning of his poem *Bharatacarita*².

After describing Kālidāsa's diction as beautiful like a water-lily or a pearlstring, and charming as the beloved's presence (1.3), he praises the Setubandha as a famous poem 'that does not go deep into the understanding of the dull-witted,' by which he seems to mean that the poem is hard to understand for the ordinary reader.³ This is no doubt a fair assessment of the poem.

3 Kṛṣṇakavi says jalāśayasyāntaragādhamārgamalabdhbandham giricauryavṛtṭyā / lokesvalam kāntamapūrvasetum babandha kṛtṭyā saha kuntaleśah II.1.4. The verse plays upon the word setu (bridge) and the epithets applied to it. The apparent sense is 'a king of Kuntala built a marvellous bridge that was not planted in any repository of water (i.e., the ocean), nor was it erected by 'stealing' the mountains, i.e., uprooting and carrying them away for building the bridge, as described by Pravarasena. The real meaning is that he produced the wonderful Setukāvya that was not fully understood by the dull-witted, nor was it composed by resorting to theft, i.e., plagiarism. The phrase giricauryavṛtṭyā should also be construed as giri cauryavṛtṭyā. Similarly, jalāśaya should also be taken as jadāśaya acc. to the dictum da-layoraikyam. Cf. Bhoja (SK) 2.75. There is a similar play on jalāśaya in the Avantisundarī of Dandin in connection with the Setubandha. The citizens of Kusumapura in Magadha are described as na jalāśayāḥ setubandhalagnāśca. The apparent meaning of the phrase is 'they are not tanks; yet have bridges fixed in them'. The real meaning is 'they are not jadāśaya (dull), so are devoted to the study of the Setubandha.' Trivandrum ed p. 20.

As regards the authorship of the Setubandha, Kṛṣṇakavi says that it was composed by a king of Kuntala. It is a rather vague statement, as the name Kuntala is applied to various parts of Deccan and Mysore.¹ Kṛṣṇakavi's statement has, however, some relevance to the identification of Kuntala with Vidarbha by Rājaśekhara in one of his works. In the Kāvya-mīmāṃsā he mentions Mahārāṣṭra, Vidarbha and Kuntala separately among the countries of Southern India²;

1 Pratisthāna (Paithan) on the Godāvarī in the former Hyderabad State is twice mentioned as the capital of Kuntala in the Udayasundarikathā of Soddhala who lived in Southern Gujarat and Konkana in the first half of the eleventh century. Mirashi, Studies in Indology, Vol. IV, p. 129. The name was also applied to Southern Mahārāṣṭra where an early Rāṣṭrakūṭa dynasty ruled with its capital at Mānapura, identified with Māṇ in Satara District. An inscription found near Kolhapur describes the founder Mānāṅka as the ruler (prāsāsītā) of the Kuntala country. Ibid., p. 124 ff. Certain parts of Karnāṭaka are also called Kuntala, and sometimes the name is applied to the whole of Karnāṭaka. The early Kadambas who ruled in North Mysore, Dharwar and Belgaum with their capital at Vanavāsī (Banavāsī in North Kanara District) 'are described as ruling in Kuntala in later inscriptions. The Kadamba king Śāntivarman (circa 450-475 A.D.) is, however, called the lord of the entire Karnāṭa region in an inscription of his nephew Viṣṇuvarman. Moraes, Kadambakula, p. 29; The Vākāṭaka-Gupta Age, p. 222. Similarly, Narasiṃha II (1220-35), the Hoysala king of Mysore, is called the lord of Kuntala in the contemporary prose romance Gadyakarnāṃṛta Sastri, The Colas, 1955, p. 422, Introd to Alamkārasarvasva, ed Janaki, p. 41. Delhi, 1965. An inscription of 1385 A.D., engraved on a pillar in front of a Jaina temple at Vijayanagara (Hampi), locates the city in Kuntala which is called a district (visaya) of the wide Karnāṭa country. South Indian Inscriptions, Vol. I, p. 155. On the other hand, the terms, Kuntala and Karnāṭa are used as synonyms to designate the kingdom of the Cālukyas of Kalyāṇa in Bilhana's Vikramāṅkadevacarita written in the last quarter of the eleventh century. Bühler's Introd to his edition, p. 28. Earlier than this, Somadevasūri, in his Yaśastilaka (959 A.D.), mentions Vanavāsī, Karnāṭa, and Kuntala separately in the same verse (1.211). The commentator here explains Vanavāsī as Girisopā (Gersoppa) and other towns, i.e., the territory round Banavāsī. He explains Karnāṭa as Vidara and other towns, an obvious reference to the territory of the Cālukyas of Kalyāṇa. He identifies Kuntala with Pūrvadeśa, probably Vidarbha, which is located in the south-east division in the Bṛhatsaṃhitā 14.8, and identified with Kuntala by Rājaśekhara (see below). In any case, if Kuntala is neither Vanavāsī nor Karnāṭa, it can mean only some part of Mahārāṣṭra

but in the Bālarāmāyana he appears to identify Kuntala with Vidarbha and include the region in Mahārāstra.¹ In the *Kāvyamīmāṃsā*² he locates the city of Vatsagulma in Vidarbha ; but in the Karpūramañjarī he locates Vacchoma or Vatsagulma in Kuntala.³ As pointed out by Sten Konow, the commentaries on the play call it the capital of Kuntala.⁴ Vatsagulma, identified with Bāsim in the Akolā district of Berar, was the capital of the younger branch of the Vākātakas. So if Kṛṣṇakavi's statement was based on an old tradition that the Setubandha was composed by a king of Kuntala, the reference would rather be to Pravarasena II of the younger branch ruling from Vatsagulma than to his namesake of the senior branch who ruled in northern Vidarbha. It is, however, difficult to say what a late writer like Kṛṣṇakavi had in his mind when he referred to Kuntala ; and in any case the tradition that Vatsagulma was in Kuntala does not seem to go beyond the time to Rājasekhara (ninth-tenth century). What is more important is that the Vākātakas do not call themselves rulers of Kuntala in their records. The references to Kuntala in their inscriptions show that it was outside the territory ruled by them⁵

1 In the third Act, the king of Krathakaśīka or Vidarbha is called 'the lord of Kuntala' and 'the best of men in Mahārāstra'. In the tenth Act, as soon as Sugrīva points out the country of Mahārāstra to Rāma, the latter utters two verses, one of which extols the land of Vidarbha, and the other pays a compliment to the women of Kuntala (10 74, 75)

5 The wife of Narendrasena, the son and successor of Pravarasena II, is said to be the daughter of the king of Kuntala. Similarly, an inscription in Ajantā Cave XVI states that Vindhyaśena of the younger branch of the Vākātakas defeated the king of Kuntala, which appears also among the countries overrun by his descendant Harisena, the last known king of the dynasty. Mirashi, Inscriptions of the Vākātakas, pp. 81, 108

We may now turn to Pravarasena II of the elder branch, who has been assigned to the period circa 420–50 A. D. Nandivardhana, identified with Nandardhan or Nagardhan, was the capital of the elder branch of the Vākātakas. It was about three miles from the sacred hill of Rāmtek, a well-known centre of pilgrimage, twentyeight miles from Nagpur. Rāmtek is no doubt Rāmagiri, immortalized by Kālidāsa in his Meghadūta and described as being marked with Rāma's footprints venerated by men.¹ Rāmagiri seems to have played a significant part in the cultural life of the Vākātakas. A land-grant of Prabhāvatīguptā, mother of Pravarasena II, was issued 'from the feet of the lord of Rāmagiri'², which seems to be a reference to the shrine of Rāma at Rāmagiri, or perhaps his pādukās which are still worshipped at Rāmtek. The grant was made in the nineteenth year of Pravarasena's reign; and he, like his mother, no doubt venerated the shrine of Rāma in close vicinity to the capital. It was probably from Rāmagiri that Pravarasena drew his inspiration for writing a poem on the deeds of Rāma, laying stress on the building of the great causeway described by him as 'the abiding symbol of Rāma's fame.' Several early sculptures depicting scenes from the Rāmāyana have also been discovered at Pavnār, a village six miles from Wardha, supposed to represent the site of the city of Pravara-pura founded by Pravarasena. These panels possibly belonged to a temple of Rāma built at the new city.³

3 Mirashi, op. cit., p. 23 and Introd, chap XI

It is noteworthy that Rāma is presented in the Setubandha not as an incarnation of Viṣṇu, but as Viṣṇu himself, the latter's incarnations and functions being likewise attributed to him. The idea is clearly put forward in Brahmā's address to Rāma in the Rāmāyana 6. 105. 12 ff.; and Pravarasena has no doubt been influenced by the Rāmāyaṇa in his identification of Rāma with Viṣṇu. This is particularly in evidence in the Ocean's address to Rāma in Setu 6.10 ff. Besides, Gangā, the famous Viṣṇupadī, is described as having issued from the feet of Rāma, which are designated as 'the feet of Hari' (6.8). The ocean is said to have served as Rāma's couch 'at another epoch', and Laksmī mentioned as his 'consort at the epoch of universal destruction' (2.38). Rāma is here identified with Visnu reposing on the all-pervading ocean for the purpose of recreating the world after its total destruction, as related in the Viṣṇupurāṇa I. 2.60 and other texts. Further, in Setu 11.89,96 Rāma is assumed to be the Supreme Being, and called the primal support of the three worlds (tihuaṇamūlāhāra), with which may be compared Viṣṇupurāṇa II. 13.2 (viṣṇvādhāram tathā caitat trilokyam samavasthitam). The emphasis with which Pravarasena glorifies Rāma in the Setubandha might indicate that he was influenced by the cult of Rāma at the familiar site of Rāmagiri.

The Setubandha throws further light on the religious tendencies of Pravarasena. As we have seen, he represents Rāma as Viṣṇu. Accordingly he devotes the first four of the invocatory verses of the Setubandha to Viṣṇu (1.1-4), but reserves the remaining four for the glorification of Śiva in the forms of Ardhanārīśvara and Natarāja. This is not surprising, as several of Pravarasena's inscriptions describe him as parama-māheśvara or devoted worshipper of Śiva. As a matter of fact, the emotional fervour of the verses (1.5,7,8) in which he invokes Natarāja Śiva might be an indication that, even though he venerated Viṣṇu as Rāma, his iṣṭadevatā was probably Maheśvara in his dancing form. His religious outlook appears to have been like that of Bhartrhari, who says in his Vairāgyaśataka that he knows no difference between Maheśvara, the lord of the worlds, and Janārdana, the soul of the universe ; nevertheless he adores the god crowned with the moon.¹ Such catholicity of views points to sectarian harmony in the early period ; and there is nothing uncommon about a Śaiva of this type composing a poem in honour of Rāma. Kālidāsa's religious attitude is very similar. He invokes Śiva at the beginning of the Raghuvamśa and the Abhijñāna-śākuntala, but glorifies Viṣṇu as the supreme arbiter of the universe in the hymn to that deity in the former work (10.16 ff.).

The verses invoking Natarāja Śiva in our poem contain probably the most eloquent description in old Indian poetry of the god's mystic dance. The all-pervading energy and ever-ebullient spirit of the Creative Power viewed as the Great Dancer find here terse but animated expression. Kālidāsa's mythological reference to Śiva's evening dance in the Meghadūta is picturesque, but not as impressive as Pravara-sena's spirited vision of the dance as a cosmic phenomenon divested of mythological associations.

The dance of Śiva is believed to symbolize the endless, ever-recurring process of creation, maintenance and destruction ; and one or other aspect of these functions of the deity is usually mentioned in his glorification as the Supreme Dancer.² A benedictory verse cited in Bharata's Nāṭyaśāstra

1 i.e., Śiva. Verse 84, NS ed., 1957.

2 The functions of Śiva are explained as sṛṣṭi, sthiti, samhāra, tirobhāya and anugraha. See Śivapurāṇa, Vidyēśvarasaṃhitā, chap 8.

5.132¹, for instance, describes Śiva's tāṇḍava dance at the end of the universal destruction, in the course of which the oceans are convulsed and the mountains overthrown by the impact of his feet. The creative aspect is emphasized in an elaborate verse quoted by Abhinavagupta,² in which the god is invoked as the architect of the universe (trailokyasthapati), initiating the manifold process of creation as he dances in marvellous poses on the stage of the sky, in the evening twilight, at the end of the night of destruction. The author of the Mahimnastava (verse 16) is puzzled by the mystery of Śiva's dance : its purpose is to sustain the world, but, while he dances, the earth is imperilled by the stamping of his feet, the stars are bruised by the movements of his hands, and the heavens lashed by the loosed hair.³ On the other hand, one of the invocatory verses at the beginning of the Mudrārāksasa postulates the idea that the deity dances with toil and trouble, because he has to slow down his steps and contract his arms and deflect the fiery glances from all that is visible to avoid injury to the universe, the scene of his dance. The Setubandha verses in praise of Natarāja lay stress on ecstatic joy as the inspiration of the dance. A similar view is recorded in the Lingapurāṇa,⁴ which, after narrating the legendary origin of the dance of Śiva, tells us

When we look at the whole sub specie aeternitatis, what we thought to be evil when considered as a fact detached from its surroundings is no longer seen to be such when taken as part of a whole which is working for good. So with the dance of Śiva' Mahimnastava of Puspadanta Trans. with comm. by Arthur Avalon. Madras, 1953 that, according to some, the Lord's tāṇḍava is occasioned by rapture born of Yogic contemplation (yogānanda).

4 106,28 (pūrvabhāga) Calcutta, 1885. The date of the Lingapurāṇa is uncertain, but it seems to contain old materials. A Lingapurāṇa was known to the Tāmil Śaiva saint and theologian Tīrumālar. See Ayyar, Origin and Early History of Śaivism in South India, p 209 ff Madras, 1936.

It may be noted that in the age of Pravarasena and thereabouts Śaivism had made considerable progress in the Tamil country; and Śaiva doctrine was formulated in a definitive form by the saint theologian Tirumūlar, who has been assigned to the sixth century or thereabouts. The cult of Natarāja was wide-spread in the South; and the mystic interpretation of the external symbols of the image of Natarāja as worshipped at Cidambaram already appears in Tirumūlar's poetical treatise Tirumandiram, which also enumerates different categories of the dance of Śiva.¹ The glorification of the deity by Pravarasena independent of these developments might represent an earlier phase of the purely devotional aspect of the cult of Natarāja in Deccan². A noteworthy feature of South Indian Saivism, on the other

1 Ayyar (op cit.), pp 229, 361 ff.

2 The cult of Natarāja was popular in Deccan, and the sculptural representation of the deity appears to have been fully developed by the sixth century. The colossal figure of Natarāja with sixteen hands in one of the caves at Badami presupposes a fairly long period of development. These caves are assigned to the sixth century on the basis of an inscription of 578 A D in the Vaiṣṇava cave no. 3. See Banerji, Bas-reliefs of Badami, Calcutta, 1928. There are statues of Natarāja in all the Brahmanical caves at Ellora, of which the most remarkable is that in the Rāmeśvara cave assigned to the sixth century. Other notable examples exist at Aihole, Elephanta and Pattadakal. Jouveau-Dubreuil, Iconography of Southern India, pp 29, 118, Paris, 1937; Burgess, A Guide to Elura Cave Temples p. 43; Gupte, The Art and Architecture of Aihole, pp 37, 77, 85, 109, Bombay 1967; Journal of Indian History, Vol XLIII, p. 513 ff; Cousens, The Chālukyan Architecture of the Kanarese Districts, p. 63 ff, A Guide to the Pattadakal Temples Kannada Research Institute, Dhawar, 1961. In South India the beginnings of the famous temple of Natarāja at Cidambaram are roughly traced to the sixth century A D. As regards sculpture, the figure of Natarāja on a pilaster of the cave-temple built by Mahendrarman (circa 580-630 A D) at Śiyamangalam in North Arcot District is 'perhaps the earliest extant representation of such a form in the South' Krishna Sastri, South-Indian Images of Gods and Goddesses, p 88. hand, was that here the dance of Śiva became the symbol of a deep spiritual experience, and was invested with a new meaning, based on the idea that 'Cidambaram is everywhere, and everywhere is His dance'.¹ As Coomaraswamy says, the deepest significance of the dance 'is felt when it is realised that it takes place within the heart and the self. Everywhere is the heart.'²

Of the verses in praise of Viṣṇu, the first is a thoughtful representation of the deity in the abstract. He is lofty without being heightened, extensive without being broadened, deep without subsiding, minute yet vast, manifest yet inscrutable (1.1). The reference to what may be called apparent contradictions in the nature of Viṣṇu appears in greater detail in Kālidāsa's Raghuvamśa 10.16 ff; and he, like Pravarasena, concludes that no one knows the truth about the deity.³ These ideas can be traced to the Viṣṇupurāṇa to which both Kālidāsa and Pravarasena seem to be indebted for their conception of the character of Viṣṇu. The Purāṇa, for instance, describes Viṣṇu as single and manifold, corporal and subtle, perceptible and imperceptible etc.⁴ He is the support of all things, yet the smallest of the small.⁵ In his perceptible form he is the world, but he is also primary matter (mūla-prakṛti), known as pradhāna, or the avyakta (imperceptible cause).⁶ His shape is all visible things, but he is without shape or form.⁷ He assumes all forms, but is not a substance.⁸ The mysticism underlying these tenets is reflected in Pravarasena's statement that Viṣṇu is manifest, but the truth about him is unknown.

Pravarasena compares the ocean to Viṣṇu in Setu 2.15 : it moves back and forth within itself, even as Visnu comes and goes (in the form of incarnations) in the universe that is his self. As the *Viṣṇupurāṇa*¹ says, he, the mighty one, is the seven worlds, and his form is composed of all the worlds (lokātmanmūrti). The idea of comparing the ocean to the god seems, however, to have come from Kālidāsa, who in Raghuvamśa 13.5 describes the character of the ocean as indefinable like that of Viṣṇu ; and likens the various moods of the ocean to the different phases of Viṣṇu's activity, i.e., creation, maintenance and destruction as explained in the Viṣṇupurāṇa I.2.57 ff.².

The remaining verses in praise of Visnu (1.2-4) extol the Man-Lion and Kṛṣṇa incarnations ; and of the latter's exploits the poet mentions only the killing of the Bull demon and the Pārijāta episode. Two other incarnations are mentioned, the Boar and the Dwarf, the former being more frequently mentioned than any other incarnation of Viṣṇu³.

The Dwarf incarnation is mentioned in Setu 2.9, and the Trivikrama aspect of it in 9.7, 51 and probably also in 9.91. In the latter verse the three worlds are described as lying round the Suvela mountain like the three bracelets encircling 'the massive and lofty arm of Hari'. The commentators Rāmadāsa and Mādhavayajvan find here a reference to Trivikrama. No such details, however, occur in the principal Purāṇic accounts of the Dwarf incarnation¹; and it is difficult to say whether Pravarasena's allusion to the three bracelets is based on poetic fancy or any mythological source. In sculptural representation the image of Trivikrama usually shows two bracelets; but images with three bracelets are known, of which perhaps the most remarkable is the eight-armed figure of Trivikrama in a panel of the Varāhamaṇḍapam cave-temple at Mahāvalipuram, exhibiting three bracelets on each of the hands excepting the one grasping a sword.² The image belongs to about the middle of the seventh century A. D., and so is much later than the age of Pravarasena. The existence of such images might, however, point to an old tradition about the three bracelets symbolizing probably the three worlds covered by Trivikrama's strides.

Pravarasena is one of the earliest writers to have composed a kāvya exclusively on the subject of Rāma in conformity with the Vālmīki-Rāmāyaṇa. Apart from the little known Rāvanavijaya, there seem to have been certain other poems in Prakrit on the subject, but we know nothing about their structure. The Svayambhūcchandas cites a verse each from Nāgaha and Kṛṣṇadatta who seem to have written poems dealing with the story of Rāma. The verse from Nāgaha describes the army of Rāvana, 'dark as the water-filled, towering clouds,' rushing at the apes. The verse cited from Kṛṣṇa-datta is spoken by some one urging Rāvaṇa to return Sītā and appease Rāma. A narrative poem on the legend of Rāma was also written by the Apabhramśa poet Caturmukha, who is cited by Svayambhū, and wrote also other works. It is not clear whether these writers followed Vālmiki or the Jaina Rāmāyaṇa ; but Caturmukha is known to have been a Brahmanical writer, and no doubt followed Vālmiki¹ like Pravarasena. Svayambhū's date (8th-9th century) offers a clue to the dates of these writers, but none of them is probably earlier than Pravarasena. The oldest Sanskrit writer to compose an independent Kāvya on the early career of Rāma was probably the author of the Bhaṭṭikāvya, who, as we shall see, was influenced by Pravarasena. The Bhaṭṭikāvya is at least a century later than the Setubandha.

Generally speaking, the Setubandha consistently follows the story of Rāma as related in the Rāmāyaṇa ; and it is necessary to point out only a few minor variations in some of the episodes. There is nothing, for instance, in the Rāmāyaṇa corresponding to the contents of the third and fourth Cantos of the Setubandha; the consternation of the Vānaras at the sight of the ocean, Sugrīva's effort to inspire them with courage, his vexation at their unresponsive attitude and the consequent threat to destroy Lankā without their cooperation, followed by Jāmbavat's criticism of what he considers to be Sugrīva's haste, obstinacy and lack of judgment. In the Rāmāyaṇa, the army of Vānaras arrives at the seashore full of enthusiasm; and Rāma declares that it is time for them to take counsel together on the problem of crossing the ocean². The proposed deliberation, however, does not take place; and Pravarasena fills the gap with the elaborate discourses of Sugrīva and Jāmbavat in his poem. But in doing so he draws materials from a similar episode in the Kiṣkindhākāṇḍa (Cantos 63, 64). Here the Vānaras who had gone south in search of Sītā are seized with fear on seeing the ocean. They are dumbfounded, and look on in amazement; while their leader Aṅgada, like Sugrīva in our poem, inveighs against despondency, and tries to restore their confidence by exalting their might and distinguished lineage¹. Jāmbavat is with them; and, as in our poem, reminds his companions of his great age by mentioning events witnessed by him in primordial times just to prove that age brings wisdom. Further, in the Rāmāyana episode, when Aṅgada offers to fly over to Lankā, Jāmbavat objects on the ground that the master whose function is to commission others must not be commissioned to do any job². Similar views on the relationship of a commander and his followers are found in Jāmbavat's discourse in the Setubandha 4.33,34.

In the Rāmāyana the suggestion that Rāma should supplicate the Ocean to facilitate the crossing is made by Vibhīṣaṇa (6.13.13); in the Setubandha it comes from Jāmbavat (4.48). The obstinacy of the Ocean leads to his chastisement by Rāma with his fiery arrows. The Rāmāyana narrative here is brief and restrained³, and comparable to one of the most beautiful episodes in the Iliad (21.342 ff.), the fight between the river god and Hephaestus, the god of fire. The Rāmāyana speaks of the waves enveloped in smoke, and the billows towering up like the Vindhya and Mandara mountains, and the distressed animals flung about by the waves.¹ Pravarasena, on the other hand, devotes an entire Canto to a grotesque and wearisome description of a huge conflagration of the ocean let loose by Rāma's arrows.

In the Rāmāyaṇa 6.15 the Ocean appears before Rāma, wearing scarlet robes and garlands and ornaments of gold². In the Southern and North-western recensions³ he comes surrounded by the great rivers led by Gangā and Sindhu. In the Bengal recension he is accompanied by his ministers.⁴ In the Setubandha 6.1 ff. the Ocean emerges, grievously wounded, supporting his arm on his consort Gangā. So far the picture is Pravarasena's own, but he goes on to say that the Ocean was wearing a pearlstring which was so charming that it alleviated his sorrow at the loss of the Kaustubha gem.⁵ A verse corresponding to this occurs in some manuscripts of the Rāmāyaṇa, and is given in a footnote in the critical edition under 6.15.2.⁶ It is probable that the verse in question formed part of the text of the Rāmāyaṇa used by Pravarasena. It also throws light on the expression ekkāvali-īraṇa which has been misunderstood by the commentators, who explain it as ekāvali-ratna, a pearlstring of surpassing beauty.⁷ It is, however, clear from the Rāmāyana verse that the reference is to a gem set in a pearlstring.¹

2 In the Rāma story in the Mahābhārata the Ocean appears in a dream and suggests the building of a causeway, and Rāma does not carry out his threat to chastise the Ocean.

In the Rāmāyana 6.15 the causeway is built by Nala, as suggested by the Ocean, the material used being the trees, bamboos, rocks and mountains brought in by the Vānaras. Pravarasena's account is different in two respects. First, his bridge is entirely built of mountains, skilfully fitted together with transparent crystal rocks interspersed in the structure. As suggested by the Ocean in our poem (6.17), it is primarily a causeway of mountains, giri-setubandha. The North-western recension of the Rāmāyana, which has a longer description of the Setu than the other recensions, seems to put some emphasis on the shower of mountains (parvatavrsti) on the sea²; but it also mentions the other materials used for the purpose.³ Secondly, in the Setubandha Nala appears at a later stage of the project after the complete failure of the initial attempt. The Vānaras uproot the mountains and carry them in an aerial procession to the seashore, but all their efforts are wasted, as the mountains, thrown pell-mell

3 In sculptural representation of Rāmāyana scenes stones are usually shown as being used for the building of the causeway. The most famous of these are in a large Śiva temple forming part of a vast complex of shrines at Prambanan in Central Java. The majestic monument, assigned to the reign of Dakṣa in the second decade of the tenth century, has galleries of reliefs illustrating the story of Rāma up to the arrival of his army in Lankā. Here we see robust, stocky apes carrying roundish boulders on their heads and shoulders, and in the hands, to the seashore. Another series of reliefs depicting a part of the story can be seen in a temple at Panataran in East Java dating from the fourteenth century. Here the style is entirely different, and the figures of the apes, the face resembling that of a human being, appear to be slimmer and taller than at Prambanan. They carry large blocks of stone on their shoulders; and two of them are about to cast the rocks into the sea. Smaller stones are carried in bamboo frames suspended from yokes, or moved along with a crowbar. See Stutterheim, Rāma-Legenden und Rāma-Reliefs in Indonesien. Text and Plates in separate volumes. Munich, 1925. Cf. Hall, A History of South-East Asia, p. 65. 1968.

into the sea, disappear in the waters. Sugrīva then appeals to Nala to build the causeway, and the latter accepts the responsibility. He methodically arranges the mountains, and succeeds in joining them closely together in a compact concatenation. Nala's achievement is a triumph of method and planning. Pravarasena gives a new meaning to the ancient legend.

It may be noted here that, in a footnote under 6.15.21, the critical edition of the Rāmāyaṇa gives an additional verse closely resembling the Setu verse 8.43, which describes how Nala planted in the sea the mountains brought by Hanūmat. It is probable that the verse was known to Pravarasena who puts the idea in a more elaborate form¹.

The Bhaṭṭikāvya (Canto 13) which deals with the building of the causeway follows Pravarasena closely in summarizing the events outlined in Cantos 6-8 of our poem. As is well-known, this Canto is mostly written in Prakrit in the same metre as the Setubandha. The coincidences are as follows. The Ocean appears, supporting his arm on Gangā. He appeals to Rāma to save the waters that serve as a resting place for him as Viṣṇu; and points out that even if the sea dried up, the slimy bottom would be impassable for the Vānaras. The Vānaras rush through the air and uproot the mountains and return with loads of them. The causeway, built entirely of mountains, is called giri- or adribandha. As in our poem, the narrative is followed by a description of Mount Suvela, the southern terminus of the causeway².

The episode of the magic head of Rāma is a good example of Pravarasena's masterly condensation of materials found in different parts of the Rāmāyana. In the Setubandha (Canto 11) Sītā laments at the sight of the severed head of Rāma; and Trijatā, one of the Rākṣasa women appointed to watch over her, consoles her in her grief. In the Rāmāyana the aged Trijatā first appears in the Sundarakāṇḍa, Canto 25, where she chides her companions for being harsh to Sītā, and warns them of the coming danger by relating certain dreams in which she has seen Sītā's glorious reunion with Rāma and the destruction of Rāvana and Lankā. After the landing of Rāma's army Rāvana makes a concerted attempt to force Sītā into submission by showing her the severed head of Rāma and his bow, produced by magic by a demon named Vidyujjihva. Sītā laments Rāma's death; and Rāvana is called away to an urgent session of his council. Saramā, a Rākṣasa woman, 'an affectionate friend' of Sītā, appears on the scene in his Jānakīharana (Canto 14). But he amplifies and greatly exaggerates a statement of Pravarasena in Setu 78 that a mountain thrown into the sea by the apes was swallowed by a whale-devouring monster (timingila). In Kumāradāsa's poem Rāma asks the apes to give up the hope of building the causeway, because the timingilas were swallowing the mountains mistaking them for whales (14 46). Bragging like Sugrīva in Setu 3 58 ff, Rāma declares that the Ocean, spurred by his arrows, will transport the troops to the other shore as they ride on the lofty backs of the whales forming a bridge across the waters. Thereupon, Nala, already commissioned to build the bridge, starts his work by planting the first mountains in the caves of the Malaya range. Kumāradāsa's description looks like a clumsy attempt at variation on the theme as treated by Pravarasena. As regards the timingila episode, similar details are found in some later versions of the Rāma story in art and literature. The Prambanan reliefs, for instance, show some of the stones thrown by the apes as being swallowed by the sea fish. It has been pointed out that this agrees with the Malaya version of the Rāma legend (Hikāyat Seri Rāma), which is, however, believed to be later than the Prambanan sculptures. Acc to the Hikāyat, Rāvana ordered a demon to destroy the bridge before its completion, and at the latter's bidding the fish set about the task until they were devoured by the apes. See Stutterheim op. cit., Text, p. 173, Zieseniss, Die Rama-Sage bei den Malaien, pp. 42, 112. Hamburg, 1928.

and tells her that Rāma has crossed over to Lankā, and that the severed head was a magical trick. She declares her willingness to sacrifice her life for Sītā, and offers to carry a message to Rāma; but instead, at the request of Sītā, goes and overhears the deliberations of Rāvaṇa with his ministers, and returns to report his decision to fight to death¹. The episode of the severed head ends here in the Rāmāyaṇa. In the fighting that ensues, Sītā is brought by Trijatā in the aerial car Puṣpaka under the orders of Rāvaṇa to witness Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa lying on the battlefield apparently dead, pierced by the serpent arrows of Indrajit. For the second time Sītā bewails the death of Rāma; and Trijatā consoles her by explaining the signs indicating that they are alive².

Pravarasena makes a few modifications in the Rāmāyaṇa narrative, and reshapes the materials into a coherent picture of the deception of Rāvaṇa, Sītā's grief and Trijatā's consolation to her. The course of events that had led Trijatā to reveal her dreams in the Sundarakāṇḍa is outside the scope of the Setubandha, but the gist of the dreams appears in her comforting words to Sītā in our poem (11 129, 130). In the Rāmāyaṇa Rāvaṇa goes to the Aśoka grove and tells Sītā a concocted story of Rāma having been killed in his sleep in a night attack on his camp, and asks Vidyujjihva to show the severed head, which he says has just been brought from the scene of fighting; while he himself throws before Sītā the famous bow of Rāma. In the Setubandha the magic head is quietly taken to the grove by the demons and left in front of Sītā who is shocked at its sudden appearance. More conspicuous is the absence of Saramā and her kindly services. In the Setubandha her place is taken by the more familiar Trijatā. Pravarasena does not mention her in his brief reference to Sītā's visit to the battlefield in Canto 14 of the Setubandha; but the part played by Trijatā on that occasion in the Rāmāyaṇa serves as a model for the role assigned to her in the episode of the magic head in our poem.

It is noteworthy that Kālidāsa also mentions Trijatā in connection with the magic head in a passing reference to the episode in the Raghuvamśa 12.74. It is probable that the poets here follow a tradition slightly different from that found in the Rāmāyaṇa¹ Pravarasena deals with the topic in his own manner, and gives an appealing picture of Trijatā's friendship and affection for Sītā. Particularly touching is his reference to the mingling tears of the two women as Sītā in her grief reclines on Trijatā's bosom (11.101)². Love for Sītā is at the root of the patient humility that finds expression in Trijatā's words of consolation. She asks Sītā not to disregard her affectionate words because she is a Rāksasa woman. Fragrant flowers, she says, are welcome whether they grow in a pleasure garden or in a wood (11.119). No less remarkable is her candour which prompts her to tell Sītā that she is not so much aggrieved on her account as at the change in Rāvana's character, as seen in the mean trick played by him while Rāma is alive (11.127). A noteworthy trait of Pravarasena's Trijatā is that he makes her a mouthpiece of his religious views. Her argument that Rāma cannot die is based on the clearly expressed idea that he is the Supreme Being, the mainstay of the universe, on whom depends the functioning of the forces of nature (11.89-91) In the corresponding scene in the Rāmāyaṇa Saramā calls him only a powerful hero, who will vanquish the demons with the help of Lakṣmana, even as Indra does his enemies with the help of Viṣṇu (6.24.29). It may be said on the whole that Saramā is depicted in the Rāmāyana as a younger woman who loves Sītā, and is active on her behalf. Pravarasena represents Trijatā as a woman of mature judgment, capable of subtle reasoning, who tries to convince her young friend that Rāma could not be dead. Her finer sentiments are revealed in her affectionate disposition and in her exaltation of Rāma's love for Sītā.

1 Trijatā appears also in the Rāma story in the Mahābhārata which does not, however, refer to the episode of the magic head

A study of Sītā's laments in the Setubandha and in the relevant portions of the Rāmāyana reveals certain differences in the sentiments expressed and in the outlook on life as presented in the two works. The laments as such are deeply moving in both works; but in the Setubandha Sītā's utterances are those of a sophisticated woman who is obsessed by the idea of self-immolation, and feels ashamed that she 'accepted widowhood with a cruel heart' instead of dying at the sight of the severed head of Rāma. Rāma, she says, will be praised as valiant, because, as she thinks, he died in battle, but she grieves that she will be passed over in silence as a woman who lacked the courage to die (11.84). In her last words she brings in the concept of honour, dear to her as a woman of noble birth: 'This is the fate of all, but such an end is unbecoming to those who have an exalted sense of honour (11.115).'¹ Another idea that appears more than once in Sītā's words in the Setubandha is that of revenge. The frustration of her hope of seeing Rāvana killed by Rāma adds to the poignancy of her grief.

1 The expression mānunnāa (mānonnata) used in the verse is same as māna-piāṁśu in Bhāṛavi 11.63. The reference is to what appears to be a humiliating death for Rāma at the hands of the demons. Acc. to the South Indian reading (mānonnata-jāti etc.), the reference is to Sītā herself, the idea being that it is disgraceful for a woman belonging to a race that has a high sense of honour, i.e., a Kṣatriya woman, to accept widowhood in lieu of self-immolation. See Kṛṣṇa's gloss on the verse in Extracts 11.115.

Compared with Sītā's utterances in the Setubandha, the laments in the Rāmāyana 6.23 and 6.38 are homely, naive and unpretentious, and such that an Indian woman of a cultured family, devoted to the ancient ideals and conversant with the popular traditions and beliefs, might be expected to utter in a similar predicament. In the Rāmāyana Sītā refers to the palmists and soothsayers who had told her fortune, and laments that all their statements, based on the auspicious marks on her body, have proved incorrect and false. Her thoughts go back to her sorrowing mother-in-law whom she visualizes as dying broken-hearted on learning that Rāma is dead and herself held captive by the demon. There is no rancour nor any thought of revenge in her words. On the other hand, she re-calls Rāma's virtues such as forbearance, self-control, charity and ahimsā, and appeals to Rāvana to slay her and unite her with Rāma in death. Nothing in Sītā's lament in the Setubandha is so affecting as her reference to her early marriage with Rāma in the Rāmāyana 6 23 20: kim mām na preksase rājan kim mām na pratibhāsase | bālām bālena samprāptām bhā-ryām mām saha-carinīm ||

Pravarasena represents Sugrīva as an impulsive leader, who in his emotional outbursts is apt to exaggerate his own powers and abilities. Vexed at the inactivity of the Vānaras on the seashore, he threatens to dispense with their services, and, after announcing his resolve to carry out certain impossible exploits, he declares that, 'mad with love for Rāma', he will kill Rāvana, and pull down Lankā with Sītā as the only survivor (3 62,63). Similarly, when Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa are paralysed by the serpent arrows he describes in magniloquent verses the chastisement he will inflict on Rāvana, hewing down his heads and tearing out his heart attached to Sītā in vain. Even in the Rāmāyana Sugrīva says on that occasion that he will slay Rāvaṇa with his kinsmen, and bring back Sītā (6.40.25). But the Northwestern and Bengal recensions (6.26.29ff; 6.25.26ff.) have here a number of additional verses known as Sugrīva-garjana, which greatly amplify the original statement, and are similar in tone to Sugrīva's garjana in our poem. Such, for instance, is the declaration that, unaided, he will reduce Lankā to ashes and destroy Rāvaṇa, and that the world will that day witness his might and steadfast devotion to Rāma. It is probable that Pravarasena's conception of Sugrīva's character is based on declamations of this type which seem to have formed part of the Rāmāyaṇa text known to him.

The Setubandha (15.55ff) has an episode involving Rāma and Lakṣmaṇa, which does not occur in the Rāmāyaṇa. After the presentation of Indra's chariot to Rāma by Mātali, Lakṣmaṇa, accompanied by Sugrīva and Nīla, approaches Rāma with the request that the easy task of slaying Rāvaṇa may be entrusted to one of them; but Rāma politely refuses to comply. It is difficult to say whether this episode is an invention of Pravarasena, or taken from some other source. The timing of the incident is, however, incompatible with the sequence of events in the Rāmāyaṇa narrative. According to the Rāmāyaṇa 6.89.29ff. Lakṣmaṇa on recovering from the effect of the Śakti missile, urges Rāma to kill Rāvaṇa that very day, before sunset, as promised by him. Rāma immediately goes forth to battle; and soon after Mātali brings for him Indra's chariot and armour, and the dvaivatha combat begins (6.90). Having urged Rāma to slay Rāvaṇa only a short while before, it would be rather incongruous for Lakṣmaṇa to request permission for himself or any of his companions to carry out the job undertaken by Rāma.

The lament of Vibhīṣana in the Setubandha (15.85-90) throws further light on the text of the Rāmāyaṇa known to Pravarasena.

sena. In our poem Vibhīṣaṇa piteously mourns the death of Rāvana, and begs leave of Rāma to pay homage to his brother; and Rāma, moved to pity by his tears, orders Hanūmat to perform the funeral rites for Rāvana. The different recensions of the Rāmāyaṇa have a special canto containing Vibhīṣaṇa's lament, his request for permission to perform the last rites, and Rāma's compliance with his wishes¹, but a subsequent canto of the Rāmāyaṇa has another account, in which² Vibhīṣana refuses to perform the obsequies on account of Rāvana's impiety; and Rāma has to persuade him to do so by emphasizing Rāvana's greatness as a warrior. The verse containing Rāma's words, 'hostilities end with death' (or, 'victory', acc. to another reading), occurs in both the accounts; and obviously the two versions are inconsistent with each other. The critical edition of the Rāmāyaṇa (6.99.31ff.) adopts the latter account and gives the lament of Vibhīṣaṇa in an Appendix. So far as Pravarasena is concerned, he seems to follow the Vibhīṣana-vilāpa as given in the different recensions of the Rāmāyaṇa; and was not probably acquainted with the verses describing Vibhīṣana's refusal to undertake the funeral rites. In any case Pravarasena is consistent in his portrayal of Vibhīṣana; and the lament attributed to him is in keeping with his character as conceived by the poet in the Setubandha. In the Rāmāyaṇa Vibhīṣana takes an active part in the battle and fights with Rāvana together with Lakṣmaṇa (6.88.17 ff.). In the Setubandha he is more or less a silent spectator; and even his role as a counsellor is reduced to a minimum³; and what is more, Rāvana is filled with pity for him when he sees him on the battlefield. As the poet says, his arrow wobbles, because Vibhīṣaṇa is humble, and because he is his brother (15.45). In the Setubandha the natural feelings of the brothers do not appear to be obliterated to the same extent as in the Rāmāyaṇa; and the lament of Vibhīṣaṇa in our poem is no doubt appropriate to such a conception of their relations.

Pravarasena differs from the Rāmāyaṇa in describing the manner of Rāvana's death. Acc. to the Rāmāyaṇa 6.97, an arrow formerly fashioned by Brahmā for Indra is discharged by Rāma, hitting Rāvaṇa in the chest. Pravarasena seems to follow Kālidāsa (Raghu 12.97 ff.) when he says that Rāvana's heads were severed by Rāma's arrow all at once (15.79). In the story of Rāma in the Mahābhārata¹, Rāvana is consumed by the flames issuing from the consecrated arrow without leaving any trace of the ashes.

Pravarasena follows on the whole the course of events as related in the Yuddhakāṇḍa of the Rāmāyaṇa, but his main purpose is to describe the construction of the great causeway as the central point in the narrative. The first eight Cantos of the poem recount the events from the march to the sea to the building of the causeway. The ninth and tenth Cantos contain descriptions usual in Kāvya poetry. Most of the eleventh Canto deals with the episode of the magic head of Rāma, to which the Setubandha seems to give greater prominence than any other version of the Rāma story. The last four Cantos give an outline of the remaining portion of story up to the death of Rāvaṇa and the recovery of Sītā; and we miss in them many colourful details found in this part of the Rāmāyaṇa. On the other hand, even in these crowded Cantos Pravarasena makes room for conventional Kāvya themes such as the description of morning scenery (12.1 ff.) and that of the swirling dust of the battlefield (13.49 ff.). Thus while preserving the general outline and sequence of the principal events described in the Ruddhakāṇḍa, Pravarasena concentrates on selected episodes, and writes an independent Kāvya on the early career of Rāma. Nevertheless his close dependence upon the Rāmāyana is manifest in the treatment of many of the leading topics in the Setubandha. A striking example of this is provided by the utterances of Rāma as he lies on the battlefield, pierced by the arrows of Meghanāda. In the Setubandha the plaint is particularly impressive because of its brevity and deep pathos (14.43-48); but it looks like a condensation of some of the most affecting lines in the comprehensive lament of Rāma in the corresponding portion of the Rāmāyana (6.39).

It may also be noted that the word anurāga used in the concluding verse of each Canto of the Setubandha seems to be suggested by the Rāmāyana. Pravarasena uses it in a variety of allied senses such as devotion, loyalty, affection, also enthusiasm (7.71; 12.98; 13.99; 14.84). The word is frequently used in the Rāmāyana which, for instance, speaks of the valour and devotion of Lakṣmaṇa (6.100.3); and declares that the servant who carries out an arduous task set by the master out of loyalty or devotion to him is the best of men (6.1.7)¹.

Pravarasena is familiar with the Southern mountain system referred to in the Rāmāyana. In this connection his mention of the Vindhya range in Setu 1.54 needs comment. In the Rāmāyana Rāma's expedition starts from Kiskindhā, which is identified by Pargiter with the region around Bellary, with the Tungabhadra and Vedavati for its chief rivers². In our poem, on the other hand, the Vānara hosts marching to the sea first cross the Vindhya range, after which they pass on to the Sahya range, and then reach the Malaya hills and thereafter the seashore. In the Rāmāyaṇa (6.4.34 ff.) they first cross the Sahya and the Malaya, and then reach the Mahendra hill from the peak of which Rāma looks at the ocean. They then descend to the magnificent forest on the seashore (velāvanamanuttamam) and establish their camp there. It is noteworthy that the Bengal and Northwestern recensions of the Rāmāyaṇa read here Vindhya for *Sahya*¹ Pargiter, basing his conclusions on the Bengal recension edited by Gorresio, identifies this Vindhya with the hills and plateau of South Mysore 'These stretch across from the Western to the Eastern Ghats, and form a dividing ridge in the south, somewhat like the Vindhya Range in the north: so that the same name may not inaptly be applied to them'. He points out that 'it cannot be supposed that Rāma, after reaching Kiskindhā, which was certainly far south of the Godāvarī, and forming the alliance with Sugrīva, would have retraced his steps to the north of the modern Vindhya, and separated himself from Sugrīva by that immense distance.'²

It may be added in support of Pargiter's conjecture that the Rāmāyaṇa has a verse which says that the mountains Vindhya, Krsnagiri and Sahya are the constant haunt of a Vānara chief variously called Rambha or Parvata,³ which shows that these were located not far from each other. Krsnagiri seems to refer to the hills near modern Krishnagiri in Salem District of Tamil Nadu; and Vindhya might very well be the hills of South Mysore and the southern portion of the Eastern Ghats. This helps us to understand Pravarasena's statement that the Vānara hosts crossed the Vindhya range before passing on to the Sahya, which is the name given to the northern portion of the Western Ghats from the Tāptī to the Nilgiris.¹

Of the remaining hills Pravarasena mentions only the Malaya in connection with the route followed by Rāma's army. It is the famous range of hills in Kerala, being the southern portion of the Western Ghats terminating near Cape Comorin. South of the Palghat gap it consists of a series of hill ranges with a variety of names: the Ānaimalai, the Elāmalai known as the Cardamom hills,² Pīrmed and the Agastyamalai peak in the south.³ Malai is the Dravidian word for hill, and Malaya is apparently the collective name of all these hill ranges. The

1 Cf Pargiter, The Mārkandeya Purāṇa, p. 235. It appears from certain references in the Kiskindhākāṇḍa that the name Vindhya was also applied to the hills beyond the southern end of the Eastern Ghats. The Vānaras who went South to search for Sītā are described as halting after their vain efforts on the slope of the Vindhya (4 52 16). Sampātī meets them there, and tells them how he fell on the peak of that mountain after his wings had been scorched by the sun, and concluded that it was the Vindhya on the coast of the Southern sea after observing the surroundings (4 59 4 ff). He reports that Laṅkā was at a distance of full hundred yojanas from there (4 57 20). It can also be gathered from his words that the Mahendra hill, which was very close to the sea (see below), was not far from the Vindhya, as he once had occasion to rebuke his son Supārśva for tarrying on that hill where he had gone in quest of food for his father (4 58 10 ff). After Sampātī's departure, the Vānaras, encouraged by his words, proceed in a southerly direction (4 62 15) and reach the seashore. The references to the Vindhya in the Kiskindhākāṇḍa would lead one to suppose that it was located near the Southern ocean, though not as close to the sea as the Mahendra hill. The southern Vindhya of the Rāmāyana would thus seem to comprise the southern portion of the Eastern Ghats and the hilly country at the foot of the Ghats as far as the Tirunelveli hills in the neighbourhood of the sea. In Setu 1 54 the sea skirting the (south-east) coast is compared to a bow, and the Vindhya range fancied as the string attached to both ends of the bow, the rivers being the arrows joined to the bowstring. The commentators do not explain whether the reference is to the northern or the southern Vindhya. The footnote to the Translation explaining the verse requires emendation.

Setubandha has many other references to the Malaya range, represented as a coastal mountain in contact with the sea.¹ There may be a slight poetical exaggeration in this, or perhaps the sea may have receded somewhat in the course of the centuries.² It may, however, be noted that the Līlāvāṇī of Koṭbala, written about four centuries later, also refers to the caves of the Malaya as being filled with the waters of the ocean (v. 339).³

There are numerous references to the Malaya range in old Indian poetry, but Pravarasena is perhaps the only poet who speaks of the climatic conditions on the hills. He twice refers to the prevailing cloudy weather (sai-duddiṇa) on the Malaya range (1.59; 6.22); and his statement is in accord with modern observations of meteorological phenomena in the hills of Kerala.⁴

Pravarasena makes the Malaya range the northern terminus of the causeway which stretches across the sea to Mount Suvela in Lankā (8.83, 85).⁵ He locates Mount Mahendra close to the Malaya on the seashore; and speaks of the Malaya and Mahendra as the breasts of the earth (2.8). Landslide masses from the Malaya and the Mahendra are described as being carried by the waves to each other's slopes (8.10). Bāna likewise says that the Mahendra joins the Malaya.¹

In the Rāmāyaṇa (4.66.34 ff.) Hanūmat jumps across to Laṅkā from Mount Mahendra; and Sampāti tells the Vānaras how on one occasion his son Supārśva, while standing guard on the hill, barring the way to all creatures that were flying over to the sea, allowed Rāvaṇa to continue his flight with Sītā when he begged him for passage (4.58.13 ff.). The Mahendra hill mentioned in the Rāmāyaṇa and the Setubandha is thus different from the hill of that name in the Ganjam District of Orissa. The Vāmanapurāṇa, in fact, mentions the Northern and the Southern Mahendra separately². The Arthaśāstra 2.11 refers to Māhendra pearls, i.e., those found in the streams of Mount Mahendra, situated on the seashore, as explained in the Cānakyaṭīkā of Prabhamati (earlier than the middle of the twelfth century).³ The southern Mahendra is also described in the Bhāṭukāvya (10.44 ff.) which refers to its contiguity to the sea (v. 49)⁴.

As we have seen, in the Rāmāyaṇa, the magnificent forest on the seashore in which Rāma's army stationed itself is located at the foot of the Mahendra hill. In our poem the Vānaras reach the Malaya range and then the seashore (velā) covered with Vākula and Tamāla trees and blossoming cardamom groves (1.62 ff.) The Rāmāyaṇa also makes a general remark that the Vānaras reached the roaring ocean after crossing the Sahya and the Malaya range (6.4.65). The forest on the seashore (velāvana) mentioned in this connection in the Rāmāyaṇa appears to be the same as the wooded seashore described by Pravarasena, being the littoral tract near the twin hills Malaya and Mahendra.¹

The Setubandha as a Mahākāvya.

A Mahākāvya is a fairly long poem divided into sargas or cantos, and composed in Kāvya style. The importance of the Nāngunerī, which marks the point from which the Ghats again march southwards, dropping slightly to the Mahendragiri range, which ends abruptly in a magnificent scarp of bare precipitous rock. This is the last of the Tinnevely Ghats.' It is not precisely on the seashore, but after some distance the mountains rise once more to half their height; and 'their final effort is a comparatively low detached hill, whose southern base is two or three miles from the sea and slightly west of Cape Comorin.' Gazetteer of the Tinnevely District, p. 4.

- 1 The Southern Mahendra seems to be mentioned in the Mandasor stone pillar inscription of Yaśodharman who reigned in the second quarter of the sixth century A.D. His dominions 'are described as including the whole of the northern part of India, from the river Lauhitya, or the Brahmaputra, to the Western Ocean, and from the Himālayas to the mountain Mahendra': आ लौहित्योपकण्ठात् तलवनगहनोपत्यकादा महेन्द्रात्, आ गङ्गाशिलिष्टसानोस्तुहिनशिखरिणः पश्चिमादा पयोधेः. See Fleet, Inscriptions of the Early Gupta Kings (CII), p. 145

Fleet, however, says that it is doubtful whether Mahendra denotes in the inscription the Mahendragiri in the Ganjām District, or another mountain of the same name, which must be located somewhere in the Western Ghats.

Setubandha lies in the fact that it is the only extant Mahākāvya written in Prakrit. Bhoja in his Śrngāraprakāśa and Hemacandra in his Kāvyaṇuśāsana speak of three Prakrit Mahākāvyas current in their time : Harivijaya, Rāvanavijaya and Setubandha. Of these the first two appear to be completely lost. Very little is known about the Rāvanavijaya, but the Harivijaya of Sarvasena is appreciated by Sanskrit writers on poetics like Ānandavardhana, Kuntaka and Bhoja.¹ Daṇḍin mentions the Harivijaya in a mutilated verse at the beginning of his Avantisundarī, and refers to Sarvasena as a king, probably identical with Sarvasena, the founder of the younger branch of the Vākātakas. If so, the Harivijaya was composed in the first half of the fourth century A.D., about a hundred years earlier than the Setubandha. The reason why the Rāvanavijaya and the Harivijaya went out of vogue was probably that they failed to hold their own in a branch of literature dominated by the works of Kālidāsa, Bhāravi and Māgha. The Setubandha, on the other hand, was extolled by Daṇḍin and Bāna two centuries before the Harivijaya was appreciated by Ānandavardhana; and it was evidently regarded as the best of the Mahākāvyas written in Prakrit. As we have seen, it was wellknown in literary circles in Cambodia in the ninth century A.D. The different recensions of the poem and the numerous commentaries written in Sanskrit show that the Setubandha was studied in almost all parts of India, and occupied an important place in the literary curriculum of a bygone age.

There is an interesting reference to 'the five Mahākāvyas' in Svayambhū's Apabhraṃśa poem Paumacariu 137.² According to the old gloss, the poems included in the reference are Kumārasambhava, Raghuvamśa, Meghadūta and the two poems of

Bhāravi and Māgha. The explanation is obviously wrong in respect of the Meghadūta. At the time when Svayambhū wrote (8th or 9th century) the only other Mahākāvya that could be placed by the side of the masterpieces of Kālidāsa, Bhāravi and Māgha was apparently the Setubandha of Pravarasena. That it was included in Svayambhū's reference to the Mahākāvyas is rendered probable by the fact that he quotes a verse from the Setubandha to illustrate the Skandhaka metre in his manual of Prakrit prosody known as Svayambhūcchandās.¹ Skandhaka is the prevailing metre of a Prakrit Mahākāvya; and Svayambhū seems to have taken his illustration from the best known of the Prakrit Mahākāvyas current in his time.

A manuscript of the Setubandha, preserved in the India Office Library, styles the first Canto sarga, and the remaining Cantos nīśrenikā.² The nomenclature is very unusual. A Canto of a Prakrit Mahākāvya is usually known as āśvāsa.³

Generally speaking, a Mahākāvya recounts the triumphant career of the hero, and contains a number of descriptive Cantos on a variety of themes. The Mahākāvya is, on the whole, descriptive rather than narrative in character.

A clear idea of the Setubandha as a Mahākāvya may be had from a comparison of its structure with that of the Sanskrit poems of the same category composed immediately before and after. Kālidāsa's Raghuvamśa, written probably half a century earlier, has exercised its influence on the Setubandha, but the two works are different in some of their essential characteristics. In the first place, the subject matter of the 3 The Cantos of the lost Sanskrit poem Hariprabodha, a yamakakāvya, are known to have been styled āśvāsas. It is quoted in Vāmana's Kāvyaṭīkā 4.1.2. See Hemacandra, Kāvyaṇuśāsana 8.6, Vol. 1, p. 461, Bombay, 1938.

Raghuvamśa is far more extensive than that of the Setubandha. It recounts the careers of many kings of a dynasty including the entire story of Rāma. As Śārādātanaya says, the Raghuvamśa is a Samhitā poem, in which diverse isolated narratives are grouped together¹. Compared with this, the theme of the Setubandha is extremely limited; it deals only with a portion of the early career of Rāma. Secondly, the descriptions that are an essential feature of a Mahākāvya are strictly subordinated to the narrative in Kālidāsa's poem. In the Setubandha they play a much more extensive role, and are often carried beyond the requirement of the narrative. The description of the ocean, for instance, occupies nearly a Canto; and an entire Canto of much greater length is devoted to that of Mount Suvela. Kālidāsa, on the contrary, describes the ocean in sixteen verses in the Raghuvamśa (Canto 13), and assigns about the same number of verses to the description of the Himālaya in the Kumārasambhava. Apart from these conventional descriptions, the minute delineation of incidents such as we find in the Setubandha (Cantos 5-8) in connection with the building of the causeway is a characteristic alien to the poetic art of Kālidāsa. It may be noted that Kālidāsa devotes only a verse to this topic in the Raghuvamśa (12.70). Further, in the Setubandha (Canto 10) Pravarasena introduces a new category of description : elaborate pictures of the evening scenery and the moonlit landscape, and the joys of wine and love with the abhisārikās playing their customary role. Nothing like this sequence of descriptions is found in Kālidāsa.

As regards the Mahākāvyas later than Pravarasena, Bhā-ravi's Kirātārjunīya and Māgha's Śiśupālavadha deal with brief episodes; and their subject matter is in any case much more limited than that of the Setubandha. Nevertheless the Sanskrit poems are more extensive than the Prakrit work because of the greater emphasis on elaborate and often long-winded descriptions. Bhāravi's description of the fight between Arjuna and the Kirāta, for instance, occupies more than three Cantos of his poem (15-18). Māgha, like Pravarasena, devotes an entire Canto to the portrayal of a mountain; but most of the conventional descriptions in his poem are much more elaborate than those in the Setubandha. To sum up, the Raghuvamśa treats a very wide subject within a relatively narrow compass (nineteen Cantos). The Setubandha, though much more limited in scope, has as many as fifteen; while the *Mahākāvya*s of Bhāravi and Māgha, in spite of the greater brevity of their themes, have eighteen and twenty Cantos respectively. In the evolution of the Mahākāvya the Setubandha thus marks the stage at which the descriptions begin to preponderate at the expense of the narrative, and illustrates the transition from Kālidāsa to the poems of Bhāravi and Māgha.

¹ वृत्तान्ता विप्रकीर्णाः स्युः संहिता यत्र कोविदैः ।

The topics introduced by Pravarasena into the tenth Canto of his poem appear in toto in Bhāravi's Kirātārjunīya (Canto 9) in the same sequence as in the Setubandha. They were taken over by Māgha from Bhāravi, and expanded into two Cantos of the Śiśupālavadha (9-10), and soon became stereotyped in the Sanskrit Mahākāvya. Bhāravi treats of these topics in his own manner, but sometimes betrays close acquaintance with particular verses of Pravarasena. For example,

dūram dūrārūḍho juvaīna piesu bahu-raso aṇurāo ||

Bhāravi 9.42 and Pravarasena 10.73 both refer in the same strain to the relative strength of passion and wine in overcoming maidenly bashfulness.

Occasionally Bhāravi borrows also ideas from other parts of the Setubandha. His picture of Arjuna fighting the Kirāta with boulders and trees which are cut up by the latter's arrows is suggested by similar combats described in the *Setubandha*¹. Similarly, the fanciful encounter of the elephants of the woods with the 'water elephants' emerging from the Himalayan Gaṅgā, described by Bhāravi (6. 14), is borrowed from the Setubandha, which presents such incidents in greater detail in connection with the sea².

Pravarasena follows Kālidāsa closely in several items in the description of battle scenes. The Raghuvamśa briefly describes the dust enshrouding a battlefield (7. 39-43), a topic to which Pravarasena assigns more than double the number of verses (13. 49-61). Māgha's description of the phenomenon (17.52-69) is still more elaborate and full of exaggerated notions; and with him the topic becomes stereotyped in the later Kāvya.

Kālidāsa describes in Raghu 7. 50 how, after the carnage, a jackal snatches the half-consumed arm of a dead warrior from the birds of prey, but discards it when pierced in the palate by the sharp ends of the armlet³. Variations of this topic are found in two verses of the Setubandha (13.39,65). Māgha also describes such scenes (18. 73-8), but some of his pictures are marred by a curious superstition that flames issue from the mouths of the howling jackals.

Kālidāsa refers to the belief that a warrior who dies on the battlefield betakes himself to heaven and wins a nymph.¹ In Raghu 7. 51, for instance, we have the picture of a warrior, metamorphosed into a god and united with his celestial bride, watching his headless corpse 'dancing' on the battlefield². In Setu 12. 67, while the warriors put on their armour on the eve of the battle, the nymphs adorn themselves in their celestial cars to receive their prospective lovers³. In Māgha 17. 34 they do so on hearing the beat of the war drum, ready to accept those killed in the fighting.⁴ Pravarasena says that as the battle raged nymphs were won at the cost of one's life, and heads bartered for fame (13.47). Māgha tells us that fame came to a dead warrior in this world, and a nymph in the next, both ever new and pleasing and ensuring eternal life in heaven (18. 62)⁵. While diverse poets give playful versions of this ancient belief, it is Kālidāsa who seems to have introduced it as an item of description in the Mahākāvya under the influence of the ethico-religious literature current in his age.

1 The Parāśarasmyti, chap. 3, deals with the merit of dying on the battlefield, and speaks of the rush of thousands of celestial damsels to marry the heroes killed in battle. The Harivamśa 2.31-24 (Cal. ed.) says that it is better for a woman to go without a husband than to have a hero for a husband, because the heroes are beloved of the nymphs, and they too are fond of them.

2 The main idea of Kālidāsa's verse is based on the Harivamśa which says in connection with a great battle fought at Puskara यमराष्ट्रं गताः केचित् केचित् स्वर्गं समाययुः । अप्सरोभिः समासेदुः पश्यन्तः स्वकलेवरम् ॥ 3.122 14, 15. Kālidāsa gives another picture of heroes and nymphs in Raghu 7.53.

The dance of the *kabandha*¹ is another item in the description of battle scenes. It is mentioned by Kālidāsa in Raghu 7. 51; and the idea often appears in an exaggerated form in the later poets. Pravarasena speaks of the headless kabandha rushing forward as it squirts streams of blood (13.40); while Māgha describes kabandhas that dance sword in hand, or to the strains of martial music (18. 53, 54). The statements of the poets appear to be based on an ancient belief connected with the holocaust in a battle. Pravarasena (13.64) and Māgha (19.51), for instance, mention the dance of the sahasrapūrāṇa kabandha, i. e. the headless corpse of the thousandth warrior killed in the fighting. The commentators here refer to a belief that a kabandha dances when a thousand men have fallen in battle. It is noteworthy that a similar belief is recorded in early texts like the Harivamśa and the *Milindapañha*².

The affinity of the Setubandha to the Sanskrit Mahāvīryas is no doubt one of the causes of its popularity through the centuries. It is, however, difficult to assess its position in relation to the Prakrit *Kāvya*s of the same category that are no longer extant. Of these Sarvasena's Harivijaya appears to have

1 A headless corpse, especially of a soldier just killed in battle.

2 The Harivamśa 2.36.9 says in the account of a fierce battle that numerous kabandhas stood up on all sides. The commentator Nilakanṭha remarks that a kabandha rises when a hundred thousand men are killed. Similarly, the Milindapañha (ed. Trenckner, p. 292) says in connection with a battle that eighty kabandhas rose, and that one kabandha is said to rise when there is a complete heap of heads (ekasmim kira sīsa-kalānde paripunne ekam kavandha-rūpam uṭṭhahati). See Pali-English Dict. (PTS) under kalanda rendered as heap, stack. been the best known; and, as noted above, there are a few references to it in Sanskrit works on poetics. But nothing seems to be known about the extent and structure of the poem. Hemacandra refers to it in connection with the various descriptions found in the different Mahākāvyas, and mentions several topics described in Sarvasena's work;¹ but he criticizes the author for inserting in his poem an irrelevant description of the ocean, 'a superfluous excrescence,' as he calls it.² The subject of the poem is the forcible removal of the Pārijāta tree from heaven by Kṛṣṇa. Ānandavardhana praises Sarvasena for introducing an element of rasa into the insipid mythological theme by representing Kṛṣṇa's action as motivated by a desire to appease his wife Satyabhāmā³. But, in the absence of the text, it is difficult to determine how far Kṛṣṇa's action in going to war with Indra for the purpose of placating his wife's jealousy lent dignity to the subject, or contributed to the success of the poem as a work of art. Sarvasena is also praised by Kuntaka for following the Sukumāramārga corresponding to the old Vaidarbhī style⁴; but to judge from Hemacandra's criticism, it may be doubted if the Harivijaya was a mature effort in the field of the Mahākāvya, comparable to the Setubandha. In any case it failed to maintain its popularity as a major work of the early kāvya literature.

At the beginning of the Setubandha just after the invocatory verses, Pravarasena recounts the advantages to be derived from the study of poetry [1.10]; and speaks of the difficulty in successfully completing a poem undertaken in the first flush of enthusiasm, and, above all, in combining beauty of composition (bandhacchāyā) with a new range of meaning (ahinavā atthagatī) i. e. the novelty of ideas (1. 9, 11). It is noteworthy that the expression bandhacchāyā is frequently used by writers like Ānandavardhana and Kuntaka in expounding their poetical theories.¹ Ānandavardhana in particular refers to the objectives mentioned by Pravarasena in almost identical language, and gives a recipe for attaining the desired result in conformity with his own view of poetry². Pravarasena appears to be one of the earliest writers to use the expression bandhacchāyā, and it is probable that Ānandavardhana was influenced by the use of the word in the Setubandha in connection with a fundamental problem of poetry. Vākpati, apparently taking his cue from Pravarasena, also speaks of new ideas and beauties of composition; but he does not bother about the difficulty mentioned by his predecessor, and claims rather light-heartedly that these qualities have been common only in Prakrit poetry 'since the creation of the world'³.

Pravarasena's remarks on poetry are interesting, because similar observations are not usual in the Sanskrit *Mahākāvya*s. Hemacandra quotes a verse in praise of the insight of poets from the Prakrit *Rāvanavijaya*¹ but it is difficult to say whether it was usual to commence a Prakrit Mahākāvya with similar observations on poetry.

The Setubandha contains a considerable number of verses of ethical import; but we miss in it the many pithy sayings found in the Sanskrit *Mahākāvya*s, usually, at the end of a verse that are formally called arthāntaranyāsa. Likewise the absence of any reference to philosophical or other tenets relating to the different branches of learning is another feature that differentiates the poem from the Sanskrit *Mahākāvya*s.

Among mythological allusions the clipping of the wings of the mountains by Indra is frequently mentioned². There is a reference to the fight between Garuda and Indra for nectar (14.59) as related in the Mahābhārata.³ Pravarasena mentions several legends found in the Uttarakāṇḍa of the Rāmāyana, e. g., the victory of Rāvaṇa over Yama (15.86)⁴; the boon of immortality granted to Vibhīṣana (15.85); Rāvaṇa's attempt to uproot the Kailāsa mountain (15.28.);

2 Setu 5.37, 51, 7.53 etc See Rāmāyana 5.1.108 ff. The wings were clipped because the flying mountains were a terror to the world. Another version of the story is that once the mountains flew away, abandoning their task of supporting the earth. As a consequence, the earth wobbled, and the waters of the ocean inundated the city of the demons, whereupon their leader Hiraṇyākṣa, scenting danger, declared war against the gods, but was killed by Viṣṇu incarnate as Nṛ-varāha. Subsequently the wings of the mountains were clipped by Indra as a punishment for their misdeemeanour Viṣṇudharma-mottarapurāṇa, Part 1, chap 53 Pravarasena in Setu 4.46 seems to have this episode in mind when he compares the failure of an enterprise for lack of able supporters to the subsidence of the earth abandoned by the mountains (maṇihata-mukha vva mahī). The Purāṇa has dharādharaparitṛyaktā dharā and the story that he had cut off nine of his heads and was about to get rid of the tenth when he was stopped by Brahmā (6.17)¹. An allusion to the yogamdrū of Viṣṇu occurs in Setu 1.21 where the god is described as having awaked in the autumn, though he had not been really asleep². The Lokāloka mountain is mentioned in 8.106.³

The Setubandha is rather poor in literary and social data. Some of the incidental topics referred to in the poem are the eight intellectual qualities 4.62⁴; the northern and southern courses of the sun (4.30, 9.83)⁵; the custom of anumarana (14.55)⁶; conch bangles (5.63)⁷; poison-destroying plants avoided by serpents⁸; Madana trees, of

The process of tempering iron by dipping it red-hot into cold water is referred to in Setu 14.19⁴. Quicksilver is mentioned in 9.68 and realgar in 7.59 and 12.5. There might be a reference to mica (abhīa) in 10.49, but this reading found in Rāmadāsa is not followed by other commentators.

1 The Madana plant is mentioned in works like the Dhanvantarīyanighantū and Rājanighantū (Ānandāśrama ed., p 39), Madanapālānighantū (Cal ed, p 49), and Hemacandra's Nighantūśeṣa, vv 126-7 (Ahmedabad, 1968). Phala is one of the many names of the tree, and it is called madanphal or maynāphal in Bengali, and manphal in Hindi. It is a small, horny tree with various medicinal properties, the ripe fruit being used as an emetic Biswās, Bhāratīya Vanaśādhī, (in Bengali), Vol. 2, p. 273. Calcutta Univ, 1951, Dutt, The Materia Medica of the Hindus, pp 178, 309. Calcutta, 1922. Roxburgh adds 'The fruit when ripe looks like a small yellow apple, if bruised and thrown into ponds where there are fish, they are soon intoxicated, and seen floating. If this is done during the hot season, it is said, the fish generally die, but if during the wet or cold season they recover. Fishermen sometimes follow this mode to enable them to take the fish with more ease.' Flora Indica, p. 240 Reprint, Calcutta, 1874. Hemacandra (op. cit) gives matsyāntakaphala as one of the names of the Madana tree. Pravarasena, however, says in Setu 7.66 that the fish were tossing about helplessly, being intoxicated by the sap of the broken Madana trees thrown into the sea. The information given by him seems to be based on a slightly different tradition, or perhaps on personal observation.

This method of tempering iron is mentioned in the Ardhamāgadhi canon, being called pajjana (pāyana) Abhayadeva in his comm on Nāyādharmakathā, chap 7 (tikkehim nava-pajjanaehim asiehim lunanti) remarks. नवं प्रत्यग्रं पायनं लोहकारेणातापितं कुट्टितं तीक्ष्णधारीकृतं पुनस्तापितानां जले निबोलनं येषां तानि तैः Nāyādharmā ed. Vaidya, p. 86, Poona, 1940, Jñātādharma makathāṅgam, Part 1, p 126, ed Candrasāgar, Bombay, 1951. The reference is to sharp, newly tempered sickles, i.e., these were heated and plunged in water to get the required degree of hardness. Homer likewise speaks of a big axe or an adze hissing as it is dipped red-hot in water to temper it (Odyssey IX 391ff.). Homer uses the verb phaimassien in this sense, but the process is called also baphê (dipping) with which may be compared pajjana = pāyana (causing or giving to drink) DN 6.11 gives pajjana in the sense of drinking.

Generally speaking, the Setubandha is written in a style that lacks the lucidity of Kālidāsa, and has greater affinity to Bhāravi's style in the Kirātārjunīya. A comparison of the Setu verse 113 and Raghu 11.20 illustrates the contrast between Pravarasena and Kālidāsa in the use of the conceits of Kāvya poetry. Both poets figure Rāma as Manmatha or the god of love. Referring to the killing of Tādakā by Rāma, Kālidāsa says that the demoness, hit in the heart by the arrow of Rāma-Manmatha, went to the abode of 'the lord of her life' (jiviteśa), meaning consort as well as the god of death. The imagery is complex enough in Kālidāsa, but it is more complicated in Pravarasena, who describes the killing of Vālī by Rāma and Sugrīva's succession to the throne by saying that the goddess of royal sovereignty, pierced in her Vālī-heart by the arrow of Rāghava-Manmatha, accepted Sugrīva as her lover. The verse is a good example of the intricacy which at times characterizes the style of the Setubandha; but it is by no means typical of the usual manner of Pravarasena. The Setubandha contains other elaborately constructed Rūpakas that are vivid and interesting (e.g., 1 14, 16, 18, 22, 24, 29; 7.1). Of these two are given as examples of different kinds of Rūpakas in the Sarasvatikanṭhābharana of Bhoja.⁷

A conspicuous feature of the style of the Setubandha is the use of numerous long compounds in the poem. There are at least sixtyfour verses, in which both the halves are composed of single compounds so that each verse is no more than a pair of sesquipedalian compounds². These are usually descriptive verses often presented in groups, and nearly half of them occurs in connection with the Suvela range and the battle scenes described in Cantos 9 and 13 respectively. Apart from this, there are some sixty compounds, each of which constitutes the entire half of a verse; and nearly one hundred twentyfour others shorter only by a word or two, besides a large number of compounds of medium length. Such methodical use of long compounds is not usual in the Sanskrit *Mahākāvyas*¹. This seems, however, to be a characteristic of some of the longer poems of Prakrit literature. Even a popular work like the Gāthāsaptasatī contains more than fifteen verses², in which one half of each verse, usually the first, consists of a single compound. In any case Pravarasena is one of the earliest writers to have made such an extensive use of this stylistic device. Among later Prakrit poets Vākpati freely uses single compounds constituting the entire half of a verse, but he has only a few verses (e. g. 202–206) which show this characteristic in both the halves. The other outstanding poetical works of the eighth century or thereabouts, Koūhala's Līlāvāī, Haribhadra's Śamarāīccakahā and Uddyotana's Kuvalayamālā (the latter two in the verse portions) follow, on the whole, the same pattern as the Setubandha in the use of long and elaborate compounds. In Līlāvāī, for instance, the concatenations of compounds are mostly arranged in groups of three, and sometimes four, or even six verses³.

1 Kālidāsa avoids long compounds. Bhāravi has really long compounds only in a few verses (e. g. , 12 41,45, 13 18 18.4). Māgha uses them frequently, and has besides more than sixty compounds which constitute or nearly constitute the half of a verse, but he seems to have only one verse (7 34) in which both the halves consist of single compounds

Bhoja cites the verse as an example of one of the varieties of *Abhāva*¹³. Jayaratha in his comm. on the *Alamkārasarvasva*¹⁴ cites Setu 4.6 as an instance of Śliṣṭa-rūpaka. Kāvyaṇuśāsana and the anonymous *Sāhityamīmāṃsā*¹. Mahima bhatta criticizes the use of the particle va (iva) after the adjective instead of after the upamāna in Setu 2.11 ukkhaadumam va selam), and remarks that the words should be read as selam va ukkha' to avoid ambiguity.²

The citations from the Setubandha in Alaṃkāra works give some idea of the style of the poem. The most commonly used figures of speech are, however, the Upamā and the Utprekṣā and, generally speaking, the Utprekṣās provide the more interesting examples. In Setu 2.1 the ocean, for instance, is fancied as the youth of Rāma's enterprise. This has led to a variety of explanations, but the idea is sufficiently clear. Youth with its ethical problems is the most difficult period of life, and the ocean likewise was a formidable obstacle to the success of Rāma's expedition. In Setu 10.39 the earth with the mountains standing and the rivers flowing as before is fancied as being carved anew by the moon out of the accumulated mass of darkness³. The imagery is obviously based on the general pattern of the rock-cut architecture of Deccan that was familiar to Pravarasena. Ajantā was, in fact, in the dominion of the younger branch of the Vākātakas. The Utprekṣā in Setu 9.53 is based on a fanciful incident of family life applied to the lashing of the Suvela mountain by the waves of the sea. The mountain is represented as enduring the chastisement for the sake of its daughters, the streams, married to the Ocean, raging furiously at the reluctance of the brides to leave their paternal home.

Pravarasena makes effective use of alliterative devices to embellish his verses. This at times involves the repetition of words without any difference of meaning, and two examples of this are cited from our poem in the Sarasvatikanthābharaṇa, chap. 2 : Setu 4.43 under *Lāṭanuprāsa*¹; and Setu 5.19 under a variety of Padānuprāsa. In the latter verse the alliterative effect is produced by the use of cognate forms of the same words. There is another example of this in our poem². Similarly, the verb va/aṛ and its derivatives are often used more than once in the same verse, and sometimes even thrice³. Certain other words are used three or four times in the same verse⁴. The word khana is used five times in 12.85; nu appears four times in 8.57 and thrice in 10.81 and 13.51. Bhāravi seems to imitate Pravarasena in the similar repetition of this particle in the *Kirātārjunīya*⁵.

Another alliterative device used by Pravarasena consists in repetition of the last word of a compound at the beginning of the next and so on till the end of the verse⁶. Rāmadāsa calls it Śṛṅkhalābandha in his gloss on Setu 10.27. It resembles the Samdaṣṭayamaka illustrated by Dandin and employed in the

The Śṛṅkhalābandha is an old device frequently used in Prakrit poetry, and sometimes also in prose, and has been traced by Jacobi to the Sūtrakṛtāṅga 1.15 of the Ardhamāgadhī canon.² It appears to have two varieties in Prakrit poetical literature. The first is the one used in the Setubandha as stated above; and at least three examples of this are found in Uddyotana's Kuvalayamālā where it appears in groups of two or more verses, the repetition of the words being continued from one verse to another.³ The other variety appears in groups of verses usually composed of long compounds, in which the last word of the first line is repeated at the beginning of the second line, and the last word of the second line at the beginning of the next verse and so on to the end of the group.⁴

The use of verbs in more or less close succession sometimes gives a certain picturesqueness to a verse, as in Setu 5.70; 10.59; 11.3,8; 13.48⁵.

Pravarasena makes limited use of Śleṣa. It is also noteworthy that the Setubandha does not contain any example of Citrakāvya.

1 The commentators call it Kāñcīyamaka, but Bharata in his gloss on the verse points out that it is the same as the Samāśṭayamaka defined by Daṇḍin in Kāvya-darśa 3.51,52

Pravarasena as a poet.

The Setubandha is one of the few *Mahakāvya*s that may be said to have a central thought behind the events described in the narrative. Underlying its main topic, the building of the great causeway, is the idea of the supreme value of right method and its application, without which neither united effort nor even superhuman energy is adequate for success in a prodigious enterprise¹. Except for a solitary hint, Pravarasena nowhere gives a clear expression to this idea, but it slowly emerges from his description of the undertaking. He is a poet who inculcates an idea without appearing to do so; and there is no doubt that he invests the mythological theme with a human interest of great value.

Pravarasena has occasion to speak a good deal about the manly virtues; and gives his ideas of the able, the valiant and the good in impressive verses. The able (samatthā), for instance, make even a failing enterprise thrive with a success unattainable by others, even as the Sun drives his tottering one-wheeled chariot through the sky (3.14). The unremitting zeal of valiant warriors is heightened when thwarted by obstacles, even as the everflowing water of great rivers surges up when obstructed in its course (3.17). Pravarasena frequently uses the word sappurisa or suurisa to indicate different types of good men such as the few who accomplish a work silently (3.9); persons who cannot be induced to retrace their steps without having achieved their task (3.24); and those who achieve a task, however arduous, by maintaining their fortitude, even as the rays of the sun scorch the universe by adhering to the solar orb (3.39). The term is also applied to those who take the lead in the fighting, and gain control over their own forces before vanquishing the enemy (3.40). Bravery in war is here conceived as an aspect of goodness; and the idea behind Pravarasena's statement seems to be that the good man is proved in war. It may be noted that the idea of affinity of bravery to goodness appears even more explicitly in the evolution of ethical thought in Greek literature.¹

There is a number of verses in Canto 13 in which Pravarasena speaks of the ideals and aspirations that inspire the warrior on the battlefield. Such verses are not usual in the description of battle scenes in the Sanskrit Mahākāvyas. The warrior, for instance, preserves his māna like a flower (v. 44), and his abhimāna at the cost of his life (v. 35). Both the words are used in the sense of honour as in Bhāravi's *Kirātārjunīya*². Bhāravi uses them also in the sense of self-conceit³ with which Pravarasena is not concerned. The latter refers to māna in another connection in Setu 4.62 when he speaks of persons of character that take their stand upon family tradition and *self-respect*⁴. Further, he tells us in Setu 13.16 that the warriors remembered shame (lajjā) even in face of danger. Lajjā means here shame in a good sense, which makes a man shun disgraceful deeds, i. e., honour. This use of the word is exactly like that of Greek aischunē shame, dishonour; also,

1 Words like aretē goodness, virtue, areiōn better and aristós best come from the same root as Arēs, the god of war, 'the first notion of goodness being that of manhood, bravery in war'. Liddell and Scott, Greek-English Lexicon under Arēs Abridged ed., Oxford, 1963. Similarly, agathos good means also brave, valiant in the Iliad and Herodotus. sense of shame, honour¹. Broadly speaking, Pravarasena here gives weighty expression to some fundamental ideas underlying the old Indian code of honour.

We are told in Setu 13.35 that the warriors maintained their valour with manly effort, and their chāyā by striking hard. Chāyā lustre seems to mean here prestige as in Gāthāsaptasatī 1.38². The word appears to have the same meaning in Setu 3.18 where Sugrīva speaks of one's prestige built up with a sense of pride, and maintained from one generation to another.

A desire for ever increasing fame and the hope of glory after death impel the warrior to valiant efforts (13. 35, 44, 47); and gratitude for the master's kindness also serves as an inspiration (12. 66; 13. 16). Ingratitude is hateful, and strongly condemned in Sugrīva's address to his followers : 'when a person desists from daring deeds, it is surely because he wants to preserve his dear life. But whoso fails to repay a kindness is counted in the world as dead even while alive.' (3.12)

Sītā's lament at the sight of the severed head of Rāma (11.75ff) reveals another aspect of Pravarasena's genius. Her

In a story in the Kuvalayamālā (sec 102, p 52) Mānabhata offends his young-wife by declaring in a song his longing for another girl in a village festival. Taunted and pitied by the village belles, she sadly thinks that he 'did not care about her prestige even in the preserce of her companions (na cchāyā-rakkhaṇam kayam) Pravarasena has chāyā-rakkhiya. The expression chāyābhāṅga likewise used to denote 'loss of prestige', 'dishonour', 'disgrace' See Bhavisayattakahā of Dhanapāla 107,12, pp. 72,74 (Gune's edition, GOS. 1923).

grief and stupefaction are described in a number of verses; but the lament itself is commendably brief, and its continuity is broken by Trijatā's beautiful words of consolation. With a rare artistic sense Pravārasena gives the utterances of the two women in the form of a dialogue, which avoids monotony, and makes the sequence of lament and consolation a masterpiece of poetic intensity. Trijatā's concluding words are profoundly moving: 'Had it been Rāma's head, it would have returned to life even in such a plight, having obtained the familiar touch of thy hands, sweet as nectar' (11.132). Her grief is strung to a still higher pitch at this mention of Rāma's love for her. A new burst of grief overpowers her; and 'she wept aloud in a different manner, remembering the past, even though she was intent on death (v. 133).' Pravārasena's delineation of the inherent pathos of the scene is praised by Anandavardhana as the work of a poet of genius¹.

The conventional descriptions in the Setubandha, though often characterized by artificial conceits, have a considerable number of verses that give excellent pictures of the scenes described, and reveal a sensitive appreciation of natural beauty. A few examples may be given. The succession of moonlit nights and brilliant days in the autumn is likened to a necklace of pearls interspersed with jewels (1.27). Flowers and birds typical of the autumn are mentioned with deep feeling: 'The scent of the Saptaparna blossoms appealed to the heart, but the fragrance of the Kadamba flowers pleased no more. The sweet note of the swans lingered in the heart, but not the cry of the peacock, because its time was past (1.23). The description of the sea in Canto 2 has many mythological associations, but is not without vivid touches. 'The palm groves on the shore rustled as they were hit by sea spray blown by the wind; and the expanse of the beach was lashed by the waters, swollen by the streams of rays from the mountain that was the moon (2.34)' The gravitational effect of the moon on the sea is described with the aid of an abstract simile : 'The sea surged when the moonlight came, bringing joy by its cherished presence, and calmed down when it was gone; just as passion is strong at the advent of youth, delightful with the company of the beloved, and loses its turbulence when youth has passed (2.20).

Sunset, the oncoming darkness and moonrise form the subject of a large number of verses in Canto 10. The play of moonlight on the shifting shadows is described with an observing eye. 'With the darkness vanishing like a rainy day, the partly distinct woods, with lovely foliage, seemed to be dripping as the moonbeams came scattered through the branches (10.44).' 'The trees, hemmed in by the lunar rays, and rocked at the top by the wind, with the shadows wavering on account of the branches moving to and fro, seemed to swim as they swayed in the current of moonlight (10.51).' The mournful plight of a pair of Cakravāka birds supposed to separate in the evening is feelingly portrayed in Setu 10.24, and their reunion in the description of the morning scene at the beginning of Canto 12 (v.9). This is a recurrent theme in later Kāvya poetry.

The lengthy description of the Suvēla mountain in Canto 9 is often marred by exaggerated conceits and fanciful imagery. From a literary point of view, there could be no greater contrast than between Kālidāsa's picture of the Himālaya in the Kumārasambhava and Pravarasena's portrayal of the Suvēla in the Setubandha. It redounds to the credit of Kālidāsa that he steered clear of the artificialities that had begun to appear in the literature of the age. Nevertheless Pravarasena's description of the Suvela has a number of good verses, based on the proximity of the mountain to the sea, and containing vivid glimpses of animal life in which the poet is particularly interested.

The colour of the young foliage of the trees faded slightly in contact with the briny sea spray; and the deer ran away, scared by the roar of lions, but stopped short, bending a leg, and pricking up their ears 9.16

The slopes, rich in gems, seemed to bristle with thorns, like nettles, on account of the incessant sea spray; and the lion roared, riding on the elephant's head, with the pearls¹ stuck in its claws 9.24

The roar of lions filled the caves, making the elephants in the woods prick up their ears; while the direction from which the sound came being unknown, the deer fled straight on, but turned back, scared by the echoes. 9.30.

The deer fainted on account of the smell of the yellow orpiment heated by the fierce midday sun; and the buffaloes licked the rocks for the taste of the salt crust formed by sea spray. 9.41.

Another verse gives the picture of a boar eluding an attacking lion by slinking back to its miry retreat (9.48).

The descriptions in the Setubandha in connection with its special topics such as uprooting the mountains and dropping them on the sea contain much that is grotesque and fanciful; but once we accept the mythological background, we have no difficulty in appreciating the ingenuity with which the details of some of the unusual scenes have been worked out. Some of the verses reveal a genuine feeling for nature and considerable powers of graphic description.

(During the uprooting of a mountain) a pair of bees, with the wings heavy-laden with the honey of flowers, could not leave a cluster of blossoms shed by a leaning sylvan creeper, even though they had partaken of the honey. 6.47.

The ever-flowing brooks, swaying as the mountains swayed, and turbid with the mud that was stirred up, swelled for a moment as they ran into one another and became large streams. 6.50.

¹ Supposed to be in the head of an elephant.

While the sylvan deities fled from the creepers in fear when a mountain was violently uprooted, even their fresh blossoms dropped, and the young shoots withered, even though the stems were unhurt. 6.52.

While the mountains, their home, were carried away, the hinds started to run, but turned back, distraught with fear; and the woods were charming when they turned round and looked up in bewilderment for a while. 6.80.

The plight of the animals on the disturbed mountains often adds to the interest of the description. We have pictures of elephants worn out with fatigue (6.61); cow elephants weeping for the missing leader of the herd (6.68); buffaloes disappearing as they turn round in a whirlpool (7.23); and deer carried away by the waves, meeting and parting again (7.24). Another verse (7.50) depicts a herd of elephants in a whirlpool, trunks raised, and holding up a distressed cub, while the leader of the herd keeps a prowling sea lion off. There is also a reference to elephants, half submerged in the waters, tearing the serpents clinging to their feet, like ropes, stretching and pulling them with their trunks (8.48). Motifs similar to those in the last two verses are found in a painting in Ajantā Cave X, in which a python coiling round the trunk of a tree is shown as having caught one of the hind legs of an elephant; while several other elephants with their trunks raised are seen coming to rescue their companion.¹ Similarly, the Setu verse 9.23 describes the encounter of an elephant with a tiger, in which the tiger, pierced and tossed by the elephant's tusks, pounces on the latter's temples. Usually the lion is represented as the enemy of the elephant, and references to the tiger in this connection appear to be rare in Kāvya poetry. A sculptured frieze in a corridor of the upper story of Ajantā Cave VI has, however, some animated figures of elephants, one of whom is shown as killing a tiger.²

Such similarities between motifs in the art of Ajantā and themes treated in Pravarasena's descriptions, though rare, bear witness to his close observation of animal life. It is noteworthy that camels are not mentioned in the Setubandha in sharp contrast to the Yuddhakāṇḍa of the Rāmāyana on which the poem is based.¹ It is probable that camels were rare in ancient Deccan, and Pravarasena was not familiar with that animal.

As we have pointed out, the description of the evening scene in Setu Canto 10 is followed by a portrayal of the amorous activities of the nāyikās aided by their maiden messengers, a theme introduced by Pravarasena, probably for the first time, in the structure of a Mahākāvya. As a matter of fact, he brings in the spirit of the Gāthāsaptasatī in this Canto; and for this purpose seems to draw on the rich fund of Prakrit erotic poetry from which the Gāthāsaptasatī itself was compiled. In any case there are some striking resemblances between certain verses of the Gāthāsaptasatī and Setu Canto 10 in the treatment of these topics. For example, GS 2.98² is practically a variation in direct speech of the Setu verse 10.67³. Similarly, GS 1.87 expresses in direct speech exactly the same idea as that conveyed in Setu 10.77⁴. The picture of the navavadhū in GS 7.47 finds elaboration in Setu 10.76. In 10.72 Pravarasena refers to the māna or sulky wrath of the nāyikās, or rather an aspect of it, because it is a many-sided topic that appears frequently in the *Kāvya*s and works on poetics. The gist of the verse is that the nāyikās hastened to greet the nāyakas unreservedly whereupon their maiden friends stared them out of countenance for neglecting their advice to practise māna. The background of all this can be clearly understood by referring to the Gāthāsaptasatī which has a considerable number of verses on the various aspects of *māna*¹. The interrelation of the GS and the Setubandha in the treatment of these topics seems to show the influence of popular poetry on the evolution of the Prakrit Mahākāvya. As we have said above, the Sanskrit *Mahākāvya*s like those of Bhāravi and Māgha follow in this respect the lead of the Setubandha.

Metres

Not much was adequately known about ancient Prakrit metres until the publication of Virahāṅka's Vṛttajātisamuccaya and the Svayambhūcchandas, both edited and elucidated by H.D. Velankar², and his critical edition of Hemacandra's Chandonuśāsana with valuable indices³. A metrical analysis of the Setubandha is beyond the scope of this essay. We shall confine ourselves to a few general remarks about the metres used in the poem. The prevailing metre is the Skandhaka consisting of two equal

1 e.g., The sakhī recounts the pleasures of māna denied to a nāyikā who is elated at the very sight of the nāyaka (5 65), sometimes she administers a mild rebuke to a nāyikā who is unable to practise māna (7 59), a nāyikā declares that the māna induced by her friends disappeared, like a paramour, at the sight of the beloved (2 44). Māna is viewed also from otherstandpoints halves of thirty-two (12+20) mātrās. Its older name is Aryā-giti¹. Svayambhū 1.1.3² says that there are eight Caturmātras in each half of a Skandhaka subject to the rule that at the sixth place they should have a Dvumātra in the middle, i.e., be either madhyaguru or sarvalaghu, but a Madhyaguru should not be used at the odd places, i.e., the first, third, fifth and the seventh. Svayambhū cites Setu 3.9 as an example of a Skandhaka :

थोअच्चिअ ते वि दुमा जे अमुणिअ-कुसुम-णिगमा देन्ति फलं ॥³

An interesting feature of the Setubandha is that it has about forty verses known as Galitaka, composed in different varieties of a metre of that name. Examples of Galitaka verses are extremely rare in extant Prakrit literature ; and Pravarasena's Kāvya appears to be one of the earliest in which they occur. The commentaries on the Setubandha give very little information about these metres, but most of them can be identified with the help of the definitions given by Hemacandra, Virahāṅka and Svayambhū in their manuals of Prakrit prosody. Virahāṅka 4.89 ff describes fourteen such metres, and Hemacandra 4.25 ff. twenty-four. The section of Svayambhū's work dealing with the Galitaka metres is incomplete and mutilated in the existing text, but he quotes three illustrative verses from little known Prakrit poets. Virahāṅka does not quote any examples ; while Hemacandra gives examples composed by himself. Mudamalla in his commentary on the Setubandha quotes the definitions of two Galitaka metres apparently in the form of Sūtras in Prakrit, but we are unable to state the source utilized by him. Among our authorities Virahāṅka and Svayambhū composed their works in Prakrit verse ; while Hemacandra's definitions are given in Sanskrit in the form of Sūtras.

Little is known about the meaning of the word Galitaka¹. Virahāṅka uses the term galitā (galitā), but galia and galiaa (galitaka) appear in Svayambhū ; while Hemacandra employs the Sanskrit name. That the older expression was galitā or perhaps galita is shown by the fact that the former term occurs in Virahāṅka (about the seventh century A.D.), and the latter in the Jānāśrayī, written towards the end of the sixth century A.D., which defines and illustrates the Galita metre (5.45) in Sanskrit².

An essential feature of the Galitaka verses is that they are always rhymed, i.e., provided with Antyayamakas. Hemacandra 4.481 says that, according to some, Galitakas are metres other than the Daṇḍaka, the Āryā and the like, and provided with Yamakas. Svayambhū 1.2.4 says that leaving aside the Daṇḍakas and the metres of the Skandhaka class, all other metres accompanied by Yamakas are known as Galitas. By metres of the Skandhaka class he means those of the Gāthā group which he derives from the Skandhaka³. Broadly speaking, the Prakrit prosodists down to the time of Hemacandra recognise an independent group of metres variously called Galitā, Galita or Galitaka with rhyme as their special characteristic. On the other hand, the *Kavidarpaṇa*⁴, a comprehensive Prakrit work on metres written in the thirteenth century, defines and illustrates only one such metre (2.23), which may be contrasted with the rich variety of the Galitaka metres treated by Virahāṅka and others. This seems to be an indication that these metres had fallen into desuetude by the time of the Kavidarpaṇa, and that they belong to a rather early period of Prakrit poetry. Virahāṅka 4.106 tells us how the leading poets (kaī-vasahā) adjust the Yamakas to the Galiās employed by them; and Pravarasena's lavish use of them may be said to illustrate the practice of the early poets. The lost Harivijaya of Sarvasena likewise contained a number of Galitakas as he is criticized by Hemacandra for inserting in the poem an irrelevant description of the ocean for the sole purpose of composing verses in the Galitaka metres¹. The Sanskrit verse illustrating the Galita metre in an early work like the Jānāśrayī is no doubt based on Prakrit models² and shows the popularity of the metre even among the votaries of Sanskrit poetry. Galita heads the list of the Prakrit metres treated in the Jānāśrayī; and it is noteworthy that the author describes them as being current among the people³.

1 The word in its masculine form appears in a stage direction in the Vikramorvaśīya, Act 4, after v. 56, and is explained by Raṅganātha as nāṭyaviśesa. The Galitaka of prosody is usually neuter.

2 The section of the Jānāśrayī dealing with the Prakrit metres is edited and discussed by Velankar in JAS Bombay, 1959.

Hemacandra records the opinion of certain critics that the Prakrit poems Rāvaṇavijaya, Harivijaya and Setubandha are composed in a single metre, i.e., the Skandhaka, from the beginning to the end, and that the Galitakas are later interpolations⁴. Bhoja

2 The Galita of the Jānāśrayī corresponds to the Lalitā metre of 22 mātrās defined by Virahāṅka 4 60 Though it is not included in Virahāṅka's group of Galitā metres (4 89-105), it is provided with Antyayamakas like them, and was probably regarded by some as a Galita or Galitaka metre likewise mentions this view in the Śṛṅgāraprakāśa, but he records also a counter-argument that the Galitakas are only one of the many varieties of the Skandhaka metre¹. This view fails to grasp the essential difference between the two metres, but nevertheless shows that the interpolation theory was not accepted by all. Hemacandra does not offer any comment on the topic, but so far as the Harivijaya is concerned, he assumes the author of the poem to have composed also the Galitakas, because he criticizes him for using them in an irrelevant description of the ocean. We are on surer ground with regard to the Setubandha. None of our commentators except one mention the story of the Galitakas being interpolations², they explain them with as much care as the Skandhakas. The fact is that the Galitakas have a special relevance to the structure of our poem. They not only relieve the monotony of the ubiquitous Skandhaka but enliven the longer descriptions. That is why most of them are found in Cantos 2, 6, 7, 8 and 9. The only other Galitakas in our poem are employed to heighten the effect of certain impassioned utterances of Sugrīva in his address to his followers (3.45-48). The Setubandha would lose much of its freshness and variety if we were to exclude the ingeniously constructed Galitakas with their lyric tone and animated imagery. It is difficult to believe that any one other than the poet himself could weave these verses into the text without disturbing the current of thought and ideas. The view that the Galitakas were interpolations seems to have been current in some literary circles in Western India in the eleventh and twelfth centuries. An authoritative writer like

Kṛṣṇadāsa merely reports the view mentioned by Hemacandra and Bhoja, and says

स्कन्धककाव्यमिति एकरूपेण वृत्तेन कृतं काव्यं वदन्ति ।

अतएव गलितका नास्येति वदन्ति.

Viśvanātha (14th cent.) says that a Prakrit Mahākāvya is composed in the Skandhaka metre, and at places in Galitaka metres as well¹. He gives the Setubandha as an example of this, which shows that the view that the Galitakas were interpolations was not prevalent in Eastern India.

We may now give an account of the Galitaka metres used in the Setubandha as far as we have been able to identify them. All of them are Catuspadīs.

Galitaka

Hemacandra's treatment of the Galitaka group of metres begins with the so-called Galitaka metre (4.25), which corresponds to the Sampinditā Galitā metre described by Virahāṅka 4.89. Each pāda has twentyone mātrās (5,5,4,4,3). Hemacandra 4.26 says that when the third and sixth mātrās are short the metre is called Upagalitaka. Mudamalla points out in his commentary that Setu 2.27, 31 and 33 are Upagalitakas; but, as a matter of fact, most of the examples of the Galitaka metre in the Setubandha are Upagalitakas. Other examples are Setu 2.24; 6.62; 7.43; 9.18, 40, 42, 46.

Three other examples of the Galitaka metre in our poem require comment. In Setu 7.41 the first pāda has twentytwo mātrās : malaa-candana-laā-hare sambharamāṇao. The line as read in the South Indian and Bengal recensions of the poem has, however, twentyone mātrās, and presents no metrical difficulty : malaa-candana-laā-haresu bharamāṇao. In Setu 9.49 the sequence of the mātrāgaṇas is irregular in the third pāda ; and in 9.72 the Trimātra at the end of the first pāda is short of one mātrā.

Saṁhityadarpaṇa 6.305. Lahore, 1938.

It may be added that Mudamalla in his gloss on Setu 2.27 quotes a definition of the Upagalitaka metre in Prakrit, which is imperfect in our copy; but the three words that are clearly legible (taia-cchattha....mupagaliām) seem to show that it corresponds to Hemacandra's Sanskrit definition of the metre.

Lambitā

The Lambitā metre consists of twentytwo mātrās. Acc. to Virahāṅka 4.96, each pāda should contain an initial Dvimātra followed by five Caturmātras of which the second and the fourth should be madhyaguru. Acc. to a general rule laid down by Virahāṅka 4.107, it is permissible to use a sarvalaghu in place of a madhyaguru wherever it is prescribed. There are several perfect examples of this metre in the Setubandha: 6.48, 53, 56; 7.45, 47, 49, 51, 60; 8.65; 9.88. Two other examples (8.61, 63) contain slight irregularities.

Kumudinī

The Kumudinī metre, described by Virahāṅka 4.98, is similar to the Lambitā, with twentytwo mātrās consisting of five Caturmātras and a long letter at the end of a pāda instead of a Dvimātra at the beginning. The fourth Caturmātra should be madhyāguru. Setu 6.68 is a complete example of Kumudinī, which seems also to be employed in 6.59; but in the latter verse the fourth Caturmātra is madhyaguru in the first and second pādas only.

Lalitā

The Lalitā metre, described by Virahāṅka 4.93, has twentyfour mātrās in each pāda distributed in the following order: two Caturmātras, one Pañcamātra (madhyalaghu), another Caturmātra, another Pañcamātra like the previous one, and a long letter at the end of the pāda. Mudamalla says in his comm. on Setu 3.46 that this and the preceding versé form a samdānitaka, and the metre is Lalitā. He quotes a definition of the metre in Prakrit which is imperfect in our copy, but the following words are legible : vicchittiā ccia lalitā (ā ?)...hīṇā. It is noteworthy that Hemacandra 4.43 defines a Galitaka metre called Vicchitti which has twenty-five mātrās ; while the Lalitā has one mātrā less. This seems to be referred to in the definition cited by Mudamalla.

Setu 3.45 and 3.46 are perfect examples of the Lalitā metre. Setu 3.48 illustrates the Visamā Galitaka defined by Hemacandra 4.45, being a combination of Lalitā and Vicchitti. The first two pādas of the verse have twentyfive mātrās each corresponding to Vicchitti in which the sequence of the mātrāḡanas is 5, 4, 5, 4, 5, 2; while the last two pādas have twentyfour mātrās each corresponding to Lalitā in which the sequence is 4, 4, 5, 4, 5, 2.

Ugragalitaka

The Ugragalitaka, described by Svayambhū 1.2.3 and Hemacandra 4.35, has in each pāda thirty mātrās consisting of an initial group of six mātrās followed by six Caturmātras, subject to the general rule that the Caturmātras at the odd places should not be madhyaguru, and those at the even places should be either madhyaguru or sarvalaghu¹.

Setu 6.65 provides a complete example of the Ugragalitaka. The only other early example of this metre known to us is quoted by Svayambhū from a little known poet named Vṛddhamitra. It is in a mixed dialect with some Sanskrit words spoken by some one desiring a treaty with Rāma.

The Mālāgalitaka, described by Hemacandra 4.33, has in each pāda fortysix mātrās consisting of an initial group of six mātrās followed by ten Caturmātra Ganas, subject to the Madhyaguru rule mentioned in connection with the Ugragalitaka (see above).

Setu verses 7.59, 61 are examples of the Mālāgalitaka. It may be noted that in the verse 7.61 the second pāda has fortyseven mātrās in Rāmadāsa's text. The reading of ms. C of Goldschmidt mahiharāhao for mahiharāhihao avoids the metrical difficulty. The other verse 7.59 has two cases of overlapping of Caturmātras. The sixth and seventh Caturmātras in the second pāda, and the first and second in the third pāda do not divide into equal groups, the division of the mātrās being 5,3 owing to the presence of a long letter at the junction of the two Caturmātras in both pādas.

Sundarā

The Sundarā metre, defined by Hemacandra 4.36, has thirteen mātrās in each pāda, the order of the Ganas being 5, 5, 3. It is the metre of Setu 9.43, 44, 47, 50. In 9.47 we have to treat the conjunct gga in -ggaha as unstressed (atīvraprayatna) to maintain the regularity of the mātrāganās. Rāmadāsa in his gloss on Setu 9.47 calls the metre Sundarī, but says nothing about its characteristics. It may be added that the Yamakas in the four verses mentioned above go beyond the prosodical requirement, and extend to the pādas as a whole, the first pāda agreeing with the second, and the third with the fourth. For example,

COMMENTARIES ON THE SETUBANDHA.

We shall now give an account of the Sanskrit commentaries on the Setubandha utilized for this work. Only two of them have so far been published, that of Rāmadāsa and the anonymous Setutattvacandrikā, hereinafter referred to as SC. Some of the unpublished commentaries are incomplete and fragmentary ; while quotations from a few others, otherwise unknown, are found in SC. As the titles of the commentaries are in some cases similar, they are here mentioned by the names of their respective authors.

Krṣṇavipra

The extracts from Krṣṇavipra's commentary are given from a beautiful transcript of a Devanāgarī manuscript (R. 3226) preserved in the Govt. Oriental Mss. Library, Madras. The Curator informs us¹ that the manuscript along with those of the commentaries of Mādhavayajvan and Devarāta was copied during the years 1918-26 from the originals belonging to a resident of Nareri, Palghat District, Kerala ; but that there is nothing on record to indicate the script of the originals. The name of the scribe is given as Paśupati at the end. Apart from a few mistakes, the manuscript is generally correct and reliable. Unfortunately it is incomplete, as the gloss on Canto 14 is missing, and that on Canto 13 breaks off at verse 30. The division of the poem into Cantos in the South Indian recension will be dealt with later ; here we give the numbers of the Cantos according to the generally accepted text.

1 In his letter D O. No. 47/AL/68 dated 14-3-68.

The Oriental Mss. Library, Madras has another ms. of Kṛṣṇavipra's commentary on the Setubandha in Grantha characters¹, of which a Devanagari transcript was obtained later for comparison with our copy of the ms. described above. Apart from the removal of a few inaccuracies from the Extracts, it has not been very helpful for our purpose. It breaks off towards the end of Canto 10, and contains numerous mistakes besides lacunae and jumbling of verses.

A Devanāgarī transcript of another ms. of Kṛṣṇa's commentary, preserved in the Oriental Research Institute and Mss. Library, Trivandrum, could be obtained after the major portion of the Extracts was in the press. It is, on the whole, a good ms., and has been utilized for the purpose of this Introduction and some of the verses of the later Cantos.² Unfortunately it breaks off at verse 63 of Canto 12.

It may be noted that Goldschmidt in his edition of the Setubandha gives many of the readings of Kṛṣṇavipra in footnotes from what appears to be a complete ms. of the commentary. However, in the Introduction to his edition (p. xi), he states that this ms., written in Telugu script, is very carelessly copied, and fragmentary at places. Nevertheless we have depended on the readings recorded by him in the portion of the text not covered by the manuscripts mentioned above.

It is difficult to determine the date of Kṛṣṇavipra accurately. He frequently quotes the Vaijayantī of Yādavaprakāśa who is identified with Rāmānuja's early teacher of that name; and the lexicon may therefore be assigned to the second half of the eleventh century.³ This gives the upper limit of

1 The ms. is referred to in the Extracts as B of K. In the Extracts from Kṛṣṇa (3.61) भ्रामितौ निवर्तितौ should be . विवर्तितौ which is the reading of B

2 In the Extracts from Kṛṣṇa (2.9) the explanation of sthitiṣprabhūtam is incomplete. It is given in full in the Trivandrum ms. - sthītau maryādāyām prabhūtam paryāptam.

3 See Oppert's edition, Madras, 1893, and Intro to Kalpadrakośa (GOS), p. XXVI.

Kṛṣṇa's date. The lower limit is uncertain, and we shall consider it in connection with the date of his successor Mādhavayajvan.

Kṛṣṇavipra's commentary seems to have been popular in Kerala. He refers to the Sahya as a mountain on the border of Kerala in his gloss on Setu 1.56, and mentions a North Indian custom in that on 1.2.

Unlike most other commentaries on the Setubandha, Kṛṣṇavipra's work contains a number of quotations from Sanskrit texts, almost all of which will be found in the Extracts. Among lexicons he quotes, besides the Vaijayantī, Halāyudha's Abhidhānaratnamālā several times as well as Amarasimha and the Amarasēṣa. The latter work is obviously a supplement to the Amarakośa like the Trikāṇḍasēṣa of Puruṣottama. Aufrecht says that Amarasēṣa is another name of the Trikāṇḍasēṣa;¹ but our quotation² does not tally with the corresponding statement in the Trikāṇḍasēṣa.³ It is therefore probable that the Amarasēṣa quoted by Kṛṣṇavipra is different from the work of Puruṣottama.

There is another quotation in Kṛṣṇavipra's gloss on Setu 2.9 which purports to give the different meanings of prāṇayāna. The Devanāgarī ms. gives the source of the citation as Śeva; while the Grantha ms. gives it as Akhyāna. The Trivandrum ms. has Khyāta. The correct reading is probably Akhyāta, a work cited by Kṛṣṇa in his gloss on Setu 8.8.⁴ It appears to be a work on verbs and their meanings.¹

Among works on poetics, apart from the Kāvyaadarśa of Daṇḍin and Bhoja's SK, Kṛṣṇavipra quotes a little known work called Bhāvaivveka, of which an incomplete ms. is preserved in the Oriental Mss. Library, Madras. The Curator informs us that it is a paper ms. transcribed from the original belonging to a resident of Kannur Mana, Ottapalam, Palghat District (Kerala). A Devanāgarī transcript obtained from the Library shows that it is a fragment of a little more than a hundred verses, being the concluding portion of a work dealing with the different Bhāvas. It is difficult to say how far it is an independent compilation, as no less than twenty-eight verses are reproduced from the *Nāṭyaśāstra*² without acknowledgement. Of the two verses quoted by Kṛṣṇavipra from Bhāvaivveka in his gloss on Setu 1.6, the first containing a definition of praṇaya is missing in our copy of the fragment; while a definition of anukampā is quoted from the same work twice under Setu 5.24 and 11.21.³

Among other works, Kṛṣṇavipra refers to the *Viṣṇupurāṇa*⁴ and quotes several verses from the Mahākāvyas of Kālidāsa, Bhāravi and Māgha, besides a verse from the Vikramorvaśīya in his gloss on Setu 11.40. He states at the beginning of his work that many scholars had written commentaries on Pravarasena's poem, but were unable to bring out the meanings clearly; and he expresses his own diffidence in trying to expound the poet's difficult ideas.¹

Mādhavayajvan

The extracts from Mādhava's commentary on the Setu-bandha are given from Devanāgarī transcripts of the mss. mentioned below.

A. A Devanāgarī ms. preserved in the Govt. Oriental Mss. Library, Madras (R. 2772), copied from the original belonging to the same owner as the ms. of Kṛṣṇavipra's commentary (R.3226) described above. Cantos 11 and 12 are missing; while Canto 13 begins with verse 12, some of the missing verses being tagged on to Canto 10.

B. A ms. in Malayalam script preserved in the Oriental Institute, Baroda. The Director of the Institute informs us that it was acquired from Pandit V. Venkatarama Sharma 'Vidyābhūṣaṇa', Kizhakkanada, Chenganur, of the former Travancore State in 1923. Apart from a few verses of Canto 5, the ms. contains the commentary from Canto 6 to the end. Both the mss. are fairly correct, but groups of verses belonging to Cantos 6, 7 and 8 are jumbled together in ms. B.²

Mādhava's work is not a running commentary on the poem, but explains selected words and phrases, and often gives the gist of a verse, or expounds a leading idea. It is rightly called Setutātparyatikā in the mss. What makes his commentary particularly valuable is that he often cites the Prakrit words in the original with their Sanskrit equivalents which is of great use in determining the readings of the South Indian recension of the poem. The number of quotations in his work is very small. Apart from a few references to Bhoja,¹ most of the quotations are anonymous. The definition of Vibhāvanā with the example, cited in the beginning of the commentary, is from Dandin's Kavyādarśa. Two verses are cited from the *Daśarūpaka*² in the gloss on Setu 4.3. Two other anonymous quotations are found in the gloss on 10.75³ and 12.50.⁴

Mādhavayajvan appears also to have composed a commentary on the Gāthāsaptasatī. Two mss. of this commentary called Tātparyadīpikā are reported to be in the Punjab University Library, now in Pakistan.⁵

There is no doubt that our Mādhavayajvan is identical with the author of that name who wrote the Nayacandrīkā commentary on the Arthaśāstra. A portion of this commentary, edited by Udayavīra Sastri from an incomplete ms., was included in the second volume of the Arthaśāstra edited by Jolly and Schmidt.⁶ The colophon at the end of each chapter of the Nayacandrīkā gives the name of the author as Vādikavicūdāmaṇi Mahopādhyāya Śrīmat Mādhavayajvamiśra, which is also found in his commentary on the Setubandha, at the end of the first Canto in ms. A, and at the end of the last Canto in ms. B. The colophon at the end of the commentary and that at the end of Canto 6 in ms. A has Vaidika and Vaidikakavi respectively for Vādikavi; but there is no doubt that the correct designation is Vādikavi, found both in the Nayacandrikā and the Setutātparyatīkā.

The Nayacandrikā belongs to the same type of commentary as the Setutātparyatīkā described above. Shamasastri says in the preface to the second edition of his translation of the Arthaśāstra that the Nayacandrikā 'is neither a word for word commentary like Bhaṭṭasvāmi's, nor a paraphrase like the Tamīl-Malayalam commentary. Mādhavayajvan, its author, satisfies himself by supplying some connecting links between successive chapters and successive paragraphs in each chapter.' The Nayacandrikā is thus not a running commentary. Apart from the meanings of selected words and phrases, it gives, as a rule, only the gist of particular passages, like the same author's commentary on the Setubandha. It is also noteworthy that the original mss. of the commentaries of Mādhavayajvan on both the Setubandha and the Arthaśāstra as far as they are known to us belong to Kerala.¹

Mādhavayajvan is later than Kṛṣṇavipra. In his gloss on Setu 3.61 he reproduces verbatim Kṛṣṇa's gist of the verse as an alternative explanation.² He refers to his predecessor's interpretation in his gloss on Setu 8.100, and criticizes him in that on 10.40.³

1 The Madras ms., on which the Lahore edition of the Nayacandrikā is based, was transcribed from the original in the possession of a resident of Chelapuram, Calicut. See Sanskrit Introd. to Nayacandrikā, p. 6, and Gode, Studies in Indian Literary History, Vol. 1, p. 147 Bombay, 1953.

Mādhavayajvan might be earlier than Rāmadāsa who wrote his commentary on the Setubandha in 1595 A. D. Rāmadāsa, in his gloss on Setu 1.55, says that the expression helā-vāa is explained by some as helayā vātaḥ. This rather peculiar explanation seems to occur only in Mādhava among our commentators.¹ If, by kaścit, Rāmadāsa means Mādhavayajvan, the latter must be at least a few decades earlier than the former

As pointed out above, the Vaijayanī lexicon may have become an authoritative work by the end of the eleventh century Kṛṣṇavipra who quotes it frequently could not therefore have lived before the first quarter of the twelfth century. He was probably much later, as he says that there were many commentaries on the Setubandha written before his time. Mādhavayajvan who quotes and criticizes Kṛṣṇavipra may have lived a few decades later; and if we are right in thinking that Rāmadāsa refers to Mādhava, the latter's literary activity may be dated earlier than about 1550 A. D.

Mudamallabhaṭṭa

The extracts from the commentary of Mudamallabhaṭṭa known as Setucandrikā are given from a transcript of an incomplete Devanāgarī ms. preserved in the Oriental Institute, Baroda. The Director informs us that the ms. was acquired from Vasudeva Sastri Telang, Kadam Ghat, Saugar in 1922. The name of the commentator sometimes appears also as Mudumalla.

Apart from the last three verses of Canto 1, the ms. contains only the commentary on Cantos 2, 3, 4 and 5, breaking off at 5.59. After this there is a long gap, at the end of which appears the gloss on the verse 12.97 and the first four verses of Canto 13. The Setucandrikā is a good commentary; and it is a pity that only a small portion of it is available to us.

Mudamalla frequently quotes Hemacandra's Prakrit grammar and his Deśināmāla. He quotes also the Viśvaparakāśa.¹ In his gloss on Setu 5.35 he seems to refer to Kṛṣṇa vipra's explanation of the verse. The word ṭanka in that verse is explained by Kṛṣṇa as arrow; and this explanation is found only in him among our commentators. Mudamalla mentions it as the opinion of Kaścit, and confines himself to elucidating the purport of Kṛṣṇa vipra's interpretation.² That he is later than Kṛṣṇa vipra seems certain; but there is no definite clue to his date. He seems to be referred to by Latakana-miśra whom we have placed about 1625 A. D. (see below).

Kṛṣṇadāsa

An incomplete palm-leaf ms. of the commentary of Kṛṣṇadāsa on the Setubandha in Malayalam script is preserved in the Oriental Research Institute and Mss. Library, Trivandrum. A Devanāgarī transcript of this ms. was available for study long after the Extracts from the commentaries were in the press. It covers only the first seven Cantos and four verses of Canto 8 (13-16), breaking off at the beginning of the gloss on v. 17. The ms. is not very well-preserved, and contains numerous mistakes and omissions, especially in the Sanskrit chāyā of the Prakrit verses.

The commentary is brief, and contains some interesting explanations, but it does not explain all the difficulties, often confining itself to general remarks. There are many verses of which it gives only the chāyā without any gloss. With regard to readings, Kṛṣṇadāsa consistently follows the South Indian recension; and his text is, therefore, practically the same as that of Kṛṣṇa vipra and Mādhavayajvan. It is noteworthy that ten of the thirteen verses peculiar to the South Indian recension are found in the available portion of his commentary.

In the Prakrit colophon at the end of each Canto explained in the commentary, Kanhadāsa calls himself 'the eighth Rattha of the Śrīkumāras', also called the Kulakumāras, a phrase not intelligible to us. There is no other clue to his date as he does not refer to or quote any previous author or work.

Kṛṣṇadāsa seems to be referred to in another commentary on the Setubandha, the Setutattvacandrikā compiled in Bengal. In Setu 21 the ocean is described as the youth of Rāma's expedition; and this has led to a variety of interpretations. Criticizing one of them, SC says that 'according to some, the childhood of the enterprise is the slaying of Vālin, the youth the crossing of the ocean, and the old age the slaying of Rāvaṇa. This explanation is wrong, because a resemblance is sought to be established between the ocean and youth by representing the crossing of the ocean as the youth of the undertaking.' It is noteworthy that Kṛṣṇadāsa in his gloss on the verse speaks of the childhood and youth of Rāma's expedition. He says that the period from the alliance with Sugrīva to the ascertainment of Sītā's whereabouts, is, as it were, the childhood of the undertaking; while the period from Rāma's arrival at the seashore to her recovery represents its youth. If the criticism mentioned above is aimed at Kṛṣṇadāsa, the latter might be supposed to have written his commentary before the middle of the seventeenth century, which is the approximate date of the Setutattvacandrikā (see below).¹

¹ The statement in Extracts 21 that Mudamalla is criticized in SC was made before we had access to Kṛṣṇadāsa's commentary. It now appears that the criticism levelled at Kṛṣṇadāsa rather than Mudamalla.

Devarāta

The extracts from the commentary of Devarāta allās Subrahmaṇya are given from a transcript of an incomplete Devanāgarī ms. preserved in the Oriental Mss. Library, Madras. As far as can be judged from the colophon at the end of Cantos 1 and 2, the Commentary, called Setudīpa, was composed at the request of one Śrīdāsa, who seems to have been the chief of a village named Ravivara.

The ms. covers only Cantos 1,2,3,4 (up to verse 39), 7 and 8. This is followed by Cantos 9, 10 and 11 (up to verse 113), of which only the Sanskrit chāyā is given without any gloss except in the case of four or five verses. The available portion of the ms. is fairly correct, but has a number of lacunae.

Devarāta belongs to the Southern school of commentators, and sometimes follows Kṛṣṇavipra closely. There is nothing remarkable in his commentary, but he seems to reproduce a number of alternative interpretations from other commentaries on the Setubandha. In his gloss on Setu 11.1, for instance, he reproduces that of Mādhavayajvan in toto as an alternative explanation. But more conspicuous are the long anonymous excerpts from the commentary of Kṛṣṇadāsa. These are usually introduced by the word athavā; but at least in one case, in Devarāta's gloss on Setu 4.26, the long quotation from Kṛṣṇadāsa is preceded by the words anye tvāhuh. Smaller citations from Kṛṣṇadāsa are, however, quietly incorporated in his own gloss without any prefatory remark (e.g., under Setu 3.37, 4.23, 7.50 etc.).

It is necessary to point out that some of the passages quoted from Devarāta in our Extracts are really citations from the commentary of Kṛṣṇadāsa. In Extracts 2.15 the entire passage beginning with the words svāmśabhūte trailokye madhumathanamiva, attributed to Devarāta, is a quotation from Kṛṣṇadāsa; so also the passage cited in Extracts 2.16. The citation from Devarāta in Extracts 3.37 likewise belongs to Kṛṣṇadāsa. Here the misleading expression samaramukha-vyāvṛtta should be replaced by samaramukhavyūprta found in Kṛṣṇadāsa. It may, however, be noted that the citations in Devarāta often help correct mistakes in the Trivandrum ms. of Kṛṣṇadāsa's commentary.

Rāmadr̥ṣṭi

This is a curious fragment in Devanāgarī preserved in the Oriental Mss. Library, Madras. The author who remains anonymous offers obeisance to his teacher Govinda, and explains the first verse of the Setubandha with special reference to Viṣṇu-tattva. After remarking that there are difficulties everywhere in Setukāvya, he contents himself with explaining verses 7-12 of Canto 3. The only noteworthy feature of the fragment is that it mentions Mādhavayajvan in the gloss on Setu 1.1, and gives an extract from his commentary on the verse.

Kulanātha

The extracts from Kulanātha's commentary on the Setubandha are given from a Bengali transcript of an old palm-leaf ms. in Bengali characters preserved in the Asiatic Society of Bengal¹, and dated in the Śaka year 1457 (1535 A.D.). Kulanātha is referred to as Upādhyāya in the colophon; and it is also stated that the pustaka belonged to Śrī Raghunātha Vidyālan-kārācārya. The commentary is called Rāvaṇavadhaṭikā, but the title Rāvaṇavadhapañjikā appears at the end of Canto 7.

The ms., although described as correct by R. L. Mitra, contains a large number of mistakes and lacunae, besides a considerable jumbling of verses belonging to different Cantos.

After Canto 5 comes Canto 6 ending with verse 67 (incomplete), followed by 8.17 (minus the first sentence) to the end of Canto 8. After this comes Canto 9 ending with verse 43 (incomplete), followed by the remaining portion of 6.67 to the end of Canto 6. Then comes Canto 7, after which appear the first sixteen verses of Canto 8 and the first sentence of 8.17, followed by the remainder of 9.43 to the end of Canto 9. Fortunately the sequence of the remaining Cantos is not broken by any such confusion. The ms. is, on the whole, carelessly written, but the Setutattvacandrikā, mentioned above, has been of great use in preparing the extracts from the commentary of Kulanātha.

Kulanātha, like Krsnavipra, is an important commentator, and is known to have written also a commentary on the Gāthāsaptasatī.¹ There is reason to believe that the old commentary of Kulanātha on the Setubandha had gone out of use; and a systematic effort was made in Bengal to compile a new commentary, primarily based on his work. The Setutattvacandrikā appears to have been the result of this undertaking. It is compiled from different sources, but mainly from Kulanātha, probably by more than one scholar interested in Prakrit studies. The study of Prakrit poetry and specially the Setubandha seems to have been popular in Bengal, as can be seen from the making of commentaries on the work and the existence of a ms. of the text in old Bengali characters, dated in Lakṣmaṇasena Samvat 102 corresponding to 1222 A.D.²

Kulanātha refers to two earlier commentators of the Setubandha. In his gloss on Setu 6 63 he quotes a remark of Śrī harsa to elucidate the purport of the verse³; and the same is] found also in the Setutattvacandrikā where Kulanātha's gloss on the verse is anonymously reproduced. Nothing is known about this Śrīharṣa, and it is difficult to say if he is identical with the commentator Harṣapāla, quoted several times in SC.

In his gloss on Setu 10.35 Kulanātha remarks that the expression suragaja used in the verse is explained by some as Gaṇapati ¹ His gloss on the verse is mutilated in our copy, but seems to be reproduced in full in SC where the rather peculiar explanation of the word is attributed to Śrīnivāsa, whom we have placed between 1150 and 1440 A D. (see below). It is probable that Kulanātha had Śrīnivāsa in mind when he referred to the explanation mentioned above as that of kecit. He is thus later than Śrīnivāsa, but cannot possibly be placed later than the early years of the sixteenth century.

Kulanātha cites a Deśī lexicon different from the Deśī-nāma-mālā of Hemacandra. In his gloss on Setu 6.8² he cites a Deśī lexicon which explains hittha as ashamed and affrighted. Hemacandra (DN 8 67) quotes in this connection Gopāla, one of his predecessors in the field of Deśī lexicography, who records these meanings of the word. The wording of Kulanātha's quotation is, however, somewhat different; and he seems to cite a lexicon other than that of Gopāla. Another reference to a Deśī lexicon seems to occur in Kulanātha's gloss on Setu 6 38 ³ In his gloss on 3.61⁴ the Deśīkoṣa quoted by him explains the word addhanta as ekadeśa, while the meaning assigned to it by Hemacandra is paryanta (DN 10 8).

On grammatical topics Kulanātha follows Vararuci, and sometimes ignores Hemacandra. In his gloss on Setu 6.53, for instance, he objects to samatta being explained as samasta, because, acc. to Vararuci 3.12, samasta becomes samattha, and not samatta, as allowed by Hemacandra 2.45. It may be noted that Kṛṣṇavipra, who usually follows Vararuci, seems in this case to follow Hemacandra, as he explains samatta as *samasta*¹. Kulanātha's criticism might be directed at him, but we cannot be sure on the point.

Setutattvacandrikā

The Setutattvacandrikā, mentioned in connection with Kulanātha, marks an interesting phase of the progress of Prakrit studies in Bengal. It has been edited from a fairly well-preserved ms. written in Bengali characters in 1646 A.D.². Unlike most of the other mss. utilized by us, this one gives the Prakrit text as well as the chāyā and the commentary. Besides, the scribe Viśvanātha seems to have been well-acquainted with the Prakrit language.

The SC is an anonymous work. It is significant that the initial maṅgala is absent. The commentary is, in fact, a compilation from other commentaries; and as we have already said, it is largely based on that of Kulanātha. The latter's gloss on numerous verses is anonymously reproduced, and occasionally supplemented by citations from other commentaries. There are also specific quotations from Kulanātha mentioned by name, more numerous than those from any other commentator cited in SC. Some of these quotations are mutilated, and contain mistakes, omissions and inaccuracies, which can be rectified with the help of the ms. of Kulanātha's commentary described above.

1 See Extracts 6.53.

2 See Rāvanavaha-mahākāvya, ed. Basak Calcutta, 1959.

SC has a large number of quotations assigned to anye, kecit etc., and even among these there are not a few that are taken from Kulanātha e.g., under Setu 1.26, 2.8 (12 SC), 4.31, 11.41, 12.86 (85 SC), 13.71, 14.1 etc. In the gloss on Setu 4.33, after reproducing Kulanātha anonymously, SC gives a further quotation from him, which is, however, stated to be from anye. Under Setu 13.47 the quotation stated to be from Kulanātha is not found in him; it is the longer quotation from kecit that is actually found in Kulanātha's gloss on the verse. These and other peculiarities may be explained by supposing that perhaps more than one hand was at work in compiling the new commentary. The first compilation based on Kulanātha may have been made early in the seventeenth century, and further quotations from him and others seem to have been added from time to time. Viśvanātha's work probably represents the final redaction made about the middle of the century.

There are other instances of the heterogeneous character of the compilation. The Setu verse 12.26 occurs twice in SC, first as 4.42, and again as 12.25, each time with a different gloss. A quotation from Kulanātha occurs at the latter place, but it is difficult to see how the repetition could have been made by one and the same compiler.

The relation of SC to Rāmadāsa's commentary on the Setubandha points to a similar conclusion. SC remarks that the Setu verses 15.16, 17 (15, 16 SC) are not included in the text by any other commentator. This is true of the South Indian and Bengal recensions of the poem, but the verses in question are found in Rāmadāsa and explained by him. This would lead one to suppose that SC was not acquainted with the work of Rāmadāsa written towards the end of the sixteenth century. But there is other evidence which seems to indicate that SC was familiar with Rāmadāsa's interpretations, the relevant citations being found among those attributed to kecit, kaścit and anye. For example, 13.79 शिथिलिता त्यक्ता इति केचित् SC; शिथिलिता त्यक्ता R.

14.6 शरेणाभिसंहितो वञ्चित इति केचित् SC; ditto R.

There is at least one instance where SC seems to criticize Rāmadāsa. The word vimharāṇa or vimharāvīa in Setu 9.41 is explained by all our commentators as mūrccḥṭa or in a similar sense; but

Rāmadāsa, in an alternative explanation, explains it as vismāpita. SC objects to this interpretation, and cites a Deśī lexicon to show that the correct meaning of the word is mūrcchita.¹

The conflicting character of the two sets of evidence mentioned above seems to suggest that the commentary of Rāmadāsa was not known to the compilers of SC at the first phase of the compilation, but that references to his interpretations were added later when his work became available to scholars in Bengal.

Rāmadāsa

The Rāmaśetupradīpa of Rāmadāsa is the best known commentary on the Setubandha, largely because it is not only complete and well-preserved, but was the first commentary on the poem to be published along with the text.²

Rāmadāsa gives some interesting information about himself and his environment in the introductory and concluding verses of his commentary. He was a Rajput prince, patronized by Akbar, and belonged to the Kacchavāha clan, like Rājā Mānasimha of Amber, to whom he refers. The editors

- 1 See Extracts 941. The initial portion of SC's gloss on the verse is anonymously reproduced from Kulanātha, but the word vismāpita found there is a mistake for vismāṛita, which is Kulanātha's rendering of the Pkt. word.
 - 2 Second edition. NS Press, 1935. The editors do not give any information about the manuscript material used by them, and the text of the poem seems to have been reproduced as it is from the ms. available to them. Nevertheless, apart from mistakes and minor variations, it generally agrees with the text of Goldschmidt. The latter gives a critical text based on four mss. of Rāmadāsa's commentary containing the text and the chāyā, but in a few cases adopts readings from his ms. C written in 1596 A.D., Kṛṣṇavīpra's commentary and Hemacandra's Prakṛit Grammar. For instance, in Setu 7.21 he rejects Rāmadāsa's reading paṛṇna (see NS ed.), and adopts the reading paalla from ms. C. Trans. follows Goldschmidt, but Rāmadāsa's reading is well-supported. See section IX.

of the NS edition of the Setubandha state that he was the chief of a place named Volī in the former Jaipur State. He says that he composed his commentary in Samvat 1652 (1595 A.D.) in the fortieth year of the reign of Jallāladīndra (Jalāluddīn Muhammad Akbar), to whom he expresses his devotion in eloquent terms. He reports that Akbar protected the cow, and abolished the pilgrim tax and what appears to be a tax on commercial transactions¹ He tells us further that the emperor listened to the recitation of the Purānas, and adored the Sun and practised Yoga; but probably exaggerates when he says that Akbar drank no other water than that of the Gaṅgā. More interesting is his statement that he composed the Rāma-setupradīpa 'at the command of king Jallāladīndra' to facilitate the expounding of the poem in a learned assembly (parisadi), probably patronized by the emperor. Akbar's great interest in Sanskrit literature is well-known; and works like the Mahābhārata and the Rāmāyana were translated into Persian at his command. Rāmadāsa's statement shows that he encouraged also the study of Prakrit literature.

Apart from his literary activity, Rāmadāsa appears to have played at least on one occasion an important part in contemporary politics. During Akbar's fatal illness in October, 1605 he supported Salīm against the intrigues of Azīz and Mān Singh; and his action in posting an adequate guard of faithful Rajputs over the treasury was a decisive step in the interests of Prince Salīm.²

The Rāma-setupradīpa is a useful but somewhat verbose commentary; and in the point of lucidity and insight Rāmadāsa cannot rank with commentators like Kṛṣṇavipra and

1 'दूरे गाः पाति मृत्योरपि करममुचत् तीर्थवाणिज्यवृत्त्योः'

2 Smith, Akbar, p. 322. Oxford, 1926.

Kulanātha. He has utilized the work of previous commentators as shown by his many references to the views of kecit, kaścit etc. Occasionally he refers to sampradāya or the traditional interpretation, but his effort to improve upon it, sometimes called by him madunnītaḥ panthāḥ, is not always successful.¹ Neither of his explanations of the word nibaddha in Setu 14.9, for instance, is satisfactory; the traditional interpretation mentioned by him is better, and found also in SC.²

Rāmadāsa's commentary seems to have been unfavourably criticized by contemporary scholars; and he has a fling at 'villains that soil the spotless texture of a commentary with the ink of fault-finding'. He appeals to the learned public not to neglect his work because he was a prince devoted to the practice of arms, and declares that in his family, i. e., the dynasty of the Sun, there appeared Manu, great savant and universal monarch, versed in arms.

Rāmadāsa in his gloss on Setu 8.44 quotes a Sanskrit prose writer named Badhira-kavirāja. The Raghuvamśa (12.71) is quoted under Setu 12.78, and the Naisadhacarita (12.22) under 1.25, and a Samgītasāra under 5.8. Among lexicons he quotes the Viśvaprakāśa frequently; and a few citations are also made from Śāśvata, Dharani and the Hārāvalī.³

Some of the explanations of Prakrit words and forms by Rāmadāsa are inaccurate. In Setu 15.58 he renders suvvāi (or suvvasi acc. to some mss.)⁴ as śṛnoṣi. In 4.53 his explanation of ahileum as abhilavitum chettum cannot be right.¹ His rendering of samghāia as samghaṭita (13.61) is obviously wrong, and that of asampadanta as asampadyamāna (14.1) doubtful;² while the meaning vilipta assigned to vellavia or velavia in 1.26 appears to be guess-work, though also found in Devarāta.³

Some of the explanations of Rāmadāsa are however important and noteworthy. The expression gharamaṇi in Setu 10.52 is explained by Rāmadāsa as 'lamp', citing in this connection the Hārāvātī which includes grhamani among the words used in that sense. The citation is found also in SC Commentators like Kṛṣṇavipra, Mādhava and Kulanātha take the compound literally; and it is difficult to say if the Prakrit word as used by an ancient writer like Pravarasena has the same meaning as grhamani. The expression gharamani, however, occurs also in Līlāvatī 56 in a similar context, and is explained in the comm. as 'lamp' or 'walls studded with jewels.' Similarly, the expression chinṇa-kadaa in Setu 9.39 is explained by Kulanātha literally; while Kṛṣṇavipra and Mādhava read bhūṇa for chinṇa. Rāmadāsa here quotes an unspecified Sanskrit verse which defines chinnakāṭaka as a kind of particularly steep and precipitous mountain peak. It is noteworthy that chinṇa-

His alternative explanation abhiledhum is, however, unacceptable. Rāmadāsa in his gloss on Setu 5.50 correctly explains ahile as abhilīyate mīlati which is found also in LM Cf Vākpatī 178 ahile expl. in the comm. as abhilīyate vyāpnoti, also 930 and 511 Hāla 4.66 has अहिलेन्ति...भमरा...मुहं तिस्रस्र where the idea is that of bees swarming round flowers

On the other hand, sampadā occurring in an Apabhramśa verse cited by Hemacandra and Trivikrama in their Prakrit grammars is accurately rendered as samṣatita in the chāyā. Latakanamiśra

No extracts could be given from the Bhāvaprakāśikā of Latakanamiśra, as a photostat copy of a manuscript of the commentary preserved in the Bombay University Library was available for study long after the Extracts were sent to the press. The ms is incomplete, and covers only Cantos 2 to 5, besides containing considerable portions of Cantos 1, 6, 10 and 11. It is fairly correct and written in clear Devanāgarī, and contains not only the commentary but also the Prakrit text and Sanskrit chāyā.

The name of the author is given as Latakanamiśra in the colophon at the end of the first Canto. It appears from a verse repeated at the end of each Canto that his original name was Hemanta, Amareśvara being his father's name. He seems to belong to North, or perhaps North-east, India.

The Bhāvaprakāśikā is a fairly clear and concise commentary. There is no clue to its date, but there are certain indications that the author was probably acquainted with Rāmadāsa's commentary. For example, the word vikkhamba in Setu 3.14, variously explained by the commentators, is taken by Rāmadāsa as a deśī word meaning vivara Latakana, who explains it as avakāśa, remarks deśī vivaramiti kvacit, which seems to be a reference to Rāmadāsa's explanation of the word.²

The Jaina work sometimes writes kadaga for kadaa Cf also chunna-sela used in Vivāgasūya 58, ed. Vaidya, and explained by Abhayadeva as a beetling crag (छिन्नो विभक्तः अवयवान्तरापेक्षया यः शैलः).

2 Rāmadāsa's remark विष्कम्भो विवरे देदयाम् is wrongly shown in the NSed as part of an anonymous citation found in the Viśvaprakāśa.

Similarly, in Setu 3.44 (first line), Rāmadāsa reads anāhia (anādhi), while others read anādhia (anādrta).¹ Here, Latakana has the majority reading anādrta,² but mentions also the reading anādhi, which seems to occur only in Rāmadāsa among our commentators.

The Setutattvacandrikā, compiled about the middle of the seventeenth century, has at least two citations which seem to be from Latakanamiśra's commentary. The expression chāā-vahana in Setu 3.6 is rendered by Kulanātha as chāyā-vahana, taking chāyā in the sense of lustre; and he also construes it as chāyāmapahantī (i. e., as chāyāpaghna), taking chāyā in the sense of shadow.³ SC which reproduces Kulanātha's gloss on the verse remarks that some here take chāyā in the sense of darkness.⁴ It is interesting to find that this interpretation is found in Latakana, who renders chāā-vahana as chāyāpaghna and explains it as timirāpahārin. Similarly, in explaining the double meaning of the word vihāna in Setu 3.31, it is usual to take it first as equivalent to vidhāna.⁵ SC on this verse remarks that some take vihāna as vibhāna meaning asadbhāna. It is noteworthy that the rendering vibhāna is found in Latakana, who explains it as pramāda, which means the same thing as asadbhāna. If we assume Latakanamiśra to be later than Rāmadāsa and earlier than SC, he may be placed about 1625 A.D.

Latakanamiśra seems to refer to Mudamalla's interpretation of Setu 2.1 where the ocean is described as the youth of Rāma's expedition. Mudamalla says that Rāma's enterprise has three stages (avasthā), the events from the arrival at the seashore to the crossing of the ocean being the middle stage, which is, as it were, the youthful period of the undertaking; and the ocean is therefore fancied as the youth of Rāma's enterprise.¹ This is not a cogent explanation, and differs from that of commentators like Kṛṣṇavipra and Kulanātha. Latakanamīśra records both the interpretations, but gives priority to that of Mudamalla, reproducing some of the expressions used by him.² If he was acquainted with the commentary of Mudamalla, the latter might be assumed to have written it before 1625 A.D.

Śrīnivāsa

In addition to Kulanātha, four other commentators are quoted by name in the Setutattvacandrikā. They are Śrīnivāsa, Lokanātha, Sāhasānka and Harṣapāla.

Śrīnivāsa appears to be referred to by Kulanātha, as stated above. A copy of his commentary called Setudarpana is known to have been made in 1440 A.D. by a scribe named Ratneśvara during the reign of Dhīrasimha of Mithilā.³ On the other hand, Śrīnivāsa, quoted in SC on Setu 14.2, quotes the *Viśvaṇṣa*⁴ in support of his explanation of sara as svara in the sense of breath or sighs. As the Viśvaṇṣa was composed in 1111 A.D., he may be placed between 1150 and 1440, the date of the ms. copied by Ratneśvara, or thereabouts.

- 1 Mādhavayajvan has a similar explanation, but it is not so explicit as that of Mudamalla. Mādhava says पुरुषस्येवोपजातस्य रावणवधपरिणतिं यावदवर्धमानकार्यशरीरस्यारम्भस्य मध्ये वर्तमानं समुद्रं यौवनाख्यमवस्थाविशेषमिव उक्तसाधर्म्ययोगात् अपश्यदित्यर्थः.
- 2 Laṭākana says कार्यारम्भस्य अवस्थात्रयमुपक्रमो मध्यः समाप्तिश्चेति । तत्र मध्यावस्था समुद्रतीरप्राप्तिः, मध्यावस्थात्वेन यौवनपदेनोपन्यासः. For Mudamalla's interpretation see Extracts 2.1.

Lokanātha

Next to Kulanātha, the largest number of passages quoted in the Setutattvacandrikā is from the commentary of Lokanātha. In the extract given in SC on Setu 7.15, Lokanātha quotes the Medinī, which has been assigned to a date between 1200 and 1275 A.D.¹

Lokanātha, like Kulanātha, might be a Bengali; but we are unable to say whether he is identical with Lokanātha-cakravartin, who wrote a commentary on the Bengal recension of the Rāmāyaṇa.² This commentary contains numerous quotations from the Bhūriprayoga lexicon of Padmanābhaddatta, who wrote his Prṣodarādivṛtti in 1375 A.D.³ Lokanātha-cakravartin could not, therefore, have written his commentary on the Rāmāyaṇa earlier than about 1400 A.D. If he is identical with Lokanātha, quoted in SC, the latter may be placed between 1400 and 1600 A. D.

Sāhasāṅka

There are only three quotations from Sāhasāṅka in SC. In the extract from his commentary given in SC on Setu 12.73 (SC 72), Sāhasāṅka quotes the Prākṛta Paingala 1.5⁴. The quotation in SC is not well-preserved, but Sāhasāṅka's meaning seems to be clear. He suggests that the reading pāūrantarie would be more appropriate than pāūrantaria in the verse in question; but as it violates the metre, he cites the Prākṛta Paṅgala to show that an ekāra may sometimes be treated as short.

2 Calcutta Sanskrit Series. We had access only to the Sundarakāṇḍa and the Yuddhakāṇḍa, 1941. Lokanātha refers to Rāmāyaṇa mss. belonging to Kāmarūpa or Lower Assam. He remarks in his gloss on Sundarakāṇḍa 32.45 . पद्यमिदं कामरूपीयपुस्तके वर्तते इति व्याख्यातम्.

It is well-known that the Prākṛta Paṅgala mentions Hammīra in some of the illustrative verses. Composed in late Apabhraṃśa to celebrate the military exploits of Hammīra, these verses seem to have been current after the fall of Raṇthambhor in 1301 A.D.¹; and the Prākṛta Paṅgala could not possibly have been written earlier than about the middle of the fourteenth century. In that case, Sāhasāṅka, who quotes it, and is quoted in SC, may be placed in the fifteenth or sixteenth century.

Harṣapāla

A few quotations from the commentary of Harṣapāla occur in SC, but there is hardly any clue to his date, except that he is earlier than the second quarter of the seventeenth century. If, however, Harṣapāla is identical with the commentator Śrīharsa quoted by Kulanātha (see above), he must be earlier than the sixteenth century.

IX

The commentaries and the recensions of the Setubandha.

The commentaries throw considerable light on the recensions of the Setubandha followed by them. So far we can speak of three different recensions of the poem, South Indian, North Indian and Bengal. A Western recension appears to have existed; but our knowledge of it is at present derived from sources other than commentaries. The South Indian recension is represented by two important commentators, Kṛṣṇavipra and Mādhava, and by Kṛṣṇadāsa, Devarāta and probably Mudamalla. In the fragment of Mudamalla's commentary that was available to us, he, as a rule, agrees with Kṛṣṇavipra in his readings, and follows the peculiar arrangement of Cantos 12–15 found in the Southern recension, as explained below.

Kulanātha is the chief representative of the Bengal recension, and many of his readings are found in the text accompanying the Setutattvacandrikā. The latter work, however, being a compilation from different commentaries, does not wholly conform to any particular recension of the poem.

The commentary of Rāmadāsa provides the only specimen of the Northern, or rather the North-western, recension that has come down to us in a complete form. The available portion of the commentary of Laṭakanamiśra and the extracts from Śrīnivāsa in SC show that they follow recensions of the poem, current in other parts of North India, that do not wholly agree with the recension followed by Rāmadāsa.

As pointed out by Goldschmidt long ago, a curious feature of the South Indian recension is that it has sixteen instead of fifteen Cantos, the extra canto being made up by dividing Canto 13 into two unequal halves. In other words, the first sixtyseven verses form Canto 13 proper, and the remainder Canto 14. The arrangement is completely gratuitous, and has led to a further complication. As the word aṇurāa occurs in the concluding verse of each Canto of the poem, the last verse of Canto 12 has been transferred to the newly formed Canto 13 to mark its termination; but as this strips Canto 12 of the usual concluding verse, the preceding verse, i.e., 12:97,

As will be seen from the Extracts, the order of verses in the Southern recension is in a few cases different from that of the other recensions. It may also be noted that the verse 3.61 appears in the Southern recension in Canto 8 after verse 23²; while the verse 10.3 occurs in Canto 12 after verse 29.

There are some cases of verses occurring in one recension and missing in another. A good example is provided by Goldschmidt's Anhang showing fourteen verses not explained by Rāmadāsa. Almost all of them (1-13) belong to the South Indian recension, being included in the commentaries of Kṛṣṇavipra and Mādhava and those of Kṛṣṇadāsa, Mudamalla and Devarāta as far as they are available to us. It is noteworthy that at least four of these verses occur also in the Bengal recension represented by Kulanātha; and they are, in fact, included in the text accompanying the Setutattvacandrikā.³ One of these verses forming part of Sugrīva's speech in Canto 3 is reproduced below.

The last verse in Goldschmidt's Anhang, cited in an imperfect form from his ms C, is variously read, and has not found general acceptance. It is not explained by the South Indian commentators, nor by Kulanātha and Rāmadāsa. It is, however, included in SC 15 66¹ with the remark that it is omitted by Sāhasānka and Kulanātha, leading one to suppose that it was probably explained by Lokanātha and Śrīnivāsa, the two other commentators quoted by name in SC. The verse is also cited in a mutilated form in Bhoja's Sarasvatīkaṇṭhābharaṇa 5.13² and Narendraprabha's *Alankāramahodadhī*³ as an example of rasābhāsa. But not a few commentators from different parts of India seem to have rejected it because of the unpleasant idea involving Sītā in the description.

A general record of the diverse readings followed in the commentaries will be found in the Extracts. We shall here confine ourselves to a few large groups of readings belonging to the different recensions of the poem. Of these the South Indian readings form a distinct group as against a corresponding group of readings consistently followed by Rāmadāsa and Kulanātha, representing the Northwestern region and Bengal respectively. For example,

While Rāmadāsa and Kulanātha agree in many of their readings as against the South Indians, there is a considerable number of readings in which they differ from each other; and in such cases Kulanātha usually follows the South Indian readings, leaving Rāmadāsa practically isolated. For example,

2 In 15.19 Rāmadāsa reads thāma like the South Indians

3 Goldschmidt (see his footnote on 9 85) rejects Rāmadāsa's reading °kkhambha-nialia on the ground that it is against the metre, but there is no metrical difficulty in the line as read in SC (9 84) which follows Kulanātha. Goldschmidt's reading °kkhambhallia is a conjecture based on stambhālīna found in Kṛṣṇa's chāyā. The South Indian reading as recorded by Mādhava is, however, °kkhambhālia which appears to be rendered by Kṛṣṇa as stambhālīna. See also Extracts 9 85

2 Kulanātha on 15.78 has stabaka like Rāmadāsa,

3 Rendered as pariyat. Cf. Extracts 6.57 where pariyata is a misprint for pariyat. See also Extracts 7.50. The verbal forms palei, palenti with la for ra occur in Uttarādhyayanāsūtra 14.34, 36, and are explained by Nemicandra as paryeti and pariyanti. Cf. HC4 161. pari bhamai. Setu 7.61 has pari rendered as paryeti. Vasudevahindī has sā vi nam savva pari, p. 136, also jīvo kasāyavasago jahā pari, p. 271.

4 The expression is misunderstood by Kulanātha, but correctly explained by Kṛṣṇa-vipra and Mādhava as referring to the Malaya mountain of Lankā, mentioned in the Rāmāyana 5.1.183, 5.66.27, 6.55.48 (crit. ed.). It is also mentioned in the Mahāvamsa 7.68, being the central mountain region in the interior of Ceylon (Geiger, Trans., p. 60). Cf. Lankāvatārasūtra, ed. Nanjio, chap. 1. lankāpurimalayaśikhare, lankāmalaya-parvatam etc.

In 14.48 Rāmadāsa reads parināmam, and the others parināmo which gives a much better meaning. See below (section X).

Perhaps the most striking in the above group of readings are those in Setu 12.26 where Rāmadāsa reads vāma, and the others nīaa. Rāmadāsa's reading would mean that the twitching of Rāma's left arm presaged his early reunion with Sītā, a notion contrary to the prevailing Indian belief that the twitching of a left limb brought luck only to a woman¹. Kulanātha and Kṛṣṇavipra, on the other hand, take nīaa as referring to the right arm² in conformity with similar references in our poem and elsewhere³. It is difficult to explain how such an inconsistent reading crept into the recension followed by Rāmadāsa; in any case it is the most dubious of the readings peculiar to him.

It may be noted that Rāmadāsa mentions the majority reading as a variant in a few cases. For instance, in Setu 10.22 he reads saṃvatta, but mentions the usual reading saviattha as a variant⁴. Samvatta (saṃvatta) is, however, an old reading (see below); and the word appears in Prakrit as early as Aśoka's Girnar Edicts IV and V.

As we have already stated, Rāmadāsa often refers to saṃpradāya in his commentary; and he seems to have followed a recension of the poem current in his part of the country.

4 See also Extracts 3.59, 10.49, 11.48.

The extracts from Śrīnivāsa in the Setutattvacandrikā and specially the available portion of the commentary of Latakanamiśra have enough material to show that there were probably several recensions in North India as a whole, which were akin to that of Rāmadāsa in some respects, but divergent in others. Some of the readings of Rāmadāsa found neither in Kulānātha nor in the South Indians occur, for instance, in Śrīnivāsa : samvatta 10.22; sānusaa 11.70; ohānta or ohijjanta ¹ 12.42; vihatta 12.79. Again, in 9.25 Rāmadāsa reads ovatta ², explained by him as avavarṣa, vṛṣṭi for oattha or ovattha (apa-or avavṛṣṭa) found in other commentators. Here, too, Rāmadāsa agrees with Śrīnivāsa who reads ovatta and explains it as a deśī word meaning meghajalaseka.³ Similarly, in 11.1 Rāmadāsa's reading cittavia is found also in Śrīnivāsa; it is an old reading noticed also by the South Indians⁴. The materials at our disposal are, however, too scanty to give an adequate idea of Śrīnivāsa's text. He is earlier than Rāmadāsa, and seems to follow an older recension with independent features. Even in the meagre fragments of his interpretations available to us, it is not difficult to detect readings that do not appear in our commentators; e.g., kaleūna (Lokanātha also) for tuleūna 5.20, paricala for parimala 9.68, and vajjanta for majjhammi or bhajjanta 14.81. In 15.4 he reads sahā like the others for mahā found in Rāmadāsa; and in 15.74 reads pakkhante for the latter's reading panthaddhe.

1 The reading is found in this form in the extract from Śrīnivāsa in SC.

2 See Goldschmidt's footnote, but the more familiar ovaṭṭha appears in both G and NS editions

3 SC text has ovatta, obviously following Śrīnivāsa. In SC the verse number is 24 DNI.152 has ovattha explained as meghajalaseka

4 See Extracts 11.1 DN 3.12 has cittathia (v r cittavia) in the sense of paritosita. The Sadbhāṣācandrikā of Lakṣmīdhara (p. 178) gives cittaviaa among irregular forms in the same sense.

We are better informed about Latakanamiśra's text. The recension followed by him is in certain respects somewhat closely related to that of Rāmadāsa. In the first place, there is a considerable number of readings in which he agrees with Rāmadāsa and Kulanātha as against the South Indians. In the second place, some of the readings of Rāmadāsa not found in the other commentators appear in his work. For example,

Latakana and Rāmadāsa	Others
1 50 pariṇāha	parimāṇa
2.12 nipphaṇṇa	nivvaḍḍha
3.8 'nialuṇṇamanta	nialoṇamanta
3.20 āhia	ādhia
3.33 dūraṇṇa	tūraṇṇa
5.62 ihavaa (also in 1.40)	theva
6 57 pavitta	parinta
11.62 bhajjanta	tajjanta
11.70 sāṇusaa	sāṇunaa

Similarly, in 2 16 Latakana reads anuniijjamāṇa-(maggam) like Rāmadāsa², while others have anuiijjamāṇa³.

Notwithstanding the affinities mentioned above, there are certain conspicuous differences between the texts followed by Rāmadāsa and Latakanamiśra. In a considerable number of readings the latter agrees not with Rāmadāsa, but with the South Indians or Kulanātha or both. For example, he has the South

1 Latakana (Text) has nialonamanta, but his reading is clear from the chāyā and the comm. वृतावमाननिगलेचमन्मुखाना अपसारितापमाननिगडेन शृङ्खलेन उन्नमन्मुखाना.

2 Rāmadāsa explains anuniijjamāṇa as anugamyamāṇa, apparently deriving it from ni (HC4 162). Latakana's explanation is ambiguous. He has anuniyamāṇa in the chāyā and anvīyamāṇa in the gloss, explained as anugamyamāṇa.

3 Explained as anvīyamāṇa. See Extracts 2.16 and SC Text. Cf. annijjamāṇa-magga, often found in AMg texts (Vivāgasuṭṭa 9, 130, ed. P. Vaidya, Nāyādharmma 16 113, 117, ed. N. Vaidya). Abhayadeva on Vivāga explains it as anvīyamāṇa, anugamyamāṇa.

Indian readings ohāma (for ohāsia) 2.23, se (for je) 4.36, viambhia (for vilambia) 5.75. Occasionally he agrees with Kulanātha, but in many other cases he has the readings followed by the South Indians and Kulanātha as against those of Rāmadāsa. For example,

Latakana, Kulanātha and South Indians	Rāmadāsa
1.47 saṃcāra	vikkheva
2.19 salila	uara
3.56 ṇivvutta	ṇivvūḍha
4.32 nivvūḍha-bharo	nivvalia-guṇo
4.39 mujjhijai	vimuhijai
5.64 vitthārā	pabbhārā
5.87 nūmia	govia
6.44 paḍisāi	paḍisamai
10.44 paalanti	paadanti
10.49 accha	abbha
11.27 bhaam	vaham
11.58 viadā	visaria
11.85 paḍiam	ṇihaam

Similarly, the verse garue vi samarakajje, which, as stated above, occurs in the South Indian and Bengal recensions, but not in Rāmadāsa, is found in Latakanamiśra's text after the verse 3.5 with slight variations.

A few examples of Latakanamiśra's readings not found in the other commentators may be given : viinna-vāhu-laiāim 3.50; *jattha aham paliuttho*¹=yatrāham pratyutthitaḥ explained as pratīkupitaḥ 4.50; saṃthavia for saccavia 5.25, uvvāsio for uddhāio 5.34; pūria for vihaḍia 5.33. māna explained as mlāna ksīna for vāa 5.57; pulaiam for palattam 11.79. Some of his readings appear to be doubtful. In 10.65 he reads nivalia for paḍihaa, and explains it as bhīta. In 11.38 (first half) his readings are different from those of others, but do not yield a probable meaning¹. In 10.57 he reads ahikam-khanti (abhikāmākṣanti) which is an easier reading for ahilamghanti in the same sense found in Kulanātha and the South Indians (cf. HC4.192). It is also noteworthy that in 11.80 the idiomatic Prakrit conditional formed with the present participle is replaced by the simpler form with jja, that is, he reads hoejja (hojja?) and vialejja for hontam and vialantam respectively.

1 i e padiuttho. Latakanamiśra invariably writes la for da, e.g., phula for phuḍa 4.40, pāla for pāḍa 4.42; ubbhala for ubbhaḍa 5.9 etc.

An adequate account of the Bengal recension of the Setu-bandha cannot possibly be given without examining the thirteenth century manuscript of the text preserved in the Asiatic Society of Bengal. There is, however, no doubt that Kulanātha follows a recension of the poem that must have been current in Bengal since before the sixteenth century. As we have seen, he sometimes agrees with Rāmadāsa, and sometimes with the South Indians; and has comparatively few independent readings not found in the other commentators. In Setu 1.64 he reads parivuttha for parihutta, but this reading is also found in Lokanātha. He reads ghaṭṭavia for niṭṭhavia in 9.1, dadhāhoam for dārāhoam in 12.79, and pakkha for cakkhu in 13.78. A few other examples need comment. In Setu 13.83 he reads zāttha-ditthi for āhutta-, āattha being āyasta, explained by Kulanātha as krodhadīpta. Derived from yasu prayatne, the word is somewhat vague and used with different shades of meaning in classical Sanskrit; while it has the meaning be heated in the Vedic language¹. There is, however, no doubt that it has also the meaning assigned to it by Kulanātha; for instance, in Rāmāyaṇa 6 46.40².

In Setu 15.38 Kulanātha reads taila (probably neha) for tuppa (ghee)³. The verse is not found in the South Indian recension. Rāmadāsa's reading is ghaa or ghia, as pointed out by Goldschmidt, who, however, reads tuppa found in his ms. C. The NS ed. also has the same reading probably from some other source. Tuppa is extant in old and new Kannaḍa, and is the usual word for ghee in that language. It was borrowed by Mahārāṣṭrī, and survives in Marathi tūp. Tuppa and its derivative tuppahā occur also in the *Gāthāsaptasatī*⁴; and its use in an early Mahārāṣṭrī work like the Setubandha in connection with the lighting of lamps is quite normal. The word seems to have been replaced by the more familiar ghaa or ghia in the recension of Rāmadāsa, but it is difficult to explain how a word for oil could be substituted for it in the recension of Kulanātha, specially as the use of ghee for lighting purposes was popular in Bengal as elsewhere in India⁵. It is, however, possible that the Bengal recension was here influenced by a verse of the Rāmāyaṇa, of which the Setu verse 15.38 is a close imitation. Describing Rāvaṇa's wrath and grief at the death of Indrajit, the Rāmāyaṇa says

दीप्ताभ्यामिव दीपाभ्या सार्चिपः स्नेहविन्दवः ॥ 6.80.18 crit. ed.

The Setubandha says in the same context

सोरुण इन्दइवहं मुअइ सरोस दसाणणो वाहजलं ।

अवमुत्तिअदीवाणं णिवडइ तुप्पं व तक्खणं सहुआस ॥ 15.38

It will be seen that the Rāmāyaṇa compares Rāvaṇa's tears to fiery drops of oil shed by lighted lamps; and Pravarasena says the same thing except that he speaks of 'fiery' or molten ghee dripping from such lamps. If tuppa was the original reading, it is probable that the unfamiliar Southern vocable was replaced in the Bengal recension by a word for oil as recorded in the Rāmāyaṇa.

In the last verse of the Setubandha (15.95) Kulanātha reads in the second line sakanna(saanna) for samattha which is the reading of Rāmadāsa. Kṛṣṇavipra reads satṛsna (saanha)¹. Mādhava has śrotravat. Probably he reads saanna like Kulanātha. Of these readings sakanna or saanna is the most interesting. It is an idiomatic expression meaning expert, *proficient*², and refers here to those who are capable of appreciating poetry.

No commentary on the Setubandha composed in Western India seems to have been discovered so far; but the considerable number of quotations from it in works like Bhoja's Sarasvatī-nṛhābharana and Śṅgāraprakāśa and Hemacandra's Prakrit grammar point to the existence of a Western recension of the poem. There are thirtyseven quotations from it in the Sarasvatīkaṇṭhābharaṇa, of which all except one are found in Rāmadāsa's text. About half of these verses does not contain any important variants. The remaining verses generally agree with Rāmadāsa and Kulanātha as against the South Indians. However, in Setu 1.1 Bhoja reads *avisāria*¹ like Kṛṣṇavipra for ava-sāria (R and Kula); in 11.58 *vialia-vioa-viaṇam*² like the South Indians and Kulanātha for visaria-vioa-dukkham (R); and in 1.56 *ṇimmaḥa*³ like the South Indians for nikkanta (R). In Setu 5.50 he reads *sāmalaiyyai*⁴ for kajjalaiyyai of the commentators; and in 11.75 *ṇāha jiantīa mae diṭṭham sahiam a tuha imam avasāṇam*⁵ for jam mahī-lā-vīhaccham diṭṭham sahiam ca tuha mae avasāṇam, which is the reading of the commentators with slight variations.

A few quotations from the poem occur also in the published portions of Bhoja's Śṅgāraprakāśa. In Setu 12.13, for instance, his reading *pattatṭha*⁶ is different from that of Rāmadāsa and the South Indians, but agrees with that of Kulanātha.⁷ In Setu 11.27 he reads bhaam and in 12.12 *pīa*⁸ like Kulanātha and the South Indians for vaham and pī respectively found in Rāmadāsa. Bhoja's readings are of considerable interest, as they give us an idea, however inadequate, of the text of the Setu-bandha as it existed in Western India.

Hemacandra's citations from the poem are confined to phrases and sentences; but the reading vane in the line quoted from Setu 14.43 in his grammar (2.206) needs comment. This reading has been adopted by Goldschmidt in his edition, but it is not found in any of our commentators.¹ Kulanātha, however, reads manye, that is, mane,² which occurs also in Gāthāsaptāṣaṭī 2.11, 54.³ It is interesting to find that Bhuvanapāla in his commentary on GS reads vane for mane in the corresponding verses.⁴ His explanation of vane as a form of address (sakhi or even sakhe) is, however, misleading, and even self-contradictory in one case Weber, therefore, suggests that vane is most simply taken as coming from mane.⁵ Bhuvanapāla, according to Weber, was probably a native of Gujarat, and lived in the first half of the fourteenth century. In that case he may have found vane for mane in the text of the Gāthāsaptāṣaṭī current in his part of the country. On similar grounds it may be surmised that the reading vane probably belonged to the recension of the Setubandha current in Western India, from which Hemacandra quoted the line in his grammar. It may be noted that the word appears to be rare, but occurs more than once in Uddyotana's Kuvalayamālā composed in 779 A.D. at Jābālipura (Jalor) in Rājasthān.⁶

2 Cf Setu 5 20, where the commentators take mane as manye. Rāmadāsa takes it also as manasi

3 NS ed, with comm of Gangādhara has manṇe in 2 54, but Weber reads mane. The form manne appears in GS 7 99 (NS, Weber 702) and in Setu 11.27, 49

5 Acc to Hemacandra, the indecl vane expresses saṃbhāvana, while mane conveys the sense of vimarśa (2 207) But he points out that mane is explained by others as manye.

The above account of the recensions of the Setubandha, based mainly on the commentaries, is necessarily tentative, as old and independent manuscripts of the text as far as they are available are expected to throw further light on the subject. We are fairly well-informed about the South Indian recension because of the commentaries of its distinguished representatives Kṛṣṇavipra and Mādhavayajvan. There is no doubt that the poem has undergone some amount of revision in the South, but the fact that the South Indian recension has a considerable number of readings in common with Kulanātha, and even with Latakanamiśra to a lesser extent, shows that it probably goes back to a text that was current in a large part of the country comprising South India and beyond.

Compared with the South Indian recension, our knowledge of the recensions current in different parts of North India is extremely limited. The commentary of Rāmadāsa seems to follow a text long in use in Rājasthān, and represents what we may call the Northwestern recension. The relation of this to other North Indian recensions cannot be fully determined, as no other complete commentary on the Setubandha, composed in North India, has so far been discovered. While Rāmadāsa's recension has much in common with the Bengal recension and another North Indian recension, partly known to us, there is a considerable number of readings peculiar to Rāmadāsa, which are not found in the other commentaries and fragments accessible to us.

None of the commentaries utilised for this work seem to have been written in Orissa¹, and very little is known about the text of the Setubandha current in that part of the country. It is, however, noteworthy that more than twenty citations from the poem have been traced in the Prākṛtasarvasva of Mārkaṇḍeya, who wrote his grammar during the reign of Mukundadeva, the last independent ruler of Orissa (1559-68)². Some of the readings found in these citations give an idea, however imperfect, of the recension prevalent in the region.

(i) The phrase baddha-pphalammi kusume cited in PS3.76 is from the Setu verse garue vi samara-kajje 3.6, cited above, which is not found in Rāmadāsa, but occurs in the South Indian and Bengal recensions.

(ii) The line kiṃ sīsau jam thavei' vaa-parināmo, cited under PS5.69, is from Setu 4.23. Here thaver belongs to the Rāmadāsa-Kulanātha group of readings. The South Indian reading is different (see above).

(iii) In the phrase ia pahasia-kusuma-sare, cited from Setu 1.34 under PS1.17, all our commentators read kumua for kusuma which, however, occurs in ms.C of Goldschmidt written in 1596 A.D.

(iv) In the sentence chiviosariehi pellavantam va mahim, cited under PS6.46 from Setu 2.8, the reading pellavantam (prerayantam) is found only in Mārkaṇḍeya. All our commentators read velavantam.

(v) The phrase aṇurāa-paḍhuma-iṃdham cited under PS 3.47 has been traced by the editor to Setu 1.24 (sohagga-paḍhama-iṇham). This seems to be doubtful. If, however, anurāa is the reading for sohagga, it must be regarded as an aberration not found in any of the recensions of the poem known to us, because the word sohagga as used in the verse conveys two meanings beauty and love, a function which anurāa cannot fulfil.¹

The materials available in the above citations are too scanty for determining the relation of Mārkaṇḍeya's text of the Setubandha to the other recensions, but there is no doubt that it had certain independent features of its own.

Linguistic features of the Setubandha.²

In a wellknown verse of the Kāvyaadarśa Daṇḍin tells us that the language of Mahārāṣṭra, i. e. Mahārāṣṭrī, is called the best of Prākṛtas in which works like the Setubandha are written.³ Bhoja in his Śṛṅgāraprakāśa, chap. 3,⁴ speaks of six varieties of Prākṛit⁵ : Saṃskṛta-sama, Deśya, Mahārāṣṭra, Śaura sena, Paisāca, and Māgadha. Of these he illustrates the Mahārāstra Prākṛit by quoting the first verse of the Setubandha. Rāmadāsa refers to Mahārāstra-bhāṣā more than once while explaining points of grammar in his commentary on the poem (6.19, 59; 8.36).

Mārkaṇḍeya quotes the Setubandha frequently to illustrate grammatical rules in the Mahārāstrī section of his Prākṛta-sarvasva. Hemacandra does the same in his Prakrit grammar, but he calls the language treated therein by the generic name Prākṛta instead of Mahārāstrī. He deals with six varieties of Prākṛit in his work : Prākṛta proper (i. e. Mahārāstrī), Śaurasenī, Māgadhi, Paisāci, Cūlikā-Paisāci and Apabhraṃśa¹. He quotes from the Setubandha as well as the Gaudavaho to illustrate the rules of what he calls Prākṛta. Some of his remarks are interesting. He says, for instance, that the form dāṇim is used in Śaurasenī, but found also in Prākṛta (i. e. Mahārāstrī) contrary to the usual rule (4 277). The form in fact appears as ādṇi (idāṇim) in Setu 11.121. Similarly, he observes that dialectal words like ahittha current in countries like Mahārāstra and Vidarbha should be learnt from popular usage (lokatah), i. e., from the colloquial speech of the people of those countries (HC2.174). It may be noted that ahittha is used in Setu 13.75, 83, and there is a number of such words in the poem usually known as deśī.

In his Kāvyaṇuśāsana also Hemacandra means Mahārāstrī when he speaks of Prākṛta. He says, for instance, that a Ka-thā is composed in all languages, in Sanskrit, Prākṛta, Māgadhi, Śaurasenī, Paisāci and Apabhraṃśa. Similarly, he refers to poems like the Setubandha composed in Prākṛta-bhāṣā in Cantos called Āśvāsa¹.

Mahārāṣṭrī as the name of a Prakrit dialect seems to have become popular at a date later than Hemacandra. As we have seen, Daṇḍin and Bhoja describe the Prākṛta of Mahārāṣṭra as the language of the Setubandha. Very often, however, Prākṛta means the Prākṛta of Mahārāṣṭra, i.e. Mahārāṣṭrī, even without any reference to its geographical extent, because it was regarded as the Prākṛta par excellence. Earlier than Hemacandra, Rudraṭa and Bhoja, for instance, refer to a six-fold division of languages comprising Sanskrit, Prākṛta, Māgadhī, Śaurasenī, Paisācī and Apabhramśa, where Prākṛta obviously stands for the Prākṛta of Mahārāṣṭra, i.e., Mahārāṣṭrī². This is made clear by Rudrata's illustrations of the literary device known as Bhāṣāśleṣa, which consists in employing in a verse more than one language, e.g., Sanskrit and Prākṛta, or Sanskrit and Śaurasenī, simultaneously in the same sense, or with different meanings³. Bhoja likewise illustrates what he calls pure Prākṛta (Prākṛtajātiḥ śuddhā) with a verse from Kālidāsa's Śakuntalā, Act 3: tujjha na āṇe hiaam, which Mārkaṇḍeya 9.86 specifically mentions as composed in Mahārāṣṭrī because of the form tujjha. The Sāhityamīmāṃsā of Ruyyaka reproduces the above statement of Bhoja about pure Prākṛta along with the example, but calls the language Mahārāṣṭra-Prākṛta⁴, probably for the sake of clarity. A reference to the Prākṛta of Mahārāṣṭra occurs also in Jayamaṅgala's commentary on Canto 13 of the Bhaṭṭikāvya composed in tatsama Prākṛta.¹ Such references are, however, rare, and it is usual to employ the term Prākṛta for Mahārāṣṭrī without any territorial association.²

Prākṛit writers sometimes refer to Mahārāṣṭrī as the native or regional language of Mahārāṣṭra (marahatṭha-desi-bhāsā), or simply as the language of Mahārāṣṭra (marahatṭha-yabhāsā). The author of the Līlāvaī (circa 800 A.D.) says that the poem is composed in marahatṭha-desi-bhāsā (v. 1330), which turns out to be post-classical Mahārāṣṭrī influenced by Apabhraṃśa and the spoken language of Mahārāṣṭra³. The generic term prākṛta also occurs in an earlier verse which says that the story is being narrated in the Prākṛta language using very few deśī words⁴. Uddyotana says the same thing in a different way in a verse of his Kuvalayamālā (779 A.D.), which tells us that the romance is 'composed in the Prākṛta language, and furnished with descriptions of the type current in Mahārāṣṭra'⁵. The language employed in the work may be described as post-classical Mahārāṣṭrī with Apabhraṃśa and Jaina features. It is written in a fluent style, and occasionally borrows a phrase from the *Setubandha*⁶. Another reference to

'the language of Mahārāṣṭra' (marahatthayabhāsā) is found in a verse praising it in the course of a natural description in the Dharmopadeśamālā-vivarāṇa of Jayasimhasūri, composed in 858 A. D. in Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī.¹ The expression marahatthaya-bhāsā appears in its Sanskrit form in Bhoja's Śṅgārāprakāśa, which tells us that certain small romances (kṣudrakathā), like the lost Gōrocanā and Anangavatī, belonging to a type known as Manthullī, are composed in Mahārāṣṭra-bhāṣā or 'the language of Mahārāṣṭra'.² This appellation seems to be earlier than the name Mahārāṣṭrī popularised by writers like Viśvanātha³ and Māikandeya (fourteenth-sixteenth centuries).

Vararuci's Prākṛtaprakāśa does not refer to Mahārāṣṭrī except in the last chapter which is considered an interpolation. But the Subodhinī commentary, which, like the Samjivani, omits the last three chapters dealing with Paisāci, Māgadhī and Śaurasenī, starts with the remark that the language described in the work is Mahārāṣṭrī. A citation from the Setubandha occurs in Bhāmaha's commentary on Vararuci 1.14, where one of the examples pīo tti is taken from Setu 15.9.

It may generally be said that the language of the Setubandha is in conformity with the Prākṛta described by Vararuci and Hemacandra except that in one respect, the change of t to d, Pravarasena tends to agree with Vararuci rather than Hemacandra as shown below. As an elaborate specimen of early Mahārāṣṭrī, the Setubandha shows few deviations from the established norm; and we shall here confine ourselves to a few characteristic features and certain peculiar forms found in the text of Rāmadāsa, representing the best known recension of the poem. Goldschmidt's Index gives a comprehensive picture of the lexical material and grammatical forms found in the work.

The change of medial t to d occurs in a few words and terminations in the Setubandha. This is normal in Śaurasenī, and its occurrence in a Mahārāṣṭrī text has attracted the notice of scholars. The forms are udu 1.18, 3.29, 6.11, 9.85; maḷadā 3.31; uvanṇadā 8.87; dā = tā (tāvat) 3.10, 27; dāva 3.26, 29, 56; 4.32; de 4.31, 33; 11.83, 92, 126; rāmādo 8 87. These are readings found in Rāmadāsa's recension. The South Indian recension seems to have read sarada for saraa (śarad) 1.16, as can be seen from Kṛṣṇavipra's comm. on the verse¹. Further, the South Indians have dayāluta for rasantara in 5.24, and their reading seems to have been daāidā (daāludā)². SC text reads raada for raaa 9.42. But it has maḷlaā for maḷladā 3.31,³ while Latakanamiśra reads maḷliā. The reading maḷladā appears, however, in the verse as quoted in SK⁴. Another Setubandha verse 1.56 quoted in SK⁵ has pahasida for pahasia. Latakanamiśra reads uvanīdā for uvanīā in 4.63, and soḷḷjadu in 3.47. While there are divergences in the readings of the commentators, it may be stated on the whole that the change of medial t to d in certain words and forms is a feature of the language of the Setubandha. On the other hand, examples of retention of d are rare in our text; it has nadī 6.65; udanta 4.55 of which there is a variant. uanta in the ms. C of Goldschmidt.

2 See Extracts 5.24

3 SC Text is not always consistent. It has vivanṇaā for °dā, but rāmādo in 8.87 (SC 88). Here as elsewhere the number of verses often varies in SC.

4 Chap. 4, quotation no 50 NSed 1925.

5 Chap. 2, quotation no. 191

From a grammatical point of view there is nothing very abnormal in Pravarasena's use of forms with d for t. It is true that Hemacandra regards the change of medial t to d as an exclusive feature of Śaurasenī, and objects to its use in Prākṛta, i.e., Mahārāṣṭrī.¹ His criticism is directed at Vararuci who allows this change in words like rtu, rajata, śarad etc., and recognises forms like those used by Pravarasena: mailadā, rāmādo, de etc.² Vararuci evidently draws his materials from an earlier phase of Mahārāṣṭrī, while Hemacandra's objections are based on a later phase when the process of vocalisation of the consonants had become complete. He seems to have drawn his conclusion from works like the Gaudavaho and the Līlāvai where the change of t to d is conspicuous by its absence³. Accordingly he reads uu for udu in the Setu verse 6.11 quoted in his *Kāvyaṇuśāsana*⁴.

It may be noted that examples of d for t, some of them admitted by Vararuci⁵, are found also in the Gāthāsaptasatī, especially in the NS ed. with the comm. of Gangādhara: de 1.15; 6.53; 7.7, 53; āada 4.1; ṇiggadā 6.5; dāva 1.90; 2.68; ṇivvudī 1.85; 3.29, 42; devadā 2.94; ṇecchadī 3.5; visada 4.43 etc. Weber adopts some of these forms: de, dāva, ṇivvudī 5.21; while he reads parido not found in the NS ed. (5.54). In some cases Weber gives the forms with d as variants. It may be added that similar forms are also found occasionally in certain Mahārāṣṭrī verses in Kālidāsa's dramas.¹

The occurrence of forms like those mentioned above in the Setubandha and the Gāthāsaptasatī points to the fact that non-initial t occasionally becomes d in early Mahārāṣṭrī in certain words and terminations². On the other hand, the change of t to d does not appear to have been a rigid characteristic of Śaurasenī in its early phase. The Dhruvā songs in the Nāṭyaśāstra, which are composed in Śaurasenī³, have not a few examples in which medial t does not change to d, but is vocalised as in Mahārāṣṭrī. It seems therefore that the vocalisation of consonants and the change of medial t to d have grown up as distinctive features of Mahārāṣṭrī and Śaurasenī respectively in the gradual process of development of each language.

A peculiar form dūsaha (for tūsaha = tuṣyata) occurs in Setu 15.61. Mādhava reads tūsaha, but SC text has dūsaha like Rāmadāsa.⁴ The change of initial t to d in a word not forming part of a compound is extremely rare. Reference may be made in this connection to dose for tose (toṣaḥ) in the Kalsi version of Aśoka's sixth Rock Edict. The d, however, does not appear in any other version of the Edict. The expression disai in a verse quoted in the Prākṛtapāṅgalam 2.193 is explained as tvīṣaḥ

1 udu-mangalaam Śakuntalā, ed. Cappeller, v. 124, ṇandana-vana-vādā Vikramorvaśīyam 2.13, ed. Pandit.

2 A few examples of this are also found in the early Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī text Vasudevahindī. It has usually saṭaya and uu, but also sarada and udu occasionally (pp. 129, 130, 234, 238, 140). A few other d-forms are diyādi p. 210, namīda p. 230, saṃvarīda p. 226 (also saṃvarīya), vaddhāvīda p. 152, also padī in nāma-metta-padinā p. 70. But as is usual in Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī, Vasu often retains d : madana, sādara, nadī etc.

Nāṭyaśāstra 32.440, ed. Ghosh (BI)=GOSed. 32.383.

The printed text of SC has tūsaha, but the editor's footnote shows that the ms. has dūsaha.

api in one of the commentaries.¹ Dala for tala appears in compounds like gaanadala in Śaurasenī²; and one such example is noticed even in a Mahārāṣṭrī text like the Gaudavaho (v. 815)³.

The treatment of kṣ in Setu is in conformity with the practice generally followed in Mahārāṣṭrī works. Acc. to the grammarians, kṣ becomes kh except in a limited number of words in which it changes to ch. Mahārāṣṭrī writers do not, however, follow a hard and fast rule in the use of kh and ch for kṣ.⁴ Pravarasena, for instance, writes peccha in all the derivative forms, but writes also aṇavekkhia (anapekṣita) 10 80 and paḍikkhanti (pratīkṣante) 13 19. Gauda likewise has peccha throughout, but uses kh in the expression *vīyāvekkhī*⁵ (v. 80). GS has pecchanta 4.73, pecchaa 5.98; but also uvekkhia 5.20, uppekkhāmi 5.45. Gauda has both chīra and khīroa (810, 1039). It has vikkhitta, ukkhitta etc. with *kh*⁶; in such cases Setu has both ch and kh: ukkhippanta 6.35 and ucchippanta 14.57; ukkhitta and ucchitta. Both the forms occur in *Līlā*⁷. Ukkhitta is used much more frequently in Setu; but, as pointed out by Goldschmidt in the Index, ucchitta often appears as a variant. Mārkaṇḍeya in fact allows both ukkhitta and ucchitta in Mahārāṣṭrī (3.42).

Reference may be made in this connection to the word rukkha found in Setu 7.36; 10.51. The kṣ of vṛkṣa appears in Prākṛita as ch in vaccha and as kh in rukkha. Acc. to Mārkaṇḍeya 9.17, rukkha alone is used in Śaurasenī, not vaccha. But as he gives rukkha and vaccha as alternative forms for vrkṣa in the Mahārāṣṭrī section of his grammar (3.42), the obvious implication is that both the forms are allowed in Mahārāṣṭrī¹. Accordingly we find rukkha used in outstanding Mahārāṣṭrī texts like the Setubandha and the *Līlāvaṭī*². It seems therefore that while kh for ks is normal in Śaurasenī, Mahārāṣṭrī writers show a tendency to use ch as well as kh as a substitute for ks. So it is futile to claim that the Setubandha is composed in Śaurasenī, because it happens to record forms with kh more frequently than those with *ch*³. It may also be noted that ks often becomes kh in Old Marāṭhī, e.g., pākhālī (praksālita), pākhīru, khunāvane (ksuṇatti), sārikhā (sadrkṣa) etc⁴.

A reference may be made to the suffix-alla in words like *mūallia*⁵ and *galatthallia*⁶ found in Setu 5.41, 43; 8.61⁷. This suffix added in various forms to adjectives and especially past participles may be said to be a characteristic feature of the Mahārāṣṭrī language. Numerous examples of such expanded past participles are found in Mahārāṣṭrī prose in works like the Vasudevahindī and the Kuvalayamālā, especially the latter. The Vasudevahindī has, for instance, forms like āṇiellia (p. 57, l 21),

1 The word rukkha is also used by Mārkaṇḍeya to illustrate the declension of nouns in Mahārāṣṭrī (chap. 5).

2 vv. 449, 677.

3 The point is dealt with in Introd. to Prākṛtasarvasva, ed. Acharya, p. 82.

4 OMR, pp. 28, 43; GOM, p. 154.

5 This is the reading of most of the commentators other than Rāmadāsa who reads mūallaia-(muhālā) SC Text reads mūallia-(pamuhālā), and Laṭakanamīra mūallia-(muhālā)=mūkāyita-(mukharitāh) cf Extracts 5 41 Gaṇḍa 1206 has mūyallia.

6 An expanded form of galatthia (galahastita) which also occurs in Setu 11.128 and 12 11.

7 Another formation of this kind pāsallia (पार्श्वयित) occurs in Setu 9.77. Gaṇḍa 266 has pāsallia (पार्श्वीकृत).

haellīya (p. 56, l. 11) and diṇṇellāya (p. 30, l. 25)¹. The latter form is of particular interest, because the Kuvalayamālā represents the Marahatthas as using the expressions dinnalle and gahiyalle (given and taken) in their conversation at the market place of a big city, in a description in which the author gives specimens of the dialects spoken by the merchants from different parts of India². Uddyotana's statement is corroborated by the fact that the form dinnalle said to be current among the Marahatthas appears in Old Marāṭhī as dīnhalā, dīnhalē etc. in the same sense³. It is probable that dinnalle is a colloquial form of diṇṇellāya used in the Vasudevahindī; and the past participles in alla (often extended), which appear in literary Mahārāṣṭrī, are probably based on the spoken language of Mahārāṣṭra.

The 2nd. pers. pl. of the Present indicative of the root as (ttha) found in Setu 3.3 was considered a very rare form by Pischel (498); but as pointed out by Alsdorf, it occurs more than forty times in the *Vasudevahindī*⁴. The frequent use of this form which later became obsolete in Prakrit has been considered one of the signs of the antiquity of the Jaina romance⁵; and its occurrence in our poem seems to indicate that the form was still current when the Setubandha was written.

The absolutive in ūna, a prevailing characteristic of Mahārāṣṭrī, is uniformly used in Setu except in some doubtful cases.

It is noteworthy that it is also found in Old Marāṭhī where the suffix is ūnī, ūna etc.¹ Setu has a few examples in ia, which is the recognised absolutive suffix in Śaurasenī, but they are not taken as absolutives by all the commentators. Viśajjia 6.77 is visrjya acc. to Kṛṣṇa, but visrṣta acc. to Rāmadāsa. Ahila 2.16 is usually taken as an absolutive, but there is a variant reading ahilīna. Anuhūa 4.24 is taken only by the South Indians as anubhūya, but this is unacceptable. In Setu 11.133 sambharia is taken by several commentators as saṁsmṛtya, but Mādhava disagrees and takes it as a past participle.² In 11.92 the same word is construed by Kṛṣṇa as saṁsmṛta, while Rāmadāsa takes it as an absolutive. It may be said on the whole that Setu, like Gauda, avoids the absolutive in ia. Līlā (v. 1328) has vandīya (vanditvā), but such forms are rare in that work. Absolutives in ia are found in some of the Mahārāṣṭrī verses quoted by Svayambhū.³ Even GS 2.37 has sammīlia (saṁmīlya). Nevertheless ūna is the recognised absolutive suffix in Mahārāṣṭrī. Some of the forms in Setu are dāūna 12.28, uppaiūna 8.37, ṇāūna 11.21, ukkariseūna 15.75, uaūheūna 11.92, āsāeūna 11.132, ahīleūna 14.39, voḍhūna 9.75, ṇīameūna 4.55, jeūna 3.27 etc.

Some of the gerundives used in Setu are saṁāsasiavva 11.95, rottavva 11.92, māavva 9.3, uaivva=upajīvyā 1.31, muneavva 4 24, soavva 2 10, bhareavva 9.3, lāiavva 15.75, ovatteavva 10 50, okkhaṇḍeavva 10 29, gejjha 10 43 etc.

Gerundives are sometimes used as nouns : visammīavva 9.2 (विश्रमितव्य=विश्राम),—hareavva 9.3 (धर्तव्य=धारण), bhareavva 9.3 (भर्तव्य=पूरण), māavva 9.3 (मातव्य=मान), rumbhiavva 9 3 (रोद्धव्य=रोधन), uppaiavva 6.78 (उत्पतितव्य=उत्पतन), mariavva 11.117 (मर्तव्य=मरण), saṁcariavva 14 28 (संचरण). Similar examples are found in GS :

Gerundives in añija are vimhaañija 4.39, lajjañija 11.29, vaañija 4.13, tavañija 15.13 etc. But saañia occurs in 12.25. The forms in añia properly belong to Śaurasenī, but sometimes occur in Mahārāṣṭrī texts. Gauda has both ramañija and ramañiya (602) Lilā has ramañiya, sayañiya, asoyañiya (311) with ñija as a variant. GS 4.63 has dūsahañia

Apart from special forms, the passive is invariably formed with ija: e.g., lakkhijjai 6.95, cintijjai 3.26, samkho-hijjai 6.69, cakkalaijjanta 13 74, āamijjanta 10.7, sūijjai 11.59, pahāmijjanta² 7.69, khavijjai 3.25, munijjai 6.58, laijjai³ 4.35, raijjanta⁴ 8.87, ñimmāvijjai⁵ 8.79, ñivvavijjai⁶ 11.76, vūijjanta⁷ 6.37, dohāijjai⁸ 5.35 etc.

The passive in ia, usual in Śaurasenī, seems to be absent in both Setu and Gauda; while Lilā (800) has an isolated form parinīyasi. It may also be noted that the suffix ija with which the Passive is formed in Old Marāṭhī⁹ is considered the successor of Pkt. *ijja*¹⁰.

Some of the special forms of the passive are vidhappanti 1.10, gheppai 1.30 (OM ghepe), dīśai (OM *dīse*¹¹), ñihammai 11.123, tīrai 3.18, ukkhammanti 6.33, libbhanta 9.41, kīrai 3.12, hīrai 6.11, sīśai¹² 10.77 (majority reading for sāsai),

There is a number of examples which are active in form, but passive in sense, e.g., bharai⁸ 7.60;8.62, bharanta⁹ 1.58, ārambhanta¹⁰ 8.82, uvvellai¹¹ 6.41, pūrai¹² 8.54, osumbhanta¹³ 4.54 from osumbhai¹⁴ 14.71, ñisumbhanta¹⁵ 5.69 from ñisumbhai 15.57, rumbhai¹⁶ 8.62; 11.112, ñivvaṇṇanta¹⁷ 1.45, ohuppanta¹⁸ 3.18 as against pahuppai¹⁹ 7.63;11.31, pahuppanta²⁰ 7.27; 10.56 etc.

A number of passives appear to be used in active sense. Nisudhijjanta 3.58 is taken by Rāmadāsa as nipātyamāna, but Kṛṣṇa explains it as bharāvanamat, deriving it from nisudhai recorded by HC 4.158 in the sense of bhārākrānto namati. Muhijjantī 11.100 is taken by the commentators as muhyantī. In 5.50 kajjalaijjai is taken by most of the commentators as active (kajjalayati). Kṛṣṇa takes it as passive (kajjalīkriyate), but his construction is somewhat artificial. In 5.8 dharijjai is taken by Rāmadāsa as active (dhriyate jivati)²¹, which gives a better meaning than dhāryate found in other commentators. Similar instances of passives used in active sense are found elsewhere. In GS 7.77²² pucchijjantī stands for pricchantī, and in 7.76 pijjai for pibati, as Another example of a passive used in active sense occurs in Setu 15.86: जो चिचअ जेऊण जमं दिहो... तुमे जमलोओ । दीसिहिसि कह पु... इण्हिं तं चेअ सेस-जण-सामण्णं ॥ Here dīsihisi (drakṣyase) is used for drakṣyasi. The forms dīsahasī and dīsīhasī occur in Līlā 695, 708 where they are used in the regular sense. Setu 3.33 has likewise dīsīhai (drakṣyate). Cf. GS 7.17. It is therefore surprising to find dīsīhisi used in the same work in active sense; and the variant dacchīhisi shows that this irregular form is not found in all the recensions. It may, however, be pointed out that dīsai (dṛśyate) is sometimes used in active sense in Apabhraṃśa, and more than one instance of this occurs in Svayambhū's *Paumacari*². The occurrence of dīsīhisi in active sense in Setu 15.86 might be due to the influence of Apabhraṃśa of which there are other indications in the text followed by Rāmadāsa.

Some of the infinitives used in Setu are ghettuṃ 10.40, ahileuṃ 4.53, loheuṃ 11.27, langheuṃ 12.80, ṇiatteuṃ 3.24, ṇivvodḍhuṃ 1.9³, kāuṃ 4.36, appāheuṃ 11.31 etc. Some infinitives are formed by adding the suffix to passive verbs; e. g., आढत्ता दीसिउं णिसिअरच्छाआ 4.51; दीसिउं पउत्तं .. सेउबन्धस्स मुहं 8.30, वेप्पिउ पउत्ता... परिस्समेण पवंगा 7.71. आहम्मिउं पअत्तं.... दसाणणत्तूरं 12.45. These infinitives of passive verbs are usually followed by the past participle of a verb meaning 'to begin' to mark the commencement of the action denoted by the infinitive.⁴

1 HC's mention of pijjaī (4.10) as an active verb appears to be based on current usage.

There are two examples in Setu of infinitives used in certain idiomatic statements in which neuter adjectives like dukkham and dukkaram in the sense of hard, difficult qualify nouns of a different gender: ñivvoḍḍhum hoi dukkaram kavva-kahā 1.9; dukkham kālassa jāṇium pariṇāmo 14.48.¹ This use of neuter adjectives that retain their form irrespective of the gender of the nouns they qualify represents a Prakrit idiom found also in other early texts². For example, रमणीओ अयं पएसो दुक्ख परिचइउं Vasu p. 136, l. 13; जहा भुयाहिं तरिउं दुक्करं रयणायरो Uttarādhyayanāsūtra 19.42. Examples like एण्हि एत्थम्ह गामे सुलहवसहो दुक्करं पंथिआणं³ without the infinitive seem to be rare.

Most of the imperatives (2nd. pers. sing.) end in su : utthesu 11.124, muasu 11.124, sāhasu 11.76, pusasu 11.92 etc. Plural forms are avamāṇṇaha 4.24, parumbāha 3.4 etc. Other forms (2nd. pers. sing.) are pusa 11.124; pattihi (pratīhi) 11.94, also pattia 11.123. Cf. pattiai (pratyeti) 13.44, pattiasi 11.90. The form pattia is used in GS 3.16,45; 4.76 etc., and many times in Svayambhū's Paumacariu 35.8; 36.13 etc.

Besides dīshai and dīshisi mentioned above, examples of the Future are hohi 11.26 etc, ehi 10.79, kāhii 4.41, galihii 5.4, aṇumarihii 14.55, vasihii 4.50, uggāhii 11.84, ñiattihii (nivartayisyati) 11.84, samappihii (samāpsyate) 5.4. Cf samappai (samāpyate) 5.10, 9.83, 15.95.

Other examples of the Future are dacchāmi, dacchimi (drakṣyāmi) 11.77, 85; and dacchāma (pl.) 3.50. Decchiha

1 We have adopted both here and in the Trans the reading pariṇāmo of the Southern and Bengal recensions Rāmadāsa's reading pariṇāmam gives a different meaning See Extracts 14.48

2 Such use in Sanskrit is explained in Vāmana-kāvyaālamkārasūtravṛtti 5.2.23. Poona, 1927.

3 Quoted in Svayambhūcchandas, ed Velankar, verse 54, p. 23 Cf. जह परिययम्मि लोओ तह भुज्जन्तो वि दुक्कर को वि Gauḍa 957.

(drakṣyatha) 3.23 is a rare form. The initial e appears to be due to the influence of peccha, just as the Asokan form dekhati is supposed to have evolved through contact with pekkh (prekṣ)¹.

Three other examples dacchihi (drakṣyasi) 11.93; dacchihi (drakṣyati) 14 55, and mocchihi (mokṣyati) 3.30, 4 49, 11.126 need comment.

(a) dacchihi (drakṣyasi) for dacchihisi or dacchisi :

The Future 2nd. pers. sing. ends in esahi in Apabhramśa, sometimes without the *e*²; e. g., hosahi, lahesahi, pāvesahi, jāisihi or jāesahi etc³. In the Present Indicative also the 2nd. pers. sing. ends in si or hi in Apabhramśa, e. g., karasi, karahi. In dacchihi the hi might be due to Apabhramśa influence. In that case dacchihi stands for *dacchisi*⁴.

(b) dacchihi (drakṣyati) for dacchihii :

The Future ending hii in 3rd. pers. sing. is often contracted to hi in Apabhramśa, giving rise to forms like hohī, kāhī, 4 Dacchihi seems also to stand for dacchisi or dacchihisi in Vasu p 135 'चारुसामि एरिसं मे न दिट्ठपुव्वं, जइ तथ दट्ठुकामा ईहमागया दच्छिहि त्ति Here the person addressed (i.e., the merchant Cārudatta) is put in the plural, but the principal verb dacchihi is in singular. It may be noted that the verb does not always agree with the subject in number in this archaic text, e.g., अम्हे दुवे जणीओ तुमं वट्ठावेहामि त्ति p. 144, 1 29, अहं पुण एवं ब्राह्माणं अणुवत्तामहे गुहंति चिन्तमाणो p 206, 1 18; उट्ठिओ मि कत्थ मण्णे वत्तामहे त्ति चिन्तयन्तो p 144, 1 7 Here, in the first sentence the subject is in pl. and the verb in sing., and in the next two the subject is in sing., but the verb in pl. Similarly, in हरे पाणा अवसरह सिग्धं, मा हत्थिणा चमडिज्जिहि त्ति p. 98, 1 27 चमडिज्जिहि seems to stand for चमडिज्जिहिसि, although the subject is in plural. The variant अवमडिज्जिहिह provides a grammatically correct reading.

gamihi etc. Such forms are also frequently found in Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī, and sometimes in later Mahārāṣṭrī texts like the Lālāvaī.¹ This hi appears also in a short form hi in Apabhramśa, e.g., hohi,² jāhi,³ jāhi etc.⁴ The hi form occurs also in Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī. The fact that Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī is closer to the spoken language explains the presence of a considerable number of such forms in texts like the Kuvalayamālā and the Vasudevahindī where it is often followed by iti usual after verbs⁵.

Forms like those mentioned above are rare in classical Mahārāṣṭrī. GS has, however, pavasiihi (pravatsyati) 1.46 and hoihi (bhaviṣyati) 2.87⁶; and Gāuda 997 has saṁthavehi (saṁsthāpayiṣyati). It may be noted that, unlike HC 3.172, Trivikrama allows alternative forms like mocchihi, mocchihi; socchihi, socchihi; rocchihi, rocchihi etc.⁷, but the occurrence of such forms in classical Mahārāṣṭrī texts seems to be due to the infiltration of Apabhramśa traits.

It is necessary to point out that some of the irregular forms mentioned above have variants, and it is not always possible to determine the readings of all the commentators in the absence of the texts followed by them. Some of them occasionally record the regular forms, e.g. dacchihisi for dacchihi.¹ Mādhava agrees with Rāmadāsa in reading dacchihi (dra-kṣyati) in 14.55, but not elsewhere. In 4.49 Laṭakanamiśra reads mocchihi (mokṣyati) like Rāmadāsa, but in 3.30 he has mocchii in the same sense (cf. HC 3.172). The forms in hi are thus consistently found only in Rāmadāsa; and it is therefore probable that the recension of the Setubandha followed by him has been affected to some extent by the influence of Apabhramśa.

Examples of the Optative are nejjāmi 3.55; dharejja 5.4; jīvejja 5.5; paavejja 4.28; virahajja (virahayet tyājayet) 5.4; ṇamejja 8.14.

There are several examples of the Conditional formed with present participles².

कुट्टन्तं जइ होन्तं...रामसिरं 11.94; जइ संभावेसि तह इमं जइ होन्तं 11.121; होन्तं जइ रामसिरं एआवत्थं पि तो समूससमाणं 11.132. See also 11.80.

Similar examples are found in GS 1.26; 3.16. The use of the present participle for the Conditional is also found in *Apabhramśa*³, and may have derived from the spoken language. Many examples of this in prose are found in the Vasudevahindī.⁴

Reference may be made to a few words which occur in our text, at least in Rāmadāsa's recension, in a form unusual in classical Mahārāstrī, but current in Apabhramśa.

In Setu 5. 40, 42 Rāmadāsa reads uvahi for u a hi (udadhi). The va-śruti of which uvahi is an example is a prominent feature of Apabhramśa¹. The form uvahi, for instance, is used throughout the sea romance Bhavisattakahā of Dhanapāla. It is also occasionally found in Jaina Mahārāstrī², and used several times in the *Līlavatī*³, the language of which has undergone considerable Apabhramśa influence. We have no information about the reading recorded by the commentators other than Rāmadāsa, but SC Text and Latakanamiśra read uahi for uvahi. On the other hand, the latter reads uvara for uara in Setu 10.45, uvara being the equivalent of udara in Apabhramśa Lāvijjanta (lāgyamāna) for lāijjanta in Setu 13.13 provides another example of va-śruti in our text (Rāmadāsa's recension). The verbal form lāijjai (lāgyate) occurs in Setu 4.35⁴. Mādhava and SC Text in fact read lāijjanta for lāvijjanta in Setu 13.13. It may be noted that the root lag caus., rarely used in Sanskrit, gives rise to forms that are very much in evidence in Prakrit and specially Apabhramśa texts, often with the va-śruti: e.g., lāyai, lāvai (cf. joai, jovai see)⁵, lāvahi (imper)⁶, lāijjai⁷, lāia⁸ etc.

A peculiar form donha occurs in Setu 15.18¹. It is the genitive plural of do, but appears here in the nominative : donha bhuā 'two arms'. Donha as an equivalent of dvau occurs also in GS 7.25². Mādhava, on the other hand, reads donṇa for donha. The form donna appears in Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī as donna with donni as a variant³. Donha and donṇa appear to be collateral forms going back to Pkt. donn, and seem to be taken from the colloquial language. cf. Marāṭhī don two and OM doni expanded into *donh*⁴.

A reference may be made to the particle je used in Setu 4.36 : किं इच्छसि काउं जे पिअं ति विप्पिअं रहवइणो. Acc. to HC 2.217 it is used for *pādapūraṇa*⁵. Je is also found in Ardhamā-gadhī, and it is nearly always used after an infinitive as in our poem⁶. The use of je seems to be an old idiom probably taken from the colloquial language. In fact it is in Apabhramśa that we find it freely used, often for emphasis.⁷ The cognate form ji likewise frequently occurs in Apabhramśa texts⁸.

Je is occasionally used in Jaina Mahārāṣṭrī, e.g. एवंविहग्मि कज्जे कि जुत्तं मज्झ एत्थ काउं जे Nānapaṇcamī 1 79 It occurs frequently in KM both in prose and verse, usually after an infinitive (pp 2, 15, 34, 46, 48, 82, 90, 103, 108 etc.), but also independently as in Apabhramśa (see p 31, l. 26ff)

ĀCANTO I

1. Bow down to Viṣṇu, who is high without being heightened, pervasive without being stretched, deep without being low, infinitesimal without being light, and manifest, even though his true nature is unknown.

2. When the radiant lustre of his nails disappeared¹ in the blood of Hiraṇyakaśipu, the Fortune of the great demon slunk away bewildered, as if her scarf had slipped off her bosom.²

3. Life departed with toil and trouble from the severely twisted neck of the bull demon Aṛiṣṭa, hard to grasp because of its massive size, when it was cruelly gripped by his encircling arms.³

4. When he uprooted the Pārijāta tree (from heaven), Indra's fame, pervading the earth, and deep-rooted because of his eminent qualities, was destroyed by him, like the branch-root of a tree⁴ that goes deep into the earth, and is firmly established on account of the roots and rootlets growing into the soil

5 Bow down to him,⁵ (during whose evening dance⁶) the regions of the sky, resounding with his loud laughter, glimmer as the flame of his eyes blends with the lustre of his (deep blue) neck, and seem to be enveloped in darkness surmounted by flames.⁷

6. His left half,⁸ overpowered by love, with the ample bosom thrilling with rapture, quivers bashfully as it yearns to turn round in its eagerness to encompass the other half.

1 Lit. got stuck

2 The reference is to the Man—Lion incarnation of Viṣṇu and the slaying of Hiraṇyakaśipu by him. The lustre of the claws of the deity is likened to that of the scarf covering the bosom of the goddess of fortune attending upon the great demon. It is also fancied that when the dazzling claws of Narasimha suddenly disappeared, having penetrated the victim's bosom, she ran away in confusion, thinking that her scarf had slipped off her breast.

3 This and the next verse refer to the Kṛṣṇa incarnation of Viṣṇu.

4 eg, the banyan tree 'from whose branches grow shoots that take root and become new trunks.'

5 Refers to Śiva who is described in verses 5-8.

6 Cf Naisadhacarita 22.7,8.

7 Lit darkness set on fire at the top

8. i.e., the female half, a reference to the Ardhanārīśvara form of Śiva.

7 On moonlit nights, the resonant outbursts of his laughter (while dancing), reverberating in the regions of the sky, reach the heavens, like ripples of moonbeams⁹

8 The oceans are convulsed when he begins to dance,¹⁰ with the swirling waters struck by the fish, crazed with fear, and the submarine fire belching forth smoke, being submerged by the waves.

9 Begun with fresh ardour, and amended when marred by flaws due to inattention, a poetical composition is delightful in the beginning, but hard to complete with success, even like friendship, which, too, begins when affection is fresh, and is restored when disrupted by faults and mistakes.

10 Is there a way in which poetical compositions do not delight the heart? Through them knowledge increases, fame is won, virtues are acquired, and the life-history of good men is known.

11 It is hard to combine new ideas¹¹ with beauty of composition, just as it is hard to combine riches, acquired in one's youth, with decorous conduct, or to make the acquisition of wealth conform to one's desire

12 Hearken to the story of the slaying of Rāvana, which brought Sītā's sufferings to an end and declared Rāma's love for her,¹² and led to the release of the captive nymphs, and removed, as it were, a dart from the hearts of the people of the entire universe

13, 14 When Royal Fortune accepted Sugrīva for her consort, after her proud and hostile heart, namely, Vālm, had been pierced¹³ by Rāma's arrow, Cupid's dart as it were,¹⁴ (at that time) Rāma

9 In Kāvya poetry a laugh is always described as white

10 i.e., as a result of the earthquake caused by the movement of Śiva's feet

11 Lit a new range of meaning

12 Also 'marked by the word anurāga' at the end of each Canto

13 Lit Royal Fortune who was pierced in her heart that was Vālm

14 i.e., when Sugrīva was placed on the throne by Rāma after killing Vālm. The latter is fancied as the proud heart of the goddess of royal fortune, represented as a nāyikā hostile to Sugrīva. Rāma's arrow, fancied as Cupid's dart, pierces her heart, i.e., Vālm, inclining her to accept her new lover had somehow passed the rainy season that was, as it were, night-fall to the sun of his endeavour, a strong chain restraining the mighty elephant, his wrath, and a cage imprisoning the lion, his victory (in the coming war) ¹⁵

15 He had lived through the breezes of the Kadamba groves, seen the sky obscured by the clouds, and endured the rumble of thunder yet, verily, he had no confidence in his life ¹⁶

16 Then came the autumn, the pathway to Sugrīva's fame, the initial succour to Rāma's life, the hindrance to Sītā's tears, the day of Rāvana's doom ¹⁷

17 The sky, a worthy sight for Viṣnu, looked beautiful like the lotus whence Bīahmā was born ¹⁸ It was covered with banks of white clouds, thousands of petals, as it were, while the rays of the sun were the mass of filaments.

18 The rainbow, a flash from the rays of the sun, departed from the sky it was, as it were, the bejewelled girdle of the Beauty of the clouds, a quiver for the arrows of the god of love in the shape of the season of rains, ¹⁹ a fresh filament, as it were, of a flower of the Mandāra tree that was the sky

19 The regions of the sky, branches, as it were, of the tree that was the firmament, drawn down by the rainy season, and then released, seemed to have returned to their respective places, shaking off the bees in the shape of the clouds ²⁰

15 The rainy season is so described, because it halted Rāma's warlike preparations for the recovery of Sītā

16 i.e., Rāma had somehow passed the rainy season 'believed to be unbearable to separated lovers, but the advent of the autumn filled him with despair

17 The autumn, the season of military expeditions, is described as heralding the fulfilment of Rāma's hopes and the success of his ally Sugrīva and the destruction of Rāvana

19 The rainy season is intimately associated with love in Kāvya poetry

20 The regions of the sky, which seemed to be weighed down by the clouds during the monsoon, are described as clearing up in the autumn The sky is fancied as a tree whose branches, bent down by the rainy season, spring back when released at the advent of the autumn, scattering the clouds in the process.

20 Fresh and serene, the days, with pools visible at places after showers, assumed a partly dry aspect, as if they had enjoyed a dip in the waters.

21 Having gone through the process of (Yogic) sleep with joy, Viṣṇu even though he had not slept, woke up, attended by his consort, the goddess of wealth, who had woken first and brought anxiety to the Ocean, saddened by his impending departure²¹

22 The pure-rayed pearls, the stars, released from the split oyster shells, the torn clouds, shone in the ocean of the firmament, adhering to its coast, the night

23 The scent of the Saptaparna blossoms appealed to the heart, but the fragrance of the Kadamba flowers pleased no more. The sweet note of the swans lingered in the heart, but not the cry of the peacock, because its time was past²²

24 The rainbow whose place was in the sky drenched with rain, faded away it was, as it were, a fresh nail mark given by the departing season of rains on the ample bosom of the regions of the sky, namely, the massive clouds, as a supreme emblem of beauty²³

25 In the thoroughly washed sky, spotless and visible far and wide, the orb of the moon seemed to be close at hand, isolated and clear

26 Returning after a long lapse of time the swans²⁴ were confused by the swirling pollen of the flowers²⁵ Dissatisfied, they flew about on all sides, eager to see the day lotus pools²⁶

22 Kadamba flowers and the call of the peacock are associated with the rainy season The time indicated in this and the preceding verses is the passing of the monsoon and the gradual advent of the autumn Cf the next verse

23 Means also 'luck', here, affection The imagery is that of a departing husband, leaving a nail mark on the bosom of his wife as a memento of their love Paohara means both 'cloud' and 'a woman's breasts'

24 The birds are supposed to migrate to the Mānasa lake during the rainy season, and return in the autumn

25 'night lotus blossoms' acc to Rāmadāsa's reading

26 i.e., their favourite old haunts

27. The moonlit nights, their splendour alternating with that of the brilliant jewels, the days, assumed the beauty of a necklace on the serene bosom of the autumn²⁷

28 Warned by the hum of the bees, the lotus, with its stalk hidden in the water, woke up²⁸ in contact with the rays of the sun bursting through the clouds, as if it took delight in the touch

29 The call of the swans could be heard. it was, as it were, the sound of the bow of the god of love, the jingle of the anklets of the goddess of beauty stepping across the lotus beds, the answer of the lilies addressed by the bees

30. (Wayfarers), after watching the lotus plant with its stalk torn up (by the birds), as if it were their beloved, with her bangles loose, took the lotus blossom, rosy and full of honey and the sweet hum of bees, for her face, flushed with wine, and uttering words sweet as the hum of bees

31 The woodland breeze blew, rich in the fragrance of the day lotus blossoms, and laden with the swirling fresh pollen of the flowers, moist with honey Wafting spray from the ichor of the rutting elephants, it afforded enjoyment to the vagrant bees

32 The lotus plant that outgrew its immaturity little by little, with its thorny stalk hidden (in the water), did not turn away its blossom, while being kissed by the rays of the sun, even as a maiden, thrilling with rapture, and discarding her bashfulness by degrees, is loth to withdraw her face, while being kissed by her lover

33 The roving unsteady bees, whitened by the pollen of the Saptaparna flowers, wiped off the thick ichor of the elephants as they served for a moment as the Cāmara whisks decorating their ears²⁹

34, 35 When thus the autumn came with the night lotus pools in bloom, and the stars glittering in the sky and the moon-

27 The succession of moonlit nights and brilliant days is likened to a necklace of pearls interspersed with jewels

28 i.e., burst into bloom

29 i.e., the bees, covered with the white pollen of the flowers, settled for a moment on the moist ears of the elephants, looking like the decorative whisks beams saddening³⁰ the lotus faces of the soldiers' wives;³¹ the autumn that was, as it were, the early evening for the goddess of fortune to choose her lover,³² (at that time) Rāma's worn body was worn still more, and his eyes,³³ streaming with tears, seemed to fill with tears again, because Hanūmat, who had departed long ago,³⁴ was still out of sight, even like the hope (of recovering Sītā)

36 He then espied Hanūmat, who had a halo of glory,³⁵ having achieved his task as determined before. He was, as it were, the fulfilment of Rāma's hope that readily arrived as he thought of him.

37 Hanūmat first conveyed the news about Sītā with the expression of his face, revealed by his joyful eyes, and, then, in its entirety, in words.

38 The mighty Rāma did not believe, when Hanūmat said that he had seen her, heaved a weary sigh with tears on hearing that she was pining away, wept when told 'She grieves for thee'; and embraced him, when he said she was alive.

39 He placed in Rāma's hand the jewel (sent by Sītā). It was tarnished from being fastened in her unkempt lock of hair, and seemed to be pale from anxiety, and weary with toil, and weighed down with grief.

40 Held in his folded hands, and watched by him, with its lustre dimmed by his tears—was it absorbed by his eyes? Was it questioned for news?

30 Lit hostile to

31 The light of the moon is unbearable to separated lovers, and supposed to close the petals of the day lotus. Here, the reference is to the women pining for their husbands, absent on the military campaigns usual in the autumn.

32 i.e., the victor in the wars of the season. The goddess of fortune is figured as an abhisārikā who goes out in the evening to meet her lover.

34 To obtain news of Sītā

35 Lit a distinct lustre

36 As if to wash his tear-stained face. The jewel is likened to a palmful of water.

42. On whatever limb that token³⁷ of his beloved was placed by him, an incessant thrill passed through it, as if it had been touched by Sītā.

43. Inflamed with wrath at the thought of Rāvana, his face, though soiled with tears, thereupon looked formidable like the orb of the fierce midday sun.

44. His gaze, even like the burden of the task before him, rested on his powerful bow, long inactive, but a true image of the eyebrows of the angry god of death³⁸

45. The bow, though unbent, seemed to be equipped with the string as Rāma's gaze, fixed for a moment at the lower end, slowly moved upwards, surveying the weapon³⁹

46. And, Sugriva's heart, yearning to requite the kindness of Rāma, was at that moment filled with elation, regardless of Rāvana's pride, as if the heavy task imposed upon him had already been achieved.⁴⁰

47. The resolve to march (to Lankā) was implanted in Rāma's heart, like a poison that was to bring destruction to the demons: it seemed to promise fulfilment of his cherished purpose, while the knitting of the brows revealed his wrath.

48. His gaze rested on Laksmana's face, like an adornment,⁴¹ on Sugriva's broad chest,⁴² like his garland of sylvan flowers, on Hanūmat, like his fame,⁴³ and, like a command, on the host of apes.

49. He, then, set out on his march towards the surging sea, convulsing the earth, with the woods trampled down by the host of apes, even as the Mandara mountain journeyed to the sea on the eve of the churning of the ocean⁴⁴

37 i.e., the jewel

38 i.e., when Yama knits the brows in wrath

39 Rāma's gaze moving from one end of the bow to the other is fancied as the bowstring

40 i.e., Sugriva cheered up at the prospect of vanquishing Rāvana and requiting his obligation to Rāma

41 i.e., added to the lustre of his face by cheering him up

42 i.e., in token of admiration for his valour

43 i.e., heightened the glory of Hanūmat, already famous for his exploits

44 One of the frequent references in the poem to the churning of the ocean by the gods and demons with the Mandara mountain as the churning-staff

50. When he moved, the host of apes, too, began to move, bright with their flowing mane, and flashing like the rays of the sun as they spread out on all sides

51 The multitude of apes swelled as they followed close one on the other. Kindled by the fuel⁴⁵ of hatred, and stirred by the gale of wrath, and roaring, it was a forest fire to consume Lankā for a woodland

52. Surrounded by the apes, resplendent with their agile mane, Rāma advanced like the ocean (of the epoch of destruction), thronged with mountains blown over (by gales) from all sides, and lit up by the fire of universal ruin⁴⁶

53 The spotless regions of the sky, revealed by the brilliant sun, reeled in his mind, clouded with grief, even though the path ahead was manifest to it.

54 He saw the Vindhya, capable of standing the pressure of the bow-shaped sea, as if it were the powerful string of the bow attached to both ends, with the rivers joined to it as arrows.⁴⁷

55 The Vindhya could not endure even the leisurely march of the apes, which levelled the expanse of its peaks, and laid bare its lofty sides by destroying the woods on the slopes, and filled the caves (with the broken trees).

56. They reached the Sahya, with the clouds tinged with diverse hues as they rested upon its mineral rocks drenched with their spray, with the wine-like fragrance of Bakula flowers issuing from the mouths of the caves, laughing with the brooks.

57. They passed on as they looked at the rivers, which, with the white clouds reflected in the waters, seemed to dash over rugged masses of clear crystal rocks.

58 Large streams looked like broad well-beaten paths at the heavy tread (of the multitude), because they filled up with the massive banks (crumbling under the weight), and were emptied of the waters, which poured into the cracking low lands.

59 They reached the Malaya as they smashed the sandal trees and made the ground tremble⁴⁸ Cool amidst the thickets, it appeared to be asleep, with the creepers green on account of constant rain, and the region free from forest fires because of the clouds

60. They beheld the marks left by the coils of huge serpents on the sandal trees, with their slough clinging to them; marks that looked like the imprint of creepers, torn off and untwined.

61 They resorted to the mountain streams, touched by the sandal tree branches, growing luxuriant on the banks, and bowed down with their own weight, (streams) redolent with the ichor of wild elephants (sporting in the waters), and bordered by paths glistening with lovely grass

62 They, then, reached the seashore, with the leafy Bakula trees, and the fresh cardamom plants with pollen fragrant like the ichor of elephants, and the pearls, partly released⁴⁹ by the immature oyster shells, and hidden in the waters.

63. Blue with blossoming Tamāla trees, and fragrant with groves of cardamom plants in full bloom, the seashore seemed to be a streak of ichor of the mighty elephant, the ocean,⁵⁰ touched ever and anon by its agile trunk, the waves

64 The Shore, the mistress of the Sea, seemed to bear the imprint left by him when he enjoyed with her the pleasures of love. The foam was the ornamental paint of the limbs rubbed off at places, the corals were the bites (tinged with red) that lent charm to the face; and the flowers of the woods, crushed (by the waves), were the flowers of her ruffled hair⁵¹

65 With closed eyes in the shape of the oyster shells, the shore seemed to be listening to the melody of the songs of the Kinnaras, conforming to diverse musical modes, as it echoed through the groves of creepers.

CANTO II

1 Then did Rāma behold the restless sea, esteemed as the (source) of the precious nectar, but hard to traverse on account of many a hazard, as if it were the youth of his enterprise, (the age) that is valued for the bliss of the sweet emotion (of love), but fickle, and must be passed with worries because of its numerous flaws¹

2 It seemed to be the reflection of the sky, the opening through which the earth emerged; the home of the regions of the sky, the bejewelled floor of the world; the mass of waters that remained after the deluge.

3 With the rolling formidable waves, and the waters smitten by the massive moonbeams, and spreading on all sides, the sea was violently stirred by the moon that shelters a deer, even as it is stirred by an ever-rutting elephant of the quarters² (with its massive trunk).

4 It bore waves, now restless, now still, that overran the coral-reefs, and seemed to be the bruises inflicted by the Mandara mountain, with the clotted gore still in them³

5 It was absorbing its own water, scattered by the rumbling clouds, and pervading the interval between the sky and the earth, and cascading through the mouths of the rivers; as if it were its own name, constantly spread abroad by the minstrels, and expanding through (the praises of) suppliants, and permeating the entire heavens, the earth and the nether regions.

6. The goddess of wealth, even though she emerged from it long ago,⁴ still adhered to it, as does moonlight to the moon, or fame to a good man, or sunshine to the sun, or a great river to a mountain.

1 The sea is represented as the great obstacle to Rāma's undertaking, and fancied as its youth, because that period of a man's life is beset with difficulties on account of temptations and follies

2 One of the elephants supposed to support the earth

3 The waves are fancied as the bruises received by the sea when it was churned with the Mandara mountain by the gods and demons, the coral-reefs being the clotted blood

4 i.e., during the churning Cf verse 11

7. It bore the vast submarine fire, clinging to its bosom, that consumed its waters at the epoch of destruction, being stirred by the winds sweeping back and forth, as if it were a massive spear, embedded in the body, and shaken by the recurrent breathings, that destroyed life at the end.

8. It seemed to be teasing the Earth by touching and withdrawing (by turns), while she, released after being embraced by the flood-tide,⁵ shook her hands, the woods (on the shore), with her breasts, the Malaya and the Mahendra mountain, refreshed by sea spray⁶

9 It had ample room in its appointed place, because it kept within bounds, but had not enough space even on the entire earth during the deluge. It was like Viṣṇu that assumed the form of a suppliant dwarf, but (later) filled the universe with the bulk of his striding figure⁷

10 It gave delight as one beheld it. One had to listen eagerly to the recital of its virtues, even though one heard about it (often) Although its gifts were enjoyed (in profusion), it (freely) yielded its products that brought abiding joy, just as the fruit of one's religious merit, although enjoyed (in this life), conferred everlasting bliss

11 It was like a mountain with its (best) tree uprooted Abandoned by the goddess of wealth, it was like a lotus pool with the flowers blasted by frost It was like a wine-bowl, emptied of the wine Bereft of the young moon, it was like an evening of the dark half of the month⁸

13 It seemed to carry the venom, ejected from the mouth of Vāsukī during the toil of churning the ocean, and accumulated in the cavern of the submarine fire, and enveloped in raging flames, because the nectar had been taken out of the waters.¹⁰

14 It had the mass of waters just as it had fortitude. It had the winged mountains¹¹ as it had shoals of whales. It had the waves as it had the incoming rivers, and numerous substantial qualities as it had gems.

15 It moved back and forth in itself, deep like the cavity of the nether regions, and vast without including the earth, and independent like the sky, even as Viṣṇu comes and goes¹² in his own self, the universe, deep in the nether regions, far more extensive than the earth, and unsupported in the sky.

16 Approaching and retreating, the rivers (first) appeared to withdraw on being caressed by the sea, and then followed in its wake, as if they were smitten with remorse, quivering as they advanced and retraced their steps¹³

17 It still maddened the world with the splendour of its riches and the goddess of wealth and wine. All these had emerged during the churning,¹⁴ and are esteemed more than one's life, and afford enjoyment to one's heart's content.

9 Kara means both 'hands' and 'rays'. The imagery is that of someone pulling a person out of deep water by catching hold of his hands. The idea is, the jewels glittering in the waters seemed to be quite close to the sunlit surface of the sea.

10 The serpent Vāsukī was used as a rope coiled round the Mandara mountain, with which the ocean was churned. Here, the submarine fire is fancied as his fiery venom, enveloped in flames that remained unquenched, because the nectar, which could have counteracted the poison, was taken away by the gods when it emerged during the churning.

11 Those of the mountains which had jumped into the ocean to save their wings when these were being clipped by India.

12 i.e., appears and disappears in the course of his Incarnations.

13 The rivers, advancing and receding as they encounter the waves, and then falling into the sea, are fancied as nāyikās, who repent having rejected the advances of their lovers, and subsequently go out to meet them. The readings followed are ahika and osarūhi. See Extracts, especially the interpretation of Kulanātha.

18. Even though restless, it remained steadfast by respecting its limits. It abounded in riches, even though its treasures had been taken out by the gods (during the churning) It was unscathed, even though churned, and oozed nectar,¹⁵ even though its waters had a briny taste

19 It had in its depths the mountains¹⁶ abounding in jewels, as if they were treasure hidden in dread of Indra, and marked by branch-roots, the moonbeams, coming down from the tree that was the sky.¹⁷

20 The sea surged when the moonlight came, bringing joy by its cherished presence, and calmed down when it was gone, just as passion is strong at the advent of youth, delightful with the company of the beloved, and loses its turbulence when youth has passed.

21. The pearls, issuing from the partly split oyster shells, filled the mouths of the conches, and the clouds withdrew from half the way, because they were filled with water blown high by the wind.

22 The mature sprouts of the corals looked green in contact with the lustre of the emeralds, and the hovering clouds seemed to be veils, thrown over the faces of the sea elephants, as they rushed forward at the smell of the celestial elephants (that came to bathe in the sea).¹⁸

27 It reached the height of enjoyment as it kissed a thousand rivers, and its waters roared with a din unbearable like the rumbling of the clouds at the epoch of destruction Gently rocked by soft breezes, it was like one regaled with wine, and reeling in mild inebriation

28 The foam, floating on its surface, was tinged with the streaming lustre of the dark blue gems; and the breath of the serpent Ananta, on whose coils Viṣṇu slept, caused massive whirlpools as it hit the lotus growing out of his navel.²⁴

30 It was the home of pearls, and was pre-eminent, because from it emerged nectar that gave the gods the joy of life. It was vast, and its waters were turned into mire²⁷ by the earth, crushed with ease by the surging waters of the deluge.

31. It was green with rocks long overgrown with moss, and extensive, with a terrible roar re-echoed by the wind. It afforded repose to Visnu in his season of sleep,²⁸ and was dark like the surface of the earth, when it had cooled after being scorched by the fire of universal ruin.

32 Hot vapours from the nether regions rose through its waters as they parted when the demons plunged down; while portions of the Mandara slopes, torn down by the force of the churning, whirled about, and stuck fast to diverse isles.

33 It was esteemed as the source of nectar. Resembling the sky, it seemed to be tinged with darkness all around. Endowed with treasures, highly prized for their excellence, it was brought into being for the protection of the earth. King Sagara had it dug (by his sons), as if as a repository of his fame.

34 The palm groves on the shore rustled as they were hit by sea spray blown by the wind, and the expanse of the beach was lashed by the waters, swollen by streams of rays from the mountain that was the moon.

The second line is variously interpreted. See Extracts.

36 The tracks of the moving whales, resembling currents of a flooded river, were discernible in the midst of the waters; and, the nether regions were blackened by the sooty ooze issuing from the base of the submarine fire.

40 Sugrīva, too, looked at the ocean, and seemed to restrain his body, half aloft in the air,³² with the chest prominent and looking broader, being stuck out in joy.³³

41 Sugrīva, his heart set on traversing the sea, surveyed the army of apes, ranged on both sides, and bright as fire; like as Garuda, desiring to cross the sea, looks at his outspread wings (of gold).

42 Terror-stricken, all of a sudden, at the sight of the sea, and trembling and moving away, but held back (by shame), the apes stood like painted figures, with wide flickerless eyes

43 As they beheld the sea even then fickle eyes rested admiringly on Hanūmat, fixed in a gaze of unwonted amazement.³⁴

30 The earth is fancied as trembling under the heavy tread of the apes and thereby convulsing the sea, which appeared to Rāma to be not as formidable as it was imagined to be

1, 2. Sugrīva then addressed the apes, elephants as it were, who were seated, supporting themselves on their arms resting on slabs of stone, like posts¹ Their eyes were closed, and they were made restless by deep despondency, as elephants are by their periodic rut. His words were firmer than even his fortitude because of their depth, and proclaimed his fame² even more clearly than his voice, and conveyed a meaning clearer than even the brilliance of his teeth.

51, 52. When the host of apes, thus addressed by Sugrīva, did not stir, being weighed down with anxieties, and looked like a herd of elephants sinking in mire, and wearied with the efforts to pull them out, the lord of the apes, unable to tolerate the enemy's prowess, spoke again as he laughed, his mouth resembling a mountain cave enveloped in the flames of a forest fire,³⁶ shooting up with a clear sound

53 'What confidence can others, too, have in their followers, when their efficiency is unreliable in this wise? Then there is Rāvaṇa to reckon with; and this my arm stands as his adversary!³⁷

54. 'Let the army of apes cross over to Laṅkā even before the sea, smitten with the palm of my hand, and parting asunder, with the waters rolling away on both sides, hath the time to return!

55 'I will carry the army as I laugh a hundred leagues³⁸ (across the ocean) on my arms, with the shoulders unbent³⁹ under

35 i.e., when they return home after winning the war

36 The red interior of the mouth is likened to fire

37 Sugrīva implies that Rāvaṇa's followers might be as unreliable as his own, and in that case they would have to engage in single combat.

the enormous weight, (the army) stationed on the summit of the Malaya that is destructive of the enemy's joy⁴⁰

56. 'Who doth lend a hand in imminent peril, when each stands (helpless) before the other? The task must be accomplished long before others attend to it.⁴¹

57. 'Or, the sky will not be wide enough for me as I rush forth with the great sea before me!⁴² I will abide happy after slaying the enemy that lives on flesh, blood and marrow⁴³

58. 'Be not perplexed. Let the entire sea roll into wherever the earth sinks, trampled down by me in a rage, with the serpents crushed under the weight.⁴⁴

59. 'Or, let the host of apes pass over to the other side by the Vindhya range serving as a causeway, after it is uprooted and brought here by me, and held over the surface of the ocean by my arms acting like twin pillars!

60. 'Behold I will turn the sea into a stretch of land, sweeping the waters away with my breath, with the serpents rushing away, and the water animals turned over, and the (submarine) mountains rent asunder!

61. 'I will put the sea in a position in which the Suvela mountain will face this way,⁴⁵ and the Malaya thitherward,⁴⁶ after I have broken them in the middle, and uprooted and turned them round with my arms, and discarded the remaining parts!⁴⁷

40. The summit of the mountain from which the expedition was to start is described as a source of misery to the inhabitants of Lankā

41. i.e., without waiting for help from others. Or, 'before one looks about (for help)' Cf. Mādhava in Extracts. Sugrīva warns his followers that he will act on his own initiative without waiting for their help

42. i.e., as he flies to the other shore

43. A reference to the Rāksasas

44. i.e., the sea will empty into the sunken earth, enabling them to cross its dry bed.

45. i.e., northwards. The Suvela is the mythical mountain of Ceylon.

46. i.e., southwards, so as to face the Suvela.

47. i.e., he will make the mountains face each other, after levelling them by breaking off the upper halves, and join them across the sea to serve as a bridge, throwing away the superfluous parts. This appears to be Rāma-dāsa's interpretation. Acc. to Kṛṣṇa and Mādhava, Sugrīva means that he will cleave asunder the bed of the sea, and reverse the positions of the northern and southern portions of the sea including the coastal mountains

62 'Or, witness Lankā pulled down by my arms even today, like a creeper clinging to the Suvela, with the branches, the demons, smashed down, and only a tender shoot, Sītā,⁴⁸ left over.

63 'Frenzied by my devotion to Rāma, I will crush Lankā as does a wild elephant a forest (Lankā) that will be safe owing to the lion, Rāvana, being killed, with the trees, the demons, knocked down.'

The Suvela will thus take the place of the Malaya and vice versa, and it will be unnecessary for the army to cross over to Lankā which is situated on the Suvela'

48 Held captive in Lankā

CANTO IV

1. Thereupon the army of apes that had kept still at the first words of Sugrīva, but were afterwards¹ provoked and ashamed, bestirred themselves, even as a day lotus bed that closes at the sight of the moon bursts into bloom at the advent of the day.

2 Ardour for advancing to Laṅkā dominated at the same moment the hearts of the numerous apes, elated and rid of gloom; just as the light of the morning sun spreads all at once over the numerous peaks of mountains coming into view, with the darkness swept away.

3 Their joy, like their natural traits, began to be manifest more and more. It seemed to be the buoyant look of their pride,² the glow of the fervour of their heart; the prelude to their valour in war.

4 Rsabha³ rent asunder a mountain peak, and smashed it on his left shoulder, raising a cloud of dust from its red earth, with the uprooted serpents winding about; while his cheeks were hit by the splashing cascades.

5 Nila rubbed his rugged and swarthy breast that appeared to be reddish as the hair stood on end. With joy hidden in the heart, it was like a cloud penetrated by the moon.⁴

6 In the moonlight of joy, Kumuda burst into laughter, even as a night lotus bursts into bloom, breathing forth a sweet smell, with his lips opening like the petals, and the shimmer of his teeth plain to view like the dense filaments.⁵

7 Maṇḍa shook a sandal tree on the seashore, loosening the earth, with the branches, pushed with both hands, quivering and rustling, and the serpents⁶ dropping here and there.

1. Cf 3 53 ff

2 Pride is personified, the joy of the apes being figured as the cheerful aspect of their pride.

3 The names in this and the following verses are those of the leaders of the apes.

4 The breast is likened to a cloud, and the joy in the heart to the moon.

5 There is a pun on the name Kumuda meaning a night lotus which blooms in the moonlight.

6. i.e., the serpents that had coiled round the branches Cf 1 60

8 Fierce and glaring, and resembling the flicker of a smoky flame, Dvivida's eyes, like those of a serpent, did not regain their calm, even though full of joy.

9 Śarabha uttered a piercing yell that reverberated from the mouths of the caves, and seemed to rend the broad expanse of the Malaya slopes, while he pressed his limbs, dripping sweat in a fit of rage

10 Wrath clearly showed on Nisadha's face, pink like Aruna, the charioteer of the sun, and beautiful like a lotus that had just opened, like as the sun gleams at dawn, ¹⁰sy through the presence of Aruna, and beautiful with the lotus beds bursting into bloom at the moment

11 As Susena burst out laughing in anger, his face, with the lips parted⁷ for a long while, resembled the orb of the sun when it was rent in the middle and ¹¹ed as blood, portending evil.

12 Angada was shown to be ready for action by his face beaming with joy, and red like the partly emerging orb of the sun, like as the day as it starts in the east is revealed by the morning, aglow with the crimson lustre of the slowly rising sun.

13 Hanūmat, who had achieved the task assigned to him,⁸ had no desire to make any trivial manifestation of pride Self-restraint becomes one that hath fulfilled the master's command, and serves to avert calumny⁹

14 Sugrīva, whose eyes became serene, as his wrath was appeased at the sight of the high spirits of the apes, burst into laughter, drowning the noise of the sea, the sharp points of his teeth being revealed by the quivering lips

15 Laksmana, confident of his strength and that of his elder brother, neither talked nor worried, utterly despising the sea as well as Rāvana.

9 i.e., saves one from the charge of vanity

17-19. Jāmbavat then spoke, raising his chest, which was broad like a plot of ground, and revealed as the wrinkles disappeared numerous large cavities left by wounds (in wars).

With the lustre of his eyes hidden by the brows drooping with age, he looked as if he were a mountain, with the sheen of its plants obscured by an adjoining bank of white clouds¹⁰

Holding the apes in check with a gesture of his hands, with his flashing eyes¹¹ fixed on Sugrīva, he seemed to be a forest fire touching the trees with the flames, and reddening the adjacent mountain with the sparks.¹²

20 'I remember the heaven when it was without the Pārijāta tree, Viṣnu's bosom when it was without the Kaustubha gem and the goddess of wealth, and the great mass of Śiva's matted hair when it was without the young moon, all before the churning of the ocean.¹³

21 'I saw the Fortune (of Hiranyakaśipu) as she followed the bleeding heart of the mighty demon, torn out by Viṣnu's nails, and held in his hands, as if it were her own lotus hand forcibly grasped by him.¹⁴

22 'I remember how Hiranyākṣa's bosom, pierced by the tusk of the Great Boar, was held aloft, with the heart, strong as a mountain, rooted out; even like the earth that was raised from the ocean, with the mountains torn from their roots¹⁵

23 'Despondency destroys fortitude, the frenzy of youth discipline, and passion the sense of shame. Tell (me) if old age that

10 The white hair of Jāmbavat's eyebrows is likened to the clouds, and the lustre of his eyes to that of the plants

11 Lit the bright lustre of the eyes

12 The raised hands of Jāmbavat as he enjoined discipline on the apes are likened to the flames, and the apes to the trees, while his eyes flashing fire and fixed on Sugrīva are likened to the sparks covering the mountain

13 i.e., he existed even when the Pārijāta, the moon and the rest were in the ocean, and had not yet been appropriated by the various gods as a result of the churning

14 The bleeding heart of Hiranyakaśipu killed by Viṣnu in his Man-Lion incarnation is fancied as the rosy hand of the demon king's Fortune seized by his victorious adversary

15 The demon Hiranyākṣa was killed by Viṣnu in his Boar incarnation as he tried to prevent him from raising the earth submerged in the ocean maintains a definite attitude (towards such issues) lends support to any of these.¹⁶

24 'Despise not the utterances of one that is bowed with age¹⁷ Their purport is based on experience,¹⁸ and they are consistent in meaning, even though the words are incoherent and harsh They are only ridiculed by those who are foolish because of their youth

25 'Leaning on thine¹⁹ arms, the host of aces will prove valiant even in a war with the gods. Even the dust of the earth assails the sun, deriving its strength from the wind

26 'But weighty projects whose course is hard to determine, fail, even though well-planned, if conducted in the wrong way by violating established principles; like as the unfathomable oceans, prized for their riches, are reduced to a state of chaos, even though calm, when they go astray by overflowing their shores (during the deluge)

27 'My supersensual knowledge, derived from the scriptures, and conforming to trustworthy lore, and unshakable though assailed (by arguments), is weightier than even direct experience that is based on perception through the medium of the senses, and somehow tallies fortuitously with the truth

28 'What those who are equal in strength and valour can achieve, when united, cannot be achieved, when they are divided A single sun might intensely heat the universe, but the (twelve) united suns (of the epoch of ruin) destroy it altogether

29 'Misplaced zeal proves ineffectual, and humiliates one's pride, and causes no great fear to the enemy, like an arrow taken up in a fit of rage.

16 Cf Kulanātha in Extracts Acc to Rāmadāsa Is there any need to aver what old age, coming to a definite conclusion, holds to be true, namely, that despondency destroys fortitude etc The interpretation does not suit the context very well as Jāmbavat's intention is to glorify old age to make his opinions more convincing

17 Or, 'utterances matured by age'

18 Or, 'They should be comprehended by realising their purport'

19 Ref to Sugrīva

30. 'Being in a hurry, thou must not abandon the commendable way of the wise kings Even the heat of the sun grows feeble as it hastens on its way in its winter course'²⁰

31 'Because of thy inordinate zeal, why dost thou make yon goddess of victory that joyfully presents her visage to thee, look like a lady-love dejected at the mention of her rival's name, by thy utterances prompted by a desire to obtain the joy of war by wrong methods'²¹

32 'Persist not solely in obstinate zeal Even the super-excellent renown earned by the moon by its action on the night lotus beds hath no effect on the day lotus, because the moon cleaves to a single mood.'²²

33 'What would be proper—for thee to attack the enemy's troops thyself, or, for thy troops to attack the enemy? Is one whose pride hath been humiliated'²³ held in esteem even if he wins the victory'²⁴

34 'Wise one, superior to Hanūmat, and the lord of Hanūmat and the other apes as thou art, shouldst thou, too, do something similar to what he hath done, something that would not redound to thy fame'²⁵

20 The lessening of the sun's power in the winter is fancied as being caused by its apparent haste on the shortening days

21 Victory and rashness are fancied as rivals The former is in sight, but cannot be obtained by rash methods

22 i.e., the moon cannot open the day lotus, because it is bent on opening the night lotus to the exclusion of any other flower Jāmbavat criticizes Sugrīva for sticking to a rigid policy as seen in his determination to go forward without the cooperation of his followers, as described in the previous Canto.

23 i.e., a commander who has humiliated himself by fighting with the rank and file of the opposite army Sugrīva had threatened to attack and destroy the demons himself Cf 3 57, 62, 63

24 Mādhava and others explain the line differently What obstacle to victory is there for one that has conquered his pride? That is, it is easy for one who is not too proud to seek help from others to gain a victory over the enemy The remark is directed against Sugrīva who had decried the idea of waiting for others to help in a danger Cf 3 56 Jāmbavat implies that Sugrīva could secure the willing cooperation of his followers if he only gave up his presumptuous self-confidence

25 i.e., if he flew across the ocean as he threatened to do (cf 3 57), he would be only doing what had already been done by Hanūmat

35 'How can a task be trusted to one in whose hands it hath not progressed nor shown success? It must be reassigned to some one else, just as a creeper, when the supporting tree falls, is again trained against another, because it hath not flourished nor borne fruit.²⁶

36. 'Lord of the apes, desiring to slay Rāvaṇa, dost thou wish to displease Rāma, thinking it would please him, eager as he is to slay him himself?'²⁷

37. Having thus restrained Sugrīva, the son of Brahmā²⁸ turned towards Rāma, like as the dense smoke of the fire of universal destruction confronts the sun, after spreading over the summit of the Meru.²⁹

38. He spoke with his face lowered in humility. Covered with the lustre of his bright sparkling teeth, it seemed to be hidden by his white hair streaming in front.

39 'Thou dost protect the universe, and support the earth, overwhelmed by the ocean during the deluge.³⁰ It is amazing that thou art perplexed in regard to the sea that fills only a part of thy belly.

40. 'Is not the very start of the action of thy bow in war also its end, like that of a brilliant flash of lightning, destructive as it is like a wink of the wrathful god of death?'³¹

41 'How will the ocean maintain even against thee the fortitude³² bestowed on it by thyself, by dint of which it fulfils its

26 It is hinted that the command of the army might be transferred from Sugrīva to some one else owing to his wrong methods, but acc to Kṛṣṇa and others, Sugrīva is here counselled to try more efficient persons if some of his followers have been found wanting

28 Jāmbavat

29 Sugrīva's tall reddish figure is likened to the golden Meru mountain round which the sun and the other planets are said to revolve; while the black figure of Jāmbavat is likened to the smoke, and Rāma to the sun.

30 The reference is to the Boar incarnation of Viṣṇu with whom Rāma is identified.

31 Lit like the second wink, i.e., the destruction is completed in the interval between two winks. The bow is fancied as destroying the enemy in the twinkling of an eye, its action thus ends as soon it begins task during the deluge,³³ and can endure even the submarine fire?’

42, 43. Rāma then spoke as he rubbed his breast, dark as the leaves of a Tamāla tree, with his left hand time and again it had manifestly weakened, and forgotten the joy of the touch of his beloved’s bosom. He drowned the noise of the sea with his voice, and eclipsed its fame with his own fame, its fortitude with his own fortitude, its strength with his own strength; and its firmness with his own firmness.

44. ‘Lord of the apes,³⁴ while the ocean remains untraversable, and the apes are stupefied, and myself downhearted, thou alone hast assumed the burden of this enterprise, even though heavy.’

45. Just as the precious, ever glorious gems emerge from the calm untraversable ocean, similarly, weighty words, the source of ever brilliant fame, emanated from Jāmbavat who was sedate and unassailable.

46. ‘A vast enterprise collapses where there is no truly great stable support like yourselves; even as the earth sinks when deprived of the support of the mountains³⁵

47 ‘Hanūmat hath almost achieved the task, the core of which was to know (the whereabouts of Sītā) Whosoever among the apes now applies himself to it can attain fame

48 ‘So let us all together entreat the ocean,³⁶ which, though untraversable, hath easily been crossed by Hanūmat, and hath treated with respect diverse requests of the gods and ‘demons.

49 ‘But if it doth not give up its obduracy maintained without reason, even when implored by me, ye will behold the host of apes gone to the other shore by land, having swept away the barrier of the sea’

33. i e, submerges the earth

34 Ref to Sugrīva

35 The mountains with their deep roots are fancied as supporting the earth

36 i e, for passage to Lankā

50. 'How will one who becomes the object of my wrath be the object of another's wrath?'³⁷ He that is beheld by a serpent with venom in its eyes is not seen again by another of its kind.'³⁸

51. Meanwhile, the suddenly emerging lustre of a multitude of demons began to be seen in the sky. Blending with the glitter of their crowns, it³⁹ appeared to be reddish like patches of dark clouds suffused with the glow of the morning sun

52 They then beheld the demons, who scattered the clouds in the sky with the fringes of their robes, rustling in the gust of wind caused by their speed, with massive flashes of lightning playing in the sunlight,⁴⁰

53 As the demons descended from the sky, like meteors at the epoch of universal ruin, the host of apes made a move to attack them, even as the earth moves at that epoch, raising the mountain peaks⁴¹

54 The sky, with the clouds scattered below,⁴² and appearing to move as the host of apes took their stand on high and low ground,⁴³ seemed to be falling, displaced and loose, and helpless and reeling

55 Thereupon Hanūmat held the host of apes in check, and brought Vibhīṣana to Rāma, as if he were a second message from Lankā,⁴⁴ (Vibhīṣana) whom he had seen there, and whose nature he had observed

56 As he bowed down at Rāma's feet in humility, the latter raised his head from the ground with his hands, as a mark of honour, verily it was thereby exalted high above the race of demons.

37 i.e., will not live to incur the wrath of another person

38 Such a serpent is believed to kill its victim with its eyes

39 i.e., the black colour of the demons

40 Regarded as a phenomenon of bad omen See Mādhava in Extracts.

41 The reference is to the convulsive movements of the earth at the epoch of destruction Cf Mādhava in Extracts

42 i.e., by the demons as they rushed down from the sky

44 For the first message see 1 37 ff

57. Vibhīṣana, pleased with Hanūmat's confidence in him, intimated his resolve (to side with Rāma). Sugrīva, thereupon, embraced him, crushing the bees hidden in the garland of sylvan flowers on his breast.

58. Rāma then spoke, radiating the lustre of his teeth in the ten directions together, as if it were a bright emanation from his heart, pure by nature.

59 'Behold Like as a wild female elephant, scared by a forest fire, seeks a safe place in the forest, unwilling to leave it, having lived there happily; similarly, the goddess of prosperity is unwilling to forsake the race of demons, being happy (in her sojourn with them) ⁴⁵

60. 'Vibhīṣana, thy wisdom, enriched by thy genial nature, is known to be unimpaired even by thy kinship with the demons, even as the nectar of the ocean⁴⁶ was unspilt by the venomous serpents.

61 'Endowed with stainless character and the lustre of manifold brilliant virtues, thou hast clearly adorned even the impure race of demons, like as the moon, pure by nature, with excellent radiant rays, lends charm to its deer, though it is a stain

62 'Persons of character, efficient in their task, who adopt a course of action by applying their intellectual powers, and take their stand upon family tradition and self-respect, — how can they fail to attain royal fortune ?

63 'Having long enjoyed the capture of celestial maidens, Rāvana hath brought Sītā to the abode of the demons, like as a poison-destroying plant is brought into a lair of venomous serpents ⁴⁷

⁴⁵ i.e., the prosperity of the demons, endangered by the misdeeds of Rāvana, will yet be safe in the hands of Vibhīṣana who will soon replace him as the ruler of Lankā

⁴⁶ i.e., in the period before the churning

64 'The anxieties of the gods are dispelled and the wails of the captive maids have come to an end. Sītā, held captive by Rāvaṇa, marks the end of the oppression of the world.'⁴⁸

65 Rāma, thereupon, poured consecrated water on Vibhī-sana's head, and brought joy to his eyes and the cheers of the apes to his ears, and inspired loyalty in his heart.⁴⁹

48 i.e., his destruction in the impending war for her recovery will deliver the world from his acts of violence

CANTO V

1. Thereupon as the ocean surged up ever more as did the emotion of love, at the sight of the moon, it seemed to Rāma that the night, too, began to lengthen, overcome as he was with the grief of separation from Sītā.

2. The sky, with the rising moon, swelled overmuch the waters of the ocean, wrapped in moonlight, while the beach, with Rāma observing his vow,¹ heightened their splendour.

3 Outbursts of grief, constant in his forlorn state, and strong enough to disquiet his heart, bent on the vow, marred his recurring efforts to maintain his fortitude.

4 He grieved as he thought, 'Will the ocean do a favour? Will the moonlight decay?² Will the night cease? Is my beloved perchance alive, or, would she deprive me of my life?'

5 He reproached the moonbeams; suffered because of the flower-arrowed god, and hated the night Even though languid, he languished still more even as he asked Hanūmat, 'Is my beloved haply alive?'

6 He valued the southern region, because she lived thereabout,³ the moon, because she verily reproached it,⁴ the earth, because she reposed thereon; and the sky, because she was carried off athwart it⁵

7 The watches of the night vanished with his patience The fleeting counsel (of his friends) faded away along with his fortitude His arms drooped as did his spirits, and incoherent utterances issued forth along with his tears

8 He consoled himself, because she was patient; fainted as he recalled that she was too feeble to endure the pangs of love;

1 Undertaken to induce the ocean to yield a passage to Lankā

2 As a virahin he is impatient of the moonlight

3 i.e., in Lankā.

4 i.e., tolerated the unpleasant moon, because it was censured by Sītā as she pined for him

5 i.e., by Rāvana

clung to life, because his beloved was alive; and languished, because she was pining away forlorn.

9. The moon became pleasant in his eyes only when its lustre was eclipsed by the morning sun;⁶ with its emblem, the deer, clearly visible, and its rays emptying into the foliage of the creepers of the Malaya mountain.⁷

10 As the night came to a close the orb of the moon, reflected in the tremulous waves, swayed as if it were the ocean's heart, perplexed as to what should be done⁸

11 The wind then smote the surface of the sea, as if it were Rāma's war-drum at dawn, with the echoes reverberating as they filled and emerged from the caves of the Malaya

12 The morning became clear, like the sandy shore, ringing with the call of the swans, with the darkness receding like the waters, and the expanse of the ten directions coming into view.

13 As the ocean remained steadfast in its profundity,⁹ the night having passed, wrath took possession of Rāma's countenance, even as an eclipse overtakes the orb of the moon

14 A frown came over Rāma's firm and broad forehead, dark as a Tamāla leaf, and streaming with sweat; like as a poison creeper clings to the solid and extensive slope of the Vindhya, dark blue with Tamāla trēes, and drenched with rain

15 As he knitted his brows the face quivered with wrath, the knot of his matted hair came loose, and his eyes turned to his bow

16 Vexed at the failure of his rēquest,¹⁰ his wrath increasing by degrees, Rāma, although so gentle, assumed a fierce aspect, like the sun of the epoch of destruction

6 Rāma, being a virahin, could look at the moon with pleasure only when its lustre was gone

7 The reference is to the belief that at daybreak the moon deposits its rays in the plant world

8 i.e., about Rāma's crossing over to Lankā

9 i.e., seemed unwilling to yield a passage for Rāma

10 i.e., the request to the ocean to facilitate the crossing

17. He took up his bow, a tool for doughty deeds. It was the appointed goal of the goddess of prosperity abiding¹¹ with his foes,¹² a post, buttressing his deep-rooted wrath. It was a subsidiary base¹³ of the pride of his arms.

18. The waters of the sea swept over the earth as it sank under the weight of the bow, planted thereon, and the ocean was in peril of its life, even though the bow was still unstrung.¹⁴

19. The sky smoked as the bow was darkened by smoke; blazed as the fiery string was joined to the bow; and roared as the crest of the bow roared, filling the regions with echoes.

20. Rāma took up the bow, as if after long revolving a dire resolve in his mind: 'Let the earth be riven asunder; verily the sea shall cease to exist, let the world perish!'

21. His left arm, worn by the grief caused by prolonged separation from his beloved, with the scar left by the bowstring drenched and softened by his constant tears, assumed a different aspect as soon as it became active in contact with the bow.

22. Thereupon the universe, with the expanse of the ten directions filled with echoes as Rāma brandished the bow, recalled as it trembled the crushing force of the rumble of the clouds at the epoch of destruction.¹⁵

23. He took an arrow that came to his hand as he heedlessly¹⁶ stretched it backwards. It was like one of the rays of the sun of the epoch of universal ruin, capable of overturning the ocean.

24. He heaved a deep sigh as he fixed the arrow in the bow, and looked at the ocean, his frown obliterated by another emotion,¹⁷ and his countenance saddened by compassion.

11. Lit. seen.

12. The bow is fancied as a trysting-place where the goddess of prosperity, forsaking the defeated enemies, met the victorious Rāma, like a nāyikā meeting her lover.

13. Lit. the second base, i.e., second in relation to Rāma's arms on which his valour was primarily based.

14. Rāma prepares to hit the ocean with his fiery arrows.

15. See Extracts for the readings followed.

16. Indicates contempt for the ocean.

17. i.e., pity.

25. Aiming the arrow with a long and steadfast gaze, Rāma began to draw the bow, grasped in the middle with his (left) hand slightly bent, with the string firmly gripped.

26. (As he drew the bow) the rays of the sun, dazzlingly reflected on the tip of the arrow, and glistening on the bending ends of the bow, seemed to be rumbling while being drawn, deep with the sound of the bowstring.¹⁸

27. The bow, drawn up to the ear, seemed to yawn, having woke up to destroy the ocean, and appeared to threaten it, roaring with the clear sound of the bowstring, with flames blazing on the tip of the arrow.

28. Rāma's arrow seemed to drop on the ocean even while it was being drawn, because the flames darted and spread from its tip, and its potency was seen¹⁹ in the troubled waters.²⁰

29. In the regions of the sky, the clouds, ablaze with the flames bursting out from the tip of the arrow, and yellow with quivering flashes of lightning, seemed to break asunder as if they were the eyes of malignant planets

30. Thereafter he released the arrow, shrouded in dense smoke bursting out of the back of the bow, forcefully drawn by his arm. It eclipsed the rays of the sun with the flames issuing from the arrow-head

31. Blazing up in the sky, the arrow dropped into the ocean, with its point, red with flames, half submerged in the water, even as the livelong day vanishes in the sea, preceded by the sun²¹

32. Flying into the sky, Rāma's arrow seemed to be a flash of lightning. Having dropped on the bosom of the ocean, it seemed to be the fire of the epoch of universal ruin. Settled in the nether regions, it had the effect of an earthquake.

18. The bow twanged while being drawn, but it is the rays of the sun glistening thereon that are spoken of as being drawn with a heavy sound.

19. Lat. declared by . . .

20. i.e., the flames issuing from the arrow stirred up the ocean even before the arrow hit the waters

21. The arrow is likened to the day, and the fiery arrow-head to the setting sun.

33. Masses of other arrows, red with smokeless flames, entered the ocean in the wake of that arrow, half submerged in the waters, even as the rays of the sun that hath half gone down follow it into the sea.

34 Thereupon the ocean, pierced by the arrows, surged up, roaring like a lion that had been asleep without fear, and shook its flowing mane, the flames of the submarine fire

35 The sky seemed to be divided in twain as the sea, rent by the vast oncoming mass of arrows, dashed high with the speed of a chip of rock torn off by a pick-axe,²² and returned again, after being driven far into the air

36 When the farther side of the ocean was rent in the middle, and flung skyward by the impact of the arrows, the hither side²³ dropped (into the gap), like a massive landslide down the Malaya mountain²⁴

37. The regions of the ocean, deep down to the nether world, and reddened by the minerals of the submarine mountains riven by the arrows, were convulsed, with the sea monsters confounded, and the totally severed wings of the mountains floating on the surface²⁵

38 The conches, with their mouths filled with the fiery arrows, and their white interior laid bare, moved to and fro, looking like white lotus buds opening by degrees in contact with the crimson rays of the sun.

39 White with the fangs of the sea monsters, lopped off by the arrows, the waters swirled, with the fish scattered, while the severed hoods of the serpents whirled about, totally weighed down by their gems.²⁶

40 The waters of the ocean rolled in to the beach, displaying the lustre of the emerging gems turned over by the commotion, with the coral-reefs rent asunder, and the pearls shooting up like foam.

41. The whirlpools of the ocean, now engulfed, now released by the afflux of water, with their expanse now hidden for a moment, now laid bare, became calm and turbulent, silent and boisterous by turns.

42 Rolling and heaving, the ocean seemed about to turn over²⁷ in its bed, seeking to give rest to its long pressed side²⁸

43 The sky was half hidden by the sea, when it was driven (from the northern shore) by the impetus of the arrows, and obstructed by the Suvēla mountain (in the south).²⁹ With the southern region vanishing from sight, it appeared to be curtailed on one side.³⁰

44 Even the terrible regions of the ocean, deep down to the nether world, and unseen even by the Primeval Boar,³¹ and untouched even by the Mandara mountain,³² were convulsed (by the arrows).

45 The ocean, rolling into each of the chasms, deep as the sky, caused by the impact of the arrows, roared and tumbled into the nether regions, as if in dread of the fire of the epoch of destruction.

tain still on their backs, were now seen, stunned by the heavy impact of the arrows³³

47. Visible were the tracks left in the waters by the gaspings of the great serpents,³⁴ (tracks) meandering to the nether regions, and sending up large whirlpools, and grey with the ashes of the half-burnt and discoloured coral-reefs.

48 Transfixed by an arrow, a pair of serpents quivered, clasped in love, and happy in the fast embrace, coiling round and protecting each other with their lives

49 Rāma's arrows, sharpened by friction with the gems, darted through the waters, smashing the coral growths, with large pearls adhering to their points as they pierced their way through the oyster-shells

50 Each coral-reef, which the dense volume of smoke covered up, permeating like the virulence of poison, was turned black, as if it were the ocean's blood³⁵

51 As they flew out of the raging sea, the mountains, with one of their broad wings lopped off by the arrows, slanted midway in the air and dropped, their peaks bowed down with the unequal weight³⁶

52 The serpents, their bodies severed and scattered, flew into a rage, with life lingering in the throat, and died after burning the arrows with the fire of their eyes³⁷

53 The roaring flames filled up the cavities, which were left by the submarine mountains uprooted by the thrusts of the arrows, and were replete with the massive severed bodies of the serpents

33 i.e., having tasted nectar as it emerged during the churning of the ocean, these primeval animals were stunned, but not killed by Rāma's arrows. The Mandara mountain served as the churning rod

34 i.e., the serpents oppressed by the heated waters

35 The coral-reefs are fancied as the ocean's blood. The imagery is that of blood turned black by poison

36 The winged mountains (see verse 37), which had taken refuge in the ocean, now tried to escape, but, with one wing gone, lost their balance and dropped into the sea again

37 Ref. to the belief that certain serpents kill their victim with the poison in their eyes. Cf 4 50.

54. The mace-like tusks of the sea elephants, carrying aloft the animals pierced by them, flew in pieces, being severed (by the arrows) and flung up (by the waves), and lightly struck the billows resembling mountain slopes

55 The fish, dazed by the glare of the flames, their eyes hurt and reddened by the smoke, shunned the coral-reefs³⁸ as they went astray, wandering through the waves

56 The (dead) serpents, floating on the waters, their white bellies turned upwards, and the withered twin tongues slightly protruding, filled the wide gaps between the massive waves

57 The sea elephants were seen partly emerging from the waters, with the flow of their ichor heated and dried up by the flames, and their heads cruelly torn by the claws of the sea lions

58 The conches, helpless in the dwindling waters, and anxious to go ashore, tumbled about on the rugged gem rocks as they moved back and forth

59 The mountains, abandoning the bosom of the sea, and flying aloft in confusion, stirred up the flames lingering on each other's peaks with the flutter of their wings³⁹

60 The roaring waters of the nether regions issued forth, terrible with the severed heads of the demons emerging with them, with the helpless serpents turned upside-down, and the gems cast up from the bottom

61 Raised aloft by the impact of the arrows, the waves, assailed by the flames and breaking into foam, dried up in the sky, being scattered and thinned by the wind

62 Washed up⁴⁰ by the lofty billows, the totally overturned serpents, loth to drag themselves along, crawled as they spurted jets of poison.

65 The waters of the ocean blazed with the animals aflame, whirled with the gems and coral-reefs whirling with them; roared with the whirlpools booming, and clove as the mountains clove asunder.

66 The flames looked just like the ocean, now whirling in the abyss of the whirlpools, now impeded by the gem rocks of the Malaya mountain, now tossing on the rolling waves

67 Violently blazing and overflowing, the ocean set the broad woods of the Malaya mountain on fire, and quenched them again as it flowed back with the flames quenched the sea, the sound echoed like the rumble of the clouds at the epoch of universal ruin.

72 The rivers, flung up (by the fiery arrows) into the sky, dropped like meteors at the epoch of destruction, with the flames massed in their mouths, and the waters long drawn out like streaks of smoke.

73 Having by degrees left the expanse of the beach, the sea, with the waters subsiding, appeared to recede step by step.

74 The waters disappeared in the flames, and the sky in the surging waters enveloped in flames, and the ten directions in the sky overrun by the waters

75 As the waters spread out, heated and swirled by the flames, the whirlpools of the ocean lessened in speed, like the wheel of the sun's chariot slowed down by the summer⁴⁵

76. Emitting a dense volume of smoke, the fire rolled over the vast ocean, and seemed to be enveloped in moss as the flames blended with the emerging lustre of the emeralds.

77 Smitten by Rāma's arrows, the raging sea blazed like the submarine fire, and clove like a mountain; rumbled like the clouds, and assailed the sky like a gale

78 The fire stood still when the waters became calm; rolled when they rolled, broke up when they parted asunder, swelled when they swelled, and subsided only when they subsided

79 The groups of islands, with their coast-line distinct on account of the sea subsiding, heated by the fire of Rāma's arrows, looked higher while remaining the same in extent

80-87 Thus did Rāma overthrow the ocean, with its waters swirled by the flames, the mountains shattered, the serpents destroyed, and the bottom exposed

The conches piteously wailed, rolling and straying amidst the billows, and the half-burnt serpents wriggled, scorched by the blazing submarine fire (81)

⁴⁵ The one-wheeled chariot of the sun is fancied as going slower on the long summer days.

The peaks of the (submerged) jewel mountains could be recognized by their lustre in the dwindling waters, and the clouds dropped, like broken branches, from the regions of the sky, creepers as it were, battered by the ocean's hands, its massive waves. (82)

Pierced by the fiery arrows, the hairy shoulders of the sea lions burst into flames, and the terrified serpents, near at hand, twined round the stout white tusks of the sea elephants (83)

The gem rocks falling from the peaks of the mountains,⁴⁶ shaken by the arrows, shattered the spreading coral-reefs, and the sea elephants were helpless, being stuck in the clammy poison emitted by the half-burnt serpents (84)

The mountains, spinning in the vast whirlpools, were dashed against each other, and crumbled, and the regions were covered here and there by the quivering creeper-like smoke⁴⁷ ascending the tree that was the sky (85).

The mountains were scattered on all sides, struck down by the arrows, as they flew aloft to save their wings, and the yawning gaps⁴⁸ were filled with the radiant lustre of the gems emerging from the bosom of the waters rent in twain (86)

Scorched by the fire, the sea monsters that hid their claws in their bodies were overpowered by the heat,⁴⁹ and the conches, clinging to one another with mutual affection,⁵⁰ were driven asunder by the impact of the arrows. (87)

CANTO VI

1 Then did the Ocean emerge, like an elephant of the quarters, abandoning the blazing sea floor, which resembled a wilderness pervaded by smoke, and was full of huge half-burnt serpents like unto trees

2 His rugged bosom, once heavily crushed by the Mandara mountain,¹ and bruised by the tusk of the Primeval Boar that mightily arose at the epoch of destruction,² was afflicted by the impact of Rāma's arrows

3 His long arms, befitting his body, and covered with deep and large wounds, and fragrant with fresh sandal paste, resembled two freely overflowing streams of the Malaya mountain, lined with deep woods, and wafting the scent of the fresh sandal trees (on their banks)

4 He was wearing a radiant pearlstring, the best of its kind, which shared the qualities of the moon, wine and nectar, and lightened his sorrow at the loss of the Kaustubha gem,³ and which he had not surrendered even during the commotion caused by the churning with the Mandara mountain.

5 His weary left arm, with the bristling hair reddened by blood, was supported by his consort Gangā as she came with faltering steps, while the suffering caused by the wounds was assuaged by the touch of her hand.

6. He approached Rāma, who was easily accessible to those who sought refuge Separated from Sītā, he was like a tree bereft of a creeper, while the gem rocks of the Malaya mountain were suffused with the lustre of his body.

7. The Ocean fell at Rāma's feet, like a tree dashed down by a gale. The blood from the wounds caused by the arrows was the flowers, and the precious gems worn by Gaṅgā, slim as a creeper, were the fruit.

8. Thereafter Gaṅgā, too, overcome with fear, and turning her face aside, fell at Hari's feet, rosy as the day lotus, the very feet from which she had emerged⁴

9. The Ocean then uttered words that were cogent though soft in tone, deeply significant though brief; dignified though polite, and outspoken though accompanied with praise

10 'Somehow have I incurred thy displeasure by maintaining my stability, fortified by my untraversable character, thinking it would please thee, because it was ordained by thyself,⁵ and sustained by me with unflinching fortitude

11. 'The seasons give the trees flowers in bloom, tinted by pollen, with the humming bees gluttoned with honey, but do not themselves take them away⁶

12 'Have I forgotten that I was destroyed by the fire of the epoch of universal ruin, and was filled by the waters of the Gaṅgā emanating from thy feet,⁷ and (again) crushed by thee at the time of uplifting the earth?⁸

13 'I was crushed by thy feet during thy fight with the demon Madhu,⁹ and by the thrusts of the tusk of the Primeval Boar at the time of raising the earth,¹⁰ and, overcome with grief, thou hast now whelmed me with thy arrows on the eve of slaying Rāvana¹¹ sea roared and surged up, as if the causeway was being built even before the mountains came on the scene.¹⁹

22 The Mahendra mountain trembled, and the surface of the earth cracked because of the commotion caused by the apes. Only the pollen of the flowers in the woods of the Malaya did not rise aloft, being moistened by the ever cloudy skies.

23 The host of apes, with lumps of earth sticking to the tips of their nails,²⁰ flew high into the sky, stirring the mountains, and making somehow a simultaneous flight by chance

24 As the earth sank when the apes flew up,²¹ the sea, flowing upstream through the mouths of the rivers, battered the mountains with its waves, loosening and making them capable of being uprooted by the apes.

25 Covered up by the apes, reddish yellow like a blazing fire, and flying in serried ranks, the sky, wherever visible, seemed to be a mass of smoke²²

26 The host of apes, flying high into the air, and reflected in the sea, face downward, seemed to be entering the nether regions with the purpose of uprooting the (submarine) mountains

27 Obscured by the host of apes, the sky, with the regions invisible, was, even at daybreak, bereft of sunshine and gloomy as at the end of the day.

28 With the sunlight passing through the gaps between their slanting backs, the apes swiftly descended on the mountains as the caves resounded with their cries

29 As they vehemently swooped down on the mountains they were detached from the earth with the link shattered, and

19 i.e., the scene described seemed to be a prelude to the building of the causeway by dropping mountains on the ocean as described in Canto VIII somehow stood erect, held fast by the serpents;²³ and so could be lifted by the mere effort of uprooting.²⁴

30 They began to lift the mountains, with the fragments of crumbling rocks falling on their bosom, while the elephants in the woods, attacked by the angry lions, escaped in the confusion.

31 Massive like mountains, the apes matched them as they raised their flanks with their breast, and the mountains likewise matched the apes, bruising the latter's bosom with their flanks²⁵

32 The regions of the earth which became uneven, now sinking, now rising, under the pressure of the mountains while they were pushed and pulled by the arms of the apes, were intermittently filled by the rolling sea²⁶

33 Uprooted were the mountains that had endured the crash of the thunderbolt, and resisted the winds of the epoch of destruction, and disregarded the thrusts²⁷ of the Primeval Boar,²⁸ and were capable of withstanding the waters of the Deluge

34 Some mountains, drenched and abandoned by the rain clouds, and falling in the way of the succeeding autumn,²⁹ crumbled when lifted with a single effort, because they were not perfectly dry and free from moisture.

35 While they were shaken by the apes, the mountains shook the earth While they were turned, they turned the earth While they were bent, they bent the earth While they were raised, they raised up the earth³⁰

37. Beautiful with fresh foliage, and fanned by the cold wind from the womb of the clouds, the sandal trees withered as they tossed about, being at the moment uprooted and flung up by the apes with their hands.³²

38 Scared by the rumble of the clouds, pierced by the peak of a mountain shaken by the apes, a female swan, resting on a lotus, trembled as she fainted, with all trace of happiness gone

39 Rolling and swirling violently in the caverns of the mountains, clasped and pulled by the apes, the streams rumbled heavily, with their outflow obstructed by their wide bosoms

40 They uprooted the mountains, which, partly lifted and loose, had partly sunk, dragged down half the way by the serpents; with the outlets of the streams blocked by the mud of the nether regions³³

41 When the mountains leaned, the sky, rid of the peaks, seemed to be unrolled throughout its length; when they were raised, it seemed to be rolled up again

42 The apes uprooted the mountains, which were held fast by supporting them with their shoulders, while they raised and turned their face aside and looked backwards for fear the flanks should crash down on them

43 Pulled and released by the arms of the apes, the branches of the sandal trees, though broken, did not drop to the ground, but hung loose, gripped by the tight coils of the serpents on the trees

44 The crash of a suddenly broken mountain,³⁴ revealing the prowess of the arms of an ape, and deep as the rumble of the heavy clouds, slowly died away, lingering in the sky

31 The serpents supposed to bear the weight of the earth See verse 19

32 They were getting rid of the trees before uprooting the mountain

33 A variation of verse 36 q v

34 While being uprooted

45. The mountain streams, reddened by the minerals washed by them, meandered in the direction in which the mountains leaned, pushed by the arms of the apes.

46 The mountains, turned round by the apes,³⁵ seemed to turn round amidst the eddies of the waters of their streams swirling and rushing in a united flow, as if they were whirling in the whirlpools of the sea³⁶

47. A pair of bees, with the wings heavy-laden with the honey of flowers, could not leave a cluster of blossoms shed by a sylvan creeper leaning sideways,³⁷ even though they had partaken of the honey

48 When the waters of the mountain lakes surged up,³⁸ the lotus beds rose aloft, flowering in contact with the rays of the sun Tinted by the fragrant honey of the flowers, they were darkened inside by the bees, some at rest, some hidden, and others flying about

49 Deeply rooted in the earth, some mountains, when their peaks were clutched by the apes,³⁹ inclined only when they were pushed up by the huge erect hoods of the infuriated serpents at the base⁴⁰

50 The ever-flowing brooks, swaying as the mountains swayed, and turbid with the mud that was stirred up, swelled for a moment as they ran into one another and became large streams

51 The mighty serpents, adhering to the base of the mountains, were pulled out⁴¹ as they gasped and twisted about, looking alternately black and white,⁴² with half of their bodies writhing inside the earth

52. While the sylvan deities fled from the creepers in fear when a mountain was violently uprooted, even their fresh blossoms dropped, and the young shoots withered, even though the stems were unhurt.

53. The earth seemed to disappear in a moment in the regions in which all the mountains were uprooted. Twin walls appeared to be built in the sky with the mountains,⁴³ and the clouds, the crest of the creepers that were the regions of the sky, dropped in increasing abundance.⁴⁴

54. As each of the apes lifted up a mountain, held fast with his hands, the sky seemed to be half-hidden, and the depths of the earth seemed to be half-revealed.

55. Portions of the earth, held together by the mighty serpents,⁴⁵ rose aloft, adhering to the slopes of the (uprooted) mountains, with sections of the river banks⁴⁶ revealed by the tenuous flow of the streams⁴⁷

56. An intrepid herd of elephants dispersed, being rocked by a mountain, with the caves rocking,⁴⁸ and the peaks of (other) mountains, moist with melting orpiment, inclined unsteadily when they were bent by the apes, thumping with the flat of the hand.

57. Rising from the top of the trees (on the mountains), and scattered by the force of the wind blowing from the Malaya woods, the pollen of the flowers pervaded the sky like the evening glow, obscuring the rays of the sun

62 The trees, bent as a mountain leaned over,⁵² were smashed and levelled with the ground with their shattered fragments, and the clouds resounded with the din of the Mahendra mountain as it parted asunder, while the creepers of its woods swayed, lightly touching the ground

63 The serpents, with their hoods sunk in the heavy mass of the mountains, were not aware even when their massive bodies, with the lower half coiled up in the depths of the earth, snapped with a loud noise as the apes pulled up the mountains⁵³

66. Some of the mountains tumbled down,⁵⁶ rent in the middle, some with the encircling rocks dislodged from half of the slopes; and others crumbling under the blows of the apes, with only half of the peaks left.

67. When the peak of a mountain was deemed inadequate,⁵⁷ or when a mountain had to be supported, because it cracked as it fell, it was discarded even after the effort of uprooting, because it was deficient in weight⁵⁸

68 Because of separation from the dejected leader of the herd, the weeping cow elephants shed tears that were hidden by the eyelashes, and regarded the taste of the fresh grass as rank poison.

69. The earth was capable of sustaining the weight of the apes even while it was convulsed,⁵⁹ because it reposed on the outstretched hoods of the lord of serpents,⁶⁰ enraged by the uprooting of the mountains

71. As the apes uprooted the mountains the sky seemed to be raised aloft,⁶² the regions of the sky seemed to be driven wide apart, and the earth seemed to be expanded⁶³

72 Dark red as an ominous glow of the sky, the massive radiance of the gems, embedded in the hoods of the serpent Ananta,⁶⁴ was seen emerging through the deep cavities that marked the site of the mountains uprooted by the host of apes.

73 The strength of Rāvana's arms, though it was great and seen at its best when applied to the Kailāsa mountain, was thrown into the shade by the apes, who each uprooted a mountain with a single hand⁶⁵

74 The nether regions, with their dense gloom blending with the rays of the sun, entering through the chasms left by the uprooted mountains, became dusky like greyish smoke as the darkness grew sparse

75 As the apes uprooted the mountains, their own abode, regardless of their own interest, they earned glory, in spite of being liable to blame, because they were solely devoted to their master's work

76 The mountains, with their broad base held fast on the shoulders of the apes, became lighter, though heavy, because the streams were swept away by the wind rising from the speed of the apes⁶⁶

77 Thereupon, having uprooted all the mountains, the apes quickly flew into the sky, raising cries, even more swiftly than when they alighted on them⁶⁷

78 The nimble and swift-flying apes carried the vast and heavy and unshakeable mountains to the sky with a single effort, as if with agile wings.

79. The earth, trampled and abandoned by the apes, became level again when the cavities left by the mountains were filled by the united streams,⁶⁸ and the rugged masses of earth that had gone up (with the mountains) broke away and returned to the site

80 While the mountains, their abode, were carried away, the hinds started to run, but turned back, distraught with fear, and the woods were beautiful as they turned round and looked up in bewilderment for a while.

81 When the mountains were uprooted, their rivers were cut off from their source While they were lifted up, they poured straight down While they were carried away, they rushed close behind them in a lengthening stream ⁶⁹

82 Powerful as the clouds of the epoch of destruction, the mountains pervaded the sky, with the herds of deer looking skyward, the birds hidden in the caves, and the Sun's steeds travelling across the peaks

83 The apes returned (to the sea), with the mountains fixed on their shoulders, the peaks supported with the upraised right hand, and the broad flanks held up with the upturned left hand.

84 How was it that the sky that was not spacious enough for the apes, when at the outset of their journey⁷⁰ they rushed forth empty-handed, now had enough space for them as well as the mountains?

85 The apes carried the mountains along, with their basic portions simultaneously uprooted and lifted, and coming into contact with each other, and the outlets of the streams obliterated by the friction of each other's towering peaks ⁷¹

86 Oppressed with the weight of the mountains, the apes passed on, having watched for a long while the ocean-like cavities left by the massive mountains, erewhile uprooted (by themselves).

87 The large streams, stretching across the mountains⁷² while they were speedily rushed through the air, seemed to flow in the sky, lengthening in their course, with the clouds that joined them for a moment serving as their banks

88 As the mountains came into contact with each other in the sky, the mountain-high wild elephants were locked in each other's tusks,⁷³ and rocked when the mountains were rocked by the apes, and did not part even when the mountains parted

89 The faces of the Regions of the sky, with the quivering clouds, (maidens as it were with heaving bosoms), with tiny portions seen through the gaps between the mountains,⁷⁴ seemed to be covered⁷⁵ with the fragrant pollen of the flowers (of the mountain trees) inhaled by them⁷⁶

90 As the peaks crumbled owing to the speed of the flight, the mountains, held up by the apes with one hand, were steadied by them with the other hand, while the serpents quivered, pierced by their nails.

91 Falling off the summit of the mountains carried by the apes as they rushed through the sky, the large streams became for a moment cascades on the succeeding mountains⁷⁷

92 They carried the mountains along, with the trees uprooted by the speed, the clouds resembling the massive flanks parting asunder, and the elephants, oppressed with the intense heat of the sun, crouching within the caves

95 The trail of the apes reaching to the sea looked like a second causeway,⁸² being strewn with fragments of broken trees, and uneven with the mountains that had crumbled to the ground when raised aloft.

CANTO VII

1 Then did they begin to build the causeway that was to be the touchstone of their valour; the precursor of the overthrow of Rāvana's might; the abiding symbol of Rāma's fame.

2 Thereupon the mountains, held up in the sky, were dropped by the apes on the sea, even as the portions of the earth that broke away while it was raised from the waters of the Deluge were dropped on the sea by the arms of the Primeval Boar¹

3 As the mountains dropped the sea vanished from sight, it rocked as they plunged far down; it was convulsed as they slumped in a trice, and swelled as they disappeared in the waters

4 The waters of the ocean, first surging up, and then rolling into the beach, became turbid as they filled up with the whirling woods swept away from the mountains,² with the animals killed and overturned

5 Even with the mountains vanishing in the waters, the interval between the sky and the ocean appeared to be full of mountains as before, because masses of other mountains imperceptibly gathered again³

6 The mountains were uprooted, and the ocean rocked by the apes, striking terror into the enemy Not only the strength of will but also the enterprises of those who have lofty aims are great

7 As a mountain came into view it seemed that it would span the sea; but none knew whither the mountains, plunging into the sea, were gone amidst the waters

2 Cf Kṛṣṇa in Extracts

3 The verse describes the unbroken succession of the mountains dropped by the apes

9. The volume of water that rushed skyward, thrown up by the mountain peaks (plunging into the sea), looked like a conglomeration of stars as it came down with the gems⁴

10. Swiftly flung by the apes, the mountains, encircled by their massive swirling cascades, seemed to move round in whirlpools even before reaching the sea.

11. Even before a group of mountains, brought together in an instant and thrown down, dropped into the sea, with the apes flying out⁵ empty-handed through the gaps between the peaks, another group of mountains gathered in the sky.

12. When the mountains were speedily thrown into the sea, their long, winding and broad tracks, deep down to the bottom, rumbled as they filled with wind.

13. Lifted and released by the apes, thousands of mountains, crumbling as they dashed against one another in the sky, plunged into the sea, as if stupefied with terror of the thunder-bolt⁶

14. Grey with the pollen of the flowers swirling from the trees, the mountains, with the rocks and peaks torn asunder, dropped first, and thereafter their great streams stirred up by the wind

15. Watched by the apes as they stood still, the mountains slowly disappeared in the sea, with their winding course distinctly visible amidst the clear waters

16. The gems, rising to the surface, with their quivering filament-shaped rays emerging through the flower-like foam, showed that the ocean was stirred to its depths

17. The sea rocked the earth as it did the shore; shattered the mountains as it broke the customary law;⁷ resorted to the sky⁸ even as it resorted to fear; and forsook the nether regions⁹ even as it abandoned its natural calm.

18. The mountains were thrown headlong into the waters as they slanted. The branch-roots of the trees issued through the moving branches¹⁰ The clouds were thrust upward by the (overturned) base of the mountains, and the cascades rolled upside down.

19 As the mountains were hidden in the gloom caused by sea spray rising high into the air, as a result of more and more mountains incessantly falling, the roar of the raging sea alone proclaimed that they had dropped.

20. The apes moved about, with their hair wet with spray, and the face smeared with the minerals of the mountains melting from subterranean heat, while their shoulders were at ease, because the mountains were cast down.

21 Released by the apes with the peaks upward, the mountains leaned over at the top, with the trees tossed by the wind, and dropped into the sea with the peaks down, growing lighter as the cascades poured out.

22 Yellow with orpiment,¹¹ the tracks of the sinking mountains were covered with the flowers¹² piled up by the waters as they divided and returned, and with the broken fragments of the floating Sallakī trees, fragrant with the ichor of elephants¹³

23 A herd of angry wild buffaloes, with rolling red eyes, that tumbled off the summit of a mountain, partly submerged in the waters, disappeared as they turned round in a whirlpool.

25. Dragged by the stiff trunks of the sea elephants, the lions¹⁴ roared and pierced their temples with their fangs, the cavity of their mouths filling up with blood from the former's heads mixed with pearls.¹⁵

26. Infuriated by the commotion of the falling mountains, the elephants plunged into the waters, overturning the sea elephants, but were helpless with their hind legs savagely lacerated by the oncoming crocodiles

28 The rumbling nether regions of the earth as well as the ocean were likewise entirely laid bare, the former by the mountains while they were uprooted, and the latter by those plunging into the waters¹⁶

29 Turning round while they were swiftly pushed down, the mountains, which enveloped the clouds, and were surrounded by noisy swirling cascades, dropped into the sea, with the leaning creepers clinging to them

30 The apes, who broke parts of the mountains as they hurled them down with their arms, and were bathed in the waters surging sky-high, came ashore one by one,¹⁷ shaking their massive hair.

31. The nether regions looked like the vault of the sky with its empty expanse, and the sky looked like the nether regions, time and again, when they were respectively abandoned and filled by the waters of the sea, thrown up by the impact of the mountains.¹⁸

18 The waters of the sea, stirred up by the falling mountains, are fancied as alternately soaring to the sky and coming down, in the course of which the bed of the sea, when empty of the waters, looked like the sky, and the sky, when flooded with water, looked like the sea floor.

32 The mountains dropped into the sea, with the lotus beds at the summit withered, because the water of the lakes had run out through the bottom split by the commotion, while the peaks, with the panic-stricken elephants clinging to them, cracked and collapsed.

33 Rent by the impact of the mountains, the sea roared and overflowed its shore and swirled, dashing over the rugged ground. It was reduced to the condition of being churned, only did not bring forth nectar¹⁹

34. Lo, even the preparation to reach the city of the demons caused formidable efforts. Mountains were uprooted and cast into the sea, and the ocean uttered terrible groans in peril of its life.

35 Pushed by the apes, the mountains, covered with the fragrant pollen of the flowers, tumbled into the sea as their slabs of gold, shattered by the impact, rose aloft, flashing across the sky

36 The cries of the apes swelled, and the sea rolled with the submarine fire rolling, while the mountains dropped, with the cascades shooting up, and the trees stretched out by the wind

37 Exhilarated by the sap of the broken and crushed sandal trees, the fish of the large streams,²⁰ returning after being thrown far into the sea, and briskly splashing about, tasted the brackish water of the sea

38 Green at the top because of the trees, and tinged with red by the gems embedded in the hoods of the serpents, and bereft of sunlight in the caves, the mountains tumbled into the sea, with their rugged slopes crumbling to pieces

39 As the earth slanted swiftly, and became unsteady all of a sudden, when the waters of the ocean were flung up by the impact of the mountains, it was somehow held up by the lord of the serpents by changing its posture.²¹

40. All at once, the mountains remembered their terror of the thunder-bolt,²² and the earth the thrusts of the hooves of the Primeval Boar,²³ and the ocean the commotion of the churning — all that had been forgotten by them²⁴

41 Imperilled through Rāvaṇa's fault, the ocean that flooded²⁵ the sandal groves of the Malaya mountain, roared, battered by the mountain peaks, as if it remembered the pain caused when it was churned.

42 As the mountains disappeared in the waters, crumbling as they crashed, a cloud of spray, tinged with red by the broken corals, rose aloft, even like the swirling dust from the minerals

43 Heaving as they were stirred up by the mountain peaks, the broad waters of the sea, tinged with a different hue by the sap of the broken sandal trees and by the broken plants, roared as they rolled amidst the mountains, with the waves coloured by the dissolving minerals

60 The spreading masses of gems, the best of the jewels, were reduced to dust, crushed by the rocks of the mountains in the depths of the sea, and the expanse of the sky, decked with unfaded clouds, was thronged with rows of swans, girdles, as it were, encircling the woods on the mountains

61 The nether regions rumbled, the earth cracked, and the clouds were forced down³⁶ The apes moved about in the sky; the mountains were dropped, and the sea, pounded by the mountains, rolled on the beach for long, racked with pain

The large and white ornamental pearls, issuing from inside the broken oyster-shells, and stuck in the coral-reefs, seemed to be flowery adornment furnished with tender shoots, when they came into contact with the branches of the trees that fell into the sea³⁷

The sea was covered with pale withered leaves from the sinking woods, and the helpless fish tossed about, intoxicated by the stringent sap exuding from the broken Madana trees³⁸ (66)

The tender creepers were crumpled up with their leaves and roots crushed under the weight of the mountains, and the flowers of the trees lost their colour, withering in contact with the trees with poisonous leaves (67)

The sky was obscured by the spray of the cascades on the summit of the mountains spinning in the whirlpools, and the serpents, overpowered by the smell of the plants that fell into the waters,³⁹ emerged helpless from the bottom of the sea. (68)

CANTO VIII

1-2 When thus the mountains vanished as they dropped into the sea, even though they had covered the sky with their expanse, and drenched the banners of the aerial cars of the gods with the cascades on their summit, the mountains left over were set down by the apes on the margin of the beach, their weight being felt by them for a moment as the flanks slipped off their tired quivering hands.

3 Rid of the upheaval caused by the mountains, the waters of the sea, placid with soft undulation, became calm even as they moved back and forth, without reaching the range of their former surge

4 Rocked by the commotion caused by the mountains, the sea returned to its former state. The whirlpools, broken up (by the mountains), formed again, the crumbling mountains moved round amidst the whirlpools, and the heaving waters receded from the shore.

5 The natural calm of the sea that was invisible for a while was seen again, with the din subsiding, and the whirlpools partly forming in the customary places

6 The waters became calm, with flowers mingling with pearls, the whirlpools filled with broken leaves and emeralds, the young shoots combining with corals, and the white lotus blossoms mixed with conch-shells¹

7 The lustre of the minerals of the mountains, soaked in water, was seen on the surface of the sea as it faded away, reddish like the decaying sunlight, and blending with the colour of the crushed flowers as they emerged, being just detached from the trees²

8 Overpowered by the heat of the sun, the sea elephants that had come ashore, scenting the elephants of the woods,³ returned to the sea, their faces drenched and cooled by the spray from their trunks.

9. The mouths of the rivers (entering the sea), made turbid by the broken trees, with the white foam mingling with their astringent sap, became grey with dust as the waters surged over the banks⁴

10. Tossed about on the raging sea, portions of the flanks of the Malaya mountain joined the flanks of the Mahendra, and sections of the Mahendra joined the slopes of the Malaya, with the herds of elephants crushed (by the waves).

11 The broad and white expanse of the beach, with the surface rippled by the slowly receding waters, and thickly studded with pearls, looked like the (white and spotted) slough of Vāsukī⁵

12. The masses of water that had been flung up by the impact of the mountains (on the sea), and were visible for a long while as they descended back from the sky, again stirred up the sea that had been disturbed and calmed down.

14 "The apes are worn out The earth hath only a few remote mountains left But the causeway is not visible. Let not Rāma's mighty bow be bent again⁷

15 'Wine, the young moon, nectar, the goddess of wealth, and Pārijāta, the best of trees, together with the Kaustubha gem: is all this of lesser value than the causeway⁸ that the Ocean doth not grant it⁹ despite his promise?¹⁰

7. i.e., to chastise the ocean, as described in Canto V

8 i.e., is the causeway more important than all these?

9. i.e., does not allow it to be built

10 The idea is, during the churning by the gods and demons, the ocean had given up wine, nectar etc even without any promise, so it is unlikely

16. 'Rāma's arrows, stuck deep in the bottom of the sea, are smouldering still,¹¹ with their flames beaten down and noisily quenched by the seething waters.

17 'Wise one, build therefore a causeway even today. Let the widely separated Malaya and Suvela¹² mountains unite, and the vast expanse of the sea divide in twain.'

18 Distinct in lustre from the host of apes because of his confidence in his art, Nala thereupon clearly spoke, respectfully raising his timorous eyes before the lord of the apes.

19 'Lord of the apes, confidently do I speak before the apes as well as Rāma The confidence thou hast reposed in me in respect of the causeway shall not be in vain.

20 'Let the mountains be destroyed, the nether regions rent asunder,¹³ the ocean convulsed, and my life sacrificed. But thy confidence in me shall be justified even today.

21 'So behold a causeway, wide as the earth, built by me across the great ocean as on the surface of the earth, with the gap between the Malaya and the Suvela filled up with mountains clinging together.

22 'Shall the host of apes cross the sea by a bridge of mountains set firmly together, or shall it march across the slightly raised bed of the sea after its waters have been swept away?

23 'Or, behold. Let the Malaya, firmly held by my hands, and advancing upon the Suvela, sweep the intervening sea away, like as an elephant charging at its opponent shakes off the veil¹⁴ that it will now break its promise by obstructing the building of the causeway The idea of the causeway was suggested by the Ocean as described in Canto VI.

11 Sugrīva refers to the chastisement of the sea for failure to grant passage to Rāma's army, as described in Canto V, and envisages the possibility of a similar catastrophe if there is further delay in building a causeway.

12 See verse 83

13 i.e., by the mountains dropped into the sea

14 Nala means that he will push the Malaya mountain through the sea to link it to the Suvela in Lankā, sweeping the waters away in the process! The Malaya advancing towards the Suvela is likened to a blindfolded elephant which charges at a rival elephant by shaking off its veil to which the sea is compared See 2.22, 13.59.

24. 'Or, I will build a bridge in the sky, composed of mountains, compact like clouds in massive array, and strong enough for the march of the swift-running apes'

25 'Or, let the mountains of the nether regions, brought out of the depths of the sea, and held motionless above the waters, form the road to Laṅkā, with their wings drooping under the load of water'¹⁵

26 'So build a causeway, following my lead, and methodically releasing the mountains Vitiated heretofore by wrong methods, it will soon be built with ease'

27 Cheered thus by Nala's words, the army of apes bestirred themselves as they uttered prolonged cries, with their fatigue gone, and filled the ten directions with the mountains lifted up by them

28, 29 Thereupon, after a ceremonial bath in the pleasant waters of the sea, and paying obeisance first to his father,¹⁶ and thereafter to Rāma's feet and to Sugrīva, Nala first planted in the ocean a mountain, red with gold and other minerals, with the mouths of the caves filled with leafy branches of Aśoka trees, like an auspicious pitcher (of gold, decked with leafy Aśoka twigs)

30 One of the mountains set down on the beach¹⁷ was at the very outset dropped by Nala on the sea in such a way that the initial phase of the causeway that was to bring disaster to Laṅkā began to be seen

31 The sea, with the waters thrown up by the impact of the mountains (dropped by the apes), swirled in the sky in such a manner that the regions of the sky, grey with the dust of the mountains, were cleansed all at once.

32 Soaked in water, and clinging together, the mountains, with the join imperceptible, were not parted from each other, even though battered by the raging sea.

17 See verse 2

33 Blocked by a mountain dropped on the beach, the channels of the rivers by which they entered the sea became, in fact, outlets by which the waters flowed backwards

34 The mountains, even though released by the apes with the peaks downwards, turned over, being heavy at the base, and dropped on Nala's Way,¹⁸ with the peaks upwards, exactly in the position in which they were uprooted

35 The lions,¹⁹ tossed by the sea elephants, shook up the latter's faces, firmly thrusting their claws into them, while their mane moved about the temples (of the sea elephants), which were severely mangled and swallowed up in their mouths

36 The infuriated wild elephants (on the mountains) became aware that their massive trunks, stretched out at the smell of their adversaries, the sea elephants, were torn away by the latter, only when the wounds came into contact with the briny water of the sea

37 Having built a portion of the causeway, the apes flew aloft, and dragged down the submarine mountains as they flew out of the sea, grasping their wings with both their hands²⁰

38 With the streaming mass of his hair ruffled up at the moment, Nala, too, put the causeway together as he lifted the mountains from the outstretched hands of the apes with his hands curved beside his hips

39 When a cavity at the bottom, caused by the numerous mountains (dropped by the apes), was discovered in the heaving sea, it was covered up by a single mountain, larger in extent, and fixed firm (by Nala)

40 As the apes fixed each mountain that reached to the bottom of the sea, Nala, planting his foot thereon, built the causeway further and further

18 The causeway is thus designated in honour of Nala

19 Those tumbling off the mountains into the sea

20 See 551 for a similar picture Here, the winged mountains try to escape from the sea to avoid being crushed by the causeway

41. Receiving the mountains (accurately) released by the apes as well as those dropping at the wrong place in the causeway, Nala put them in position and joined them together, all at once.

42. The sea supported the mountains set firmly together by Nala, and brought into position those dropping at the wrong place; while it surged in front of the causeway with a heavy swell.

44. The mountains of the nether regions, devoted to the service of the Ocean, and crowned with moss, sustained the mountains tottering in the partly built causeway, with extensive lotus beds in the pools on their summit

45. Starting from the margin of the beach, the emerald-green stretch of woods (on the mountains of the causeway), with the glistening branches, swayed as it was rocked by the rush of waters moving back and forth

46 The serpents, coiled about the tusks of the sea elephants, and looking like iron rings, fell to the ground when they were tossed up during the latter's fight with the elephants (on the mountains), scared by the commotion of the sea

47 The volume of sea water that returned after being driven far afield by the falling mountains was the first to adjust Nala's Way when it inclined in another direction²²

48 The elephants, half submerged in the heaving waters, with their ichor streaming freely, tore the serpents clinging to their feet, like ropes, stretching and pulling them (with their trunks)²³

49 The waves rolled, made brighter by the lustre of the gems, with the broken emeralds greener in contact with the juice of the fruits (dropping from the trees on the mountains), and the foam made whiter by the shattered conch-shells.

52 With half of the causeway emerging, and half of the mountains dropped on the sea, and half of the sea floor²⁵ covered up,²⁶ the waters of the ocean gave for a moment partial²⁷ joy to the hearts of the apes.

53 When the sea was driven afar off,²⁸ the causeway appeared to be built,²⁹ but when it was flooded as the sea returned, it looked as if it had been just³⁰ begun

54 Even the nether regions were filled by the mountains, but not the footprints of the Great Boar,³¹ which pervaded the ocean, and impeded the movements of the irate elephants of the quarters³²

55 Churned up by the mountains, the waters of the sea, which assumed the colour of the young shoots of plants³³ by dashing against the slopes of the mountains rich in minerals, and were astringent to the taste and fragrant in contact with the broken trees, seemed to be producing wine (as in days of old)³⁴

56 Whilst the sea rocked the mountains standing apart in the causeway, it became compact as the peaks crumbled and filled up the gaps

64. Having long battered the sides of the causeway, and thrown up the trees, the waves, tinged with the colour of the minerals,⁴¹ died away after rolling far into the sea.

65 The deer (on the mountains of the causeway) looked at the ocean, and the people at Nala, all together, with eyes full of fear lest the mountains should topple down; and the waters of the streams⁴² that cascaded far into the sea rose aloft as they dashed (against the waves) to the music provided by the jubilation of the apes⁴³

66-70 Thus did they build Nala's Way. Its mighty structure was built with heaps of mountains uprooted from the entire earth; and, in contact with its reflection was darkened a part of the waters even in the depths of the sea.

The tail fins of the fish were lopped off, violently hit by the rocks falling sideways from the causeway; while the serpents, rent in twain by a rock, split it with the pressure of their coils (67)

The lions chased the elephants who, when seized, ran away in the confusion caused by the uprooting of the mountains,⁴⁴ while torrents of water poured down from the rumbling clouds, settling on the peaks of the mountains, and wafted to the causeway, because they were pressed by other mountains that followed⁴⁵ (68)

The cascades⁴⁶ gushed forth in twin streams, because their outlets were blocked by the elephants that fell beside them, while the sections of the Malaya peaks could be distinguished by the sandal groves standing in between the mountains⁴⁷ (69)

41 Those embedded in the mountains of the causeway.

42 Those on the mountains of the causeway.

43 Rāmādāsa refers to a belief that water rises to the sound of musical instruments

44 i.e., while the mountains were uprooted and brought to the causeway.

45 The clouds are fancied as accompanying the mountains carried to the causeway through the air, closely followed by other mountains, as described in Canto VI

46 Those on the mountains of the causeway

47 i.e., sandal trees were visible on the peaks of the Malaya mountain interspersed in the causeway

The creepers hung loose from the trees, partly uncoiled, being lashed by the waves, and the sea swirled, entering through the gaps between the thinly scattered peaks (70)

71. The causeway stretched ahead, the sea rocked, battered by the mountains, and, as they saw the Suvela range⁴⁸ the host of apes set up a yell, filling the regions with echoes

72. In the midst of the sea, with the waters parting asunder, were seen portions of the wings of the submarine mountains, crushed by the causeway, and torn as they hurriedly tugged at them when they fled from the ocean, crazed with fear⁴⁹

73 The apes restored Nala's Way when it by degrees tended to break up, the mountains at the base being eroded and worn away by the waters, stirred up by the impact of the mountains (dropped on the sea).

74 As the great causeway reached very near the farther shore, conquering the sea, the intervening water, because of its smaller extent, dashed high when hit by the mountains

75. The masses of water, thrown up by the impact of the mountains on the sea, spattered down on the causeway, and turned into large swirling streams

76 The causeway, with part of the slope of the Suvela almost touching it, appeared to be complete, the intervening stretch of sea being filled up by the whales rushing in from either side

77. As Nala shook up the causeway, because the big mountains stood uneven, the ocean flooded the entire earth, and slowly receded

78 The sea flowed for a moment, like a stream, in the gap between the causeway and the Suvela, heaving as it was hit by the mountains dropped by the apes, who rejoiced at their task being almost finished

79. As the powerful apes built the forepart of the causeway Rāvana's heart was rent asunder along with the waters of the sea

48. In Lankā.

49 A variation of the picture given in verse 37.

80 The Suvela, with its foundations reaching into the nether regions, and its streams incessantly flowing, fitted in with the forepart of the bridge of mountains, even standing where it stood⁵⁰

81 The lord of the apes (Sugrīva), even though he was on the summit of the Malaya, standing beside Rāma, knew from the jubilation of the apes that the causeway was completed with the last of the mountains

82 The selfsame sea appeared to be different now and again. When Nala's Way was begun, it looked entire, when it was partly erected, the sea was divided unequally into three parts,⁵¹ and when it was complete, it was divided in twain

83 The massive causeway, starting from the summit of the Malaya, and weighed down by the passing apes, was supported as it rocked by the Suvela, like as a falling tree is supported by another tree⁵²

84 With the eastern and western regions divided by the great causeway, the sky seemed to be raised up in the middle and uneven, inclining with both sides sloping downwards.⁵³

85 Stretching across the waters of the sea resembling the sky, the causeway, joined to the Malaya and the Suvela, was clearly visible, like the track of the Sun's chariot extending from the mount of Sunrise to that of Sunset

86 With the great mountain peaks resting on the bosom of the sea,⁵⁴ rocked by the wind, the causeway looked like a floating mountain with its wide-spread wings⁵⁵

50 i e , the Suvela became the last mountain of the causeway on the southern shore

51 i e the two sides of the causeway and the open front

52 The causeway extended from the Malaya mountain on the northern shore to the Suvela in Lankā

53 The sky is likened to a pavilion with the eastern and western regions looking like sloping roofs, with the bridge of mountains standing in the middle like a row of pillars

54 i e , reflected in the sea

55 The reflections of the mountain peaks on both sides of the causeway are likened to the legendary wings of the mountains that took refuge in the sea Sec 5.37.

87 Discontent, deep sighs, loss of sleep, pallor and weakness passed from Rāma to Rāvana while the causeway was being built.

88 Massive and lofty and formidable, the causeway stretched away, parting the sea in twain, like the hand of Death, to destroy Rāvana with his kinsmen.

89 Rāvana's heart, unrelenting by nature, and steadfast in martial zeal, was pierced by the rugged causeway, heavy with the mountains, as by a spear, even though it was far away

90 The trees on the slopes of the causeway were plain to view, with the bees clinging to the flowers drenched with the water of the heaving sea, and the drooping young shoots flickering on the mountains on the flanks

91 Portions of the causeway, built of crystal rocks, and interspersed between the mountains, seemed at places to be rent in the middle, being similar in colour to the tranquil sea⁵⁶

92 Peaks of the Himālaya, covered with snow, and those of the Malaya, fragrant with the crushed sandal trees, could be clearly recognised, even though built into Nala's Way

93 The causeway looked like the extensive shore-line of the sea,⁵⁷ being rocked by the rush of the waters advancing and receding, and filled with the monsters of the deep

94 The lions that fell into the sea when the mountains were thrown in, were seen slowly emerging from the waters, and resting on the flanks of the causeway, cumbered with their heavy mane drenched with water

95 The animals of the eastern and western parts of the sea that had gone to see the western and eastern parts respectively,⁵⁸ saw their homes no more,⁵⁹ their way being barred by the bridge

⁵⁶ i.e., the waters of the sea, visible through the transparent rocks, seemed to flow through gaps in the causeway

⁵⁷ Lit The extensive paths of the seashore appeared also on the causeway Some take velā in the sense of waves, which are explained as sweeping over the causeway

⁵⁸ i.e., before the building of the causeway.

⁵⁹ i.e., could not return

96 The high-peaked mountains, red with minerals, standing on either shore, looked like flagstaffs marking the causeway, with the white, wind-swept cascades serving as banners.

97 Having built the causeway, and scattered on the ground the mountains left over, the host of apes set out on their march, inspired by Rāma with martial ardour as he marched with them

98 As they passed they beheld the sea, divided in twain by the causeway, and reduced in extent, with the waters diminished on one side, being consumed by the submarine fire⁶⁰

99, 100 The host of apes marched over Nala's Way, the bridge linked to both shores, that was full of white lotus blossoms as well as conch shells, heaps of broken green leaves as well as bright emeralds, and young shoots mingling with corals⁶¹

The causeway bent under the weight, with the mountains coming loose, but the ocean supported it firmly with all its strength, pressing hard upon the nether regions

101 Obstructed by the causeway, the sea, like a wild elephant tied to a post, rocked the flanks of the bridge, and spread over it its massive waves, even as an elephant stretches out its trunk and shakes the post (to uproot it).

102 Bathed in sweat after they had carried loads of mountains, the apes crossed the sea, and laved their hands soiled by the minerals, in the cascades of the mountains on the flanks of the causeway

103 They reached the summit of the Suvela that had groves befitting the trees brought from the Nandana garden by Rāvana, where the sylvan creepers were crushed under the weight of the clouds settling on them with their load of water.

104 Hearing that the host of apes had crossed the sea, with their valour unresisted, the demons became remiss in carrying out the orders of their master

⁶¹ The flowers and leaves belonged to the mountains of the causeway, and the corals, emeralds etc were those washed up by the waves

105. While the host of apes was busy stationing themselves on the seashore, Death touched Rāvana's head with his left hand ⁶²

106-7 While Rāma's power and that of Rāvana, unparalleled in the region encompassed by the Lokāloka mountain,⁶³ expanded and receded respectively, divided by the intervening wall of Lankā,⁶⁴ and when Rāma, beloved of the gods, crossed the ocean, like the moon that rose from it.⁶⁵ the disturbed sea assumed a serene beauty accompanied with splendour, (as it once did when lovely wine emerged with the goddess of wealth from its waters while it was churned).⁶⁶

62 Indicates the ease with which Rāvana would be destroyed

63 i.e., in the entire world The mountain belt, called Lokāloka, is the circular boundary between Loka (the region illumined by the sun and other luminaries) and Aloka, the region of perpetual darkness As the Bhāgavata says, 'it was placed by Īśvara on the limit of the three worlds, and its height and breadth are such that the rays of the heavenly luminaries, from the sun to the polar star, which spread over the regions within the mountain, cannot penetrate beyond it' See Viṣṇupurāṇa, Bk II, chap 4 and Wilson's Trans. and Bhāgavata 5.20.34 ff and the comm of Śrīdharaśvāmīn Kālidāsa refers to the mountain in a simile in Raghu 1.68

64 i.e., Rāma's power extended as far as the wall of Lankā, while that of Rāvana was confined within the limits of the city

65 i.e., during the churning of the ocean by the gods and demons

66 Acc to Kulānātha When Rāma, beloved of the gods, like the moon, crossed the ocean, accompanied by the goddess of victory, the disturbed sea assumed a serene beauty, (as it did when the moon emerged with the goddess of wealth while it was churned)

CANTO IX

1 The apes beheld the Suvēla mountain that seemed to engulf the southern region, and stretch away to cover the remaining regions, extending its great peaks to pervade the entire world

2 It was capable of sustaining the weight of the ocean, just as Viṣṇu is capable of sustaining the weight of the universe, and the serpent Ananta that of Viṣṇu, worn out with the burden of the universe, and the ocean likewise that of Ananta¹

3 It was capable of bearing the weight of the earth Its streams were capable of filling the ocean It was able to measure the sky Its flanks were strong enough to withstand the winds of the epoch of destruction

4 It seemed to have driven the regions of the sky afar off, and weighed down the entire nether world deep below, and raised the sky to a greater altitude Only the fruits and flowers of its trees were within easy reach

5 Rivers flowed down its flanks It was firmly planted in the nether regions and the depths of the sea It seemed as if it were the earth, slanting for a moment, while being lifted from the ocean by the Primal Boar²

6 Its foundations filled the nether regions It was fixed firm by ramming it down with the tip of the thunderbolt It seemed to be a post to which the elephants of the gods were tied, with its sides smoothed down by the rubbing of their shoulders

7 The extremity of its base was not seen even by the lord of serpents³ that crushed the nether regions (with its weight) Its lofty peaks were not reached even by Viṣṇu when he extended his frame to wrest the universe (from the demon Bālī)⁴

8 It drove back the waters of the sea, and was encircled by the great serpents moving about its slopes and encompassed by the sun with its rays as it stood beside it,⁵ just as the Mandara mountain, encircled by the great serpent (Vāsukī), and held fast by Viṣṇu with his arms, convulsed the waters of the ocean (during the churning) ⁶

9 It dispelled the gloom of the nether regions with the radiance of its bejewelled base, scraped by the gems on the head of the serpent Ananta,⁷ while it plunged the sky into darkness, because the orb of the sun disappeared in the recesses of its rugged and lofty peaks

10 Streaks of nectar ran down its dark rocky wall, scraped by the side of the (passing) moon,⁸ and the track of the Sun's chariot could be recognised, because it profusely emitted vapours, when flooded with moonbeams⁹

11 With the moon clinging to the summit, and patches of water-filled clouds thinly scattered on the flanks, the mountain at night looked like an elephant of the gods, holding aloft a torn lotus-stalk (with its trunk), with its body spattered here and there with mud.¹⁰

12 The courses of the streams flowing from the summit were seen from afar, revealed by lines of verdant woods, and the young shoots, torn and withered by the wind, were refreshed in contact with the back of the moon

13 The peaks soared, and the vast and clear reflection of the mountain was seen in the waters of the sea. It seemed as if it were struck by portentous lightning, and being riven asunder at the top, one side of it had fallen into the sea

6 The ocean was churned by the gods and demons, using the Māndara mountain as a churn-staff, with Vāsukī serving as a rope

7. See verse 7

8 The moon is supposed to be composed of nectar

9 .The misty exhalation on the mountain at night is fancied as being caused by the flaming track of the sun being quenched by the rays of the moon, cool as a shower

10. The moon is likened to a torn lotus stalk, and the patches of clouds to spattered mud.

14 The broad expanse of its base was sustained by Ananta's heavy hoods by turns,¹¹ while the other mountains were dashed to pieces, when uprooted and blown on to its lofty slopes by the winds of the epoch of destruction.

15 The huge buffaloes on the mountain lay still and refreshed as the water-filled clouds pressed against them, and the pearls that were inside the temples of the elephants, killed (by lions), stuck fast as they dried on the blood-stained slabs of stone.¹²

16 The colour of the young leaves of the trees faded slightly in contact with the briny sea spray, and the deer ran away, scared by the roar of lions, but stopped short, bending a leg, and pricking up their ears

17 The mountain seemed to encompass the regions of the sky,¹³ which stood within its limits, enveloped by its slopes, and enclosed within its sunlit caves.

18 It was vast in extent, and at night the flaming lustre of its gems spread far into the sky. The antelopes, lying at ease, nibbled the tips of grass on its peaks. It was rocked heavily by the arrows, with which Rāma in his wrath had cloven the sea asunder¹⁴ It was drenched with oozings of nectar from the orb of the moon¹⁵ resting upon its summit.

19 Its foundations reached into the depths of the sea, and it was invisible¹⁶ at the top which was beyond the range of the rays of the sun So its dimensions were half hidden in the sky as they were in the waters of the sea

20 It was enveloped in a dense mass of fragrant vapour rising from the friction of the sandal trees swayed by the wind The clouds that had partly absorbed the waters of the sea held on to its peaks, being heavy-laden at the other end¹⁷

11 i.e., Ananta used its thousand hoods in turn to bear the weight of the mountain

12 See verse 24

13. It seemed to stand all around the regions of the sky.

14. See Canto V

15 Cf verse 10

16 Or, bereft of light

17 The clouds are fancied as clinging to the peaks because they were dragged down by the load at the lower end.

21. It withstood the waters of the sea with its base, and caused the anger of the lions, knocked down by the cascades at the top. It was crowned with a garland of planets, and wore a wreath, the orb of the moon resting upon its peaks.

22. Its summit towered over the moon. The streams in its caverns were windless and calm. It dispelled darkness with its flanks rich in gems, and the deer lay sound asleep on the slabs of gold.

23. Pierced and tossed by the elephant (with its tusks), the tiger turned back and pounced on the former's temples, while the lustre of the gems on the hoods of the serpents, asleep in the cavities, issued forth like a jet of water.

24. The slopes, rich in gems, seemed to bristle with thorns, like nettles, on account of the incessant sea spray,¹⁸ and the lion roared, riding on the elephant's head, with the pearls¹⁹ stuck in its claws.

25. The woods on the mountain, heavily pressed by the clouds and then released, were sodden with rain, with the white scarves hanging from the celestial creepers²⁰ dying and fluttering in the breeze.

26. Overrun by the waters of the sea, the streams, partly uprooting the moist leaning trees on the banks, and laden with flowers, ran shallow over the crystal slopes.

27. With the wind-swept cascades on the summit, the mountain cleansed the mouths of the horses of the Sun's chariot, which were full of froth, and partly moistened the reins.

28. The moon, resting upon its extensive summit, and touched by the flames of the plants blazing at night, clearly showed its stain, the deer, as if its inner surface was covered with soot.

18. The reference is to sea-water that has dried. In verse 41 the poet refers to 'the salt taste of hardened sea spray'. Here, the salt crust formed by sea spray on the slopes of the mountain is likened to small thorns. The Greek verb epantheō, to bloom, be in flower, was likewise used of a salt crust forming on a surface, as in Herodotus II 12.

19. i.e., the pearls inside the head of the elephant mangled by the lion. The reference is to the belief that an elephant's head contains pearls.

20. Explained by Kīṣna as the branches of the all-giving Kalpa trees. See 14 74.

29 With its streams it was filling the ocean that had been dried up by the heat of the sun of the epoch of destruction, the wide ocean, with the earth lifted out of its waters, and extremely deep, because the ooze was carried away by the Primeval Boar ²¹

30 The roar of lions filled the caves, making the elephants in the woods prick up their ears, while the direction from which the sound came being unknown, the deer fled straight on, but turned back, scared by the echoes

31 The mountain was tinged with red by the pollen of the lotus blossoms, and on its lakes were heard the geese with their melodious notes It was the favourite resort of lions pouncing on their prey It was verdant with woods drenched with spray wafted by the sea breeze.

32 It had caves that seemed to be divisions of the world, with portions of the sea entering them, the firmament visible inside, the ten regions of the sky included in them, and the sun rising and setting within their confines.

33 The brooks on the summit, issuing by degrees and growing in volume, were sweet at the source, and briny in their onward course, being overrun by the surging sea

34 It was brightened by the lustre of its jewels, and shaken by the massive hoods of the serpent Ananta as it turned about (under the weight) ²² Lotus beds expanded on its lakes, and the rust from the wheels of the Sun's chariot adhered to the creepers on the slopes

35 The sky-blue sapphire slopes, gleaming all around, and enveloped in a mirage, looked like lakes, with the buffaloes, oppressed with the heat, seeking a path for descending into them ²³

36 There, the wild animals unleashed their fury on objects similar to themselves The elephants crushed the Tamāla woods, the lions seized with their mouths fragments of the silver peaks, and the buffaloes hit the black rocks (with their horns).

21 i.e., the Boar incarnation of Viṣṇu while lifting the earth submerged in the ocean

22 i.e., while sustaining the earth made heavier by the mountain

23 i.e., the animals mistook the blue rocks for a sheet of water.

37 There, precious pearls were scattered from inside the temples of the elephant mangled by the lion's paws,²⁴ and the luxuriant grass on the approaches to the streams was crushed by the herds of elephants that ran thither, scared by the forest fires.

38 The chariot of the sun wound its way along the slopes of the mountain. The radiant stars wandered through the woods on its flanks. It seemed to tower over the firmament lying by its side.

39 The rays of the sun were half cut off from its jagged cliffs,²⁵ and the rays of the full moon covered only a portion of them. The bird king Garuda, who set out in quest of their summit, returned, worn out with fatigue.

40 It fulfilled with marvellous perfection the desire for pleasure in the hearts of the celestial nymphs²⁶. It seemed to be a mart set up for the gems of the ocean²⁷. The water in its pools was sweet and dark in contact with the leaves of the lilies, and a fragrance like that of wine issued from the groves of Bakula trees²⁸.

41 The deer fainted on account of the smell of the yellow orpiment heated by the fierce midday sun, and the buffaloes licked the rocks for the taste of the salt crust formed by sea spray²⁹.

42 The surface of the mountain was bright with its lofty silver peaks. With the blood of the elephants killed by lions it coloured the (scattered) pearls³⁰. With steadfast fortitude it had passed through many an epoch of destruction. To its lakes came conches in straight rows from the waters of the sea.

43 It was gay with the mansions of the Yaksas. The waters were dark in the pools containing gems. It was free from fires.

24 Cf. verse 24.

25 i.e., did not reach the upper part of the cliffs.

26 Cf. the last verse of the Canto.

27 The gems washed up by the waves are fancied as being set out as on a market stall.

28 The smell of Bakula flowers is often likened to that of wine. Cf. 156; 1214.

29 See verse 24.

30 i.e., the pearls supposed to be inside the head of elephants were stained with blood when they were killed by the attacking lions.

because of the ever fresh woods. It brought sleep to those who resorted to its lakes.

44 It gave pleasure to the proud demons³¹ The water was darkened by the Bibhītaka trees growing in its caves; while the summit was beautiful with the clear effulgence of its silver. It was destructive with the potency of its poison trees

45 The trunks of the sandal trees, surrounded with full-grown poison-destroying plants, were shunned by serpents,³² while the lustre of the gems on the hoods of the serpents that passed by dispelled the shadows of the trees

46 The mountain whitened the earth with the radiance of its crystal rocks On it was heard the sweet speech of the celestial nymphs It could not entirely be washed even by the waters of the epoch of destruction Silver resembling the new moon emerged from its caves

47 It had beautiful caves and river-banks It was covered with the delightful hue of gold, and at night showed the way to the planets on its summit It sheltered all the celestial nymphs held captive (by Rāvana) ³³

48 There, the boar as it came out of the mire was attacked by the lion, but turned back, eluding and baffling the latter, and the clusters of leaves, dropping from the golden trees into the waters of the lakes, disappeared because of their weight

49 With its peaks, like arms, the mountain embraced the beautiful Skv. lovely with the blue clouds full of water and bedecked with the marvellous girdle of stars worn by her, and seemed thereby to give offence to the Regions of the sky³⁴

³¹ i.e., the Rākṣasas of Lankā

³² Sandal trees are usually described as being haunted by serpents Here they avoid the trees owing to the presence of the poison-destroying plants See 463 and 768

³³ Trans follows Kṛṣṇa except in the last line for which see Kulānātha in Extracts

³⁴ The sky is personified as the mountain's mistress, while the regions of the sky, overshadowed by the mountain, are figured as disgruntled rivals

50. It was the common abode of the maidens held captive by the demons,³⁵ and full of dismal cries. It concealed the regions of the sky from view. Its flanks were composed of sunstones; and it touched the Sun, and harboured darkness (in its caves).

51. It stood filling the world with its expanse, the world that could not be filled by Viṣṇu³⁶ while wresting the earth from the demon Bālī, by the clouds in the season of rains, and by the oceans at the epoch of destruction.

52. The sun, with its orb vanishing from sight, being enveloped in the forest fires on the adjoining peaks of the mountain, seemed to be setting, with its reddish rays shooting up through the flames.

53. It endured the heat of the submarine fire, and the heavy blows of the waves of the sea, eroding its slopes, as if for the sake of its streams that were loth to quit their paternal home³⁷

54. At night it carried the reflections of the young moon on each block of ruby, as if they were a series of hoof-marks left by the horses of the Sun.

55. It was surrounded with slabs of gold, lying uneven, and covered with groves of high-grown creepers here and there, as if they were circles of light intersected by shadows.

56. It bore on its slopes woods that were beyond the range of the sun, with the shadows deepening above, and the serpents abiding at the top for fear of the heat of the sun³⁸

57. The lofty flanks of the mountain, dented by the mace-like tusks of the elephants of the gods, declared the size of their mouths through the wide space between the marks left by the tusks.

58. Here the branches of the Pārijāta tree, borne by the celestial elephants for a long while, were discarded after they ³⁵ Cf. verse 47.

³⁶ Viṣṇu as Trivikrama.

had turned yellowish brown by being whirled round their cheeks, with the leaves discoloured by the hot breath from the trunk³⁹

59 It bore the moon clinging to its flank with its dark emblem, the deer, whitened by the rays of the crystal slopes. It seemed as if the lunar orb had been turned over by the impact of the waters of the great cascades falling on its back⁴⁰

60 The woods were deep blue because of the proximity of the sea, with the flowers washed by the spray, and brilliant sunshine coming into view as it spread above and around them

61 It bore the tracks left by the elephants of the gods as they descended the slopes, with no visible sign of departure, because they flew off (after their sports), while the bees that followed far in their wake returned from the sky⁴¹

62 Places with partly exposed sprout-like gems gleamed faintly, dispelling the darkness a little, and seemed to be covered with sparks

63 The mountain bore traces of the elephants fighting in the woods, with the massive tusks knocked down, the trees smashed and withered, and the creepers, uncoiled and broken, lying about in heaps.

64 Stored in its vast caverns, studded with gems, were isolated masses of sea water, thrown up by the impact of the Mandara mountain (during the churning), that still retained the taste of nectar⁴²

39 The verse describes the elephants of the gods disporting themselves on the mountain, whirling with their trunk the branches of the Pārījāta tree which they had brought from heaven Cf verse 61

40 As the lunar spot was no longer visible, it is fancied that the cascades pouring down the mountain-side had turned over the moon, exposing the all-white back

41 The elephants walked down the slopes of the mountain, but flew back after their sports, and the bees pursued them for some distance to partake of their ichor Cf verse 85 and 1045

42 Because the water had entered the caverns before nectar was taken out of the ocean by the gods and demons who churned it with the Mandara mountain

65. It carried a mass of Rāma's arrows that had, during the upheaval of the sea,⁴³ stuck in its slopes, with the feathers broken here and there, as if they were the remnants of its wings clipped by Indra's thunderbolt.⁴⁴

66. There, the elephant fell as the lion sprang upon its temples, but tore up the latter's heavy mane with its trunk, and the bee turned about on hearing the hum of its mate, upsetting the flower of the creeper on which it lay.

67. Snow-cold streams of water, oozing from the moon-stones (at night), ceased to flow during the day, with the waters partly drying up, and the moss stirred here and there by the gusts of wind.

68. Quicksilver moved about on slabs of emerald, with its traces flickering here and there, and looked like water rolling on lotus leaves

69. The Sun seemed to ascend the mountain at dawn, with the upright orb rising aloft, and his horses worn out with fatigue; and having journeyed with the orb evenly balanced, seemed to descend it at the end of the day.

70. There, at night, the inhabitants of the woods, going round to avoid the rugged places on the slopes, trod the paths, lighted on their way by the stars journeying ahead of them.

71. The orb of the moon, lingering on the summit, moved along, being directly hit by the Kīrāta maidens, separated from their lovers, with handfuls of tear-stained flowers⁴⁵

72. Adorned with the heavenly bodies, like the sky, the mountain had on it the aerial cars of the gods. It scorned the vehemence of the winds of the epoch of destruction, resisted by its peaks. It coloured the clouds with the soaring rays of its jewelled peaks, and resounded with the deep roar of the restless lions in the caves.

43 i.e., during the chastisement of the sea by Rāma with the fiery arrows

44 It is fancied that the Suvela, like all other mountains, had wings until they were clipped by Indra

45 i.e., the maidens chastised the moon, the traditional enemy of forlorn lovers, finding it near at hand on the summit of the mountain.

73. On it the diverse regions of the sky seemed to terminate. The earth seemed small beside it. The sky seemed to end with it. The ocean seemed to disappear thereabout. The nether regions seemed to have vanished underneath. The world seemed to repose thereon.

74. Amidst its peaks the horses of the Sun's chariot leaned frequently, curving their shoulders as the yoke slanted, while the charioteer Aruna turned them round in alarm, making the fly-whisks flap against their snouts.

75. There, the woods were seen high in the sky, carrying the stars⁴⁶ like clusters of flowers at night, and when the stars vanished at dawn it seemed as if the flowers were culled in the first plucking of the day.

76. There, at night, the wild buffaloes slumbered, scattering the soft clouds by their breath, with streams of water, issuing from the moon-stones by contact with the lunar rays, lapping against them.

77. The lunar orb, on reaching the summit of the mountain, passed by, slanting along the rocky wall, with its massive radiance worn away as it rubbed against the gems embedded in the hoods of the mighty serpents (at the top).⁴⁷

78. Violently convulsed by the mountain as it rocked during the disaster of the epoch of destruction, the ocean by its side, abandoning the nether regions, flooded the earth without the aid of the remaining oceans.

79. The lions roamed about, pulling at the rumbling clouds resting upon the peaks with their sharp claws, while their ruffled mane was singed by the streaks of lightning flashing across their face.

80. There, the elephants, soothed by bathing in the cascades, but again worn out with the heat of the day, were refreshed as they lay beside the sandal trees, rubbed by their shoulders.

⁴⁶ Cf. verse 38.

⁴⁷ The pallor of the moon is fancied as being caused by the friction of the lunar orb and the gems. Cf. verse 56.

81. The course of the swift horses of the Sun on the mountain could be recognised, being marked by the pollen of flowers scattered by their breath, with the bees flying about, and hairs from their white Cāmara whisks settling on the creepers on the slopes.

82. There, the tears of the captive nymphs,⁴⁸ rolling down their cheeks, and always coloured dark by the collyrium paint of their eyes, soiled the scarves hanging from the celestial creepers.⁴⁹

83. The track of the sun, marked by clumps of trees withered and crushed, and worn out by its constant journeys through the sky in its northern and southern courses, seemed to terminate on a single peak of the mountain.

84. Spreading in all directions, it seemed to extend the three worlds as it grew in extent, cleaving the earth with its weight and enveloping the nether regions, and covering up the sky.

85. There, the mutually hostile seasons abode all together, attached to the groves of celestial beauty, with the bees attracted by the fragrance of the flowers, even as the elephants of the gods, resorting to the celestial garden, are tied to a single post, with the bees following the scent (of their ichor) ⁵⁰

86 The sun, overcome by fear of Rāvana abiding near by, was seen to slink away, extricating its slanting orb when it got stuck between the peaks of the mountain

87. There, as the deer, delighted to hear the charming songs of the Kinnaras, closed their eyes, and stopped chewing the cud, their hair, standing on end, slowly became smooth again

88 The angry elephants quarrelled in the waters of the lakes, resounding with the call of the noisy swans moving about on the banks; and the tips of the petals of the night lotus beds suffered no harm even at sunrise, because they touched the moon in the sky ⁵¹

48 Cf verses 47 and 50

49 i.e., they wiped their eyes with the scarves for which see verse 25.

50 See verse 61

51 The night lotus shrinks at sunrise and blooms by moonlight Here the plants on the lakes at the top of the mountain were in constant bloom owing to the proximity of the moon.

89 As Viṣṇu turned over while asleep on the serpent Ananta, the latter propped its large massive hoods, flattened by the heavy weight, against the mountain, with the lustre of their gems⁵² spreading over the foot-hills.

90 The moon, clinging to the mountain-side, was seen with the conspicuous shadow of its deer looking like a cavity, with the rays manifest on either side, as if the lunar orb had been hollowed out by the cascades rushing down from the summit ⁵³

91. All the three worlds lay round the mountain, like the three bangles round the massive and lofty arm of Viṣṇu,⁵⁴ close-fitting alike and hollowed in the middle.⁵⁵

92. The tracks of the sun, marked by the withered trees, could be recognised as well as those of the moon, pleasant and cool with the lush woods. The faint trail of the stars through the woods only remained untraced.

93 There, the wind scattered the Tamāla leaves that were spread by the nymphs on slabs of stone and crumpled (during their amorous sports), and were redolent of their perfumed locks, and gave out a sweet smell as they withered away.

94. The clouds, swept into the caves by the wind, drove in the opposite direction, and as they rose aloft quaffed for a moment the waters of the cascades, and ascended the sky again

95, 96 The ardour of the nymphs did not flag as they frequented the sapphire rocks, resonant with the cascades pouring down the lofty slopes. Here, the lion sprang up after being stunned by the impact of a falling rock, pushed down by an unseen elephant, and the Kinnara couples sank to the ground and clung to each other, appalled at a tiger's growl

52 i.e., the gems supposed to be embedded in the hoods of serpents. Ananta sustains the weight of the earth, and is sometimes represented as the couch of Viṣṇu.

53 The lunar spot is fancied as a hole torn by the cascades pouring down the mountain-side.

54 Viṣṇu as Trivikrama in the Dwarf incarnation.

55 i.e., the mountain seemed to have emerged, piercing its way through the nether regions, the earth and the sky.

CANTO X

1 Thereafter the host of apes stayed on the peaks of the Suvela as on their native mountains, confidently in separate groups, as if Rāvana, even though undestroyed, had been slain

2 The apes trampled the summit of the Suvela that was unassailed even by the sun, and untouched even by the wind with confidence, and was shunned even by the gods¹

3 The mighty Rāma cast a look at Lankā that was rooted in two different emotions with wrath, because it was the foeman's city, and with joy as he thought 'Here lives my beloved'

4 Having heard of the advent of Rāma, Rāvana, disconcerted and full of spite, trembled with rage, even as the Suvela trembled, with its peaks trampled by the apes

5 Meanwhile, the day shunned the terrible looks of Rāvana,² who was enraged by the yells of the neighbouring host of apes, while his attendants slunk away in fear.

6 As the sun drew behind it the lustre of the day, like an elephant of the gods trailing a lotus plant, the mass of its rays, reddish yellow like orpiment, verged (towards the west); even as the elephant's massive trunk curls up, coloured with the pollen of the lotus blossoms

7 The shadows of the trees, lengthening as the pervasive daylight faded, with their coolness³ impaired,⁴ thinned as if they were being stretched

8 Red as coral, the orb of the sun resembled the head of a mighty elephant painted with vermilion, and was round like the coils of the serpent Vāsukī, coloured by the minerals of the Mandara mountain.⁵

1. i.e., for fear of Rāvana

2 The departing day is fancied as leaving the fearful presence of Rāvana.

3 Lit touch

4 i.e., the coolness was not felt in the evening as during the day

5 Vāsukī served as a rope coiled round the Mandara mountain with which the ocean was churned by the gods and demons

9 The expanses of the regions of the sky appeared to shrink, and the circle of the earth was darkened by the shades of evening. A tiny part of the day still remained, and a faint light lingered on the peaks of the mountains.

10 As the day, like an elephant of the gods, hit the slope of the mountain of sunset, raising a cloud of dust, the evening glow, the orb of the sun appeared to be tumbling like a dislodged peak of the mountain composed of red earth.

11 The petals of the day lotus blossoms, drooping on account of the fading daylight, closed at the end of the day, with the dripping honey wiped away by the agile wings of the bees, enlivened by the honey of the flowers.

12 The setting sun as well as Rāvana, bereft of lustre because of impending ruin, both looked alike, hemmed in by the dust of the earth struck by the feet of the apes.

13 Abandoning the earth, the day, faint as it hovered in the sky, faded away, with the sun half gone down, and the remaining light lingering on the mountain heights⁶.

14 As the sun was flung (to the west) by the day, even as a tree is thrown backwards by a wild elephant its extensive, thinly scattered mass of rays, shooting upward, looked like the roots (of an uprooted tree).

15 Thereupon the orb of the sun sank in its own blood, the evening glow, as if it were the terrible first head of Rāvana, severed and immersed in its gore.

16 The petals of the day lotus blossoms, even though closed in the absence of the sun, parted, because they were bowed down with the weight of the bees, and made heavy by the pollen issuing from the mature filaments.

17 The massive lustre (of the setting sun), uneven with lengthening rays, and spreading in the west, seemed to be the dusty trail of the day while it was snatched away by the jaws of Death.

6 Lit on the high places

18. A bank of light clouds, suffused with the evening glow, clung to the sky, as if reddened by the rays that shot up when the orb of the sun, falling from above, appeared to dash against the earth.

19 The evening glow appeared on the summit of the sunset mountain, as if it were the banner, rising after it had gone down, of the sun's swift chariot as it wound its way round the Meru mountain; (the banner) reddened by the molten gold of the mountain rubbed off its slopes⁷

20. The night lotus bed burst into bloom while being swayed by the breeze. With the filaments coloured by the gleam of the evening, it assumed a white and reddish hue, resembling a lion's mane smeared with the blood of the elephant (killed by it).

21 The shadows at the end of the day that made the ten directions grey were faint and long, and still free from the onset of darkness, with the partly dissolving gleam of the evening scattered here and there.

22 Bereft of the evening glow, with the sun far down, the sky looked everywhere alike, resembling a hearth where a blazing fire was dying down.

23 As the remaining splendour of the day faded away the light of the lamps, dimmed by the evening glow, became distinct, being set off by the partly accumulating darkness

24 A helpless pair of red geese parted from each other,⁸ with the bond of passion rent asunder, and their life reduced to moans, their only joy of love being the meeting of their eyes as they lingered on the opposite banks of a stream.

25 Black as a grove of Tamāla trees, darkness, meanwhile, pressed heavily on the extensive evening glow, even as the mud-

7 Meru is the golden mountain at the centre of Jambudvīpa round which the planets were supposed to revolve. Here, the gold of the mountain is fancied as being melted by the sun, and the glow of the sky at sunset is figured as the banner of the sun's chariot that had brushed against the molten gold

8 The reference is to a pair of Cakravāka birds supposed to separate at nightfall covered body of a mighty elephant of the gods, rubbed against a mountain's golden slope, presses it hard.

26 The darkness, even though present everywhere alike, appeared to be sparse at close quarters, diffuse a little farther, and dense at a distance, obstructing the power of vision.

27 Thick darkness settled on the branches of the trees, the tender foliage, enveloped in darkness, assumed a dull colour, and the flowers were hidden in the foliage. The fragrance of the flowers alone revealed the presence of the trees.

28 The darkness fitted in with the hour of the sun's downfall. It mixed up all the directions, and destroyed vision even at close quarters, and even the presence of the earth had to be surmised.

29. The darkness spread. It seemed firm enough to be hewn, and dense enough to be lifted; seemed capable of being grasped, and solid enough to be penetrated by the moon.

30 Pervading the earth, the expanse of darkness seemed to carry all things. It seemed to push from behind, and hold up in front, and press from either side, and appeared to grow heavy as it spread overhead.

31 The lustre of the moonbeams blending with darkness appeared to be white as a cloud of spray suffused with the hue of sapphire. It was faint, being hidden by the mountain of the east, with the regions of the sky partly revealed.

32 The eastern region of the sky, with the darkness assailed by the rays of the moon over a section of the earth, appeared to resemble the ocean consumed by a smokeless fire as at the epoch of destruction.

33 Thereafter the east, white with the young moon, assumed a clear aspect, with the darkness vanishing from sight, and a vast mass of moonbeams surging out of the mountain of the east.

34 The lunar orb, reddish like the inside of a fresh lotus blossom, with streaming rays soft as the filaments, thinned the on-coming darkness, but did not yet destroy it.

35 Reaching the summit of the mountain of the east, the moon, resplendently white, with the darkness wiped away, became round like the stump of the severed tusk of an elephant of the gods turned towards the earth.

36 Thereupon the sky, covered with clusters of dim stars, with the darkness routed by the rays of the moon, looked like a rock strewn with numerous flowers.

37 The trees, partly touched by the moonbeams, and variegated by the partly dissolving darkness, with the smaller branches partly visible, cast partly formed patches of shadows

38 The orb of the moon, growing white as it matured, and discarding its tender aspect, became capable of traversing the sky, having assailed and extirpated the darkness with its strengthened rays.

39 With the mountains standing as before, and the rivers flowing straight as ever, the earth, with its vast regions, seemed to be carved anew by the moon, by digging up the accumulated mass of darkness.

40. The shadows of the trees, with their outlines distinctly perceived even in the dense darkness, were hemmed in but could not be seized by the rays of the moon

41 The moon only parted the petals of the night lotus, it was the bees that clearly ripped it open, without waiting for one another, opening out the petals by striking on the top

42 The darkness seemed to be wiped away without leaving a trace, seemed to melt away, driven all at once by the massive rays, seemed to be totally covered up, and ruthlessly engulfed by the moon.

43. Having dug up, as it were, the mass of darkness, resembling thick mud, that obscured the regions of the sky, and seemed capable of being grasped with the hand, the radiance of the moon seemed to give a dappled look to the firmament

44 With the darkness vanishing like a rainy day, the partly distinct woods, with lovely foliage, seemed to be dripping as the moonbeams came scattered through the branches

45 The bees that had heavily pressed the flowers of the trees, and partaken of the streaming ichor of the great elephants of the quarters, and enjoyed the day lotus beds, forced their way into the night lotus blossoms.

46. The mass of moonbeams, entering through the windows, and stretching lengthwise on the sapphire floors, seemed to be the long and pendent trunk of an elephant of the quarters, taking in water from a lake

47 When the massive darkness resembling a herd of elephants was routed by the moon, a white lion as it were, the long shadows of the mansions looked like the muddy tracks of their feet.

48 Destroying the darkness in the hollows, and diminishing the length of the shadows, the moon ascended the sky, with its orb mounting sideways, and its receding rays sweeping out of the windows

49 Entering through the wide windows, and resembling scattered powder, the moonlight, with its clear lustre set off by the yellowish curtains, faded as it blended with the flare of the lamps

50 Closing by degrees (during the day), and partly opening (at nightfall) on account of maturity, the night lotus, filled with dense⁹ moonlight, seemed to quiver, with the petals expanded by the weight of the rays

51 The trees, hemmed in by the lunar rays, and locked at the top by the wind, with the shadows wavering on account of the branches moving to and fro, seemed to swim as they swayed in the current of moonlight

52. Resembling a vast mass of sandal paste sprinkled with water, the moonlight, blending with the flare of the lamps, and eclipsed at places, seemed to be dotted with holes¹⁰

53 Pervaded by the dense rays, the sky lost its own colour, with the tiny stars invisible, and the moon floating on the flood of its light.

⁹ Lit dense enough to be turned over

¹⁰ The areas lighted by the lamps are fancied as gaps in the expanse of moonlight.

54. The mountains looked white, with the lofty peaks distinctly visible, and the base coming into view, with the expanse of their shadows obliterated by the rays of the moon at the zenith.

55. A place dark amidst the deep shadows of the trees was shunned (by people) thinking it was a hollow, while a hollow, flooded with moonlight, was confidently traversed like level ground.

56, 57 When thus the eventide came, while the red geese,¹¹ separated from their mates, and kept awake by love, pined on the banks of streams, and the bees had hardly enough of space inside the closing day lotus blossoms the hearts of the young women (of Lankā), overcome by passion, and beset with anxieties at the advent of Rāma, both desired and shrank from the acts of love.

58 The kisses of the lovers were lost upon the young women, as the sweetness felt melted away, and the joy was marred by passion slackened by anxieties, and the emotion subsided as it rose

59 The young women trembled and sighed and languished. Faint-hearted, they tossed about on the bed None knew whether they were scared or overcome by passion

60 Having seen on the breast of their beloved the scars left by the thrusts of the tusks of the attacking elephants of the quarters,¹² they trembled for a long while, affrighted as they remembered the impending battle.

61 Their eyes, half closed in the joy of dalliance, and resembling Mālatī buds, lightly pressed by bees, opened with a panicky stare and betrayed their dread of war

62,63 Thereupon at nightfall when the moon brought joy, and the exhilaration caused by wine heightened the pleasure of meeting the beloved, and passion rooted out pride, and the joy of love was dominated by mutual affection, the young women, with their hearts revealed by the effect of wine, appeared to turn away from their lovers, angry even though unoffended, yielded to them, cheerful even though unappased; and sighed, happy even though unknissed.

11 Cf verse 24

64. The words, stern with manifest wrath, uttered by the maidens, with the face turned away, as they angrily wiped their lips and wept, when forcibly kissed by their beloved, delighted the latter.

65. The young women did not set out to meet their lovers nor did they dress their hair nor question the messenger girls (about the mission to the beloved). Bewildered by the moonlight, they trembled as they stood perplexed.

66. Delightful was the advent of the evening to the demons. The talk about Rāma was ignored, and confidence reposed in Rāvana; while the activities of the young women proceeded as before.

67. What the messenger girls reported openly, returning after meeting the lovers, the young women caused to be repeated many a time, although it was false and brought them sorrow.¹³

68. During quarrels of love, the maidens, harassed by their beloved, sitting in front of them on the bed, could not turn the back upon them. Tears only welled up in their eyes.

69. The anger of the proud women, heightened by love, died away slowly in their hearts, gratified for a moment by the entreaties of the lovers, but saddened and perturbed again by the remembered offence.

70. Flurried at the sight of the beloved and abashed, the young women touched their hair and adjusted their bangles, and tightened their attire and talked aimlessly to their maiden friends.

71. It was a pretty sight as the gay women, hastening to receive their lovers, and enraptured by the beloved's embrace, went to bed without having finished their adornment, just as they were.

13 The messengers had brought assurances from the lovers, which proved to be false. Acc. to another explanation, they made a false report obviously to tease the nāyikās that the attitude of the nāyakas was unfavourable. Cf. verse 79.

72. The young women, who greeted their lovers even without being appeased by them, were abashed when covertly admonished by their maiden friends with severe looks. As they stood scared their beloved knew that they only pretended to be angry¹⁴

73. It was the god of love that first dissipated the bashfulness of the damsels that had grown up with them, like a maiden friend, standing in the way of their meeting the beloved. Frenzy brought by wine held it off but slowly

74. The young women, withdrawing the face from the hand of the maiden friend who was adorning it, and turning aside, with the ornamental dot still unfinished, hurriedly instructed the messenger girls about the mission to the beloved

75. They spoke in one way before their maiden friends, and in another way while instructing the messenger girls, and something quite different, excitedly, at the sight of the beloved

76. Even the uneasy gaiety of love with the newly wedded brides brought joy to their consorts while they were somehow taken into their arms, face to face, muttering to themselves, with the face drooping and turned away, while being somehow kissed

77. The constant thrills of the young women assured their beloved that their anger was appeased, and their hearts favourably inclined¹⁵ as they sat looking straight ahead.

78. The maidens did not suck the beloved's proffered lips¹⁶ nor did they offer their own¹⁷ nor forcibly withdraw them. Inhibited by their first union with their lovers, they somehow yielded to the joys of love

79. 'Have patience. He will not come here even when the night is far spent.' Thus saying, the messenger girls tested the feelings of the young women whose lovers had already been brought by them, (and were in hiding)

14 They pretended anger to please their girl friends, who had advised them to practise māna, and silently reproved them for being cordial to the lovers without waiting to be appeased by them for past offences

15 The reading ettohutta (lit facing hitherward) is followed.

17 Lit the lower lip

80 Wine that reveals one's true sentiments in weal and woe, like a maiden friend that shows her amity in joy and sorrow, made the young women talk freely, irrespective of shame

81 Did the effulgence of the moon heighten the frenzy brought by wine, or, did the frenzy heighten the effect of the moonlight? Did both of them heighten the power of passion, or, did passion bring both to the acme of perfection?

82 The deep-rooted affection of the young women for their beloved, fervid with emotion, was intensified at nightfall by the moonbeams, passion and frenzy brought by wine, acting all together.

CANTO XI

1-2. When thus the evening advanced beyond the (second) watch of the night, with the moon ascending high in the sky, and all activity ceased as the night was far spent, and the young women worried (at the prospect of war) the lord of the demons heaved a deep sigh, revealing his heart, impatient with anxiety, and saw the ten directions empty as he turned his ten faces all at once

3 Rāvana, frustrated in his passion for Sītā, was lost in thought, sighed and grieved, rubbed his arms and shook his faces, and laughed without joy

4 He valued his bosom, touched by Sītā as she quivered, while being carried off, but abhorred his mouths, deprived of the nectar-sweet taste of his beloved's lips

5 Despite his efforts to the contrary, his patience wore out in his intermittently throbbing heart, which, though firm, despaired and cheered up, and became steady and despondent by turns

6 His faces, streaming with tears on account of overmastering anguish, and partly covered with the sparse fingers of his outstretched and upturned hands, drooped on his shoulders

7 He heard the greetings of his mistresses, lispingly uttered and sweet, and indistinct because of the lips hurt by amorous bites; but now ignored by his inconstant heart.

8 Weary of seeking a means of gratifying his passion, he left his bed and yearned for it again; sought the end of the night, but hated the day, sallied out, but turned back again

9 Even in the presence of his mistresses, Sītā's name, abiding in his heart, even though he tried to suppress it, emerged simultaneously from all his mouths time and again

10 He saw her wherever he glanced, and uttered her name whenever he talked. In his heart, inflamed with passion, she alone stayed even when he thought of aught else

11 The cooling remedies in the shape of the flowers heaped here and there in his chamber, and the fading leaves of the celestial trees, all marred by his sighs, betokened his grief

12. Swaying his hands, he tossed about on a bed on the floor, wide enough for his bulky frame, and sunk in the middle, with the sides turned down and crushed by his weight

13 His lips, touching those of his mistresses out of mere courtesy, slipped aside, compelled by momentary shame, and unsteady because his heart was bent on Sītā.

14 While he deceived his jealous mistresses by laughing with one face, another face of his was clouded with grief, bearing traces of unbearable suffering

15 With his heart fixed elsewhere, Rāvana heard, but did not clearly comprehend the talk of his mistresses, accompanied by ironic smiles, as they ruled out the certainty of his winning Sītā

16 Laughing in his confusion, he somehow endured for a moment the utterances of his mistresses, full of jealousy and wrath, and conveying opprobrious and stern rebukes

17 Dejected, his mistresses suspected, but failed to comprehend clearly his fortuitous mention of their rival's name, because the last letter was suppressed, and the utterance indistinct, his throat being choked with tears

18 Having responded¹ in vain when no one had spoken to him² Rāvana somehow composed himself as his mistresses looked at him in speechless rage, with tears welling up in their eyes

19 Even though his heart was elsewhere, he welcomed the (angry) looks of his mistresses, with their lips all aquiver because their mutterings occasioned by jealousy were suppressed (by decorum)³

20 As he absent-mindedly left his seat and returned to it, offering an ill-conceived excuse, he laughed at himself for a moment, while his mistresses looked at him in perplexity with jealous eyes

21 He went to such extremes (in his distraction) that his mistresses did know his condition for certain, and having known it, did laugh at him; but having laughed, could not help pitying him.

22. Placing one of his hands evenly between two of his contiguous faces, he began to think as he covered it with his sighs coming on both sides.⁴

23. 'I have put up with the host of apes that is close at hand, because I am afraid to disturb the pleasures of the night. That is to the advantage of some one else, while deprived of the joys of love, it is my heart that grows restless⁵

24 'Shall I crush the horde of apes as they draw near un-awares, and move about and chatter in vain, and wriggle out of my arms and flee in confusion, and lie still when seized and dragged by me?

25 'Or, shall I enjoy Sītā, her silent face turned upwards as I seize her by the hair, while ripples of tears well up in her eyes opening in contact with the moonbeams?

26. 'Hostile to me even in her husband's absence, how will she be friendly now that her lord hath come? Does the day hly that is averse to the moon,⁶ even in the absence of the sun, ever desire it, when the sun comes into view?

27. 'Sītā doth not accept entreaties, nor can she be tempted even with the riches of the three worlds, nor is she afraid of any danger to her life. How could she, I wonder, be favourable to me?

28 'Relying on the greatness of her consort, she despises the valour of all other brave men. She might perhaps yield only if she saw the severed head of Rāma.

29 'People dare violate their cherished principle, out of fear, when they are helpless and humble for lack of friends, and see no cause for shame, with all hope gone owing to loss of protection.'

4 Lit (the hand) struck by his sighs etc

5 The second line of the verse is variously explained Trans follows Kṛṣṇa The idea is, he has refrained from attacking the apes at night to allow the demons to enjoy their amorous sports undisturbed This has benefited Rāma, while he suffers frustrated in his passion for Sītā

6 The day hly closes at nightfall.

30 Thereupon his attendants, summoned by a movement of his eyebrows, fearfully approached him on either side as his faces, held high with a weary yawn, turned towards them.

31 Even with his ten mouths he could not utter at once what was thought out in his mind, because it was cumbered with words, choked with joy, at the prospect of fulfilling his long cherished resolve.

32 One of his mouths began the words, another took them over in joy, but let them slip, another uttered them half, while yet another somehow finished them.

33 As he spoke sadly, his mouths shrouded in fumes, and his heart aggrieved, he heaved a sigh that became faint as it passed through his ten throats

34. He addressed the demons, who responded simultaneously as he gave the orders, and (knelt before him) with both hands placed on the ground, and the raised half of the body resting on the curved hips.

35 'Show to Sītā Rāma's neckless head created by magic. with the face pale on account of separation from her, and the fierce staring eyes turned sideways to look at the foe'

36. Thereupon, at that very moment, they produced the very head of Rāma, as if it had just been severed and brought thither, with the forehead furrowed by an angry frown

37 Hurriedly getting up, with eager footsteps, the demons started for the pleasure garden, occupied with Rāvana's command that had somehow been fully explained by him

38 They reached the pleasance where lotus-buds were springing up in the water stored in cavities in the crystal embankments, and young shoots had issued from the broken stems of the trees smashed by Hanūmat⁷

39 There they saw Sītā, with her eyes terror-stricken at the sound of their footsteps making her fear that Rāvana might have come, while her hands lay on her bosom, having slipped from the face that had always rested on them

7 Ref to the damage caused by Hanūmat during his mission to Sītā.

40. Her half-tied braid was loose, being stripped of the jewel, which she had sent to her beloved as a sign of recognition,⁸ and her high bosom, white as refined silver, was drenched with streaming tears.

41 Her locks were unkempt and ruffled, and her face was covered with her tresses drenched with tears, and the hips were without the girdle, but her beauty was heightened because she had discarded the ornaments

42 Her partly closed, dilated eyes were motionless and vacant, her heart being absorbed in her beloved, while joy flickered in the ripples of her tears as she heard the noise of the host of apes.

43. The traces of her tear-drops, partly mingling with the dust on her body, were pale red, dry and coarse; while her unadorned and pallid lips revealed their natural hue

44 Her face appeared to be drawn out because of her worn cheeks, and resembled a crescent moon that fills out in the course of a few days

45 She had on her the faint traces of her (discarded) ornaments, made distinct by the lustre of her body, and resembling yellow pigment applied to the body, but slightly rubbed off.

46 With her beloved close at hand,⁹ she was pining, with her eyes longing to see him, and her quivering arms eager to embrace him; even like an offended lady suffering on account of love, with her beloved close to her in the bed¹⁰

47. Her limbs were languid and drooping because of redoubled anguish at the sight of the unbearable moon;¹¹ and her inert bosom was felt by the female demons, fearing she was dead.

48 Her face seemed to be covered, on one side, with the lustre of the (blue) gems of the ring, sent by her beloved,¹² because she rested it on her hand covered with her flowing tresses, drenched with tears.

49. She was disquieted by the impending battle, but her anxiety was stifled by her confidence in Rāma's arms. But when Rāvana came to her mind, she was in a puzzle about what would come to pass.

50. She was abashed to see Rāma before her (in her imagination); but when she closed her eyes in abashment, her heart became eager to see her beloved again. She opened her eyes in the eagerness of her heart, but became sad as the face of her consort vanished with the opening of the eyes

51. The demons recalled their task that was slipping from their minds, saddened on seeing her, and drew near, loth to present to her the magic head of Rāma

52 They then placed before her Rāma's head, with the flesh swollen all round on account of the cut, also a bow with the severed left hand attached to the middle

53 Sītā was seized with grief when she espied it, and began to tremble as the demons brought it near, and fainted when they said it was Rāma's head.

54 She fell with her left breast pressed on the ground, and the right raised and slanting, and the pale cheeks filling out, being released from the grip of her hands

55 At the death of one's kinsfolk, the kindred alone become one's refuge Hence, the daughter of the Earth¹³ swooned, and fell on the earth, overwhelmed with so great a grief

56 She shed no tears nor could even look at Rāma's head. Having fainted, she only sank to the ground, helpless like one dead.

57 Her face was clouded by the gloom of unconsciousness, with the breath still for a moment, the eyelashes partly joined, and the pupils rolling in her swoon.

13. i.e., Sītā.

58. With eyes closed as she swooned, she felt only bliss free from the pangs of separation, with the sorrow caused by Rāma's death forgotten for the moment

59 On her bosom covered with the breasts, even her deep breathing was not observed in the least, it was only on her quivering lower lip that it was discerned.

60 She lay weary on the ground even at the end of her swoon, breathing faintly, and opened her eyes, with the pupils slowly rolling, and bedewed with streaming tears

61-4 She beheld Rāma's head, roughly lopped off by the impact of a forceful sword, the corners of the eyes being blackened by friction with the feathers of the arrows, drawn full length as they were fixed in the bow

The passage of the throat was blocked by the flesh, shrinking around the cut, and grown pale from bleeding; while the saffron powder on the blade of the sword had partly adhered to the slit in the neck, when the weapon menacingly descended upon it

The tips of the teeth were slightly visible, clenched at the root of the severely bitten lower lip, while the gash in the throat was black, being filled with a lump of gore

The frown and the movement of the eyebrows seemed to have disappeared from the forehead, while it was brought by the demons, seizing it by the hair, and it had become lighter from loss of blood, with the pupils fixed in a lifeless stare

65 Her eyes remained fixed on the head as before, and her weary hand, leaving the cheeks, rested on her bosom Inert like a corpse, she only sank to the ground¹⁴ under the weight of her breasts

66 When she rose up after having swooned, her visage bore the imprint of silent mourning, with the listless eyes rolling simultaneously in different directions, and towards the sky, wondering what it all could be

14. The poet overlooks the fact that she was already prostrate in a state of exhaustion, as described in verse 60

CANTO XII

1 Meanwhile came the morning, with the swans darkened by the swirling pollen of the partly open blue lotus blossoms, and the night lotus pools turning green as the flowers partly closed their petals.¹

2 The last watch of the night, suffused with crimson by the rising sun, and knocked at the base by the moonlight, grey like a flood, vanished like a stretch of river bank, tinged with the colour of red earth²

3 On the surface of the earth, with the moonlight eclipsed by the gleams of the morning sun, only the outline of the receding grey shadows of the trees could be seen as they moved.³

4 The night lotus bed closed its petals, and the orb of the moon that had half gone down was bereft of lustre. The splendour of the night faded away, and the feeble stars of the eastern sky were overpowered by the rising sun

5 Free from darkness, the sky, with patches of clouds, permeated by the rays of the rising sun, red as the young foliage of trees, resembled a part of a jewel mountain, bristling with slabs of realgar crumbling to dust

6 Meanwhile the moon, greyish like an elephant's footprint, filled with rain-water, reached the slope of the western mountain, as if it had slid down the sky when it slanted on being raised by the morning sun

7 The wind-swept woods were resonant with the clear and sweet notes of the birds, with the bees humming, and the foliage lighter, being rid of frost

8 Overpowered and displaced by the morning sun, the lunar orb, heavy with the dense moonbeams nestling on its bosom, dropped on⁴ the summit of the western mountain, having lost the support of its rays⁵

9 Having somehow endured the grief of separation from her beloved at night, the female Cakravāka bird ran to her mate, responding to his call, as if to welcome him at dawn⁶

10 As the moon clung to the summit of the western mountain its flanks were lit up by the enhanced lustre of the plants; and the oozing of water from the moonstones increased more than ever⁷

11 The sky, with the stars sliding far down, and the moonbeams verging (towards the west), being driven by the rays of the morning sun, seemed to sink along with the moon, and rise (at the other end) from the Sunrise mountain

12 The eventide gave joy to the damsels by bringing their consorts, and the night by affording the pleasures of love But the morning wore on, causing the anguish of separation, with passion unquenched

13 The morning dalliance was much more delightful than that of the evening perfect because the frenzy brought by wine had worn off, and the joy was enhanced by confidence, with the girdle torn to shreds⁸ in the ardour of love

14 The wine-bowl, abandoned by the young women, and smeared with the paint of their lips, and half covered with the lotus left in the remnant of wine,⁹ still emitted a mild fragrance like that of fading Bakula flowers

15 The young women, allowed to leave by their beloved, were worn out with fatigue, their hair loose, and the hips encompassed by the girdle worn inside out,¹⁰ while faint traces of perfumed paint still adhered to their bodies

4 'from', acc to Rāmadāsa's reading

5 Kara means also 'hand' which brings into relief the idea of helplessness

6 The birds (red geese) are believed to separate at nightfall

7. i.e., owing to the contiguity of the moon whose influence on plants and moonstones is often mentioned in Kāvya poetry

8 Lit with only a remnant left of the girdle torn

9 The lotus was placed in the bowl to perfume the wine during the revels of the night

10 Indicates the listlessness of the damsels at the time of departure

16. Wearily the young women set about returning home, turning to their beloved as they parted,¹¹ listlessly setting their left foot down, and stepping forth unsteadily because of the plump faltering thighs

17. Stirring the lotus pools into bloom, the day returned, having travelled all night, with the visage decked with the gleam of the morning, even as an elephant, gone astray, returns after roaming through the night, with its face smeared with red earth, having troubled the water of the lotus pools

18. The opening lotus blossoms seemed to declare that the Beauty adorning the day had planted her foot on them as she, awakened by the morning glow, rose to greet the sun that had come

19. Separating without fear at nightfall in the waters of the sea, the conches, isolated from one another, and helpless in the morning, closed in on the reflection of the moon, as if it were their mother

20. The scent of the day lotus beds as they burst into bloom was rich, even though scattered by the wind, because it issued all at once after long confinement (within the petals);¹² and was sweetened by the honey of the flowers stirred (by the breeze)

21. As the Rāksasa warriors took leave of their mistresses who were shedding tears, the pleasure of embracing them was the last they ever had¹³

22. Rāma woke, even though he had not really slept. The day had arrived for him to requite the wrong done by Rāvana, and the time was ripe for letting loose his wrath, while the joy (of meeting Sītā) was delayed only by the impending war

23. Unequal in suffering was that night and the long time that had elapsed as Rāma endured the grief of separation from Sītā, which was to persist only for the four watches of that night¹⁴

11 Or, retiring from the presence of their beloved

12 The petals of the day lotus remain closed during the night

13 Because they never returned from the war with Rāma

14 i.e., the night preceding the battle that was to end in the recovery of Sītā seemed to Rāma to be longer than the years of separation from her

24. His eyes, sparkling from within the lids drooping at the end of sleep, rested as they opened on his bow that had seen many a battle, and on which lay the heavy burden of war

25 He left his bed of stone that betokened the agony of his heart, being made rugged by his constant tossing about with the pillows crushed on both sides, and the flowers withered.

26, 27 For a long while he watched with joy his (right) arm, which, strong as a mountain, grew sturdier as it twitched, presaging his union with his beloved, about to take place¹⁵ Instantly he performed the ceremonial rites, and bound his mass of matted hair, which was drawn aside and fixed away from the track of the bow,¹⁶ and was made fragrant by the crumpled bed of Tamāla leaves just left by him.

28, 29. He directed his eyes, bedewed with tears, towards Lankā. they were red with long-standing anger reaching its culmination, and fierce with their glare¹⁷ He then took up his bow, known for its prowess. it lay on the side of the bed, vacant in the absence of Sītā, with its end soiled by his tears as he rested his face thereon in anguish caused by separation from her

30 The bow, planted on the ground, and held fast by gripping it with his left hand, was strung with the right hand as it bent under the weight of his stooping frame

31 Rāma set out, armed only with his bow the mountain¹⁸ locking (under his feet) He struck fear into the enemy with the slow and heavy swaying of his head as he gasped (with rage).

32 The host of apes also advanced, appearing to make up a range of mountains in the sky with the united peaks of the mountains held aloft by them, while the trees, carried in their arms of similar proportions, were distinguished by their branches.¹⁹

15. The twitching of the right arm or eye is believed to be of good omen for a man See 1576, 77

16 i.e., in a manner to facilitate the drawing of the bow

17 Lit hard to look at on account of the all too conspicuous eyeballs

18 i.e., the Suvela.

19. The apes fought with mountains and trees as their weapons as described in the next Canto.

33 The craven arm themselves. Of what use is the load of armour to the strong? Their own strength was the armour of the apes, and their unvanquished arms the weapons

34 The troops of Vibhīṣana were placed in the forefront of the army they were conversant with the path to Lankā, and familiar with the resources of the demons, and skilled in deceitful as well as straight-forward methods of war

35 When Rāma took up arms, Sugrīva became sad, being at a loss to requite his kindness, now that he was hasting to the battle,²⁰ while Vibhīṣana grieved over the fate of the Rākṣasa race.

36 As Rāma brandished his bow, convulsing the Suvela and rocking the sea, Lankā, with its wall and mansions quivering, seemed to tremble, flinging its limbs about 37 Sītā was solaced to hear the sound of Rāma's bow that came like his initial greeting to her, her frail body thrilling with rapture, and her face beaming with unwonted joy.

38 The yelling of the apes, pleasing to Sītā's ears, confounded the people of Lankā, making the young women faint, and acting like a crash of thunder on the mountain that was Rāvana's heart

39 Assailed by the sea, overflowing its shore on account of the violent onrush of the host of apes,²¹ the Suvela whose caves were filled with water roared with the echoes dying away²²

40 The sound of the bow as it rumbled, when first swung by Rāma, drowning all other noise, faded away slowly as Rāvana heard it with amazement and wrath.

41 Meanwhile, Rāvana woke at the end of his slumbers, taking no heed of the host of apes, glorious in war, who stood encircling Lankā's wall.

20 The idea is Rāma's eagerness to fight deprived Sugrīva of the opportunity to show his gratitude by taking the initiative in the fighting

21 The seashore is fancied as sinking under the weight of the apes, causing the sea to overflow

22 i.e., the roar of the waters did not reverberate from the flooded caves of the mountain

42 His sleep wore off as he ceased to roll, and took his ease by turning over in bed, hearing confusedly the auspicious music of the morning.

43. Disturbed by wrath at the sound of Rāma's bow, the remnant of Rāvana's sleep, free from the effect of wine, came to an end as it slowly departed from the multitude of his eyes, red with drink.

44. As he lay in bed he moved and lifted up his (ten) pairs of arms, which, standing apart, with the fingers interlaced, resembled lofty bejewelled gates²³

45. Thereafter Rāvana's war-drum began to be beaten, heralding the preparations for the battle; while the gods were perturbed as the Airāvata elephant broke its post, crazed with fear.²⁴

46 Awakened by the warning of the battle, the demons, seizing hold of whatever weapons came to hand, sallied out after caressing a little their young mistresses who hugged them with their eyes closed.

47 When the sudden beat of the drum, a call to arms, was heard, the lips of the lovers, held fast by the young women as they took leave of them, parted from their mouth, slackening even though unreleased.

48 . When the sound of arming for the battle was heard, the arms of the young women, clinging to their beloved's neck, slackened because of the pause in dalliance, fear was only a minor pretext²⁵

49 Hastening on hearing the alarm, the demons, impatient as they took up arms, their hands unsteady, allowed the delightful embrace of their beloved to slacken as the breasts slipped from their bosom.

²³ The raised arms are compared to the pillars of a gate, and the interlaced fingers to the carved decorations at the top

²⁴ i.e., they were reminded of Rāvana's war with India, to whom the elephant belonged Cf verse 76

²⁵ i.e., the real cause was the coolness of the lovers due to anxiety.

50 As the young women held their beloved back their long-standing anger born of jealousy no longer found place in their hearts, smitten with fear, even though the lovers refused their entreaty,²⁶ something that they had not done before.

51 Even as their mistresses restrained the martial zeal of the warriors it grew more ardent because of the rancour harboured (against the enemy), all the more because they were reminded of the possible humiliation of their master²⁷

52 Held by their beloved's hands, and delayed by their entreaties, and swayed by love and passion, but made resolute by their sense of honour, the demons departed, because of their delight in war.

53 Ambitious to fight with the gods, they were ashamed to put on armour in a martial enterprise, trivial on account of rivalry with the apes. None the less they could not tolerate the aggression of the foe

54 Mahodara's armour was hollow over the cavities left by old wounds, but clattered when parts of it rubbed against the swollen flesh round the scars. It was uneven on the chest, but flat on the back²⁸

55 Skilled in archery, Pīahasta, a mobile rampart to the lord of the demons, whose might was seen in the wars with the gods, was delighted that he was methodically equipped with armour.

56 The upraised armour of Tīśīras (Three-headed) that had openings for his several necks slipped down loose over his chest, which contracted when the (six) hands were simultaneously raised (to let them into the arms of the coat of mail)

57 As Mahodara²⁹ flung himself about violently, the ground trembling under him, his armour, which had stuck on his chest, slid down under its own weight

26 i.e. the request of the mistresses to delay their departure Cf. verse 52.

27 i.e., the possible defeat of Rāvana by Rāma

28 i.e., the armour fitted the back, but not the chest because of the swollen flesh

29 See Extracts.

58 Indrajit's armour, hollow in the middle,³⁰ bulged on his (high) bosom: it glistened with the clearly visible smooth scrape left by the stout tusks of the Airāvata elephant that had glanced off the coat of mail³¹ (in the fight with Indra)

59. As the armour of Atikāya slowly reached down to the thighs, the sky, no longer suffused with the lustre of his body,³² looked as if it were rid of a patch of black cloud³³

60 Eager for battle, Dhūmrākṣa was annoyed to have worn a coat of mail, which, because the clasp had been torn away by the thunderbolt,³⁴ turned over on his bosom, laying bare his shoulders.

61. The long healed wounds of Aśaniprabha burst in a rage, and blood trickled for a long while through the apertures of his coat of mail, like a stream of blood from a portentous cloud.

62 As Nikumbha's bosom heaved with wrath, his ring-mail, being strained³⁵ and stretched, cracked, with the chunks clearly visible, and the iron rings torn asunder

63. Śuka³⁶ put on a well-protected armour, capable of resisting the weapons of the gods, but was unaware of the imminent danger from Rāma's irresistible arrows.

64 Sārana³⁷ went forth without wearing any armour, preserving thereby the imprint of the ornamental paint of the bosom of his mistress on his body, as a token of her eager and close embrace as he hastily took leave of her

65 Kumbha's chariot, which had for its banner a roaring shadow created by magic, was yoked with lions, while the serpents,

30 i.e., in the region of the waist

31 The elephant had hit the armour with its tusks, but failed to pierce it See Kulanātha in Extracts

35 Forced upward, acc to Rāmadāsa's reading

36 Rāvana's minister

37 Another minister of Rāvana

twisting about on their mane, stuck in the gore of the gods³⁸ served as the reins

66 The hand, gripping the hilt of the sword, excited wrath; repaid the master's kindness, however great; and destroyed the foeman's pride

67 The strong armed themselves, and could not endure the yelling (of the apes), and were aggrieved (at the delay), while the celestial maidens kept on coming to the door of their aerial cars and going back to adorn themselves³⁹

68 While the demons were thus arming themselves, delighted and eager for the battle, the host of apes, watched by Rāma, closed in upon Lankā

69 The apes attacked the city of the demons, which was panic-stricken, with the parks laid waste, and was denuded of splendour, being desolate with the pleasure gardens and the gateways to the (suburban) mansions destroyed⁴⁰

70 Hemmed in by the demons, and hard put to it, the host of apes, held together by Sugrīva, who kept calm, roared as they sprang up in a rage and rushed (at the enemy)

71 While the gods gathered in the sky, hidden by the proud host of apes⁴¹ as they rushed forward, the celestial maidens looked down at the city of the demons, which they could hitherto see only as captives.

72 As the apes rushed forth, hasting to the battle, the trees, broken and severed from the peaks of the mountains⁴² crumbling

38 i.e. the dry blood of the gods wounded in previous battles with the demons

39 They wished to ascertain if the battle had begun, as they were getting ready to accept as their lovers the heroes coming to heaven after their death on the battlefield

40 The verse describes the attack on the outskirts of Lankā See Kṛṣṇa in Extracts

41 i.e., hidden by the gigantic figures of the apes Acc. to Rāmādāsa's reading (see Extracts), the gods gathered at a point in the sky corresponding to the position of the apes below as they wished to be near the latter for fear of the Rākṣasas

42. Those carried by the apes for use as weapons See verse 32 on account of their vehement speed, dropped on the ground only after they had passed.

73 The apes surmised from the banners rising high in the sky from within the city wall that the demons were mounted on the armoured elephants arrayed in battle formation⁴³

74 The sound of the approach of the host of apes, spreading as their feet rose and fell, followed the course of the wind, harsh with the crash of trees,⁴⁴ and growing louder as it reverberated from the earth

75 The moats of Lankā looked like the brooks streaming down the damaged Suvela mountain⁴⁵ and meandering on all sides, because their bejewelled embankments were smashed down by the apes, and the water poured into the neighbouring hollows⁴⁶

76 The long-preserved footprints of Indra, who had fled from battle (with Rāvana) could only be effaced by the apes, who swiftly demolished the interior of the fortified gate of the city⁴⁷

77 The city of the demons, with the remaining banners flying inside the wall, was reduced to a state in which the flame of Rāvana's might seemed to be quenched by the waters of the moat, which was encircled in a moment by the apes

78 Beleaguered by the serried ranks of the apes, resembling massive mountain peaks, the city of the demons seemed to have the moat lying between twin walls⁴⁸

79 The host of apes, vast as it spread out, formed a circle round Lankā's wall, massing close together, and allotting the wide gates (to the leaders)

43 The banners were held up on the back of the elephants

44 i.e. the trees carried as weapons and broken during the march
Cf. verse 72

45 i.e. trampled by the apes

46 Lit. the apes made the moats look like etc.

47 The footprints were preserved at the place from where Indra had fled. Kīṣṇa interprets the phrase as the captured royal insignia of Indra preserved inside the structure as a trophy. See Extracts

48 i.e., the existing wall and the surrounding apes on the other side of the moat, looking like another wall

80 Having built a second causeway composed of mountains across the deep moat, as if it were another sea, the apes began to scale the wall, as if it were another Suvela

81 Thereafter when Rāvana's city was stormed by the apes, the army of the demons began to move, setting up a yell, even as the waters of the ocean flow over the earth, ravaged by the fire of the epoch of destruction

82 Hasting to the battle, Nikumbha went forth, mounted on a chariot drawn by Śarabhas,⁴⁹ whose mane was heavily pressed by the yoke as they turned aside to attack the elephants close at hand

83 Prajañgha, who wore his armour in the nick of time, rode on a chariot, spurring on the horses with the end of his bow, and determined to fight with the entire host of apes

84 The chariot of Indrajit, with the pole-frame broad as the golden wall of a palace, advanced, with flags flying, as if it were a segment of the city of the demons

85 His chariot was drawn by horses that were transformed every moment into lions, or elephants, or buffaloes, or clouds, or mountains

86 When the Rāksasa troops sallied out without waiting for orders, starting off with loud shouts as fury and excitement prevailed at the royal court, even then breach of discipline at the time delighted Rāvana

87 The army of the demons was splendid. warriors were armed and being armed, chariots were harnessed and being harnessed by warriors eager for the battle, rows of elephants were arrayed and being arrayed, and horses had moved and were moving

88 The army advanced. the troops mounted on elephants chose Rāma as their antagonist; those on chariots purposed to engage Sugrīva and Laksmana, the horsemen chose Hanūmat and the foot-soldiers the host of apes

⁴⁹ A legendary animal with eight feet

89. The army took a devious route, unable to make its exit all at once: it was impeded by the congestion of the chariots, and crammed into the space between the mansions, with the elephant corps crowded into the gateways of the city.

90. The chariots of the demons laboured through the gateways, striking the lintels above with their banners, lowered sideways; while the doors were scratched⁵⁰ by the ends of the slanting yokes.

91. The elephants of the quarters sank to the ground, and the hoods of the serpent Ananta⁵¹ were crushed, and the nether regions split under the weight of the army of the demons. The earth endured it, even though heavy, because it was to lighten ere long.⁵²

92. The army moved on, reaching the forward ranks (of the enemy forces). It swelled at the centre, being held up and massed at the gates; relieving the congestion on the highway, but filling the courtyards with the rear.

93. Thus impeded at the gates, the army of the demons moved out of the city, dispersed along a wide front, like unto a river issuing from a cave with a single entrance, and flowing wide over the plains.

94. At that moment, the courtyards of the mansions of the demons, vacant, with the troops gone to the front, looked like the sandy banks of a river that had subsided after a flood.

95. The apes, who were quick to encircle Lankā, yelled and rushed forth, like a forest fire driven by a violent gale, when they saw the demons come out through the gates.

96. The army of the demons swelled, the infantry ready to strike, and the cavalry advancing on the flanks, the elephants urged on by the goad, and the chariots driven at full speed.⁵³

50. Trans follows the reading vilīhīa

97 Thereupon, coming at a uniform speed, and striving to outdo one another in their onward rush,⁵⁴ the host of apes, composed of warriors of unflagging zeal, stood (before the enemy) as they swept forward in an encircling movement as before⁵⁵

98 The wrathful warriors assailed the enemy, and were assailed in turn. Full of exalted martial pride they slew and were slain. Only they yielded not on account of their zeal.

CANTO XIII

1. Thereupon the demons, who joined battle as soon as they sallied out, and the apes, who closed in upon them, initiated and bore the brunt of heavy fighting, uttering loud cries.

2 As the warriors rushed forward, trampling on the fallen bodies of those in front of them, they came so close to one another that they drew back a little in their eagerness to strike

3. The demons wielded their weapons against the enemy in the forefront of the battle just as they had purposed in their hearts, and determined with their dust-covered eyes.

4 Quick to secure vantage ground, and adroit in striking the first blow¹ the warriors, who wielded firmly gripped unwavering swords, and hit the mark, never yielded ground to the enemy.

5. The elephants of the demons tried to shake off the trees with the swaying branches, hurled by the apes, which had penetrated their temples, wiping off the vermilion paint as they whirled round the face.

6 The justly grievous consequences of both Rāma's terrible wrath and Rāvana's irresistible passion began to be manifest all at once

7. The Rāksasa army provided both the targets and the means of attack² for the apes, since they killed the elephants with the elephants, the horses with the horses, and the chariot-fighters with the chariots

8 The demons moved about piercing the mountains (hurled by the apes) with their arrows, and breaking up with their clubs what remained of pierced by the arrows; while they smashed with their arms those that were out of reach of their weapons

9 The massive trunk of an elephant, even though it accurately hit the shoulder of an ape, broad as the expanse of a mountain, slipped aside, failing to hem it round

10 As a mountain, furiously hauled by an ape, crumbled on the chest of a demon, the dust rose aloft, while the mass of rocks slumped down to the ground

11 The tracks of the warriors, stretching right through the enemy troops, and exhibiting uncommon valour, were a formidable sight,³ with distinguished warriors slain and falling in succession.

12 Martial aidour was brought into play One's own blow was derided as trivial because of the lack of a worthy counter-blow The urge of enmity prevailed The strong persisted in daring exploits.

13 The heart did not sink, even though the head sank to the ground, nor did it lose courage, even though pierced by the spear The fear of war, even though brought near by the warriors, found no place in the hearts of their antagonists, because it was unfamiliar to them

14 The pride of a warrior ignored the enemy's blow Manly self-confidence achieved success in the thick of the fight⁴ The wrath of the warriors did not abate even during strategic⁵ withdrawals

15 The apes yelled furiously when pierced and thrown up by the elephants of the enemy Clenching their teeth, and shaking their flowing hair in anger, they closed their eyes in death.

16 The resolve of a warrior was not broken, and he thought of the master's kindness even in peril Death was set at nought, and honour prevailed even in face of danger⁶

19 The valiant did not wait for a chance to come, but crushed the valour displayed by the enemy They performed more than they promised, and came forward (to fight), followed by applause⁸

20. Thus did their battle rage It destroyed the path to the world of Yama, and straightened the way to Indra's palace⁹ it was, as it were, the appointed bower where the celestial maidens met to secure the joys of love¹⁰

21. The stout tusks of an elephant that hit an ape on the bosom sank deep into its own mouth,¹¹ while the tracks of the apes on the battlefield were resonant with the moving bangles of the celestial maidens, who came down in quest of the warriors that were killed¹²

22 The chariots were dashed on the ground as the apes swooped down on them The elephants, thrown up by the apes as they sprang into the air, had their limbs broken¹³ The captured horses ran away, and the Rākṣasa warriors were slain by the pursuing apes

23 The impact of the sandal trees (hurled by the apes) was endured with ease by the demons, because the chest was cooled by the sap (of the broken trees), while the apes screamed when the arrows pierced through their mouths as they opened them in their eagerness to chatter.

24. The ranks of the elephants broke up, and were formed again. The foot-soldiers, checked in their advance, retreated and formed a circle. The path of the chariots was covered with blood, and the horses neighed faintly because of the dry foam in the mouth.

25. The heads of the warriors, pleased with the foeman's striking power, rang with applause as they fell;¹⁴ and the battle-cry died away in the mouth of those mangled and stunned by the enemy's assault.

26. The Rāksasa troops were hemmed in¹⁵ by their elephants, controlled with toil and trouble, because they took fright at the impact of the mountains (hurled by the apes); while the chariots, with their flags and emblems broken, could hardly be recognised by their puzzled fighters who had withdrawn from the fray.¹⁶

27. The horses groaned with wide open mouths, worn out with fatigue, as they pulled out the chariots squeezed by the mountains; while the pools of blood became palish white, commingling with the silver of the fallen mountains crushed to dust.¹⁷

28. The moist traces of the streams could be discerned on the mountains hurled by the apes and reduced to dust; and, while the fighting apes came within range of the swords wielded by the demons, they were evaded by others going out of range.¹⁸

29. The long hair of the apes spread over their shoulders as they rushed forward; while the warriors wounded by clubs hitting them on the waist slumped down to the ground.

18. Trans. follows Rāmādāsa. Acc. to Mādhava (see Extracts) the apes, who came within range of the swords (of the demons), struck a blow and got away, eluding the foe.

30 The apes, seized and bitten on the head by the demons, thrust their teeth half into their chest, while the dust settled on the battlefield, being moistened and made heavy by the spray of the cascades on the mountains held aloft by the apes

31 The horses drew the chariots as they fell headlong and rose up, struck by the drivers with the hands, while the streams of blood were absorbed by the mountains crumbling to dust under the impact of the arrows of the demons¹⁹

32 The armies,²⁰ intolerant (of each other's advance), suffered losses, with the foremost ranks annihilated, sections of the troops worsted and repulsed, and the opposing forces dwindling and taking to flight

33 Reeling under the blows of the apes, and striking at undetermined targets with their swords, with the eyes closed as in a swoon, the demons drew near, even though they were in a daze.

34 A warrior ape, who crushed a powerful adversary, but was staggered by a blow dealt by a demon standing at a distance, quivered as he dropped out of the ranks, with his efforts brought to nought

35 Power was maintained with manly effort, and prestige by striking hard, while one's followers were protected with valour. Honour was preserved at the cost of life, and the valued fame at the expense of the body.

36. The bosom of the warriors was pierced, but not their resolute heart. The chariots were broken by the mountains,²¹ but not the will. Heads were cut off, but not the high resolve to fight.

37 The dust as it rose and spread was laid in the sky by the cascades of the mountains (held aloft by the apes), on the battlefield by the scattered spray of blood, and amidst the elephants in battle array by the flow of their ichor

20 Those of the demons and the apes

21 Those used by the apes as missiles

38 The stout arms of an ape, which had endured sword-cuts, and resembled a bar dented by the tusks of a mighty elephant, were fractured as they bent under the pressure of the mountain held by him

39 Having tasted the blood in a warrior's wound containing fragments of his armour, a bird, though thirsty, did not drink but shunned it, because it was flavourless on account of the presence of iron splinters

40 The severed arm of a warrior quivered even after it had dropped. Wrath was manifest even on the prostrate face. The trunk ran along, even though the head was lopped off, with streams of blood spurting out of the throat.

41 The enemy's onslaught stimulated the ardour of the warriors. Inveterate hatred sustained their valour. The heavy task that confronted them enhanced their pride, bringing on the urge to fight.

42 The warriors acquired fame, just as they subdued the enemy. They were impatient of delay, just as they were intolerant of the enemy's challenge. They accepted death like joy, and gave up their life, just as they flung a missile.

43 Those of the apes who endured sword-cuts were crushed by their own mountains as they fainted, bowed down with the weight, their arms weary and feeble from loss of blood.

44 The warriors preserved their honour like a flower, and did not believe their fame to be perfect, however much it increased. Only they had no craving for life, held in high esteem in the world.

45 When their own sector became quiet, with the distinguished warriors slain, the valiant went over to an area of heavy combat with the enemy where the press of battle was at its height.

46 The strong strove to achieve fame, and could not brook any humiliation of their valour. They appeased their wrath (by slaying the enemy), and increased the tempo of daring exploits.

47. The battle raged, the blows bringing pleasure,²² and the joy of fighting interrupted by momentary swoon; while nymphs were won at the cost of one's life,²³ and heads bartered for fame

48. They laughed in the face of mortal danger, took delight in daring deeds, and rejoiced in peril, paused only during swoon, and deemed their task fulfilled only when they died.

49 A cloud of dust that rose from the movements of the troops gave rise to the strange notion of a solar eclipse, and evoked the night all of a sudden, having brought the day to a premature end.

50. The dust, thickly accumulated on the ground, and sparse as it spread out in mid air, became dense and pervasive in the sky, and being heavy, descended on all sides

51. Did the dust, with the starting-point unseen, leave or fill the earth? Did it issue from the regions of the sky, or envelop the horizon? Did it fall from the sky, or rise to the firmament?

52 The army of the demons along with the fighting apes confronting it was covered with thick dust. Bereft of lustre, it seemed to stand in front of a jewel mountain enshrouded in mist²⁴

53 A mass of fine dust spread in the sky like a somber cloud: it turned the banners grey, discoloured the foam in the horses' mouth, and obscured the sunlight

54. The dim rays of the sun, lengthening in the wake of the mountains, swiftly hurled by the apes, and dropping from the sky, descended like a torrent of water from a conduit

59. Swirled by the wind, the dust obstructed the vision of the elephants as they rushed forth in the forefront of the battle, as if it were a veil drawn over the face²⁶

60. The dust was thereafter settled by the river of blood, spouting from the chest wounds of the warriors, as if it were a tree on the eroded bank of a river.

61. Dispersed by the wind and thinly scattered, and partly swept away, the remnant of the dust floated in the air, like thin mist, and resembling a pile of lotus stalk fibres

67. The elephants shook their heads, with the erect goad thrust into them by the stones hurled by the apes, and bellowed, face upwards, the hind quarters sinking under the weight of the forepart of the body.³¹

68 Thrown into confusion by the heavy onslaught of the apes, the Rāksasa warriors, strong enough to vanquish the gods, ever ready for war, took to flight, a thing hard for them to do, because it was the first time that they had ever fled

69 The army of the demons turned round the elephants, dispersed in flight, were turned back, the broken chariots were moved out of position; the troops broke ranks all at once; and the horses moved in a circle.

70 The demons who stood their ground in anger, but were repulsed when they returned to fight for a while, turned and fled, with all wrath gone, pursued by the intrepid apes

71 The troops scattered, with the tangled mass of chariots broken by the elephants, and the horses trapped in the chariots, and the foot-soldiers stumbling over the horses, and the elephants tumbling over the former

73 But the demons, with their martial ardour unimpaired, and humiliation first brought to them by the apes, returned again, even though they had fled, and did not wholly give way to fear.

74 Nevertheless the army of demons fled again. The track of the heavy-wheeled chariots formed a circle as they slowly turned round (in their flight), and the brave, who stood then ground and moved swiftly, earned martial fame by infusing fresh courage into the troops.

75 The demons were held down, face backwards, and their foreheads half broken by the apes, while the mahouts were struck with dismay as the elephants fled, scared by the yelling of the enemy troops

76 The horses stood motionless, pursued and seized by the tail by the impetuous apes; and the chariots, with the fighters killed and the drivers fallen, were whirled away by the horses, frightened by the apes.

77 The apes in small groups went in pursuit, impeded by the troops fallen in battle, and the hands of the demons were empty with the weapons gone.³³

78 Thereafter the demons, reduced to impotence, with all wrath gone, remembered Rāvana and returned once more, discarding the fear of battle, and bent on preserving their honour³⁴ before each other.

CANTO XIV

1. Rāma, with the day wasted, not having encountered Rāvana as desired by him, became sad as he, looking towards Lankā, tardily slew the demons

2 He resolved to discharge his arrows that had proved burdensome¹ at the demons as he thought. 'Care-free because of his confidence in them, Rāvana doth not come out to fight.'

3 As Rāma's arrows killed the enemy at sight, or as he retreated or drew near, the apes moved about the battlefield downhearted, holding up their trees in vain²

4 Rāma's arrows pierced their way through the swiftly hurled boulders of the apes, flying in the same direction, and killed the enemy first, disappointing the apes in their hopes.

5 The weapons of the demons were rent asunder by his arrows all at once, and did not reach the apes, nor did the swiftly flung missiles of the apes find any demon unhurt³

6 The mountain peaks, wrathfully hurled by the apes, whose valour was frustrated⁴ by Rāma's arrows, dropped on the heads of the demons, already severed and dashed on the ground, while the boulders hurled by them likewise dropped on their chest already pierced by the arrows

7 Rāma's arrows appeared to be all the time fixed to the bow, and the bow all the time curved, while the ground was strewn with the ever rolling heads of the demons struck off by the arrows

8 The tracks of the arrows, fiery at places, but not the arrows, were seen in the bodies of the demons, and resembled the mouth of holes abandoned by serpents

9 Rāma's arrows, their course revealed by the fall of heads in unbroken succession, were visible only when they dropped on

11. The long chain of Rāma's arrows that killed elephants, horses and troops was seen amidst the army of the demons as they entered through the front ranks and went out, piercing through the rear.

12. The troops of the demons were seen to fall, hit by Rāma's arrows, even as they were on the point of fleeing affrighted all at once.

13. In this wise Rāma destroyed in an instant the army of demons with his arrows, the falling heads seen all at once, with Śuka and Sārana⁵ as the sole survivors

14. Meanwhile the day, with the evening twilight resembling the host of demons red with blood,⁶ came to an end, as if for ever in reality, with all danger from the demons gone⁷

15. Thereupon Meghanāda, flying aloft from his chariot broken by Angada,⁸ and holding up his bow, moved about alone in the sky, the darkness blending with the lustre of his body

16. The invisible Indrajit, like Fate unseen, fixed his eyes at the same moment on both the sons of Daśaratha,⁹ who had destroyed the demons, and were at the root of the deep animosity against them

19 Dark blue like tempered¹⁰ iron, the serpents, released after fixing them to the bow, and looking like miraculous arrows, issued forth, with their mouths aflame with the sparks of their fiery venom.

20 Resembling iron rods brightened by heating, and rumbling like thunder, the arrows dropped from the sky enveloped in darkness by the magic of the demon, and seemed to issue from the murky clouds.

21 Looking at first like the solar orb, and resembling meteors as they passed half-way through the sky, they appeared to be arrows as they pierced their limbs, and became serpents on their arms, coiling round the lightly bitten parts of the body.

22 The sons of Daśaratha remained fast bound. The gods were dispirited, being somewhat frustrated in their hopes, while the apes who did not see Meghanāda moved about aimlessly, holding up their mountains.

23 The demon yelled in the sky. Disconsolate, the host of apes went in different directions (in quest of the foe). Rāma, though pierced by the arrows, was not downhearted, and looked about to have a glimpse of the enemy.

24 The serpents permeated through his limbs; only they avoided his heart, aglow with the fire of wrath, and like unto the blazing submarine fire

25 The arms of Rāma and Laksmana, ringed about with serpents, but not easily encompassed by their massive coils, became stiff and motionless, like the sandal trees¹¹ growing on the Malaya slopes

¹⁰ mīdhā, washed, i.e., dipped into water after heating, as explained by Rāmādāsa, a reference to 'the process of tempering iron by dipping it red-hot into cold water, when the sudden contraction hardens the metal'. It is mentioned in Odyssey IX 391 ff (see Stanford's comm., 1959) and the Ajax of Sophocles (651) where it is called baphē (dipping)

¹¹ Frequently associated with serpents in Kāvya poetry Cf 160, 643

26. The scions of Raghu, who held their bows and arrows as before, with their arms pierced and paralysed by the serpent arrows, were rendered helpless, with their futile wrath perceptible as they merely bit their lips

27. Their bodies being pierced through and through by the arrows, the limbs had to be searched out to be seen, while the clotted blood accumulating on the feathers of the arrows could partly be seen.

28 Even their power to move was lost, with the thighs transfixed by the arrows, and the feet held fast, feeble and motionless, and all the limbs bound tight

29 Thereupon as the spirits of the gods drooped the bow fell from Rāma's hand, crippled by the arrows discharged by the unseen foe, while the arrow fixed aforetime slipped from the bow.

30 All of a sudden the piercing cry of the celestial maidens, like unto the notes of the strings of a lyre sounding in unison, rose in the rear of their fleeing aerial cars¹²

31 Thereafter Rāma sank to the ground, shattering the hope of the universe, even as a wild elephant, mauled by the claws of a lion, falls, breaking a tall neighbouring tree

32 When Rāma fell, Lakshmana fell after him, like the reclining shadow in the wake of a lofty tree crashing to the ground.

33 And when they sank to the ground, the chariots of the gods tarried long (in the sky), lurching under the weight of the occupants as they bent forward and looked on, with one wheel turned upwards, and the side walls turning aslant¹³

34 When Rāma fell, the world was stupefied as when the mental faculties fail It was suddenly plunged into gloom as at the setting of the sun It appeared to be bereft of life as when the (severed) head falls to the ground

¹² They had come to the rear of their cars to watch the happenings below

¹³ The occupants of the chariots, apparently two-wheeled, had gathered on one side to look down at the battlefield

35. The host of apes whose security depended on Rāma lost heart as they looked at the directions that seemed to be empty. Paralysed with fear, and huddling together, they did not forsake Rāma, even though he had fallen 36 Dejected, disheartened and anxious, the host of apes kept still as in a picture, their eyes fixed on Rāma, and hearts smitten with grief.

37 Even though Rāma had fallen, the visible serenity of his face, maintained with abiding fortitude, and highly prized because there was no trace of anguish, assured the host of apes that there was no cause for fear

38 Thereupon Sugrīva, whose eyes were sprinkled with consecrated water by Vibhīšana, saw the demon, the son of Rāvana,¹⁴ as he stood close at hand, aimed with his bow, having performed the task assigned to him

39 Wrathfully lifting up a mountain, Sugrīva sprang up all of a sudden and rushed headlong, and halted only after he had chased the demon to Lankā as he ran away in fear

40 Gratified at the destruction of the scions of Raghu, as reported by Indrajit, Rāvana cheered up, delighted to have found a means of winning Sītā

41 Thereupon brought to the battlefield by the female demons by Rāvana's command, Sītā witnessed the momentary widowhood¹⁵ that had just befallen her. Beside herself, she wept aloud and swooned away after mourning a while.

42 Opening his eyes as he regained consciousness, Rāma beheld Laksmana and began to lament, forgetting at the moment all his grief for Sītā

43 'Even Laksmana hath passed away. All the three worlds seemed to be in peril when his bow was strung. None there is in the world whom the sequel of fate doth not reach

¹⁴ i.e., Indrajit

¹⁵ Momentary because Rāma was soon delivered from the serpent arrows, as described below.

44 'Or having sacrificed his life for my sake, Laksmāna hath achieved his task I alone have humiliated myself, carrying the burden of my arms in vain.'

45 He then spoke to Sugrīva sweet words that showed his appreciation of the latter's martial zeal,¹⁶ and were dignified even in the mortal predicament that had suddenly arrived

46 'Wise one, thou hast achieved thy task These apes, too, have exerted the power of their arms Yonder Hanūmat hath also accomplished an arduous deed of conspicuous renown in the world

47 'I could not bring royal fortune to Vibhīṣana who hath incurred the enmity of his kinsmen Because of this sorrow, my heart doth not feel even the pain caused by these arrows

48 'So lose not heart Depart quickly by that very causeway, and see your kinsfolk. Hard it is to know the working of fate.'

49 Thereupon the lord of apes,¹⁷ choked with rage, and checking his tears with an effort as he shook his face, addressed the apes, without answering Rāma

50 'Go, and carry Rāma along with Laksmāna to the city of the apes¹⁸ as he reclines on a hero's bed, made of fresh leaves, without feeling the pain caused by the arrows

51 'For my part I will seize Rāvana's bow with a pounce swifter than a flash of lightning, and throw it away, and as his mace is about to descend on me¹⁹ I will seize and snatch it from his hand, twisted by me, and make him helpless by breaking it to pieces

52 'I will break his Candrahāsa sword with my hands even as it is plunged into my shoulder, while his weapons will tumble out of his chariot, grabbed, kicked and smashed by me

53 'After his front arms are broken and rendered powerless by me, I will tear off his remaining unavailing arms,²⁰ and split

55 'After Rāvana is thus killed by me even today, Sītā, taken to Kiskindhā, shall either see Rāma alive, or die after he is dead'

56 When Sugrīva was held back by Vibhīšana, saying 'These are serpent arrows', Rāma began to meditate on the mystic formula sacred to Garuda ²³

57. Thereupon the Suvela mountain was washed by a portion of the sea stirred up all of a sudden; and the corpses of the demons were scattered by a violent gale ²⁴

58, 59 Rāma beheld Garuda The darkness of the night was dispelled by the pervasive brilliance of his golden feathers The imprint of Viṣnu's seat on his firm back was plain to view, being stripped of the down; while the breast was clearly visible with a feather lost under the impact of the irresistible thunder-bolt of Indra,²⁵ and he held a serpent, dragged out of the nether regions, and twined round his neck

60 Thereupon as Garuda bowed to Rāma, and was beheld by him as he alighted on the ground and stood before him, the serpent arrows left the bodies of both Rāma and Lakṣmana None knew whither they were gone

61 Delivered from the grip of the arrows, Rāma was healed as he embraced Garuda Instructed by the latter in the mystic formula that was a weapon against serpents, he attained irresistible strength after Garuda had taken his leave

62 Thereupon hearing that the scions of Raghu were rid of the arrows, Rāvana who apprehended danger from Garuda entrusted Dhūmrākṣa with the entire conduct of the war

63 He sallied forth, prompted by rage, just as he was carried along by his chariot. He was imbued with zeal, just as he was accompanied by the host of demons. He kept up his spirits just as he held his banner aloft, and carried his weapons, just as he harboured rancour against the enemy

64 As the host of demons, resembling a stretch of sea, confronted Hanūmat along with Dhūmrākṣa, it seemed to come face to face with the submarine fire²⁶

65 As the fatal encounter between the hosts of demons and apes began Dhūmrākṣa, reminded of Akṣa's²⁷ death, covered Hanūmat with arrows

66 Thereafter the ape as he shook off the ineffectual arrows, stuck fast in the hair on his body, swooped down on Dhūmrākṣa's chariot and smashed it, snatched his bow from him, and leaning thereon, mocked at the demon

67 The club broke on Hanūmat's arm; and the mace, rebounding from his breast, was shattered and seen no more. The weapons, wielded by Dhūmrākṣa in his wrath, flew in pieces wherever they fell on the body of the ape

68, 69 The Son of the Wind god²⁸ then slew Dhūmrākṣa even as the latter stood erect, having pressed down his neck with the outstretched left hand. A roar like that of a lion, vibrating within the demon's breast, died away as it issued by degrees, while both his hands, stirring for a moment, became languid and drooped with the weapons slipping out of them

70 When Dhūmrākṣa fell, and the surviving Rākṣasa troops withdrew, Hanūmat saw Akampana coming out of Lankā, directly commanded by Rāvana.

71. Hanūmat slew him too, tearing asunder his limbs one by one, and scattering them about, while he destroyed the weapons confidently brought down by the demon on his proffered breast.

72. Thereafter ordered by Rāvana to fight, Prahastā, who had escaped from a trial of strength with Hanūmat in single combat, chanced to come face to face with Nila,²⁹ who was unhappy because he had not had the pleasure of fighting.

73. Thereupon as Nila rushed at Prahastā an iron arrow, discharged by the latter, hit the former's bosom, and was marked by the blood spurting out from the wound.

74. The ape, too, hurled at Prahastā a Kalpa tree, fragrant with the ichor of the celestial elephants that rubbed their shoulders against it, with the bees following in its wake, and the branches bent back by the speed, and the scarves streaming backwards (in the wind) ³⁰

75. All along the track of the tree as it came pearls dropped from the swaying branches, resembling drops of rain from a passing cloud

76. The tree, hurled by Nila's arms, crashed on Prahastā's bosom, filling the wounds with pearls, while the flow of blood caused by the impact was absorbed by the white scarves slipping off the broken branches ³¹

77. The ape evaded Prahastā's arrows, and covered the sky, with trees all at once, while at the same time the boulders hurled by him appeared in the four quarters of the sky

78. The regions of the sky were seen to fill with crumbling boulders split by the arrows, and falling fragments of severed trees, and cascades cut off from the mountains riven asunder ³²

80 The ape then swooped down on Prahasta's bow and snatched it from him, and as he returned and stood still in the sky, he seemed to be held up by the arrows discharged before by the demon.

81 The club, which Prahasta next hurled at Nila, rebounded from the latter's forehead, and was caught by the demon midway, with a roar, quickly evading it as it came towards him³⁴

82 Thereupon the Son of the Fire god³⁵ took up a black rock, resembling a cloud resting upon a peak of the Suvela, and broad and hard as Prahasta's massive chest.

83 As Nila sprang high into the air, and shut out the sun with the rock, it was day in the sky and at the same moment murky night on the earth

84 Having endured Nila's powerful blow³⁶ by virtue of his martial zeal, Prahasta, shattered by the shock³⁷ resulting from the injury, became unconscious and sank to the ground

CANTO XV

1 When Prahasta was killed, Rāvana, shedding tears in a rage at the killing of his kinsmen, sallied forth as he filled the ten directions with a roar that seemed to be preceded by a burst of flame

2. Indignant he broke into a loud laugh, filling as it were, the ten directions with his terrible cavernous mouths, in such a manner that his attendants, speechless with fear, hid behind the pillars of the palace.

3 He mounted a chariot surrounded by the demons, weighing the rear down with his feet.¹ it was held fast by the charioteer as the hoises chafed and the banners fluttered

4. The apes knew from Rāvana's roar that he was in the court, from the loud voices of the excited courtiers (following him) that he was at the centre of Lankā, and from the noise of the troops in the city that he had left for the battlefield.

5 Thereafter having gone out of the city, with his white parasol hardly sufficing to shelter the cluster of his heads, he put the host of apes to flight, with their will to fight broken.

6 The apes just turned the face round, with the hair at the back touching the top of their shoulders, and saw Rāvana chasing them as they fled.

7. Thereupon the Son of the Fire god² said unto them as they scattered and took to their heels, being attacked by Rāvana, forgetting their plighted word, and afraid to fight.

8 'Do not abandon the burden of war Yonder lord of the apes³ that hath lifted up a section of a Malaya peak will rob ye of the very life for whose sake ye are taking to flight'

9 With his heart bewitched by Sītā, Rāvana long looked at Rāma with high esteem, when pointed out by his charioteer, not so much because he was Rāma as because he was her beloved

1 ie, he entered the chariot by the rear entrance

3 Sugrīva

10 Hit by Rāma's arrows, the lord of the demons moved towards Lankā, with his royal parasol torn and fallen, and the apes making fun of his chariot as it turned back

11. Faced with ruin, he prematurely woke Kumbhakarna who was fast asleep, abandoning reliance on his own strength, and lowering his high renown

12 Kumbhakarna yawned, his head heavy because of the premature waking, and salled out after a long laugh on hearing the trivial command to slay Rāma

13 The golden wall of Lankā that seemed to touch the track of the Sun's chariot came up to the region of his thighs, and looked like a golden girdle that had slightly slipped off his waist

14 When he stepped over the wall, the waters of the sea entering the moat⁴ reached only his knees, with the crocodiles and sea lions taking to flight

15 As soon as the apes saw him they turned their backs, ceasing to fight, and ran away, impeded by the mountains dropping from their hands

16, 17 After he had violently attacked the entire host of apes in a moment with mountains, trees, clubs and maces as well as strong pikes, arrows and heavy sticks, he, being harassed by Rāma's arrows, and mad with blood, began to devour the apes as well as the elephants, horses and the demons, in both the armies, his own and that of the enemy⁵

18 After he had fought for a long while, both his arms, severed by Rāma's arrows, fell to the ground, followed by streams of blood spouting from the wounds

19. One of his arms lay on the seashore, like the Suvela, blocking the mouths of the rivers; while the other lay motionless across the sea, like another causeway

⁴ i.e., the moat reached as far as the sea letting in the waters of the ocean

⁵ The authenticity of the verses is doubtful. They are found only in Rāmadāsa. It may also be noted that the poem describes only the apes as fighting with trees and mountains as their weapons

20 His lofty head was then struck off in the course of the fight by Rāma's arrow, drawn up to the ear, and encircled by flames, even as Rāhu's head was severed by (Viṣṇu's Sudarśana) wheel⁶

21. And the head, high as the sky, even though severed and fallen, and rumbling as the wind filled the cavernous mouth, seemed to provide the three-peaked Suvela with a fourth lofty summit.

22 When Kumbhakarna fell, the sea as his body filled its expanse flowed over the submarine fire,⁷ with the sea monsters fleeing far afield, overcome by fear

23 Hearing of the death of Kumbhakarna, more grievous than that of Prahasta, Rāvana once more broke into a laugh,⁸ and shook his faces as they flamed with wrath.

24 As he went out at that hour the gaps between the pillars of the palace were not wide enough for his chest swelling with wrath.

25 When he had almost gone out, his son Meghanāda went down on his knees, and said with a smile as he rose, filling, as it were, the interior of the palace with his high and 'wide'⁹ bosom

26 'When a father accomplishes a deed, esteemed for its boldness, by his own effort, the son cannot afford him the joy of embracing a worthy son'¹⁰

27 'While I am alive, why art thou thus sallying out thyself, lowering the prestige of our Rāksasa race, because of a mere mortal, a son of Daśaratha?

out the gem embedded in Ananta's hood, devastated the Nandana garden, and turned round the Kailāsa mountain¹¹

29 'Shall I kill Rāma in the forefront of the battle, who hath but dried up a single ocean with his arrows,¹² or overwhelm even today all the seven oceans, with the submarine fire rolling in them?'

30, 31 Having thus addressed Rāvana, Meghanāda, hasting to the battle as he heard the sound of Rāma's bow close at hand, mounted his chariot, after he had placed his helmet in the hand of the charioteer in the rear. The spacious back floor bent under his heavy footsteps as he entered the vehicle¹³ in full armour, while the rays of the sun were reflected in the flashes of lightning emitted by the clouds settling on the top of the banner.

32 Meghanāda who thus kept Rāvana back from fight, and accepted at his behest the burden imposed on him, went out in his chariot, surrounded by the demons.

33 As his chariot sped along his speed, throwing the enemy into confusion, was the same at the front door of Rāvana's palace and at the city portal as when he assailed the host of apes.

34 Meghanāda who hit the mark in battle had his troops destroyed by the apes that rushed forward first, and was confronted¹⁴ by Nila together with the chief warriors among the apes.

35 He pierced with his arrows the rock and the tree and the boulder and the section of a Malaya peak, all at once, which was hailed at him respectively by Nila, Dvivida, Hanūmat and Nala.

36 Thereupon counselled by Vibhīṣana, Lakṣmana checked Meghanāda who had routed the host of apes, and was seen to proceed to the shrine of Nikumbhīlā¹⁵

38. Hearing that Indrajit was slain, Rāvana shed tears; in anger that dripped at the moment, like the clarified butter of lighted lamps, touched by the flame

39. When Meghanāda was killed, Fate, turning adverse on the instant, smote Rāvana with grief and despair at the same time, as if with both hands

40. Even though left alone, with all kinsmen killed, Rāvana who had a terrible cluster of faces, and was formidable with his many arms, went out like a multitude of demons

41, 42. He then mounted his chariot that partly obscured the sun with its sable banners swayed by the wind. The heavy mane of the horses was drenched with the ichor of the furious Airāvata elephant when it had hit the car with its tusks (in the fight with Indra)

The reverse side of the lunar orb, soiled by the rust on the wheels, was wiped clean by the banners,¹⁶ and the vehicle was scorched by the flames that had shot up when Kuberā's mace hit it and broke (during his combat with Rāvana).

43. When they saw him sally out, the Rāksasa women, wishing him well, choked back their tears with the very eyes from which they had issued¹⁷

44. The host of apes, unsteady by nature, whose chests were cooled by the cascades on the mountains held in their hands, was appraised by him with his eyes as well as his arrows¹⁸

45. Even though Vibhīṣana, surrounded by the host of apes, confronted him, his arrow, wrathfully joined to the bow, became unsteady, because Vibhīṣana was humble, and was his brother

¹⁶ i.e., during the aerial journeys of Rāvana

¹⁷ Tears at the moment of departure were regarded as a bad omen

¹⁸ i.e., he judged the fighting qualities of the apes by observing them closely and assailing them with his arrows. Acc. to Kṛṣṇa, he looked at them with contempt and overpowered them with his arrows

46 Thereafter Lakṣmana, who had endured the initial assault, and joined a formidable arrow to his bow, was pierced by Rāvana in the chest with a lance, even as a tree is riven by the thunderbolt of Indra

47 He was given a new lease of life by the plants of a mountain that was brought over by Hanūmat, and began to fight with the demons, equipped with bow and arrows as before

48-50 Rāma then beheld a chariot descending from heaven, like the king of birds (Garuda), with the rear projecting upward. The surface of the clouds was ruffled by the impact of the hooves of the horses, and the golden flag staff emitted a sweet smell because Indra used to stand leaning against it

The long yoke bent with the weight of Mātali as he held the reins in his left hand, and the hair of the Cāmara whisks¹⁹ was smooth and close, being drenched with the spray of the scattered clouds, while the crest of the banner, moistened by frost as it rubbed against the moon, was dried by the rays of the sun²⁰

51 As Rāma was about to greet him first with a cheerful countenance Mātali, profoundly inclining his head, bowed to him reverently, conveying the high esteem of the gods

52 He presented Rāma with the armour of Indra, the lord of the three worlds, which lay massive in the chariot. Its great size was revealed when both its arms were raised,²¹ while the perfumed inside emitted fragrance

53 That armour, soft on the inside for Indra's eyes pervading his limbs, proved to be slightly loose on Rāma's bosom wasted by the grief of separation from Sītā

54 When Rāma mounted the chariot, Mātali, alighting on the ground, enveloped the former's body in the armour that had always been fondly touched by Indra's hands

55 Thereupon Lakṣmana, approaching Rāma with Nila and Sugrīva, spoke to him as he placed on the ground his hand which held the bow just taken up by him²²

19 See 13 66

20 The chariot belonged to Indra, Mātali being his charioteer

21 For lifting it from the chariot

22 This was a manner of obeisance customary among warriors as pointed out by some of the commentators

56 'Sue, let thy bow be at rest with the string detached from the ends and loose Behold Rāvana destroyed before long by Nila or Sugrīva or myself

57 'Indulge in wrath in a matter that is weighty Renounce vengeful persistence in the easy task of slaying Rāvana An elephant of the gods batters a lofty hillside down, but not a river bank or the level ground

58 'Is it not reported,²³ O lord of the Raghus, that even though Śiva was capable of burning all the three cities of the demons by a mere glance, it was the gods who carried out his command?"²⁴

59 Rāma, his forehead covered with sweat in his wrath at the sight of Rāvana, looked at Nila and Sugrīva, and replied to Laksmana as he bowed to him

60 'My heart is confident of the success of your endeavour, because you have fulfilled your promises But my aim will be as a burden to me if it fails to destroy Rāvana by its own effort

61 'Content yourselves with having slain Kumbha, Prahasta and Indrajit²⁵ in battle Snatch not Rāvana away who hath chanced to come face to face with me, like a wild elephant falling a prey to a lion's jaws'

62 Rāvana's arrows, as if interrupting their talk that was in progress, began to overwhelm the host of apes in the front ranks in the battle

63 Thereupon ensued the combat between Rāma and Rāvana, marked by equal valour, and momentous because of the certain death of one of them, and watched by the gods, keeping out of range of the arrows

64 Rāvana whose kinsmen had been slain first shot an arrow at Rāma's bosom, having drawn the bow in such a manner that the string glistened with the lustre of the jewels of his earrings²⁶

67 (Of the bows in the several hands) of Rāvana, one had the arrow fixed, another, drawn with force, was bent backward²⁹; and another rid of the arrow, all at once³⁰

71. An arrow shot by Rāma pierced Rāvana's forehead as he stepped forward, but failed to dispel his clearly visible frown

72 The cluster of his faces, drooping in a swoon, with the eyes streaming with blood, tossed on his shoulders again and again

73 Thereafter regaining consciousness at the end of the swoon, he let fly an arrow, wrathfully drawn, with the feathered shaft touching the eye-corner of his second face,³⁵ and the tips of the feathers burnt by the fire issuing from his eyes

74 But that arrow, filling the ten directions with thousands of rays, and resembling the fire of the epoch of destruction, merged midway in an arrow of Rāma, as does the orb of the sun in the jaws of Rāhu

75 Meanwhile Rāma steadily drew an arrow from the quiver and observed Rāvana, as if he were a lotus pool in bloom whose flowers³⁶ were to be cut before long.

77 The left eye of Rāvana twitched as did the right eye of Rāma, while both eyes of Vibhīṣana throbbed, betokening the slaying of a kinsman³⁹ and his own acquisition of a kingdom⁴⁰

78 As Rāma drew his bow, with the arrow fixed, filling the curve with his chest, the tears of the nymphs seemed to be wiped away by the feathers of the arrow⁴¹

39 i.e., Rāvana

40 The twitching of the right eye is lucky and that of the left eye unlucky for a man

41 i.e., the impending death of Rāvana assured them of the end of their captivity

42 While worshipping Śiva with the exception of the tenth head Cf 617.

80. The cluster of Rāvana's heads, massive with the necks undivided, looked terrible, even though severed from the body, as if they had grown again from the cuts while he emerged from below the earth.⁴³

81 The soul of the lord of the demons, slain as he confronted the enemy in battle, departed through his ten mouths at the same moment, as if it were fire bursting into a blaze.

82 When Rāvana was slain, and the three worlds heaved a sigh of relief all around, the frown disappeared from Rāma's brow, and his bow was unstrung

83. Royal Fortune, distressed on account of her cruel friend,⁴⁴ did not forsake Rāvana even when killed, regarding his death as an illusion, because she knew the might of the lord of the demons⁴⁵

84 At that moment, even in the presence of Rāma, tears welled up in Vibhīṣana's eyes, because of the affection for his brother⁴⁶ in the inmost recesses of his heart

85 When Rāvana was slain, Vibhīṣana began to lament, de-crying his immortality,⁴⁷ being racked by anguish greater than death

86 'In common with all other beings, how wilt thou now, O king, visit the selfsame realm of Yama that thou hadst visited at will by conquering the latter?⁴⁸

87 'Lord of the demons, having fallen with thee in battle, Kumbhakarna alone hath requited his obligation to thee, even though thou hadst despised his counsel before?⁴⁹

43 Trans follows Rāmadāsa's reading Acc. to Kulanātha's reading. looked terrible, even though severed, as they lay on the ground along the line of the cut, as if he had emerged etc See Extracts

44 i.e., Rāvana, because he left her suddenly

45 i.e., Rāvana looked majestic in his death

46 Lit kinsman

47 A boon granted to Vibhīṣana by Brahṁā, now appearing to be burdensome as it prevented death from ending his sorrow

48 i.e., the conqueror of the god of death will now visit the latter's kingdom like all other mortals

49 Kumbhakarna had advised Rāvana to return Sītā to Rāma.

88. 'If I am pious, I who forsook thee, unforsaken by thy other kinsmen who shared thy joys and sorrows, then, o king, who should be counted first among the impious?'

89 Sorrowing over the killing of his kinsmen, Vibhīṣana spoke to Rāma as he checked his oncoming tears with an effort more unbearable than death, like unto a mountain whose streams were dried by the summer's heat

90 'Sire, vouchsafe me leave to touch the head of the child Meghanāda that is dead, after I have fallen at the feet of Kumbhakarna and Rāvana

91 Moved to pity by Vibhīṣana's lament as he lay on the ground, distracted with grief, Rāma ordered Hanūmat to perform the funeral rites for the lord of the demons

92 Rāvana having been slain, Sugrīva, confident of the recovery of Sītā, saw the end of his services in return for Rāma's kindness, just as he had seen the further shore of the ocean

93 Having completed his mission on behalf of the gods, Mātali, permitted by Rāma in the presence of the apes, turned his chariot towards heaven, with the banner fluttering amidst the clouds

94 Taking with him Sītā, purified in the fire like a bar of gold, Rāma reached the city (of Ayodhyā) to crown Bharata's devotion to him with glory.

95 Here ends the poem 'The slaying of Rāvana', marked with the word anurāga (at the end of each canto) It rejoices the heart because of the recovery of Sītā, and is delightful to those who appreciate poetry⁵⁰

50 Lit those who have a (good) ear (for poetry). The reading followed is saanna. See Extracts

Kula says परिक्षितः परिवृतः । सर्वाभ्यो दिग्भ्यः समाकृष्टाः प्रलय—प्रदीप्ता ये गिरयः तैः संकुलो व्याप्तः समुद्र इव व्रजति च । पिङ्गलोज्ज्वलसटोद्द्योतः प्रलयाग्निरिव, वानरा गिरय इव, रामः समुद्र इवेत्यर्थः .

53. K says दिशः स्फुरद्विवसकरप्रकटितरूपा, अत एव निर्मलाः, तस्य रामस्य दर्शितमार्गेऽपि शरत्कालेन दर्शितो मार्गः कार्यपथो यस्य तस्मिन् तथाभूतेऽपि हृदये शोकान्धकारिते सति घूर्णन्ति भ्रमन्ति स्म । शोकान्धकारितहृदयत्वात् रामस्य दिशो यथायथं न प्रकाशन्त इत्यर्थः .

MY says घूर्णनं विशेषतो नाकलनम् । प्राच्यादयो दिशो रामेण न व्यज्ञायन्त . Kula says दिशः दर्शितमार्गेऽपि उपदिष्टदिग्बिभागेऽपि तस्य रामस्य हृदये घूर्णन्ते आन्ति कुर्वन्ति । हेतुमाह । शोकान्धकारित इति । सीताविरहशोकाकुलत्वात् तस्य दिङ्मोह इत्यर्थः .

54 K and MY pratika has āloanti (आलोकयन्ति) for āloei आलोकते (R and Kula) .

K says ते गत्वा विन्ध्यमालोकयन् । किंभूतम्—धनुःसंस्थानस्य सागरस्य भरसहम् । धनुराकारस्य सागरस्य दक्षिणस्योभयपार्श्वघटितं ज्याबन्धमिव स्थितम् । विन्ध्यपर्वतो हि पूर्वापरसमुद्राववगाह्य तिष्ठति । कथंभूतं ज्याबन्धम्—भरसहं शराकर्षणभरसहम् । विन्ध्यः भूधारणभरसहः । सहितनदीस्रोतांस्येव शरायस्य तत्तथाभूतम् । ज्यास्थानीये विन्ध्ये सहितनदीस्रोतःशरमित्यर्थः .

MY says धनुष इव सनिवेशः अस्येति धनुःसंस्थानः (तस्य) । सागरभरस्य धारकं समुद्रावगाढोपान्तं विन्ध्यमालोकयन् इत्यर्थः . Kula says वक्रत्वेन धनुःसंस्थानस्य सागरस्य भरसहं पीडासहम् । उभयपार्श्वघटितं पूर्वपश्चिम-समुद्रपर्यन्तयोः अटनीद्वये योजितं जीवाबन्धमिव । सहितानि नदीस्रोतांसि शरा इव यत्नं तं विन्ध्यमालोकते च .

55. K pratika has masaṇa. He reads विवर for कुहर (R and Kula) . R says वानराणां हेलयाऽनास्थयापि पातो गमनम्,..... उत्फालादवपतनं वा .

K says विन्ध्येन वानराणां हेलपातोऽपि, लीलाविशेषो हेलः, हेलया पातो हेलपातः सोऽपि न सोढः । कथंभूतः—मसृणितशिखरोत्सङ्गः क्षोदितशिखराग्रप्रदेशः । विधुतनितम्बवनत्वात् निरस्तनितम्बवनत्वात् प्रकाशिततुङ्गतटः .

Kula says भग्नशिलातरुलतादिभिः भृतानि कुहराणि येन स वानराणां हेलपातोऽपि सागरभरसहेनापि विन्ध्येन न सोढः पूर्वरूपापगमात् . MY says-हेलया वातोऽपि न पुनः अवस्कन्दनबुद्ध्या इत्याशयः . R says हेलवातो-हेलया वातः पवनो जङ्घादिसमुत्थो न सोढः.....इत्यपि कश्चित् .

56. K says शीकरैः मेघस्यैव जलशीकरैराहते धातुशिलातले निषण्णाः धातुरागेण रञ्जिताः जलदा यत् । निर्झरेण प्रहसितात् निर्झरस्य धावरूपेण ध्वनिना च प्रहसितात् दरीमुखात् निर्वान्तो वकुलकुसुमानां मदिरामोदो यत् तम् । दरीषु वधूधर्मः अध्यस्तः । यथा प्रहसितात् वधूमुखात् वकुलकुसुमगन्धसदृशो मदिरामोदो निर्गच्छति तद्वदिति । एवंभूतं सद्यं च पर्वत प्राप्ता वानरा इति । केरलविषयस्य सीमापर्वतः सद्यः । स विन्ध्यात् दक्षिणतः प्राचीनः प्रसृतो दृश्यते .

K seems to read rāvia (रञ्जित) for rāia (राजित) . Cf. Hemacandra 4.49—rāvei rañjei. MY, however, says rāia रञ्जित . Further, he has ṇivvāhia (ṇimmahia ?) निर्गत for ṇlkkanta (निष्क्रान्त) . K has निर्वान्त .

Kula says वकुलकुसुमानां मदिराया इव आमोदो यत् तम् .

57. K and Kula read सकट for संकुल (R). K says ते सद्यमतिक्रामन्ति स्म । किं कुर्वाणाः—प्रतिमारूपेण संक्रान्तधवलघनसंघातान्, तदानीं स्फुटस्फटिकशिलासंकटेन स्फटिकशिलासंमर्देन स्खलितत्वात् प्रतिबद्धत्वात् स्फटिकशिलासकटस्योपरि प्रस्थितानिव नदीप्रवाहान् पश्यन्तः .

58. K has व्यतिरिक्त (vairikka) for pairikka प्रतिरिक्त (R). Cf. 2.15.

K says वानराणां धावताम् आपात एव आक्रमण एव महानदीस्रोतांसि जलप्रवाहाः एवमभवन् । कथम्—दलत्पातालगलज्जलव्यतिरिक्ताः पादाघातैः दलति पाताले अधःस्थले गलता जलेन रिक्ता इत्यर्थः । भग्नैः तटप्राग्भारैः तटविस्तारैः पूर्यमाणानि एवंभूतानि महानदीस्रोतांसि प्रहतानाम् अतिचिरप्रचारेण क्षुण्णानां महापथानां सदृशानि जानानि .

Kula says आपात एव कपीनामापतनमात्र एव आक्रमणभरविशीर्णैः तटप्राग्भारैः तटोच्चदेशैः अग्र्यमाणानि, दलता मिदां गच्छता पातालेन नितम्बभागाधोभागेन गलितैः जलैः प्रविष्टानि* तुच्छानि, अथवा गलितजलत्वात् विशीर्णानि, प्रहतः क्षुण्णो यो महान् विशालः पन्थाः तन्निभानि महानदीनां स्रोतांसि जानानि .

59. MY says पादपगहनेषु शिशिरनिद्रायन्त्रम् । अनेन निद्राजनकम् .

Kula says जलधरैः निर्दावः वनाशिशून्यः अन्तो यस्य । पादपानां गहनेषु शिशिरः शीतलः, अतः (?) एव निद्रावन्तम् । सदादुर्दिनत्वेन श्यामलकस्वार्थे कन् । भग्नाश्चन्दना धुता रसा भूमिश्च यैस्ते भग्नधुतचन्दनरसा मलयं प्राप्ताः .

60 K says ते वानरा मलयपर्वते चन्दनपादपलग्नान् चन्दनपादपेषु निमग्नान्, महाभुजङ्गानां वेष्टनमार्गान् सुचिरं चन्द्रनेषु लीनानां पश्चादपगतानां

* This seems to be a mistake. SC which reproduces Kula's gloss on this verse almost verbatim has प्रतिरिक्तानि .

महाभुजङ्गानां भोगवेष्टनमार्गान् पश्यन्ति स्म । कीदृशान्—तुटितोद्वेष्टितानां
तुटिनस्तसितानां लतानां परिमलच्छायान् परिमर्दसदृशान् । संबद्धनिर्मोकान् ।
परिमर्देऽपि परिमल इति वैजयन्ती .

Kula says महाभुजङ्गमानां वेष्टनमार्गान् । खण्डिताः सत्य उद्वेष्टिता
उन्मोचिता या लताः तासां परिमलस्य विमर्दस्थानस्य छाया शोभा येषां तान् .

R reads uvvelia (उद्वेलित) . The reading of K and Kula might be uvvella (उद्वेष्टित) . Hemaandra 4.223 has uvvellai uvvedhai R says उद्वेलिता उद्धादिता रफोटितेति यावत् एवंभूता या लता .

61. K reads कुसुम for niaa निजक (R and Kula). K and MY read rammattana - dappa-vahe for ramma-ttana-dippa-vahe रम्यतृणदीप्रपथान् (R and probably Kula who has दीप्त) .

K says ते गिरिनदीप्रवाहान् असेवन्त । कथंभूतान्—तीरवर्धिताभिः

दर्पधरान् । वनगजदानैः कटुकान् सुरभीन् । कटुतिक्तकषायास्तु सौरभ्येऽपि
प्रकीर्तिता इति हलायुधः . Kula says याः चन्दनलताः तामिराश्लिष्टान् ।
पन्था अवतरणमार्गः .

62. K reads suandhiara for suandhi-raa (R and Kula).
Kula reads दर for जल .

K says ततस्ते तरुणैः शुक्तिसंपुटैः ईषदृशितः जले निहितः मुक्ताग्रकरः

वेलां समुद्रतीरं प्राप्ताः । एलाफलानि गजमदसदृशगन्धीनि इति प्रसिद्धिः .

Kula says तरुणैः शुक्तिसपुटैः तरुणत्वेन निविडाङ्गसन्धित्वात् सहस्रानिःशेषं मुक्ताजालममुञ्चद्भिः दरदर्शितः दरनिहिनः मुक्ताप्रकरो* यस्याम् । गजदानवत् सुगन्धिरजसो नवा एला यत्र तां वेलाम् . Mada fragment has (सु)-गन्धरजाः नवा एला च द्रवालाख्यो गन्धवृक्षो यस्यां ताम् .

63 K says फुल्लैरेलावनैः सुरभिम् , अन्यत्र फुल्लैलावनवत् सुरभिं गजेन्द्र-दानधारारेखामिव स्थितां प्राप्ताः इति पूर्वत्र संवन्धः . Kula says विकसितैः तमालैः, विकसिततमालवच्च नीलाम् . Mada says परिमृष्टां स्पृष्टाम् .

64. K says फेनमेव विषमः प्रभूतः अङ्गरागो यस्यास्ताम् । विद्रुममयेन दन्तव्रणेन आनीतमुखशोभाम् । मुखशब्देन वेलायाः समुद्रसन्निकर्षस्थानमुच्यते । एवंभूतत्वात् परिभुक्तस्य कृतसमोगस्य समुद्रस्य परिमलं सुरतसंमर्दं वहन्तीमिव . MY says paribhutta कर्तरि क्तः । अथवा स्त्रीणामपि क्वचित् रागातिशयविवक्षया वा भोक्तृत्वे सति पुरुषस्य भोक्तृत्वमपि स्यात् इति समुद्रस्य वेला-परिभुक्तत्वापत्तिः .

Kula says स्थानेषु स्थानेषु स्थितः फेन एव विषमः† अङ्गरागो यस्यास्ताम् । विद्रुमैः प्रवालमणिभिः दन्तव्रणैरिव आनीता मुखच्छाया यस्याः । मृदितं वनस्य केशस्येव कुसुमं यस्याः । एतेनोपभुक्तनायिकाया धर्मा वेलायां समाहिताः . Kula reads पर्युषित (parivuttha, cf. SC Text) for parihutta (परिभुक्त) . So he says पर्युषितः सम्भोगाय रात्राववस्थितो यः समुद्रो नायकस्तस्य परिमलं सुरतविमर्दमिव वहन्तीम् .

* The words निविडाङ्ग are restored from SC which anonymously reproduces Kula's gloss on the verse SC, however, says तरुणत्वेन कर्कशसन्धितया ईषद्दर्शित ईषन्निहित इति कुलनाथ . This may be a clarification of Kula's meaning.

† R says विषमः परिस्मृणादिना क्वचित् क्वचित् विलुलितः .

65. K says लतागृहाभ्यन्तरेषु परिवर्धमानम् , अनुरागेण अन्योन्यानु-

Muda says अनुरागेति रागे रागे प्रतिष्ठापितम् , अनुरागेण वा .

R and Kula have परिस्थापितम्* .

* Our copy of Kula has परिष्ठा - . Cf. Kāśikā on Pāṇini 8.3.65.

CANTO II

1 K says अथ खुतनयः समुद्रं पश्यति स्म । वथंभूतम्—चटुलं चञ्चलम् । दोषाः मकरादयः तेषां शतैः दुःखेन लङ्घनीयम् । अमृतमयेन सारेण अन्तर्वर्तिना अमृतरसमयेन सारेण गुरुम् । कार्यारम्भस्य रावणवधरूपस्य यौवनमिव प्रतिबन्धहेतुमित्यर्थः । यौवनमपि चटुलं चलस्वभाव दोषशतैः परकल-त्रामिलापादिभिरेव दुःखेन अतिलङ्घयितव्यम् । अमृतरसशब्देन शृङ्गाररसो लक्ष्यते । स एव सारः तेन गुरुकम् । एवंभूतत्वात् कार्यारम्भस्य यौवनमिव निःश्रेय-सकर्मारम्भस्य प्रतिबन्धकमिति .

Kula says कार्यारम्भस्य (यौवनमिव) । यथा यौवनं कामक्रोधादिदोष-सकुलत्वेन दुस्तरत्वात् पुरुषार्थसिद्धेरन्तरायः स्यात् , एवं त्रैलोक्यकल्याणहेतुरावण-वधारम्भस्य दुर्लभ्यत्वात् समुद्रोऽपि अन्तराय इत्यर्थच्छलम् ।..अमृतं जलं तस्य रसो वीर्यं तस्य सारः सुरासुधांशुकौस्तुभादयः तैः गुरुकम् । यौवनपक्षे अमृतमिव यो रससारः शृङ्गाररससारः तेन (गुरुकम्) । अथवा अमृतस्य रसो माधुर्यं स एवोत्कृष्टत्वात् सारः तेन गुरुकम् । यौवनं हि विरूपादीनपि विषयान् मधुरी-करोतीति मधुरमित्याशयः .

Muda says कार्यशरीरस्यापि तिस्रः अवस्थाः । तत्र समुद्रप्राप्तिप्रभृति-तरणान्ता मध्यमावस्था यौवनस्थानीयेति यौवनमिव इत्युक्तम् . This explanation is criticized by SC—केचित्तु कार्यारम्भस्य..... यौवनं समुद्रतरणं.....इति व्याचक्षते, तत्र समुद्रतरणस्य हि यौवनत्वेन समुद्रयौवनयोः साग्यमाह . R says कार्यारम्भस्य.....यौवन मध्यभागमिव । कार्ये आद्यन्तभागौ सुकरौ, मध्यभागस्य परं दुष्करत्वमित्यर्थः .

2. K (chāyā) has मणितल्लिमं .

Muda quotes Deśināmamālā 5 20, and says तलिमेति शय्या वासगृहं वा . D N. mentions कुट्टिम also as one of the meanings of तलिम् .

3. K says भ्रमद्भयङ्करकल्लोल, चन्द्रस्य स्थूलैः करैः रश्मिभिः आहतत्वात्
दिङ्मुखेषु विस्तारितसलिलम् (अवस्तृत chāyā) । शाश्वतमृगेण शशिना शाश्वतमदेन

Kula first says दिङ्मुखेषु विस्तृतं (अवस्तृतं ?) विततं, and then says दिङ्मुखानि अवस्थगयतीति दिङ्मुखावस्थगं सलिलं यस्य तम् . He explains sāśaa in the case of the moon as साश्रयः लब्धवसतिः मृगो यत्र तेन शशिना . R has स्वाश्रयमृगेण . MY says sāśaa - maena साशय-मृगेण शावतमदेन च .

4. K and MY read appunṇa (आपूर्ण K and Deva ; आक्रान्त MY) for apphunṇa आक्रान्त found in R and Muda who refers to Hemacandra 4.258. Kula has आक्रान्त . SC Text agrees with R .

K has प्रतिष्ठितान् for paditthire परिस्थिरान् (R) . For Kula's reading see below. K and MY read सघात for saṅkhāa संस्त्यान found in R, Kula and Muda. Cf. Hemacandra 4.15. K, MY and Kula read मूढ for गूढ (R and Muda) .

K says आपूर्णविद्रुमवनान् , अद्यापि सघातलोहितानिव घनीभूतरुधिरान् मन्दरस्य मन्थनसमये मूढप्रहारानिव, अदर्शितव्रणः प्रहारो मूढप्रहारः, एवं दृश्यमानान् व्याकुलप्रतिष्ठितान् जलकल्लोलान् वहन्तम् .

MY says saṃghāa संस्त्यान . Kula says मूढप्रहारः अस्फुटितो घातः . He seems to read प्रविस्तृतान् (pavitthie, SC Text), and says आक्रान्तं विद्रुमवनं यैस्तान्, विद्रुमवनस्खलनात् गुप्यमानप्रविस्तृतान् व्याकुलीभवत्प्रविततान् , विस्तृतत्वेन स्वच्छतायां सत्यां प्रकटविद्रुमालोकत्वात् संस्त्यानलोहितान् पिण्डितरुधिरान् (partly corrected from SC) .

Kula says कालान्तरे प्रलये जीवान् प्राणिनः, अथवा जीवं जीवनं हरतीति तम्, पक्षे मरणकाले प्राणहरं, गतापनिवृत्ताभ्यां गमनागमनाभ्यां पवनेन वायुना श्वासवायुना च घट्टयमानं चालयमानं जल्यमिव देहे पाताले शरीरे च लग्नं विकटं विशालं वडवामुखानल वहमानम्. Muda says जीवो जलं प्राणश्च । घट्ट चलने .

8. R reads malaa - mahinda - tthanora - sollana - suhiam which he construes as मलयमहेन्द्रस्तनोरार्द्राकरणसुखिताम् (पक्षे सुहिताम्). Kula's reading is same, but his interpretation is different. See below K, MY and Muda read—tthanam (-स्तनी) separately followed by रस. K reads रसाद्रित, i e rasollia. Ollia is used several times in the poem (88, 90 etc.). Muda reads rasollana explained as रसेनार्द्राकरणम्. K reads आलिङ्गित for ālimgaṇa.

K says समुद्रस्य चेला च मही च नायिकात्वनोपात्ते । तत्र सनिकृष्टया चेलया समालिङ्गितत्वात् समुद्रेण मुक्तां मही स्पृष्टापसृतैः वृद्धिक्षययोः क्रमेण स्पर्शनैरपसरणैश्च व्याकुलयन्तमिव । कथंभूताम्—धुतवनराजिकरतलां स्पर्शसमये धुतवनराजिकरतलां, मलयमहेन्द्राख्यस्तनी, रसेन जलेन आद्रितत्वात् सुखितां कन्दलितवीरुवमित्यर्थः । अन्यत्र रसेन रागेण आर्द्रां सुखितां च । वेलामालिङ्ग्य स्पर्शसन्नजनक्रिया तस्य परिहास इति मन्तव्यम् । अत एवमपि व्याकुलता भवति .

MY reads लङ्घित for (आ)लिङ्गित . He says रसः शृङ्गारो जलं च । suhiam सुखितामिति स्त्रीपक्षे । जातसौहित्यामिति महीपक्षे । स्पृष्टापसृतैः वञ्चयन्तमिव व्याकुलयन्तमिवेति वा । वेलायाम् अवसरलाभे सति आदरचुम्बनादिना लङ्घितां पुनरसहनतया विमुक्तामिति । अन्यत्र वेलयां तीरदेशे लङ्घिता पुनर्विमुक्तामिति । आलिङ्गनाद्यसहनायामपि अन्तरूपजातरसायां स्त्रिया कामिनः तदावर्जनसमाधिरत्नानुसंधेयः .

Kula says महीसागरयोः नायकनायिकाधर्मान् समादधदाह । महीं कुपितनायिकामिव स्पृष्टापसृतैः(?) व्याकुलयन्तमिव प्रलोभ्य आवर्जयन्तमिवेत्यर्थः । स्त्रीस्वभावेन वाग्योपदर्शनार्थं ध्रुतवनराजिकरतलां, रागजननार्थं वेला अभुविकृतिः तथा.....यदालिङ्गनं तेन मुक्ताम् । रागवृद्धिं सूचयन्नाह । मलय-महेन्द्रौ स्तनाविव, आभ्याम् उरसि sollanena (?) सुखितं समुद्रं सुखितां मही वा . SC renders sollana as आर्द्राकरण, but Hamaandra 4.90, 143 gives sol'ai in the sense of पचति and क्षिपति .

Deva says malaa-mahinda - tthanorasollana - suhiam इति केचित्, i e मलयमहेन्द्रस्तनालिङ्गनसुखितं (सुखितां ?) . The last word is not clear. Then he says ura-sollanam(-lla- ?) आश्लेषः . Deva seems to refer to Kula's reading

R says मलयमहेन्द्रावेव स्तनौ यत् तादृशं यदुरः स्वमध्यदेशः तरङ्गेण तदार्द्राकरणेन सुखितां शैत्यमासादयन्तीम् .

9 K says स्थाने निभृतावस्थानेऽपि स्थितिप्रभूतं पर्याप्तम् । स्थानमर्यादयोः स्थितिरिति वैजयन्ती । प्रलये भूमण्डलेऽपि अपर्याप्तुवन्तम् । तदानीं प्रणयद्वामन-तनुम् । प्रणयने याच्ना निर्माणं मैत्री । याच्नासु प्रणये चाग्निसंस्कृताविति शेषः (?) । प्रणयनावस्थायां वामनतनुं पश्चात् क्रामता देहभरेण पूरितलोक हरिमिव . MY says panaanta प्रार्थयमान । इदानीं दृश्यमानं महत्त्वमपि हरेः वामनतनुत्ववत् लुपतरमेवास्य भाविविजृम्भणापेक्षया इत्याशयः .

Kula says स्थानेऽपि प्रतिनियतनिजदेशेऽपि स्थित्या मर्यादया प्रभूतं, प्रलये महीमण्डलेऽपि असमान्तम् । अर्थिभ्यो दातुं प्रतिज्ञातः अर्थः पणः । पणाय पणग्रहणाय कान्ता मनोहरा वामनतनुर्यस्य तम् । अथवा प्रणयन्ती प्रतिग्रहार्थम् उपसर्पन्ती वामनतनुर्यस्य तं..... हरिमिव .

10. K, Kula and Muda read परिभुज्यमानम् for ua - (उप) found in R , Kula says दृश्यमानावस्थायाम् अभिरामम् । श्रूयमाणमपि महिमातिशयात् अवितृष्णं यथा अविगततृष्णं यथा भवति तथा श्रोतव्यगुणम् । परिभुज्यमानमपि पुंसां महारत्नप्रदानैः शाश्वतसुखफलदम् । सुकृतस्य परिणाममिव पुण्यस्य महतः परिणाममिव । स च परिभुज्यमानोऽपि सुकृतस्य अतिमहत्तया शाश्वतसुखरूप फल ददाति . MY says सुकृतस्य परिणामो जात्यायुर्भोगरूपो विपाकः . Kula says सुकृतस्य यागादिकर्मणः परिणाममिव फलनिष्पत्तिमिव । शाश्वतम् अविच्छिन्न शुभफलं मणिमुक्तादिकं यस्य । पक्षे शुभफलं ददातीति तथा तम् .

11. It will be seen that in the artificial interpretation of the verse K reads vamuddhaam (वमोद्धृतं) davira etc. which shows that in the normal interpretation he reads anda for canda. The explanation of vaca - saam in the artificial interpretation is missing in K. R says वचा पृथिवी तत्र शेते यस्तम्, i. e. वचाशयम् .

12. K, MY, Muda and probably Kula read nivvāḍia for nipphaṇṇa निष्पन्न found in R .

K says निर्व्यक्तः जलात् पृथक् प्रकाशमानः सुखो दृष्टिप्रियङ्कर आलोकः किरणप्रकाशो यस्य तम् । विमलस्य जलस्याभ्यन्तरस्थलेषु स्थितं, करावलम्बित-करम् आदित्यस्य करैः अवलम्बितरश्मिसमूहम् । करशब्देन हस्तश्च विवक्षितः । रविणा किञ्चिदाकृष्टमिव दृश्यमानं रत्नसंघातं वहन्तम् . Kula says निकटमिव उपलक्ष्यमाणत्वात् दराकृष्टमिव रविणा करैरवलम्बिताः करा यस्य तं रत्नसंघातं (संघातं ?) वहमानम् .

MY says nivvāḍia पृथग्भूत (Kula also) . Muda refers to Hemacandra 4 62 (nivvāḍai पृथक् स्पष्टो वा भवतीत्यर्थः) . Muda (chāyā) has स्पष्टसुखालोकं .

K, MY, Muda and Kula read verses 9 - 12 after verse 2.

13. K, MY, Muda and Kula read va vahantam for vahamānam (R) .

K says मथनायासेन आत्मनो मथनक्लेशेन विमुक्तमुद्गीर्णम् उद्धृतामृतत्वात् विषप्रतिबन्धभूतस्य अमृतस्योद्धारात् विशृङ्खलाग्निनिवह, वडवाया मुखकुहरे पुञ्जितं वासुकेर्मुखनिव्यन्द वहन्तमिव । वडवामुखे पुञ्जितः अग्निः न तत्समवः, किं पुनर्वासुकिविषनिव्यन्दः तत्र पुञ्जित इत्युत्प्रेक्षितम् . Kula says मथनकृतेन आयासेन विमुक्तमुद्गीर्णं, समुद्रस्य उद्धृतामृतत्वात् विशृङ्खलः अनलनिवहो विषाग्निसमूहो यस्य तं, मथनरज्जुकृतस्य वासुकेः मुखनिव्यन्द मुखप्रच्युतविष वडवामुखकुहरे पुञ्जितमिव वहन्तं वाडवाग्निव्याजात् वासुकिविषकूटमिव वहन्तमित्युत्प्रेक्षा .

14. K and Muda read जालम् for loam लोकम् (R and Kula) .

K says तिमिः महामत्स्यः । तिमिनिवहमिव सपक्षं पर्वतजाल वहन्तम् । समुद्रस्थाः तिमयः सपक्षपर्वतसदृशा इत्यर्थः . MY says अत्र इवगन्दाः सहार्थाः सादृश्यार्थाश्च .

15 Pairikka is rendered by R as प्रतिरिक्त . Muda reads it as vaisikka and quotes Deśī - nāma - mālā 6 71 which gives pairikka in the sense of विशाल, एकान्त and शून्य . The word is taken also as व्यतिरिक्त . Cf. 1 58.

K says त्रैलोक्यस्य च समुद्ररूपस्य च साम्यमुच्यते । पातालोदरैः पातालान्तरालैः गम्भीरे । समुद्रपक्षे पातालोदरवत् गम्भीरे । महीव्यतिरिक्त-

Muda says pāāloara - gahire—समुद्रस्तावत् पातालोदरवत् गम्भीरः तथा mahī - vairikka - viade महीशून्ये विकटे च । तथा naha - nirā-lambe नभोवत् निरालम्बे । त्रैलोक्यमपि पातालोदरे गम्भीरं मह्यां विशालं विकटं (च) । यद्वा महीव्यतिरिक्तं विकटम् । नभसि निरालम्बम् । विष्णुरपि पातालोदरवत् तलस्पर्शविरहात् गम्भीरः । तथा महीव्यतिरिक्तः प्रपञ्चबहिर्भूतत्वात् । नभोवत् निरालम्बश्च । उक्तं च—सर्वाधारमनाधारमिति . Muda remarks त्रैलोक्यस्य विष्णोः समुद्रस्य च श्लिष्टाणि विशेषणानि .

Deva says स च सकलजगत्स्वरूपी भगवान् त्रैलोक्ये सर्गप्रलयाद्या-विर्भावतिरोभावरूपगतागतानि करोति ।.....स्वांशभूते त्रैलोक्ये मधुमथनमिवां

आत्मन्येव गतागतानि कुर्वाण समुद्रमिति । समुद्रस्य च त्रैलोक्यस्य च श्लेषः । समुद्रोऽपि पातालोदरवत् गभीरः, महीशून्यत्वात् विशालो, नभ इव निर्मलः । त्रैलोक्यमपि पातालोदरेण गम्भीरं, मद्यादिभ्यो व्यतिरिक्तं विशाल विशेषेण विशाल, नभसि निवारणम् (निरावरणम् ?) इति . Kula's gloss on this verse is missing in our copy.

16. R reads ahilā paramubīhim अभिलीय पराङ्मुखीभिः . K says the same thing, but his pratīka is abhīlā, which shows that he reads paramubīhim MY and Muda have ahīlā, but they explain it as अभिलीन, which is found also in Kula and Deva. SC Text has ahilā. K and Kula read अपसृताभिः (osarīāhi) for osarīehi अपसृतैः (R, MY and Muda).

K says पूर्वं समुद्रमभिलीय आलिङ्ग्य जलवृद्धिसमये पराङ्मुखीभिः, तदानीमनुपतता समुद्रेण स्पृष्टापसृताभिः, पुनः समुद्रजले प्रकृति भजति सति अनुशयात् विलोलाभिः, अत एव वेपमाननिवृत्तप्रस्थिताभिः नदीभिः दयिताभिरन्वीयमानमार्गम् । समुद्रस्य हि नद्यः पत्न्यः तस्मात् नायिकाधर्मा नदीष्वेव दर्शिताः .

MY says अभिलीनपराङ्मुखीभिः पत्युः समुद्रस्य रभसोपगमेन प्रतिपथं गताभिः, पुनः स्पृष्टापसृताभ्यां निवृत्ते तस्मिन् अनुशयादिव विलोलाभिरत एव वेपमानाभिः निवृत्तप्रस्थिताभिः नदीभिः प्रियाभिः अन्वीयमानमार्गमिति (Muda also).

Muda says स्त्रियो हि पुरुषेणाभियुज्यमानाः प्रथमं पराङ्मुख्यो भवन्ति, तस्मिन् उपेक्ष्य गते पश्चात्तप्ता भवन्ति । ततो दुर्वारस्मरपीडिताः तद्गृहं यान्तीति स्थितिः । तदेतत् समुद्रपतित्वेन नदीषु आरोप्यते .

Kula says प्रथमं वेगात् नदीभिः स्त्रीभिः रागादभिलीनाभिः पश्चात् समुद्राम्बुप्रतीघातात् स्वयमभिगमव्रीडिया च पराङ्मुखीभिः, स्पृष्टाश्च ता अपसृताश्चेति तथा ताभिः, वेपमानाश्च निवृत्ताश्च प्रस्थिताश्चेति तथोक्ताः ताभिः, अतो दयितावधीरणात् अनुशयेन पश्चात्तापेन विलोलाभिः पुनरागमनकांक्षिणीभिः नदीभिः अन्वीयमानमार्गम् । एतेन कलहान्तरितानायिका लक्ष्यते । तथोक्तम्—चाटुकारमपि जीवितनाथं, कोपतः समवधीर्य गता या । तप्यतेऽनुशयवह्निवितानैः, कथ्यतेऽत्र कलहान्तरिता सा ॥ इति . SC reproduces all this with a slight difference in the quotation, and remarks नदीनामेष स्वभावो यत् समुद्रे निपतन्त्यो वर्धमानतदम्बुभिः प्रतीघातात् प्रतीपगामिन्यो भवन्ति, पुनश्च निवर्तमाने समुद्राम्बुनि वेगवशात् वेपमानाः तत्र निपतन्ति .

Deva reads ahilia (अभिलीन) and says—chiviosariehi प्राप्तयपसरणाभ्यां हेतुभूताभ्यामात्मनः अभिव्रीलितपराङ्मुखीभिः । व्रीलितमहेलासमुचितपराङ्मुखत्वदर्शनात् नदीनामपि व्रीलितत्वारोपः . Here he takes अभिलीन or ahilia in the sense of अभिव्रीडित . The word is recorded in Deśi-nāma-mālā 1.57, but with the meanings अभिभव and कोप . In an alternative explanation Deva explains अभिलीन as अभिगत .

Deva (chāyā) reads स्पृष्ट्वापसृतमिव, i. e., chiviosariam va, taking chivia as an absolutive. Explaining the verse according to this reading, he says अभिलीनपराङ्मुखीभिरिति... ..(प्रति)हतत्वात् प्रतिनिवृत्तगताभिः तस्मिन् अन्तः प्रविष्टे त्वरितनिवृत्ताभिः नदीभिः पुनः प्रविश्यमानं समुद्रमिति । स्त्रियो हि झटिति पुरुषेण (अभिगम्य)मानाः स्वयं पराङ्मुख्यो भवन्ति । पश्चात् तस्मिन् उपेक्ष्य गते अनुशयविलोलाः स्वगृहं (तद्गृहं ?) स्वयमेवाभिसरन्ति । एवं समुद्रेण यदाभिलीना अभिगताः तदा पराङ्मुख्योऽभूवन्

नद्यः । स च (?) स्पृष्ट्वा तत्तालब्धसुखः अपसृतः । तदनुशयविलौलाभिरेव
वेपमाननिवृत्तप्रस्थिताभिः नदीभिः समुद्रः अन्वीयमानमार्ग इति .

R who reads chiviosarīhi says स्पृष्टापसृतकरूपव्यापारैः अभिलीय
मिलनं कृत्वा पराङ्मुखीभिः नदीभिरनुगम्यमानमार्गम् . R on verse 8 says
स्पृष्टापसृतकैरालिङ्गनविशेषव्यापारैः .

अभग्नम् (अनवरुणम् chāyā) . Muda has अग्लानम् . He seems to read aṇullaggam for aṇoluggam (अनवरुणम्) as he says ullagga ग्लान . This seems to be a deśī word. Cf. ullukka explained as लुटित in Deśī-nāma-mālā 1 92.

R says त रङ्गादिना चञ्चलमपि स्थित्या मर्यादया स्थिरं वेलानतिक्रामकम् .

K says दरमित्रात् शुक्तिसंपुटात् प्रलुठितो विगलितः शङ्खानां मुखेन
भृतः मुक्ताप्रकरो यत्र तम् . MY says शुक्तीनाम् ईपद्मिन्नतया क्रमेण एक-
मुखनिर्गताभिः मुक्ताभिः पूरितशङ्खमपि । अनेन शुक्तिगतं मुक्तावाहुल्यं शङ्खादि-
वाहुल्यं चोभयमुक्तं भवति . Kula agrees with K. R says परिणतमुक्ता-
भरात् ईपत्स्फुटिते शुक्तिसपुटे मुक्तावुभुक्षया प्रलुठितं यत् शङ्खमुखं तेन भृतो
धृतो मुक्तानिकरो यत्र तम् । शुक्तिपुटात् शङ्खेनाकृष्टा मुक्तास्तदभ्यन्तरे प्रवि- शन्तीत्यर्थः .

22. K has उत्थापित and Deva ऊर्ध्वायित for uddhāia taken as उद्धावित by R and Kula .

K says मरुतमणीनां प्रभाभिराहतत्वात् हरितायमानं श्यामायमानं जरठं
परिणतं प्रवालकिसलयं यत्र तम् । सुरगजगन्धेन यदृच्छयागतस्य सुरगजस्य
गन्धात् मदगन्धात् उत्थापितस्य उत्प्लुनस्य करिमकरस्य आसन्नदत्तमेघमयमुखपटम् ।

मुखपटनिवारणे सति गजः शान्तसंरम्भो भवतीति भावः । दत्तं निपतित-
मित्यर्थः .

MY says हरितायमानजरठेति हरितायमानतया जरठवत् प्रतिभासमान-
मित्यर्थः . Kula says... जरठः प्रौढः प्रवालाङ्कुरः यत्र तम् । प्रौढत्वेन
द्यूतिमत्ता सूचिता । सुरगजस्य गन्धेन उद्धावितस्य करिमकरस्य आसन्ने मध्ये दत्तो
मेघ एव मुखपटो येन तम् . Deva says क्रीडासमवनतसुरगजगन्धोत्थितजल-
गजवदननिकटवर्ती जलदः सुरगजयुद्धोद्यतस्य निजगजस्य दत्तो मुखपट इत्युत्त-
प्रेक्षते । प्रतिगजामिमुखं धावतः संनिष्कृष्यतो मदगजस्य मुखं निवारणार्थं पटेना-
च्छाद्यते । एवं सुरगजं संनिष्कृष्यतो निजकरिमकरस्य दत्तमेघरूपमुखपटं समुद्र-मिति :

R says जरठाः चिन्तनाः प्रवालस्य विद्रमस्य पल्लवा यत्र तम् .

23. K reads ohāmīa (अभिभूत) for ohāsia (अवभासित R ; अवहसित Kula) . Deva has न्यक्कृत which shows that his reading is same as that of K. Our copy of MY has न्यकित which seems to stand for न्यक्कृत .

K says मणीन् पालयतीति मणिपालकम् । ओहामिशब्दो धात्वादेशः
अभिभवार्थः । तीरलतागृहप्रभाभिभूतरम्यनृपालयम् । घनानां वारिप्रदम् ।
चटुलमपि वेलालिङ्गितेन (वेलालिङ्गनेन chāyā) महीलङ्घनात् वारितम् .
MY says अत्र स्वस्त्रियामेव निरतस्य परस्त्रीप्रसङ्गविमुखस्य शीलवतः समाधिरनु- सधेयः .

Kula says तीरलतागृहप्रभया अवहसितो निर्भर्तसितो रम्यो नृपालयो
हर्म्यादियेन तम् । घना एव तावत् वारिदाः, तेभ्यो वारि ददातीति महामहिमेत्यर्थः ।
चटुलं चञ्चलम्, अतो वेलालिङ्गनेन जलोल्हासाश्लेषेण मत्वा यत् लङ्घनम् आक्रमणं

तेन (तस्मात् ?) वारितं स्थितिकारिणा हरिणेति श्रुतिः । अथवा वेलायाः तीरलेखायाः प्रियायाः आलिङ्गनेन महीलङ्घनवारितम् . SC has प्रियाया इवालिङ्गनेन .

24. K, MY, Deva and Kula read धीरं (धीरकं Deva) सदा मुखरजलद—for dhīraam sai muhala - ghaṇa—धैर्यकं (धीरकं वा) सदा मुखरघन—(R) . K, MY and Deva have वडवामुखानल for valavāṇala (R and Kula) .

The beginning of K's gloss on the verse is missing. (K chāyā) has शशिमयूखप्रतिपीडनप्रक्षुभ्यन्तं, संचरद्धरणिधरपक्षोद्भ्रान्तकम् . MY and Deva also have प्रतिपीडन . R has परिप्रेरण . K says.....पक्षैः उद्भ्रान्तजलं, धीरं सदामुखरजलदपीयमानपयसम् । अलेदमनुसधेयम् । प्राकृतेषु समासानां पदप्रयोगो व्युत्क्रमेणापि घटत इति । एवमुत्तरत्वापि द्रष्टव्यम् । सदामुखैः जलदैः पीयमानजलम् । अस्थितं चञ्चलं च । वडवामुखानलप्रताप्यमानम् .

MY takes paa in the third line as vaa, and says जलदा एव वयांसि पक्षिणः . He takes aṭṭhiām as आस्थितं, or अस्थितं, and says आस्थितम् अजस्रं चटुलमिति वा* । तदानीं धीरमपि चटुलमिति विरोधोऽभिप्रेतः . Kula says तरङ्गोल्लासप्रेरितानां शशिमयूखानां अतिप्रेरणेन (प्रति-?) प्रक्षोभ्यमाणम् । संचरमानानां धरणीधराणां पक्षैस्त्वंभ्रान्तमुद्गतं (कं) जलं यस्य तम् । मुखैः गर्जितैः जलदैः सदा पीयमानम् ।... .. वडवानलप्रताप्यमानं तथापि धैर्यं (i. e. dhīram, cf. 4.23) धैर्याधिकं महामाहात्म्यकमित्याशयः . R says धैर्यकं धैर्यस्वरूपम् .

* Kula explains अस्थितं as अनाहतं . SC has अनवरतं, which might be the correct reading

25. K reads उपरि for परि, and गत for गति . He says निजविषानलेन प्रतापितत्वात् मुक्तानिकरस्योपरि भ्रमदूभुजङ्गम् । मीनानां गनमार्गेण प्रकटः प्रकाशमानः शैवालैः अवमलिनः मणिशिलासंघातो यत्र तम् . MY says शैवालावमलिनानां मणीनां मीनगतिमार्गेषु घर्षणेन स्फुरणं जायत इति भावः . Kula says निजकेन विषानलेन प्रतप्ताः तापशान्तये मुक्तानिकरे परिवूर्णमाना विषधरा यत्र तम् । मीनानां गतिमार्गे प्रकटः शैवालावमलिनो मणिशिलासंघातो यत्र तम् .

26 K reads mahilālaam (महिलालयम् and महीलालकम्) for mahilāiam (महीलागितम् and महिलायितम्) .

K says सरिद्धिः संकुलं, मधुमथनवल्लभाया लक्ष्म्याः सारस्य उत्कर्षस्य* सदृशं कुलं जन्मगृहम् । आवासोऽवसथो गृहं च भवनं स्थानं निशान्तं कुलम् इति हलायुधः । महिलानामङ्गनानाम् अप्सरसामालयं पूर्वनिवासम् । नदीमुखैः प्रस्थितं वृद्धिसमये नदीमुखैः प्रयातं पश्चात् अपनिवर्तमानावस्थायां वेलामद्या वेलामुवः लालकं संभावयितारम् .

Kula says सरिद्धिः संकुलं व्याप्तं.मह्यां लागितं जलस्कन्धकस्योपरि मह्याः स्थापितत्वात् । नदीमुखेन प्रस्थितया (अप)निवृत्तया वेलया अभुविकृत्या महिलायितं नायिकयेव आचरितं यत्र तम् । शब्दच्छलेन नदीति सखी सूच्यते । तन्मुखेन प्रस्थिता पश्चादपनिवृत्ता वेलेति वेलायां महिलासाधर्म्यम् . R says मह्यां लागितं योजितमर्थादीश्वरेण । एवं नदीमुखेन प्रस्थिता समुद्राभिमुखी अथापनिवृत्ता तत्तरङ्गाभिधातेन पश्चादभिमुखी वेला जलं महिलायिता महिलावदा-चरन्ती यत्र तम् . MY says नदीमुखप्रस्थितापनिवर्तमानवेलामहिलायितम् ... महिलावदाचरणं यस्य तमित्यर्थः । अथवा वेलाख्यया महिलया इतः प्राप्तः (तम्) .

* R says सारो धनं तेन सदृशं योग्यम् .

Muda says महीलागितं, नदीमुखप्रस्थितापनिवर्तमानवेलामहिलाचितम् । प्रस्थितापनिवर्तमाना गमागमौ कुर्वाणा वेलारूपा महिला स्त्री तया महिलया आचितं व्याप्तम् । यद्वा महिलया अयितम् । अयतेर्गत्यर्थात् कर्मणि क्तः . Deva says वेलामहिलाजितम् , and remarks कासुचित् कान्तासु स्वतन्त्रः कयापि कामिन्या बद्धः कोऽपि विवक्ष्यते .

27. K says नदीसहस्रस्य परिचुम्बनेन ज्ञातरसं, तत् विततम् । प्रलय-मेवध्वनिसमदुःसहनादं यथा भवति तथा शब्दायमानजलम् । पेलवेन मृदुना पवनेन मधुरं संचारितं संचलितम् । तदानीं मधुरसं मद्यरसं चारितं भक्षितं पायिन, मधुमदेन स्खलन्तमिव पायितमधुत्वात् मधुमदेन स्खलन्तमिव संचलितमिति योजना . It will be seen that K reads मधुमद (Muda also) for maua-maa मृदुमद (R and Kula).

Muda says ज्ञातो रसस्य अन्तः काष्ठा येन तम् । मधुरं यथा स्यात् तथा संचारितमान्दोलितम् . Kula says नदीसहस्रपरिचुम्बनेन ज्ञातः अनुभूतः रसस्य कृत्याकृत्यस्य च अन्तः पर्यन्तो येन तम् ।.....मृदुकेन मन्देन मदेन स्खलन्तं घूर्णमान पुरुषमिव । सोऽपि दुःसहैः नादै रसति । बहुस्त्रीमुखचुम्बन-रस च जानाति, मृदुमदत्वात् घूर्णते .

28. K says कृष्णमणीनाम् इन्द्रनीलानां छायाः रसेन प्रभाप्रवाहेण रज्यमानाः उपरि परिप्लवमानाः फेना यस्य तम् । अन्तः शयानस्य हरेः नाभिपङ्कजे प्रतिहतैः शेषस्य मुखनिश्वासैः जनितविशालावर्तम् . MY has parippaanta परिप्लवमान . Kula says कृष्णमणीनां छाया द्यूतिः सैव रसो नीलिकाद्रव इव तेन रज्यमान उपरि परिप्लवमानः फेनो यत्र तम् । एतेन कृष्णमणिप्राचुर्य-मुक्तम् .

29. K says सतरङ्गं, विद्रुमपल्लवप्रभाणां घूर्णनस्य भ्रमणस्य नर्तनस्य शाश्वतरङ्गं नृत्तस्थानम् । धरणितलमिव रविणा राजितं विराजितम् । मथनसमये

मन्दराकर्षणे दूरं भृशं विरावितं ध्वनितम् . It will be seen that K reads घूर्णेन (gholāṇa) for gholīra (घूर्णेनशील) . MY says विद्रुमप्रभाघूर्णेन-शीलशाश्वतरङ्गं विद्रुमप्रभाणां नर्तकीनामिव सदाडोलायमानरङ्गम् .

Kula says सतरङ्गं कं पानीयं यस्य तम् । सतरङ्गत्वादेव विद्रुमपल्लव-प्रभया घूर्णेनशीलः प्रसृमरः शाश्वतोऽनश्वरो रङ्गः रागो यस्य तम् । रविणा रञ्जितं रश्मिनिकरेण विसारिणा भरितविवरं, मन्दरस्य आकर्षणेन तत्कोटरे दूरं विलायितम् । धरणीतलमिव... . । विलीनसमानार्थो विवास (!) (virāa—virāia ?) शब्दो देशीयः* . It will be seen that Kula explains virāia as विलायित . Cf. K and Kula on 9.45 below. Hemacandra 4.56 gives virāi vilījjai (विलीयते) .

Muda renders saaramgaam as शतरङ्गकम् . He reads rāvia for rāia, and says रविरञ्जितम्, रब्जे रावादेशः (cf. Hemacandra 4.49), रविणो हंसादयः । दूरमत्यर्थं virāviam शब्दायितम् । धरणीतलपक्षे सकरा-ङ्गकम् । करो राजग्राह्यम् । विद्रुमाणां पल्लवप्रभाघूर्णेन(शील)स्वाश्रयरङ्गकम् । मन्दराकर्षणदूरविरातितं (विरादितं ?) विशारितम् . This is explained more fully by R—सकराङ्गकं सह करेण राजग्राह्येण वर्ततेऽङ्गं शरीरं यस्य तत् । तथा भूमौ करसत्त्वात् । विशिष्टो द्रुमो विद्रुमः तत्पल्लवप्रभाभिः घूर्णमानः सवध्यमानः स्वाश्रयः स्वनिष्ठो रङ्गो यत् तत् । तल्लौहित्यसक्रमात् । प्रशसायां कन् । एवं रविणा राजितं दीपितम् । मन्दराकर्षणेन दूरं व्याप्य विदारितम् । तदुत्पाटनेन भूमेर्विदीर्णत्वादित्यर्थः .

* SC says विरशब्दो देशीयः, which is a mistake for virāa or virāia rendered as विलीनायित in case of the earth—धरणीतलमिव मन्दरस्य आकर्षणेन उत्पाटनेन दूरं विलीनायितं निखातम् . This seems to be the missing sentence of Kula's gloss.

Deva says कठिनतलवरणीसमाकर्षणेन यथा ध्वनिः तथा मथनेऽपीति विवक्षा .

30. K's gloss on the first line is missing in our copy. He says विस्तीर्णं , प्रलयोद्वेलसलिलैः हेलया लीलया मृदितायाम् उर्व्यामास्तीर्णं विततं कर्मकर्तरि . R says प्रलये उद्वेलमुच्छलितं यत् सलिलं तस्य हेलया संचारेण मृदितया उर्व्या स्त्यानं काठिन्यात् कर्दमीभूतम् . Kula and Muda have स्त्यानकं or स्त्यानं like R. Hemacandra 1.74 gives thinṇa as an equivalent of स्त्यान. Deva renders thinṇa as आस्तीर्णं like K. Kula says प्रलये उद्वेलैरुलसितैः सलिलैः हेलामृदितया उर्व्या स्त्यानं घनीभूतं कर्दमितं कं पानीय यस्य तम् .

With regard to the first line, MY says त्रिदशेभ्यो दत्तजीवित-सुखस्य अमृतस्योत्पत्त्या उद्धतम् . Muda says उत्तालमुन्नतम् . Kula says उत्तालम् उद्भूतं प्रख्यातमित्यर्थः .

31. K, MY and Muda read आगमे for samae (R and Kula). SC Text has paṇa for pavaṇa, and raa for rava.

K and Muda render nīhāriantaam as निर्हादमानम्—गर्जन्तम् (K). K says मधुमथनस्य निद्रागमे सनि विश्रामप्रदम् । युगान्तदग्धं पश्चात् निर्वाणं शान्तं तल यस्या उर्व्याः सा प्रलयदग्धनिर्वाणतलोर्वी यथा श्यामा भवति तद्वत् श्यामं कृष्णम् . Kula says मषीमलिनोर्वीतलसदृशमित्यर्थः :

Kula says चिरप्ररूढानि शैवालानि यासु शिलासु ताभिः हरितः अन्तः यस्य तम् । पवनेन भिन्नरवं विस्तारितध्वनि दारुणं दुःसहं निर्हादितं यस्य तम् । ततं विस्तृतम् । मधुमथनस्य विष्णोः निद्रासमये विश्रामदम् . K says शिलाभिरन्तर्गताभिः हरितायमानं श्यामायमानम् . MY has हरितान्तम् and निर्हदन्तम् . R says निर्हदत् शब्दान्तरोत्पादि क जलं यस्य तम् .

32. K and MY pratika has ovāṇa for ovaḍaṇa (अवपतन) . SC Text has viḥāḍia (विघाटित) for viḥaṭṭia (विघटित) . Ms C of Goldschmidt has viḥālia.

K says पातालं प्रविशताम् असुराणामवपतनेन विघटित जलविवरं तदुत्थितः रसातलसंबन्धी ऊष्मनिवहः नागविषोष्मनिवहो यत्न तम् । मथनवशेन मथनरभसेन भिन्नो अमितः दूरतो निरस्तो द्वीपान्तरे लग्नः मन्दरतटस्य खण्डो यत्न तम् . Kula says विघटितस्य जलस्य विवरेण उत्थितः रसातलस्य etc.

33. K says तमसा चतुर्दिशं चतसृषु दिक्षु भावितं रूषितम् (MY also) इव । रत्नादिगुणैः प्रभाविशेषैः महार्घः सारो यस्य स तथा तम् । अत एव वसुधारक्षार्थमानीतं रत्नप्रदानैः वसुधारक्षार्थं विधात्रा संपादितमित्यर्थः . MY says गुणैः श्लाघ्याः साराः चन्द्रादयो यस्य तम् . Muda says सारः स्थैर्यम् . Kula says एषोऽमृतरसस्य संभवः प्रभव इति संभावितं सादरं ख्यातम् । स्वच्छश्यामविततत्वात् नभोनिभम्, अत एव तमसेव चतुर्दिशं समन्ततो भावितं रञ्जितम् । निजयशोनिधानमिव सगरेण आश्वमेधिकतुरगानुसारिभिः पुत्रैः खानितम् .

34. K, Muda and Deva read आभोगम् (āhoḍm) for ucchaṅgam उत्सङ्गम् (R and Kula) .

K says पवनेन उद्गृहीतेन उत्क्षिप्तेन जललवनिवहेन ग्रहण्यमानं मुखरं तीरतालवनं तीरस्थं तालवनं यस्य तम् । तृणराजः कथ्यते तलस्ताल इति हलायुधः । शशिमयशैलस्य मयूखनिझरैः परिवर्धितेन सलिलेन मृदितपुलिन-विस्तारम् . MY says uggāhiam उद्गृहीतम् । स्वार्थे णिच् उत्क्षिप्तमित्यर्थः . Muda says उद्ग्राहितमूर्ध्व नीतमित्यर्थः । तलस्तालः (Kula also).

35. K says मन्दराख्येन मेघेन क्षोमितेन शशिमयेन कलहंसेन मुक्त-
सलिलोपरिभागम् . Muda remarks कलहंसा हि मेघकलुषं जलं हित्वा मानस-
सरो (यान्ति) . K says मरतकस्य शैवालस्य(च) उपरि निपण्णानि तृष्णिकानि
मरतकशैवालयोरेन्धकारसदृशवर्णत्वात् रात्रिशङ्कया तृष्णीभूतानि सभोगमपास्य निर्व्या- पाराणि मीनचक्रवाकयुगानि यत्न तम् .

MY says मन्दरमेघक्षोमितश्च शशिकलहंसमुक्तश्च जलौतसङ्गो यस्य तम् ।
मरतकमेव शैवालं तस्योपरि निपण्णं प्रभावलच्छन्नतया परस्परादृश्यमानत्वेन(?).....
मीनचक्रवाकयोः युगं यत्र तम् । कचित् चक्रवाककुलमिति पाठः । अथवा
मरतकशैवाल्योरुपरि मीनात्मकयोः चक्रवाकयोः मिथुनं यस्य (तम्) । तयोः
मरतकशैवालयोः श्यामतया रात्रिशङ्कया विरहभयेन तृष्णीकत्वमिति . Muda says
मीनचक्रवाकयुगलमिति रूपकमिति केचित् .

Deva says मीनरूपचक्रवाकः कूजितुमशक्नुवन् मरतकवत् परिमृदित-
शैवाले तिष्ठति । अथवा मरतके शैवाले च निपण्णो मीनश्चक्रवाकश्च तत्-
प्रभारूपितत्वात् अन्योन्यमज्ञातौ तृष्णीमासात इति .

Kula says मरकताः शैवालानीव तेषामुपरि निपण्णानि तृष्णिकानि(?)
मीनानां चक्रवाकानामिव युगानि मिथुनानि यत्न तम् . SC Text has seāla for sevāla. R₂ says मन्दरपरिघट्टनमिया तृष्णीभूय मीनाः पातालमूले स्थिताः etc.

36. K and Muda read magga for majjha (R and Kula). K, Muda and Kula read cala - timu - vahaṃ for cala - timu - nīvahaṃ found in R who says चलः चलितः तिमिनिवहो यत्न तम् . They read visama - masi for māsi - vāsi (R) ; and kaddamia for kajjalia
(R) .

K says पूर्णनदीस्रोतःसंनिभेन जलमोर्गेण ज्ञायमानः अधः चलितस्य तिमेः पन्था यत्र तम् । वडवामुखमूलात् समपसरन्त्या अधः पतन्त्या विषमया प्रचुरया मण्या कर्दमितपातालम् । वडवामुखाग्नेः इन्धनीभूय दग्धस्य बहुलेन कज्जलेन जलमिश्रेण कर्दमितपातालम् . Muda also takes punṇa as पूर्ण like K.

Kula says पुण्यनद्या गङ्गायाः स्रोतःसन्निभो दीर्घविशालविशदत्वात् जल-मध्ये ज्ञायमानः चलितानां तिमीनां पन्था यत्र तम् । वडवामुखमूलेन समपसरन्तीभिः विविधजलजन्तुदाहसंभवाभिः विषमाभिः गाढाभिः (मपीभिः) मपीराशिभिः कर्दमित, कज्जलितं वा, पातालं येन तम् .

37. K has चलितः (उच्चलितः ?) for ucchalito (उच्छलितः) . He says ततः प्लवगवलाक्रान्ते महीतले ऊर्ध्वचलितः, अत एवोद्धाटितमूलः प्रकाशितमूलः, दृष्टसारश्च दृष्टगाम्भीर्यादिवलश्च समुद्रः दृष्ट्या तुलितः परिच्छिन्न इति ज्ञायते स्म । पार्श्वस्थैरिति शेषः . MY says तुलित इति लङ्घयितुं शक्यतया परिच्छिन्न इति राघवेण दृष्ट्या तुलित इति पार्श्वस्थैरज्ञायत . Kula says प्लवगवलाक्रान्तेन महीतलेन ऊर्ध्वोच्छलितः, अत एव उद्धाटितमूलः प्रकाशिततलः, अतः ज्ञातसारो दृष्टतलः समुद्रो दृष्ट्या राघवेण तुलितः परिकलित इति ज्ञायते । इयानेवास्य सारः, सुलङ्घ्य एवायम् इत्येवं रामेण तुलित इति दृष्टिप्रसादेनैव ज्ञायते(?) इत्यर्थः . Muda says राघवेण समुद्रः तुलित इत्यतया परिच्छिन्नः अज्ञायते-त्यर्थः .

38. K says कालान्तरे अवतारात् पूर्वस्मिन् काले परिभुक्तम् आत्मनो महोद्धिमयं शयनं दृष्ट्वापि रामो जनकसुतायां बद्धमनस्कत्वात् प्रलयकाले गृहिणी श्रियं न संसारेति . Kula says कालान्तरे संहारकाले । प्रलयगृहिणीमिव विपत्कालस्य अपरित्यक्तपरिचर्या श्रियं न संसरति .

39. K says ईषत् समुद्रजले प्रेपिताक्षं यथा, विहसदवस्थायां वितीर्णो दत्तः प्लवगपतौ सल्लापश्च यथा, लक्ष्मणेन उदधौ दृष्टेऽपि अदृष्ट इव धैर्यं न मुक्तम् . MY says सागरानादरेण विहसतानेन वितीर्णः प्लवगपतिना सार्धं सल्लापो यथा स्यात् तथेति क्रियाविशेषणम् . Kula says शवय एवायं लङ्घितुमित्यवज्ञया ईषज्जलप्रेपिताक्षं यथा स्यात् तथा, विहसता वितीर्णः प्लवगपतेः सल्लापः अयमन्यैः सागरो दृष्टो योऽन्तराय इति श्रूयते इत्येवमादिव्यवहारो यत्न तद् धैर्यम् अदृष्टे उदधौ यथा न मुक्तं तथा दृष्टेऽपि न मुक्तं लक्ष्मणेनापि । न केवलं रामेण इत्यपिशब्दार्थः . R says विहसता अर्थात् स्वेन वितीर्णो दत्तः प्लवगपतये संल्लापः परस्परभाषणं यत्न तत् (धैर्यम्) । सरिमतं सुग्रीवेण सह कथां कुर्वाणेनकदाचित् समुद्रोऽपि कटाक्षित इति etc.

40. K and Muda read शोभते (sohai) for pekkhai (R and Kula) .

K says हर्षेण निरायतं यथा उन्नामितत्वात् पीनतरालोकमतिपीनदर्शनं प्रकटोपरिभागं च प्रकाशोरःस्थलं च, अत एव अर्धोत्पतितमिव समुद्रलङ्घनार्थम् अर्धेन उत्पतितमिव स्थिरं शरीरं रुद्ध्वा प्रकृतिं गमयित्वा प्लवङ्गाधिपोऽपि अशोभत । समुद्रदर्शनहर्षात् उन्नामितनिरायतपीनतरदर्शनप्रकटोपरिभागम् एवंभूतत्वात् लङ्घनार्थं किञ्चिदुत्पतितमिव शरीरं निरुध्य रराजेत्यर्थः . MY says nirāa दीर्घ । पीनतरतयालोक्यमानः अत एव प्रकट उपरिभागो यस्य तत् शरीरं तथा rumbhīṇa रुद्ध्वा समुद्रदर्शनात् स्वयमेव उत्प्लवनोद्यतमिव देह निरुध्येत्यर्थः .

Kula says हर्षेण लङ्घनवशेन निरायतं यथा [स्यात् तथा उन्नामितत्वात् अधिकविततहृदयत्वेन पीनतरो विशालः, आलोकेन स्फुरद्वरूपतया प्रकट उपरिभागो यस्य तत् आत्मशरीरं समुद्रलङ्घनार्थम् अर्धोत्पतितमिव रुद्ध्वा, प्लवगसैन्यसंबन्ध-चलापेक्षया नियम्य इति भावः, प्लवगाधिपः सुग्रीवोऽपि प्रेक्षते समुद्रमिति प्रकृतत्वात् .

41. Kula says गरुडेनेव समुद्रलङ्घनमनसा वानरपतिना सुग्रीवेण कनक पिङ्गलत्वात्, (पक्षे) कनकमयत्वात्, ज्वलननिभमुभयपार्श्वप्रसृतं कपिसैन्यं पक्षवितानमिव विततं पक्षद्वयमिव pulaiam प्रलोकितं दृष्टम् . K says पक्षपटलमिव (वितानमिव cbāyā) . Muda says दृशेः पुल आदेशः, and refers to Hemacandra 4.181. SC Text has garuleṇa for --deṇa.

42 Kula says सहसा तत्क्षणं सागरदर्शनेन त्रस्ताः । तस्ते हित्थ-शब्दो देशीयः । पूर्वं भयादपसृतं लज्जया पश्चादाक्षिप्तं वेपमानं शरीरं यैस्ते तथा । लिखिता इव निर्व्यापारत्वात् चित्रन्यस्ता इव . K says पूर्वमपसृतं तत आक्षिप्तम् अपसरणात् निवर्तितं वेपमानं शरीरं येषां ते . MY says आक्षिप्तापसृतं भयेन हठात् गृहीत्वा पश्चादपनीयमानमिव वेपमानं शरीरं येषां ते । nirāa दीर्घ . Kula says अहो दुस्तरोऽयं समुद्र इति विस्मयात् निष्पन्दानि दरसकुचितत्वात् (?) निरायतानि दीर्घाणि लोचनानि येषां ते कपिनिवहाः स्थिताः . R explains निरायत as विस्फारित .

43. MY says सगौरवम् ईदृशोऽपि समुद्रोऽनेन लङ्घित इति सबहुमान-मित्यर्थः . Kula says पूर्वमननुभूतत्वात् अपूर्वेण विस्मयरसेन स्तिमितो निश्चलो लोचननिवहः.....हनुमति निपतितः .

44. K, Muda and probably MY read शोक for मोह (R and Kula) . K, MY, Muda, Deva and probably Kula read मूढ for गूढ (R who gives the other reading as a variant) ,

Kula says उदधिमलङ्घनीयं दृष्ट्वा तमतिक्रम्य गतागतं मारुततनयं च दृष्ट्वा sim तेषां वानराणां मोहेन विषादकृतवैचित्र्येन अन्धकारितेषु प्रतिपत्ति-शून्येष्वपि हृदयेषु मृतो (मूढो ?) निश्चयरहितः उत्साहः जलनिधिलङ्घनाध्यवसायो भ्रमति असज्जातीयेन लङ्घितोऽयमिति बहुलान्धकारे खद्योत इव दृष्टनष्टौ विचरति . MY says sim एषाम् । गतागतहनूमदर्शनात् उत्साहः सन्नपि समुद्र-दर्शनजनितविषादान्धकारिततया हृदयेषु मूढ एवाभूदित्यर्थः . Deva says समुद्रदर्शने त्वशक्यमिदमारब्धमिति प्रतिभाति । हनूमद्दर्शने पुनः शक्यमिति च । अतः किंकर्तव्यतामूढः एव गमनोत्साहः तेषां हृदयेषु भ्रमति स्म .

45. K and MY read taṁ (तत्) for to ततः (R and Kula). Muda has taṁ, but his chāyā has ततः .

K says तेषां तत् निजमात्मीयं प्रकृतिचटुलत्वमपि विगलितम् । कथं विगलितम्—हतच्छायं हता छाया शोभा यथा भवति । शिखाशब्दो दीपापेक्षया प्रयुक्तः । निश्चललोचनमित्यर्थः । अन्यत्र निश्चलज्वालम् । प्रोषितप्रतापं प्रोषितपौरुषं यथा । अन्यत्र प्रोषितोष्णम् । एवं तेषां कापेयमपि गलितम् । किमिव—आलेख्यप्रदीपानामिव । चित्रप्रदीपानां यथा चटुलत्वमेव न भवति तद्वदिति . Kula says निश्चलानि लोचनानि शिखा इव यत्र । प्रोषितः प्रतापः प्रभावो दाहशक्तिश्च यत्र तद् यथा स्यादिति सर्वं क्रियाविशेषणम् । आलेख्यप्रदीपानामिव निजकमात्मीयं नित्यं च प्रकृतिचटुलत्वमपि विगलितम् .

46. K says प्लवङ्गाः समुद्रदर्शनविषादविमुह्यन्तम्, अत एव गलितगमनानुरागं, प्रतिपथे प्रतिनिवृत्तिमार्गे निवृत्तलोचनमात्मानं स्वामिभीत्या हनूमद्दर्शनेन च कथमपि स्थापयामासुरिति . Kula says कथमपिकुच्छ्लादात्मानं समुद्रदर्शनात् विषादेन विमुखीक्रियमाणं यापयन्ति धारयन्ति । येन प्रतिनिवृत्त्य गृहं गम्यते स प्रतिपथः तेन निवृत्तं चलितं लोचनं यस्य तम् . MY says समुद्रदर्शनवत्स्तमनसां प्रतिपथं जिगमिप्रतां कपीनां तत्रावस्थानमपि अशक्यमासीत् किं पुनः तल्लङ्घनमित्याशयः .

It will be seen that Kula, like ms C of Goldschmidt, reads javenti (cf SC Text) for thaventi स्थापयन्ति. Deva mentions the former reading as a variant. He says javenti यापयन्ति वा, cf. Hemacandra 4.40.

CANTO III

1. K, Kula and Muda read bhāmīa for bhāvia (R) .

K says ततः रूढेन अलंविजृम्भितेन विषादाख्यमदेन भ्रमितावमीलितान् निमीललोचनान् , आलानस्तम्भेष्विव शिलातलस्थितेषु बाहुषु निषण्णान् कृतावलम्बान्* कपिमातङ्गान् कपिश्रेष्ठान् कपिरूपान् गजानिति च । आभाषते सुग्रीव इत्युत्तरत्र सवन्धः .

Kula says भ्रमितान् घूर्णितान् अतः अवमीलतः ; Muda says अवमीलन्तो निश्चेषाः तान् . MY reads āṇāla for ālāṇa (R) . Both Hemacandra and Vararuci comm. cite the word āṇāla - kkhambho. Muda cites the relevant rule. Cf. notes on 8.59.

MY remarks विषादस्य मदतया रूपेण लज्जाविवेकादिशून्यतापादकतयेति ग्राह्यम् .

R says विषाद एव मदः तेन भावितान् सबद्धान् .

2 K says सुग्रीवः निजकरवात् स्फुटनिर्यदयशोनिर्घोषं, यशो लोकप्रशंसा, घोषमयमेव हि यशो भवति, स्वधैर्यादपि सारेण गुरु, अर्थगौरवं सारः, दन्तोद्द्योतो दन्तप्रकाशः, ततोऽपि निर्मलार्थं वचनमाभाषते स्म । उच्यमानेषु वाक्येषु एते गुणाः क्रमात् द्रष्टव्याः .

MY says यशोनिर्घोषो यशःप्रकाशः .

3. K says पूर्वं धरणिधरणे मधुमथनस्य भुजा एव सहाया आसन् । भुजबाहुल्यं च वेदेन प्रतिपादितम् । उद्धृतासि वराहेण कृष्णेन शतबाहुनेति etc

* न्यस्तदेहभारान् Kula.

Muda says यशो मा रुन्ध्वं मा निवारयतेत्यन्वयः .

Muda (chāyā) has आगतविलम्बमानं . He says vitthakkantam
फक् नीचैर्गतौ । फक्ः थक् इत्यादेशः (Cf Hemacandra 4. 87, 259) ।
निष्ठतेर्वा विलम्बमानमित्यर्थः (cf. ibid 4.16).

Kula says प्रणयन्तं पार्थयमानं सुजनमिव यशः मा पराङ्मुखयत । सुजनयशसोस्तुल्यं विशेषणमाह । शाश्वतशौरीर्यं स्थिरगर्वं, सीतान्वेषणप्रेषितेषु (कपिषु) वृथानिवृत्तेषु निवर्तमानं, हनूमता ज्ञातायां सीतावार्तायां कथमपि समुख-संस्थापितपदम् । सुजनोऽपि यार्चुनालज्जया निवर्तमानः कुटुम्बभरणादिनिर्वाहालोचन-या कथमपि समुखस्थापितपदो भवति । रामेण सह रिपुनिग्रहार्थमागतेषु (अस्मासु) आगतं भवद्विषादोदयात् वितिष्ठमानम् (ref. to यशः) । सुजनोऽपि पार्थयमान आगतोऽपि कथं मया देहीति वक्तव्यमिति वितिष्ठमानः स्यात् .

5. K (chāyā) reads the second line as प्रथममेव रचितो युष्मान् पश्चाद्हृदयेन तुलितो भर इव विलग्नः . K seems to read raio vo pacchā for rahuvaṇā uvaṇim रघुपतिना उपरि (R) . MY and Kula agree with K, but MY has अस्मान् and Kula अस्माकम् . Muda has रघुपतिना like R

K says राक्षसवधेन दुर्वाह्यो दुर्निर्वहः, समुद्रलङ्घनेन गुरुरयं कार्यारम्भः । एवंभूतोऽपि प्रथममेव रचितो भवद्भिः कल्पितः, पश्चात् हृदयेन तुलितः तोलितः शक्यो न शक्य इति परीक्षितः । ततः युष्मान् विलग्न आरूढः भर इव भार इव । भारोऽपि प्रथममेव रचितः पश्चात् तोलितः । ततः शिरसा धार्यत इति । तस्मादिदानी विषादो न युक्त इत्यर्थः .

MY says रचितः बुद्ध्या पूर्वापरभावेनावस्थापितः । ने अस्मान् । हृदयेन तुलितः शक्यतया निरूपितः । अस्मान् बोद्धव्यतया प्राप्तः । प्रथममेव तोलयित्वातिभर इति बुद्ध्वैवारोपितः । किमत्र अपूर्ववत् विचार्यत इत्यर्थः .

Kula says राक्षसवधस्य दुष्करत्वात् तेन दुर्वहः, समुद्रलङ्घनेन गुरुरयं कार्यारम्भो भार इव प्रथममेव क्रियाकरणपुरःसरं मैत्रीसमय एव नोऽस्माकम् अस्मभ्यं रचितो न चेदानीमिति भावः । स च पश्चात् बाह्यतया(?) हृदयेन तुलितः, इदानीञ्च अनुशिष्टत्वात् विगलितः (विलगितः ?) गृहीतः . Kula reads ne like MY.

Muda (chāyā) has प्रथममेव रघुपतिना अनन्तरं हृदयतुलितो भर इव विगलिनः (?) . He says पूर्वमेव श्रीरामहृदये तुलित्वा पश्चात् अस्मास्वारोपित इत्यर्थः .

6. K and Muda read अरुणच्छायाप्रधानानि (aruṇa - cchāā - vahaṇā) for aruṇo chāā-vahaṇo छायावहनः (R and Kula) .

K says एष कार्यारम्भो युष्माकमेव भरः । मम प्रभुत्वशब्दः आज्ञामात्र-फलः । तथाहि कमलसरांसि अरुणच्छायाप्रधानानि अरुणप्रभा प्रधानभूता येषां तानि आत्मनैव स्वयमेव हि विशदं स्पष्टं विकसन्ति . Muda says प्रधान-शब्दे उत्खातादित्वात् ह्रस्वः (cf Hemacandra 1.67) .

Muda reads appaṇo for appaṇā (R), and quotes Hemacandra 2. 209 calling it an अव्यय . H. C. quotes this line with appaṇo .

MY says कमलानां विकासवत् युष्माकमेव उल्लासरूपः स्वामिकार्यकरो युष्मास्वेवायत्त इत्यर्थः । अरुणेन स्वप्रभेव केवलमाज्ञैव मया प्रवर्तनीया इत्याशयः .

Kula says युष्माकमेवैष भरः, प्रभुत्वशब्दः प्रभुत्वेन व्यपदेशः आज्ञामात्र-फलः, आज्ञापयति पर प्रभुः भृत्या एव कुर्वेत् इत्यर्थः । एतदेव प्रतिवस्तुपमया दर्शयति । अरुणो रविः छायां शोभामावहतीति छायावहनः परं, विशदं यथा स्यात् तथा कमलसरांसि स्वयमेव विकसन्ति । अथवा छायामातपरोधिनीमप-हन्तीति व्याख्येयम् . SC Text reads appaṇā like R.

८. K reads निगलावनमतमुखानाम् for ṇialuṇṇamanta - muhā-ṇam (R) निगलोन्नमन्मुखानाम्* .

* R says ध्रुतः त्यक्तोऽपमान एव निगलस्तेन उन्नमत् मुखं येभ्य-स्तेषाम् .

K says असदृशैः अनुचितैः हीनपौरुषैः समं शीर्षबन्धनस्य केशबन्धस्य विमोक्षाणां विमोचनानामयं केवलमवसरः । उत्तमानां सेवकानां मध्यमैः सह वेतनकल्पनं शीर्षबन्धनशब्देनोच्यते । वक्ष्यति च—Kai—samasīsa... ... ranabhare (12. 53) इति । कथंभूतानाम्—चिरकालकांक्षितानामुत्तमैः चिराय कांक्षितानां, धृतावमाननिगलावनमत्सुखानाम् अवमान एव निगलं निरस्तावमाननिगलत्वात् आसीदत्सुखानाम्* । इदानीं युष्मासु यः समुद्रं लङ्घयति तस्य वेतनाविक्रयमवश्यं भविष्यतीत्यभिप्रायः .

MY reads onamanta rendered as उपनमत्, cf. H.C. 1 173. He says ṇavara केवलम् । समशीर्षबन्धनम् एकज्यारोपणम् . R says समशीर्षं स्पर्धा .

Muda (chāyā) has धृतावमाननिगलोपनमत्सुखानाम् . He says असदृशैः सह यत् समशीर्षबन्धनं तुल्यत्वेन माननादिकं तस्य विमोक्षाः तेभ्यः उत्कर्षोपलब्धेरित्यर्थः . The reading of K, MY and Muda appears to be the same except that the last two render onamanta as उपनमत् .

Kula seems to read dhuāvamāṇaṇīalo ṇamanta - muhāṇam. He says असमानजनसमीकरणलज्जया नमन्मुखानामित्यर्थात् न्यूनत्वात्, असदृशेन हीनजनेन या समीकरणं स्पर्धा बन्धनमिव तद्विमोक्षाणां चिरकालकांक्षितानामेष 'णवर' केवलोऽवसरः, शूराणां कातराणाञ्च व्यक्तिरिति भावः । किंभूतः समयः—धृतोऽपमाननिगडो येनावसरेण स तथा । धृत इत्याशंसायां भूतवत् क्तः । अथवा ध्रुवेण निश्चलेन अपमाननिगडेन अवनमन्मुखानामिति योज्यम् .

9. K reads कार्यकलापे or कार्यकलापान् (kajja - alāve) for kajjālāve कार्यालपान् (R and Kula) .

* Rāmadṛṣṭi says ध्रुतेन निवृत्तेन अवमानेन असदृशसमशीर्षबन्धनाख्येनैव निगलेन अवनमन्ति प्रह्वीभूतानि सुखानि अङ्गनादिसंभावनोत्पन्नानि येषु तेषाम् .

K says इह लोके ते सत्पुरुषाः विरलाः बहवो न सन्ति । ये अभगन्तः (Kula and Muda also) स्वामिने अकथयन्तः तस्य कार्यकलापे कार्यजाते घटन्ते प्रवर्तन्ते । घट चेष्टायामिति धातुः । अथवा कार्यकलापान् घटयन्ति साधयन्ति । ये अज्ञातकुसुमनिर्गमाः सन्तः फलं ददति ते द्रुमा अपि स्तोका एव अरुपा एव । यूयं पुनः कार्याध्यवसायमध्ये विल्लीवीभवथ इत्युपालम्भः .

Muda reads कार्यकलापान् like K, and says निदर्शनालङ्कारः .

Kula says कार्यालापान् कार्यमित्यालप्यन्ते इति कार्यशब्दवाच्या ये व्यापारास्तान् घटयन्ति कुर्वन्ति । अत्र प्रतिवस्तूपमामाह—स्तोका एव तेऽपि द्रुमा ये अज्ञातकुसुमनिर्गमाः कुसुमेनासूचितफलाः फलं ददति . R says कार्यालापान् आलपितकार्याणि .

10 K remarks अस्मासु तिष्ठतसु विरहपीडितो रामः चापव्यापारं करिष्यति चेत् तत् अत्यन्तमयुक्तमित्यर्थः . MY says विरहखिन्ने रामे तृष्णीभूय स्थिते युष्माभिरेवैतत् सर्वं निर्वहणीयमित्यर्थः .

MY has mā ā (for dā) मा तावत् . Muda says तावत् रामो मा ददातु इति लिप्त्वपि वाक्येषु संबध्यत इति मध्यमदीपकालङ्कारः .

11 K says युष्मद्यशः लङ्घितसमुद्राणां युष्माकं यशो दशाननस्य प्रतापाख्येन पार्थिवेन परिगृहीत, विलुलिता शिथिलिता समुद्रमयी रशना यस्य तम् , नभ एव अन्तःपुरभवनं यस्य तं दिग्वधूनिवहम् अभिभवतु । दशाननप्रताप-पार्थिवसकाशात् आच्छिद्य स्ववशे करोतु इत्यर्थः .

MY says oaggau अभिभवतु । युष्माभिः समुद्रे निस्तीर्णमात्रे रावणप्रतापोऽभिभूतो भवेदित्यर्थः .

Kula says दशाननस्य प्रतापः पार्थिव इव तेन परिगृहीतं स्वीकृतं, नभो भवनमिव तदेवान्तःपुर निवासस्थानं यस्य तं, दिशो वध्व इव तासां निवहं युष्माकं

Muda says दिश एव वध्वस्तासां निवहं युष्मद्यशो व्याप्नोतु आक्राम-
त्वित्यर्थः । प्राकृते यशःशब्दस्य पुंस्त्वात् प्रतिनायकत्वध्वनिः .†

12. K says प्राणभयात् भवद्भिः साहसं न क्रियते चेत् अकरणेऽपि यूयं मृतकल्पा इत्याह—पुंसां साहसं न क्रियते यत् तत् दयितं जीवितं दयमानेन रक्षता किल । देङ् रक्षण इति धातुः । दयितं जीवं परिरक्षता पुंसां तत् क्रियत इत्यर्थः । किलशब्दोऽन्यथात्व प्रकटयति । कुत इत्याह—यः पुमान् अप्रति-
मुक्तसुकृतः पूर्वं सुकृतकारिणामकृतप्रत्युपकार इत्यर्थः, सोऽपि जगति जीवन्मृतः गण्यत इति . Rāmadṛṣṭi says साहसमशक्यकरणम् . Kula says यत् साहसं न क्रियते तत् किल दयितं प्रिय जीवितं दयमानेन रक्षता । तदपि वृथैव, यतो योऽप्रतिमुक्तसुकृतः प्रत्युपकारेण अपरिशोधितोपकारणः सोऽपि जगति जीवन्मृतो गण्यते जीवत्कार्याकरणात् । तस्मात् रामप्रत्युपकारार्थं साहसमेवाश्रयत इति भावः . Muda says अधीगर्थ इत्यादिना कर्मणः शेषत्वेन विवक्षायां षष्ठी । अत्र तु शेषत्वाविवक्षया द्वितीयैव .

13. K (chāyā) has किमिव न जानीथ . Kula has किं वा न जानीथ . K says परिणामे निर्वहणे . Kula says परं समोहं कार्यानिश्चयं मूर्छां च ददाति . Deva says कार्यं मृद्यमानं चेदत्यन्तं विचार्य-माणं चेत् .

* This word is restored from SC

† Rāmadṛṣṭi reads वसनं for-rasanam—युष्माकं यशः दिग्वधूनिवहं विलुलितं मर्दितमाक्षिप्तमित्यर्थः समुद्र एव वसनं यस्मिन् तथा अभिभवतु वन्दी-

14. K, Kula and Muda read समर्थः and नयति in the singular They as well as MY read विगलित for vihadia विघटित (R) .

K says समर्थो विघटमानमपि एवं समुद्रादिभिः प्रतिबन्धैः शिथिलीभवन्तमपि व्यवसायं कार्याध्यवसायमन्यैः पुरुषैः दुर्गम पन्थानं पदं नयति । दिवसकरः विगलितैकचक्रत्वात् विघटमान रथं यथा भुवनान्तरालविस्तारं नयति तद्वदिति । आदित्यरथस्य प्रसिद्धमेकचक्रत्वम् .

MY says व्यवसायं व्यवसितार्थम् । पन्थानमुपायभूमिम् । यथा रविर्विगलितैकचक्रमपि रथं भुवनस्य मध्यावकाश सर्वगः सर्वतो नयतीत्यर्थः . Kula says व्यवसायं कार्यम् . R says भुवनान्तरं नभस्तदेव विष्कम्भं विवरम् । विष्कम्भो विवरे देय्याम् .

Muda says समर्थो विसामग्रीकमपि उद्योगमन्यपुरुषदुर्गमं मार्गं नयति । तत्रोपमा भुवनेत्यादि । विष्कम्भो विस्तारः . Kula says एकस्मात् भुवनादन्यत् भुवनान्तरं तस्य विष्कम्भमन्तराल विगलित दिशृङ्खलमेकं चक्रं यस्य तं रथ दिवसकर इव . Deva says यथा दिवसकरः विगलितैकचक्रं एकचक्रत्वादेव विकल एवं रथं भुवनान्तरविष्कम्भं भुवनान्तरसन्धिप्रदेशं यथा नयति तद्वदिति .

15. K says अनुत्तालश्रमान् अनुत्तालः अनुन्नतः श्रमो येषां तान् , तालसमान् दीर्घान् भुजान् अचिरात् कृतकार्यान् पश्यत । किञ्च . निभृतः अप्रकाशमानो भवतां राजसभावो राजस्त्वमपैतु अपगच्छतु । रजोगुणविजृम्भणेनैव हि संरम्भः स्यादिति भावः । अपि च प्रतिपक्षस्य शत्रोः राजस्वभावश्चापैतु .

Kula explains nihuo as निधृतः (निधुतः ?), and says निधृतो निःशेषेण धृतः (धुतः ?) प्रतिपक्षस्य च रावणस्य राजस्वभावो राजत्वमपैतु अपगच्छतु । रागसहायः, रागः कामासक्तिः सहायः सहचरो यस्य । अथवा राजस्वभावरूपेण व्यपदेशात् निभृत. छन्नो राजसो भाव इत्यर्थः .

Muda has अनुत्तालश्रमान् like K and Kula. The latter says तालतरुसमान् भुजान् अनुत्तालश्रमान् अनुद्भट्टायासान् अचिरात् कृतकार्यान् प्रेक्षध्वम् . Muda says राजसभावः राजसत्त्वं रावणस्यैतु अपयातु । कीदृशः—राज्ञां स्वभावः प्रकृतिभूतः . R says राजसो भावो रजोगुणविजृम्भितं मरणादिभयम् .

16. K reads युष्मान् for ne अस्मान् .

K says लङ्घनरभसेन संक्षोभितसमुद्रः, सभ्रान्तः अतिसन्नस्त उद्वृत्तो वेपमानशरीरः दृष्टो राक्षसलोको येन स हनुमान् वेलातट एव मुख्यतो युष्मान् हृदयेन हसति अथ हसति नूनमित्यर्थः .

MY says उद्वृत्ततया दृप्ततया दृष्टो राक्षसनिवहः सभ्रान्तः कृतो येन स तथा । aba असौ । ne अस्मान् . Kula says सभ्रान्तः सविग्नः । aba ne अयमस्मान् .

Muda says अहेति अदसः प्रथमैकवचने रूपम्, and quotes Hemacandra 3 87 where Pravarasena's line is quoted.

SC says उद्वृत्तः परावृत्तः . R says उद्वृत्ता इतस्ततो गामिनः .

17. R and Kula read mahā - ṇaīṇa . The others have this in singular .

K says कचिदपि अव्युच्छिन्नप्रसृतः, स्फुरितशूरच्छायाः स्फुरिता प्रज्वलिता शूराणां छाया शोभा यस्य सः सुभटानामुत्साहः विषमेषु एवविधेषु स्खलितः सन् अधिकमुद्धावति प्रवर्धते । किमिव—महानद्याः स्रोत इव । नदीप्रवाहश्च अव्युच्छिन्नप्रसृतः, स्फुरितसूर्यच्छायाः स्फुरितसूर्यप्रतिबिम्बो विषमेषु स्खलितः सन् अधिकमुद्धावति । तद्वदिति .

MY says phurīa - sūra - cchāo स्फुरितशूरप्रशस्तिः, स्फुरितसूर्य-प्रकाशश्च .

Muda has अव्युच्छिन्न like K, whose pratika is avvucchiṇṇa for avvo - (R and Kula) अव्यवच्छिन्न . Muda and Kula render uddhāi as ऊर्ध्वायते . Kula says सुभटानामुत्साहः अव्यवच्छिन्नमविरतं प्रसृतः प्रवृत्तः, विषमे दुष्करे कृत्ये स्खलितः प्रतिहतः सन् महानदीनां स्रोत इव अधिकमूर्ध्वायते । महानदीनां स्रोतोऽपि विषमे प्रोन्नतभूभागादौ(?) स्खलितमधिकमूर्ध्वायते । उच्छलितत्वादेव स्फुरितसूरच्छायं प्रतिकलितादित्यप्रभं भवति.

Muda says स्फुरिता शूरस्य वीरस्य छाया कान्तिर्यत्न । स्रोतःपक्षे स्फुरिता सूरस्य सूर्यस्य छाया प्रतिबिम्बं यत्र.

Deva says प्रतिवद्धं चेत् अधिकमुद्धावति बन्धमुलङ्घयति तदुपरिभागेनैव गन्तुमिच्छति तद्वदिति.

18. K and Muda read प्रतिष्ठापिता for परि - (R and Kula).

K says पूर्वं कुलपरिपाटीघटिता कुलस्य वंशस्य परिपाट्या आनुपूर्व्या घटिता संपादिता, मानेन प्रतिष्ठापिता रथैर्य गमिता निजच्छाया, वीराणां सहजा दीप्तिः परेणाभिभूयमाना सती पश्चात् अनेन छायावता पुंसा चिन्तयितुमपि न शक्यते । आत्मप्रतापस्य परपरिभवमुपैति चेत् ततः स्वीकर्तुं न शक्यत एव, परिभवः प्रागेव परिहरणीय इति यावत् । शक्रेस्तरचयतीरा इति कर्मणि तीरादेशः (Vararuci 8.70). R says निजकच्छाया निजप्रतिष्ठा.

Muda says तीरइ इति शकेश्चयतरतीरपारा इति (Hemacandra 4 86) तीरादेशः । छाया कीर्तिः प्रतिबिम्बश्च । प्रतिबिम्बपक्षे मानं प्रमाण, कुलं देहः । 'सजातीयजने गोष्ठे देहेऽपि कथितं कुलम्' । 'मानं प्रमाणे प्रस्थादौ मानं चित्तसमुन्नतिः' . Deva says आत्माभिमानेन प्रतिष्ठापिता निजकच्छाया.

MY says मानेन अभिमानेन राजसत्कारेण । कुलपरिपाट्या पुत्रपौत्रादिक्रमेण संबद्धा । निजच्छाया शौर्यादिना कृत निजरूपम् .

SC Text has ohuvvanti (अवधूयमाना) for - ppa -. Kula also has अवधूयमाना .

19. K and Muda read अल्पोऽपि पुनः for appatta - guṇo अप्राप्तगुणः (R and Kula) .

K says भटत्वस्य वाचकः शब्दो भटशब्द इत्यर्थः । सोऽल्पोऽपि अयशः-क्रान्तत्वात् अपसृतश्चेत् विगलितरणमतसरैः रणं प्रति विगलितमतसरैः वीरैः पुनर्दुष्करं कृष्यते अतिकृच्छ्रादाकृष्यते । तस्मात् पूर्वमेवायशःप्रवेशः परिहरणीय इत्यर्थः .

Kula seems to read परिमित for valia. He says दुष्करेऽप्यर्थे परि समन्तात् वर्धमानः शृण्वतामपि उत्साहो येन स तथा परिमितो रणमतसरः समरामर्षो येषां तैः अप्राप्तगुणः, नाममात्रोदाहरणेनापि शत्रुसकोचहेतुः प्रतापविशेषः एवंभूतो यो भटत्वशब्दः सुभटत्वख्यातिः अयशसा क्रान्तः समपसृतः पलायितः दुष्करं कृष्यते न शक्यते पुनरानेतुमित्यर्थः .

20. K, Kula and Muda read ādhia for āhia आहित (R) . Muda says ādhia इति आदृते द्विरिति द्विः (Hemacandra 1.143). The word is recorded in Deśināmamālā 1 74 with the meanings इष्ट, गणनीय, अप्रमत्त and गाढ .

K says आदृतसमरागमनाः, व्यसने उत्सवे च समरागं समाभिनिवेशं समप्रकारं मनो येषां ते समर्थाः अवशागतः यदृच्छागतः विषमो दुस्तरोऽर्थो वस्तुविशेषो येषां ते तथाभूताः सशयेऽपि आपद्यपि धीरा एव भवन्ति न विषीदन्ति . Kula says ādhiam गणनीयं समरागमनं येषाम् .

Muda says अवशोऽनायत्तः अतो दैवम् . MY says प्रतिपथदैवागत विषमार्था धीरा एव भवन्ति प्राणसशयेऽपि समर्थाः . Kula reads अवसादित (avasāia, cf SC Text) for avasāaa (अवशागत)-अवसादितः अवसन्नीकृतो विषमः अर्थो यैः . He mentions the other reading and explains it : अवशोऽस्वतन्त्रः आगतो विषमो दुष्करोऽर्थो येषु । अथवा अवशं दैवम् अप्रतिक्रियत्वात् , तस्मादागतो विषमोऽर्थो येषाम् । अथवा अवशात् दैवात् आगते विषमे तिष्ठन्तीति तथोक्तास्ते समर्थाः सन्देहेऽपि धीरा एव भवन्ति .

R says आहितं समर्पितमर्थात् स्वस्मिन् समरस्य आगमनं यैः । संग्रामोऽपि कर्तव्य इति कृतनिश्चयाः .

21. MY says व्यवसायेन सपिपासा व्यवसायरूपपिपासावन्तः . He reads na pāvanti for na pāhenti (पास्यन्ति), and says न पिबन्ति न प्राप्नुवन्तीति वा . Muda says pāhenti पास्यन्ति । पिबतेः पातेश्च रूपम् . Ms. C of Goldschmidt has - hi - (SC Text also). Kula says व्यवसाये सपिपासाः सतृष्णाः . SC Text has sappiāsā for - vā - ,

22. K says उत्खातदंष्ट्रा विषधराः चिरं धरन्ति जीवन्ति । अखण्डितव्यवसिताः कचिदपि अखण्डितव्यवसितार्थाः समर्थाः प्रतिहताश्चेत् क्षणमपि न जीवन्ति . MY also says धरन्ति जीवन्ति . Kula says ध्रियन्ते अवतिष्ठन्ते . Muda has dhānti (ध्रियन्ते chāyā) for dharenti. He says धृङ् अवस्थाने । जीवन्तीत्यर्थः . Kula remarks अखण्डितव्यवसिता इति खण्डितव्यवसितास्तु पूर्वमपि सोढत्वात् सहन्तेऽपि ,

23. K and Kula read स्फुट (phuda) for padī found in R.

K says एवमकृतार्थाः प्रतिनिवृत्ताः यूयं प्रियामुखेषु संमुखालोकनमात्रेण स्फुटं सक्रान्तं दर्पणस्थलेष्विव स्थितं निज विषादं कथं द्रक्ष्यथ । भवतां विषादो युष्माभिरदृश्यमानोऽपि प्रेयसीनां मुखेषु स्पष्टं द्रष्टव्यः । किं ततः कष्टमित्यर्थः । तस्मात् कृतकार्यैरेव निवर्तितव्यमिति यावत् .

Kula says कृतकार्यागताः स्वामिन इति प्रथमं प्रसादयोगात् दर्पणतलेष्विव निर्मलेषु प्रियामुखेषु संमुखालोकमात्रस्फुटसंक्रान्तं निजमात्मीयं विषादं स्थितमकृतार्थप्रति-निवृत्ताः कथं द्रक्ष्यथ । निजकलत्रैरपि गर्हणीयाः किं पुनरन्यैरिति भावः .

Muda seems to read मुख- or सुख-संक्रान्तम् . SC Text and ms. C of Goldschmidt read damcchiha for decchiha.

24. K says नदीस्रोतांसि चिरप्रयत्नात् प्रतिपथं नीयन्ते . Kula says चिरप्रवृत्तानि नदीस्रोतांसि like R. Muda renders nijjanti (नीयन्ते others) as निर्यान्ति .

MY reads tīranti for tīrenti (शक्यन्ते) . He reads asamāvia (असमापित) for asamāṇia rendered as असमानित by K and R who explains it as अनिष्पादित . Kula and Muda have असमापित, but the latter reads asamāṇia, as he says समापेः samāṇa इत्यादेशः . Cf Hemaandra 4.142 who equates samāṇai with samāvei.

25. K and Muda read volijjai (अतिक्रम्यते) for langhijjai लङ्घयते (R, Kula and MY). K, Muda and Kula read भण्यते for bhanṇau भण्यताम् (R) .

K and R explain uia-parihao as उदितपरिभवः . MY and Muda say उचितपरिभवः परिचितपरिभवः . Kula says उदितः परिभवो यस्य । अथवा उचितः अभ्यस्तः परिभवो येन स उदधिः .

Muda says प्लवगानामिति साभिप्रायं संवन्धमात्रस्य विवक्षितत्वात् पृष्ठी । यथा किमेवामस्ति दुष्करमिति .

K, MY and Muda put this verse after verse 26.

26. K (chāyā), Muda and Kula read चिरं for imam
(R and K comm.) . K, Kula and Muda read च (i. e. a) for vi अपि (R) . K, MY and Muda read भवेत् for hoi (R and Kula ?) .

K says इदं तावत् चिन्त्यताम् । किमिति चेत् , कुलव्यपदेशक्षमं
वंशकथनयोग्य वंशप्रवादानुरूपं यशो वहता पुंसां लज्जायाः समुद्रस्य च द्वयोरपि अतिक्रमिषु किं दुष्करं भवेत् । समुद्रादपि लज्जा दुस्तरेत्यर्थः . MY says hojja भवेत् .

Kula says कुलव्यपदेशक्षमं वंशकीर्तनयोग्यम् । समुद्रलङ्घनमेवोचितं न
तु लज्जालङ्घनमिति भावः . Deva [says कुलव्यपदेशक्षमं कुलप्रसिद्धि-
योग्यम् .

27. K says चन्द्राख्यः शारदमेघः तावत् भो वानराः शैलवत् ससार-
तमान् अत्यर्थं सारवतो युष्मान् जित्वा रावणवधोदयुक्तान् अधःकृत्य सुखस्य नागर्नी
किल किरणाशनिं रघुसुते मा मुञ्चतु . MY remarks शक्यत्वे सति
युष्मभिः देवीविरहदुःखं रामस्यावश्यं निरसनीयम् ।शैलगुहागतानामश-
निभयाभावादिति भावः .

Kula says mā dā इति मा तावत् tubbhe युष्मान् जित्वा, आरब्ध-
कार्यविमुखान् कृत्वा इत्यर्थः, चन्द्रः शारदमेघ इव धवलत्वात् किरणान् अशनिमिव
दुःसहत्वात् सुखस्य किल नाशनी विमुञ्चतु । अनतिक्रान्तायामेव शरदि शीघ्र
निष्पाद्यतां कार्यं , रामोऽपि निर्वृतिं लभतामिति भावः . SC says युष्मान्

28. K reads प्रणयेन for vināṇa.

Kula says ननु उपक्रियमाणोऽपि विजातीयत्वात् पर एवाय रामः । तत् किमेतदर्थं नियोजयसीत्याशङ्क्याह । परोऽपि शत्रुरपि विनयेन सेव्यमानः सन् बान्धवात् स्नेहेनाभ्यधिको भवति, किं पुनः निष्कारणस्निग्धबान्धवः कारणं विनैव अस्माकमुपकारकः कृतोपकारः उपकारेणोपगृहीतः । एतेन य एवं महात्मा शत्रुं निर्जित्य राज्यदानादस्माकमुपकर्ता स प्रत्युपकृतः किमिवाभीष्टं न करोतीत्यर्थः .

K says परोऽपि यः कश्चित् प्रणयेन सेव्यमानश्चेत् बान्धवस्नेहाभ्यधिको भवेत् । पूर्वमेव कृतोपकारो निष्कारणस्निग्धबान्धवो दाशरथिः प्रणयेन सेव्यमानः किं पुनः अस्माकं किं न कुर्यादित्यर्थः .

29. K says राघवेण दत्ता ममेय श्रीः अचिरप्ररूढा लतेव भवन्ती युष्मत्समरोत्साहे ऋताविव फलप्रदायिनि ग्रीष्मादावृताविव विलम्बमाने सति अद्यापि मुकुलयत्येव (Muda also ; मुकुलायते R and Kula) । फलं न दर्शयति । यथा लता फलं न दर्शयति तद्वदिति । राघवेण प्रतिपादिता राज्यश्रीः तस्य प्रत्युपकारे कृत एव मे भोग्या स्यादित्यर्थः .

Muda says यथा ऋतौ विलम्बमाने लता मुकुलितैव तिष्ठति न फलति तथा श्रीरपि अस्मासु युद्धमनुत्सहमानेषु न फलति । वालिनमिवास्मान् उत्खाय अन्यस्मै रामो राज्यश्रियं दास्यतीति भावः .

30. K says एवं विसवादिता एवं दैवेन प्रतिकूलिता स्थितिर्वस्था कियच्चिरमात्रं वा राम न मोक्षयति कियन्तं कालावयवं न मोक्षयति । अचिरात् मोक्षयतीत्यर्थः । अत्र दृष्टान्तं व्यतिरेकेण आह—कमले समुत्पन्नापि श्रीः रजनीषु तत् कमलमेव न मुञ्चति किम् । किमिति प्रश्ने । मुञ्चत्येव । पुनरुदिते सूर्ये

तदेव कमलं प्राप्नोति । तद्वदेव सीता न चिरात् रामं प्राप्स्यतीति व्यतिरेकोक्तिः ।
अस्यां दुरवस्थायामेव रामस्य अस्माकं प्रतिकर्तुमवकाश इत्यभिप्रायः .

Muda says रामस्यैषा दुर्दशा..... .. स्थितिर्दशा. He and MY seem to agree with K. Kula's interpretation of the verse is different. He says एवमिति प्रतिज्ञातार्थाकरणेन विसवादिता विघटिता स्थितिर्मर्यादा कियच्चिरमात्र वा कियन्तं कालं रामं न मोक्षयति । कमले समुत्पन्ना लक्ष्मीस्तदेव कमल किं रजनीषु न मुञ्चति । एतेनैवं विसवादनात् अस्मानेव तावदय प्रथमं हनिष्यतीति भावः . R agrees with Kula--स्थितिः धैर्यमेव भवतामव्यवसायेन विसवादिता विचालिता सती etc । तथा सति अधीरो भवन् सर्वानपि नो निहनिष्यतीति भावः । (वि)संवादो विचलत्वम् .

31. K says विधानेन विधिना पतितापि मलिनता सदोषता सत्पुरुषे चिरं न तिष्ठति । कथंभूते—सकलमविकलमुद्द्योतितवसुधे विराजितभूतले, समस्तजीवलोकप्रसरत्प्रतापे । किमिव—एवंभूते रवौ विधानपतिता विधानेन प्रकारेण पतिता मलिनता मेघसपर्कभवा यथा चिरं न तिष्ठति तद्वदिति .

MY reads moulānā for maṭṭadā, and explains it as मलिनता सत्पुरुषे व्यसन, रवावुपरागः . Muda also says यथा सूर्ये उपरागः . Kula says समस्तजीवलोकविस्तीर्यमाणप्रतापे सत्पुरुषे रवाविव विधान दैवं ततः पतिता मलिनता शोकादिकृतो विषादः, पक्षे प्रभातं, तत्र पतितः सन्ध्यारागो न चिरं तिष्ठति . Muda says विधानमितिकर्तव्यता तत्र पतिता (मलिनता) । रविपक्षे viḥāṇam प्रातः .

32. K reads this verse after verse 27, and MY after 33.

K, MY and Muda read प्रकटसत्पुरुषपथं . K and Muda read भवेद्वा न वा तस्य समं for hojja va ṇa hojja va samam भवेद्वा न भवेद्वा समं (R and Kula) .

K says राघवेण प्रकाशितसत्पुरुषस्वभावं प्रथममस्मासु यत् कृतम् अस्माभिः कृतमपि तस्य सुकृतस्य समं भवेत् वा न वा । अक्रियमाणं तु किं पुनः .
Muda says अस्माभिः प्रत्युपकारलेशोऽपि न कृत एवेति भावः .

Kula says ननु अस्माभिः सीतान्वेषणेन प्रत्युपकृतमेवास्य इत्यत आह । सत्पुरुषस्य प्रकटः प्रकाशः पन्थाः विपदुद्धरणलक्षणो मार्गो यत् तत् यत् प्रथम-मस्मासु राघवेण कृतम् उपकृतम् , तस्य रावणवधरूपं प्रधानं कार्यं कृतमपि समं भवेत् वा न भवेत् वा, किं पुनरक्रियमाणम् .

33. K, MY, Kula and Muda read त्वरमाण for dūrantā दूरान्त (R) .

K says राघवेण प्रार्थ्यमानः युद्धार्थमभियुज्यमानो दशमुखः कियन्तं चिरकालमूर्ध्वं तिष्ठन् दर्शिष्यते (द्रक्ष्यते others) । अभियोगानन्तरमेव विनङ्क्ष्यतीत्यर्थः । तस्मात् दशमुखं युद्धार्थं दिदृक्षुभिः त्वरमाणैरेव प्रेक्षितव्यः स शिखरे पतन्महाशनिः वनद्रुम इव .

Kula says यः सत्वरं पश्यति तेनैव परं यदि द्रक्ष्यते . MY says tūrantā - pecchiavvo त्वरमाणप्रेक्षितव्यः आशुतरविनाशीत्यर्थः . cf. Hemacandra 4.171.

Muda says प्रार्थ्यमानः अभियास्यमानः सरुध्यमानो वा । 'अभियाने च याच्नायां प्रार्थना कथ्यते वुधैः' । 'प्रार्थितः शत्रुसरुद्धे याचितेऽभिहितेऽपि च' इति वा । यथा—विशूलः प्रार्थ्यतामिति . Deva says प्रार्थ्यमानः युद्धार्थ-माहूयमानः .

34. K says धुतताम्रालातस्फुलिङ्गनिवहप्रभं धुतानां ताम्राणाम् उल्मुका-नां स्फुलिङ्गनिवहसदृशम् । अत एव बालातपमिव यान्तं (?) कपिसैन्यं

रजनिचराः प्रेक्षितुमपि न समर्थाः । तमःशकलनिकरा यथा बालातपं द्रष्टु न शक्नुवन्ति तद्वदिति . Kula says रजन्यां चरन्तीति तमोरेणवोऽपि रजनीचराः .

Muda says entam आयत् आगच्छत् (MY and Kula also) .

35. K, MY and Muda read गुरावेव (garue ccia MY) for garuammi vi (R and Kula),

K says प्रतिपक्षे गुरावेव महत्येव भटाः वारिताः सन्तोऽधिकं प्रतिकूला भवन्ति निवारणमतिलङ्घयन्ति । प्रतिगजगन्धेन आविद्धा आहता गजेन्द्राः ऊर्ध्वाङ्कुशेन रुद्धमस्तका अपि यथा प्रतिकूला भवन्ति तद्वदिति . MY says वारितास्तु अधिकप्रतिकूला भवन्ति । सुभटा गजा इवेत्यर्थः .

36 K says विपमेऽपि विपत्तावपि अविषण्णः धुरंधर एव समर्थ एव धुरं कार्यं धारयति . Kula says धुरंधर एव भारोद्वहनक्षम एव धुरं भारं केवलं धारयति .

37. K and Muda read विटपाः for ṇivohā (R and Kula) . They render oharia as अपहृत (अव--R) .

K says मुक्तवर्षा जलधराश्च, अभिनवदत्तफलाः पादपविटपाश्च, समरमुखे प्रयुक्तखड्गा भुजाश्च लघवोऽपि कृतकार्यत्वात् गुरवो भवन्ति । अपहरण प्रयोगः .

MY says oharia उत्कण्ठ(?) । भुजानां लाघवं संस्कारवैशद्योद्भूत-प्रबोधः । गौरवं तु श्लाघ्यता . Muda says अवहृतमवपातितमित्यर्थः । एतेन कार्यवशात् लाघवेऽपि गौरवमित्यर्थः . Kula says समरमुखे रणोपक्रमे oharia - maṇḍalaggā व्यापारितखड्गा भुजाः . Deva says समरमुखव्यावृत्त-मण्डलाग्रस्य भुजस्य लाघवं तु जाड्यप्रतियोगि वैशद्यमेवेति .

38. K, Muda and Kula read मुञ्चन्ति (muanti) for sahanti (R) .

K says भवतां भुजाःदर्पं न मुञ्चन्ति दर्पवन्त एव । महीधराः ध्रियन्ते अवतिष्ठन्ते । धृङ् अवस्थाने . MY says kīsa कस्मात् (Muda also) , Kula says प्रतिपक्षः किं गौरवं नीयते दुर्जयत्वख्यातिं प्राप्यते . R says किमिति गुरुत्वं नीयते . K and Deva say प्रहरण-कार्ये युद्धे सुलभा योग्याः .

39. K reads गुर्वीमपि धुरं for garuam pi bharam (R and Kula) . He and Kula read tavanti (तपन्ति ; तापयन्ति) for kha-venti क्षपयन्ति (R and Muda) .

K says न्यसनेषु धैर्यं परिरक्षन्त एव सुपुरुषाः केवलं गुर्वीमपि धुरं धारयन्ति निर्वहन्ति । तथाहि रविकिरणाः स्थानं स्वावस्थानभूतं मण्डलमुञ्चन्त एव निःशेषं त्रिभुवनं तपन्ति . Kula says स्थानत्यागे रविं त्यजन्तो ज्वाला इव निर्वाणा अकिञ्चित्कराः स्युरित्याशयः . Muda reads dharanti for - re -, and says धृञ् धारणे . Kula says स्थानं रविमण्डलं धैर्यस्थानीयम् . MY says धैर्यं नाम कृच्छ्रप्राप्तावव्यग्रतया पूर्वस्थानापरित्याग एव .

40. K says सुपुरुषाः कातरैः भीरुभिः प्रतिमुक्तधुरं निजबलं निजसैन्यं प्रस्थानेन प्रयाणेन अवगाहनेन लङ्घिताग्रस्कन्धाः लङ्घितः आक्रान्तः अग्रस्कन्धः सैन्यस्याग्रव्यूहः येन ते तथाभूताः जयन्ति स्ववशे कुर्वन्ति । प्रथममात्मनः सेनां सस्थापयन्ति पश्चात् प्रहारैः (प्रहरणैः Kula) प्रतिपक्षं जयन्ति . Kula says कातरेण प्रतिमुक्ता धूरग्रेसरता यत् तन्निजबलं स्वसैन्यम् .

41. K, Muda and Kula read प्रवर्तते for pavadḍha (R) .

K says सत्पुरुषे प्रतिपक्षोद्धरणाय प्रस्थिते सति मङ्गलानि कल्याणानि तमनुयन्ति । श्रीः विजयश्रीः आश्रयति । पुरतो यशः प्रवर्तते । शत्रुवधाय प्रस्थिता यूयमपि मङ्गलादीनि मा पराङ्मुखानि कुरुतेत्यर्थः .

MY says annanti (for anṇe-) अनुयान्ति । allai प्राप्नोति प्रत्युद्गच्छतीत्यर्थः . Kula says आलीयते समालिङ्गति श्रीः . Muda says उपसर्परल्लिअ इत्यादेशः . Cf. Hemacandra 4 139 which gives allai found in R who renders it as आलीयते—मिलति . Cf. H C 4 54.

42. Muda reads veṣṭabaddhā for -bandhā (R and Kula) .

K says वैरमावध्नन्तीति वैरावन्धा वीराः । कृष्टानां सुभटासिपत्ताणाम् , असिपत्रमसिधेनुः खड्गविशेषः, कोशादाकृष्टानां शत्रुभटासिपत्राणा पथि प्रहारमार्गे आपतिताः, अतिभूमिं युद्धस्य काष्ठां व्रजन्तो वैरावन्धाः केवलं द्वितीयं न चलन्ति प्रथमावस्थानात् पुनर्द्वितीयं न चलन्ति पदान्तरं न प्राप्नुवन्ति । किमिव—लून-पक्षा महीधरा इव । शत्रुपक्षमवगाह्य प्रहरन्तः प्रहताश्च वीराः स्थानात् स्थानान्तरं न गच्छन्ति । तत्रैव शत्रून्नुत्सादयन्तीत्यर्थः .

MY and Muda (chāyā) read अरिभूमिं for aibhūmim (अति-भूमिम्) . MY says अरिभूमिं शत्रूणाम् आसन्नतां भूमिम् । vīam द्वितीयां भूमिमित्येव ततोऽनुकर्षः । navara केवलम् । चलनस्य जयपराजय-साधारण्यं केवलशब्दार्थः । अथवा केवलशब्द एवकारार्थः । न चलत्येवेत्यर्थः .

Muda comm. has अतिभूमि, but the meaning is not clear. He says vīam इति क्रियाविशेषणम् । वैरेणावद्धाः । वद्धो हि पदमपि चलितुं न पारयति किमुत समन्तात् वद्धः . Muda (chāyā) renders navara as अनन्तरम् .

Kula says सुभटाकृष्टासिपत्रपथापतिताः सन्तः, अतिभूमिं प्रकर्षं व्रजन्तो वैरावन्धा द्वितीयं पुरुषं केवलं न चरन्ति न यान्त्येव तैरेव(?) समाप्यमानत्वादित्यर्थः । लूनपक्षा महीधरो यथा द्वितीयं स्थानं न यान्ति । अतो युष्माभिरारब्धः कार्यभारो युष्माभिरेव निर्वर्तितः शोभत इति भावः . R says आवध्यमानवैराणि द्वितीयं पुरुषं न चलन्ति तत्र न संक्रामन्ति .*

Devarāta says अतिभूमिं परमकाष्ठां गच्छन्तः वैरवन्धाः कृष्टानां कोशा-कृष्टानां सुभटासिपत्राणां क्षुरिकाणां पथि धारया न केवलं पतिता भवन्ति द्वितीयं च प्रयोगं न चलन्ति . Then he says वैरानुवन्धाः शत्रवः शात्रवं वा । वैरानुवन्धाः प्रतिवलं दूरमवगाढाः समरे अतिभूमिं व्रजन्तो नासीरे स्थित्वा सर्वं साधयन्ति ।.....प्रतिभटेन उत्खातासिसञ्चर-मार्गगताः तदानीं स्मृतेन वैरेण स्थिरीकृताः सुपुरुषाः ततो निवृत्त्य द्वितीयं पदं न चलन्ति । तत्रैव स्थिता भवन्ति । यस्मिन् देशे कृत्तपक्षा महीधरास्तत्रैव स्थिरा भवन्ति पुनर्नान्यत्र गच्छन्ति .

43. K says दशमुखश्च तावत् धरति जीवति यावत् वो धैर्यं विषादेन तुल्यते अधःक्रियते . MY says tulijai तोल्यते चाल्यत इत्यर्थः . Kula says तावच्च ध्रियते स्वरूपेणावतिष्ठते दशमुखः यावद्द्वो युष्माकं धैर्यं विषादेन तुल्यते आकलय्यते . Muda says ध्रियते जीवति । धृङ् अवस्थाने । यथा—ध्रियते यावदेकोऽपि रिपुस्तावत् कुतः सुखमिति . SC says तुल्यते उत्क्षिप्यते . R says सदृशीक्रियते । उत्क्षिप्यते वा .

44. K, MY and Muda read अनाहतः for anāhito (R) rendered as अनाधिः . R says मम पुनरात्मा अनाधिर्भवद्भिर्दिना कार्यं कथं सिध्येदिति अन्तर्व्यथाशून्यः .

* SC says यं प्रति येन यद्वैरमङ्गीकृतं तेनैव धैरेण स तेन व्यापादयितु-मुचितः, न तु तस्मिन् भग्नोद्यमे तद्वैरमादाय अन्यैरनिनिर्यातनं कर्तुमुचित-मित्यर्थः .

K reads प्रगुण for रूढ (R and Kula), and says अन्यस्य मनः अन्यदन्यप्रकारं भवति। युष्माकं मनो न जाने। ममात्मा अनादृतः* त्यक्तुमध्यवसितः। कथभूतस्य—दरप्रगुणमीषद्रोषितं व्रणमेव प्रसाधनं यस्य तमिम हनुमन्तं निर्वर्णयतः पश्यतः। समुद्रमुलङ्घय रावणं हनिष्यामि तेन हतो वा भविष्यामीत्यर्थः. Muda says हनूमन्तं पश्यतो मम मध्ये चानादरो जात इत्यर्थः. Their reading seems to be aṇādhio, found also in Kula and SC Text. Kula says हनूमन्तं निर्वर्णयतः(मम) आत्मा aṇādhio अगणनीयः, अस्मिन्नेव बहुमानः न तु आत्मनि इति भावः. See notes on verse 20.

45. R reads āsāntaenam (आस्वादयता and आसादयता), K, MY and Muda seem to read āsāsantaenam (from āsāsa) which they explain differently. Kula's reading is same as that of R, but he explains it differently (प्रतिपक्षस्य लक्ष्मीम् आशातयता विनाशयता, निजकुलस्य च कीर्तिम् आसादयता स्वीकुर्वता).

Muda has प्रतिपक्षस्य लक्ष्मीमाशासानेन शत्रोः श्रियमात्मन इच्छता। निजकुलस्य कीर्तिमाश्वासयता कुलस्य च कीर्तिमाश्वासयता अश्लानां कुर्वता. K has आशासता ईषच्छासता निगृह्यता and आश्वासयता. MY has प्रतिपक्षस्य च लक्ष्मीमाशंसमानेन, निजकुलस्य (च)कीर्तिमाश्वासयता. K and Muda omit अ—(च) in the first and second lines.

K and MY read लब्धुं and जीवितुं. Kula has लब्धं and जीवितं like R. Muda has लब्धं and जीवितुं. K says नयस्य निर्माणकेन संपादकेन नयप्रणेलापि (उचितकारिणाम्य) निर्माणेन मरणमपि पुरुषेण लब्धुं वरं योग्यं, चिरं जीवितु न वरम्। एवंभूतस्य पुरुषस्य

* Deva says अहमात्मानं शरीरमनादृतवानिति. He explains रदरूढ as ईषदुच्छून.

जीवितादपि मरणमेव श्रेयस इत्यर्थः . Kula says नयनिर्माणको नीति—
प्रयोक्ता, तेन मरणमपि वरं लब्धं, न च निर्माणकेन मानहीनेन चिरं जीवितं लब्धम् । पुरुषस्तावदेवासौ थावत् मानात् न हीयत इति भावः . R on verse 46 says मानोऽहंकारः .

Muda says नयस्य नीतेर्निर्मात्रा पुरुषेण मरणमपि लब्धं वरं मानरहितेन
च चिरं जीवितुं न वरमित्यर्थः । ṇimmāṇaṇṇam इति निर्माणकेनेत्यर्थः । निर्मो णिम्माणणिम्मवाविति णिम्माणादेशः (Hemacandra 4.19, 1. c. ṇimmāṇai) lāsāantaṇṇam इति पाठे एकल आसादयता आशानां ददता वा । अन्यत्र आस्वादयता(?) इत्यर्थः .

46. K and MY read इत्यपि for ea (एवं) in the last line.
R, Kula and Muda have एवमपि . The yamakas kesara-lacchi-āe and ke sara -, and samarasamāṇaṇṇam (2) are explained differently in the commentaries.

K says सरलाक्ष्या सरसाक्ष्या श्रिया लक्ष्म्या एवं दृष्टा अपि, तस्याः

R says समरस्य समापके निर्वाहके .

47, 48. The verses are interconnected. K, Muda and Kula put verse 48 first MY ‡has only one verse consisting of the first half of 48 and the second half of 47.

K, MY, Muda and Kula read राम for rāhava (R). Kula says दुःखितके रामहृदये, i. e. duhīae rāma-hīae. K and Kula read हिमावरुणा for samoluggaā समवरुणा (R). Muda has समारुणा .

* 1 e. श्रियः करकमलस्य केसरलक्ष्म्याः आक्षेप्तारः .

† After this our copy has सहशेच्छाभिमाने which seems to be an alternative explanation of the phrase construed as सम - रस - माने .

‡ Only ms. A is available for this canto.

K, MY and Muda have हिमावरुणौ in verse 48. Kula has हिमदग्धे like R.

K says रजनीसारै रजन्याः सारभूते अवष्टम्भभूते चन्द्रे मेघमलिनित इव, रजोनिःसारके, रजः परागः तत् निःसारयति निर्गमयतीति रजोनिःसारकं ष्वल्-प्रत्ययान्तम्, अधिष्ठितैः अमरैरपवृत्ते अविकासिते तस्मिन् कमले हिमावरुण इव, अमरोगोर्ते अम एव रोगः तेनोर्ते रामहृदये दुःखिते सति । उत्तरत्र संबन्धः ।

Devn says अमरैः अपवृत्ते तद्भारातिशयेनाधोमुख एवंभूते कुसुमे प्रग्लान इव .

Kula says pavvāae शुष्के..... अमरेणापवृत्ते विमर्दवशादावर्तिते कुसुम इव (verse 48). Most of this phrase is omitted in K (ccn m). K (chāyā) has however कुसुम इव प्रग्लाने अमरापवृत्ते . Kula says धिक्कारमलिनायमाने जीविते का अभिलोभिता अतितृष्णा न युज्यत इति भावः . Muda has अतिलोभिता . Explaining 3 47 he says प्रथमार्धस्य पूर्वेण (i. e. 3.48) संबन्धः । उत्तरार्धं पृथग्भूतं वाचयम् । कामक्लान्ते रामहृदये

* Kula's attempt to explain duhāae rāma-hrae as दुर्हृत्कृतवैरामथिते is a tour de force not in conformity with the style of the poem, See SC.

दुःखिते सति मलिनीभवति जीविते का तृष्णा । एवं सति जीविते तृष्णा न करणीयेत्यर्थः . At the end of 3.48 he says सीता लोकेन मा शोच्यता-मित्युत्तरेणान्वयः . Deva says मलिनान्ते अशोभनावसाने जीविते... .. अनवस्थिते जीविते प्रणयो न कर्तव्य इत्यर्थः .

49. K says विरहेण विरचितं दौर्वल्यमेव प्रसाधनम् , तद्वत्तया उज्झिता-भरणानि, निश्वासवशप्रवृण्णितैः लुब्धैरलकैर्मृदितः पक्ष्मलः पुलकितः कपोलो येषाम् । अलकस्य स्पर्शपारुष्यात् पुलकः । उत्तरत्र संबन्धः . Kula reads मिलित for maha (मृदित) .

50 K and MY read विपुल (viula) for pihula पुथुल (R, Kula and Muda) . K, Muda and Kula read तट (ada) for ala तल (R) . K and Kula read विनिकीर्ण for vivaiṇṇa विप्रकीर्ण (R) . SC Text has vinīṇṇa .

K says विपुले नितम्बे स्खलिताः, प्रशिथिलैः करस्य कार्श्यादत्यर्थं शिथिलैर्वलयैः विनिकीर्णाः परित्यक्ताः बाहुलता येषां तानि । क नु मां त्वदधीन-जीवितां विनिकीर्य क्षणमिन्नसौहृद इति कुमारसम्भवे (46) 1 एवंभूतानि प्रियाणि कलत्राणि वयं कदा नु द्रक्ष्यामः । कथंभूताः—परिजनस्तुतेन कृतप्रेषणेन कृतेन प्रेषणेन राघवस्यादेशेन लज्जिताः । स्तोत्रश्रवणात् लज्जा .

K seems to read ṇamba - aḍa - khalia - pasidhūla. Kula and Muda have शिथिल . Cf. R (text) . R com. has प्रशिथिल .

Kula says पृथुलनितम्बतटस्खलितेन विरहशिथिलेन वलयेन विनिकीर्णा विनिर्मुक्ता बाहुलता येषां तानि .

Muda reads रणप्रेषण . He says परिजनेन उच्चैः स्तुतं यत् रणप्रेषणम् , अनेन युद्धे एवमेव कृतमिति तेन सजातलज्जाः कदा नु प्रियकलत्राणि द्रक्ष्याम इत्यन्वयः .

51. K and Muda read आकृष्टपरिश्रान्तं for āaddhānā-niṅceṭṭham आकर्षणनिश्चष्टं (R). Kula has आक्षिप्तमाकृष्ट सत् परिश्रान्तम् .

K says एवं सुग्रीवेण भाष्यमाणं (भाष्यमाणं chāyā) चिन्ताभरेण
हृदयदुःखगौरवेण अवसीदच्छरीरं कपिसैन्यं पङ्कमग्नं जनैराकृष्टत्वात् परिश्रान्तं
गजकुलमिव दृश्यमानं यदा न चलति यदा न परिस्पन्दते तदा सुग्रीवः पुनरपि
जल्पति इत्युत्तरगाथया संबन्धः . Kula has पङ्कक्षिप्तं गजकुलमिव .

आकृष्ट is āaddhā, but MY says āṇṭhā (āntthia ?) आकृष्ट ।
यूथपतिनेति शेषः । कपिसैन्यस्य तु आकर्षकः सुग्रीवः . Cf. Sañjīvanī 7.8
कथं कर्षतीत्यस्य कट्ट इति । उच्यते—एवमन्येऽपीति बहुलग्रहणात् पक्षे
ट्टादेशस्य प्रवृत्तेः .

52. K says स्फुटशब्दं यथा उत्थापितेन उत्थितेन वनदवेन भरित-
गिरिकन्दरासदृशास्यः . Kula says ऊर्ध्वायितेन वनाग्निना भरितो यो गिरि- कुहरस्तदाकारं मुखं यस्य . Muda has स्फुटशब्दोर्ध्वापित . R has उद्धावित .

53. K says परिजने सेवकजने इति एवमस्थिरसामर्थ्ये अन्यस्यापि को
विश्वासः । यथा मम युष्मासु विश्वासो नाभूत् एवमन्यस्यापि राज्ञः सेवकजने
विश्वासः कीदृशः । तत्रापि शत्रुपक्षेऽपि दशमुखो नाम दशमुखः केवलमवशिष्यते ।
ममैव भुजस्तस्य प्रतिभटः स्थितः । किमिदानीं युष्माभिरित्यर्थः .

Muda renders āsamgha as सभावना . Kula is here corrupt, but SC has प्रत्याशा . Kula says नामशब्दः सभावनायाम् । तत्रापि रिपुसैन्येऽपि दशमुखः etc.

54. K, MY and Muda pratika has avahovāsa. K and Muda read यावन्निवर्तते (jāva nīattai) for jā na.....यावन्न.....(R and Kula) ,

K says उभयोः पार्श्वयोः मम हस्ततलाहतत्वात् दलन् विदीर्यमाणः प्रस्थितसलिलः उदधिर्यावत् निवर्तते तावत् वानरसैन्यमतिक्रान्तं भवतु । समुद्रस्य आधारभूतेन स्थलेनातिक्रामत्वित्यर्थः .

55. K, MY and Kula read bhariam for dhariam (R and Muda)

K says अथवा चन्दनवृक्षैः अहीनां तुष्टिकरे मलयगिरेः शिखरे भरितां पूरितां सेनामहं हसन् गुरुणा भरेण शक्तिगौरवेण विशदः प्रकटः असौ येन तेन भुजेन योजनशतं नेष्यामि । अहितानां तुष्टिहरे इति वा छाया । शत्रूणां तोषहरे यशोहरे इत्यर्थः .

MY says tosi - hare तोषधरे तुष्टिकरेत्यर्थः । अहीनां तोषधरे भृतां etc. MY also has विशदांसेन . Muda has अहीनां तोषिगृहे in chāyā, and says ahīānam इति स्वार्थे कः । तोषयत्यवश्यमिति तोषि तत्र चन्दनतरुबाहुल्यात् , तच्च तत् गृहं चेति कर्मधारयः । गृहस्य घरादेशे घस्य हत्वम् । तोषिधरे इति वा व्याख्येयम् । तोषिणश्चन्दनतरवः तान् धरतीति .

Kula says अहितानां शत्रूणां तुष्टिहरे, अथवा सुरमिशितचन्दनालयत्वात् अभिकानां कामुकानां तुष्टिगृहे, किंवा अहीनां सर्पाणां तोषिणी घरा भूमिर्यत्र तस्मिन् मलयगिरेः शिखरे भरितां सेनां गुरुणा भरेण विशदः उन्नमितत्वात् व्यक्तः अंसः स्फुरन्धो यस्य तेन भुजेन योजनशतं नेष्यामि । समुद्रस्य शतयोजनत्वात् उत्पारं प्रापयिष्यामीत्यर्थः .

56 K, MY, Muda and Kula read निर्वृत्तम् (nivvuttam, cf. SC Text) for निर्व्यूढम् (R).

K says संमुखमिलितैकैके, एकश्च एकश्च एकैकः अन्योन्यमित्यर्थः, अभिमुख्येन मिलितपरस्परे मिश्रितद्वन्द्वे आसन्नसशये आसन्नप्राणसशये, युद्ध इत्यध्याहार्यम्, तत्र कः किल सहायः । न कोऽपि सहायो भवितुमर्हति । कुत इति चेत्, यावन्न दृष्टिर्दीयते साहाय्यं कर्तुकामेन दृष्टिः युद्धाय यावन्न दीयते तावत् अस्य कर्तव्यं चिरनिर्वृत्तं चिराय साधितं भवतीति .

MY says आसन्नसंशये आसन्ने प्राणसंशये यावन्न दीयते दृष्टिः सहकारिणेति वा, सहकारिण्विति वा शेषः, तावत् कर्तव्यं कार्यं चिरनिर्वृत्तं भवतीति योजना .

Muda and Kula have भवतु for hor. Kula says यावन्न दीयते दृष्टिः प्रेक्षकैः इत्यर्थात्, तावत् कर्तव्यं शस्त्रग्रहणानुरूपं चिरं निर्वृत्तं भवतु . SC Text has tāva for dāva. R says निर्व्यूढं निर्वृत्तं भवति .

57. K says हुत्तशब्दोऽभिमुखवाचकः । अहमेव शत्रुं हनिष्यामीत्युक्तम् । तत्र विप्रतिपत्तिमाह—अथवा शत्रुवधार्थं महार्णवाभिमुखं महार्णवमुल्लङ्घयितुं प्रतिष्ठमानस्य प्लवमानस्य मम गगनं न प्रभूतम् । मम शरीरविस्ताराय गगनं न पर्याप्तं भवेत् । अथवा यथाकथंचित् गत्वा सपत्नं शत्रुं हत्वा निर्वृतो वसामि वत्स्यामि । वर्तमानसामीप्ये वर्तमानवद्वेति लट् । कीदृशं सपत्नं—रुधिरवसामिपात् वृत्तं जीवनं यस्य तम् । राक्षसा हि पुरुषादाः . K (chāyā) has हत्वा वा निर्वृतः etc. (MY also) .

MY says रावणवधोऽयुक्तस्य मम समुद्राभिमुखं गच्छतो मार्गभूतं गगनमप्रभूतमित्येतावता प्रतिबन्धो वा स्यात् । रावणवधो निष्प्रतिबन्धः सिध्येदेव वा । न तु प्रतिबन्धान्तरशङ्केत्याशयः .

Muda renders patthantassa as प्रार्थयमानस्य . He says प्रार्थन-मभियानमिति पूर्वमुक्तम् . Muda and MY render vattam as पात्रम् like R. Muda says पत्रं वा । रुधिरवसामिपं पिवन्तीति कप्रत्ययः, तान्
त्वायत इति पुनरातोऽनुपसर्गे क इति कप्रत्ययः .

Kula says अथवा [महार्णवाभिमुखं गमनं (for गगनं) प्रार्थयमानस्य मम न प्रभुत्वं वाच्यमेव* च न स्यात् . R seems to refer to this interpretation—केचित्तु अथवा महार्णवाभिमुखं प्रार्थयतो गमनं मम न प्रभुत्वमिति
सस्कृत्य अपि तु प्रभुत्वमेव इत्यर्थमाहुः . Kula then says (सपत्नं शत्रुं)
किंवा सपत्रं सवाहनं, सपात्रं ससचिवं वा हत्वा निर्वृतो वसामीति योज्यम् .

58. After verse 57 the order of verses in K is 62, 58, 59, 63.
Verse 60 is not found in K. For 61 see below.

In verse 58 K reads ततोऽभिमुखसलिलः (i.e. tattohutta-salilo) for tatto nāma saalo ततो नाम सकलः (R, Kula and Muda).
MY's reading is same as K's except that he has सलिलं . K,
MY, and Muda read palottai for paattai प्रवर्तताम् (R). Kula seems to read palottai (cf. SC Text) explained as प्रसरतु . SC chāyā has प्रलुठतु .

K says अथवा मम सरोषचरणाक्रान्तं मम सरोषं यथा चरणाभ्यामा- क्रान्तम् आहतमतएव अधः भज्यमानभुजङ्गं (निस्त्रुट्यद्भुजङ्गं chāyā) महीतलं

MY says nisudhijanta (K pratika also) अवपात्यमान । palottai (our copy has palottthai) प्रलुठति । महीतलं यतो नमति ततोऽभिमुख-सलिलं प्रलुठत्युदधिः । तदा स्थलेनैव गन्तुं शक्यत इत्यर्थः .

Muda has nisudhijanta (भराक्रान्तनमत्) . He says भारा-क्रान्ते कर्तरि नमेः णिसुद्धादेशः, and quotes Hemacandra 4.158 which gives nisudhai. He has प्रत्यागच्छत्युदधिः, and quotes H.C 4. 166, which gives palottai paccāgacchai. Kula says आक्रमणभरपीडयमान-पातालस्थपन्नगं महीतलम् .

59. K, Muda and Kula read vatthe (पृष्ठे) for majjhe (R who mentions the other reading as ṣa variant). They read उत्पाटित (uppāḍia) for ummūlia (R) .

K says अथवा मया उत्पाटितानीतेन महोदधिपृष्ठे युगलस्तम्भाभ्यामिव मम भुजाभ्यां धारितेन विन्ध्यमयेन संक्रमेण सेतुना कपिवलं समत्येतु अतिलङ्घयतु .

My says ओ उत । samaicchau समत्येतु . Muda says गमेरङ्च्छादेशः (H. C. 4. 162 which gives aicchai) । samaicchau सम्यगगच्छत्वित्यर्थः . Muda (chāyā) has संगच्छताम् . R has samañichau समतिक्रामतु . Kula also has the latter meaning, but his reading is not clear. SC Text agrees with R. It has āñiṇaṃ (आनीतेन) for āñiṇaṃ (R) .

60. The verse is not found in K and MY. Muda gives only the chāyā, and remarks केषुचित् पुस्तकेषु दृश्यते . The chāyā shows some variations, the pratika being nisudhijanta for vivalāanta (भराक्रान्तनमद्भुजङ्गमुद्वर्तितजलचरं चलन्महीधरम् etc).

Muda renders patthantassa as प्रार्थयमानस्य . He says प्रार्थन-
मभियानमिति पूर्वमुक्तम् . Muda and MY render vatton as पात्रम्
like R. Muda says पत्रं वा । रुधिरवसामिपं पिवन्तीति कप्रत्ययः, तान्

Kula has अथ मारुत—for muha - mārūa (R). He says: अथ मारुतेन विधृतजलम् उत्सारितपानीयं रत्नाकरं करोमि .

61. K and MY have this verse after 8.23. K and (probably MY read घटित for sesa (R, Kula and Muda).

K says मध्ये जलाधारतलस्य मध्ये करतलाग्रेण लुटित्वा छित्त्वा उन्मूलितौ, भुजाभ्यां भ्रामितौ निवर्तितौ, पुनर्विमुक्तौ घटितौ अर्धान्तौ यस्य तं समुद्रम् । अतएव इतोमुखसुवेले ततोमुखमलयं च करोमि किम् । अयमर्थः—मलयसुवेलयोरन्तराले मलययुक्तमुत्तरं समुद्रं सुवेलयुक्तं दक्षिण च समुद्रं द्विधा भुजाभ्यां मध्ये छित्त्वा द्वावपि समुद्रखण्डौ भुजयोः भ्रमणेन विपर्यस्तौ[†] विमुच्य घटितच्छेदमार्गं समुद्रं करोमि किमिति । मलयस्य ततोमुखत्वे तु प्रयोजनमिदं पश्यामः । उद्धृतस्य मलयस्य स्थाने सुवेलस्य आनीतस्य स्थापनं भवेदिति .

MY says दक्षिणोत्तरतटावस्थितसुवेलमलयसहितं प्राक् प्रत्यगर्वाक् चातिविस्तृततया संभविनि मध्यभागे प्रथममेकखण्डतया लुटितमथोन्मूलितम्, अथोत्तरतः सुवेलो दक्षिणतो मलयश्च यथा स्यात् तथा भुजाभ्यां भ्रामितम्, अथ लुटनावकाशे क्षिप्तमथ प्रतिसंहितपर्यन्तं (प्रतिसहित) - वृटनमार्गम्, अतएव इतोभूतसुवेले ततोभूतमलयं च करोमीत्यर्थः । pahuppantam प्रभूतमिति वत् iahutta इति इतोभूत इति, tattohutta इति ततोभूतेति च ग्राह्यम् । hutta इत्यस्य अभिमुखार्थत्वे वलितपदमुभयत्राध्याहार्यम् .

* Corrected from MY who reproduces K's explanation. Ms. B of MY has भुजभ्रामणेन .

† SC refers to an interpretation similar to K's, but with the reading sesa—केचित्तु उन्मूलित उत्खातश्चासौ भुजाभ्रामितश्चेति स तथा, अनन्तरं मध्ये उत्खण्डित एकदेशभग्नत्वादेव विमुक्तशेषार्धान्तं यथा स्यात्तथा ईदृशं समुद्रं करोमीति..... क्रियाविशेषणतया उपपादयन्ति .

K (chāyā) has विमितोमुखसुवेलं for etto - hutta - suvelam (R) .

Muda has इतोऽभिमुखसुवेलं ततोऽभिमुखमलयं करोमि समुद्रम् like R. Muda says bhamāḍiam (for bhamāta) अमितम् । अमयतेः भमाडेत्या— देशः (Hemacandra 3.151) । addhanto perante (i.e. पर्यन्ते) इति देशीमाला (1.8) । hutto अभिमुख इति देशी (Deśināmamālā 8.70) । पूर्वार्धं क्रियाविशेषणम् .

Kula is somewhat corrupt, but he reads ukkhālia explained as उत्खण्डित for—kkhuḍḍa खण्डित (R) . He says addhanta एक-देशवाची (इति) देशीकोपे उक्तम् .

The sense of the verse acc. to K and MY is brought out by MY's introductory remark—अथवा अत्रैव शतुबलसहितसुवेलोपस्थापनात् कपिसैन्यस्य अनपेक्षितोत्तरणं समुद्रं करोमीत्याह . Kula says अथवा मलयमेव भवद्भिः सह समुद्रपारं नयामीत्याह । भुजाभ्रामितो बाहुना मथितः, मथनोत्सारितजलत्वात् मध्ये उत्खण्डितश्चासौ उन्मूलित उत्क्षिप्ताधस्तनजलश्च, मध्यभाग एव आरभ्यमाणजलत्वात् विमुक्तशेषार्धान्तः त्यक्तपूर्वपश्चिमपर्यन्तद्वयश्चेति तं तथा । अतो मूलजलोद्गमेन उन्मूलितत्वात् अमञ्जलरयेण अमितत्वाच्च इतोऽभिमुखो मलय-देशाक्रमणाभिमुखः सुवेलो येन तं, ततोऽभिमुखः सुवेलाभिमुखः मलयो यत्र तं समुद्रं करोमि .

After verse 57, the order of verses in MY is 58, 59, 62, 63 ; for 60 and 61 see above. Muda has them in the following order : 62, 58, 60, 59, 61, 63.

62. Muda says लङ्कामद्यैव मदभुजाकृष्टां पश्यतेति सवन्धः । लतापि कञ्चित् गिरिमाश्रिता सुखेनाकृष्टुं शक्यत इत्यभिप्रायेणोक्तं सुवेलालग्नमिति . Kula has this verse after 60. K has it after 57.

63. K says अथवा अहं रामानुरागेण मत्तः मदेनेव मत्तो भूत्वा लङ्कां भग्नराक्षसाख्यद्रुमां, निहतरावणाख्यमृगेन्द्रत्वात् सुखसचारां च मृदूनामि । वनस्थली वनगज इव, पूर्वमेव निहतसिंहत्वात् सुखसचारां वनस्थलीमिव यथा गजेन्द्रो मृदूनाति तद्वदिति । अथवा निहतदशाननगजेन्द्रसुखसचारामिति पाठः । तदा गजेन्द्रः प्रतिगजः । अयमेव पाठः समीचीनः . Kula says भगनाः पतिता राक्षसा द्रुमा इव यत्न । निहतोदशाननो मृगेन्द्र इव यत्र etc

Muda says अतिप्रबलो मत्तो गजः सिंहमपि हिनस्तीति भावः . Kula says गजस्याष्टौ मदावस्था भवन्ति । तत्र षष्ठ्यां मदावस्थायां गजः सिंहमपि हन्ति .

CANTO IV

1. K, MY and Muda read प्रणय for vaṇa वचन (R and Kula). K and Muda read अरुण for dāsa (R and Kula).

K says प्रथमप्रणयनिभृतं प्रथमं प्रणयेन सुग्रीवस्य प्रार्थनया निभृतं तृष्णी-
भृतं, पश्चात् तस्योष्मायितेन पौरुषप्रकाशनेन लज्जितं कपिसैन्यं विबुद्धमालस्यमवधृत्य
समुच्छ्वसितम् । शशिदर्शनेन प्रसुप्तं कमलवनमरुणागमेन यथा विबुध्यते
तद्वदिति .

MY says umhaviām (for umhaia) ऊष्मापितम् । विबोधः कमलिनी- वने विकासः । कपिवले कार्यानुकूल उल्लासः .

Muda says प्रथमं प्रणयेन प्रार्थनया निभृतं पश्चादूषितमूष्मयुक्तं कृतमुत्- साहितमित्यर्थः । विबुद्धं प्रवृत्त्युन्मुखं बभूवेत्यर्थः .

Kula says प्रथमवचनानि dharanidharane (3.3) इत्यादीनि साम-
प्रधानानि तैः निभृतं निरुद्यमं, पश्चात् ia atthira-sāmatthe (3.53) इत्युत्- साहवचनैः सहायमनादृत्य स्वयं विक्रमयितुमिच्छता सुग्रीवेण ऊष्मायितलज्जित-

मेन उत्साहवाक्येनेव विबुद्धं विगतमोहं विगतनिमीलितं चाभूत् .

2. K and Muda read तरुण for अरुण (R and Kula).

K says अथ धुतान्धकारविकटानि निरस्तदिषादान्धकारत्वात् विकटानि
प्रकाशानि कपिहृदयानि बहूनि सममेव एको गमनोत्साहः प्राप्तः, धुतान्धकारविकटानि
बहूनि गिरिशिखराणि तरुणात्प इव । सर्वेषामपि लङ्कां प्रति गमनेद्ये गेत्साहो जात इत्यर्थः .

MY says कपिहृदयेषु अन्धकारः प्रकाशाभावः अप्रतिपत्तिरिति यावत् .
Kula says एकतान्धकारो विपादः, अन्यत्र तिमिरम् । धुतान्धकारत्वात्
विकटानि विशालानि हृदयानि गिरिशिखराणीव उन्नतत्वात् , गमनोत्साहः अरुणानप
इव तेजःस्वभावत्वात् अनुरागयोगाच्च बहुषु एकः सम युगपत् आरुढः . R says
विकटानि व्यक्तानि .

3 K reads अमर्षः (amariso) for pahariso

K says ततो दर्पस्य मुखप्रसादः दर्पमयस्य पुरुषस्य मुखप्रसादो, हृदय-
हसितस्य हृदयविकासस्योद्द्योतः प्रकाशो, रणविक्रमस्य अग्रहस्तः विक्रमस्य प्रहारशील-
त्वात् प्रहर्तुमुद्यतः अग्रहस्तः तेषाममर्षः निजस्वभाव इव कापेयमिव दिग्नरितु- मारब्धः । पूर्वं प्रकृतिचटुलत्वमपि गलितमित्युक्तम् । तदपि अमर्षेण सह

इति । एवं च दर्पहर्षकापेयचेष्टा युगपत् प्रावर्तन्तेति तात्पर्यम् .

Muda mentions अमर्ष as a variant. He says दर्पस्य मुखप्रसाद इव,.....रणविक्रमस्याग्रहस्त इव, कपीनां निजस्वभाव इव अमर्षः प्रहर्षो वा विस्तरीतुं प्रारब्धः .

Kula is incomplete, but he seems to explain दर्पमुखप्रसाद as दर्पोल्लास . He says मुखप्रसादो हि यस्य भवति तस्योल्लासं सूचयति, and remarks दर्पहृदयोल्लासविक्रमाणां मूढत्वं तेषामुत्साहेन निरस्तमिति भावः . Deva says दर्पमुखप्रसादः दर्पसचिवः, हृदयहसितोद्द्योतः हृदयवैपुल्यप्रकाशकः, रणविक्रमाग्रहस्तः रणे क्रियमाणस्य विक्रमस्य पूर्वैरङ्गभूतः अमर्षः . Kula says हृदयस्य हसिनोद्द्योत इव हृदयस्य सोत्साहत्वाविष्करणात् । रणविक्रमस्य अग्रः श्रेष्ठो हस्त इव रणव्यापारसाधकतमत्वात् .

4. K, MY, Muda and Kula read बहुल for बहल (R comm.) .

K says वृषभेण वानरेण बामभुजशिरसि गिरिशिखरं भिन्नं निपात्य विदारितम् । कथमिव—बहुलमुद्धूतं धातुरजो यथा भवति तथा, धुतेन निजनिर्झरेणाहतकपोलतलं यथा, उन्मूलिताः पन्नगास्तत्र निवासिनो बलिता यथा भवति तथा भिन्नम् .

5. K, MY and Kula read परिमृशति for paripusai परिप्रोञ्छति (R) . Cf. 11.3.

K says नीलः पुलकोद्भेदाताम्रं यत एव नीलः कपिलेन पुलकोद्गमेन ईषत्ताम्रं, विषमकृष्णच्छायं त्रणकिणबहुलत्वात् विषमं कृष्णप्रभं च, हृदयनिहितप्रहर्षम्, अत एव शशिप्रतिभिन्नघनसनिभं वक्षस्तटं हर्षात् कराग्रेण परिमृशति स्म । तथा च माघकाव्ये—विचिन्तयन्नुपनतमाहवं रसादुरः स्फुरत्तनुरुहमग्रपाणिना । परामृशत् कठिनकठोरकामिनीकुचस्थलप्रमुपितचन्दनं पृथुः ॥ इति (17.11).

MY says parimusai पर्यमृशत् । पुलकानुमेयान्तर्गतहर्षतया हृदयस्य शशिगर्भघनसादृश्यम् . Kula says हृदयनिहितप्रहर्षत्वात् च्योतितेन अशिना प्रतिभिन्नः सपृक्तो यो वनस्तत्सदृशं वक्षःस्थलं नीलः परिमृपति हस्तेन घट्टयति .

6. K and Muda read बहुल for वहल (R)

K says कुमुदो नाम कश्चित् सेनापतिः तेन प्रहर्षाख्यचन्द्रालोके सति कुमुदेनेव हसितम् । कथम्—विघटमानं विकसदोष्ठपुटाख्यं दलं यथा भवति तथा, स्फुरद्दन्तकराख्यबहुलकेसरनिवहं च यथा तथा, गुरभिर्गन्धोद्गारो यथा भवति तथा हसितमिति । कुमुदपक्षे हासो विकासः . Kula says स्फुरन् प्रकटीभवन् दन्तकराणां केशराणामिव प्रकरो यथा स्यात् , and विघटमानमोष्ठपुटं दलमिव यथा स्यात् .

7. K says मैन्दद्विविदावश्विनोः पुत्रौ वानरौ । तेन मैन्देन विघटमानभूमिवन्धः, उभयभुजप्रेरणमुखरवेपमानविटपः, इतस्ततः पतद्विषधरो वेलाचन्दनद्रुमो धुतः परिकम्पितः .

Muda has विघटमानधरणीवन्धम् . Kula reads वेष्ट, i.e. vedha for बन्ध . He says विघटमानो धरणीवेष्टो महीवेष्टनं यस्य, ... विषमस्त-व्यस्तं पतन्तो विषधरा यस्मात् स तथाभूतो वेलाचन्दनद्रुमः .

8. K says द्विविदस्य दृष्टिः विषधरस्य दृष्टिरिव हर्षपूर्यमाणापि सौम्यत्वं प्रसन्नत्वं न प्राप्ता । हर्षस्य अमर्षसहितत्वात् दुर्दर्शाभूत् । सर्पस्य दृष्टिः हर्षावस्थायामपि क्रूरैव भवति .

K (chāyā) has हर्षद्वियमाणा . MY says bharantī हियमाणा । तारकया सधूमवहिसादृश्यम् . Others have अत्रियमाणा . Kula says अमर्षेण दीप्यमाना अतो दुरालोका, सधूमो यः शिखिनः शिखावर्तः ज्वालाभ्रमणं तन्निभा .

9. K and Muda and probably MY read valei for malei (R and Kula) .

K says शरभोऽपि सेनापतिः दरीमुखोद्धतेन प्रतिशब्देन स्फुटितमलयतट-

विषशब्दो जलपर्यायः .

MY says अचलयदङ्गञ्च रोषविपार्द्रम् । रोष एव विपस्तेन जातस्वेद-मित्यर्थः .

Muda says tanṇāam आर्द्रमिति देशी । समासमध्यवर्तित्वेन अनादि-
त्वात् तलोपे यमकनिर्वाहः । एवमन्यत्रापि .

Kula, says रोषविषेण रोषोद्धतेन स्वेदजलेन .

10. K and Muda have मुखे दिवसस्य in chāyā.

K says निषधस्य सेनापतेः अरुणाताम्रच्छाये अरुणवत् आताम्रच्छाये, अन्यत्र अरुणेन आताम्रच्छाये, तत्क्षणमात्रप्रतिबुद्धपङ्कजकान्ते, अन्यत्र तत्क्षणप्रति-
बुद्धैः पङ्कजैः शोभा यस्य तस्मिन् मुखे अमर्षः स्फुटमस्फुरत्, दिवसस्य मुखे दिनकर इव .

11. K, Muda and Kula read चिरम् for phudam स्फुटम्
(R) .

K says सुषेणस्य वदनं रोषेण हसितेन चिरं विकटाधरान्तरालं विकटं
प्रकाशितमधरयोः अन्तरालं यस्य तत् तथा कृतम्, उत्पातरुधिरेण आताम्रं मध्ये
स्फुटितं रविमण्डलमिव अभूत् . MY says उत्पातरुधिरेण उत्पाते रुधिरवच्च
ताम्रम् .

12. K, MY, Muda and Kula read प्रविजृम्भितेन for परि-
(R). K and Kula read darullasanta (दरोल्लसत्) for addhullasia
(R).

K says वालिसुतोऽङ्गदः हर्षात् प्रविजृम्भितेन विकसितेन, किञ्चिदुल्लसद्रवि- विम्बताम्रच्छविना मुखेन पुरतोमुखारम्भः सर्वेभ्यः पूर्वमभिमुखारम्भः अभिमुख-कार्यारम्भ इति प्रकटः प्रसिद्धोऽभूत्, दिवसः प्रातःकालेनेव । विशेषणं समानम् .
Deva says सर्वेभ्यः पुरतः कार्येऽभिमुख इति प्रकट इत्यर्थः ।..... यथा
दिवसः ईपत् रविविम्बताम्रच्छविना मुखेन पुरतः पूर्वस्यां दिशि प्रकटो भवति .
MY say, पूर्वदिगुपक्रमत्वं सूर्यस्य, अग्रतःस्थितोद्योगत्वमङ्गदस्येति ग्राह्यम् .

Kula says हर्षप्रविजृम्भितेन प्रमोदविकसितेन, रोपेण(१)* असमग्र-
दर्शनत्वात् वानरमुखानामीषदुल्लसतो रविविम्बस्येव, पक्षे ईपदुल्लसता रविविम्बेन ताम्रा

कीदृक्— पुरतोऽभिमुखः प्राच्यभिमुख आरम्भ उपक्रमो यस्य तादृश इति .

13. K and Muda read दर्पोद्धुरत्वं for dappuddhaattonan
दर्पोद्धतत्वं (R and probaby Kula) .

K says निर्व्यूढभरः निर्वर्तितकार्यो हनूमान् लघु तुच्छं दर्पोद्धुरत्वं दर्पेण
उद्धुरः उद्धतः अहकृतः दर्पोद्धुरः तस्य भावो दर्पोद्धुरत्वं तत् अन्यवानरवत्

अनेकार्थत्वात् धातूनां रक्षतिरत्र परिहारे वर्तते .

MY says कृतप्रेषणस्य कृताज्ञापितकार्यस्य धैर्यमेव शोभावहम् । अतो
दर्पमेव मारुतिः नैच्छत् । प्रत्युत कृतकार्यस्य आत्मनो वचनीयरूपत्वं तदेव दर्पं
परिहर्तुमैच्छदित्यर्थः . Kula says धैर्यमेव वचनीयं परापवादं रक्षितुं mahar

* SC has रोमाचूतत्वेन .

14. K and Muda have लोचनं for loaṇo (R and Kula) .

K says सुग्रीवः एवं हासशब्देन निर्भर्त्सितोदधिरवं अधःकृतोदधिरवं यथा, स्फुरिताधरत्वात् निर्व्यज्यमानदंष्ट्रामयवज्रं, वज्रो रत्नविशेषः, कपिदर्पेण प्रशमितरोषत्वात् विरज्यल्लोचनं प्रसीदल्लोचनं च यथा हसति स्म .

MY says dādhā - bīram दंष्ट्राहीरं दंष्ट्रावज्रम् . Muda says त्रीण्यपि क्रियाविशेषणानि . He has स्फुरिताधरस्पष्टीभवदंष्ट्राहीरम् . Kula and R (Text) have स्फुटित (phudīa), explained as विकसित by Kula, who also says दंष्ट्राया हीरं तीक्ष्णाग्रम् . R says विरज्यमाने विशब्दस्य अभाववाचकत्वेन रागो लौहित्यं तच्छून्ये लोचने यस्य तथाभूतः .

15 āsamghanto is rendered as विश्वसन् in K (chāyā) K says लक्ष्मणः गुरोः ज्येष्ठस्य बलं निजं बलं च प्रमाणयन् . MY has आशंसमानः निश्चिन्वानः . Muda says गुरोः निजं च बलं संभावयन् . Kula has आशंसन् . He seems to read navara (केवलम्) for navari (अनन्तरम्) .

16. K says रघुनाथस्यापि दृष्टिः वदनात् चला चलिता स्फुरद्विद्रुमवत् ताम्रे वानरपतेर्वदनं गता । कमलात् चला भ्रमरपङ्क्तिः कमलमिव ।..... रघुपतिः अनन्तरं कर्तव्यमुद्दिश्य वानरराजस्य मुखमदलोकयामासेत्यभिप्रायः . Muda says श्रीरामस्यापि दृष्टिः तद्वदनाच्चला सुग्रीवस्य वदनं प्रापेत्यन्वयः । कपिषु विषादं परित्यज्य कार्यौन्मुख्यं गतेषु फुल्लवदनकमलो रामस्तादृशं सुग्रीवं सगौरवमालोकयामास इति भावः .

17. K reads प्रतिफलत् for parikkhalanta परिस्खलत् (R).

Kula has प्रति-

K says ततो वयःपरिणामावनतयोः भ्रुवोः वलीभिरवलम्बनैः रुध्यमान-
दृष्टिप्रभः, तदानीमासन्ने धवलमेधे प्रतिफलदोषधिवृक्षज्वालो महीधर इव । पलित-योगात् धवलमेधस्थानीया भ्रूः, ओषधिप्रभास्थानीया दृष्टिः । जरूपतीति उत्तरत्र संबन्धः .

MY says rumbhamāṇa-ditṭhicchoho रुध्यमानदृष्टिशोभः । धवल-
मेवस्य स्वच्छतया तेजोगतेर्नातिप्रतिबन्धकत्वात् तत्प्रतिफलनेन नातिनिरोधं लक्षयति .

Muda (chāyā) has भ्रूपरिरुध्यमानदृष्टिच्छायः, and प्रतिस्खलत्
(Kula also) for परिस्खलत् (R) He says mihā मेघपङ्क्तिः and quotes Deśī - nāma - mālā 6 132. R says महीधर इव । सोऽपि कीदृक्
—आसन्नया मेघिकया स्वरूपमेधेन परिस्खलन्ती छन्नतया यथावदप्रकाशमाना
ओषधिप्रभा यत्न सः .

Kula says ततो वयःपरिणामेन शैथिल्यात् अवनतया भ्रूलेखया रुध्यमान-
दृष्टिविक्षेपः, अतश्च आसन्नायां धवलायां प्रतनुमेघिकायां प्रतिस्खलदोषधिप्रभो धरणीधर इव .

Goldschmidt reads ditṭhicchoho (cf. acchi-cchoho in the next verse).
In N.S. edition R has - ccheho (क्षेपः) which seems to be a mistake Choha is a deśī word included in Deśī-nāmamālā 3.39 in the sense of विक्षेप (cf. Kula above) and समूह . The word seems to be explained as प्रभा, शोभा etc. by others (see K, MY and Muda above). SC says क्षिपधातोः छुहादेशः (cf. Hemacandra 4.143).
This explains the rendering क्षेप . Cf Kula on the next verse.

18. K says करेण वारितचपलकपिलोकः, तदा सुग्रीवे दत्तभास्वरनेत्रप्रभः, ज्वाल्या आहतद्रुमनिवहः स्फुलिङ्गपिङ्गलितमहीधरो वनदव इव स्थितः .

Muda has सुग्रीववितीर्णभासुराक्षिच्छायः . Kula says सुग्रीवार्पित-भास्वराक्षिक्षेपः, अत एव उत्क्षिप्तताम्राङ्गुलिनिकरनिभया ज्वाल्याहतः कपिलौकनिभो द्रुमनिवहो येन, भास्वराक्षिक्षेपनिभैः स्फुलिङ्गैरग्निकणैः पिङ्गलितः सुग्रीवनिभो महीधरो येन तादृशो वनदव इव .

19. K and Muda read महीधर for mahi - ala (R and Kula); and बहुल for बहल (R) . Kula also reads बहुल . K, MY and Muda read गलित for khalia (R and Kula) .

K says ऋक्षाधिपतिः जाम्बवान् महीधरार्धान्तनिभं भूधरैकदेशनिभं गलित-वलिभङ्गत्वात् दर्शितविस्तृतबहुलव्रणकन्दरं वक्षस्तटमुन्नमय्य जल्पति स्म .

20. Muda says हरजटासमूहमित्यर्थः, and refers to Deśi-nāma-mālā 6.66 which gives pabbhāra in the sense of संघात and गिरि-गुहा . SC Text has sumarāmi (सरामि) for sumirāmi .

21. K reads नखलुटितं (ṇaha - kkhudiam) for ṇakkhu-kkhudīa नखोत्खण्डित (R and Kula) .

K says मधुमथनहस्ते वर्तमानं नखलुटितं नखैरुद्धृतमत एव सरसं महा-सुरस्य हिरण्यकशिपोः हृदयं हृदयकमलमाक्षिप्तमपहतं निजहस्तकमलमिव अनुधावन्ती श्रीर्मया दृष्टा । महासुरस्य हृदये समुत्पादिते श्रीः सद्यो धावति स्म । तदेवमिवेत्युत्प्रेक्षितम् .

Kula says आक्षिप्तमाकृष्य गृहीतं निजकं स्वहस्तस्थितं कमलमिव अनु-धावन्ती दैत्यानां श्रीर्मया दृष्टा . R says आक्षिप्तं परमेश्वरेण आकृष्य गृहीतं निजकहस्तकमलमिव .

22. K and Muda read विकटं for tuliam (R and Kula). Kula seems to read च for va (इध) in the second line.

K says उत्खातहृदयगिरिवन्धनं महीमण्डलमिवेत्युक्तम् . R says महीमण्डलमपि दंष्ट्रयोत्थापनदशायां गिरीणामितस्ततो विभीर्य पतितत्वादुत्खातगिरि-
वन्धनमभूदिति साम्यम् . Kula says हिरण्याक्षस्यापि जलधिमग्नमहीमण्डलो-
द्धरणप्रवृत्तेन महावराहेण दंष्ट्रया भिन्नं तुलितं (च) यद् वक्षःस्थलं तच्च सरामि
महीमण्डलं च तथाभूतं सरामि । तस्यापि मे प्रत्यक्षं जातमित्यर्थः । हृदयं

MY says वत्सलः श्रद्धालुः समर्थ इत्यर्थः । oaggai अभिभवति .
Muda says paccalo इति समर्थः and quotes Deśī - nāma - mālā 6.69. This is probably also the reading of K and MY who seem to have sanskritized it into वत्सल . Kula also has समर्थः, but he seems to read pabbalo (प्रवलः) like R. Cf 6.33 and 9.3
below. MY on 6.33, however, says vacchaiā वत्सलाः समर्थाः .
K also cites the word in his gloss on 9 3. SC Text has pabbalo It has ovaggai, like R, rendered as अववलगति आस्कन्दति in SC comm.
Kula is here corrupt.

26. K and Muda read कार्यकलापाः for kajjālāvā कार्या- लापाः (R and Kula) .

K says किं पुनः किंतु कार्यकलापाः कार्यजातानि घटिता अपि पुनः
विघटन्ते (विसंघटन्ते chāyā) मिघन्ते । कथंभूताः—दुष्परिकला दुष्प-

* This is restored from SC. Our copy of Kula has त्वराधि- गमा विपत्तिः (?) कार्यस्य which does not suit the context.

Muda says duppariallā अश्वयाः and quotes Deśi-nāma-mālā 5.55. He says मर्यादा लोकस्थितिर्वैला च .

27. K says प्रत्यक्षादनुभवावस्थायामात्मनः प्रत्यक्षात् , कथमपि कथञ्चित् यदृच्छया क्षणघटितात् काकतालीयसदृशात् अनुभूतादप्यर्थात् मम श्रुतमेव शास्त्र-श्रवणमेव गुरु । कीदृशं—परोक्षं कालान्तरे फलप्रदम् । आगमेन उपदेशेन विशुद्धम् । अतएव सचालितनिष्कम्प पूर्वपक्षयुक्तिभिः सचालितमपि सिद्धान्त-युक्तिभिः निष्कम्पम् । त्वरावद्भिः सहसा क्रियमाणं कार्यं यदृच्छया घटेत वा न वा । शास्त्रोक्तमार्गेण क्रियमाणं कार्यमेव सिध्यतीति मम पक्षः इत्यर्थः .

R says परोक्षमिन्द्रियप्रत्यासत्त्यजन्यम् .

28. K says समसारपराक्रमाः समबलपराक्रमाः सेवकाः समस्ताः अपृथग्भूताः यत् साधयन्ति तत् कार्यं निर्व्यक्ताः पृथग्भूताः न साधयन्ति । एको दिनकरः दृढ प्रतपेत् । त्रिभुवनं पुनर्मिलिताः द्वादशापि दिनकराः सहिता एव क्षपयन्ति .

MY says sāhanti साधयन्ति । एकैकेन क्रियमाण उत्साहः सामुदायिकात् लघुफल इत्युक्तम् . Muda renders samatthā as समर्थाः . The equivalent of समस्त is samattha acc. to Vararuci 3.12, and samatta acc. to Hemacandra 2 45. SC Text has samattā explained as समस्ताः in the gloss. Kula on 6.53 objects to the expl. of samatta as समस्त .

29. K says अभागसहितः अस्थाने प्रवर्तित उत्साहः अभिमानमभिभवति । प्रतिपक्षस्य न तादृशं भयं ददाति स्थाने घटित उत्साहो यादृशं भयं ददाति । किं कुर्यादित्याह—विद्रात्येव विपद्यत एव । द्रा कुत्सिते गमने । किमिव—अमर्षेण गृहीतः शर इव । स च अभिमानमभिभवति, शत्रोश्च न तादृशं भयं ददाति । अवसीदत्येष .

MY has विद्रवति . Muda says विद्राति विरुद्ध कुतसितं भवती-
त्यर्थः । द्रा कुत्साया गतौ . Muda (chāyā) has आक्रामत्य-
भिमानं .

Kula says अभागे अकाले अस्थाने च सहितो योजितः, अमर्षेण क्रोधेन

32. K, Muda and Kula read ṇivvūdhahhaio for ṇivvalia-guṇo (R) .

K says रभस एव अभिनिवेश एव मा रज्यत मा स्नेहं कुरुत । को दोष इति चेत् एकरसस्य एकत्रैव अभिनिवेशिनः चन्द्रस्यापि तावत् कुमुदवने निष्पन्नं निर्वृत्तं दूरं चिरकालं निर्व्यूढभरं निर्व्यूढकुमुदकार्यं यशः कमलेषु विद्राति विपद्यते । तस्माद् युक्तं युक्तं विमृश्य कर्तव्यमिति . Kula says रसोऽनुरागः .

Kula says देशकालादिमनपेक्ष्य रभस एव उत्साह एव केवले मा रज्यत । यतः आस्तां तावदन्यः चन्द्रस्यापि एकरसस्य तावत् कुमुदमालानुरागिणो विकाशकत्वेन कुमुदवननिष्पन्नं यत् यशः ख्यातिः दूरमत्यर्थं निर्व्यूढभरं धृतोत्कर्षं तत् कमलेषु विद्राति तदविकाशनात् विलयं याति । एतेन रभसेन न संपतेदिति नयो दर्शितः .

33. K says आत्मना त्वयैव प्रार्थ्यमानः अभियुज्यमानः परस्य शत्रोः परिजनः शोभते किम् । उत ते परिजनेन प्रार्थ्यमानः प्रतिपक्षः किं शोभते उच्यताम् । तव सेवकजनैरभियुज्यमानः शत्रुरेव हि शोभते । तत् तव शोभाकारणमित्यर्थः . The remaining portion of K's gloss is missing, but his citation from Canto 11, verse 98 containing the word aggahanam shows that he takes gahanam (ग्रहणम्) in the sense of आदर .*

MY says स्वयमेव परस्य परिजनं त्वरया प्रार्थयमानस्त्वं परस्यैव शोभा-
मापादयिष्यसीत्याह—kim appanā इत्यादिना ।

अथवा स्वपरिजनप्रार्थित एव प्रतिपक्षः शोभते तव शोभायै नान्यथेति ।

SC quotation has जगत्यपि किं गहनं दुर्लभमपि तु नेत्याह* . Kula renders jaa as जगत् .

Deva says तव परिजनेन पर एव प्रार्थयितुं युक्तः । अभिमानेन किल वञ्च्यसे । अभिमानं वशीकुरु । वशीकृताभिमानस्य तव किं जये अप्राप्तव्यम् .

Muda also explains gahanam as गहनम् . He says अभिमानेन खलु त्वया एवमुच्यते । एक एव सैन्यं रावण हनिष्यामीति । तत्र विचार्यतां किं त्वया शत्रोः सैन्यमभियुज्यमानं (?) शोभते उत त्वत्सैन्येन रावण इति ।.....(जिताभिमानस्य) तदा जयविषये किं गहनं न किञ्चिदित्यर्थः . For this use of गहन cf. Paumacariu 12.6.9—kavaṇu gahaṇu kira rāvaṇu.

34. R Text has anivvalia and SC Text-di-, both rendered as अनिर्वलित in the chāyā. K (chāyā) reads हनुमदतिशयिनां, and MY and Muda—दतिशयानां for haṇumantāisaenam हनुमदतिशयितेन (R and Kula)

K says हे धीर हनुमन्तमपि अतिशयानानां हनुमत्प्रमुखानां च वानराणां पत्या अधिपतिना त्वयापि मारुतिसदृशं मारुतिचरितमात्रसदृशम् अनिर्व्यक्तयशस्कम-प्रकाशयशस्कं कर्म कर्तव्यं किम् । स्वामिनो भवतः तस्य भटयोग्यकार्यकरणमय-शस्करमेव । तस्मात् सपरिकर एव गत्वा शत्रून् जहीत्यर्थः .

MY says हनूमतः अतिशयो येषां ते हनूमदतिशयाः तेषां हनूमदतिशया-नामित्यर्थः (Muda also) .

* SC anonymously reproduces practically the whole of Kula's gloss, but gives the last two sentences as a quotation from अन्ये .

Muda says अस्पष्टयश इति क्रियाविशेषणम् । अन्यसदेशे क्रियमाणे यशः स्पष्ट न भवति किन्तु तत्तुल्यं भवतीत्यर्थः । एतच्च दरुद्वयप्रसाधनं हनृ-मन्तं पश्यतो समात्मानादृत इत्येतत्कटाक्षं क्षिपित्वोक्तम् (see 3.44) .

Kula says हनृमदतिगणितेन (i e, हनृमनः अविशेन as explained by R) हनृमन्प्रभृतिवानराणां च पत्या त्वया किं मारुतिसदृशमिति यथा मारुतिना अकृतरावणवधत्वात् अनिष्पन्नं यशः कृतं तथा कर्तव्यम् . SC quotation has अनिष्पन्नयशो यथा स्यात् तथा . Hemacandra gives nivvalai निष्पद्यते (4.128) and nivvadai पृथक् स्पष्टो वा भवति (4.62) .

35. K says पूर्वं यस्मिन् सेवकं त्वदीया आज्ञा अदूरप्रसृता अत्यन्तम-प्रसृता अतएव अदत्तफलाभूत् सैवाज्ञा पुनस्तस्मिन्नपि कथमारोप्यते" । अन्यं सेवकं विलगनु । आश्रयभृते द्रुमे पतिते लतेव । सैव लता यथापरं वृक्षमारोहति तद्वदिति । तव सेवका हि बहवः सन्ति । तत्र हनृमानिव त्वदाज्ञा यो निर्वोदु शक्नुयात् तमेव तत्र प्रेषय । त्वं पुनर्मां गम इत्यर्थः . MY says सन्ति हि बहवः शूराः सैनिकाः । तत्र यदि कतिपये अलसास्तान् विहाय समर्थेषु नियुज्यतां धूरित्याह .

K and Muda have विलग्यते (vilājjai) and विलगति (vilaggai) . Muda says विलग्यते आरोप्यते । कपीन् प्रत्युपालम्भोऽयम् .

Kula says निजोन्मार्गप्रवृत्तेन त्वया रामस्याज्ञा विफलीकृता यदि अन्यत्र लगति तदा तत्रैव कीर्तिः स्यादित्याशयमाह . SC has तदा तत्रैव अकीर्तिः स्यात् . R agrees with Kula—त्वयि अपि एवमविमृश्यकारितया रामाज्ञा तत्रैव स्यादिति भावः . Kula seems to read lājjau (लाग्यताम्, cf SC Text) for- (लाग्यते) found in R, who likewise takes vi separately. R reads vi laggai (अपि लगति) for विलगति (K and Muda). Kula is corrupt, but seems to agree with R (cf. SC).

* Deva also says भवत आज्ञा यस्मिन् भटवर्गे अदूरप्रसृता तस्मिन् आरोपयितुं न शक्यते .

36. K and Muda read अस्य (i.e. se) for je (R and Kula) in the second line. K, Muda and Kula read अप्रियं for vippiam (R). Muda says हन्तुं विमार्गन् इच्छन् इति सबुद्धयन्तमेतत्. Kula says येशब्दः (je ?) पादपूरणे. Cf. Hemacandra 2.217.

37. K says इति नियोजितसुग्रीवः (chāyā has नियमित) जाम्बवान् रामान्तेन रामसमीपेन (Kula also ; रामपार्श्वेन MY) वलितः रामाभिमुखं निवृत्त इत्यर्थः । यथा प्रलयकालधूमसमूहः प्रथमं मेरुशिखरं परामृश्य पश्चात् सूर्याभिमुखो भवति तद्वदिति । सुग्रीवस्य पिङ्गलत्वात् मेरुसादृश्यम् .

Muda has चलितः for वलितः . Kula says इत्युक्त-प्रकारेण नियमितः असत्पक्षं त्याजितः सुग्रीवो येन स तथा ।.....परिमृष्टं स्पर्शादाच्छादिततेजो मेरुशिखरं येन स तथा, सूरस्याभिमुखः प्रलयधूमोत्पीड इव । सुग्रीवस्य कनकगौरत्वात्, श्रीरामस्य वैष्णवतेजसा दीप्तत्वात्, जाम्बवतः कृष्णत्वात् उपमेयत्वम् .

38 K says किरणैः पक्ष्मलानां पूर्णानां दन्तानां प्रभानिकायेन प्रभास-मूहेन स्थगितम् (chāyā has अवच्छादितम्), तदानीं समुखागतधवलकेसरसट-मिव दृश्यमानं विनयेनावनतं मुखं वहन् जाम्बवान् जल्पति स च । जाम्बवान् कृष्णवर्णः । तस्य तु दन्तप्रभा धवलकेसरत्वेनोत्प्रेक्षिता .

MY says ṇibāa ṇikāa । otthaiam अवस्थगितम्* । occhaiam(?) इति वा पाठः । तदा अवच्छादितमित्यर्थः (cf. K above). Kula says स्फुरतां दन्तानां प्रभानिवहेन अवस्थगितम् . R chāyā has अवस्तृतम् .

* Our copy has अवस्थितं .

39. K, MY and Muda read मुह्यते for vimuhijjai विमुह्यते (R). Kula is here incomplete in our copy. MY says mujjhijjai मुह्यते .

K says उदरार्धान्तप्रभूते उदरैकदेशपर्याप्ते सागरे विषये मुह्यते मोहः प्राप्यते . MY says उदरैकदेशमात्रस्यापि कथंचित् पर्याप्ते . Kula says उदरैकदेशसमिते . Muda says उदरपर्यन्तप्रभूते, as he explains addhanta as पर्यन्त, quoting Deśī - nāma - mālā 1.8.

40 K says रणे तत्र कुपितकृतान्तनिमेषान्तरसदृशस्य धनुर्व्यापारस्य आरम्भ एव अवसानं (किं) न भवति । किमिव—स्फुटविद्युद्विलसितस्येव । विद्युत्स्फुरणस्य आरम्भ एव अवसानं यथा भवति तद्वदिति । यदा त्वद्धनुषि शरं सदधासि तदैव शलुः निहतः स्यादित्यर्थः .

MY says विद्युतः क्षणस्थितकालतया यथारम्भ एव अवसानं तथा धनुर्व्यापारस्यापि उत्पत्तिक्षण एव कृतसकलकार्यतया द्वितीयक्षणे नावस्थानमित्यर्थः . Muda says त्वदीयधनुर्व्यापारस्य आरम्भ एवावसानं न भवति किम् । अपि तु भवत्येव । उपक्रमसमनन्तरमेव फलप्राप्तिर्भविष्यतीत्यर्थः . Kula says कुपितस्य कृतान्तस्य यत् निमेषान्तरं क्षयहेतुः सूक्ष्मकालविशेषः तन्निमित्तस्य धनुर्व्यापारस्य । ... धनुर्व्यापारारम्भ एव शलुविनाशक्षणः, तेन...धनुषा दुष्करमपि साध्यते किं पुनः समुद्र इति भावः . MY says अक्षिपक्ष्मस्पन्दक्षणनिमित्तस्य कृतान्तस्य कपोलोपलक्षितः निमेषक्षणो जातमात्र एव विनाशहेतुर्न द्वितीयक्षण यावत् विलम्बित इति । स दृष्टान्तीकृतः . R says क्रुद्धस्य यमस्य निमेषान्तरं द्वितीयनिमेषः तत्तुल्यस्य । एकनिमेषा(न)न्तरं यावत् परो निमेषो भवति तावदभ्यन्तर एव सकलशलुनाशादिकार्यनिर्वाहकत्वात् .

41. K says अनेन समुद्रेण प्रलयभरः प्रलये सति जगत्प्लावनभरो निर्वर्त्यते (निरुह्यते chāyā) Muda says निरुह्यते निर्वाह नीयते इत्यर्थः .

K says वडवामुखानल्लोऽपि सोढुं शक्यते । एतत् सर्वं वैभवमस्मै येन त्वयैव दत्तं तस्मिन्नेव त्वयि स धैर्यं कथं करिष्यति । सर्वेदा मार्गं दास्यत्येवेत्यर्थः .

42. K (chāyā) has प्रमुषितप्रियापयोधरसुखस्पर्शम् . K's gloss on this verse is incomplete. He says मृद्नन् परामृशन् । कार्यगौरव-^७ विमर्शत् वक्षःस्थलस्पर्शः . MY says pamhu(ttha) प्रस्मृत . Muda has प्रमृष्टप्रियापयोधरस्पर्शसुखम् . Kula has प्रभ्रष्ट (pabbhattha, cf. SC Text) for pamhattha (R who says प्रस्मृतं विस्मृतं प्रभ्रष्टं वा etc.) . *

43. K (chāyā) has रामः स्थित्या च स्थितिं in the second line. K says रामः उदधेर्यशःप्रभृतीन् गुणान् आत्मनो यशःप्रभृतिभिरधःकुर्वन् (समुन्मार्जन् chāyā) भणति स्म । स्थितिर्मर्यादा .

MY says pundanto (phu-?) आक्रामन् (Muda adds न्यक्कुर्वन्) । यशःप्रभृतिभिर्गुणैः समुद्रमतिशयान् इत्यर्थः . Kula's reading is illegible, but he renders it as आच्छादयन्—स्थित्या च त्रिभुवनव्यवस्थाकारिण्या स्थितिं, रवेण च सजलजलधरगम्भीरेण महापुरुषलक्षणेन रवं.....आच्छादयन् . SC reproduces Kula, but it reads samupphullanto (?) for samupphundanto. R has समाक्रामन् . SC chāyā has समुद्रशयन् .

44. K says इयं कार्यधुरा दुर्वहापि त्वयैव अवलम्बिता । अस्य कार्यस्य त्वमेव अवलम्बनमित्यर्थः . Muda and Kula also have त्वयैव . R has त्वयि एव . Kula says त्वयैव केवलमियं कार्यधुरा अध्यवसायादवलम्बिता गृहीता . MY says vimuhie विमूढे विमुखिते वा .

* Kula is here incomplete, but says तमालनीलं चक्रः समाभ्यासयन्निव वामाङ्गस्यात्यन्तप्रियापरिचितत्वात् वामकरतलेन पुनः पुनः मृद्नन् परिमृशन् .

45. K and Muda read समुच्चलितम् for समुच्छ—(R and Kula) .

K says सारगुरु अर्थसारेण गुरु . Kula says एकत्र धीरात् विचक्षणात् , अन्यत्र धैर्यवतः । एकत्र साध्योपदर्शकत्वम् , अन्यत्र महार्घत्वं सारस्तेन गुरुकम् .

46. K says परमार्थेन याथार्थ्येन गुरवो युष्मादृशाः पुरुषाः यत्र राष्ट्रे स्थिरव्यवष्टम्भाः स्थिरावलम्बा न भवन्ति कृच्छ्रेषु अवलम्बा न भवन्ति तत्र विस्तृता कार्यधुरा अस्तमेति नश्यति । स्थिरावष्टम्भभूतैः महीधरैः मुक्ता महीव . Muda says व्यवष्टम्भः सामर्थ्यम् । अस्तायते क्षिता भवति . Kula says महीधरैः कुलशैलैः मुक्ता महीव विस्तृता महती कार्यधुरा अस्तायते नश्यति, जलधौ निमज्जति च .

47. K and Muda read प्लवङ्गेषु for pavamgāṇa (R and Kula) .

K says इदं कार्यं रावणवधकृत्यं मारुतिना स्तौकावशेषितं समुद्रमुलङ्घ्य लङ्कामवगाह्य दृष्ट्वा देवी प्रमदवनमवचूर्ण्य बहूनक्षप्रभृतीन् राक्षसान् निहत्य रावणं च निर्भर्त्स्य पुनरागतेन हनुमता भृगिष्ठ निर्वर्तितमेव कार्यम् । अत एव प्रतिपत्ति-मात्रसारं, बुद्ध्या ग्रहणं प्रतिपत्तिः, तावन्मात्रसारं कृतम् । संप्रति प्लवङ्गेषु य एव उरो ददाति अहमेतत् करिष्यामीति अभिमुखीभवतीत्यर्थः स एव यशः पिबति नान्य इति .

Muda says प्रतिपत्तिः ज्ञानम् । अत्र सीता तिष्ठतीति ज्ञानमेव कार्यं सारम् । उरोदानं प्रवृत्त्युन्मुखत्वम् । प्रतिपत्तिः पदप्राप्तौ प्रवृत्तौ (?) गौरवेऽपि च । प्रबुद्धे ज्ञानसंपत्तौ प्रतिपत्तिः प्रयुज्यत इति विश्वः . Printed edition of विश्वप्रकाश has प्रागल्भ्ये च प्रबोधे च प्रतिपत्तिः प्रयुज्यते . Kula says अस्ति सीतेति प्रतिपत्तिः बोधः (?) तन्मात्रमेव सारो यस्य तत् कार्यं मारुतिना स्तोकावशेषितम् । प्रतिपत्तिश्चेत् कृता कार्यं सिद्धमेव..... । सप्रति प्लवङ्गानां मध्ये य एवोरः सत्त्वाधिष्ठानं (?) हृदयं ददाति स एव यशः पिबति .

48 All except R read taṃ (तत्) for tā (तावत्) . K and MY prāṭika has taṃ savvaccīa. Kula says तत् तस्मात् .

K says वयं सर्वेऽपि मकरगृह मार्गनिमित्तमभ्यर्थयामहे (Muda also) . MY has अभ्यर्थयेमहि . K says सुरासुराणां निर्व्यूढो निर्वर्तितः अभ्यर्थनादरः अमृताद्यभ्यर्थनादरो येन तम् । अभ्यर्थनाभर इति च पाठः . Kula says सुरासुराणां निर्व्यूढ ईप्सितसपादनात् निर्वाहितः अभ्यर्थनायामादरो गौरवं येन .

49 K, Muda, Kula and probably MY read ततः (to) for tā (R text) . R comm has ततः . Kula says विधुतोदधियन्त्रण निराकृतसमुद्रविरोधं कपिवलम् . MY says अपेक्षिताकरणलक्षणं धैर्यमस्मद्व-लेपाभावेऽपि यदि गृहीत्वा न मुञ्चेत् तदा चतुर्थोपायः प्रयोक्ष्यत इत्यर्थः । यन्त्रणा प्रतिबन्धः . Muda says स्थलेनातिक्रान्तं पश्यतेत्यन्वयः । अट्ठिं स्थली करिष्यामीति भावः .

50. K reads परिवृद्धः for padittho प्रत्युषितः - (Muda); पर्युषितः (R and Kula).

K says यत्र विषये मम रोषः परिवृद्धः तत्रैव अन्यस्य रोषः कथं
वत्स्यति । अस्मद्रोषेणैव नाशितत्वादित्यर्थः । तथा हि दृष्टिविषः सर्पो यस्मिन्
दृष्टिं पातयति तं पुनः द्वितीयः सर्पो न हि पश्यति . R says यत्र विषये मम
रोषः परि सर्वतोभावेनोषितः अवस्थितः .

51. K says तावच्च तस्मिन्नवसरे च सहसा उत्पन्ना, मकुटप्रभयानुविद्धा
मिश्रिता, अत एव नवातपस्पृष्टकृष्णमेघवत् आताम्रा निश्चिराणां छाया प्रभा
द्रष्टुमारब्धा । द्रष्टुमिति कर्मणि तुमुन् .

MY says āliddhā स्पृष्टा । dīṣṭum आविर्भवितुम् । दर्शनस्य
कर्म भवितुम् . Muda says द्रष्टुं दृग्गोचरीभवितुम् . He has नवात-पाश्लिष्ट . Kula says मेघिका तनुमेघावली . He seems to have नवातपालीढ (cf SC) . SC Text has mauda for maula मुकुट .

52. K, MY and Muda read विधुत (viḥva) for pihula पृथुल (R and Kula) .

K says ततस्ते रजनिचरान् पश्यन्ति स्म । कथंभूतान्—गमनवेग-
मारुतमुखैरः पटार्धान्तैः पटप्रान्तैः नभसि दीर्घाकृतजलदान्, रविकरान्तरघूर्णित-

दीर्घाक्रियमाणेषु तद्गता विद्युतोऽपि दीर्घाभवन्ति, रविकरसदृशा घूर्णिताः
अमिता विधुताश्च मेघस्था विद्युतो यैरिति बहुव्रीहिः । तान् पश्यन्ति स्म
रामादयः .

* Pāṇini 1.1.50 Kāśikā says स्थाने प्राप्यमाणानामन्तरतम अदोऽशो भवति सदृशतमः .

MY reads ṇiha for ṇaha—पटार्धान्तनिभ (cf. Kula). MY and Muda have ṇirāvia explained as दीर्घीकृत for ṇirāia (निरायत R) in the same sense. K (chāyā) has निरायतीकृत . R renders ṇirāia also as निराकृत . This is found in Kula whose reading seems however to be different. Kula says वेगगमने यो मारुतस्तेन मुखरैः पटार्धान्तैः नभसि निराकृता निर्भर्त्सिताः सशब्दत्वात् कृष्णत्वाच्च जलदा यैस्तान् . He seems to read *ṇirāaa as he mentions ṇirāia as a variant. He says (ṇiha) - ṇirāia - jālae इति पाठे तु ये पटार्धान्ताः तन्निभा निराजिताः शोभिता जलदा येषु तान् .†

Muda says पटपर्यन्तैः नभसि ṇirāvia दीर्घीकृता जलदा यैस्तान् । रविकरमध्ये अमिता विधुता विद्युत् यैस्तान् . R says यद्वा तादृशैः पटार्धान्तैः नभसि निराकृता बहिःस्फोटिता जलदा येभ्यस्तान् । वस्तैरेव मेघानामपाकृतत्वादित्यर्थः .

MY reads bolāvia rendered as आक्रान्त for gholāvia (घूर्णित) . He says रविकराणामन्तरे करचरणादिना लङ्घिताः पुनः विधुताश्च मेघमर्दजनिता विद्युतो यैस्तान् । क्वचित् gholāvia इति पाठः । तदा दुर्दिनं विनैव काराणां मध्येऽपि घूर्णितविधुतविद्युतः उत्पातस्फुरितविद्युत इत्यर्थः Kula says मेघसाम्यपोषणार्थमेवाह—रविकरा एवान्तरे मध्ये घूर्णिता अमिताः पृथुला विद्युतो येषु तान् । एतेन सशब्दस्फुरितविद्युन्नवमेघानिव व्यापकान् निशाचरान् प्रेक्षन्ते .

* This reading is found in ms. RH of Goldschmidt

† SC which anonymously reproduces Kula has ṇirāia, which is hardly Prākṛit Besides, राजित appears in our poem as rāia (1.56 ; 2.29 ; 7.43) .

53. K, MY, Muda and Kula read ovadanta for āvadanta (R).

K says ततः प्रलयोत्पातानिव नभस्तलादवपततः निशिचरान् अभिलेतु-
मभियोक्तु वानरसैन्यं चलितम् । कथंभूतम्—प्रहरणार्थमुन्नमितगिरिशिखरं
महीमण्डलमिव चलितम् .

MY says ahileum प्राप्तुम् । प्रलयदशायामुत्पातेषु नभस्तलादवपतत्सु
महीमण्डलमपि यथोर्ध्वं प्रत्युच्चलितं तथेत्यर्थः . Muda says अभिलेतुमभि- गन्तुम् । लीड् श्लेषणे .

54. K and MY pratika has osubbhanta for osumbhanta. K, Muda and probably MY read calanta for valanta (R and Kula) .
Kula reads visamutthia for visama-, and vialam (विकलं) for vihaḍam (विह्वलं) . Cf. SC Text

K says विषमस्थितैरुत्तराधरभावेन स्थितैः प्लवगवलैः चलदालोकमनवस्थित-दर्शनम्, अवपात्यमानजलदं नभः स्थानभ्रष्टशिथिलं भूत्वा पतदिवाद्दृश्यते .

क्षिप्तमिव वलमानालोकमावर्जितमिव दृश्यमानम्, अतएव स्थानभ्रष्टं सतः शिथिलं
भ्रमद्विकलं नभः पतदिव दृश्यते . R says विषमस्थितमुपरिपतनभिया बहिर्ब-
हिरवस्थितं यत् कपिवलं तस्य वलन् आलोको दर्शनं यत् .

MY says viḥalam विह्वलम् । आकाशसयोगिनां मेघानां प्लवग(?)
लोकस्य च पतनचलनाभ्यां नभस्तलमपि पतति चलतीति प्रतिभासादेवमुक्तम् .
MY, Muda and Kula render phidā as भ्रष्ट like K R renders it as स्फोटितं अवक्षिप्तं .

55. Kula says सुचरितो धार्मिकः परमवैष्णवो विभीषणः परमाश्वासस्थान-
त्वात् द्वितीयोदन्त इव .

56. K and Kula read रघुपतेः for rahuvaṇḍ (R and Muda) .

K says चरणयोरवनतस्य निभृतस्य अतिप्रश्रितस्य चास्य शिरो रघुपतेः
करतलेन मानेनेव पूजाविशेषेणेव उन्नमित महीतलादुत्थापितं राक्षसकुलात्
दूरमभ्यधिकं जातं ननु . MY says राक्षसवंशात् पृथग्भूय दूरमभ्यधिकं
गुणातिशयवत् जातमित्यर्थः .

Kula says चरणोपनतश्चासौ निभृतः विनयसयतश्चेति तस्य विभीषणस्य
शिरः रघुपतेः करतलेनोत्साहजनकत्वात् मानेनेवोल्लासितं सत् ननु निश्चितं राक्षसकुलात् दूरमभ्यधिकं दृष्टं जातम् . Kula seems to read ullāsam for unṇāmiam .

57. K, MY, Muda and Kula read hariso for harisaṃ
(R) .

K takes व्यवसितनिवेदितार्थः as निवेदितव्यवसितार्थः, and says
अर्थश्च रावणं परित्यज्य रामस्य शेषीभावः । मारुतिसकाशात् लब्धविश्वासत्वात्
आगतहर्षः . MY says vavasīa - nivediattho व्यवसितोऽर्थो निवेदितो
यस्य । अध्यवसितोऽर्थः स्वागमनकार्यं निवेदितो यस्य येन वा स तथोक्तः ।
मारुतिना लब्धेन स्वविश्वासेन आत्मनो दिश्वासपात्रत्वेन हृष्टः . Muda says
निवेदितोदयुक्तार्थ इत्यर्थः . Kula says व्यवसितो रामेण.....प्रतिज्ञातः
तदभिप्रायवेदिना हनुमता निवेदितः कथितः अर्थः । राक्षसपतित्वं प्रयोजनं यस्मै स
तथा । अथवा रामेण व्यवसितः अनुष्ठितः सोपायं कथितः अर्थो रावणवधलक्षणो
येन स तथा । मारुतिसकाशात् लब्धो यः प्रत्ययो विश्वासः तेन करणभूतेन
आगतोऽनुबद्धो हर्षो यस्मिन् स तथा . Jagaddhara in his comm. on Sarasvatikanṭhābharāṇa 4.171, where this verse is quoted says यद्वा व्यवसितः चिकीर्षितो रामसाहाय्यरूपो निवेदितोऽर्थो येन मः .

58. K, MY and Muda read विमलस्य for sukaassa (R) सुकृतस्य . K and Muda read विमलं for धवलं (R). Kula's gloss on this verse is missing in our copy.

59. K has त्रस्ता (hrittha) for bhīṭa भीता (R and Kula) .

K says चिरं राक्षसकुलेषु लब्धास्वादा लब्धसुखरसा लक्ष्मीः राक्षसकुल
मोक्तुं नेच्छति । पश्यत । किमिदं—दवाग्नित्रस्ता वनकरिणीव । वन एव
स्थान मार्गन्ती यथा तद्वनं परित्यक्तुं नेच्छति तद्वत् रावणस्य दुर्नयैः लट्ठिग्नापि

गाथया रामेण विभीषणाय लङ्काराज्यं दत्तमित्युक्तं भवति . Kula says
सीताहरणादवधारितरावणमरणा विभीषणं राक्षसलक्ष्मीः राक्षसराज्यप्राप्तये मत्- समीपागमनाय प्रेरितवतीति भावः (partly restored from SC) .

60 K and Muda read सहवर्धितं for परि-(R and Kula), and न for न (viddaviām) . Kula says तव सौम्येन स्वभावेन परिवृद्धं
विज्ञानं विवेकः . K says तव सौम्येन क्रूरयाणेन स्वभावेनैव सह वर्धितं
विज्ञानं ज्ञायते . He says न विद्रावितं न विनाशितम् . Kula says
ज्ञायते सुशीलत्वात् प्रतीयते । तेन ससर्गजा दोषगुणा भवन्तीत्येतदपि त्वया
(त्वग्येव SC) व्यभिचरितमित्यर्थः .

61. Kula says शुद्धो निर्दोषो निर्मलः स्वभावो यस्य तेन । स्फुरन्तः
पर्याप्ता ये प्रेष्ठा गुणा एव मयूखा यस्य । पक्षे स्फुरन्तः पर्याप्तगुणा मयूखा यस्य ।
तेन त्वया चन्द्रेणेव निजकमृगः कलङ्कः कलुषोऽपि निशाचरवंशः स्फुटं प्रसारितः
(प्रसाधितः ?) . K says only नात्र दुर्वीधमस्ति . R says पर्याप्ता बहवः .

62. K says स्वकार्यसाधने कुशलाः । अष्टौ बुद्धिगुणाः । यथाहुः
—शुश्रूषा श्रवणं चैव ग्रहणं धारणं तथा । ऊहापोहोऽर्थविज्ञानं च धीगुणाः ॥
इति । एभिः मतिगुणैः कार्यस्य गतिमवस्थाविशेषमवलम्बमानाः अनवसादयन्तः, कुलस्य मानस्य च अवष्टम्भा (व्यवष्टम्भाः chāyā) आधारभूताः पुरुषाः भवादृशाः
कथं राजश्रियो भाजनं न भवन्ति, अवश्यं भवन्त्येव . MY says बुद्धिगुणैः
कार्यगतिमङ्गीकुर्वाणा धारयन्तः .

The verse is missing in our copy of Kula.

R says कुलमभिजनो मानोऽहंकारस्तौ व्यवष्टम्भ आश्रयो येषां ते ।
तदनुसारेण व्यवहरन्त इत्यर्थः .

63. K says चिराय सुरबन्दीनां परिग्रहे लब्धास्वादेन रावणेन सीतापि
तादृशीति मत्वा राक्षसवसतिमुपनीता विनाशाय । किमिव—दृष्टिविषाणां गृहं
विषहरौषधिरिव . Kula explains परिग्रह as कलत्रीकरण, and says
रावणेन सीता राक्षसवसतिं दृष्टिविषैः सर्पैः विषौषधिरिवोपनीता समीपं प्रापिता । सीतैव* तस्य विनाशहेतुर्भविष्यतीत्यर्थः . Kula reads diṭṭhi - viśehim (cf.
SC Text) for diṭṭhi - viśa - haram. SC Text has vasaim for vasahim वसतिम् .

64. K says सुराणां संक्षोभाः अष्टाः नष्टाः । वन्दिजनानामाक्रन्दितं
परिणामं गतं परिणतं समाप्तम् । किं बहुना । दशमुखगृहीता सीता त्रिभुवनो-
पद्रवस्य अवसानं जाता .

MY says phidiā अष्टाः, and explains ḍimba as उपप्लव .
Muda and Kula have विप्लव . R explains it as भय .

* Our copy has शिवैव .

Kula says अष्टाः सुराणां संश्लोका विद्रवाः ।... ..दशगुणेन गृहीत
नीता जानकी त्रैलोक्यविप्लवस्य अवसानहेतुत्वादवसानं जाता, यथा विष मृत्युरिति ।
जातेत्याशंसायां भूतवत् प्रयोगः . R says सश्लोकाः रंगतिना अपगताः .

65. K renders palhatthar as पर्यामयति निपानयति . MY says
पर्यासयति स्म आर्पयदित्यर्थः । अनुरागमिति स्वद्वितीयविशेषः . Mida says
पर्यस्यति स्म निक्षिप्तवानित्यर्थः । दीपकमलंकारः . Kula says पर्यासयति
आरोपयति . R says रामोऽस्य विभीषणस्य नयनयोः प्रहर्षमानन्द पर्यस्यति
विस्तारयति etc

3. K, Kula and Muda read अवक्षेपाः for vikkheṭā (R) .
MY also says *visūraṇāvakkhevā चित्तखेदावक्षेपाः .

K says ततोऽस्य रामस्य वियोगे सुलभा, नियमाय दत्तस्य हृदयस्य क्षेपणे
क्षोभणे समर्थाः (शौण्डीराः chāyā) खेदावक्षेपाः खेदाभिघाताः जातं जातं
धैर्यग्रहणं कर्तुरयन्ति कलुषयन्ति सः । खिदेर्विसूर इति विसूरादेशः .

* vi for va in our copy is obviously a mistake.

Kula says 'विसूराणा' उद्वेगास्त एव चित्तमवक्षिपन्तीत्यवक्षेपाः ते दृढं समाधाय नियमे वितीर्णस्य दत्तस्य हृदयस्य विघाते शौटीराः शूराः, अतएव जातं जातं धृतिग्रहणं चित्तनिवृत्तिस्वीकारार्थं khaurenti मिश्रीभूय कलुषयन्तीति .

MY says हृदयस्याक्षेपणसमर्थाः ।..... पुनःपुनः कथंचित धृत्याहरणं पुनःपुनरपि तद्विच्छेद इति वा पारम्पर्येण आवर्तन्त इत्यर्थः .

Muda says क्षपण for क्षेपण . He says कर्तुरयन्ति शवलयन्ति आत्मना सहितं कुर्वन्तीत्यर्थः । अभीष्टार्थस्य संप्राप्तौ स्पृहापर्याप्तता धृतिः । ग्रहणमाहरणम् .

4. K says प्रिया धरेत् जीवेदपि नाम । अपि नामेति वितर्के । ओ अथवा अस्मान् जीवित विरहयेत् परित्याजयेदिति मत्वा विषण्णोऽभूत् . Muda says अपि नामेति संभावनायाम् । प्रिया जीदेत् किंवा त्यक्तजीविता अस्मानपि जीवितेन वियोजयेदिति विषण्णोऽभूदित्यर्थः । त्याजितैः फलमिति वदणौ कर्तुः कर्मत्वम् .

5. K reads kippai kusumāuham for khijjai kusumāuhe खिद्यते कुसुमायुधे . K explains his reading as कुसुमायुधं क्षिपति अधिक्षिपति . K and MY read क्षीणः केवलं याप्यते for jhiṇo vi navara jhiijjai (R) —क्षीणोऽपि केवलं क्षीयते .

K says क्षीणः सः प्रिया जीवेत् किमिति मारुतिं पृच्छन् तेन हनुमता यत्तदुक्त्वा याप्यते कालक्षेपं कार्यते स्म . MY says javiijjai यापयति स्म कालमिति शेषः । अथवा प्रिया जीवेन्न वेति मारुतिं पृच्छन् मारुतिना याप्यते विनोद्यत इत्यर्थः .

Kula seems to read jbīno navara dharijjai (cf. SC Text), which is mentioned by R as a variant. He says केवलं क्षीणोऽपि संधार्यते मारुतिनेत्यर्थवशात् . But SC (comm.) which anonymously reproduces Kula's gloss on the verse has वाप्यते संधार्यते so that Kula's reading might be same as that of K and MY (see above) .

7. K says अनिष्ठिता अलब्धास्पदाः (अस्थिराः R) उपदेशाः हनुमत्प्रभृतिभिरुच्यमानाः हृदयेन समं गलन्ति स्म । उत्साहेन सह भुभौ गलतः अधोगतौ .

MY says उल्लापानामपि सामिप्रायवाक्यात्मकानां प्रलापात्मकानां वा बाष्पसहभावविशिष्टानामेव गलनं निर्गमनं, सामिप्रायवाक्यपक्षे निवृत्तिः, उपदेशादीनां तु केवलानामपि । भुजयोस्तु गलनं प्रयत्नशैथिल्यलक्षणमित्यादि यथायोग-मूहम् .

Muda remarks अत्र तृतीयान्तैः समं प्रथमान्ता गलन्तीति संबध्यन्ते । सहोक्तिदीपकसकरः .

8. K, MY, Muda and Kula read mujjhijjāi for mucchijjāi मूर्च्छते (R) . K has मुह्यति, MY मोह्यते, Muda अमुह्यत . Kula says मुह्यते मोहं याति । कर्मकर्तरि यका प्रयोगोऽयम् .

K says धीरा धैर्यवती दुरवस्थास्वपि प्राणान् न परित्यक्ष्यतीति हनुमदाद्यैः संस्थाप्यते आश्वास्यते स्म (Kula also) । मदनपेलवेति कामपरवशा व्यसनं न सहेतेति गणयन् मुह्यति । सीता धरति तादृशोऽपि दुरिते जीवतीत्युक्त्वा तैर्धार्यते आलम्ब्यते । सा वियोगेन चिरविरहेण तन्वी अतिक्षीणेत्युक्त्वा अज्ञानि आमुह्यति इतस्ततः क्षिपति स्म .

MY says अत्र गणयन्निति प्रतिवाचयमावर्तनीयम् । गणनमालोचनं तेन संस्थाप्यते स्वयमपि धीरायते । मदनपेलवा मदनविहलहृदया । विरहविव-शाङ्गीति विवशाङ्गश्च भवतीत्यर्थः .

Kula says ध्रियते जीवति प्रियेति हनृमद्वचसा धार्यते जीव्यते । अज्ञानि
आमुञ्चति दुर्वलो भवतीत्यर्थः .

Muda has समस्थापयत् and says आत्मानमिति शेषः । गणयन्
विचारयन् . R explains dharījai as ध्रियते, and says ध्रियते
जीवति । स्वयं प्राणान् न त्यजति .

9. K (chāyā) has जातस्तस्य सुखदर्शनः केवलं शशी . Muda's chāyā is same except that he has अनन्तरं for केवलं . K and Muda have निश्छायः for vicchāo (R and Kula) K says अस्णे-
नाहतत्वात् निश्छायः, अत एव उद्भटहरिणकलङ्कः अतिप्रकाशहरिणकलङ्कः, मलय-

Muda says अनन्तरं तस्य श्रीरामस्य शशी सुखदर्शनो द्रष्टुं 'शक्यो जात इत्यर्थः .

10. K says किंकर्तव्यविमूढं मार्गप्रतिपादनं प्रति किं कर्तव्यमिति बुद्ध्या मूढमुदधेर्हृदयमिव . Muda says आसन्नभयत्वात् किं कर्तव्यमिति विमूढं समुद्रस्य हृदयमिव .

11. K and Muda read विभात for pahāa प्रभात (R and Kula) .

K says अथ पवनेनोदधिसलिलं रघुपतेः विभाततूर्यमिव मलयगुहामुखेषु भरितोद्भूतत्वात् पूर्णपरिवृत्तत्वात् स्फुटनिर्ह्रादमानः प्रतिरवो यथा भवति तथा आहतम् .

MY says मलयगुहामुखं पूरयित्वोद्गीर्णो निर्हृदन् प्रतिशब्दो यथा स्यात् तथोदधिसलिलमाहतमित्यर्थः .

Muda says भृतोद्भूतं पूरितावशिष्टम् . Kula says मलयस्य गुहामुखेषु भृतः सन् उद्भूतः अधिकतां गतः स्फुटः प्रकटः निर्हरन् दूरं विसर्पन् प्रतिरवो यस्मात् तथा .

12. K (chāyā) has दृश्यते (dīśai) for jāam . K says अप-
सृततिमिरं दिवसमुखम् अपसृतसलिलं पुलिनमिवेति योजना .

Muda says सहोक्तिरलंकारः .

13. K and Muda read समये for samaam (समयं) found in R and Kula. K says गमितनिशासमये समुद्रे गम्भीरत्वेन दृढस्थिते किञ्चिदपि अप्रतिपद्यमाने सति . Kula says गमितो निशारूपः समयो यथा स्यात् तथा । गाम्भीर्याय (?) दृढस्थिते दृढं कृतप्रतिज्ञे समुद्रे सति .

14 K (chāyā) renders palottā as प्रलुठित like R. K comm. has विगलत्, Kula प्रगलित, and Muda प्रत्यागत . MY says अन्यत्र (i. e. विन्ध्यपक्षे) प्रलुठितसेकजललवम् . Hemacandra 4.166 gives palottai प्रत्यागच्छति; also derives it from लुट् (4 230). Muda says विलग्ना आरूढा .

15. K reads चलितं for jāam (जातं) . He says अथ जात-
भ्रुकुटिरेखं, धनुरभिमुखविवृत्तलोचनयुगलं.....तस्य मुखं.....चलितं विकृतिं गतमित्यर्थः .

Kula reads विभिन्नकर्ण for वितीर्णकर्णं, and says अमर्षेण
विभिन्नकर्णमतः शिथिलजटाभारबन्धनं तस्य मुखं जातम् .

16. K, Muda and MY read āna - roso (आयतरोषः K, आगतरोषः Muda and MY) for amarisa - raso (अमर्परसः) found in R and Kula.

K says प्रणयप्रतिभङ्गेन प्रार्थनाभङ्गेन विमनाः विपरीतमनस्कः, स्तोक्स्तो- केन शनैः शनैः परिवृद्धायतरोषः . Kula says प्रणयस्य प्रतिभङ्गेन अभ्यर्थ-नाया अकरणेन विमनाः .

17. K, Muda and MY read रोषगजेन्द्रालानं for saṃthiarosālāṇaṃ (R) . Kula has सहित for सस्थित .

K says ततो रामः साहसस्य निर्माणं निर्मायकम् । कर्तरि ल्युट् ।
अमित्तेषु याश्च यावत्यश्च लक्ष्यो दृश्यन्ते तासां सर्वासां संकेतगृहं नायकसमाग-

दर्पो भुजे वा धनुषि वा लक्ष्यत इति । एवंभूतं चापमगृह्णात् .

Kula says साहसस्य निर्माणं निर्मितिसाधनम् , अमित्रेषु दृश्यमानायाः लक्ष्याः संकेतगृहमभिसारस्थानं, संहितरोषस्यालानं बन्धस्तम्भमिव, भुजदर्पस्य द्वितीयं लक्षम् । तदीयभुजदर्पस्य एको लक्ष्यः शत्रुः द्वितीयश्चापः, तेनोभयोरश्वय-भूतयोरपि नाभ्यमानत्वात् , एवंभूतं चापं गृह्णाति .

18. K and Muda read धरणितलोत्स्थल for dharani - ala-tthala (धरणितलस्थल) found in R. For the reading उत्स्थल (utthala) cf. 8.9.

K says आक्रान्तस्य आरोपणार्थमाक्रान्तस्य भुवि प्रतिष्ठापितकोटेः धनुषो भरेण गौरवेण अवनते धरणितले उत्स्थलप्रलुठितः स्थलमुल्लङ्घ्य प्रचलितः जलप्राग्भारः जलसमूहः यस्य स तथाभूत उदधिः चापे स्तोकमपि अनारूढे अनारोपिते सति सशयमारूढः अस्ति नास्तीति संशयं प्राप्तः .

MY and Muda say अनारूढे अनाततज्ये .

Kula seems to read उत्स्थल (उच्छलत्), like K. He says गुणारोपणार्थमाक्रान्तस्य धनुषो भरेण अवनतधरणितलत्वात् उच्छलन् उल्लङ्घिततलः जलप्राग्भारः जलोच्छ्रायः यस्य स उदधिः . Hemacandra 4.174 gives utthallai उच्छलति .

Muda explains palotta as प्रत्यागत .

20. K, Muda, [MY and Kula (?) read मिद्यते for bhljjau मिद्यतां (R). K, Muda, Kula and MY read नश्यति for nāsau नश्यतु (R). K and Muda read स्फुटं (phudam) for mane (R and Kula) मनसि or मन्ये .

14 K (chāyā) renders palotta as प्रलुठित like R. K comm. has विगलत्, Kula प्रगलित, and Muda प्रत्यागत . MY says अन्यत्र (i. e. विन्ध्यपक्षे) प्रलुठितसेकजललवम् . Hemacandra 4.166 gives palottai प्रत्यागच्छति ; also derives it from लुट् (4 230) . Muda says विलग्ना आरूढा .

Kula says साहसस्य निर्माणं निर्मितिसाधनम् , अमित्रेषु दृश्यमानायाः लक्ष्याः संकेतगृहमभिसारस्थानं, संहितरोषस्यालानं बन्धस्तम्भमिव, भुजदर्पस्य द्वितीयं लक्षम् । तदीयभुजदर्पस्य एको लक्ष्यः शत्रुः द्वितीयश्चापः, तेनोभयोरश्वय-भूतयोरपि नाग्यमानत्वात् , एवंभूतं चापं गृह्णाति .

18. K and Muda read धरणितलोत्स्थल for dharani - alathald (धरणितलस्थल) found in R. For the reading उत्स्थल (utthala) cf. 8.9.

K says आक्रान्तस्य आरोपणार्थमाक्रान्तस्य भुवि प्रतिष्ठापितकोटेः धनुषो भरेण गौरवेण अवनते धरणितले उत्स्थलप्रलुठितः स्थलमुलङ्घ्य प्रचलितः जलप्राग्भारः जलसमूहः यस्य स तथाभूत उदधिः चापे स्तोकमपि अनारूढे अनारोपिते सति संशयमारूढः अस्ति नास्तीति सशयं प्राप्तः .

MY and Muda say अनारूढे अनाततजये .

Kula seems to read उत्स्थल (उच्छलत्), like K. He says गुणारोपणार्थमाक्रान्तस्य धनुषो भरेण अवनतधरणितलत्वात् उच्छलन् उलङ्घिततलः जलप्राग्भारः जलोच्छ्रायः यस्य स उदधिः . Hemacandra 4.174 gives utthallai उच्छलति .

Muda explains paloṭṭa as प्रत्यागत .

20. K, Muda, [MY and Kula (?) read भिद्यते for bhiṭṭau भिद्यतां (R). K, Muda, Kula and MY read नश्यति for nāsau नश्यतु (R). K and Muda read स्फुटं (phudam) for mane (R and Kula) मनसि or मन्ये .

K says आरोपितज्यं धनुरनेन रामेण चिरमिमां दारुणामिव प्रतिज्ञामेवं तुल्यित्वा विचार्येव विलगितं गृहीतम् । कथमिव—मही स्फुटं भिद्यते इति प्रतिज्ञां चिरं विचार्येव, समुद्रो नास्तीति प्रतिज्ञां चिरं तुल्यित्वेव, जगदेव स्फुटं नश्यतीति च दारुणां प्रतिज्ञां विचार्येव धनुर्गृहीतमिति पार्श्वस्थैराशङ्कितमित्यर्थः .

Kula takes paiṇṇam (प्रतिज्ञां) as प्रतीर्ण . He says अतः प्रतीर्ण* जगत् निःशेषं भुवनं नश्यति स्फुटमितीव चिरं तुल्यित्वा mane मन्ये दारुण भयानकं धनुः.....रामेण गृहीतम् :

Muda and MY take paiṇṇa as प्रतिपन्न . MY says अनेन चिरं तोल्यित्वा धनुर्गृहीतम् । तत्त निमित्तं कविनोत्प्रेक्ष्यते । भिद्यते महीति वा स्फुटम् । नास्ति समुद्र इति दारुणं वा कर्म प्रतिपन्नम् । नश्यति जगदिति वा स्फुटम् । एवमेव भावीनि पर्यालोच्येत्यर्थः । अथवा भिद्यते महीति वा स्फुटम् । नास्ति समुद्र इति दारुणां वा स्फुटां प्रतिज्ञां चिर तोल्यित्वा अनेन विलगितं धनुः । चिरं विचार्य ईदृशीमीदृश वा प्रतिज्ञामारोपितं धनुरिति वा वाक्यार्थः । अस्मिन् पक्षे paiṇṇam इति प्रतिज्ञामित्यर्थः ।

MY mentions pavaṇṇam as a variant for paiṇṇam, and says तथा समुद्रोद्देशेन मुक्तः शरो महीमवश्यं भिन्ध्यात् । एवञ्च महीभेदादिकं प्रपन्नमागतं दारुणं नृशंसं कर्म चिरं विचार्यापि कार्यवशात् धनुर्विलगितमारोपितमित्यर्थः .

21. K reads प्रकटः (pāḍo) for vāvaḍo (व्यापृतः) . He says चिरवियोगेन तनुः कुशः, सदा बाष्पापमृष्टत्वात् मृदुभूतज्याघातविणः तस्य वामभुजो विलग्नधनुर्मालेण प्रकटो धनुरारोपणस्य आत्मपौरुषस्मारकत्वात् पीनः

* This seems to be a mistake for प्रकीर्णम् . Cf. SC. The preceding sentence seems to be स्फुटं मही भिद्यते इतीव, स्फुटं नास्ति समुद्र इतीव .

अन्य एव जातः अन्याकारोऽभूत् . MY, who reads *vāvaḍo, like R, Kula and Muda, says अन्यो जातः अतिपटुरेव जात इत्यर्थः .

K (chāyā) and Kula read अप or अववृष्ट (ovaṭṭha) for omaṭṭha (अपमृष्ट or अवमृष्ट) . Kula says बाष्पेण अववृष्टः सिक्तः मृदुको ज्याघातो गुणाघातस्थानं यत्र स वामभुजः विगलित (विलगित ?)-धनुर्मात्रव्यापृतः सन् अन्य एव जात इति भीषणोऽभूदित्यर्थः । दक्षिणे भुजे तु व्याप्रियमाणे किं भविष्यतीति भावः .

Muda has बाष्पावमृष्टमृदितज्याघातः, and says मृदितं मृदूकृतम् . His reading might be malia for maua (मृदु K, मृदुक [R]).

22! K reads the verse thus—अथ रामकरास्फालितप्रतिरवपरि-पूर्णदशदिग्विस्तारम् । उन्मार्ष्टिं जातकम्पं प्रलयघनस्तनितपीडितं त्रैलोक्यम् ॥

K says रामकरेण आस्फालितस्य घोषितमौर्वीकस्य धनुषः प्रतिध्वनि-पूरितदशदिग्विस्तारं त्रैलोक्यं जातकम्पं भूत्वा प्रलयमेघस्तनितपीडनमुन्मार्ष्टि । प्रलयमेघस्तनितसंभवां पीडामुन्मार्जं विनहौ । धनुर्ध्वनिप्रहारस्यातिदुःसहत्वात् प्रलयमेघध्वनिजन्यं भयं सह्यममन्यतेत्यर्थः .

Muda's reading is the same except that he has धनुरवप्रति पूर्ण ; and जातशङ्कं (R) . He says त्रैलोक्यं कर्ता । प्रलयक्षुभित-पुष्करावर्तकादिमेघध्वनिकृतां पीडां व्यर्सापीदित्यर्थः । द्वयं तुल्यमिति भावः .

MY's reading seems also to be about the same. His pratikā is aha rāma, but he says प्रलयघनस्तनितपीडितम् upphusai रत्त-

* Our copy has vāvuḍo. † upphusai ? ‡ Muda also.

त्रस्यति . He seems to take प्रलयघन etc. as an adjective qualifying त्रैलोक्यम् . With regard to upphisai, cf. uppittha (लसत्, उद्विग्न) used in 6.38, 49 etc, and R's remark in his gloss on 11.39 ; also Deśināmamālā 1.129. Cf. also upphesa लास, ibid. 1.94.

Kula reads saṃbharai (स्सरति) like R, but he reads राम for वाम (R), धनूरव for प्रतिरव, प्रतिभिन्न for प्रतिपूर्ण, and जातकम्पं for jāa - saṃkam (R) जातशङ्कं . Kula says रामस्य करास्फालनेन यो धनूरवस्तेन प्रतिभिन्नः पाटित इव दशदिग्विस्तारो यत्न तत् त्रैलोक्यं भयात् जातकम्पं प्रलयघनस्तनितस्य प्रेरणं पीडनं स्सरति .

It will be seen that Kula reads pellanaṃ like R, but, like K and others, has स्तनित (thana) for abbhahia found in R, who says प्रलयघनानाम्.....अभ्यधिकं यत् प्रेरणं सघट्टः तत् संस्सरति .

23. K says क्षयकालसूर्यमयूखानां मध्ये एकमिव उदधेः परिवर्तनस्य अन्यतः प्रेरणस्य सहं समर्थं बाणमगृह्णाच्च .

Kula says अनादरेण पराङ्मुखप्रसारिते अग्रहस्ते आपतितं मिलितम् .

MY remarks पराङ्मुखादीनि पदान्यनादरमेव द्योतयन्तीति मन्तव्यम् .

24. K, Muda and MY read दयालुता for rasantara (R and Kula) .

Muda (chāyā) has दयालुतारुण . He says दयालुत्वेनावरुणः श्लथीभूतो भ्रुकुटिभङ्गो यस्य तेन । मुक्ते बाणे असौ कष्टाश्रितो भविष्यतीति चिरं निःश्वस्य दृष्टः समुद्र इत्यर्थः .

K says दयालुतयावरुणभ्रुकुटिरेखेण अनुकम्पया परितप्तमुखेन रामेण
etc. दया कृपा । अनुकम्पालक्षणमुक्तं भावविवेके—अनुकम्पा तु सा ज्ञेया दुःखितान् प्रति देहिनः । उपकारपरत्वं या कुरुते चित्तविक्रिया ॥ इति :

MY says daāidā (daāludā ?)—lugga दयालुताल्लन . The feminine ending in dā is used more than once in the poem (3.31 ; 8.87) .

Kula says रौद्ररसनिवृत्त्या रसान्तरं करुणरसस्तेन अवरुणो भ्रुकुटिमङ्गो यस्य तेन .

25. R says सत्यापितो लक्ष्याभिमुख्येन स्थिरीकृतः शरो यत्र तत् ।
वलितेन किञ्चित् तिर्यक्कृतेन भुजेन रुद्धं मध्यं यस्य . K says अथ
रघुनाथो निष्कम्पया निरायतया दृष्ट्या विलोकितशरं, वलितेन तिर्यक् दीर्घाकृतेन
वामभुजेन रुद्धमध्यं गृहीतमध्यं, दक्षिणकराग्रेण दृढनिष्पीडितमौर्वीकं धनुः आक्रष्टुं
प्रवृत्तः । शरमोक्षसमये शरव्यं शरं च दीर्घया स्थिरया दृष्ट्या समं लक्षयित्वा
मुञ्चति शरं वीरो जनः । तदुक्तं निष्कम्पेति .

Kula says वलितेन कृतकलुषमुष्टिना भुजेन रुद्धमध्यं दृढधृतमस्तकम् .
MY says वलित पार्श्वप्रसृत . Muda says saccaviam दृष्टम् .
SC says वलितेन दृढमुष्टीकृतेन भुजेन अर्थात् वामेन .

26. K says शरस्य कृप्यमाणस्य मुखे विषमं प्रभूतं फलिताः प्रतिफलिताः, नमन्त्योः धनुष्कोट्योः विस्फुरत्त्विषः, कृप्यमाणाः रविकराः ज्याशब्देन गभीरं
रसन्तीति ज्ञायते स्म । शरस्य शल्ये प्रतिफलिताः नमद्भनुरग्रस्फुरच्छवयो रविकरा
एव कृप्यमाणाः पीडया ज्याशब्दव्याजेन गभीरं रसन्तीति पार्श्वस्थैरज्ञायतेत्यर्थः .

MY says धनुषो मध्यगते शरमुखे स्वयोः कोट्योश्च प्रतिफलनवशात् धनुःसदृशसंस्थानतामनुभवन्तो धनुःसच्छायाः स्वयमेव प्रकाशमाना रविकराः मौर्व्याकर्षणमपि स्वयमेवानुभूय रसन्तीत्यज्ञायतेत्यर्थः .

Kula says शरस्य मुखे लोहभागे । . upphalā इति पाठे तु निपत्य उत्पलिताः उत्पतिताः ।रविकराः ज्याशब्दव्याजेन भृशाकर्षोप(द्रुताः ?) क्रन्दन्तीवेत्युत्प्रेक्षा .

27. K and Muda read प्रदीप्त (palitta) for jalanta (R) . MY's reading seems to be same as he has उवलित .

K says बाणमुखप्रदीप्ताग्निज्वालं, स्फुटज्यारवेण मुखरं धनुः समुद्रं तर्जयतीव । तर्जनीस्थाने शरमुखाग्निज्वाला । आकर्णाकृष्टं तदानीं जलनिधिवधार्यं प्रतिबुद्धं सुप्तोत्थितं व्यजृम्भतेव जृम्भणमकरोदिव .

Muda says हस्तिवधार्यं प्रतिबुद्धस्य सिंहस्य सादृश्यं ध्वन्यते . Kula says (धनुः) आकर्णाकृष्टत्वात् स्फारीभवत् जृम्भत इव जृम्भिकां करोतीवेत्युत्प्रेक्षा .

28. K, Muda and MY read दृष्ट for sṛṣṭha (शिष्ट) found in R and Kula.

K says क्षुभिते जले (दृष्टसारः) दृष्टशक्तिः, मुखनिर्गतप्रसारितज्वाला-निवहो रामशरः आकृष्यमाण एव सागरे पतित इत्यज्ञायत .

Kula says अकस्मात् क्षुभितेन जलेन शिष्टः कथितः सारो यस्य.....स रामशरः आकृष्यमाण एवापतितोऽपि सागरे पतित इति ज्ञायते उत्प्रेक्ष्यते .

Muda has दृष्टसारे . Besides, he reads निर्वापित (nirvāvia) for niddhāvia (निर्धावित), and says आकृष्टिकाल एवाब्धिजलक्षोभात् अब्धिजलपर्यन्तं प्रसारितस्य ज्वालानिकरस्य उदकसंसर्गेण मुखनिर्वापणीयेत्यर्थः .

29. K, Muda and Kula read भ्रियमाणानि (bharantāim) for palittāim प्रदीप्तानि (R) . MY's reading seems to be same as that of K. cf. SC Text.

K says धुताभिः विद्युद्भिः पिङ्गलानि, शरमुखनिर्गतहुतवहपूर्यमाणानि घनवृन्दानि स्फुटन्ति स्म । दिङ्मुखानाम् उत्पातलोचनानीव । उत्पातसमये दिङ्मुखेषु कानिचित् नयनानि सभूय स्फुटन्तीति वार्ता .

MY says दिग्वधूमुखेषु उत्पातलोचनानि यथा युगान्ते स्फुटन्ति तद्वदित्यर्थः । शरभिन्नानि हुतवहभृतानि चेति विग्रहः .

Muda and Kula explain phuttanti in the sense of स्फुरण . Muda quotes Hemacandra 4.231 which gives phuttai phudai .

K (chāyā) and MY have भिन्न for ṇiggiṇṇa (निगीर्ण) . Possibly they read ṇibbhiṇṇa used several times in the poem.

30. K says ततो भुजस्य रभसाकर्षणेन धनुःपृष्ठात् स्खलितबहुलधूमस-मूहं, मुखनिर्गतानलशिखाहतत्वात् अवरुणसूर्यकिरणं चाणममुञ्चत् . Kula and Muda, like K, read आकर्षण (āaddhāṇa) for āaddhā आकृष्ट (R) . K, Muda and Kula (?) read हतावरुण (haolugga, cf. SC Text) for samolugga समवरुण (R) . Kula and K read बहुल for बहल (R and Muda) .

Muda says अवरुणं ग्लानं । शराग्नेरतितीक्ष्णतया सूर्यरश्मीनामपि ग्लानिः . Muda has फलित, and K स्खलित for phulia स्फुटित (R) . Kula has अष्ट (phidā, cf. SC Text) .

Kula says अवरुणा विच्छायाकृताः सूरस्य विरणा येन तं वाणम् , भुजरभसाकर्षणेन धनुःपृष्ठात् अष्टो वह्निदेवतासान्निध्यजनितो बहुलधूमोत्पीडो यथा स्यात् तथा मुञ्चति .

31. K says दीर्घः स शरः प्रथमं नभस्तले ज्वलित्वा सलिले अर्धास्तमितहुतवहः आताम्रमुखश्च पश्चात् सागरे निपतितः । यथा दीर्घो दिवसः नभस्तले ज्वलित्वा प्रकाशं कृत्वा समुद्रावतीर्णदिनकरः पश्चात् सागरे पतितः अस्तमेति तद्वदिति । आदित्यस्थानीयो हुतवहः दिवसस्थानीयः शरः .

Kula says सलिले अर्धास्तमितं हुतवहाताम्र मुखं यस्य स तथा शरस्य समस्तास्तमयेन नभसि तेजसोऽदर्शनं स्यादिति शङ्कानिरासार्थमर्धास्तमितमित्युक्तम् । प्रथमावतीर्णदिनकर इत्यत्रापि अर्धास्तमितमिति ज्ञेयं समस्तास्तमयेन नभसि दिवसादर्शनप्रसङ्गात् .

MY remarks दिवसस्य ज्वलनं प्रकाशनं निपातोऽनुपलम्भः .

Muda says जले अर्धास्तमितो योऽग्निः तेनाताम्रमुखः .

32. MY says vijju - nihāo विद्युन्निकायः (K also) । पाताले भूकम्पः कम्पहेतुत्वात् ,

K says क्षयान्तकालानलः, अन्तशब्दः स्वरूपवाची वनान्तवत् , क्षय-कालाग्निः .

33. K and Muda read ज्वलित for addha (R) .

K says तस्य शरस्य मार्गालगनाः, निर्धूमेन ज्वलनेन ताम्रच्छायाः बाणसमूहाः समुद्रं यन्ति स्म । ज्वलितास्तमितस्य दिनकरस्य किरणा यथा तन्मार्गानुगाः समुद्रं प्रविशन्ति तद्वदिति .

MY says मार्गालगनाः पश्चादालगनाः । ainti अतियन्ति*विशन्तीत्यर्थः । nibhā निकायाः . Muda says बाणसमूहा अन्धिं प्रविविशुरित्यन्वयः । ainti इति प्रविशन्तीत्यादेशः . Kula says बाणसमूहा उदधिमायान्ति like R.

Kula reads उदित (uia, cf. SC Text) for addha. He says उदितास्तमितस्य दिनकरस्य मार्गालगनाः किरणा इव । शरोऽप्युदितास्तमितो यतो धनुष उदितो नभसि प्रसृत्य जलधौ मग्नः .

34. K and Muda read विस्रब्ध (vīsaddha) for visattha विश्वस्त (R) .

K says विस्रब्धं निःशङ्कं प्रसृतः केसरीव । विधुतवडवामुखाख्यकेसर-सटोद्घातः, विधुतवडवामुखः समुद्रो विधुतकेसरसटोद्घातः सिंह इति क्रमः . uddhāto is rendered as उद्धावितः by R. Kula says ऊर्ध्वायितः . Muda says ऊर्ध्वाभूत इत्यर्थः (ऊर्ध्वपितः chāyā) . K is here corrupt, but he seems to say ऊर्ध्वपितः उत्थितः .

Muda has स्फुरन् (phuranto) for rasanto (रसन) .

35. K, Muda and Kula read स्खलिते (kholie) for kludie (R) खण्डिते (cf. Hemacandra 1.53) .

* Our copy has अउन्ति अतिमन्ति .

K says प्रथमजरप्रहारेण दूराविद्धे दूरं क्षिप्ते ततो निवृत्ते, तदानीं संमुखा- गतेन अभिमुखमापतता शरनिकायेन स्खलिते प्रतिहते । एवं टङ्कच्छेदेन, for rahasa (cf SC Text) . SC says विषममत्यर्थम् .

Muda says टङ्को गिरिसानुभागः । यथा—हिमाद्रिटङ्कादिवेति भट्टि-
काव्ये (1,8) । अत्र तृपचारादुपरिभागः । टङ्कच्छेदेन रभसोत्थिते समुद्रे ।

‡ R says टङ्कच्छेदरभसेन टङ्कच्छिन्नस्य वेगेनोत्थिते यथा टङ्कादिच्छिन्नं
काष्ठादि हठादूर्ध्वं गच्छति तथैवोच्छलिते । टङ्कः पापाणदारणः । यद्वा टङ्कः
कुठारः । तस्मिन्निव छेदाय खण्डनाय रभसेनोत्थिते । यथा छेदनाय कुठार
ऊर्ध्वमुत्तिष्ठतीत्यर्थः .

36. K says रत्नाकरस्य परभागे, मध्ये शैरैः छिन्ने, पुनः वाणघातेनोत्क्षिप्ते सति द्वितीयार्धान्तः शैरैरपहतः अर्वाचीनभागः निपतति गतस्य स्थाने निपपात । अशनिप्रभृतिभिः स्फुटितापसृतः मलयतटप्रदेश इव । मलयो हि समुद्रस्य आसन्नः .

Muda says उन्नतसमुद्रपरभागे छिन्ने शैरैः क्षिप्ते सति अवारसंवन्धी द्वितीयो भागो विशीर्णो मलयतटप्राग्भार इवापतदित्यर्थः । प्राग्भार उन्नतप्रदेशः । मध्यच्छिन्न इत्यत्र समुद्रस्य मध्यप्रदेशे छिन्न इति ज्ञेयम् .

37. K, Muda and MY read मिलिताः for gahira गभीराः (R and Kula). K, Kula, Muda and MY seem to read uppaanta, which they render differently, for - ppavanta प्लवमान (R) .

K says आपातालं संस्पृष्टाः समुद्रोद्देशाः क्षुभ्यन्ति स्म । कथंभूताः-भिन्नानां शरभिन्नानामन्तर्गतानां गिरीणां धातुभिः ताम्राः, विषमच्छिन्नोत्पतन्महीधरपक्षाः . Kula also says विषमं छिन्ना उत्पतन्तो महीधराणां पक्षा येषु .

MY says uppaanta उत्प्लवमान । आपातालमिलिताः पातालावधिमिश्रितजला यथा स्युः तथैवाक्षुभ्यन्नित्यर्थः .

Muda has विषमोच्छिन्नोत्प्लवमान . He says पूर्वं हि पाकशासन-प्रयुक्तपविप्रभीताः पर्वताः सपक्षा एव समुद्रं प्राविशन् । सांप्रतं रामशरनिवृत्ताः तेषामपि पक्षा उपरि प्लवन्ते स्मेत्यर्थः .

38. K says आग्नेयशरपूरितमुखं, तदानीमाताम्ररविपरस्पष्टदरविक्षिप्तधवलकमलमुकुलच्छायं, प्रकाशितपाण्डरोदरम् एवंभूतं रुद्रकुलं भ्रमति स्म .

Kula says आताम्रै रविकरैराहतानि दरविघटितानि स्तोकविकसितानि यानि धवलकमलमुकुलानि तेषामिव छाया द्युतिर्यस्य (तत्),शरैः पूरितमुखं, प्रहारवेदनयोत्तानीकरणेन उद्घाटितं पाण्डरमुदरं येन तत् शङ्खकुलं भ्रमति . Muda says उद्घाटितानि प्रकटीकृतानि पाण्डुराणि उदराणि अभ्यन्तरभागा यस्य तत् .

39. K says जलनिवहाः विधुतमत्स्याः, शरघातलुटितमकरदंष्ट्राभिः धवलाः, मणिभरेण फणस्थानां मणीनां भरेण विषममवनमिता लूनाः विषधराणा घूर्णमानाः फणाः येषां ते तथाभूता वेपन्ते स्म . MY has luva for lua लून .

Kula has खण्डित, and Muda उत्खण्डित like R. Kula and K seem to read sara - ghāa - kkhudīa for - ghāu- .

40. K, Muda and Kula read khutṭanta - vidduma - laam for phutṭanta (स्फुटत्).....vaṇḍam (R) . K (chāyā) has लुट्यद्विद्रुमलतं सक्षोभोद्भूततरन्निर्यन्मयूखं (Muda also) . Kula says खण्डयमान-विद्रुमलतम् .

Muda says तुड तोडन इत्यस्य खुट्टादेशः । toḍaṇam छेदनम् .*

MY also has khutṭanta, and remarks मणिविद्धस्य लुट्यद्भूषणस्य प्रकीर्णकेशस्य फेनमुद्वमतो राज्ञः समाधिरनुसधेयः . R explains his reading स्फुटत् as भिद्यमान .

K and Muda read उत्क्षिप्त (ucchitta) for ucchalla (R and Kula) ;

41. K says समुद्रावर्ताः तदानीमेवमभवन् । कथम्—जलैः क्षुब्धैः
प्लाविताः प्रथमं कबलिताः अनन्तरं मुक्ताः, तस्मात् क्षणमात्रं स्थगितास्ततः प्रकटितो
विस्तारो येषां ते, तथा प्रसन्नाः प्लावनावस्थायां प्रशान्ताः ततः क्षुब्धिताः, तथा
प्रथमं मूकीकृताः ततो मुखराश्चाभवन् .

Muda says समुद्रावर्ता जलप्लावितमुक्ताः क्षणमात्रच्छन्नप्रकटितविस्ताराः
प्रसन्नक्षुब्धिता मूकीभूतमुखरा अभवन्..... । राम(शर)भितेन (जलेन) पूर्वं
प्लाविताः क्षणमात्रस्थगिताः, प्रसन्नाः मूकी(भूताः),..... पश्चात् जलेन मुच्यमानाः
प्रकटितविस्ताराः क्षुब्धिता मुखराश्च अभूवन्नित्यर्थः .

MY says समुद्रावर्ता जलरूपेणान्तरा क्षणं प्लाविता अन्तः(?)स्थगितविवर्गः, प्रसन्ना मूकीकृताश्च, पुनर्जलमुक्ताः प्रकटितविस्तारत्वादिना प्रकृतिं प्राप्ता इत्यर्थः .

Kula reads स्थापित (thavia) for thata (स्थगित) . He says
क्षणमात्रं स्थापितः प्रकटितः विस्तारो येषां ते, तथा जलप्लावनात् प्रसन्नाः
जलमुक्तत्वात् क्षुब्धिताः सचालिताः, मूकीभूताः मुखराः समुद्रावर्ता भवन्ति .

K, MY and Muda read pavvālia for palbāḍia or pavvāḍia (R).
Muda quotes Hemacandra 4.41 which gives pavvālai प्लावयति* .

R has mūallaia rendered as मूकायित . MY has mūallea (?)
मूकीकृत . Muda has mūallauli (?), but he quotes Deśi-nāma - mālā 6.
137, which gives mūalla and mūala in the sense of मूक, while the illustrative verse has mūallia which does not suit the metre in our verse. K (chāyā) has, however, क्षणं मूकीकृतमुखाः (khaṇamūallia- muhā ?), but this does not agree with K's gloss (see above) . SC
Text has mūallia - pamuhālā मूकायितप्रमुखराः (chāyā) .

* In our copies K pratika has bavvolia ; and MY pratika has vavvāḍia .

42. K says शरक्षोभणेन बलमानश्चलन् उद्धर्तमानो विवर्तमान उदधिः चिरकालपिडितं चिरकालमधोगतत्वात् पीडितमेकं पार्श्वं शिथिलयन् द्वितीयेन उपरिगतेन पार्श्वेन पाताले निषत्तुं शयितुं प्रवृत्त इव .

Muda says यथा कश्चित् शय्यायामेकेन पार्श्वेन चिरं शयितश्चिरकालशयन-परिपीडितं तत् पार्श्वं शिथिलीकृत्य इतरेण शयितुं प्रवर्तते तथा समुद्रोऽपीत्युत-प्रेक्षा । क्षोभवशेन पातालस्थितस्य जलस्योपरिदर्शनात् . Kula says यदधोगतं जलं तत् ज्वलनकायवशात् उपरिष्ठाद्भूतं, यदुपरिवृत्ति तदधोगतमभूदित्यर्थः .

43. K, MY and Kula read अवखण्डित (okhāṇḍita) for ukkha - (R and Muda) उत्खण्डित .

MY says galatthallia गलहस्तिता (नुन्न K, क्षिप्रं प्रेरितमित्यर्थः Muda). K says शरवेगनुन्नेन पश्चात् सुवेलपर्वतनिरुध्यमानेन सागरेण अर्धस्थगितं छादितार्धम्, अतएवापसृतदक्षिणदिक् नभः अवखण्डितैकपार्श्वमिव अदृश्यत .

44. K reads मिलिताः for gahira (गभीराः), and says आपातालं पातालं यावत् मिलिताः . Muda says मन्दरेणापि अनाश्लिष्टाः अस्पृष्टाः .

45. K, Muda and MY read निरायतप्रलम्बः (nirāḍa-valambo) for ṇaha - ṇirālambe (R) . Kula reads निरायतप्रलम्बे .

K, Muda and MY read भृते (bharie) for bhio भीतः (R and Kula) .

The pratika in Muda, Kula and MY is ekkakkammi for ekke—.

K says एकैकस्मिन् बाणप्रहारविवरे वलमान आवर्तमानो, निरायत-
प्रलम्बः निररामायतः प्रलम्बमानो विवरपर्यन्तैरधोगच्छन्, रसन् समुद्रः क्षयकालाग्नि-
पूरिते* रसातले निपपातेव । एकैकस्य बाणप्रहारविवरस्य रसातलद्वारसाम्यं
विवक्षितम् .

Muda says सर्वाणि आग्नेय(शर)प्रहारविवराणि कल्पान्ताग्निपरिपूरित-पातालसदृशानि । तेषु प्रत्येकं कल्पान्तकष्टां दशां सर्वोऽपि समुद्रः अन्वभूदित्यर्थः .
MY says बाणप्रहारविवरे वलमानो दीर्घप्रलम्बो रसन् अपतत् । पतितमात्र
एव अवाशुब्यदिति च फलतीति . Kula says निरायतप्रलम्बे अधिकदीर्घे
बाणप्रहारविवरे वलमानः समुद्रः क्षयकालानलभीत इव रसन् पाताले पतति .
R says नभोवत् निरालम्बे शून्ये .

46. K and Muda read मर्म for बाण (R and Kula).

K says तिमयो मत्स्याः दृष्टमथना मथनकाले विद्यमाना एवं पुरातनाः,
पृष्ठपतिष्ठितलुठन्मन्दरशिखराः.....मर्मणि दृढप्रहारेण शरसभवेन मूर्च्छिताः
दृश्यन्ते स्म .

Muda says तिमिमत्स्याः शनयोजनविस्तारा मत्स्याः । दृष्टमथनाः
चिरजीविन इत्यर्थः । अतएव मथनक्षोभात् निपतित आस्वादितोऽमृतसो
यैस्ते तथा । अमृतपानादेव चिरजीविनो रामबाणप्रहारेऽपि न मम्रुः किंतु
मुमूर्छुरित्यर्थः .

47. Muda remarks यथा दग्धस्थलीषु करीषादीनि (?) उत्क्षिपन्त्यो
मत्स्यपरुषा वात्या निःसरन्ति, एवं पातालस्थानां शराग्निस्तानां (?) भुजङ्गानां

* Our copy has पूरितो which is against the chāyā, which has भरिते .

निश्वासा उत्क्षिप्तावर्ताः दग्धविद्रुमरजःकर्चुराः पातालात् निःसरन्ति स्म।
तेषां मार्गा अदृश्यन्तेति .

K says समुद्रक्षोभे सति संभ्रान्तानां महाभुजङ्गानां निश्वासपथा दृश्यन्ते
स्म । कथंभूताः—उत्क्षिप्तमहावर्ताः ऊर्ध्वमुद्धृतमहावर्ताः, किञ्चिद्गधविवर्ण-विद्रुमरजःकणकर्चुराः, पातालं यावत् चलमानाः .

48. K says भुजङ्गममिथुनं जीवेन आत्मनो जीवितेन अन्योन्यं परिरक्षत्
आत्मजीवितनाशेनापि अन्योन्यं परिरक्षत् वलितं वेपते स्म . Muda says
स्वीयस्वीयजीवेन अन्योन्यमग्ने रक्षत् वलितं विवृत्त(?)रज्जुसदृशमित्यर्थः .
MY says अन्योन्यरक्षणाय भोगावेष्टनादिव्यापृतमित्यर्थः .

49. K says मणिनिर्घर्षणेन मणिशिलासु निकषेण निशिताः,
शुक्तिपुटमध्यनिर्गतानि मुखे लग्नानि स्थूलानि मौक्तिकानि येषां ते
रामशराः जले धावन्ति स्म .

Kula says मणिनिर्घर्षणेन निशिताः, अतरतीक्ष्णत्वात् शुक्तिरुपुटं भित्त्वा
तन्मध्यात् निर्गताः मुखलक्ष्मस्थूलमौक्तिकाः, अतः निशितमुखत्वात् *मोटितो भग्नो न
तु विद्धो विद्रुमद्विष्टो यैरते रामशरा जले धावन्ति .

Muda says 'मुट आक्षेपप्रमर्दनयोः' । मोटितो भग्नः .

50. K and Muda read बहुल for बहल (R and Kula) ,

* The phrase is doubtful. It ought to be मुखलग्नमौक्तिक-
वादेय . Cf. SC

K says प्रसृतो विषवेग इव बहुलधूमोत्पीडो धूमसमूहो यद् यद् विद्रुम-
वेष्टं विद्रुममण्डलमभिलीयते स्पृशति तत् तत् महोदधेः रुधिरमिव कज्जलीक्रियते
स्म । महोदधेरन्तर्वर्तमानत्वात् वर्णसाम्याच्च विद्रुमो रुधिरत्वेन निर्दिष्टः ।
विषवेगस्पृष्टं रुधिरं सद्यः कृष्णं भवति .

MY says ahilei अभिलीयते प्राप्नोति । ahiledi* इति वा ।
यथा विषवेगेन प्राप्तं देहस्य रुधिरं कज्जलीक्रियते तथा शराग्निधूमेन प्राप्तो विद्रुमवेष्ट इत्यर्थः .

Kula says धूमौघः प्रसृतो यं(यं) विद्रुमवेष्टं महोदधेरभिलीयते श्लिष्यति
तं तं, विषवेग इव रुधिरं, कज्जलयति कृष्णं करोति . Muda also says
अभिलीयते आभिमुख्येन श्लिष्यति । महोदधे रुधिरमिव तं तं कज्जलयति
कज्जलीकरोति । धातोर्धात्वन्तरप्राप्तिर्विषवेग इति स्मृतः । सर्पादिदष्टस्य हि
रुधिरं कृष्णं भवति . R says कज्जलयति कज्जलमिव करोति
श्यामलयतीत्यर्थः .

51. Muda says पूर्वमिन्द्रभयात् सपक्षा एव महीधरा अब्धौ निमग्नाः ।
ते इदानीं क्षुभितात् समुद्रादुत्पतिता उड्डीयमानाः, मध्ये बाणोत्कृत्तैकविस्तृत-

नभोऽर्धपथे वलिताः पतन्ति स्म । यथा तरुकोटरकुलायनिलीनदवदहनक्षुभिता
उड्डीय गच्छन्तः पक्षिणो मध्येमार्गं लुब्धकैर्विद्धाः पतन्ति तद्वत् पर्वताः
पेतुरित्यर्थः .

K says विषमात् भरादवनतशिखराः, एकपक्षस्य पतनात् भारस्य वैषम्यम् ।
अत एव अवनतशिखराः, नभसोऽर्धपथे वलिताः परिवृत्ताः महीधराः समुद्रे
पतन्ति स्म .

* Our copy has अभि- .

MY says अत्र पर्वतेषु पक्षिसमाधिरनुसंधेयः । भारवैषम्यं पार्श्वान्तराधार-
भुनपक्षविलोपादिति . Kula says एकेन पक्षेण स्थातुमशक्ताः पक्षपार्श्वेन
विषमं तिर्यक् भरेणावनतशिखराः . R says विषमभरेण अधिकगौरवेण
विषमं वक्रं सत् भरेण चावनतमेकं शिखरं येषां ते .

52. K and MY read bhīṇṇa for chīṇṇa (R, Kula and Muda) .
K and Muda have प्रतिष्ठापित for परि - (R chāyā and Kula)

Muda says अत्र भुजङ्गशब्दः सामर्थ्यात् दृष्टिविषभुजङ्गेषु वर्तते .
K says भुजङ्गाः दृष्टिविषाख्याः स्वदृष्टिभिः वाणनिवहान् दग्ध्वा जीवितान्यमुञ्चन् । तीक्ष्णा हि तथा कुर्वन्ति .

53. K and MY have नुन्न, and so seem to read galatthla for galatthana (R, Kula and Muda) .

K says उत्तुष्टिनभुजङ्गभोगसमूहानि, शरमुखैः नुन्नोत्खातानां शैलानां
स्थानविवरोदराणि अवस्थानविवरोदराणि हुतवहो रसन् आपूरयामास जलात्
पूर्वमग्निरेवापूरयत् .

MY says शरनुन्नोत्थितानां शैलानां स्थानविवराणि शराग्निः जलपूरयत् आपूरयति स्मेत्यर्थः .

Kula says उत्खण्डिना भुजङ्गानां भोगप्राग्भाराः शरीरोच्छ्राया येषु
तानि । शरमुखप्रेरणेन टङ्कघातेनैवोत्खातं यत् शैलस्थानं तत् यानि विवराणि
तेषामुदराणि हुतवहः सर्वथा पूरयति .

Muda says हुतवहः शरमुखोत्क्षेपोत्खातानां शैलानां स्थानभूतानि
यानि विवराणि (तेषाम्) उदराण्यभ्यन्तराणि रसन् शब्दायमान आपूरयति
स्म । प्राग्भारः समूहः । galatthanam क्षेपणम् .

54. K reads भिन्न for diṇṇa दत्त (R, Kula and Muda ?)
K and MY read पतन्ति, i. e. padanti for phudanti स्फुटन्ति
(R and Kula). Muda has सरन्ति . R says स्फुटन्ति द्विधा
भवन्ति .

K says शरैः छिन्नपतिताः जलक्षोभेण ऊर्ध्वं क्षिताः, दरभिन्नमहा- तरङ्गाख्यगिरितटघाताः, भिन्नोदूढसत्त्वाः मातङ्गमकराणां दन्तपरिघाः पतन्ति .

MY says danta-pphalihā दन्तपरिघा उत्पतनदशायामेव जलचर-मेदादिकं कृत्वा अनन्तरं न्यपतन्नित्यर्थः .

Kula says महातरङ्गा गिरितटा इव तेषु दरदत्तो घातो यैः (ते) .

Muda says भिन्नाः प्रोता उदूढा जलचरा यैस्ते तथा ।.....महा-
तरङ्गा एव गिरितटाः.....तथा छिन्नपतितोर्ध्वविद्धाः रामशरैः छिन्नाः पतिताः पश्चाच्च ऊर्ध्वं क्षिताः .

55. K says मीनकुलम् अग्निशङ्कया विद्रुमवनं परिहरति स न
प्रविवेश .

Vlmuhiam विमुखितं K and probably Kula ; विमूढं Muda.

Parisakkana परिसंक्रम K ; परिसर्पण Kula ; परिष्वक्कण
Muda, who explains it further as चक्रमण, and says एवक्क
गत्यर्थः . MY has parisaṅkana (?) परिचक्रमण .

आलोको दर्शनमुद्द्योतो वा Muda. (परि)स्खलितं अष्टम् Kula .
परिस्खलितं स्थानान्तरं गतम् R.

56. K says उत्प्लवमानाः समुद्रवर्तिनो भुजङ्गाः स्थूलानां तरङ्गाणां विकटानि अन्तराणि सदधति स्म भोगाभोगेन तरङ्गमध्यानां सधानमकुर्वन् .
Muda says मृता हि सर्पा उत्तानशया उत्प्लवन्ते .

Kula explains uppaṇṭā as उत्पतन्तः, and says तरङ्गाणां विकटान्तरालानि महाप्रमाणत्वात् सदधते पूरयन्ति .

MY says saṃdhanti (for - dhe-) संदधिरे । uvvaṇṭā उत्प्लवमानाः . SC Text has uppavāntā.

57. K, Kula and Muda read समुत्कृत्त (samukkattā) for samakkanta समाक्रान्त (R) . K reads pikka for pakkā.

K says हुताशनेनोत्तप्तत्वात् शुष्कमदनिष्यन्दाः, पक्वानां परिणतानां ग्राहाणां नखाङ्कुशैः विषमं समुत्कृत्तमस्तकाः करिमकराः दरोत्तीर्णा दृश्यन्ते स्म । इदीपत्पक्वस्वप्नेत्यादिनेकारः (Vararuci 1.3) .

Vāa वान शुष्क MY. cf. R वान इति 'ओ वै शोषणे' धातुः . Muda says 'वायं' ग्लानं, and quotes Hemacandra 4.18 which gives vāi ग्लायति . Kula has शुष्क .

Kula says समर्थानां ग्राहाणां नखाङ्कुशैः विषममस्तव्यस्तं समुत्कृत्तमस्तकाः करिमकराः . Muda renders pakkaggāha as दुष्टग्राह, and quotes Deśī - nāma - mālā 6 64 which gives pakka in the sense of दृष्ट and समर्थ (cf, Kula above) . R renders the word as प्रग्राह, and says that it is a deśī word meaning जलसिंह . MY says dakkaggāha पक्वग्राह सिंहमकरेत्यर्थः .

58. K says शङ्खकुलं गतापनिवृत्तं प्रथमं गतं ततः अपनिवृत्तं गतागतं कुर्वाणं, विषमस्थितेषु मणिशिलातलेषु प्रलुठत् विवर्तमानं, क्षीयमाणसलिलत्वात् विह्वलं, जलस्य दुर्वसत्वात् वेलायां पुलिनेषु च गमनोत्सुकं भ्रमति स्म .

59. K, MY and Kula read pakkhukkhevehī for - kkhā - (R) .

K says महीधराः मुक्तसमुद्रोत्सङ्गाः, सभ्रमेण भयेन समुत्पतिताः, एकैकशिखरसंस्थितमग्निनिवहं पक्षोत्क्षेपैः पक्षनिक्षेपैः अभ्युत्थापयन्ति उद्दीपयन्ति स्म । अन्तर्भूतणिजर्थस्तिष्ठतिः । तथा कालिदासः—भर्तापि तावत् क्रथ-कैशिकानाम्..... । (प्रास्थापयद्राघवमन्वगाच्च ॥) इति प्रायुङ्क्त (Raghu 7.32) .

MY says संभ्रमेण उत्पतिताः शैला अन्योन्यशृङ्गस्थमग्निं पक्षोत्क्षेपाभ्यामभ्युदस्थापयन्नित्यर्थः .

K and MY seem to read *abbhuttenti for abbhuttanti (R and Kula) अभ्युत्तेजयन्ति उद्दीपयन्ति . Muda reads abbhuttanti प्रदीपयन्ति, and says प्रदीपेरब्भुत्तादेशः . He seems to refer to Hemacandra 4.152 which gives abbhuttai, palīvai etc. as equivalents for प्रदीप्यते .

60. K says छिन्नानां महासुराणां शिरःसमुत्पतनेन गम्भीराः भयङ्कराः, मूलादधस्तलात् उन्मूलितरत्नाः (chāyā has मूलोत्तम्भितरत्नाः) रसातलजलसमूहाः रसन्तो निर्यन्ति स्म . Kula also says छिन्नानां महासुरशिरसामुत्पतनैः गम्भीराः रसातलजलोत्पीडाः . R says उत्प्लवनेन गम्भीरा भयानकाः .

* Cf. ūttheti 12.11

Kula says मूलात् पातालात् उत्थितानि रत्नानि यैः .

MY seems to read ninta (निर्यत्) for chinnā. He says siruppaṇa शिरउत्पतन । ninti (for nenti) निरीयुः .

61 K, MY and probably Kula read उत्तरत् (uttaranta) for uppavanta (R) उत्प्लवमान .

K says बाणनिकायेनोत्क्षिप्ताः.....सलिलकल्लोलाः नभःस्थल एव शुष्यन्ति स्म, न पुनरपतन् . MY says-हुतवहज्वालाहताश्च उत्तरत्फेना-इचेति विग्रहः . R says बाणनिघातेनोत्क्षिप्ताः . Kula says सलिल-कल्लोला नभःस्थल एव मुञ्चन्ति क्षीयन्ते . Unless it is a mistake he seems to read मुञ्चन्ति for attānti (शुष्यन्ति) . *Besides, he puts this verse after verse 72.

62 R says तरङ्गैः स्खलिताः समुद्रात् प्रच्याविताः । तीरभ्रमावानीता इति यावत् . K explains hrivvūḍha (निर्व्यूढ) as निर्वान्त (निःशेषोद्-गीर्ण MY). K says निर्वान्तविषविन्दवः.....भुजङ्गा वलन्ते भ्रमन्ति स्म . K reads theva (बिन्दु) for thavaa (स्तवक) found in R. See Notes on 1.40 Kula is corrupt, but quotation in SC shows that he also reads theva, i.e. visa-tthevā for - tthavaā.

63. K, Kula and probably MY read विगलित for vihadia विघटित (R) .

K says भर्तुर्दधेः शरदाहमुपलभ्य सुवतरवमयाक्रन्दं यथा निपतितानां निम्नगानां पत्नीनां हस्ता इव तरङ्गा वेपन्ते स्म । कथंभूताः—शरनिवहच्छिन्नाः

* In verse 73 Kula explains attānta as क्षीयमाण . See below.

शङ्खा एव विगलितानि वलयानि येषां ते तथाभूता उद्धौ निमिताः
निहिताः .

MY says शरविद्धे भर्तारि व्याकुलगतानां क्रन्दन्तीनां गलच्छङ्खवल्या
(हस्ताः) तद्वपुषि सावेगं न्यस्ता इव अवेपन्त तरङ्गा इत्याशयः .

Kula says शरनिवहेन छिन्नाः शङ्खा विगलिता वलया इव येषां ते
तरङ्गा मुक्तरवाक्रन्दं यथा स्यात् तथा निपतितानां निम्नगानां नदीनां हस्ता इव
वेपन्ते .

64. K and probably MY read जलभर for jalaara जलचर
(R) . K and Kula read विस्ताराः (vitthārā) for pabbhārā प्राग-भाराः (R) .

K says चिरं संनिरोधेन समुद्रे निरोधेन मसृणाः मन्दबलाः । अन्यत्
सुबोधम् .

MY says हुनवहदाहेऽपि शैला जलसंदष्टपक्षतया चिरं निरोधमसृणतया
चाशु उत्पतितुं नाशक्नुवन्नित्यर्थः .

Kula says जलस्य भावाभावः (?) तेन संदष्टाः संलग्नाः पक्षपुट-विस्तारा येषां ते .

66. K and MY read bharīo for bhamīro (R and Kula) .
K reads मृदित (malīa) for malāa (R and Kula) .

K remarks सागरहुतवहयोः तदानीं रूपभेदो नोपलब्ध इत्यर्थः .

MY says bharīo भृनः । आवर्णोदराणि आपूर्य स्थितः क्षुभितः
सागरो यथाभूतो दृष्टः तज्जलानुप्रविष्टः शरान्निरपि व्यासतया तथाभूत
एवाद्दृश्यतेत्यर्थः .

67. K reads उच्चलितः for ucchalio (R and Kula) .

K says पूर्व शरघातरभसात् प्रदीप्तोच्चलितः ज्वलन् उल्लङ्घिततीरः समुद्रो यान् मलयवनविस्तारान् प्रदीपयति प्रज्वलयति स्म, निर्वाणनिवर्तमानो दूरं गत्वा शान्ताग्निः निवर्तमानः समुद्रः तानेव प्रदेशान् पुनर्निर्वापयामास .

MY says vijjhāya निर्वाण (विध्मात् R and Kula) ! vijjha-vei निर्वापयत् (विध्मापयति R ; निर्वापयति Kula) . MY remarks अनयापि गाथया समुद्रजलस्य अग्निना व्याप्तिरुक्ता .

Kula reads मलयतटप्राग्भारान् , i.e. malaa - ada - pabbhāre for मलयवनविस्तारान् .

68. SC Text and MY pratīka have utthamghia explained as उत्तम्भित . K pratīka is same acc. to Goldschmidt's ms. Our copy has uttamvia (?) . R has utthambhia (उत्तम्भित) . Hemacandra 4.36, 144 gives utthamghai in the sense of उत्तमयति and उत्क्षिपति .

K says उत्क्षिप्तसमुद्रो, मकराणां दह्यमानानां वसामयेन आमिषेण भक्ष्येण निर्गलज्वालानिवहो, निवहजो निपातितमहीधरो दग्धपातितपर्वतो, महीधर-कूटवत विकटो व्यजृम्भत अग्निः .

MY says ucchambhia इति पाठः । तथा च समुद्र क्रोडीकृत्य अग्निः स्थित इत्यर्थः । मकरगृहं समुद्रः । maara - vaso (?) इति कचित् पाठः । विजृम्भते* ज्वलन इति ज्वालाभिरुद्धेरपि अधिकवृत्तिरासी-दित्यर्थः .

* Our copy has विजृम्भित .

Kula pratīka seems to have utthamghia like MY . Kula says
उद्धतितमकरगृहः (?) महीधराणां कूटेषु शिखरेषु विकटो विशालो
विजृम्भते ज्वलनः .

69. K reads वलमान (valanta) for padanta पतत् (R) in the second line. Kula seems to agree with K.

K says ज्वलनवेगेन उत्तम्भितमूलाः जलोत्पीडा बाणोत्क्षिप्ताः परि-
वर्तनेन विपर्यासेन निपात्यमाना अधोमुखाः पतन्तः, अतएव प्रतिलोमागतवलमान-
विकटावर्ता भूत्वा निपतन्ति स्म .

Kula says पातालात् उद्गच्छता ज्वलनेन उत्तम्भित(मूलाः), अनन्तरं
पतद्भिः बाणैरुत्क्षिप्ताः सन्तः परिवृत्ताः परिवर्तनेन निपात्यमाना जलोत्पीडा
जलसंधाताः उच्चात् पतनेन प्रतिलोमागतः अधोमुखवर्ती वलन् (?) विकट आवर्ती
येषां ते तथाभूता निपतन्ति .

MY pratīka has utthamghia. He reads nisubbhantā अव-
पात्यमानाः for nisumbhantā. He says बाणोत्क्षिप्ताः परिवर्तनेनावपात्यमानाः, आग्नेयेन रामशरेणोत्क्षिप्ततया ज्वलनेनोत्सङ्गितमूलाः सन्तः अपतन् .

70. K and MY read mahai (इच्छति) for malai मृद्गाति
(R and Kula). K reads पुलिन for malaa (R and Kula); च for hu; and मुञ्चति for bhañjai (R and Kula) .

K says पुलिनोत्सङ्गमिच्छति स्म । क्षीयमाणत्वात् पुलिनानि
विकटानि भवन्ति । तुङ्गेपुलिनोत्सङ्गे विसमितुमैच्छदित्यर्थः । तथापि च
रत्नाकरः धैर्यस्यप्रथमचिह्नं प्रसरमात्मीयं विशालत्वं दुर्लङ्घ्यत्वादिकं महत्त्वं न
मुञ्चति स्म । रत्नाकर इति साभिप्रायं रत्नानामुत्तमद्रव्याणामाकर इति .

* Our copy has उद्धस्तित .

Kula renders na bhañjai as न भनक्ति नान्यथा करोति .

K says विघटते द्विधा भिद्यते । स्थानं निजमवस्थानं शिथिलयति स्म .
MY reads indham for inham . He renders pasaram as विस्तारम्, and says ज्वलनेन स्थानशैथिल्याद्यापन्नस्यापि उदघेरक्षय्यतारूपधैर्यसूचको विस्तारो नात्यन्तं गतइत्यर्थः .

71. The verse is not found in K and MY. Kula says संवर्तनलधराणां प्रलयमेघानामिव रवो निर्हरति* दूर प्रसरति . R renders nīharai as निर्हृदति (प्रतिशब्दं जनयति) .

72. K reads विस्तृत (vitthaa) for adḍhia कृष्ट (R and Kula) .

K says मुखमुज्जिताग्निनिवहानि, शरैर्नभसि उत्क्षिप्तानि, धूमशिखानिभ-
निरायतविस्तृतसलिलानि नदीःस्रोतांसि प्रलयोरकादण्डसंनिभानि भूत्वा निपतन्ति स्म । उल्काया धूमसवन्धोऽस्ति .

MY says मुखे ज्वलन्त्यः पश्चात् धूमायमाना उल्का इव बाणोत्क्षिप्ता
नद्योऽपि नभसो न्यपतन्नित्यर्थः .

73. K reads स्तोकस्तोक विमुक्त- for thoa - tthoa - padimukka
(R and Kula) .

K says शुष्यज्जलनिवहः, शनैः शनैः विमुक्तपुलिनप्रदेशः, अपसक्रान्त
एवमपक्रामन् समुद्रः पदं पदं मार्गाभिमुख इवाद्दृश्यत । तत्र वस्तुमशक्यत्वात्
देशान्तरे वस्तुं क्षणे क्षणे गमनोन्मुख इवाद्दृश्यत । पदं पदमिति कालाध्वनो- रत्यन्तसंयोग इति द्वितीया .

* Kula is corrupt, but seems to read निर्धहति. SC has निर्हरति with the same meaning

MY says attanta क्षीयमाण (Kula also) | maggāhutto
मार्गाभिमुखः पश्चान्मार्गदेशाभिमुख इत्यर्थः । क्षीयमाणतया पुलिनानि मुञ्चन्
समुद्रो भीतः पृष्ठतोऽभिमुख एव प्रतिपदमपाक्रामन्निव अदृश्यतेत्यर्थः .

R says मार्गशब्दः पश्चादर्थवाची । शुष्यन् सलिलनिवहो यस्य
तादृक् ।समुद्रः पश्चादभिमुखः पदं पदमपसरन्निव दृश्यते . SC says magga - शब्दः पश्चाद्भागे देशी . Kula renders osakkanto (अपसरन्
R) as अपष्वक्कमाणः (?) अपसर्पन् . Cf. Muda on verse 55.

74: K and probably MY read उच्चलत् for ucchalauta
R and Kula) .

K says उवलननिवहे सलिलं स्थितं, सानलनिवहोच्चलिते सलिले (-च्चलत्-
सलिले chāyā) नभः स्थितम् । सलिलनिवहावस्तृते च नभःस्थले (नभ-
स्तले chāyā) दशदिक्चक्रमस्तमियाय . MY says सलिले शरोच्चलिते
प्रसरति सति नभो दिशश्च नादृश्यन्तेति सारम् . Kula says उवलननिवहे
सलिलम्, अनलनिवहसहिते उच्छलति सलिले नभः, सलिलनिवहेन अवस्तृते छन्ने
नभस्तले (?) दशदिक्चक्रमस्तायते .

75. K and probably MY read विजृम्भित (viambhita) for vilambia (R and Kula) .

K says शिखिना प्रताप्यमाने विस्तृते जलनिवहे आवर्तमाने सति
समुद्रावर्ताः ग्रीष्मविजृम्भितस्य रविरथस्य चक्रवत् मसृणाः श्लक्ष्णा जाताः ।
समुद्रजलस्य अग्निसवर्णत्वात् आवृत्तिशैथ्याच्च रविरथचक्रसाम्यम् । रविरथचक्रं च
ग्रीष्मकाले तापातिशयात् अग्निवर्णं भवति .

MY says āattantammi आवर्त्यमाने । निस्तरङ्गतया निर्यद्बुद्बुद-
फेनतया च मसृणत्वेनावर्तानां ग्रीष्मात्यन्तप्रज्वलत्तेजोमयरविरथचक्रसाधर्म्य-मुक्तम् .

Kula says आवर्त्यमाने काथ्यमाने विस्तृते जलनिवहे, ग्रीष्मे दीर्घत्वात् दिवसस्य विलम्बितो रविरथः तस्य चक्र(वत्) मसृणाः मन्दभ्रमणाः समुद्रावर्ता जाताः . R says मसृणा मन्दगतयो जाताः । ग्रीष्मे रविरथो मन्दं चलतीति लोकप्रतिपत्तिः .

76. K reads उत्तिष्ठतीव (uttheti va, cf 12.11) for uddhāta उद्धावित (R) He reads the second line as विस्तीर्णे समुद्रे शैवालित इव घूर्णित्वा हुतवहः .

K says पृथग्भूतधूमनिवहः, सरक्तप्रभाभिः मिलितज्वालः हुतवहो विस्तीर्णे समुद्रे चिरं घूर्णित्वा शैवालितः शैवालवानिव उत्तिष्ठते स्म .

Kula agrees with R, but he explains uddhāta as ऊर्ध्वायित . Cf. K on 955. MY's reading of the verse seems to be same as that of K. He gives only the gist of the verse—निर्धूमो ज्वलनो मरतकप्रभाभिः मिलितशिखः क्वथितस्थालीसलिलवत् उदधौ आग्न्यमाणे विस्तृतजल-भ्रमणात् चिरावस्थितदार्वादिवत् शैवालित इव ऊर्ध्वायित इत्यर्थः .

77. Kula reads प्रलयानलः for valavāṇalo.

78. K and MY read ज्वलति (jalai) for hot (R and Kula) .

MY says इन्धनीभूतस्य अम्भसः क्षय एव परमग्निरक्षीयत । अन्यदा प्रतुतदेकीभूततया तद्वत् स्वयमपि प्रार्थतेत्यर्थः .

79 K reads विस्तीर्णाः (vitthinṇā) for vitthārā (R and Kula). K and Kula read मण्डलनिवहाः for maṇḍalibāndhā (R) .

K says रामशरानलेन प्रतप्तत्वात् क्षीयमाणे उदधौ विभक्ततटविच्छेदाः रेस्फुटसन्धिवन्धाः त एव प्राकृता इव द्वीपमण्डलनिवहाः तथाविस्तीर्णा यथापूर्वं विस्तीर्णा अपि जलक्षयात् तुङ्गा दृश्यन्ते स्म .

MY reads tada - voccheā (तटव्यवच्छेदाः) and explains it as तटसीमानः . He remarks उदधावतिक्षीणे तुङ्गत्वातिशयादिष्करणात् द्वीपानां सन्नापे पूर्ववत् विस्तारो नालक्ष्यतेत्यर्थः .

R says क्षीयमाणे उदधौ विभक्तः प्रव्यक्तः तटविच्छेदः तटविभागो येषां ते . Kula says क्षीयमाणेनोदधिना विभक्ताः तटविच्छेदाः तटभागा येषां ते तथा .

80. K reads lūṭita (khudīa ?) for khavīa (क्षपित) found in R and Kula.

K says ज्वलनशिखाभिरावर्तमानजलसंघातं, लुटितभुजङ्गनिवहं यथा क्षपयति नाशयति स समुद्रम् . MY has आवर्तमान like K*. R says ज्वलनशिखाभिरावर्त्यमानो दह्यमानो जलसंघातो यत्न . Kula says ज्वलनशिखाया (का)ध्यमानजलसंघातम् . SC Text has āṭṭamāṇa for āvattā - = काध्यमान (chāyā) , 81. K reads khuhīa for phudīa (स्फुटित) found in R and Kula. The order of verses in K after 81 is 84, 82, 83, 85.

K says जलप्राग्भारे प्रलुठितैः (R also) शङ्खकुलैः . Kula says जलप्राग्भारात् अष्टेन शङ्खकुलेन . He also says स्फुटितेन विकसितेन वडवामुखानलेन etc.

83. K reads सकेसर for सकेसर - (R and Kula). He says सानलैः शरनिर्दारितकेसरैः सह ज्वलितः सिंहमकरस्कन्धो यत्न . Kula says सकेसरा ऊर्ध्वं ज्वलिताः सिंहमकराणां स्कन्धा यत्न तम् .

* B, however, has āṭṭamāṇa आवर्त्यमान .

84. K says शराभिघातेन धुतानां पर्वतानां शिखरेभ्यः पतन्तीभिः मणिशिलाभिः भग्नविद्रुमलतामण्डलम् । दरदग्धविषधरोत्सृष्टे विषपङ्के मग्न-विह्वलकरिमकरकुलम् . Kula says विषपङ्केषु क्षिप्तं लग्नं विह्वलं करिमकरकुलं यत्न तम् . He seems to read pañkakkhitta. Cf. pañkukkhitta found in ms. C of Goldschmidt. Others read - kkhutta (मग्न). Cf. Hemacandra 4.101 - khuppaī, majjaī. Kula also reads दव for दर .

85. K reads उद्धावत् for rundāvatta (स्थूल or बृहदावर्त) found in R and Kula. He reads veā- for velā (R) ; and disāhoam for disāālam दिग्जालम् (R and Kula) .

K says शरभयादुद्धावद्भिः, अशक्त्या घूर्णमानैः, वेगेनापतितैः एकैकैः परस्परैरिव भिन्नमहीधरम् । नभस्तरुविलग्नाभिः वेपमानाभिः धूममयीभिः लताभिर्विषमव्याप्तदिगाभोगम् .

MY reads uddhāanta and explains it as ऊर्ध्वायमान . K's reading is same (see above) As in 9.69 he explains uadhāanta as उद्धावत् .

Kula says वेगेन(? cf SC) अपहताः स्खलिता अन्योन्यभिन्ना महीधरा यत्न . He seems to read avahaa (cf. 14.28) for āvaḍḍiā. R says वेलायामापतिता अत एव एकैकं परस्परं भिन्ना दलिता महीधरा यत्न तम् .

86. K says पक्षपरिरक्षणार्थमुत्थिताः तदानीं शरनिबहैः आतताः (chāyā has आहत), दिक्षु प्रकीर्णा महीधराः यथा भवन्ति । स्फुटितस्य जलस्य मध्यात् निर्गतैः स्फुटै रत्नोद्योतैः सहितं समाहितं छादितमुद्भटं गम्भीरं नलविवरं यत्न .

Kula says स्फुरितात् (स्फुटितात् ?) विघटितात् जलमध्यात् . K says स्फुटितात् शरप्रवेशपर्वताद्युत्थानेन सरन्धीकृतात् जलमध्यात् .

87. K, MY and Kula read nīaa - ṇahumhā for ṇia - ṇaahumhā (R) .

K says हुतवहप्रदीप्तत्वात् गोपितानामन्तःप्रवेशितानां नखानामूष्मणा दाहोष्मणा विह्वलमहाग्राहम् । ग्राहाणां नखाः त्वचा छन्ना एव भवन्ति संरम्भसमये निर्गच्छन्तीति प्रसिद्धम् । परिवृद्धपरस्परानुरागं संश्लिष्टं, शरप्रहारेण निर्व्यक्तं पृथग्भूतं शङ्खकुलं यथा भवति तथा क्षपयामासेति .

MY reads ṇūmia rendered as गोपित for govia (R) . This seems to be K's reading also. For Kula see below.

MY says हुतवहप्रदीप्ता, गोपितनिजनखा, ऊष्मविसंस्थुलाश्च महाग्राहा यथा भवन्ति तथेत्यर्थः । उदधिदाहरोषविनिर्गतानां प्रवृत्तदाहतया पुनर्निचुलितानां नखानामूष्मपातेन* विवशीभूतसिंहमकरमित्यर्थः .

Kula says हुतवहेन प्रदीप्ताः, स्वगात्रेष्वेव गोपिता ये निजकनखास्तेषामूष्मणा । परिवर्धितान्योन्यानुरागं कृतघनाश्लेषमित्यर्थः . Kula seems to read ṇūmia which is the ms. reading of SC Text. See editor's footnote. Hemacandra 4 21 gives ṇūmai as the equiv. of छादयति .

R says गोपितयोः मुद्रितयोः निजनयनयोरूष्मणा .

SETUBANDHA

CANTO VI

1 K says अथ समुद्रः ज्वलदरदग्धमहाभुजङ्गाख्यपादपनिवहं धूमपूरितं पातालवनं मुक्त्वा दिग्गज इव मूर्तिमान् निर्गतः । यथा दिग्गज आत्मनिवास-स्थानं द्वाग्निना प्रदीप्यमानं मुक्त्वा निर्गच्छति तद्वदिति.

2. K and MY read तटपरिघृष्टं for dadha-parimattham = दृढपरि-मृष्टं (R) MY (B) has parimattha like R but this might be a mistake K reads dādbā-līham for dādhullīham (R and Kula).

K says मथनावस्थायां मन्दरस्य तटैः परिघृष्टं निकषितं, प्रलयसमयवि-जम्भितस्य महावराहस्य दंष्ट्रया लिखितं, इदानीं रामशराघातेन दूनं परितापितं, अतएव विषमं वक्षस्तटं वहन्.

MY says pariaddha (?) परिघृष्ट । भगवतस्तत्तदवतारोद्देश्यकार्यनिर्वर्तन-निमित्तव्रणाङ्गम्, अतएव निम्नोन्नतं वक्षः पुरो दर्शयितुमिवोद्वहन् इत्यर्थः । अथवा पूर्व मन्दरतटवराहदंष्ट्राभ्यां घर्षणलेखनमात्राङ्कितमिदानीं तु राम-शरक्षतविषमं वक्षो भारमिव दुर्वहमुद्वहन् इत्यर्थः.

Kula says विषममितस्ततो जातकिणत्वात्. He has परिघृष्ट like K and MY SC Text has parihattha rendered in the chāyā as परिघृष्ट. The phrase is quoted in Hemacandra 2 174 as mandarayada-parighattham It will be seen that HC reads for ada (तट) like K and MY dadha (R and Kula).

3 K says गम्भीरशरव्रणविस्तारौ, दीर्घौ, देहानुरूपौ, अभिनवचन्दनगन्धौ शैत्यहेतोरर्पितस्याभिनवस्य चन्दनस्य गन्धयुक्तौ (भुजौ वहमानः) । अनघोत्क्षिप्ते अक्लेशेनानायासेन उद्धृते मलयसरित्स्रोतसीव दृश्यमानौ । तत्र गम्भीरवनाभोगे, अभिनवचन्दनगन्धे इति.

MY says vanāhoa व्रणाभोगो वनाभोगश्च । anaha अनघ अक्षत अवि-शीर्णेत्यर्थः । सलिलात्मतया समुद्रस्य तदभुजयोः स्रोतःसाम्यौचित्यम्. Kula says अनघमपापं निःशेषं यथा स्यात् तथा उत्क्षिप्ते उद्बृत्ते मलयसरित्- स्रोतसीव दीर्घौ भुजौ वहमानः. R says अनभसि अनाकाशेऽर्थात् भूमौ उत्क्षिप्ते

पर्वतात् निपत्योच्छलिते । तथा च ते अपि मलयात् समुद्रे पतत इति ।
यथा ते वहमानस्तथा भुजावपीति सहोपमा.

4. K. reads रत्नं (raanam) for viraham (R and Kula)

K. says एकावलिरेव रत्नम् । तारः सुमौक्तिकम् । तारस्तु मुक्ताशुद्धौ
सुमौक्तिके इति वैजयन्ती । तारैः कृतमेकावलीरत्नं वहमानः । कीदृशं—लघूकृत—
कौस्तुभरत्नं, मन्दरगिरिमथनसंभ्रमेऽपि अतिमहार्घत्वादमुक्तम्. Kula says सर्व-स्वमपि दत्त्वा तथाविधनिग्रहेऽपि रक्षितमिति भावः.

MY reads vianam for viraham. He says viana वेदना.

Kula says शशिमदिरामृतसहोदरमिति शशिवदाह्लादकारि मदिरावत्
मदहेतुः अमृतवत् सर्वदोषहरं तारा विशुद्धा या एकावली सैव रत्नं स्वजा-
त्युत्कृष्टत्वात् तद् वहमानः.

5 K says भयात् स्खलन्त्या गङ्गायावलम्बितं स्त्रीणां भर्तुर्वामपार्श्वश्र-यत्वात् भार्यया गङ्गायावलम्बितम्, अतएव तस्या हस्तस्पर्शेन प्रतिषिद्धशरण-
वैकल्यम् । वैकल्यं विकलभावः वेदनेत्यर्थः । रुधिरेणारुणितरोमाञ्चं, गुरुम् एवं-
भूतत्वात् दक्षिणहस्तादपि वरिष्ठं वामभुजमुद्रहमानः. MY also says हस्तस्पर्शेति
गङ्गाया इति शेषः. Kula says सवेदनत्वात् गुरुकं, गङ्गायाः प्रियायाः हस्तस्पर्शेन
प्रतिषिद्धशरणवैकल्यम्.

6 K reads mahiharam for mani-silam (R and Kula). Kula pratika has allino for alino (R) MY agrees with Kula. K's pratika seems to be same

K says समुद्र. निजया लायया शोभया व्याप्तमलयमहीधरं, संश्रितैः
मुखमुपजाय्य. जानक्या विरहित रघुपतिमाश्रितश्च । कमिव लतया विरहितं
द्रुममिव । विशेषणमुभयत्र समानम्.

MY says allino आलीनः प्राप्तः.

7. K and MY have an entirely different verse here, the general sense being the same. The chāyā in K is

शीर्षरचिताञ्जलिपुटः शरवेदनादूनिताननः सलिलनिधिः । पादयोः दाशरथेः
पवनवशक्षिप्तपादप इव निपतितः ॥ K only says स्पष्टोऽर्थः.

MY says pāesu पादयोः । osuddha अवपातित. He seems to read vasosuddha for vasa-kkhutta (K) in the second line

Kula agrees with R.

8. K says त्रस्तहृदया, अतएव विपर्यस्तमुखी स्त्रीस्वभावात् भयाच्च
परावृत्तमुखी त्रिपथगा च पूर्वं यत एव निर्गता तस्मिन्नेव कमलाताम्रे हरिचरणे निपतिता.

Kula says पश्चाच्च यत एव हरिचरणात् निर्गता । अनेन दुहितृधर्मो
दर्शितः । अतो भर्त्रा सह पितृसमीपागमनं लज्जाकरमित्याह । hittha-hiaa
व्रीडितहृदया । हित्थं व्रीडितभीतयोरिति देशीयदर्शनात् । अतो विपर्यस्तमुखी
तत्रैव हरिचरणे कमलाताम्रे त्रिपथगापि निपतिता .पितृपदप्रणाममकरोदिति भावः.

MY says hittha त्रस्त.

9. K says अथ सलिलनिधिः रामं प्रति एवं जल्पति स्म । मृद्वपि
सुकुमारमपि प्रयोजनभरस्य सहम् । स्तोत्रं परिमितमपि अर्थस्य सारेण उत्-
कर्षेण अभ्यधिकमतिमहत् । प्रणतमपि प्रणतियुक्तमपि धैर्यात् गुरु उन्नतं, स्तुति- संबद्धमपि अनलीकमवितथं वचनमित्यध्याहर्तव्यम्.

MY says मृद्वपि भरसहं कोमलसंदर्भमपि हेतुहेतुमद्भाववस्थितकर्क-शार्थप्रतिपादकं, मिताक्षरमपि अमितसारार्थं प्रणयं प्रार्थनारूपम्.

Kula says भरसहं विमर्दक्षमं प्रकर्षेण नतमपि धैर्यगुरुकम् असुलङ्घ्यं .
अनलीकं यथार्थं सलिलनिधिर्जल्पति.

10 K says दुस्तरत्वेन गुर्वी, स्थिरगाम्भीर्यपरिग्रहां, त्वयैव पूर्वं स्थापिता स्थितमवस्थानं तव प्रियमित्यनुपालयता मया कथमपि केनापि प्रकारेण तव विप्रियं कृतम्.

Kula syas दुस्तरत्वेन गुरुं दुर्वहां, स्थिरो धैर्यपरिग्रहो यस्यास्तां . त्वयैव स्थापितां स्थितिं त्रिभुवनव्यवस्थाकारिणीं मर्यादां कथं नाम देवस्याप्रीतिः स्यादिति प्रियवृद्ध्या अनुपालयता मया तव विप्रियं कथमपि कृतम् । अपिशब्दो नामार्थः । कथं नाम कृतं न कृतमेवेति भावः । अथवा कथमपीदं विप्रियकारणं, किं तदित्यहं तावन्न जानामीत्यर्थः । अतएव प्रभोरत्र न दोषो ममैवायं कर्मविपाक इति मधुरोपालम्भो दर्शितः.

11 K. says विकसदवस्थायां रजोभिः शबलं, मकरन्दरसेन पूरितमुखर-भ्रमरं कुसुमं ऋतुना द्रुमाणां दीयते, तत् पुनरात्मनैव कदापि न ह्रियते खलु । तस्मात् भवता दत्तं पदं भवतैव न हर्तव्यमिति. K (chāya) has रजःकर्बुरं, रसाध्मात्, and ह्रियते न पुनरपि आत्मनैव कुसुमम्.

Kula says विकसद्रजोमिश्रकलुषं, मकरन्दरसाध्मात्मुखरमधुकरम्, ऋतुना द्रुमाणां कुसुमं दीयते न पुनश्च आत्मनैव ह्रियते । एतेन देवेन इयं दुस्तरत्वगुर्वी स्थितिर्दत्ता नैनामपहर्तुं देवोऽर्हतीति भावः.

12 K and MY read क्षयदुष्कालानुचरं for khaa-kālānala-khaviṃ = क्षयकालानलक्षपितम् (R and Kula).

K saya तव चरणोत्पन्नया त्रिपथगया परिपूर्ण (प्रतिपूर्ण others), क्षयाख्यदुष्काले तवानुचरं सकलभुवनसहारात् भवतः सहायभूतं, धरणितलोद्धरणे त्वया वराहरूपिणा विलुलितमात्मानमिदानीम् अहं किं विस्मृतोऽस्मि स्मराम्येव । तस्मात् भवतो नाहमवज्ञामाचरामि. Kula says विलुलितं विमर्दितम्.

Hemacandra 3. 105 cites the initial phrase of the verse and reads pamhuṭṭha for pamhattha (प्रस्मृत). K pratika in our copy has kim pammuṭṭho. MY pratika has kim pamhattha, but ms. B adds pamhuutto प्रस्मृतः विस्मृतवानित्यर्थः. The pratika in Ms. B is kim pamha-ttho mhi,

13. K reads स चाहं नाथ त्वया (1 e, so a aham nāha tume for soakulintena tume(R and Kula) = शोककलान्तेन त्वया. MY also says so a स च.

K says मधुकैटभविरोधे चरणाभ्यां विलुलितः अस्मि । धरणिमण्डलोद्धरणे दंष्ट्राघातैः क्षोभितोऽस्मि । एवंभूतः सोऽहमिदानीं दशमुखवधे शरैश्च विलुलितोऽस्मि । तव कार्यान्तरप्रसंगे मम पीडा सिद्धैवेत्युपालम्भः. R says विलुलितो विमर्दितः.

14. K reads निजावस्था हीयं for niaāvatthāhi vi me=निजकावस्थायामपि मे (R and Kula), and केवलं (navara) for धीरे (R and Kula).

K says निजा मदीयावस्था हीयं त्वदीयेन रोषेण यादृशः कृतोऽस्मि सैषा खलु ममावस्था । एवं धीरेण एवं शक्तिमता केवलं तव विप्रियं कृतमभूत् । तव विप्रियं कर्तुं के वयम् । तथापि कृतमेव । कथमिति चेत्, अनेन कारणेन प्रकृतिसौम्या प्रकृत्या प्रसन्ना तव मुखशोभा कथमपि विसवादिता विकृतेति यत् तस्मादिति.

MY says विप्रियमेतदेवेत्यर्थः. Kula says निजकावस्थातोऽपि अधिकमेवैतत् धैर्येण विप्रियं कृतम् । अतोऽप्यधिकं मम दुःखं वर्तत इत्यर्थः । किं तदिति यदनेन धैर्येण प्रकृतिसौम्या . तव मुखच्छाया कथमपि मदीयप्रमादेन समुदितरोषजननात् अन्या कृता (अन्यथा कृता R). R explains eam as एकम्.

15 K says एवं तवैतादृशानां सुरकार्यसहस्राणां निर्वर्तनजनिते खेदे सति विश्रामस्य सहायभूतम्, अतएव प्रलयार्थं रक्षितं रक्षणीयं, प्रलये जगतः प्लावनसमर्थं जलनिवहमिमं परिरक्ष मा विनाशय.

Kula says जगत्प्लावनयोग्यं. प्रलयरक्षितं प्रलयानलादपि रक्षितमेव जलनिवहं परिरक्षस्व । जगत्प्लावनार्थं च रक्षणमस्योचितमिति भावः.

16 K and MY (ms. B) pratika has apadiṭṭha for apario (R). Kula pratika has avario. K reads nibbhara cca which is mentioned by R as a variant. Kula reads nibbharam cia like R

K says एवं क्षपितेऽपि मयि यतो येन प्रदेशेन युष्माभिर्गम्यते तत्रापि दलन्महीतलं पङ्कमयत्वात् दीर्यमाणस्थलं पातालं दुर्गमं स्यात् । मयि सलिल-निर्भर एव केवलं न खलु दुर्गमम् । तस्मात् जलगोपणमकिञ्चित्करमेव.

Kula says अक्षयिते मयि सलिलनिर्भरमेव जलभरितमेव पातालं दुर्गमं न खलु । क्षयितेऽपि मयि दुर्गमं पातालम् । कथमित्याह—अपरिस्थितम् अवधि-शून्यं मूलस्य तलमधोभागो यस्य तत् तथा । यत्र गम्यते तत्र दलन्महीतलम् । एतेन तलस्य प्राप्तिः पङ्कदुःसरत्वं च दर्शितम् R says अपरिस्थितं न परि सर्वतोभावेन स्थितम् । अदृढमित्यर्थः.

17 K reads दरञ्जुटित (darakkhudra, cf SC text) for darukkitta=दरोत्कृत्त (R). SC chāyā has दरखण्डित. Kula's reading seems to be same

K says तस्मात् कालस्यान्तकस्य पदं दशमुखे निषीदतु । कथंभूतम्—दरच्छिन्नात् दशमकण्ठात् कथमपि स्खलितमीश्वरसांनिध्यात् प्रतिवद्धं, चिर-कालमाकुञ्चितं निक्षेप्तुमुद्यतं, तथा निषीदतु वानरैः घटितसेतुबन्धं यथा । इत्येव-मुक्त्वा समुद्रो विरराम.

MY says tam तस्मात् । जलक्षपणस्य अनुपायत्वादित्यर्थः. Kula says यत एव तत तस्मात् कालस्य यमस्य यत् पदं शङ्कराराधनाय नवसु कण्ठेषु छिन्नेषु सत्सु निधातुं प्रसारितम्, कथमपि अथार्धखण्डिते दशमे कण्ठे शङ्करस्य प्रसन्नत्वात् स्खलितं सत्, कदापि निधास्यत इति आरोपणाय चिरकालमाकु-ञ्चितम् उल्लिख्य वक्रयित्वा स्थापितं, तदिदानीं त्वया निःशेषलूनकण्ठे दशमुखे घटितो गिरिभिः सेतुबन्धो निषदनाय यस्मै तद् यथा स्यात् तथा निषीदतु । तत् वक्ष्यतां गिरिसेतुरित्यर्थः.

18. K (chāyā) has जगद्दुष्परिकले. K says जगता परिकलयितुं परिच्छेत्तुमशक्ये समुद्रे ।. ..वालिनीव बाणनियते (बाणनियमिते chāyā) प्रशान्ते सति. Kula says नियते दर्पशून्ये कृते. R says जगता दुष्परिकलनीये दुस्तरणीये, पक्षे दुर्जये.

19. K and MY read pavamgame suvilaggā for pavamgamesu vilaggā (R and Kula).

K says रामस्याज्ञप्तिराज्ञा सेतुबन्धविषया प्लवगाधिपतिना वितीर्णा दत्ता प्लवङ्गमान् सुष्टु विलग्ना, रोषस्य फणैर्विक्षिता त्रिभुवनसारेण गुर्वी मही किङ्कर--भूतान् भुजङ्गानिव.

MY says pavamgame प्लवङ्गमान् । suvilaggā दृढलग्ना । bhuamge भुजङ्गान्.

Kula says रामस्याज्ञप्तिः प्लवगाधिपतिना स्वयं प्रतीप्य वितीर्णा दत्ता प्लवङ्गमेषु सेतुबन्धार्थं. ..आरूढा । शेषफणाविन्यस्ता भुवनसृजेत्यर्थात् त्रिभुवन-सारेण गुर्वी महीव भुजङ्गमान्. He refers to the विभक्तिभेद of the उपमेय and the उपमान involved in the construction followed by him, and says अर्थाभेदात् न दोषः.

Kula seems to read valaggā (आरूढा) for vilaggā=विलग्ना. cf. Hemacandra 4. 206. The ms. reading of SC Text also is valaggā. See editor's footnote Besides, Kula has विन्यस्त (see above) for विक्षिप्त (vicchūdhā). SC Text has nivvūdhā (निर्व्यूढ).

Lokanātha, quoted by SC, says like K-रामस्याज्ञप्तिः प्लवङ्गमान् सुष्टु विलग्ना. See editor's footnote.

20. K reads phutṭanta for phutṭanta=स्फुटत् (R and Kula). MY has khutṭanta त्रुट्यत्.

K says ततः प्लवगा हर्षेण प्रथममेव तुलितान् उच्छ्रितान्, चलन-रभसेन त्रुट्यत्पक्षमत्वात् दलद्रोमत्वात् विषममुच्छ्वसितान् विकसितान्, वेगेन

चलनवेगेन उत्खातसीमन्तान् अतिस्फुटीकृतमध्यपद्धतीन् केसरसटोद्धातान् धूत्वा चलिताः.

MY says ukkhaa उत्खात अपनीतेत्यर्थः.

Kula says हर्षेण प्रथमं तुलितानुल्लसितान् । एतेन कार्यारम्भे रोमाञ्चेन मनःप्रसादः कार्यसिद्धिहेतुर्दर्शितः । स्फुटत्पद्म विकसत्सूक्ष्मरोम यथा स्यात् तथा विषममत्यन्तमुल्लसितान् .केसरसटासमूहान्. He seems to explain उत्खात as उत्कीर्ण. R says उत्खातः प्रकटीकृतः. Kula remarks- तथा-चोक्तम्—मनःप्रसादः सिद्धिलक्षणमिति.

21. K says प्लवगक्षोभितेन महीतलेन धुतस्य मलयस्य पतद्भिः शिख-
रैर्मुक्तकोलाहलः समुद्रः अनागतैरेव धरणिधरैः घटमानसंक्रम इव उच्चलितः
(उत्थापितः chāyā) । अनानीतेष्वपि पर्वतेषु वध्यमानसेतुरिवेत्यर्थः. Kula says
अनागतं प्रागेव घटमानो बन्धं गच्छन् धरणीधरसंक्रमो यत्र तथाभूत इव समुद्र
ऊर्ध्वायितः (?) (उद्धावितः उच्चलितः R).

MY says सेतुबन्धे व्यवस्थिते (व्यवसिते B) समुद्रः स्वयमेव कृतहर्ष-रवः कपिवलेभ्यः प्रथमत एव सेतुकरणे प्रवृत्त इवालक्ष्यतेत्यर्थः । anāra-ghadanta इति पाठे तु अयत्नघटमानेत्यर्थः.

22 K reads उत्तिष्ठति (utthei, cf 12 11) for uddhāt = उद्धावति
(R and Kula).

K says महेन्द्रशैलः मलयस्य परिसरे महेन्द्रः.

23. K, MY and Kula read ukkampam for okkampam (R).
For tulaggēna (तुलाग्रेण) see also Notes on 7. 39. It is variously explained as 'in a moment', 'by chance', 'all of a sudden' etc.

K says ततः प्लवङ्गमवलं दूरं नभ उत्पतितम् । कथंभूतं—रभसेन
संचालितशैलं, कथमपि केनापि प्रकारेण, तुलाग्रेण क्षणेन, समं युगपदेव घटमान-

नभुवनोत्कम्पं, नखमुखलग्नवसुधम् अवगाढेषु नखमुखेषु लग्नमृत्तिकं भूत्वा उत्पतितम्,

MY says tulaggena samaghadantukkampam एकक्षणोत्पन्नसर्वोत्पतनोद्योगमित्यर्थः । अथवा मिथस्तुलासंमितोत्साहम्.

Kula says ततः क्षोभेण संचालितशैलं, शैलसंचालनादेव तुलाग्रेण समं सदृशं यथा स्यात् तथा घटमानोत्कम्पं तुलाग्रवदस्थिरमित्यर्थः । अस्थिरत्वादेव कथमपि प्लवङ्गमवलं दूरं नभ उत्पतितम् । उत्पतनाय भरदानात् नखमुखलग्नवसुधमिति. R says तुलाग्रं काकतालीयसंवादः (cf. Deśināmamālā 5. 15), तेन सममेकदैव घटमानः कम्पः स्पन्दो यस्य.

24. K and MY read mūle for śidhule = शिथिलान् (R and Kula); and °suhe for °sahe (R and Kula),

K says कपीनामुत्पतनाडम्बरेण अवनते महीतले नदीमुखैः प्रतिस्रोतः प्रस्थितः समुद्रः जलनिवहाहतमूलान् पर्वतान् प्लवगानामुत्क्षेपणे सुखान् सुकरान् अकरोत् । वृक्षाणामुद्धरणे यथा मूलसेकं कुर्वन्ति तद्वदिति.

MY says ucchippana-suhe उत्क्षेपणसुखान् । कपिबलोत्पतनवेगावनतायां भूमौ नदीमुखैः प्रतिस्रोतः प्रस्थितोऽब्धिः मूलतलार्द्राकरणेन शैलानयत्नोत्पाट्यान् अकरोदित्यर्थः । अनेनापि समुद्रस्य सेतुकरणसाहायकमुक्तं^१ भवति.

Kula says उत्पतनेन अवनते महीतले सति नदीमुखेन प्रतिस्रोतः प्रस्थितः नदीस्रोतः प्रतीपं कृत्वा प्रसृतः सलिलनिधिः जलनिवहाहतत्वेन शिथिलान् .. महीधरान् करोति.

R says सलिलनिधिर्महीधरान् प्लवगानामुत्क्षेपणसहानुत्थापनयोग्यान् करोति.

25. K says स्फुरज्ज्वलनवत् पिङ्गलैः निरन्तरमुत्पतितैः प्लवगैः पीडयमानो गगनोद्देशः यत्र यत्रादृश्यते तत्र तत्र वानरमयस्य ज्वलनस्य धूमनिवह इव ज्ञायते स्म.

१...साहाय्य...B

S...2

It will be seen that K reads dhūma-n:vaho vva for..... tu = इति (R and Kula). MY agrees with K. He says pellijjanto पीड्यमानः प्रेर्यमाणो वा । अनलपिङ्गलकपिवलनिरन्तरमन्तरान्तरा दृश्यमानं नमो धूमवदलभ्यत.

26. K says दूरमुत्पतितं, तदानीमुदधावधोमुखप्रसरत्प्रतिविम्बं कपिसैन्यं धरणिधरोद्धरणे काङ्क्षितं काङ्क्षासहितं सपक्षपर्वतोद्धरणे साभिलापं पातालं गच्छदिवादृश्यत.

MY says aīntam अतियत् प्रविशत् । विम्बं यथा नभसि उपर्युपरि दूरदूरतरादौ वर्तते, यथा जलादेरन्तरधस्तात् दूरतरादौ प्रतिविम्बं दृश्यते यतोमुखं च भवति तद्विपरीतं तत्र दृश्यत इति स्थिते दूरं नभसि समुत्पत-दूर्ध्वमुखं कपिवलमुदधावधोमुखतया दूरावगाढप्रतिविम्बं शैलोद्धरणाय पाताल-मप्यंशेन प्रविशदिवालभ्यतेत्यर्थः.

K (chāyā) has पातालमिव यत्. R says पातालमिव अयमानं गच्छत्. Kula says कपिसैन्यं पातालमिवागच्छत् दृश्यते. cf. anti invariably explained as आयान्ति by R (5. 33; 6. 36, 7. 55; 8. 60).

27. K says प्लवगवलैः निरुद्धप्रकाशम् अदृष्टदिङ्मण्डलं, विच्छिन्ना-तपत्वात् कृष्णं नभः दिवसमुखेऽपि पूर्वाह्नेऽपि दिवसावसान इव जातम्.

Kula says व्यवच्छिन्नातपत्वात् कृष्णं. ..नभः. He seems to read vocchinna for vi° cf. 8. 98, 9. 75. SC Text also has vo°.

28. K says प्लवगाः शैलेष्व(व)पतन् । कथंभूताः—अवपतनावस्थायां तिर्यक्स्थितपृष्ठावकाशेभ्यो निःसरद्रविकराः. MY says tamsa-tthia त्र्यस्त-स्थित तिर्यगूर्ध्वमुखतयावस्थितेत्यर्थः.

29. K and MY read अत्रुदित(akkhudia ?) for ukkhālia = उत्खण्डित (R). K reads dhāriam dharāhāia-jālam for dhāria-tthiam giri-ālam (R and Kula).

K says वेगादवपतितानां च तेषां धराधरजालम् अनुटितमेव अच्छिन्नमेव साकल्येन समूलमेव उद्धर्तव्यं जातम् । कथमिति—अवपतनरभसात् दलितेन महीसन्धिवन्धेन मुक्तं, कथमपि भुजङ्गैः धारितमिति.

MY says दलितमहीसन्धिवन्धनमुक्तं दलितमहीसन्धिवन्धनावगलितम् । अतएव त्रुटनाभावेऽपि तोलयितुं शक्यमित्यासीत् । यत् महत्तरतया शेषेण प्रयत्नधृतं गिरिजालं तदपि शिथिलमूलतया मूलसहितमेव तोलयितुं शक्यं जातम् । न तु मूलतस्त्रुटितं चेति तात्पर्यम्.

Kula says कथमिव भुजङ्गैः धृतत्वात् स्थितम्, उत्खण्डितेन उन्मूलन-मात्रेण तोलयितव्यं तोलनार्हं गिरिजालं जातम्. Kula has उत्खण्डित like R, but his reading might be ukkhudīa found in SC Text.

30. K says वानराः धरणिधरानुद्धर्तुमारब्धाश्च । कथंभूतान्—उरसि पतितत्वात् विशीर्णगण्डशैलप्रदेशान्, कुपितैः सिंहैरभिभूताः गृहीताः संक्षोभात् भ्रष्टाः वनगजा येषु तान्.

MY says oaggia अभिभूत; tuleum तोलयितुम्. Kula says उरसि पतितानां विशीर्णखण्डशैलानां च्युतस्थूलप्रस्तराणामर्द्धान्ता येषां....तान् धरणिधरान् तोलयितुमारब्धाः.

31. K and MY (ms. A) pratika has vacchuttamghia (वक्ष-उत्तम्भित). MY (ms. B) has °ttha°, like R.

K says कटकैः परिघृष्टवक्षस्तटाः, शैलवत् गुरवस्ते प्लवगाः शैलेषु पर्याप्ताः । तेषां वक्षोभिरुत्थापितकटकाः पर्वताश्च तेषु पर्याप्ता बभूवुः । उभयेषां भेदो नोपलब्ध इति.

R has padattalia = प्रतिघृष्ट. MY has pariaddhia परिघर्षित (परिकर्षित ?). He says प्लवगाः शैलवहाः शैलेषु प्रभूताः कटकपरिघर्षित-वक्षस्तटाः शैलाः प्लवगेषु च प्रभूताः नान्योन्यमहीयन्तेत्यर्थः. Kula's reading might be pariattalia, cf. SC. He says कटकैः परि. .. (2) परिकलितं परिच्छिन्नं वक्षःस्थलं येषाम् । अतः परस्परसाम्यात् शैलगुरुकाः प्लवगाः शैलेषु, महीधराः प्लवगेषु प्रभूताः संमिताः.

32. K says वृक्षोन्मूलन इव प्लवगानां भुजैः नुन्नेन आनीतेन आकृष्टेन च महीधरेण या प्रतिपीडना तथा पर्यायेण अवनतोन्नतत्वात् विषमा नैकरूपाः महीतलार्धान्ताः क्षोभात् प्रलोठितेनोदधिना वारं वारं पर्यायेण भरिता जाताः । अवनतावस्थायां पूरिता उन्नतावस्थायां विमुक्ता इत्यर्थः । एवं पर्वता उद्धरणाय क्षोभिताः.

MY says nollia नुन्न । प्लवगभुजैः नुन्नानीतत्वं नुन्नप्रतिनुन्नत्वमुत्पादनार्थम्.

Kula says पर्यस्तेनोदधिना. He reads प्रेरित (pelha, cf. SC Text) for nollia = नोदित R.

33. K and MY read प्रतिकूलाः for padikkhambhā (R and Kula); and वत्सलाः for pabbalā = प्रवलाः (R and Kula).

K says पर्वता वानरैरुत्खन्यन्ते स्म । कथंभूताः... क्षयकालमारुतस्य प्रतिकूलाः प्रत्यर्थिनः । . प्रलयजलस्यापि उत्तम्भने प्रतिबन्धे वत्सलाः समर्थाः.

MY says padikkulā प्रतिकूलाः (cf. Hemacandra 2 97) वेगधारकाः । vacchalā वत्सलाः समर्थाः. cf. 4. 25 above.

Kula says प्रतिस्कम्भाः प्रतिघातकाः. R says प्रतिस्तम्भाः प्रतिरोधार्गलाः.

34. Lokanātha quoted in SC, says विशदा व्यक्ता विशीर्यन्ते सशब्दं खण्डशो भवन्ति. Acc. to SC, others explain विशदाः as स्पष्टा विभिन्नावयवाः.

K and MY read ekkukkkheva for ekka-kkheva (R and Kula).

K says जलदैरपवृष्टविमुक्ताः, अनन्तरावतीर्णे शरत्पथे शरत्समये आपतिताः प्राप्ता गिरयः प्लवगैरेकोत्क्षेपेण उद्गृहीताः अशुष्कभूमिवन्धत्वात् एकेनोत्क्षेपेणोद्गृहीताः ईषच्छुष्का विशदा जलसरोधरहिताः विश्लिष्यन्ति छिन्नभिन्नं पतन्ति स्म. Kula says visattanti विक(स)न्ति विकटविस्तारा भवन्तीत्यर्थः. R says गिरयो विशीर्यन्ति शतखण्डा भवन्तीत्यर्थः.

K and MY partika has oattha for ovattha MY reads vasuvāa (शुष्क). Kula says एकेन क्षेपेण एकयैवाकृष्ट्या. R says एकक्षेपेण एकप्रयत्नेन. Kula says अनन्तरम् अनु(अव ?)पतिताया अवतीर्णायाः शरदः पन्थानमापतिताः. He seems to read ova a (cf SC Text) for oinna (अवतीर्णा).

35. K reads ukkhivanti for ukkhiventi = उत्क्षेपयन्ति (R)

K says फलवङ्गमैर्विधूयमानाः शैला महीतलं विधून्वन्ति । तैर्वल्यमाना भ्रम्यमाणाः भूतलं भ्रमयन्ति स्म । नाम्यमाना नामयन्ति । उत्क्षिप्यमाणास्ते भूतलमुत्क्षिपन्ति स्म. R says वल्यमाना वक्त्रीक्रियमाणाः सन्तो वलयन्ति वक्रयन्ति.

MY reads valanti for valenti, but he explains it as वलयन्ति (K chāyā also). He says धूननं स्थिरस्य प्रथमचलनम् । वलनं मूलवृटना-याभितो भ्रामणम् । नमनमधःप्रणोदनम् । उत्क्षेपणमूर्ध्वप्रेरणम्.

36. K says धरणिधराः वानरैः संचाल्यमाना एव रसातलं यान्ति स्म (chāyā has यन्ति).

MY says aṁti अतियन्ति^१ प्रविशन्तीत्यर्थः. Kula says रसा-तलमायन्ति. R has आयान्ति.

37. K and MY read विधूयमानाः (vihuvvantā) for vijjantā= वीज्यमानाः (R and Kula).

K says नवपल्लवैः सशोभाः, जलदोदरजैः शिशिरमास्तैः विधूयमाना एवं सुकुमारा मलयद्रुमाः चन्दनद्रुमाः तत्क्षणमुत्खाताः पर्वतेभ्य उद्धृताः कपि-हस्तैर्नभसि दूरमुत्क्षिप्तत्वात् विह्वलाः व्याकुला म्लायन्ति स्म.

MY says vāanti अशुष्यन् । अनेन शैलोत्पाटनाय तन्मूलरूढानां द्रुमाणामुत्पादनमुक्तं भवतीति वेदितव्यम्.

Kula has तिष्ठन्ति for vāanti (वायन्ति शुष्यन्ति R). He says मलयद्रुमाश्चन्दनतिष्ठन्ति । मलयादन्येष्वपि देवताधिवासपर्वतेषु तत्सुकृत-वशात् चन्दनतरुयोगो न विरुध्यते । Kadaa-dumā इति पाठस्तु सुगम एव.

38. K says प्लवगैः कम्प्यमानधराधरशिखरैः समाविद्धानां क्षिप्तानां जलधराणां रवैरुद्विग्ना पुनरपि घनसमयागमशङ्कया भीता, अतएव गतसुख-वृत्ता गतसुखवृत्तिः निःसंज्ञा, सहस्रपत्रनिषण्णा गिरिशिखरसरःसंवन्धिनि पद्मे निषण्णा हंसी वेपते स्म । गतसुखवत्त्वा निःसंज्ञेति वा ।

MY says uppitthā (uvvitthā B) उत्त्रस्ता । गतसुखपात्रनिःसंज्ञा (सुखवति (B) । अथवा गतसुखवर्तन्या सन्ना खिन्नेति । अथवा गतसुखवत्त्व-निःसंज्ञा. The last explanation is missing in A.

Kula says uppitthā समाकुला । रोषपूर्णे समाकुले च uppittha-शब्दो देशीयः¹. Then he seems to say सुखवर्त्म जलदात्ययः तस्य गत-त्वात्, अथवा जलदागमबुद्ध्या सुखहेतुर्या वार्ता प्रवृत्तिः तस्या गतत्वात् निःसंज्ञा निश्चेतना.

39 K says प्लवगैरुपगृहकृष्टानां शैलानामभ्यन्तरेषु भ्रमन्ति विषमो-न्नतेषु स्खलितानि, तेषां विस्तृतवक्षःस्थलरुद्धनिर्गमानि नदीस्रोतांसि गभीरं रसन्ति स्म.

40 K and MY (A) read ucchitta for ukkhitta and sidhile (Kula also) for pasidhile प्रशिथिलान् (R)

1. Hemacandra says in Deśināmamālā 1. 129—उष्पित्थ त्रस्त कुपित विधुर चेति त्र्यर्थम्.

K says अर्धोत्क्षिप्तावस्थायां शिथिलितान्, अर्धपथे भुजङ्गैः कृष्टत्वादेव अर्धास्तमितान्, रसातलपङ्के मग्नसरिन्मुखान् परितो भूतलस्य विश्लिष्टत्वादधस्तात् पाताले लग्नसरिप्रवाहान् पर्वतान् प्लवङ्गा उन्मूलयन्ति स्म.

MY says प्रथमं शिथिलतमूलान् अर्धोत्क्षिप्तानेव अन्तरा मूलावेष्टक-भुजगावकृष्टतया पुनर्यावच्छिखरमत्यन्तान्तरितान् अतएव रसातलपङ्कखातसरिन्मुखान् उदमूलयन् गिरीनित्यर्थः । अथवा प्रथममर्धोत्क्षिप्तान् भारेण शिथिलानिति योजना.

Kula says रसातलपङ्कक्षितसरिन्मुखान्. He seems to read °kkhutta for 'kkhutta (मग्न). Ms C of Goldschmidt has ukkhutta.

41. K has परिमुच्यमानम् for प्रति—.

K says प्लवगैः कम्प्यमानेषु महीधरेषु पार्श्वमाश्रयत्सु शिखरैः परिमुच्यमानं निरायतं नभस्तलमुद्वेष्ट्यते इव विस्तार्यते इव प्रतिभाति । उत्क्षिप्यमाणेषु पुनस्तेषां मूलविस्तारोत्क्षेपेण संवेष्ट्यते इव संकोच्यते इति प्रतिभाति.

R explains *uvvella*₁ as उद्वेल्ल्यते प्रकाश्यते, and *samvelli*₁ as संव्रियते वर्तुलीक्रियते. K agrees with Hemacandra who derives them from वेष्ट् preceded by उत् and सम् respectively (4. 222, 223).

MY says *uvvela*₁ उद्वेल्यते (A has *uvvella*₁ उद्वेप्यते which is a mistake for उद्वेष्ट्यते) । nirāam दीर्घम् । *samvelli*₁ संवेत्यते संवेष्ट्यत इत्यर्थः । *sampelli*₁ इति पाठः । तदा संपीड्यत इत्यर्थः.

Kula is somewhat corrupt, but he seems to sayधरासन्धिबन्धादुन्मोच्य' स्वस्वस्थानगतात् उद्धृत्य स्थापितेषु, गर्तस्थानेषु निरायतं दीर्घं स्कन्धारोपणकाले पार्श्वायमानेषु (महीधरेषु), स्वशिखरेषु प्रतियुज्यमानं नमदिव, स्कन्धारोपणानन्तरमुत्क्षिप्यमाणेषु (तेषु), नभस्तलं संवेष्ट्यते वर्तुलीकृत्य संकल्यत इव. He seems to read padijujjantam for padimuccantam.

१ This is preceded by उद्वेल्लेषु उत्पाटितेषु महीधरेषु in SC which reads uvvellesu for *uvvelle*₁ va.

42 K reads आश्लिष्ट (āśliddha, cf. HC 2. 49) for āruhaṇa (R and Kula). MY reads आरूढ.

K says प्लवङ्गः भुजशिखरैराश्लिष्टत्वात् निश्चलगृहीतान् पर्वतान् कट-
कापतनोत्तम्भितेन पर्वतस्य भिन्नकटकपतनभयात् उन्नमितेन, विषमं विवृत्तेन,
विपराग्भूतेन मुखेन युक्ताः सन्तः उन्मूलयन्ति स्म.

MY says ārūdha आरोपित । नुनेति वा पाठः (i.e. ṇollīa).
ārūdhi इति पाठे त्वारोपणमर्थः । कटकस्यावपतनात् उन्नमन्तो विषमविवृत्ता विपराङ्मुखाश्चेति विग्रहः. MY seems to read ovadana for ā°

Kula says भुजशिखरारोहणेन स्कन्धविनिवेशनेन..... परिगृहीतान्.
R says विपराक् पश्चादगतं मुखं येषां ते । गिरीणामंसवर्तिनां त्रुटितो
नितम्बो मुख एव पतेदिति शङ्कया पश्चात्कृतमुखा इत्यर्थः. Kula says विषमं
तिर्यक् विवर्तितं च विपराक्कृतं (?) मुखं येषां ते प्लवङ्गाः.

43. K and Kula read भज्यमानाः (bhajjanā) for bhujjantā=
भिद्यमानाः (R). K chāyā has भुज्यमानाः.

K says दृष्टिप्रसरनिरोधेन हरीणां भुजैराकृष्य मुक्ता, भुजङ्गदृढवेष्टना-
वलम्बनेन धृता, भज्यमाना अपि चन्दनानां विटपा महीतले न पतन्ति स्म
अवलम्बन्त एव.

MY says oallanti अवलगन्ति अपवेल्लन्ति वा आलम्बन्त इत्यर्थः.
Kula says oannanti (oallanti ?) अवलम्बन्ते. Kula has भुज्यमानाः.
Probably it is a mistake for भज्यमानाः, as it appears to be followed by भङ्गं गच्छन्तः. cf. SC.

44. K, MY and Kula pratika has padīsā (प्रतिशाम्यति K and MY; प्रतिसायति Kula) for padīsama (R). K reads प्रलय-घन for bharābbha= भृताभ्र (R and Kula).

K says नभोनिबद्धः नभसि प्रसृतः, प्रलयघननादवत् गम्भीरतरः अकाण्डे सहसा भज्यमानानां उद्ध्रियमाणानां धरणिधराणां निर्घोषश्चिरेण प्रशाम्यति स्म. Kula says गुरुघण्टाध्वनिरिव विलम्बेन क्षीयते । 'क्षै जै सै क्षये इत्यस्य धातो रूपमिदम्. R and Kula say जलपूर्णस्य अभ्रस्य मेघस्य नादवत् गम्भीरतरः.

45 K pratika has pāsallanti which he renders as पर्यस्यन्ते MY says पार्श्वमाश्रयन्ति. Kula and R have पार्श्वयन्ते.

K (chayā) has भुजाक्षिताः. He says प्लवङ्गमभुजैराक्षिता गिरयो यतोमुखाः पर्यस्यन्ते धाव्यमानधातुताम्राणि क्षाल्यमानधातुताम्राणि सरित्स्रोतांसि ततोमुखानि वलन्ते स्म.

MY says गाढप्रहतरुधिरपतनसमाधिरत्रानुसंधेयः.

46. K reads विस्तृत (vitthaa) and भ्रमत् (bhamanta) in the second line for fatthaa (प्रस्थित) and valanta respectively found in R and Kula.

K says उत्क्षेपकाले प्लवगैः वलिता भ्रमिताः, तदानीमात्मीयसरितां अन्योन्यघटितस्य विस्तृतस्य (भ्रमतः) सलिलस्य वलयान्तरेषु वलमानाः भ्रमन्तः शैला महोदधेः आवर्तेषु वलमाना इवाद्श्यन्त.

MY says pavaa-valā उन्मूलनार्थं प्लवगैः भ्रामिताः । ghadia घटित । घटितत्वं निरन्तरावस्थितत्वम्.

Kula says वमन्ति (?) (वलन्ति SC) मण्डलाकारेण वहन्ति यानि सलिलवलयानि तेषामन्तरेषु.

47 K says पर्वतेषु चलत्सु पार्श्वेषु आलीयमानवनलताभिः विक्षिप्तं कुसुमस्तवकं मधुकरमिथुनं नामुञ्चत् । कथंभूतं—मकरन्दसेकात् गुरुरपक्षं, पीत-

१. Our copy has क्षै है सै.

मकरन्दमपि पक्षस्य गौरवभरात् मोक्तुं नाशक्नोदित्यर्थः. K (chāya) has नो मुञ्चति कुसुमगुच्छम्.

MY says pāsoallanta (pāsa + oallanta) पार्श्ववलम्बमान । वन-
लताविक्षिप्तमास्वादितमधुरसमिति च कुसुमगुच्छस्य विशेषणम् । मध्वार्द्रगुरुपक्ष-त्वमपरित्यागहेतुः.

Kula says पार्श्वे अवलम्बमानया वनलतया विक्षिप्तं प्रेरितमपि आस्वा-
दितमधुरसमपि मधुकरमिथुन मकरन्दगुरुकृतपक्षत्वात् कुसुमगुच्छं न मुञ्चति ।

पक्षपातहेतुमाह—आस्वादितमधुरसमपीति अनुभूतमधुरसमपि भाविमकरन्दसंबन्धा-
नुबन्धेन न मुञ्चतीत्यर्थः.

48 K reads uddhaa (cf 1 51) for uphua= उत्प्लुत (R). K and MY read स्थिर and उच्चलिते for thia स्थित and ucchalie (R and Kula).

K says उद्धतसुरभिगन्धेन मकरन्देन रञ्जितानि, स्थिरपरिलीयमानमधु-
करोदरैरञ्जितानि अक्तानि निर्व्यक्तानीत्यर्थः । व्यञ्जितानीति वा । अञ्जु
व्यक्तिगमनप्रक्षणेपु । सूर्यकिरणपरिमर्शात् विकसितानि कमलवनानि सरसां सलिले उच्चलिते सति आकाशमाश्रितानि.

MY pratika has upphusia for uphua. He says उन्मृष्टसुरभिगन्ध-मकरन्दरञ्जितानि स्थिरपरिलीयमानभ्रमणशीलभ्रमरैरुदरे अञ्जितानि.

Kula pratika seems to have uphua (उत्प्लुत) like R He says
उद्गतेन सुरभिगन्धिना मकरन्देन; and भ्रमरैः उदरे अञ्जितानि (?) कञ्जलि-
तानि कमलवनानि.

49. K and MY read चलन्ति for valanti (R and probably Kula who says पार्श्वान्तरेण (?) भ्रमन्ति). K, MY and Kula have फण for फणा. They seem to read °pphana.

K says अंधस्तात् दृढबद्धमूलाः केचित् शैलाः वानरभुजैः अवलम्बित-
शिखराः क्षोभ्यमाणाः, रोषेण क्षोभितानां मूलभाजां भुजङ्गमानां विषमोर्ध्वैः फणैः
प्रणुन्नाः चलन्ति स्म, न पुनरुद्धर्तुमशक्यन्तेत्यर्थः.

MY says uppittha उत्पत्तिस्त । दृढमूलबन्धा अपि शैलाः कपिभुजैरुन्मू- लनाय अवलम्बितशिखराः तत्क्षणोत्पत्तिस्तभुजगोर्ध्वफणविषमनुन्ना अचलन्तित्यर्थः.
Kula has संक्षोभात् रोषपूर्णानां भुजङ्गानां विषमोर्ध्वफणैः तिर्यगूर्ध्वोक्तभोगैः cf.
Kula on verse 38 above.

50. K reads sarīā-salīla-ppavahā for sarīā sarānta-pavahā =
सरितः सरत्प्रवाहाः (R).

K says प्लवगैः महीधराणां भ्रमणे कृते तदीयानां बर्हीनां सरितां सलिल-
प्रवाहाः भ्रमणवेगेन अन्योन्यं मिश्रीभूय महानदीप्रवाहत्वेन पर्यस्ताः, क्षोभितपङ्क-कलुषाः बलमानशैलवशेन वलिता मुहूर्ते वहन्ति स्म.

MY says उन्मूलनार्थं शैलेषु भ्राम्यमाणेषु भ्रामिताः तदीया बहवो निर्झराः
सम्भूय महानदीप्रवाहो यथा स्यात् तथा परस्परमिलिताः शैलमभितः क्षणं
प्रावहन् । अथवा annanna इति पाठे अन्यैरन्यैः महानदीप्रवाहैः पर्यस्ता
इत्यर्थः.

Kula says सरितां नदीनां सततप्रवाहा अविच्छिन्नप्रवाहाः. He seems to read sarīā-saaa-ppavahā, like ms C of Goldschmidt. cf. SC Text.

The order of verses in K and MY is 48, 50, 49, 51 with an additional verse after 50.

51. K, MY and Kula read श्वसन्तः (sasantā) for samantā
=समन्तात् (R). K has परि— for पद— in the second line

K says उद्ध्रियमाणानां पर्वतानां मूलालग्ना भुजगेन्द्राः रसातले अर्धभागेन
घूर्णमाना विषममुद्धर्तनवशेन दृश्यादृश्यपृष्ठोदरत्वात् धवलकृष्णवर्णाः श्वसन्तः कृष्यन्ते स्म.

Kula says अर्धकायेन परिभ्रमणशीला भुजगेन्द्राः क्रोधात् श्वसन्तः कृष्यन्ते.

52. K (comm) reads ईषत् (dara ?) for bhaa in the second line, but the chāyā has भय.

K says रभसोन्मूलितस्य महीधरस्य सकाशात् ईषत्पलायितवनदेवतानां तदीयलताना कुसुमं सरसमपि नवमपि कुसुमं गलति स्म । अस्पृष्टबन्धनमपि अस्पृष्टमूलमपि किसलयं म्लायति स्म । आधारस्य पर्वतस्योन्मूलनादेवमभूत्.

MY says vā1 म्लायति । anālidha अस्पृष्ट. Kula says अस्पृष्ट-बन्धनमपि अभग्नवृन्तभागमपि. R says वाति वृन्तादपगच्छति । vā1 वायति शुष्यतीति केचित्.

53. K, MY and Kula read ukkhammantī =उत्खन्यन्ते for ukkhippantī (R)=उत्क्षिप्यन्ते. They read padanam (पतनं) for paūṇam =प्रगुणं (R).

K says दिक्षु धराः पर्वताः समस्ता उत्खन्यन्ते । यदुद्धृता इति यत् तेन हेतुना वसुन्धरा क्षणेन समाप्ता ज्ञायते । भूधराणामुद्धरणात् भूरपि नष्टेति ज्ञायते स्म । किञ्च उद्भ्रियमाणैः गिरिभिः गजनन्दिसालदानं क्रियते । गजनन्दी सल्लकी । सल्लकी स्यात् गजप्रियेति हलायुधः । साली वृक्षः । गजनन्दिवृक्षाणां दानं खण्डनं क्रियते स्म । अपि च दिग्लतानां जलदमयस्य शिखरस्य पतनमवर्धत । पर्वतशृङ्गविघटितानां दिङ्मयलतानां तद्गत-मेघमयस्य अग्रस्य पतनं बहुतरमभूदित्यर्थः.

MY says अकीर्यत महीधरैः गजनन्दिसालदानं सल्लकीखण्डः । दानं भङ्गः.

It will be seen that K and MY construe the third line as kīra1 mahuhareḥ gaanandī-sāla-ānam Kula construes it also as gaanam di-sāla-ānam cf. R.

Kula says यत् यस्मात् दिक्षु सर्वासु धराः पर्वताः समाप्ताः^१ युगपत् गृहीता उत्खन्यन्ते तेन हेतुना ज्ञायते क्षणेन वसुन्धरा मही समाप्ता

१. Our copy has समन्ता. SC (chāyā) has समाप्ता. SC which partly reproduces Kula has samattā

नष्टा । धराः समस्ता इति व्याख्यानमसङ्गतं समस्तशब्दस्य हि samattha इति रूपं भवति (Vararuci 3. 12) । किंच गजनन्दिनश्च ते शाला वृक्षाश्चेति तेषां दानं दिशां लतानामिव महीधरैः क्रियते । अथवा दिक्षु आलयो येषां तेषां दिग्गजानामित्यर्थवशात् जलदाः शिखराणीव तेषां पतनं वर्धते । अथवा द्वयोः शालयोः प्राकारयोः दानं (?) निर्माणं यत्र तथाभूतं गगनं.... महीधरैः^१ क्रियते । अधः कपिमाला उपरि शैलमाला यस्मात् तस्मात् द्वौ प्राकाराविव नभसः कृतावित्युत्प्रेक्षागर्भोक्तिः ।... अथवा द्विशालतानं द्वयोः प्राकारयोः तानो विस्तारो यत्र गगने तत्तथा । किंच दिशालतानामिव जलदाः शिखराणि अग्रविटपा इव तेषां पतनं शैलोन्मुखं ...वर्धते (८)।

54 K (pratīka) has ekkekkena, with which MY (B) agrees. MY (A) has ekkakkamena omitting अ, and explain it as एकैकेन—एकैकेनापि कपिना एवं कृतं कि पुनः संभूयेति भावः. K and Kula read इव....इव (i.e., va) for च....च (R) in the second line. K reads -tthaīam (स्थगितं) for -tthamīam (अ)स्तमितं R. Kula's reading seems to be the same.

K says करतलयुगलधृतं शैलं तुल्यता उद्धरता एकैकेनैव कपिना नभः अर्धस्थगितमिव कृतं, महीतलं च अर्धप्रकाशितरसातलमिव कृतम् । एतेन पर्वतानामतिमहत्त्वमुक्तम्.

MY says tulantena तोलयता उन्मूलयेति शेषः । रसातलस्योद्घाटनं विपुलपर्वतोन्मूलनमार्गेण स्फुटदृश्यमानत्वम्. Kula says नभः अर्धावस्थगितमिव (कृतम्), । अर्धोद्घाटितरसातलमिव उत्पाटितपर्वतविवरैः पृथुभिः अर्धप्रकाशितपातालमिव महीतलं कृतम्.

55. K says उद्भ्रियमाणानां शैलानां नितम्बेषु आलम्नाः अधोनितम्बेषु दृढसंबद्धाः, प्रविरलेन नदीमार्गेण इतस्तो विशीर्णजलेन नदीप्रवाहेण प्रकाशतटच्छेदाः अधोगतेन जलप्रवाहेण प्रकाशनदीतटखण्डाः मेदिनीतलैकदेशाः अधो धारयतां

१. SC. has महीधरैः करणभूतैः क्रियते अर्थात् कपिभिः ।

भुजगेन्द्राणां फणैर्धारिताः सन्तः पर्वतैः सह नभो विलगन्ति स्म न निपतन्ति स्म. MY says यथाधस्तात् भूतलं तथा तादृशाकारपरित्यागेनैव नभो व्यलगन्नित्यर्थः. Kula saya वानरोत्क्षिप्तजैलैः सह मेदिनीग्वण्डैकदेशा नभो va(lagganti) (आ)रोहन्ति.

56. K, MY and Kula read cāham for a caliam = च चलितं (R) K and MY read visama-samam for sama-visamam (R and Kula)

K (chāyā) has अस्पृष्टकं दरेण in the second line. K says चलिन-क्रन्दरेण धरणिधरेण चालितं क्रन्दरागु वर्तमानत्वात् क्रन्दराचलनात् चलितं, दरेण भयेन अस्पृष्टम् (Kula also) इत्.पूर्व भयेनास्पृष्ट गजकुलं स्फुटति पृथग्भवति स्म । गिरिशिखराणि सरसहरितालपङ्क्तितानि, हरितालो धातुविशेषः. सरसैर्विलीनैः हरितालैः पङ्क्तितानि, हरिजालैः वानरसमूहैः वक्रितानि विषमं समं च बहुप्रकारं नमन्ति स्म.

MY says हरितालवक्रितानि हरीणां तालप्रहारेण वक्रितानीति वा हरिजाल-वक्रितानीति वा. Kula says हरीणां तालैः करतालैः.

57. K (chāyā) and MY read परियत (parinta)⁹ for pavilla= प्रवृत्त (R) K and Kula read वज for raa = रय (R).

K says उद्ध्रियमाणपर्वतानां पादपशिखरेभ्यः उत्तीर्णमुच्चलितं, मलयवन-परिवर्तमानपवनवशेन विस्तारितं कुसुमरजः मृदितरविकरं नभः सन्ध्याराग इव व्याप्नोति स्म. K (chāyā) renders apphunda as आक्रामति like R.

MY says महत्यपि क्षोभे नित्यदुर्दिनतया मलये भूरजसोऽसंभवात् कुसुम-रजःसमुत्थानमिति मन्तव्यम्.

⁹ MY is here corrupt Our copy has परीयत् and परित्. (A), patinta (B) In the gloss on 14 57 MY explains parinta as परियन् K here explains परियत् as परिवर्तमान. Cf his gloss on 9 60 The word परियन् is often written by the scribes as परीयत् and पर्यत्

Kula says मलयवनात् परिगच्छतः^१ प्रसरतः पवनस्य वशेन विस्तृतम्, and ... सन्ध्याराग इव नभः स्थगयति. He seems to read parinta like K See notes on 7. 50 and 9. 68, 88.

58 K says कृष्टैर्मूलैः सह निरन्तरं निरवकाशं यथा रसातलादुत्क्षिप्तेन सलिलमिश्रेण कर्दमेन घटिताः दीर्घाकृताः महीधराः वर्धन्त इति ज्ञायते स्म । महीतलं मुच्यन्तीति न ज्ञायते स्म पार्श्वस्थैः. Kula says न मुञ्चन्त्येव महीतलमिति ज्ञायते.

59. K (chāyā) reads the last two lines as follows.

विन्ध्यनितम्बानां कपयो दर्पोन्नतानां
सह्यतटानां भरिता भुजगापूर्णानाम् ।

K thus reads dappunnaānam for dappunṇāmānam दर्पोन्नामानां (R), and bhuapṇunṇānam (?) for dhuapunnāmānam धुतपुंनागानाम् (R). K reads मलयगिरेः for malaassa a (R) in the second line

K says महेन्द्रात् पर्वतात् लब्धानि शिखराणि नभो नीतानि प्लवगैराकाशं गमितानि । मलयगिरेः दलार्धानि दलानां तटानामर्धानि खण्डानि भरस्य पर्याप्तत्वात् महीमतिनीतानि मह्यां परित्यक्तानि । कपीनां भुजदर्पेण दूरमुन्नतानामुद्धृतानां विन्ध्यनितम्बानां, भुजगापूर्णानां सह्यतटानां च कपयः पूर्णानितम्बैः पूर्णा इत्यर्थः । पूरणगुणेत्यादिना ज्ञापिता षष्ठी. K reads appunna (आपूर्णा). see Notes on verse 96.

MY's readings are same as those of K. Kula's readings are dappunnaānam and dhua-punnaānam He says महेन्द्रात् पर्वतात् लब्धानि शिखराणि नभो नीतानि । चरणभरेण आक्रम्य गमनात् मलयस्य....दलार्धानि महीमानीतानि भूमिं प्रापितानि । किञ्च कपयः विन्ध्यनितम्बानां भरिताः पूर्णाः । पूरणार्थयोगे तृतीयार्थे षष्ठी, नितम्बैरित्यर्थः । दर्पेण दृप्ततया उन्नादानाम् उद्धृतानां न केवलं तेषां भरिताः, सह्यतटानां च, धुताः पुन्नागास्तरुभेदा येषां

60 K and MY read मुधा मितं for a māvam = च मापितं (R and Kula)

K says प्लवगानामग्रहस्तैः गिरयः तुलिताः उद्धृताः । तुलिता इत्युक्ते उपमिता इति च स्फुरति । तमर्थमालम्ब्य आह—शिखराणां प्रमाणं कपीना भुजशिरोभिः मुधा व्यर्थं मितं समीकृतम् । तथा कटकानां प्रमाणमुरोभिः मुधा मितं, दरीणां प्रमाणं तेषां व्रणविवरैः मुधैव मितम् । कुतः अग्रहस्तैरेव गिरीणां तुलितत्वादिति.

MY says mubā मुधा । miam मितम् । शिखरकटकादिपरिमाणसादृश्येऽपि कपिभ्यः सारतः शैला हीनतमाः संवृत्ताः, तेषां तदग्रहस्तमात्रतुलितत्वादित्यर्थः । तुलिता इति सदृशीकृता इति च स्फुरति.

Kula says शिखराणां भुजशिखरैः (i.e. bhua-siharehi for °sirehum) ... कर्तृभिः प्रमाणं मापितम् इत्युक्त्या परिच्छिन्नं, कटकानामुरोभिः, उरःस्थलस्थितपृथुव्रणविवरैः दरीणाम् । dario इति पाठे तुलिता इति योज्यम् । प्लवगानामग्रहस्तैः हस्ताग्रैः गिरयः कियन्नामैषां गौरवमिति हेतुया तुलिता उल्लिखिताः. R says प्रमाणं परिमाणं मापितं सदृशीकृतम् । अग्रहस्तैः हस्ताग्रैः गिरयस्तुलिताः सदृशीकृताः . वस्तुतस्तु तैस्तेषां प्रमाणं मापितमित्यध्यवसायानन्तरमग्रहस्तैः तुलिता उत्तोलिता इत्यर्थः ।

61. K says पर्वनोद्धरणक्षोभेण भ्रान्तं निःसहमतिक्लिष्टं तद्गतं गजकुलमेवंभूतम्.

Kula says अवरुणो भग्नः श्लथव्यापार इत्यर्थः करो यस्य तत् तथा.

62. K reads पर्यस्त (palhattha ?) for pāsalla (पार्श्वायित R and Kula; पार्श्वश्रित MY) K and MY read aluvvi तलोर्वी for daluvvi दलोर्वी (R and Kula).

१. Our copy has पुन्नागान्. SC gives the word correctly.

K says पादपाश्च पर्यस्तेन शैलेन विषममानीताः विषममाकृष्टाः, उद्धरणरभसेन चूर्णिताः, दल्यमानतल्या^१ उर्व्या समानीताः (समानिताः ?) चूर्णितत्वात् पृथिव्या समीकृता अभवन् । जलधराश्च विघटमानेन विशीर्यमाणेन महेन्द्रेण राविताः । णे रावादेशः । शिखरगता मेघाः महेन्द्रेण विघटमानेन शब्दिता अभूवन् । तद्गता वनलताश्च महीमीषत् प्रापिताः सत्यो घूर्णन्ते स्म.

MY says समानीताः (समानिताः ?) समानीकृताः. Kula says दल्यमानैः विभिद्यमानैः दलैरवयवखण्डैरुर्व्याः समानिताः. . भूमिसमाः कृता इत्यर्थः. He says राविताः शब्दं कारिताः । अथवा रवावृता आवृतरवा (?) इत्यर्थः । vihadanti इति पाठे तु जलधराश्च विघटन्ते । किभूताः—रवेणावृतो महेन्द्रपर्वतो यैस्ते. R says पार्श्वायिते वक्रीभूते शैले महेन्द्रनामनि विषमानीता वैषम्यमागताः । स्वयमपि वक्रीभूता इत्यर्थः

63. K and MY pratika has khuttantā for tuttantā (R) = व्रुध्यन्तः. K and Kula read प्लवगोत्क्षेपैः (pavaiṅkkhevehī) for pavaa-bhua-kkheva° (R).

K says शैलभराङ्कुशितफणैः शैलमूलेषु अतिदूरमग्नफणैः भुजगैः मूले अधस्तले वलितार्धान्ताः भोगभाराः प्लवगानामुत्क्षेपैः सशब्दं व्रुध्यन्तोऽपि न ज्ञाताः । भूधारणे पारवश्यातिशयात् भुजगैः स्वशरीरच्छेदोऽपि न गणित इत्यर्थः.

MY says पातालस्थितपश्चिमार्धा गिरिमूलवेष्टितपूर्वार्धाश्च भुजगाः शैलभराङ्कुशीकृतफणाः सशब्दव्रुध्यन्मध्यानपि भोगान् नाज्ञासिषुरित्यर्थः. R says मूलेऽर्थात् भूमेः वलितो वक्रीभूतोऽर्धान्तोऽन्तार्धं पुच्छभागो येषां ते.

Kula reads phuttantā. He says प्लवगोत्क्षेपैः सशब्दं . स्फुटन्तोऽपि विदीर्यन्तोऽपि मूले वलितो भ्रमितोऽर्धान्तो यैः ते तथा भोगाः शरीराणि त एव गुरुत्वात् भाराः ; अज्ञाने हेतुमाह—शैलभरेण अङ्कुशीकृता आकुञ्चिताः फणा यैस्तैर्भुजङ्गैः न ज्ञाताः । भरापगमसुखादिति श्रीहर्षः.

१. Our copy has.. धरया. K (chāyā) has दल्यमानतलोर्वी.

64. K, MY and Kula read रेचित (reia) for dāvia = दर्शित (R).

K says कपिभिः किञ्चिदुद्धृतमहीधरं, तदानीं दरोत्क्षिप्तविह्वलापसरद्-
भुजङ्गं, दरशून्यीकृतपातालं महीवेष्टं कपिभिः ह्रियमाणमिव अदृश्यत । महीतल-पर्वतयोः अपृथग्दर्शनात् महीमण्डलमपि ह्रियमाणमिव ददृशे.

MY says ईषदात्मना रिक्तीकृतपातालं किञ्चिदुन्मुक्तपातालं महीवेष्टमूर्ध्वं
ह्रियमाणमिव अदृश्यत । अथवा लुण्ठ्यमानमिवेत्यर्थः । तत्संबन्धिशैलादेरपहरणात्
तदाश्रितानां च भुजगानामपसरणादिति.

65 K and MY read मत्स्यकुलानि शिथिलयन्ति जीवितं, and omit avi = अपि (R and Kula).⁹

K says नयनवत् दीर्घतराणि मत्स्यकुलानि धरणिधरसंभ्रमे विकसति विजृ-

चन्द्रनाशितानां तिमिरोद्गमानां यथावशेषो न स्यात् तद्वदिति.

MY says न च नदीहूदान् नदीगृहाणि वा जीवितशैथिल्यं सोढ्वा हूदान्
न त्यक्तवन्तो मत्स्या इत्यर्थः. MY reads महिषकुलानां घनशिलापीडितानां नव-चन्दनाश्रितानाम्.

K and MY seem to read pellāna for ve° (R Text). K usually renders pellia as पीडित. R (comm.) and Kula have प्रेरित which also gives pellia.

Kula says नयनवत् दीर्घाणि मीनकुलानि.....जीवितमपि शिथिलयन्ति, न तु नदीगृहाणि मुञ्चन्ति । दुस्त्यजा खलु जन्मभूमिरिति भावः । किं च

१ R Text has avi a = अपि च.

२. Our copy has सालशिलाभिः.

निःशेषं क्षीयन्त इत्यर्थः etc. R says नयनवत् दीर्घाणि, नयनेन दीर्घाणि, दीर्घनयनानीति वा.

66. K says एकदेशवाचकः अर्धशब्दः सर्वनामसंज्ञः । अर्धे कतिचित् महीधराः अर्धे स्फुटिताः उन्मूलनरभसात् मध्यभागे स्फुटिताः । अर्धे केचित् उद्धरणसमये संभ्रमात् अर्धकटके कटकार्धे उत्खातशिलावेष्टाः पतन्ति । प्लवगभुजैराहतत्वात् शिथिलाः अर्धे केचित् अर्धशिखराः आनीयमानावस्थायां कपिभुजैराहतशिलाः अर्धशेषशिखरा भूत्वा पतन्ति स्म.

Kula says अर्धे अर्धप्रदेशे अर्धस्फुटिताः, अर्धे अर्धकटकेभ्यः कटकार्धेभ्यः उत्खातशिलावेष्टाः, प्लवगभुजाहता 'विसर्वा' विघटितप्रदेशा महीधरा अर्धे अर्धशिखराः खण्डशृङ्गाः पतन्ति. R renders visadha as विशीर्ण. K has शिथिल.

67. K, MY and Kula read तुल्यते (tulijja1) for vivajja1 = विपद्यते (R). They read उत्क्षिप्य (ukkhettūna, cf. samakkhettūna = समाक्षिप्य 10. 74) for ukkhantūna = उत्खाय (R). They also read पतितस्फुटितः for padīam phudīo (R); i. e. , padīapphudīo.

K says उद्ध्रियमाणस्य यस्य गिरेः शिखरं तुल्यते भिद्यते, उद्धृतोऽपि यः पतितस्फुटितश्च^१ अधःप्रदेशे पतितः पतितार्ध इत्यर्थः, स्फुटितश्च यो धार्यते भुजाभ्यामवलम्ब्यते स एव शैलो विसृज्यते त्यज्यते स्म । कुतः—उत्क्षिप्यापि भरे भारे अपूर्यमाणे सति अपर्याप्तभारत्वात् कपिभिः परित्यक्तः.

3. K says गिरिनिवहे निपतति सति समुद्रः तद्विस्तारच्छादितत्वात् न दृष्टः । दूरमधः अवपतिते सति वेगानिलाघातात् कम्पितः । क्षणात् पतिते सति विलुलित. क्षुभितः । गिरिनिवहे जलेषु अस्तमिते सेतुविरचनाभावात् निमग्ने सति परिवृद्धोऽभूत्.

4. K, MY, Deva and Kula read bharia for bhamura भ्रमणशील (R). K reads uccaha (Deva also) for ucchalia (R and Kula).

K says अथ महोदधेः सलिलं निहतोद्वृत्तजलजन्तु, कृष्टभ्रमत्कानन-भरितोत्सङ्गं कृष्टैः भ्रमद्भिः काननैः पर्वतसबन्धिभिः भरितोपरिभागं, पर्वत-पतनात् प्रथममुच्चलितं नभसि उच्चलितं तत आगतं भूत्वा कलुषच्छायं जातम्.

MY says यथा कृष्टकाननं भवति तथा भ्रमत् तैरेव काननैः भृतोत्सङ्ग-मिति योज्यम्.

Kula says निहताः सन्त उद्वृत्ता उत्तानीभूता जलचरा यत्र । पर्वतपतनात् प्रथमोच्छलितागतं, गमनागमनेन कृष्टैः काननैः भ्रमन् भरितश्च उत्सङ्गो यस्य तत् महोदधिसलिलं कलुषच्छायं जातम्. Deva says उद्वृत्ताः परिप्लवमानाः

5 K says सलिलास्तमितः पूर्वपतितो महीधरो यस्य स तथाभूतः, पुनरपि अदृष्टमिलितगिरिसंघातः उपर्युपरि अदृष्टघटितगिरिसंघातः नभःसागरान्तरालोद्देशः तथाघटितपर्वत इव दृश्यते, रौद्रचातिशयेन प्रतिक्षणं क्रियमाणस्य पर्वतघटनस्यादर्शनात् प्रथमघटितपर्वतवानिवादृश्यत. MY says कदाचिदपि पर्वतरहितो नादृश्यतेत्यर्थः. Kula says सलिले अस्तमिता महीधरा यत्र स तथा । पुनरपि अदृष्टमिलितो गिरिसंघातो यत्र स नभःसागरयोरन्तरालोद्देशः तथा तेन प्रकारेण घटितपर्वत इव दृश्यते । एतेन निर्झरसंततिः यथा प्रति-क्षणं विच्छिद्यमानापि तथाव्यवस्थितैव लक्ष्यते, तथैवाविच्छिन्नमिलितप्रक्षिप्तपति-तानां गिरीणां संतान इत्युक्तं भवति.

6. K says कपिभिः शैला उद्धृताः, समुद्रः कम्पितः । अतएव प्रतिपक्षस्य भयं जनितम् । तथाहि महालक्षाणां, लक्षशब्देन साध्यमुच्यते अक्षुद्रलक्षाणामतुच्छानुभवानां हृदयसारा हृदयशक्तय एव न केवलं गुरवः, आरम्भा अपि गुरवो भवन्ति हि । लक्षस्य महत्त्वात् आरम्भाश्च तदनरूपा भवन्तीत्यर्थः.

MY says सारो बलम् । केवलं बुद्धिबलान्येव न गुरूणि किंतु प्रवृत्तयोऽपीत्यर्थः.

Kula says महत् लक्ष्यं सिसाधयिषितं येषां ते महालक्ष्याः, तेषां न खलु केवलं हृदयस्य सारा व्यवसायविशेषाः गुरुकाः, किंतु आरम्भाः कार्यं साधनोपाया अपि गुरुकाः.....

7. K reads the second line as उदधौ पुनः पतन् कुत्र गत इति सलिले न ज्ञायते शैलः. Kula agrees with R.

Verses 8 and 9 are not found in K and MY. Verse 8 is found in Kula, but after 10, the order of verses being 7, 10, 8, 11.

10. K and Deva read विपुल for phula = पृथुल (R). K says वानरैः वेगेनाविद्धाः भ्रमयित्वा विसृष्टाः, विपुलैः वलमानैः निजैः निर्झरैः परिक्षिताः शैलाः उदधिमग्राप्ता एव आवर्तमण्डलेषु भ्रमन्तीव. Kula says आविद्धाः क्षिताः. Besides he says निजाभिः वलन्तीभिः निर्झरावलीभिः परिक्षिता वेष्टिताः. He reads nīaa-valantojjharavali cf. SC. Text.

11. K says प्ललगैः क्षणात् मेलितो घटितः प्रविद्धः, शिखरान्तरेभ्यः निर्यन् निर्गच्छन् रिक्तः शून्यः गिरिभरवर्जितः वानरलोको यस्य स तथाभवन् गिरिनिवहः समुद्रे पश्चादेव पतितः । प्रथममेव नभसि अन्यो गिरिनिवहो मिलति घटते स्म. K (chāyā) has पश्चात् पतति.

It will be seen that K (Deva also) reads melia-ppaviddho for melāpaviddho (R and Kula) R says मेलितो योजितः पश्चादपविद्धः प्रेरितो गिरिनिवहः. Kula is corrupt, but SC which reproduces him says क्षणादतर्कितं मेलितः समुपस्थापितः अपविद्धः क्षितः.

MY says क्षणेन घटयित्वावपातितः पूर्वावपातितान्यगिरिनिवहतया रिक्तेन गिरिरहितेन.....शिखरान्तरालैरूर्ध्वं निःसरता कपिलोकेनोपलक्षितः मध्यमो गिरिनिवहः समुद्रे पश्चादपतत्, प्रथममेव त्वन्यस्तृतीयो नभस्यमिलत् । अत्र मिथ इति शेषः, अथवा समुद्रे पश्चात् पततः प्रथमं नभसि घटमानस्य च द्वयोर्गिरिनिवहयोः क्षणमेलितप्रतिविद्धत्वं शिखरान्तरनिर्यद्रिक्तवानरत्वं च क्रमा-

1. Deva says कपिभिः क्षणेन मेलितः प्रविद्धः घटयित्वा क्षितः.

देकैकविशेषणमनुसंधेयम् । अतः पर्यायद्वयमेव सिद्धं भवति । अनेन गिरि- घटनानैरन्तर्यं विवक्षितमिति.

12. K says उदधौ वानरैः रभसक्षितानां पर्वतानां गतिपथा दीर्घा
वलमाना विकटाश्च, मारुतेन पूर्यमाणाः, पातालोदरवत् गभीरा भूत्वा
रसन्ति स्म.

MY says Osuddhāna अवपातितानाम् (Deva chāyā also). This is the reading of SC Text and Kula also, who has निपातितानाम्. R reads ovuddhāna and says रभसेन वेगेनापविद्धानां प्रेरितानां महीधराणाम्.

13. K, MY Deva and Kula read ainti raanāram in the second line for padanti raanāare (R).

K says कपिभिः लीलयोत्क्षिप्य विमुक्तानि, नभसि अन्योन्यघट्टनेन
भिन्नानि, वज्रभयात् उद्विग्नानीव गिरिसहस्राणि रत्नाकरं प्रविशन्ति स्म (यन्ति chāyā) । पूर्वं गिरय इन्द्रवज्रभयादाविग्ना यथा समुद्रं प्रविष्टाः तथैव प्राविशन्.

MY says ainti (SC Text also) अतियान्ति प्राप्नुवन्नित्यर्थः. Kula says रत्नाकरमायान्ति. Deva says अयन्ते गच्छन्ति. SC has अधिगच्छन्ति which is a mistake for अतिगच्छन्ति.

14. K says शैलाः भिन्नशिलातलशिखराः भूत्वा प्रथमं प्रापतन् ।
निजतटात् (अपसृत)द्रुमकुसुमरजोधूसरितानि महानदीस्रोतांसि वायुनोद्धूतानि
पश्चात् पतन्ति स्म. Kula says भिन्नानि शिलातलानि शिखराणि च येषां
ते शैलाः. R says शैलाः कीदृशाः—निजकद्रुमेभ्यः अपसरद्भिः कुसुमरजोभिः
धूसरिताः.

15 ' K says दूरादुत्खातनीतेषु पर्वतेषु समुद्रे लोष्टकपालादिवत् नश्यत्सु
'सत्सु तेषां सलिले विस्पष्टदृश्यमानान् गतिपथान् कपयः शोकविस्मयाम्यां निश्चलाः सन्तो ददृशुरित्यर्थः.

MY explains visama-ga₁ (विषमगति) as कुटिलप्रकार. He says गतिः प्रकारः. Kula says निर्मलसलिलाभ्यन्तरे विभक्तं¹ (स्फुटं) दृश्यमानो (विवर्तनवशात्) विषमगतिसञ्चारः अधःप्रवेशो येषां ते महीधरा, इयत्प्रमाणा अपि गिरयः अस्तायन्ते इत्यवधानात् निश्चलस्थितैः प्लवङ्गमैरालोकिताः चिरेण नश्यन्ति अदर्शनं गच्छन्ति.

16 K reads मूलक्षुभितं for mūlukkhuhiam = मूलोत्क्षुभितं (R). SC Text has mūla-kkhuhiam like K.

K says फेनमयानां कुसुमानामन्तरेभ्य उत्तीर्णाः तदीयकेसरसदृशाकारा (वेपमाना) मयूखाः येषां तानि, क्षोभातिरेकादुत्थितानि मूलतलस्थितानि रत्नानि महोदधिं मूलेऽपि क्षुभितं सूचयन्ति स्म.

MY says paantāim प्लवमानानि. Kula has मूलखण्डितं. He seems to read mūla-kkhudiam cf. Hemacandra 1. 53.

17. K says इवशब्दः प्रकारवचनः । पर्वताहतः समुद्रो वेलां तीरं यथा विधुनोति स्म तथा महीमपि व्यधुनोत् etc. Kula says वेलामिवेत्यर्थात् सहोपमायां न केवलं वेलां महीमपीत्यादि योज्यम्. K says समयं मर्यादाम्. Kula says समयं जगदवलम्बनमिव धरणीधरसंघातं भिनत्ति. R says समयं वेलालङ्घनं न कर्तव्यमिति व्यवस्थामिव.

18. K says कपिभिः पर्वताः पर्यस्यन्ते भ्रामयित्वा अधोमुखं क्षिप्यन्ते स्म । कथंभूताः—वलमानाः । चलानां विटपानामन्तरेभ्यो निवृत्ताः ऊर्ध्वं निर्गताः तरूणां पृक्षादीनां प्ररोहा येषां ते तथाभूताः । मूलैरुन्नमद्भिः उन्नमितजलदा, अधोमुखमान्दोलितनिर्झराः.

MY says हरिभिः गिरयो भ्राम्यमाणाः अधोमुखं क्षिप्यन्ते । अधो-मुखावपतनदशायां कथंभूता इत्यत्राह चलेति । तत्र मूलाभिमुखत्वं विहायान्यथाभूतप्ररोहाः, मूलैरुन्नामितवैहायसमेघाः, शिखरप्रदेशेषु अधोमुखभ्राम्य-निर्झरा इति. R says धरणिधरा वलमाना अधोमुखत्वेन वक्रीभवन्तः सन्तः पर्यस्यन्तीतस्ततः पतन्ति.

K, MY and Kula (see below) explain प्ररोह as 'branch-root' cf 1 4; 2. 19 above. R takes it as 'ordinary root' He says निवृत्ता लम्बमानाः तरूणां प्ररोहाः शिफा यत्र ते । तरूणामप्यधोमुखत्वेन शिफा अप्यधोमुखा भवन्तीत्यर्थः.

Kula seems to read पतन्तः¹ (i.e. padantā, like ms. C of Goldschmidt) for valantā. He says पर्यस्यन्ति परिवर्तन्ते. R says पर्यस्यन्ति इतस्ततः पतन्ति. Kula explains प्ररोह as शाखाशिफा. He says valantā इति पाठे आवर्तन्त इत्यर्थः.

19. K and Kula read संक्षुभित for pakkhuhā (R).

K says अस्थितमनवरतं पतद्भिः पर्वतैरुत्थापितैः सलिलरजोऽन्धकारैः अस्तमितान् सलिलविन्दुसमूहमयैः अन्धकारैः छन्नान्, पततः पर्वतान् क्षुभितसमुद्रप्रतिरवः केवलं शंसति. MY says अवपततः शैलान् क्षुभितसमुद्रघोष एव केवलमशंसत् । न तु ते तथाभूता अदृश्यन्तेत्यर्थः. Kula says पतद्भिः महीधरैः दूरोत्थितस्य जलस्य रजोभिः कर्णैर्योऽन्धकारः तेन.. अस्तमितान्, पततो धरणीधरान् केवलं संक्षुभितसमुद्रस्य प्रत्यग्रो रवः प्रतिरवः कथयति, अथवा दिक्कुहरव्यापी प्रतिरवः प्रतिध्वनिः²

20. K says प्रक्षिप्तपर्वतत्वात् उच्छ्वसद्भुजशिखरप्रदेशाः, पातालोष्णैः पर्वतमूलगतपातालसंयोगादुष्णैः गिरिधातुभिः कर्दमितमुखाः । पातालं तु नित्यसंवृतत्वात् ऊष्मलं भवतीति भावः । गिरिनिर्झरैः दरधौतकेसरसटाः प्लवङ्गाः परितः संक्रामन्ति (परिसंक्रामन्ति chāyā) चरन्ति स्म.

MY says parisakkanti परिसमचरन्. Kula says उष्णेन गिरिधातुना कदर्थितमुखाः. He seems to read kavattia (कदर्थित) for kaddamia cf. Hemacandra 1 224 He renders palhatthua as पर्यासित.

1 Our copy has पदन्तः.

2. Partly restored from SC

21. K, Deva and MY read विलग्नाः for paṁnā = प्रकीर्णाः (R) and उद्धूयमान (uddhuvvanta) for viuvvanta (R).¹ Trans. follows Goldschmidt's reading paallā (ms. C) for paṁnā Hemacandra 4. 70 has payalla शिथिलीभवति लम्बते वा.

K says प्लवगैरूर्ध्वं मुक्ता ऊर्ध्वशिखरं प्रक्षिताः पर्वता विगलन्निर्झरत्वात् लघवः, पवनेन उद्धूयमानैः प्रेर्यमाणैः स्वपादपैरूर्ध्वं विलग्नाः ऊर्ध्वीकृतमूला इत्यर्थः, एवं भूत्वा शिखरैः गुरुभिः सागरे न्यपतन्. Deva explains ऊर्ध्व-विलग्न as ऊर्ध्वनुन्नः.

MY says निर्झरविगलनेन लघूकृततया पवनोद्धूयमाननितम्बतरुवनोर्ध्व-लग्नतया च प्लवगैरूर्ध्वशिखरं मुक्ता अपि गिरयो गुरुभिः शिखरैः न्यपतिन्नित्यर्थः. Kula seems to read mūlehi for siharehi. SC says प्लवगैरूर्ध्वमुक्ता अधःशिखरीकृत्य क्षिता महीधराः सागरे मूलैः पतन्ति.

22. K says अस्तमितानां शैलानां मार्गाः भिन्ननिवर्तमानसलिलपुञ्जित-कुसुमाः, हरितालैः धातुविशेषैः कपिलवर्णाः, दानेन मदेन सुगन्धयः उत्प्लवमाना गजद्रुमाणां सल्लकीनां भङ्गा यत्र ते तथा बभूवुः । सल्लकी स्यात् गजप्रियेति हलायुधः.

MY reads uppaanta (उत्प्लवमान) for upparanta Kula reads लाञ्छित for puñjita. He says अस्तमितानां निमग्नानां (शैलानां) मार्गाः .. भिन्नेन अपसृतेन निवर्तमानेन (सलिलेन) लाञ्छितानि कुसुमानि येषां ते तथा-भूताः हरितालकपिला भवन्ति.

23. K, MY and Kula read अवपतिताः (ovaiā, cf. 6. 28, 29) for āvadiā आपतिताः (R).

1 Kula is corrupt, but to judge from SC which follows him closely, he reads प्रकीर्ण like R, and has उद्धूयमान like K with अवधूयमान as an alternative SC Text has ohuvvanta (अवधूयमान.) SC says पादपैरूर्ध्वप्रकीर्णा ऊर्ध्वप्रचला वा । प्रकीर्णाः परिवर्तिता इति लोकनाथः. R says ऊर्ध्वेन मस्तकेन प्रकीर्णा विक्षिप्ता (महीधराः)

K says जलेन धाव्यमानाताम्रलोचनाः (MY and Kula also). R says धूयमाने इतस्ततः प्रेर्यमाणे आताम्रे लोचने यैस्ते. Kula says विकटतटस्य अस्तमितस्य शैलस्य शिखरादवपतिताः. He reads madā-adatthama (cf. SC Text) for salila-daratthama = सलिलदरास्तमित (R and K chāya). K comm says सलिलोदरास्तमितेभ्यः शैलशिखरेभ्यः अवपतिताः.

24. K reads अस्तमय (atthamaa) for atthamaṇa अस्तमन (R, Deva and Kula ?)

25. K says दंष्ट्राभिः करिमकराणां भिन्नकुम्भा दंष्ट्राभिन्नकरिमकर-कुम्भा इत्यर्थः, तेषां स्थिरैः हस्तैः कृण्यमाणाः, मुक्तागर्भितैः तत्कुम्भशोणितैः पूर्यमाणमुखकन्दराः सिंहा रसन्ति स्म.

26. K says मातङ्गा उद्वर्तितकरिमकराः विदारितकरिमकराः, उपरिपतित-गिरिसंभ्रमेण उद्धटरोषा, अवपतितैः मकरमत्स्यैः निर्दयलूनगात्रापरत्वात् विसंस्थुला विह्वलाः पतन्ति स्म । गात्रापरशब्देन गजस्य पूर्वापरपादावुच्येते । 'गात्रं पूर्वोऽङ्घ्रिस्य यः'; 'अपरः (?)¹ पश्चिमः पादः' इति वैजयन्ती.

MY says lua-gattāvara लूनगात्रापर लूनापरगात्रेत्यर्थः । अपरगात्र-शब्देनापरपादावुक्तौ । उद्वर्तितकरिमकराः स्वमदगन्धेनोत्थापितकरिमकराः । मकराणामवपतनमहंपूर्विकया संभूयोपनिपातः (संभूयेवावनिपातः A).

Verse 26 is missing in our transcript of Kula. R says उद्वर्तिता उत्तानीकृताः करिमकरा यैस्ते । . लूने गात्रावरे येषां ते । . छिन्नजङ्घापूर्वपश्चादेशाः. SC, quoting Amara, says गात्रं पूर्वजङ्घाभागः, अवरं पश्चिमजङ्घाभागः.

27 K and Deva read सलिल for sela (R and Kula).

K says सलिले दरास्तमितगिरिदरीमुखेषु बलमानाभिः वीचिभिः द्रुमेषु मज्जत्पर्वतदरीगतद्रुमेषु वनलताभिरिव भ्रान्तं भ्रमणं कृतम् । विधुत-प्रवालकिसलयं विधुतविद्रुममयकिसलयं यथा, आवेष्टप्रभूतमावेष्टेन पर्याप्तं यथा

1. Printed text has अवरं ।

भवति तथा भ्रान्तम्. MY says वीचिभिः लताभिरिव.... आवेष्टप्रभवच्च यथा भवेत् तथा द्रुमेषु भ्रान्तम् । लताभ्रमणे तत्किसलयानामिव वीचिभ्रमणेऽपि विद्रु-
माणां विधुतत्वम्. R says वीचिपक्षे प्रवालानां किसलयं यत्र, लतापक्षे
प्रवालवत् किसलयं यत्र. Kula says शैलस्य दरास्तमितस्य दरीमुखे वलन्ती-
भिर्मण्डलायमानाभिः (वीचिभिः) .. । प्रमाणानुरूपदत्तावेष्टनमित्थः

28. K reads धरणिधरैः सरभसं for giri-nivahehi rasantam =
गिरिनिवहै रसत् (R and Kula ?)

K says सरभसमुत्खन्यमानैः शैलैः धरण्याश्च, निपतितैः गिरिभिः समुद्रस्य च पातालं सममेव निरन्तरमुद्घाटितं निर्विशेषं प्रकाशितम् Deva has गिरिनिवहैः सरभसं in the first line.

MY says धरणेरधोवर्ति पातालं शैलोत्पाटनमार्गैः प्रकाश्यते, साग-
रस्य तु शैलमज्जनमार्गैरित्यर्थः. SC says समं तुल्यं यथा स्यात् तथा । समं युगपदिति श्रीनिवासः.

29 K and Deva seem to read valanta-ma-ojjhara in the first line. K (Chaya) has वलमाननिजनिर्झर.

K says प्लवगैर्वेगेन आविद्धत्वात् क्षिप्तत्वात् वलमाना भ्रमन्तः, मुखरभ्रमन्निजनिर्झरपरिक्षिप्ताः², संपीडितघननिवहाः, चलिताभिः वृक्षलताभिरा-
लिङ्गिताः पर्वताः प्रापतन् । अयमस्याभिप्रायः—यथा केचित् कुटुम्बिनो
महापुरुषाः क्रूरेण विधिना स्थानात् भ्रंशिताः मुखरैः भ्रमद्विरपत्यैः परिवृता
दुःखपीडितमुद्गज्जनाः चलिताभिः स्त्रीभिरवलम्बिताः पतन्ति तद्वदिति.

K and Deva read calia for valia (R and Kula) in the second line

Kula reads valanta ojjharāvali like R— वलन्तीभिः निर्झ-रावलीभिः वेष्टिताः. He explains samvellia as संवेष्टित, and says संवे-
ष्टिता घननिवहा यैस्ते. R says संवेष्टिताः चञ्चलीभूता घननिवहा येषु ते ।
वलिताभिः वक्रीभूताभिः लताभिरालिङ्गिताः.

2 Deva says मुखरवलमानैः निजनिर्झरैः परिक्षिप्ताः.

30. K pratika has ekkekka. K, Deva and MY read शैलस्थगिताः (sela-tth itā) for seladdhantā शैलार्धान्ताः (R and Kula); and uccalia for ucchalia (R and Kula).

K says समुद्रे पर्वतं प्रक्षिप्य पुनः पर्वतग्रहणार्थं एकैकमागच्छन्तः, निज-भुजक्षेपभिन्नैः शैलैरुपरि पतद्भिः स्थगिताः, ध्रुतकेसरसटाः, गगनोच्चलितममुद्र-
जलच्छादिताः (सलिलावस्तृताः chāyā) भूत्वा कपयो निर्यान्ति स्म, R says
निजकभुजाभ्यां यः क्षेपः त्यागः तेन भिन्नः त्रोटितः शैलार्धान्तो यः.

31 K says समुद्रे गिरिघातोत्क्षिप्तपानीये सति तत्सलिलै रेचितं
विवर्जितं भरितं च नभस्तलं सलिलभरितावस्थायां पातालमिवाभूत् । सलिलरेचि-
तावस्थायां नभोविवरमेवाभूत् । तथा पातालं च गिरिघातोत्क्षिप्तसलिलरेचितसमये
नभोविवरमिव विकटोदरमभूत् । सलिलभरितावस्थायां पातालं पातालमेवाभूत् ।
एवं पातालं नभश्च पर्यायेण बहुशो विपर्यस्तमदृश्यतेत्यर्थः. R says विकटोदरं
तुच्छोदरं etc He remarks केचित्तु पातालमिव नभो नभ इव पातालमित्युभयमपि
तत्सलिलेन रेचितमृतं दृश्यते । नभ इव पातालं रेचितं तदिव नभो मृतमित्यर्थः.

32. K says संक्षोभेण पतनक्षोभेण भिन्नात् विदारितात् महीतलात्
सरसः अधस्तलात् गलितजलत्वात् अवरुणपङ्कजवनः म्लानपङ्कजवनः उत्सङ्ग
उपरिप्रदेशो येषां ते तथा । विह्वलैः गजेन्द्रैः अवलम्बितत्वात् स्फुटितपतच्छिखरा
महीधराः पतन्ति स्म. R says विह्वलैः व्याकुलैः गजेन्द्रैरालम्बितानि गुण्डादिना
अवष्टब्धानि अत एव स्फुटितानि त्रुटितानि तत एव पतन्ति शिखराणि येषां ते.

MY seems to read jalahara for mahala He says शैलोत्क्षेपण-वेगभिन्निभ्यो जलधरेभ्यो विगलिताभिः वर्षधाराभिः विलुलितपद्मवना इत्यर्थः.
Kula says संक्षोभेण भिन्नं द्विधाभूतं महीतलं [?] सरोजवनाधारभूमिः तेन
गलितजलत्वात् अवरुणपङ्कजवना उत्सङ्गा येषाम्.

33 K says रसतीत्यादिकस्य गाथाद्वयस्य पूर्वभागे (?) लिखितं
व्याख्यानं द्रष्टव्यम्.

MY says निद्रावयति निश्च्यावयतीत्यर्थः । प्रागेवोद्धृतामृतत्वादिति भावः.

His reading might be niddava for mdde = निर्ददाति (R)
Kula is here mutilated. SC Text has niddaa.¹ SC says प्रागिवामृतसरं न मुञ्चति नाविष्करोति इत्यर्थः. Some of these words appear in Kula.

34. Kula says आःशब्दो विस्मये । आः कथं कोऽयं प्रका(रः)....
राक्षसपुर्या गमनोपायोऽपि भीषणसमारम्भः He also says संशयितेन
संशयकोटि प्रापितेन समुद्रेण (मुक्तः) घोरो भीषण आक्रन्दः परित्राणरवो यत्र
स तथा. R renders kaha ā as कथं वा.

35. K pratika has Vea-kkhudā. MY pratika has veukkhudā
(SC Text also=वेगोत्खण्डित chāyā)

K (chāyā) has वेगवृद्धितोत्थापितK says क्षेपणवेगात् वृद्धि-
तोद्गतं नभसि भ्रमत् स्फुरत् शोभमानं काञ्चनशिलामण्डलं यस्य तत् , कुसुमानां
सुगन्धिभिः रजोभिः युक्तं धरजालं प्लवगानुन्नं पर्यस्यते स्म (MY also).

Kula has उत्खण्डित, like R whose reading is however ukkha- lā. Kula says पर्यस्यति निपतति.

MY says uddhaia ऊर्ध्वायित ऊर्ध्वापितेति वा.

36 K says समुद्रश्च भ्रमद्वडवामुखः सन् भ्रमति स्म. Kula says सलिलनिधिः ध्वनति. He seems to read rasa for vala , and explains nirāia as निरावित—पवनेन निराविता अत्यर्थे शब्दिता वृक्षा येषाम्. cf. K's explanation of nirāia in his gloss on 2. 29. The word is explained by R and MY as निरायत = दीर्घाकृत; निरायतीकृत दीर्घतरीकृत (K).
Acc. to SC, Śrīnivāsa explains nirāia as ऋजूकृत.

37 K, Deva and probably MY read मिलन्तः (milyjantā) for maijjantā (R and Kula). Deva reads तुलित (=उद्धूत) for malia (मृदित).

1. Chāyā has निर्ददाति.

K sa,s पर्वतपतनक्षोभिनेन समुद्रेण दूरमाविद्धाः पुनर्निवृत्ताः¹, वृष्टि- मृदितैः हरिचन्दनैः मिलन्तः ससृज्यमानाः, रभसोत्क्षिप्ताः संभ्रमादुत्पतिताः
महानदीनां पर्वतगतानां मत्स्याः उर्ध्वं विरसमास्वादयन्ति स्म. MY says
मोदितमृदितचन्दनेन अतिपरुषजलसगताः उच्चलता जलं रभसोत्क्षिप्ताः
शैलनदीमत्स्याः. Kula says अभिमुखगिरिपतनेन दूरमाविद्धाः क्षिप्ताः ततो निवृत्ताः
मोदितो भग्नो मृदितो यो हरिचन्दनः तेन माद्यमाना हर्षिता. अनो रभसो-
त्क्षिप्ता वेगेनोत्पतिता महानदीमत्स्याः क्षारजलत्वात् विरसमृदधिमाम्वादयन्ति पिवन्ति.
Kula renders maijjanta as माद्यमानाः. R has सुद्यमानाः. He says उत्क्षिप्ता उत्प्लुत्योत्प्लुत्य परितो गताः. Lokanātha quoted in SC says माद्यन्तो हर्षेण विस्मृतात्मनः.

40. K, Deva and MY read प्रति for खुर (R and Kula). K and Deva read चिर for cia = एव (R). K and Deva read sambhariā (cf. SC Text) for sambharīo (R) construed as संस्मृतवान्.

K says पर्वतानामुद्धरणादिभिः क्षोभैः महीप्रभृतयः चिरविस्मृतानि वज्रभयादीनि सममेव संस्मृताः । संस्मृत इति कर्तरि क्तप्रत्ययः. Deva has संस्मारिताः.

K (chaya) has सममेव चिरप्रमुषितं संस्मृतो मथनसंभ्रमं च समुद्रः. R says समकमेकदैवेत्यर्थः । प्रस्मृतं विस्मृतम्. MY says padivellanaī प्रतिपीडनानि । pamhattham प्रस्मृतम्. Kula says प्रभ्रष्टं (i.e. pabbhattham) प्रस्मृतम्, and quotes Pāṇini 1. 2. 69 (नपुंसकमनपुंसकेनैकवच्चास्यान्यतरस्याम्) to explain the neuter singular. The rest is corrupt.

41. K, Kula and MY read °haresu lhara° for °hare sambhara° (R) K (chāyā) has मलयचन्दनलतागृहेषु भ्रियमाणः found in Kula also.

K says मलयस्य चन्दनलतागृहेषु पूर्यमाणो निजमथनदुःखं संस्मरन्निव सरित्पतिः रसति स्म । कथंभूतः—शैलशिखराभिहतो दशमुखस्य सीतापहरणदोषेण समुपसृतापत्. Kula reads εamo sariāvai for samosariāvai in the fourth line. He says सरित्पतिः समुद्रश्च (दशमुखस्य दोषेण)

सीतापहारोपेक्षणेन समः तुल्यः 'सृता प्रसृता आपद्' यस्य स तथा¹. R says लतागृहाणि संविभ्राणो धारयन् । पयःसेकादिना पुष्पान् इति वा. SC says लतागृहं पूरयन् । मलयचन्दनलतागृहेषु म्रियमाण इति कुलनाथः.

42. K, MY and Deva read majjha for vattha=पृष्ठ (R and Kula)

K (chāyā) has जलमध्यास्तमितेषु उद्धावति¹ and आपतितचूर्णितेषु च धुतधातुरज इव शीकररजउद्धातः. MY also has आपतित for avalia (R), rendered as आपतित in R (comm.). SC Text has avadia.

(R). K (chāyā) has एकैकापतन, and MY एकैकापात.

K and Deva read the second line as मृदितमहाभुजङ्गफणापसृत-संपुटं रसातलपथं च दूनयन्ति धरणिखाताः. Deva, R and MY add भग्न
(bhagga) before फणापसृत. MY reads रसातलपथं चाधून्वन् (अव्यथयन्) धरणिघाताः. R has °pphanoara (फणोदर). Kula omits उदर like K and MY.

K says प्लवगै रभसविसर्जितत्वात् एकैकमापतन्तः अन्योन्यं श्लिष्यन्तः,

1 The words रसातलमायान्ति are restored from SC

2 Our copy has वाप°. Kula reads verse 57 differently from R. He says अर्धास्त-मितमर्धभग्नं विसृष्टल यत् गजयूथ तेनाक्रान्तशिथिलत्वात् विह्वलस्य व्याकुलस्य गिरेः
शिखरात् निर्गतं सुरमिथुन जोवितमिव नभः समुत्पतति (समुत्पतितम् SC).

पटलमुच्यते, अपसृताः संपुटाः यथा भवन्ति तथा रसातलं च दूनयन्ति स्म.

Kula says रभसेन विसर्जिता एकैकमापतन्तः अन्योन्यमास्वलन्तः.
He also says रमातलं धून्वन्ति¹ (cf. MY) पातालं पीडयन्ति. R has dummenti (dūmenti SC Text) दुन्वन्ति (cf. K).

(b) K and Kula read मणिशिला for manosila मनःशिला (R, SC, Deva and MY). K, MY, Deva and Kula read मन्दारुणं for sandā- runam स्पन्दारुणं (R). K, Deva and MY read समुद्रस्य for sāarassa (R).¹

K says समुद्रस्य जलं चूर्णितमणिशिलातलं यथा पतद्भिः शैलैः मन्दा-
रुणमीषदरुणं भूत्वा फलत् विशीर्यमाणं नश्यति यत्, जि फला विशरण इति

लोकपालो वरुणः साक्षीभूत इति समुद्रनाश इत्यभिप्रायः.

MY gives the gist of (a) and (b) together. He says
शैलसंघाता यदेवं समुद्रे न्यपतन्, यच्च भूमिघाता रसातलपथमव्यथयन्, यत्
चूर्णितमनःशिलातलैः पतद्भिः शैलैरीषदरुणं (जलं) फलत् क्वाथेन स्फुटच्चाभूत्

प्रतिबन्धः कथं परिहरणीय इत्यभिप्रायेण सबाष्पावलोकितस्य घोरं फलमिति
वाक्यार्थः. Kula says जानक्याः पतिव्रतायाः बाष्पनिर्भरं यथा स्यात् तथा
सकरुणं प्रलोकितस्य etc. He says 'फलन्त'मिति विसरत्.

60 K, Deva and MY read समुद्रोदरगाः for samuddoare (R and Kula).

1. Our copy has धून्वन्ति,

K says रत्नग्रामणीनां रत्नश्रेष्ठभूतानां मणीनां समुद्रोदरगाः समुद्रोदर-गताः विस्ताराः शैलशिलाहताः चूर्ण्यन्ते स्म । अनिर्विण्णमेघलावण्यं अनिर्विण्णानां
अक्लिष्टानां मेघानां लावण्यं कान्तिर्यस्य तत्¹ नभोऽङ्गणं वनराजिमेखलानां वन-
राज्या मेखला भूतानां हंसकुलावलीनां भ्रियते पूर्यते स्म । तृतीयार्थे पट्टी । पूर्वं पर्वतनदीपु वर्तमानाभिः हंसकुलावलीभिः नभोऽङ्गणं पूरितमिति । meha-lanam इति बलालितादिशब्दवत् (?) लावण्ये वकारस्य लोपः । अधो
मनयामिति यकारलोपः (Vararuci 3 2) । अथवा अनिर्विण्णमेघलानम् । ला
आदान इति धातुः । अनिर्विण्णान् मेघान् लातीति अनिर्विण्णमेघलानम्.
Kula says अनिर्विण्णान् अपरिखिन्नान् मेघान् लाति गृह्णाति इति अनि-
र्विण्णमेघलानं नभोऽङ्गणम्.

61. K divides the verse into two halves.

(a) K, Deva and MY read शैल (sela) for jalaa जलद (R and Kula); and उत्खन्यन्ते (ukkhāmantī) for osubbhantī अवपात्यन्ते (R and Kula) ² R reads mahīharāhīhao महीधराभिहतः. MY and Kula have महीधराहतः. This is the reading of K also acc to ms. B. A is here defective.

K says पूर्वं पर्वतोत्क्षेपणदशायां रसातलं रसातलगतो जनः क्रोशति स्म । मेदिनी च तदानीं दलति स्म । शैलनिवहाः समुद्रे निपात्यन्ते स्म । गगनाङ्गणे कपिजनः पर्येति परितः चरति स्म । उत्खन्यन्ते स्म पुनः महीधराः । हतः सागरोऽपि अमुक्तवेदनः सन् सुचिरं स्थले घूर्णति स्म.

(b) K and MY have शुक्तिसंपुटमध्यनिर्गतं in the last line. Kula has शुक्तिमध्यविनिर्गतं. R has sippi-uda (शुक्तिपुट).

K says भिन्नशुक्तिसंपुटमध्यनिर्गतं विद्रुमावलीनं विद्रुमेषु लानं स्थूल-

1 Deva says अनिर्विण्णा जठरूरिता मेघा तेषामिव लावण्यं यस्य.

2 Kula cites the word as osumbhantī, which shows that he also reads nisumbhantī for nisubbhantī in the first line. cf SC Text

धवलमुक्ताविभूषणं सागरे पतितानां द्रुमावलीनां विटपलग्नं विटपेषु लग्नं भूत्वा
समुग्धपल्लवं कुसुमप्रसाधनमिव जातं तेषां वृक्षाणां सपल्लवकुसुमबन्धनमिवाभूत्.

Deva and MY seem to treat the verse as a single unit. MY says पूर्वार्धं प्रतीतम् (i. e. स्फुटम्), and then कुसुमप्रसाधनमिव जातमित्युत्तरार्धान्वयः. Kula appears to do the same as at the beginning of his gloss on 7 59 he says गलितकपञ्चकमाह, which seems to comprise 7 59 (a), 7.59 (b), 7 60, 7 61, and 7 62. But the pralika कुसुमेत्यादि in his gloss on 61 shows that he possibly treats the second half as a separate verse. In that case, verse 62 would be outside the गलितकपञ्चक.

62. K, MY, Deva and Kula read अस्तमितानि for atthamiāna अस्तमितानां (R). K and Deva read समं स्थलैः and समन्थरैः for samacch-arehim समात्सरैः and सममत्सरोभिः (R and Kula). Kula says संशब्दः सममित्यर्थे.

K says स्थलैः अधःस्थलैः समं समुद्रे अस्तमितानि । अथवा महीधराणां स्थलैः सममस्तमितानि । समन्थरैः, मन्थरशब्देन सौन्दर्यमुच्यते, ससौन्दर्यैः वनगजैः परिलुलितानि, अविरतनिर्गच्छन्मधुगन्धयौवनानि । यौवनशब्देन गन्धस्यातिशय उच्यते । एवंभूतानि वनानि उपरिगतः कुसुमरेणुमयो ध्वजः शंसति व्यञ्जयति स्म.

It will be seen that K reads samam thalehim in the first line, and makes it rhyme with samamtharehim on the basis of रलयोरभेदः. K, Deva and MY (A) read parilulitāi for parimaliāi परिमृदितानि (R and Kula). MY (B) has the latter reading.

MY says अस्तमितानि महीधराणां समं स्तरैः (८)¹ प्रस्तरैरुपलैरित्यर्थः । परिलुलितानि वनगजैः समात्सरैः etc He remarks महीधराणां प्रस्तरैः समं समुद्रेऽस्तमितान्यपि गजलोलितानि निर्यन्मधुगन्धानि वनानि कुसुमरेणुमयो ध्वजोऽशंसदित्यर्थः.

1. समास्तरैः A, समस्तरैः B.

MY seems to read samam tharehim (समं स्तरैः) in the first line and samamtharehim in the second which he explains as समात्सर्यैः. The word mamthara is recorded in Deśināmamālā 6. 145, but neither मात्सर्य nor सौन्दर्य (see K above) appears among the meanings given there. The comm. says मंथरं बहु कुसुम्भं कुटिलं चेति त्र्यर्थम् । मन्दवाची तु संस्कृतसमः.

63 K reads च (a) for hu खलु in the second line.

K says प्लवङ्गमलोकः पर्वतान् वहति स्म । प्रभवति नभोऽङ्गणमानीयमानानां पर्वतानां वानराणां च गगनं पर्याप्तावकाशमभूत् (पर्वतसंमानाय प्रभवति Kula) । उदधिश्च प्रतीच्छति गिरीन् प्रत्यगृह्णात् । मह्यपि भूरपि गिरि ददाति स्म । तथापि च पातालं समुद्रान्तरालम् अत्यन्तविकटोदरमेव (विशालकुक्षि Kula) । एवं सर्वसाधनसपत्तावपि सत्यामुपायोपक्रमाभावात् तत् सर्वमकिञ्चित्करमभूदित्यर्थः. R says तथापि खलु पातालं दूरादेव विकटोदरं तुच्छोदरम्.

64. K says प्लवङ्गा मकरगृहं स्तोकविलीनेषु किञ्चित् शिथिलीकृतेषु गिरिषु सजातेन पङ्केन निर्वृतवनमहिषं, द्रुमैः मिलितविद्रुमवनं, स्थलवर्तिभिः श्वापदैः सिंहव्याघ्रादिभिः मिलितजलचरसत्त्वं यथा भवति तथा इति क्षोभयन्ति स्म । न पुनः सेतोः प्रसङ्गमप्यवापुरिति.

65. K reads विजृम्भमाण (viambhamāna, cf. 1 43) for jambhānta जृम्भायमाण (R), जृम्भमाण (Kula).

K says अभिमुखपतद्गराधरभीतैः वलमानैः भुजगेन्द्रैः जनितावर्तं यथा क्षोभयन्ति स्म. Kula says वनगजगन्धेनारोषिता जृम्भमाणा विधूतमुखाः (निर्वृतमुखाः SC) प्रतिबुद्धाः केशरिमकरा यत्र.

66. K says जलेषु अस्त गच्छन्तीनां वनस्थलोनां संवन्धिभिः परिणामेनावरुणैः भग्नैः पाण्डुपत्रैः स्थगितम् । मदनद्रुमाणां भङ्गात् निर्गतेन कषायरसेन, कषायस्तुवरं, तेन रसेन निर्यासेन मत्तविह्वलवूर्णमग्नमत्स्यम् । मदनरसास्वादात् मत्स्या मूर्च्छन्तीति प्रसिद्धम्.

MY says maia मादित्. Kula says मदयन्ति विह्वलयन्ति ये द्रुमा विषपादपादयस्तेषां ...कषायरसेन मूदिताः (मृदिताः ?) विह्वला घूर्णनशीला मत्स्या यत्र तम्. Kula seems to read मृदित¹ (malia, cf. SC) for maia. SC says मदनद्रुमस्य करहाटस्य.

67. K says धरणिधरभारपीडितपल्लवदलानां², सुग्धानां सुकुमाराणां, वेल्लितानां कुटिलीकृतानां लतानां जालं यत्र तम्³ । विषपर्णपादपैः विषमयपत्रैः पादपैराहतत्वात् प्रम्लायत् विस्ववर्णं विगतरवप्रभं पादपकुसुममितरेषां पादपानां कुसुमं यत्र तम्. MY also has विषपर्णपादपाहत....विगतस्ववर्ण etc

Kula reads शिखर for भार in the first line. Then he says विषवन्नवातपेन विषतुल्येन लभ्येन (नवेन ?) शरदातपेनाहतानि वायन्ति शुष्यन्ति विसवर्णानि मृणालधवलानि पादपकुसुमानि यत्र तम्. R says विषवन्तः सर्पाः त एव नवातपाः तापहेतुत्वात् तैराहतानि . . अत एव प्रवायन्ति शुष्यन्ति etc.

68 The verse is not found in K A corresponding verse with the same pratika (āvatta) occurs in MY, but the only word explained by him (uddhānta) is not found in the verse as read by R and Kula. The latter read पातालतलोच्छलत् for pāāla-samucchalanta in the second line. The verse occurs in Deva who reads पातालतल.

69. K says आवर्तमण्डलोदरेषु वलमानैः शैलकटकैः प्रक्षोभ्यमाणं (प्रभ्राम्यमाणं chāyā) निर्यतां निर्गच्छतां रसातलविषधराणां विस्तीर्णाभिः फणामणिप्रभाभिः मीयमान परिच्छिद्यमानमेवं ते क्षोभयन्ति रम. Kula says मीयमानमियत्तया गृह्यमाणप्रमाणम्. R says मीयमानं ज्ञायमानम्.

1 Deva (chāyā) also reads मृदित्, but his gloss on the verse is missing

2 The fiast vellia stands for pellia=पीडित (K) प्रेरित (R, SC and Kula who has प्रेषित.)

3. R says वेल्लितानि चञ्चलानि लताना जालानि यत्र. cf verse 51

70. avvocchinna is rendered by K (chāyā) as अव्युच्छिन्न (अव्य-वच्छिन्न R, Deva and Kula). K (comm.) says अविच्छिन्नं विसर्जितैः.... मिलितैः परस्परं घटितैः पर्वतैः घटितो विरचितः सेतुपथः etc.

71 K says लङ्काया अनर्थसंपादनक्षमे सेतुपथे अनुराग इव सेतुनिर्माणा¹ भिनिवेश इव विलीने सति ततः प्लवङ्गाः परिश्रमेण खेदेन कर्त्रा स्तोत्रस्तोकं ग्रहीतुं प्रवृत्ता ग्रहीतुमारब्धाः । प्रवृत्ता इति कर्मणि । परिश्रमेण गृहीता इति यावत् । प्रारम्भे निष्फले सति तेषां हृदयदुःखमभूदित्यर्थः. MY says सेतु-चिकीर्षायां सेतौ च दूयेऽपि विलीने परिश्रमः कपिषु पदं चक्रे इत्यर्थः.

CANTO VIII

1. K reads vitthāra-tthāra for -tthamā = विस्तारास्तमित (R and Kula); and धरणिधराः for vi mahuharā (R and Kula). K says विस्तारस्थगितनभस्तलाः. R says विस्तारेणास्तमितं छन्नं नभस्तलं यैस्ते.

2. K and MY have म्लान for uvvalla उद्वृत्त¹(R) i. e. they read uvvāa found in MY. cf Hemacandra 4 11, 18. This is the reading of Kula and Deva also, as they have परिश्रान्त. cf Deśināmamālā 1. 102 (uvvāa खिन्न). SC says uvvāa इति पाठे सान्तात् करतलादित्यर्थः.

3. K, MY and Deva read उत्कम्पाः for uppīda = उत्पीडाः (R and Kula). K says समुद्रसलिलोत्कम्पाः अप्राप्तप्रथमगमनावकाशाः क्षोभावस्थायां गमनावकाशो यस्तमप्राप्ताः, मन्देनान्दोलनेन स्पन्दनेन मृद्वी भूत्वा गतागत एव गमनागमन एव क्षीणाः शान्ताः.

MY says सलिलोत्कम्पाः उत्कम्पमानानि सलिलानि यत एव मन्दान्दोलनमृदूनि, अतएव समुद्र एव गतागतमात्राणि, न तु पूर्ववदुत्स्थलानीत्यर्थः.

Kula says गिरिसंक्षोभेण विमुक्ताः, अतः क्षीणाः अनुच्छलिताः, अत एव अप्राप्तप्रथमगमनावकाशाः संक्षोभेण (प्रथमं) यावत् दूरं गताः तावत् दूरं न गता इत्यर्थः । सलिलोत्पीडाः जलसंघाताः.

4. उदधिनिर्वर्तते पर्वगतात् प्रदेशात् निवृत्ते K. निवर्तते पूर्वावस्थां लभते R.

MY says क्षोभदशायां भिन्नो निवृत्तः पुनस्तत्प्रशमदशायां घटमान आवर्तो यत्र स तथा । अथवा भिन्नघटमानः द्विधाभूतः पुनर्घटमानः । अथवा पूर्वतो विपरीतघटमानावर्त इत्यर्थः. He reads āattantara and explains it as आवर्तोदर. Kula says आवर्तान्तरेषु भ्रमन्तो भिन्ना महीधरा यत्र । महीधरेभ्यः संभ्रमो

1. R says उद्वृत्तादूर्ध्वपृष्ठीकृतात् करतलात्.

भयं (SC) तेन कर्तृभूतेन विधुतो दिगन्तं गतः । विधुतं कम्पितं निवृत्तं सलिलं यस्य स उदधिः निवर्तते.

5 vocchyjanta = व्युच्छिद्यमान K. MY has विच्छिद्यमान. K says पर्वतपतनाभावात् व्युच्छिद्यमानकलकलं, यथोचितेषु उचितानतिक्रामिषु स्थानेषु किञ्चित् प्रवृत्तावृत्तं, क्षणमात्रदुर्लक्षं क्षोभातिरेकात् क्षणमात्रं द्रष्टुमशक्यं तदेव प्राकृतनमेवोदधेः स्तिमितसलिलत्वं दृश्यते स्म पुनरपि अदृश्यत. Kula has व्यवच्छिद्यमान like R. He says यथोचितप्रदेशेषु दरप्रवृत्त आवर्तो यत्र (R also).

6. Pasammar = प्रसीदति K and MY; प्रशाम्यति R and Kula. K says समशब्दः सहायः । समरतकैः सहमरतकैः पत्रभङ्गैः भग्नपत्रैः भरितावर्त, विद्रुमैः मिलितकिसलयं, गङ्गैः सहितधवलकमलम् एवं समानवर्णैः समुद्रगतैः द्रव्यैः संगतकुसुमादिकं सलिलं समुद्रस्य प्रसीदति स्म. MY says अथवा क्षोभदशायां यथा उच्चलितमुक्तादिमत् उदधिसललं, तथा प्रसाददशायामपि तत्सदृशकुसुमादिमत्तया तुल्यरूपमलभ्यत इति तात्पर्यम्.

7. K and MY read samosaranti = समपसरन्ती for samosanti = समवसीदन्ती. (R and Kula), which they mention as a variant. K says पतितानां पर्वतानां संबन्धिनी धातुपङ्कच्छाया गैरिकपङ्कच्छविः समुद्रपृष्ठ एवमदृश्यत । कथम्—समपसरन्ती अपगच्छन्ती । क्षणं निर्व्यक्तानि पृथग्भूतानि उत्तरन्ति प्लवमानानि कुसुमानि पतितगिरिवनसंबन्धीनि यस्यां सा । क्षीयमाणारुणवत् ताम्रा । अरुणः सूर्यसुतः. Kula says समवसीदन्ती मन्दतां गच्छन्ती उत्प्लवमानानि विलुलितानि म्लानानि कुसुमानि यत्र. R says अरुणः संध्यारागो वा । क्षणात् तदानीमेव.

8. निर्वाणमुखमण्डलाः सुखीभवन्मुखप्रदेशाः करिमकराः । निर्वाति ह्लादते सौख्ये निर्वृणोति सुखीभवेत् इत्याख्याते K शीतलायमानानि मुखमण्डलानि येषां ते तथाभूताः Kula.

1. Our copy has सुख्ये, B has सुखैः.

9. K Deva and Kula read पतन (-padana) for valana (R). K says निम्नगानां मुखानि पर्वतद्रुमाणां भङ्गैः कलुषितानि, अतएव तेषा वृक्षाणां कषायेण तुवरेण निर्यासरसेन पाण्डरीभूतफेनानि, उत्स्थले पतनात् क्षोभसमये उत्तुङ्गस्थले पतनाद्रजसा धूसराणि जातानि । अयमत्र ध्वनिः—यथा भर्तारि व्यसनपीडिते पत्नीनां मुखानि कलुषितानि भूमौ पतनाद्रजोभिः धूसराणि भवन्ति तद्वत्.¹ MY remarks अत्र भर्तृव्यसने स्त्रीणामार्त्तिचेष्टासमाधिः. Kula says उत्स्थलमुन्नतदेशः ततः पतनेन रजोधूसराणि जातानि. R says उत्स्थलेन तीरभूमावुन्मार्गेण यद्वलनमितस्ततो गमनं तेन.

10. K and Deva read घटित (ghadita) for malha = मृदित (R); and कटक् for sela (R) K says क्षुभितेन उदधिना विक्षिता मलयपर्वतस्य भित्तिच्छेदाः, भित्तिशब्देन तटविशेष उच्यते, तटविभागा आसन्नस्य महेन्द्रपर्वतस्य कटकेषु घटिताः । कथंभूताः—घटितगजकुलाः घटितवनगजसमूहाः । तथा मलयस्य तटेषु महेन्द्रस्य कटकार्धान्ताश्च घटिता एवं विपर्यस्ताः. Deva says महेन्द्रकटकार्धान्ताः मलयकटकार्धान्ताश्च (१) व्यत्यस्तयोगं मिलिता इति । तदा मलयमहेन्द्रयोः स्थितानि गजकुलानि कटकानां भेदेन अर्धभिन्नानि तद्वयोगे तथैव युक्तानि स्वं स्वं यूथविरहं न जानन्ति. Kula reads शिखर (sihara) for sela; and galha for malha. He says महेन्द्रशिखरैकदेशाः गलितगजकुलाः.

11. Kula says विकटधवलाः, स्तिमितं यथा स्यात् शनैः शन निवर्तमानेन जलेन तरङ्गितपृष्ठाः, निरन्तरालग्नमौक्तिकाः पुलिनपथा वासुकि-निर्मोकनिभा दृश्यन्ते । तेऽपि विशाला धवलाः तरङ्गिनः पुलकाचिता भवन्ति.

12. K says पूर्व पर्वतघातैरुत्क्षिताः, नभसि अर्धपथात् प्रतिनिवृत्ताः पतिताः, चिरकालेन आलोकिताः सलिलसंघाताः क्षुभितनिभृतमुदधिं पुनः

13. K and Deva read शिलातलपृष्ठे for silāsanavatt̥ho = °शिला-सनपृष्ठः (R). He says विघटमाने गौरवातिगयेन भिद्यमाने मणिशिलातलपृष्ठे उद्वर्तितायतस्थितम् उद्वर्तितकरतलं यथायतस्थितं वामभुजमारूढः त्रिकभरः अंससंधिभरो यस्य सः प्लवगपतिः. Kula reads शिलासनपट्टः (°vatto), and says उद्वर्तित आयतस्थितो यो वामकरः तत्रारूढत्रिकभरः, परिवर्तनवशादेव विघटमानमणिशिलासनपट्टः नले वितीर्णनयनः प्लवगपतिः जल्पति.¹

14 K and Deva read पर्वतनिवहः and पादपं for vānara-loḥ and pauvaam (R and Kula who has प्लवङ्ग for vānara). K says पर्वतनिवहः क्षपितः उद्धृत्यानीय नाशितः । महीमण्डलं दूरस्थितविरलवृक्षमभूत् । पर्वतानामुद्धृतत्वात् पादपाः शिष्टा इत्यर्थः.

MY remarks—namejja नम्येत नमेदिति वा । गुरुकार्यसाधकतया गुरुभूतं रामधनुर्लघुं सेतुमधिकृत्य मा पुनर्नम्येत. K says एवं कृतेऽपि सेतुपथो नोपलब्धः । तस्मात् पुनरपि गुरु अतिमहत् रामधनुः मा खलु नमेत् । भूयोऽपि रामस्य धनुषो नमने सति भुवनमेव भस्मीभवेत् । तस्मात् अस्माभिरेवोपायान्तरमन्वेपणीयमिति वाक्यशेषः.

15 K, Deva and MY read मुक्त्वा (mottūna) for vottūna = उक्त्वा (R and Kula). K says मदिरा सुरा etc एतत् सर्वं प्रशस्तवस्तु सेतुपथवत् किं लघु भवति यन्मदिरादिकं मुक्त्वा पूर्वं दत्त्वा स्थितेन रत्नाकरेण अस्माकमभिमतं न दत्तम् । अतिलघुः सेतुपथो न दत्तः । तत्र कारणमस्माकमविमृश्यकारित्वमेव । मदिरादयोऽपि देवैरुपायेनैव हि महता समुद्राल्लब्धाः । तस्मादुपाय एव चिन्त्यतामित्यर्थः. Deva also says. प्रशस्तमुपायान्तरमास्थेयमिति. But he mentions another interpretation अपरा व्याख्या । मदिरादिकं

1 R says यद्वा उद्वर्तितस्तिर्यग्भूतः सन् आयतस्थितो नलदर्शनाय मस्तकोन्नमनादथ च वामकरारोपितत्रिकभररचेति कर्मधारयः. This is a slight amplification of Śrīnivāsa's gloss quoted in SC

R says तुलितैः उत्तोलितैः धराधरैः कृता निर्भराः पूर्णा दश दिशो येन.
This and the next verse are missing in our copy of Kula.

28 K and MY (pratika) have to neha. K reads the verse thus-ततः स्नेहसुखस्पर्शं पुनरपि सलिले मङ्गत्वा सनियमं । रामचरणयोः प्रथमं

पितुः कृत्वा सरित्पतेः प्रणामम् ॥ ततो नलेन सलिले समुद्रजले पुनरपि पुनः पुनः बहुशः स्नेहेन समुद्रगतेन सुखस्पर्शं यथा सनियमं च यथा निमज्ज्य प्रथमं रामचरणयोः ततः पितुः विश्वकर्मणश्च अनन्तरं सरित्पतेश्च प्रणामं कृत्वा महीधरो निमित्त इत्युत्तरगाथया संबन्धः. MY says नियमो मनसः प्राणिधानम्. K says नियमः प्राणायामादिः. SC says कुलनाथादिमते एतत् पदं नास्ति.

29. K and MY read aha for to (R and Kula)

30. K, Deva and MY read संश्रितः (samsio) for samthio (R and Kula).

K says सेतुबन्धस्य मुखं यथा द्रष्टुमारब्धं लोकैरालोकितुमारब्धं तथा निक्षिप्तः । द्रष्टुमिति कर्मणि तुमुन्प्रत्ययः. MY says distum प्रकाशीभवितुम्. Deva says द्रष्टुमाविर्भवितुम्.

31. K reads उच्चलित for ucchitta=उत्क्षिप्त.

33. The verse is not found in Kula.

MY syas वेलापतितशैलाक्रान्ततया प्रनिलोत्तसः सन्तो य एव सरितां (समुद्र)प्रवेशमार्गाः त एव निर्गममार्गाः जाता इत्यर्थः.

34. MY remarks हरिभिरधोमुखतया विमुक्ता अपि गिरयो भ्रमित्वा मूलगौरवादूर्ध्वशिखराः सन्तो मूलैरपतन्नित्यर्थः. K says नलपथे सेतावधोमुखाः प्लवगैः विमुक्ता अपि तुङ्गशिखरा मूले गुरवः पर्वताः नभसि भ्रान्त्वा विपर्यस्य मूलगुरुत्वात् ऊर्ध्वमुखा एवापतन् इत्यर्थः.

35. Kula says स्थिरनिहितानि दृढमारोपितानि नखमुखानि यैस्ते तथा । मुखेषु पर्याप्ताः (समिताः SC) दृढोत्खाता ये कुम्भतटाः तेषु भ्रमन्तः केशरा येषां ते केशरिणः करिमकरमुखानि विधुन्वन्ति । विधूयमानाः करिमकरैरेव इत्यर्थात्. R says मुखे पर्याप्तं पूर्णं दृढं यथा स्यादेवमुत्खातं कवलीकृतं etc.

36. K reads व्रणमुखाः for ⁰*mulic*=मुखान् (K. Deva and Kula) K chāyā translates āliddha as आलीढ.¹ R has आश्लिष्ट. Kula says करिमकरैः छिन्नाः सन्तो गलिता ये करप्राग्भारा. तान् लवणजलेनादिग्धं स्पृष्टं व्रणमुखं येषां तान् तथाभूतान् केवलं वनहस्तिनो जानन्ति क्रोधविद्रुतत्वादित्याशयः.

38. K, Deva and MY read उच्चलित for ucchalia (R) K reads बहु for चल. He and Deva read प्रसारण for pasāria (R and Kula) K, MY and Kula read आक्षिप्त (akkhutta) for ukkhutta उर्क्षित (R). K says नलोऽपि त्रिकप्रदेशे वलितयोः करयोः प्रसारणेन हरिहस्तेभ्य आक्षिप्तमहीधरः सन् सेतुपथमवध्नात्. Kula says त्रिकप्रदेशेन प्रसारिताभ्यां कराभ्यां प्रसारितेभ्यो हरिहस्तेभ्य आक्षिप्ता महीधरा येन स तथा. Deva says क्षिप्तमहीधरः कपिहस्तैर्दत्तमहीधरः.

39 K says पूर्वं वानरक्षिप्तैः बहुभिः पर्वतैः जनितं, विक्षिप्ते विधूते समुद्रे प्रकटं यन्महीविवरम् अधस्तान्महीतलस्पर्शिं विवरं तत् नलेन विस्ताराम्यधिकसंस्थितः मूलविस्तारण (१) अभ्यधिकं स्थापित एक एव पर्वतः प्रतिरुणद्धि छादयति स्म. R says विक्षिप्तैः (विक्षिप्ते १) पतत्पर्वतैः द्विधाभूते समुद्रे प्रकटं व्यक्तम्.

40. K, Deva and MY read thāma for thāha (R and Kula) See 15 19 below. लब्धस्थामानं (K chāyā), लब्धस्थैर्यम् (K Comm) लब्धस्थेमानम् MY (B has लब्धस्थानम्). Deva says लब्धस्थेम लब्धस्थैर्यं यथा तथा निपिन्वन्ति निक्षिपन्ति (K also) आरोपयन्ति Kula MY says सागरगाढमूलनिष्प्रकम्पान् महत्तरान् महीधरान् पुरतोऽवस्थितानालम्ब्यालम्ब्य पदं तेषु कृत्वैव सेतुः

शीघ्रमगच्छदिवेत्यर्थः. He seems to read vajjar or vaccar (व्रजति) for bajjhaī (बध्यते). K says कपिनिवहाः सागरे लब्धस्थैर्यं यं यं पर्वतं निक्षिपन्ति सेतुपथः तस्मिन् तस्मिन् पदं कृत्वा पुरतोमुखो बध्यते स्म.

R says पुरतोऽभिमुखः अग्रिमाग्रिमः सेतुपथो नलेन बध्यते.

41. पर्वतान् नलश्च सममेव प्रतीष्य प्रतिगृह्य प्रतिपीडति यथास्थानं निवेशयति स्म K. समकालमेवापीडयत् स्थानस्थितानकरोदिति MY.

42. K and Deva read प्रवर्तते (pavattaī) for pavaddhar (R and Kula). K and Kula read पतित for vala (R). K says समुद्रः नलेन घटितान् पर्वतान् अवलम्बते स्म न पुनरधः पातयति स्म । अस्थाने पतितान् पुनरानीतान् गिरीन् स्थाने घटयति स्म । सेतुपथस्य पुरतो मार्गं प्रदर्शयन् उद्वेहत्सलिलः प्रचलत्सलिलो भूत्वा पुरतः प्रावर्तत ।....समुद्रः सेतुपथस्य आनु-कूल्यमकरोदित्यर्थः.

43. K (both Chāyā and Comm.) says वामकरेण गृहीतम्. R (Chāyā) has उत्तम्भितम् renderd as उत्थापितम्. This corresponds to the reading utthambhiam mentioned by Goldschmidt who reads utthamghiam. Kula says वामकरेण उत्स्थलितम्¹ उत्तोलितम्. He seems to read *utthalliam*². Besides he reads प्लवगाः for Haṇumā and says यं यं गिरि प्लवगा आनयन्ति (ānenti).

44. लसनान् प्रचलतः शैलान् K. लसनशीलान् Kula. स्खलनोदच-तान् SC.

48 K, Deva and Kula read जलार्ध (jaladdha) for samudda
(R). K says क्षुभिते जले अर्धमस्तमिताः, अखण्डितमदजलनिर्झरप्रसरा मातङ्गाः.
MY reads khudant for °de°=त्रोटयन्ति छिन्दन्ति K, खण्डयन्ति R and Kula.

49 Deva reads भरिततर (bharia-ara) for bharia-dara (R Text).
He says फलरसो मरकतनिवहश्च तरङ्गेषु वर्तन्ते... फलरसात् भरिततरो
मरकतनिवहः प्रतिभाति.

K and probably Kule read हरिततर for bharia-dara.

K reads अवधुम्यन्ति for odhuvvanti = अवधूयन्ते (R and Kuḷa). R says तरङ्गा अवधूयन्ते गिरिपतनेन दिशि दिशि नीयन्ते. K says क्षुण्णानां पर्वतवृक्षफलानां रसैः भ(ह ?)रिततराः श्यामलतराः भिन्नाः मिश्रिताः मरकतनिवहा येषु ते (तरङ्गाः). R has हरितदर and says फलरसैः हरिताः किञ्चित् किञ्चित् खण्डिता मरकतनिवहा येषु. Kula also has हरितः. MY reads ohuppanṭi for odhuvvanti, and first renders it as अभ्यभवन्. He says रत्नच्छाया-दिना पूर्वतोऽतिशयितवैमल्यादियोगिनो भूत्वा तरङ्गाः सेतुमाक्रामन्तित्यर्थः. Then he says अथवा उपर्युच्चलितरत्नप्रभाभिः शोभातिशयमुपजनयन्तीभिरभ्यभूयन्त । तरङ्गाः तिरस्कृतनिजरूपशोभा अक्रियन्तेत्यर्थः. SC Text has ohuvvanti = अवधूयन्ते.

Kula is somewhat corrupt, but seems to say रत्नानां माणिक्यादीनां या छविः द्युतिः तथा विमलतराः, गलितानां फलानां रसैः हरिततरा (१) भिन्नाः चूर्णिता मरकतनिवहा येषु, चूर्णितैः शङ्खकुलैः पाण्डरतरा अतिधवलाः फेना येषु ते तरङ्गाः शैलसंप्रहारवशात्(१) अवधूयन्ते.

50. Kula reads जीयते (jivati, SC Text) for jhijai = क्षीयते. He says समं घटमानैः. अन्योन्यं मिलद्भिः शैलैरुदधिः यावदेव जीयते (सेतु-वर्त्मनाक्रम्यते SC).

K reads अपि (v) for a = च (R). K and MY read उत्स्थलति (utlhalai acc to MY) for ucchalai उच्छलति (R and Kula). MY says सरभसक्षिप्तैः शैलैः समन्ततो वेगविधुतसलिलतया तत्प्रवृत्तेः प्राक् यावत् क्षीयते तावत् मूलसलिलप्रतिपूर्यमाणः पूर्वतोऽप्यधिकमुत्स्थलीवभूव. 64. MY reads uttamghia (explained as उत्तम्भित) for uttamghia (see Goldschmidt)= उत्थापित (R and SC) K (pratīka) has uttamvra (uttam-bhūa ?), rendered as उत्तम्भित found in Kula also³ K says (उद्धमन्ति) तरङ्गा दूरं गत्वा शाम्यन्ति. MY says उदवमन् प्रकृतत्वात् द्रुमनिवहानिति. Kula is corrupt, but SC says उद्धमन्ति आविलत्वं त्यजन्ति प्रसन्ना भवन्तीत्यर्थ इति कुलनाथः । लीयन्त इति श्रीनिवासः. R says उद्धमन्ति विलीयन्ते । समाप्ता भवन्तीत्यर्थः.

65 K and Deva read गज for maa = मृग (R, Kula and MY) K and MY read वलितं for khaliām (R and Kula) K says शैलपतनभयपूर्णलोचनैः गजकुलैरुदधिरदृश्यत । उपरि किमस्य शैलः पततीति भयपूर्णलोचनैः जनैर्नलश्च दृश्यते स्म. K and MY explain ūram (third line)

1 SC has विशेषेण शासिताना धर्षितानाम्

2 Cf R—करिमकराणा वनगजाना च निवहा सममेकदैव संमुखमापतन्ति । युद्धाय परस्परमभिमुखीभवन्तीत्यर्थः.

3 SC gives उत्तम्भित as a variant as दूरम्¹ K says पतत्पर्वतनदीनां वलितं यत् सलिलं दूरमत्येति निपतति तत् सलिलं प्लवगकलकलैः वितीर्णवाद्यं भूत्वा उद्भावति उत्तिष्ठति स्म अभिघातात् पुनरूर्ध्वमुत्पपात. MY and Deva read सेतु for sela. Deva says सेतुना सहासौ सागरे पतिष्यतीति एवं भीतैर्जनैः नलः सादरं दृश्यते. MY reads anehim (च एभिः, cf.. Hemacandra 3. 77) for anehim (जनैः). MY renders the first line as अदृश्यत मृगकुलैरुदधिर्नलश्चैभिः Kula is here corrupt SC has एभिः like MY. possibly it is Kula's reading also, as he does not say जनैः.

MY translates the third line as यद्बलवदत्येति सलिलं नदीनां दूरं and remarks — वलिअं फलिअं वेति पाठः । phaltam फलितं विभिन्नम् । समाप्तप्राये सेतुबन्धे निपात्यमानैर्गिरिभिः प्रतिबन्ध(द्ध ?)प्रवेशमार्गेषु तीरनदीमुखेषु विशीर्णतयोर्ध्वमुत्पतत्सु विस्मयात् कपयः कलकलं कृतवन्त इत्यर्थः- Deva says नदीनां यत् सलिलं दूरमत्येति प्रविशति तदिदानीं फलितं विशीर्णं भूत्वा प्लवग-कलकलदत्ततूर्यं च भूत्वा उद्भावति उत्तिष्ठति.

Kula says शैलपतनभयोद्विग्नलोचनैर्मृगकुलैः उदधिर्दृश्यते. He seems to read bhaa-vunna for unna (पूर्ण). This is also the reading of Ms. C of Goldschmidt, Cf Deśināmamālā 7. 94 which gives vunṇa in the sense of भीत and उद्विग्न.² Kula explains āu as आयाति — यन्नदीनां सलिलमायाति समुद्रं प्रविशति तूरः(?)त्वरमाणं(?)तत् प्लवगकलकलैः वितीर्ण-तूर्यं यथा स्यात् तथा स्खलितं सत् (ऊर्ध्वायते ऊर्ध्व धावतीत्यर्थः SC). R says यद्वा नदीनामेव सेतुस्थानामित्यर्थात् सलिलमिति कर्तुं । समुद्रतरङ्गाभि-घातात् स्खलितं सत् यद्दूरमतिक्रामति समुद्रजलमित्यर्थात्.

1 SC Text and chāyā have तूरं. SC comm says यन्नदीनां सलिलं त्वरमाणं सत् अतिगच्छति समुद्रं प्रविशति. This might be Kula's reading also, but our copy is corrupt and has दूरन्त त्वरमार्द !

2 SC comm, also has उद्विग्न like Kula, but SC Text and chāyā have respectively -unṇa and पूर्ण.

66. K merely paraphrases the verse. R says आरम्भ उच्छ्रायः.

67. K reads उत्त्रुटित for ukkhitta (R). R (com.) has उत्कृत्त (ukhitta). Kula has उत्खण्डित. The reading of K and Kula seems to be ukkhudra (cf Hemacandra 4. 116 and SC Text). Ms. C of Goldschmidt has ukkhahia. K has विलीन for viāna = विदारित (R), but this is invariably given by him as an equivalent for virāa which here does not suit the metre. probably he reads virāia; see 9. 45 below Kula says चूर्णितशिलापीठम्. His reading might be vicunna used elsewhere in the poem without the upasarga. SC says विदारितो विदीर्णो वा शिलावेष्टो यत्रेति लोकनाथः । virāvia इति पाठो लोकनाथसंमतः; अतएवेदृशी व्याख्या.

K says पर्वतात् विषममपसृतस्य शिलातलस्य दृढेन घातेन उत्त्रुटितम-
त्स्यपृष्ठभागम् । देहमध्ये छिन्नस्य भुजङ्गमस्य वेष्टनोत्पीडनेन विलीनशिला-
मण्डलम्. Kula says मध्यच्छिन्नभुजङ्गमेन अमर्षात् गात्रावेष्टोत्पीडनेन
चूर्णितशिलापीठम्. He reads visamāvadā for visamosaria (cf SC Text), and says विषमं तिर्यक् आपतितस्य शिलातलस्य.

68 K says गिरिशिखरनिषण्णत्वादानीतेभ्यः पुनर्गिरिणा पीडितेभ्यः
जलधरेभ्यो निर्यन्मुखरसलिलम्. SC Text has phudā for philia (भ्रष्ट).

69. K and Kula read muho for maho (R) K says पार्श्वात्
पतितेन वनगजेन रुद्धमुखनिर्झरात् द्विधाप्रसृतसलिलम्. R says पार्श्वे पार्श्वायमा-
नेन वा पतितेन. Kula says वनगजेन बद्धमुखस्य निर्झरस्य द्विधाप्रधावितं सलिलं
यत्र. R says अन्तरितमन्तर्गतम्.

70. K and Kula read विरल for visama (R). K says वीचिभिः
प्रतिकूलाहतत्वात् स्तीकमुद्वेष्टिता गलितवेष्टनाः अतएव द्रुमेभ्योऽवलम्बमाना लता
यत्र तम् । गिरीणां शिखरान्तरैः शिखरान्तरालैरागतः संवेल्लित इतस्ततश्चलितः
सागरो यत्र तं तथाभूतं नलपथं वानरा घटयन्ति स्म. Kula says उद्वेल्लिता

विश्लेषिताः । विरलानां शिखराणामन्तरेणागतः अपरेण शैलेन संपातितः सागरो यत्र तम्. SC says विरलेन शिखराणामन्तरेण आगतः संवेल्लितो निविडद्रुम-पाषाणादिभिः सम्यक् वेष्टितः सागरो यत्र । संवेल्लितः शैलान्तरेण पीडित इति कुलनार्थः. R says संवेल्लितः चञ्चलीभूतः.

71. क्रीर्णप्रतिरवम् R. दत्तप्रतिरवम् K, Kula and MY who has diṇṇa for inna. Kula says विस्तीर्यते वर्धते । विधूयते कम्पते । कर्मकर्तरि प्रयोगोऽयम्.

72. K and MY read punna (पूर्ण) for cunna = चूर्ण (R). K has छिन्नाः¹ for luggā (R and Kula). Kula says रुग्णा भग्नाः. MY says lukkā लूनाः. K and MY seem to read lukkā for luggā. Hemacandra 4.116 mentions lukkaṁ in the sense of तुडति 'tear'. R mentions the reading bhaa-puṇṇa for -cunna. SC explains cunṇa as उद्दिग्ना, and says it is a deṣi word.²

73. K reads पतन for pahara (R and Kula). R and Kula read वर्धयन्ति for bandhenti (R). K says महीधरपतनैः क्षोभितेन सलिलेन परिक्ष-तत्वात् विलीनमूलपर्वतम्, अतएव किञ्चित् किञ्चिदपसृतं नलपथं प्लवंगमाः पुनरपि पर्वतान्तरैः वर्धयन्ति स्म, (i.e. vaddhenti). MY says परिक्षतविलीनसेतुमूल-निहितशैलम्. Kula says विलीना मूलमहीधरा मुखपतितपर्वता यस्येति । अतः स्तोकस्तोकेनापसृतं भ्रष्टायामं नलपथम्.

74. K and Deva read तटः for varo (R and Kula). K reads विस्तीर्यते (vittharaṁ) for uccalai (Deva) and ucchalai (R and Kula) K and probably Deva read स्तोकत्वेऽपि for thoattanena = स्तोकत्वेन (R and Kula probably). K says सेतुपथस्य तटः मुखभागः उर्ध्वं जित्वा अतिक्रम्य यथा यथा परतीरस्य अत्यासन्नोऽभूत्, सलिलं स्तोकत्वे सत्यपि धरैः

¹ छिन्नाः according to Goldschmidt.

² SC'S cunṇa seems to be a scribal error for vunna. The reading of SC and that of Kula (missing in our copy) appears to be bhaa-vunṇa as in 8.65 See above. S, 11

पतद्भिभिहतत्वात् तथा तथा विस्तृतमभूत्. My says अभिमुखः पार (पर ?)- तीरप्रदेशः .. सलिलं स्वल्पीभवदपि सुदूरमुत्स्थलीवभूवेत्यर्थः. He seems to read utthala for ucchala Cf 50 above

75. Only the chāyā of the verse is found in our copy of K.
Kula says स्खलन्तः सन्नमानाः.

76 K, Kula, Deva and MY read द्वितीयार्धान्तं bīaddhanta for bioāsa = द्वितीयावकाश (R). Kula reads नव for दर. K says द्वितीयार्धान्तं प्रति सेतोरपरसमुद्रार्धान्तं प्रति प्रधावितेन तिमिना. R says द्वितीयावकाशात्
प्रधावितेन . . . । अयं भावः—एकपार्श्वदपरपार्श्वं प्रति....सत्वरं गच्छता तिमिना.

77 K, Kula, Deva and probably MY also read सेतुनिबन्धं for seu-nibaddham (R). K, Deva and MY read सलिल for saala (R and Kula). K says वानराणां प्रक्षेपरभसात् विषमस्थितमहापर्वतं सेतुं नलो वीक्ष्य सम्यगवस्थानार्थं यदा धुनोति स्म, तदा समुद्रः सकलः सेतुना प्रणुन्नः
सन् सलिलाप्लावितवसुधो भूत्वा निवृत्तः. MY says विषमस्थितमहाशैलं सेतुं
प्रतिचिकीर्षुः नलो यदा व्यधुनोत् तदा सलिलाक्रान्तवसुधो भूत्वा समुद्रः चिरेण
न्यवर्तत. R says सेतौ निबद्धं विषमसंस्थितं समीभूय न लग्नं महाशैलं सुस-
ज्जीकरणाय नलो यदा धुनोति.

78. K reads चलन् for valanto (R and Kula). Kula says वलन्
अल्पीभवन्. K says प्रेषणेन स्वामिकार्येण । व्यूढः वहति स्म. MY says
लघूकृतः समापितप्रायः । प्रेषणं सेतुविषयराराज्ञा । व्यूढः कर्तरि क्तः. R says वलमानो दोलायमानः.

79. Not found in K and MY.

80. avvocchinna = अव्यवच्छिन्न (R and Kula); अव्युच्छिन्न K-
(chāyā) K says पाताले सक्तमूलः, अविच्छिन्नप्रवहन्नदीप्रवाहः सुवेलः स्वस्थाने
स्थितोऽपि धरणिधरसंक्रमस्य सेतोः मुखे पतितः । वानरैः क्षिप्रं क्षिप्यमाणेन

पर्वतनिवहेन समाप्यमानस्य सेतुमुखस्य दुर्लक्षं शैघ्रचमनया गाथया प्रतिपादितम्.
MY says शैलसंक्रमस्य मुखे (=पुरोभागे Kula) भवितुं महान् शैलोऽपेक्षितः
स्थानस्थित एव तथाभूतः सुवेलः तथा जात इत्यर्थः. Ms. A has महाशैला-
पेक्षितस्थानस्थितएव .

81. पश्चात् पर्वतविनाशनिरपेक्षः शैलो निष्पश्चिमशैलः K. पश्चिमः
शेषः तद्रहितेन सर्वशेषेण शैलेन पूरितो निष्पादितः सेतुपथः R.

82. K reads vva for vi (R). K says सेतौ आरभ्यमाणे सति समुद्रः
सकलः अविकलो दृष्टः । तस्मिन् किञ्चित् बद्धे सति त्रिभागविषमः पुरस्तात्
उभयतश्च विमुक्तैः त्रिभिः भागैः विषमोऽभूत् । समाप्ते सति द्विधा बभूव । स
एव समुद्रः एवंभूतत्वात् पुनः पुनः क्षणे क्षणे अन्य इवाभूत्.

83 K, Kula and MY read malaa-nambosario for malaucchanga-pautto = मलयोत्सङ्गप्रवृत्तः (R).

K says मलयनितम्बादपसृतः प्रवृत्त इत्यर्थः । पर्यस्यमानः प्रसार्यमाणः.
R says पर्यस्यमानः समुद्रवीचिभिरितस्ततः प्रेर्यमाणः. SC says दृष्टान्तमाह—पर्यस्यन् पतन् द्रुमो द्रुमेणेव.

84. Kula says अववृत्ताववनतावुभयपार्श्वौ यस्य तत् तथाभूतं नभः मध्यो- त्क्षिप्तविषमत्वात् पतदिवोत्प्रेक्ष्यते. He reads padantam for namantam (नमत्).
Besides, he reads जलधिपूर्वपश्चिमभागम् for puvva-pacchima-disā-bhāam.
He says सेतुमहापथेन द्विधाकृतौ जलधेः पूर्वपश्चिमभागौ यत्र तत् तथा. K says शतयोजनमायतेन सेतुपथेन द्विधाकृतपूर्वपश्चिमदिग्भागम्, अत्युन्नतेन सेतुना मध्ये
उत्क्षिप्तत्वात् विषमम्, अपवृत्तोभयपार्श्वं निम्नोभयपार्श्वं नभो नमदिव मध्योत्क्षेप-वेगात् अदृश्यत.

85. K (chāyā) has प्रतिष्ठितः. R and Kula have परिस्थितः.
K says सेतुपथः उदयास्तमयपर्वतयो मध्ये निरायतो रविरथमार्ग इव प्रकटोऽभूत्.

86. K reads सागरोपरिप्रतिष्ठित for sāaroara-parit̥ṭhita = सागरोदर-परिस्थित (R). MY says uppanmāna उत्प्लवमान । उत्पतन् वा. The verse is not found in Kula.

87. Not found in K and MY.

88. Not found in our copy of K. Found in MY and Kula.

89. शैलशिखरसंकटत्वात् विषमेण, महीधरैः घटितत्वात् गुरुणा सेतुना शूलेनेव सता प्रकृत्या विषममतिक्रूरं, समरसाहसेन गुरु महीयो दशाननस्य हृदयम् K. विषमेण निम्नोन्नतेन । प्रकृतिविषमं स्वभावतो दुष्प्रधर्षम् MY.

90. K and Deva read प्रचलत् (paalanta) for paadanta = प्रकट्यमान (R). They have प्रचलदपवृत्तकिसलयाः, and seem to read ovvalla = अपवृत्त as in 8. 84 R has uvvalla उद्वृत्त, cf 5 56, 60. etc. He says उद्वृत्तानि भ्रमरभरात् विपरीत्य स्थितानि किसलयानि येषाम्. Kula is corrupt; SC reads paalanta like K, but explains it as प्रगलत्. SC says अपवृत्ताः सलिलभरेणानताः किसलया येषां ते सेतोः कटकद्रुमाः. Deva explains अपवृत्त as उद्वृत्त.

91. K says कुत्रापि क्वचित् प्रदेशे स्फटिकशिलातलघटिताः, स्तिमितेनोदधिना समानवर्णाः अन्तःप्रतिबिम्बितसमुद्रत्वात् समुद्रसमानवर्णाः, महीधरान्तरेषु पतिताः सेतुबन्धप्रदेशा मध्ये मध्ये छिन्ना इवादृश्यन्त.

92 K, MY, Deva and Kula read पटल (padala) for padana (R). K reads दृश्यन्ते (disanti) for najjanti = ज्ञायन्ते (R and Kula; and अवच्छादितानि for otthāīām (अवस्थगितानि) found in R and Kula. K seems to read occharāīm cf Hemacandra 2 17— क्वचित् स्थगित शब्देऽपि । छद्मं.

93. K, MY, Deva and Kula read सगर्भाः (sagabbhā) for samaggā (R). MY says पक्वग्राहो दुष्टग्राहः । पक्वग्राहैः सगर्भाः गर्भसहिताः तद्गर्भा इत्यर्थः. K says परिणतग्राहगर्भिताः वेलामार्गाः तीरपथाः सेतावपि जाताः सेतुपार्श्वयोरपि बभूवुः. R says सागरस्य वेला कल्लोलरूपं जलं तन्मार्गाः ...प्रग्राहो जलसिंहः तेन समग्रा. सपूर्णाः. Deva says सागरस्य वेलाया मार्गाः समुद्रजलवृद्धिप्रतिरयाः सेतावपि जाताः.

94. K (pratika) has selālamghana (rendered in the chāyā as शैलक्षेपण) for selāñchana (R and Kula ?). MY (Ms. B) has selāimghana, and says amghanam रभसक्षेपणं प्रेरणमिति यावत्. MY (Ms. A) has am(ā ?)lamghanam, cf. K's reading Kula says गिरिप्रेषणेन पतिताः. SC says selāñchanena गिरिप्रेरेणेन पतिताः । शैलाकर्षणात् पतिता इति केचित्. R says शैलस्यातिक्रमेण आकर्षणेन पतिताः. K says शैलक्षेपावस्थायां पतिताः, सलिलाद्रितानां केसराणां भारेण आक्रान्ताः, समुद्रात् किञ्चिदुत्तीर्णाः संक्रमस्य सेतोः पार्श्वस्थिताः केसरिणः अदृश्यन्त. Deva has शैलक्षेपणपतिताः. His pratika is missing in our copy.

95 K and Kula read पूर्वापरावतिगताः (i. e., puvvāvare aigaā, cf. SC Text) for puvvāvaroahi-gaā = पूर्वापरोदधिगताः (R). K says मध्यस्थस्य सेतोः पूर्वापरयोः समुद्रयोः संजाता जलचरा महामत्स्या पूर्वापरौ, अपर-पूर्वाविति योज्यम्, नात्र कविना क्रमो विवक्षितः, पूर्वसमुद्रसंभवा अपरभागं कुतूहलात् द्रष्टुम् अतिगता अतिदूरं गताः । तथापरसमुद्रसंभवाः पूर्वभागं द्रष्टुं गताः सन्तः सहसा निर्मितेन सेतुना प्रतिषिद्धगतयो भूत्वा पुनः कुलगृहाणि नैवापश्यन्तित्यर्थः. Kula says ये जलचराः पूर्वापरानुदधी द्रष्टुमागताः सेतुबन्धात् पूर्वं स्वस्थानमतिक्रम्य गताः, तेऽधुना बद्धेन सेतुना प्रतिषिद्धप्रसराः सन्तः पुनः कुलगृहाणि जन्मस्थानानि न प्रेक्षन्ते. Deva's reading is same as that of K and Kula, but he says पूर्वापरौ द्रष्टुमभिगताः. The word अतिगताः also appears in his gloss.

96. K reads परिक्षिप्ताः for padaddhantā = पटार्धान्तौ (R and Kula). He says धवलेन निर्झरेण परिक्षिप्ता महीधराः. K reads प्रतिष्ठिताः for paritthiā (R and Kula). Kula says सेतोरुभयतटपरिस्थितौ महीधरौ मलयसुवेलौ.

97. K says कपिसैन्यं प्रचलता राघवेण हृदये निधीयमानयुद्धमुखं भूत्वा चलितुं प्रवृत्तम्. MY says सेतुरचनापेक्षितेभ्योऽतिरिक्ता आनीताः शैलाः वैफल्यात् पुनः स्थले प्रकीर्णा येन तत्तथा.

98 K and MY read क्षीयमाण (ghijanta for vocchunna = व्यवच्छिन्न (R and Kula) MY says सेतुना द्विधाकृतस्योदधेः निरुद्धपरस्परपार्श्वसलिल-प्रसरतया एकस्मिन् साग्निके पार्श्वे अग्निना पीयमानसलिले सति पार्श्वान्तर-सलिलस्य तत्र सचारणजन्यपूरणाभावात् क्षीणसलिलत्वं जातमित्यर्थः. K says अतिक्रामन्तः ते वानराः संक्रमेण सेतुना द्विधाकृतत्वात् क्षपितविस्तारं, वडवामुखेन वह्निना निष्ठापिते नाशिते दह्यमाने एकत्र पार्श्वे क्षीयमाणजलं समुद्रं पश्यन्ति स्म. Deva has व्यवच्छिन्नमल्पीभवत् पानीयं यस्य.

99 K reads jua (युत) for -ula = कुल (R, Deva, Kula and MY). समुद्रसभवैः शङ्खैः युक्तपर्वतसरोवतिधवलकमले, तथा मरतकसंपृक्तपत्रभङ्गसमूहे K MY remarks गङ्गादीनां पुण्डरीकादिकतया रूपणमार्गात् मङ्गलाभिप्रायेणात्र समचरद्वानरवलमित्युत्तरेण संबन्धः.

100 K, Deva and MY read द्विधाकृत (dohāta) for oāha = अवगाहित; अवगाढ (R and Kula). K says अथ समुद्रः अधःप्रवेशेन द्विधा-कृतपातालं तं सेतुं सर्वस्थान्ना सह वलेन गुरु दृढं धारयति स्म. MY remarks आधारयत् सेतुमिति लभ्यते प्रकृतत्वात् । द्विधाकृतपातालमित्यध्याहतसेतुपदवि-शेषणमिच्छन्ति केचित् । अन्ये क्रियाविशेषणमिति । अन्यथा तु ... द्विधाकृतपातालं भ्रवशदलिताधस्तनभूतलं यथा स्यात्तथा समुद्रः कपिवलं सर्वप्राणमधारयदिति योज्यम्. K says तस्मिन् वानरवलं चरति गच्छति स्म । तेषां गौरवात् विशि-ष्यन्महीधरः सेतुपथः नमति स्म. Kula says आक्रमभरेण विसंगटमाना मही-धरा यत्र स सेतुपथो नमति । अवगाढपातालं पातालमूले दत्तभरं यथा स्यात्, सर्वस्थान्ना गुरुकं च यथा स्यात् तथा धारयति समुद्रः.

101 The verse is not found in K, Deva and MY. R says नितम्बं सेतोरेव मूलभागं संचालयति. SC says नितम्बं मध्यभागं सेतोरित्यर्था-दिति कुलनाथः.

102 K says शैलभरोद्धहनेन जनितस्वेदशीकराः । तुषारः शीकरेऽपि चेत्यमरशेषे. MY reads sea-jala-lavā for sea-tusārā

103 पादपाचितवनोद्देशमिति वा पाठः K.

104. K, Deva and MY read uahum acchera-vikkamam (आश्चर्य-विक्रमं) for uahumaviddavia-vikkamam (R and Kula); and गलितप्रतापक्षु-भितः for pelavāṇattiaro (R and Kula). K says वानराणां समुद्रलङ्घनादेव राक्षसनाथस्य गलितेन प्रतापेन राक्षसजनः क्षुभितोऽभूदिति. MY says accheram आश्चर्यम् paāva प्रताप. Kula says अविक्रातः (अविद्राणः ?) अनुपहतो विक्रमो यस्य तत् कपिसैन्यमुदधिमुत्तीर्णं श्रुत्वा राक्षसलोको राक्षस-नाथस्य पेलवं मृदु यथा स्यात् तथा आज्ञप्तिमाज्ञां करोतीति तथाविधो जातः. R has अविद्रावितविक्रमम्.

105. Not found in K, Deva and MY Kula's readings differ somewhat from those of R He reads suvela-kadae for mahoahi-ade (महोदधितटे); Dahamuha for रावण; and -ppanao for -pphamso (स्पर्शः). Kula says यावच्च विश्रामार्थं सुवेलकटके आवासग्रहणव्यापृतं कपिसैन्यं तावत् दशमुखस्य शीर्षे कृतान्तेन वामहस्तप्रणयः कृतः । अनन्तरमेव (वानर)सैन्यं ममाभिलषितं पूरयिष्यति इति अविघ्नार्थं वामहस्तस्य (असिद्धि)हेतुत्वात् तेना-सिद्धिकरीमिव रक्षामकरोदित्यभिप्रायः. SC adds प्रणयः स्वीकारः. R says वामहस्तेन स्पर्शः कृतः ... इति रावणस्य हठादेव मृत्युः व्यञ्जितः.

106. K saya रामस्य रावणस्य च लोकालोकान्तरालनिःसामान्ये निरुपमाने, इदानीं वर्धमाने रामस्य प्रतापे, रावणस्य तु निवर्तमाने प्रसरान्निवर्त-माने, प्राकारान्तरेण प्राकारव्यवधानेन द्विधाकृते सति रामप्रतापो लङ्कां न प्रविष्टः । रावणप्रतापः प्राकारात् भग्न इति । एवं द्विधाकृते सति उत्तरत्र संबन्धः.

हितदक्षिणदिङ्मुखं, शेषदिङ्मुखाच्छादनाय प्रधावितमिव K, Kula reads gha- ttavia explained as आक्रान्त for mtthavia = निष्ठापित, नाशित (R and MY).

2. K and MY read āsina for -jjhina = क्षीण (R and Kula ?). K,
MY and Kula read = निषत्तव्य, 1. e nsammavva for vi° = विश्रमितव्य (R).
K says भुवनस्य निषत्तव्यभरसहं, निषत्तव्यमिति भावे तव्यप्रत्ययः निषदनमि- त्यर्थः । त्रिभुवननिषदनभरस्य सहं समर्थं मधुमथनमिव । उदरगतेन भुवनभरेण
सहासीनस्य तस्य मधुमथनस्योपरि शयानस्य भरसहं शेषमिव, तस्य शेषस्य भरसहं
समुद्रमिव, तस्य समुद्रस्यापि निषत्तव्यभरसहं सुवेलं ददृशुः । अयं मालोपमा-
प्रकारः. MY says भुवनभरासीनः भुवनभरेण निषण्ण इत्यर्थः. R says समुद्रस्य
विश्रमितव्यं विश्रामः । भावे तव्यः । तत्र भरसहं भारक्षमम् । समुद्रस्याप्यवलम्ब-नमित्यर्थः.

3. K and MY read वत्सल for pabbala = प्रबल (R and Kula).
See Notes on 4. 25. K says उदधेः पूरणे समर्थनदीप्रवाहम् । वत्सलशब्दः समर्थपर्यायः । प्रागप्युक्तम्— vacchalo surāna vi samare (4. 25.) MY says dhareavva धारयितव्य । धारणेत्यर्थः । धारयितव्येत्यादिः तव्यप्रत्ययो धारणा- दिभावपरतयानुसंधेयः । bhareavva धारण(भरण?)पूरणेति यावत् । वत्सलः
समर्थः । meavva (for mā-) मातव्य मानेत्यर्थः.

4. K (pratika) has dūra-paḍi°. He has प्रतिपीडित for paripellia = परिप्रेरित (R). MY also has paḍipellia. Several verses after this are missing in both the mss. of MY. Kula says दूरं प्रतिप्रेरिताः पीडयित्वाप-सारिता दिशो येन तम्. He reads ovāhīa = अवगाढ (cf, HC 4. 205) for onāma (अवनामित); and samatta for samattha. He says दूरावगाढ-मतः समाप्तं पातालं येन । samattha इति पाठे समस्त इत्यर्थः. SC Text has ovāha.
S..12

5. K reads valia for padia (R) in the second line. He says
पार्श्वप्रसृतसरितम्, अमुक्तपातालममुक्तसागरजलोत्सङ्गं च । तदानीमादिवराह-स्योद्धर्तनेनोद्धरणार्थं क्षणमात्रं वलितम् ऊर्ध्वस्थितं मेदिनीमण्डलमिव स्थितम्.
Kula says विनीतोर्ध्वस्थितमिव मेदिनीवेष्टम्. Kula's विनीत seems to be a mistake for वलित. SC Text has valia SC says आदिवराहस्य उद्धर्तनेन
उत्क्षेपणेन क्षणात् वलितोर्ध्वस्थितं तिर्यगूर्ध्वीभूतं मेदिनीवेष्टमिव । अन्ये तु
वलितं मण्डलाकारं समुत्थितं मेदिनीवेष्टमिव । पासल्लशब्दः पार्श्वे देशी.

6. āodana is translated in K (chāyā) as चोटन. K (comm).
says पाताले भरितमूलं पूर्णमूलम्, इन्द्रस्य वज्रमुखाभिघातेन निष्कम्पं स्थापितं, सुरहस्तिनामैरावतादीनां स्कन्धनिकाषेण मसृणितपार्श्वं श्लक्ष्णीकृतपार्श्वमेवंभूतत्वात्
आलानस्तम्भमिव स्थितम् । आलानस्तम्भश्च दूरमधस्तात् प्रतिष्ठितः मूलदेश-
मभितः काष्ठदण्डाभिघातैः निष्कम्पस्थापितश्च भवतीति. Kula says वज्रमुखा-
कोटनेन पक्षच्छेदाघातेन स्थिरीकृत्य स्थापितमित्यर्थः. R says वज्रस्य मुखेन
यदाकोलनं मृत्तिकामभिहत्य दृढीकरणं तेन स्थापितम् अत एव निष्कम्पम्.

7. K reads ululha for umalia = विमर्दित (R and Kula). K says
सर्वतोऽपि गाढरसातलेनापि शेषेणादृष्टमूलावसानं, त्रिभुवनहरणाय बलिना महा-
सुरेण गृहीतस्य त्रिभुवनस्य हरणार्थं परिवृद्धेन त्रिविक्रमेणापि अप्राप्ततुङ्गशिखरम्.
Kula says विषधरपतिनापि न दृष्टो मूलस्य छेदः पर्यन्तो यस्य तम्.

8. - विस्तारेण विक्षिप्तोदधिसञ्जितं, कटकेषु भ्रमद्भिः महाभुजङ्गैः दत्तावे-

10. K and Kula read निकषित for nihasana = निघर्षण (R). K reads शिखर for kasana = कृष्ण (R and Kula). K (chāyā) has प्रक्षालित for pabbāha = प्रप्लावित (R); and ज्वलित for muna = ज्ञात (R and probably Kula). K says अन्तिके गच्छतः शशिनो बिम्बस्य पार्श्वेन निकषितायां शिखरशिलाभित्तौ प्रसृततदीयामृतधारम् । ज्योत्स्नाजलसिक्तत्वाद्विषममूष्मायमाण-रविरथपथम्. Kula says शशिबिम्बेन पार्श्वे निकषिता निघृष्टा या कृष्णशिला-
भित्तिः तत्र प्रसृता अमृतलेखा यत्र । ज्योत्स्नाजलेन प्रेरितत्वात् (?) विषममत्यर्थ-

किसलयानि यत्र तम्. K says मृगाङ्गपृष्ठे पतितत्वात् उच्छ्वसन्ति किसलयानि.
K's construction is padia+ūsasanta, while Kula and R take padī as an upasarga (प्रति). R says प्रत्युच्छ्वसन्ति प्रत्युज्जीवन्ति.

1 K is here corrupt But see quotation from SC and K on 10 10 हृतातपरजसि
... सुरगजे, i.e. हृत for hia

13. dūruddhāia is rendered by Kula as दूरोद्धापित. K (chāyā) has दूरोत्थापित. K says दूरमुच्छ्वसितशिखरम्, जलनिधिजले दृश्यमानविशाल-परिस्फुटप्रतिबिम्बम् । एवरूपत्वात् प्रलयकाले उत्पातरूपेण अशनिना ग्रहतं ताडितम्, ऊर्ध्वादारम्य स्फुटितपतितैकपार्श्वमिव तिष्ठन्तम्.

14. गुरुभारैः शेषाहिफणैः पर्यायेण प्रतिरुद्धमूलप्रदेशं भरातिरेकात् फणैः क्रमेण धारितमूलस्थलम् । क्षयमारुतेनोत्खातानीताः तुङ्गेषु तटेष्वापतिताः अत एव भिन्नाः शेषमहीधरा यस्य तम् K.

15. गृहीतजलैर्मैधैः पीडितत्वादाक्रान्तत्वात् निर्वान्तः सुखीभवन्तो निभृतं स्थिताः महामहिषा यत्र तम् K. गृहीतजलैर्मैधैः प्रेरिताः सन्तः Kula सिंहनिहतानां गजानां कुम्भलोहितेन कुम्भरुधिरेण शिलातले बद्धावशुष्कमुक्तापटलम् K.

16. लवणजलशीकरैराहतत्वात् दरोद्धमन् किञ्चित् प्रणश्यन् द्रुमाणां सुगन्धस्य पल्लवस्य रागो यत्र तम् K. MY says uvvamanta उद्धमत् निःसरत् विनश्यदिति यावत्. Kula says विच्छायाभवन्.

17. K and MY read दृष्टानां for °ṭṭhiānom (R and Kula). K (chāyā) has कटकपरिपीडितानां परिपार्श्वतः परिसंस्थितमिव दिशाम्. K says कटकैः पीडितानां तिरोहितानां, रविकिरणैः प्रकटितासु विशालतरासु कन्दरासु भरितानाम्, एवमभ्यन्तरे दृष्टानां दिशां परितः पार्श्वे परिसंस्थितमिव । तदीयैः कटकैः व्याप्तत्वादिशां बहिः अप्रकाशतया तदभ्यन्तरे दृष्टत्वाच्च दिशां परिपार्श्वे स्थितमिवेत्यर्थः. MY says parilla-pāsa परिपार्श्व (B has पर°) । बहिः कटकपीडितानां रविकिरप्रकाशितदर्युदरप्रविष्टपरिसमाप्तदृष्टानां दिशां परतोऽवस्थितमिवेत्यर्थः. Kula says दशानामपि दिशां परपार्श्वे बहिःपार्श्वे.¹ Parilla-pāsa seems to be same as parilla-vāsa mentioned in Deśināmamālā 6. 33 in the sense of अज्ञातगति. The meaning is applicable here, i. e.,

¹ R says वयं तु दिशामपरपार्श्वे परितो बहिः स्थितमिव.

the extent of the Suvela was unknown to the regions of the sky enveloped by the mountain.

18. K and MY read rāaa-sudūra for raaniāsu dūra (R). K says राजतानि रजतमयानि सुदूरमुद्रतानि अनन्तानि शिखराणि यस्य तम् । सुखनिषण्णैर्मृगैः खण्डितशिखराणि¹ शष्पशङ्कया लीढकिरणानि (रत्नानि) मरकतादीनि यत्र तम् । ततं विस्तृतम् । कुपितस्य रामस्य भिनोदधिभिः शरैः दृढं प्रणुन्नम् । शिखरे लग्नस्य शशिनः निःसरणेन अमृतनिष्यन्देन आर्द्रितम्.

MY says rāaa (i. e. रागद) रञ्जक । सुदूरोद्रतशिखररत्नं ततं सुखनिषण्णमृगखण्डितशिखरतृणान्तम्. Kula says रात्रिषु दूरोद्रतशिखानि रत्नानि यत्र तम् । (ततं) विस्तृतम् । .. मृगैः खण्डितशिखरतृणोऽन्तः पर्यन्तः यस्य तम्. Kula seems to read rāiāsu found in SC Text

19. K (pratīka) has dūroāhia. He reads raha for -ara = कर (R and Kula). He says अधस्तात् दूरमवगाढमूलम् उपरि रविरथमतिक्रान्तैः शिखरैर्नष्टालोकम्. MY says उदधेरधस्तात् मूलेनेव नभस्यपि उपरिष्टाच्छिखरैरर्धास्तमितायाममदृश्यार्धायामं स्थितमित्यर्थः । ovāhia अवगाढ । bolina अतिक्रान्त । उभयत्र कर्तरि क्त . Kula says नष्टालोकमदृश्यतां गतम्.

K says एवंभूतत्वात् उदधिसलिले यथा अर्धास्तमितं तथैव नभस्तले अर्धस्थगितायामम्. R renders ovāhia as अपवाहित explained as अधःप्रापित.

20. K says दरपीतोदधित्वात् गुरूकृतस्य जलदस्य शेषार्धान्तेन पञ्चमार्धेन अवलम्बितशिखरम्. R says शेषार्धान्तः पश्चाद्भागः.

21. K and MY read तट for तल; नित्य for uddha; शब्द for vihua; and गण for माला K reads प्रमेलितं for neliaam K and MY read यक्ष for canda.

¹ खण्डितशिखानि ? cf. Kula's explanation below R says शिखा तेजोधारा He also says मृगैः खण्डितः शिखरतृणानामन्तोऽग्रं यत्र तम्.

K says तटेषु प्रतिहतसमुद्रं, नित्यनिर्झरशब्देन सिंहानां रोषे आदरप्रद रोषातिशयप्रदमित्यर्थः । ग्रहगणैश्चन्द्रादित्यादिभिः प्रमेलितं संपृक्तं, शिखरस्थितैर्यक्षमण्डलैः आप्रेडितं चिरमभ्यस्तम्. MY says ग्रहगणेन वामेतरित प्रदक्षिणीकृतं, वामेतरितमिति च वर्णस्थितिपरिवृत्त्या लभ्यते । अथवा ग्रहगणव्यामेलितम्, i.e. gaha-gana-vāmelīaam for gaha-gaṇa-ppamelīaam (K), and gaha-mālā-me° (R) The verse is not found in Kula.

22 K and MY read परतः (parao) for purao (R and Kula ?); and nirāa = निरायत for nivāa निवात (R and Kula) K says सूर्यस्योपरि वर्तमानस्य शशिनोऽपि परतः उपरि प्रसृतं प्रवृद्धम् । कुहरेषु निरायतप्रसृत-निष्कम्पसरितम्. MY says दीर्घनिष्प्रकम्पसरित्कम्. Kula says मणिमयैः पार्श्वैः उत्तमस्कम् उत्क्षिप्ततिमिरम् उत्तमं वा.

24 K (pratīka) has addia (atīa ?) rendered as शुष्क. MY has atīia (itīia in B) अस्थित अविरत अविच्छिन्न (Kula also) K says उपरिप्रसृतशुष्कसमुद्रजलशीकरत्वात् दुष्परिमर्शनिभं, दुष्परिमर्शो दुष्पर्श ओषधि-विशेषः स्पर्शादेव देहे कण्डूं जनयति, तत्सदृशं भूत्वा कण्टकीभवन्मणितटम् । समुद्रजलशीकराः शोषाद्धनीभवन्ति । नखलग्नमौक्तिकफलाः गजशीर्षारूढा एव निःसरन्तो मृगेन्द्राः यत्र तम्. R says निर्हृदिशालिनो मृगेन्द्राः. cf. Hemacandra - nīharai nīsarai 4. 79; nīharai akkanda 4 131. Kula has निर्हृदन्तः cf. SC.

25 SC Text has ovotta for ovattha. Acc to Śrinivāsa quoted by SC, it is a deśi word meaning मेघजलसेक. K and MY have oattha = अपवृष्ट MY¹. MY says अथवा oatta इति पाठः । तत्रापवृत्तेति छाया. K reads विलुलित for vimalia (R, MY and Kula). cf. verse 7^a. K and MY read विमल for धवल (R and Kula). K says कल्पलतानां तत्रत्यानां

¹ अववृष्टेन अववर्षणेन कोमलानि Kula. His pratīka is ovattha K (chāyā) has अव° and comm अभि°.

² MY says vimalia (ā° ms A) विमृदित । विमृदितमुक्तानि विमृद्य विमुक्तानीत्यर्थः.

कल्पवृक्षशाखानां संबन्धीनि पवनेन शोषितत्वात् उत्थापितानि विमलान्यंशुकानि येषु तानि वनानि वहमानम्. MY also has उत्थापित.

26. K reads मूल for सरस (R and Kula). K says समुद्रजलवृद्धौ नदीमुखैः आरूढोदधिसलिलानि, जलरयेणार्धोत्खातमूलत्वात् विषमाः पार्श्वद्रुमा येषां तानि नदीस्रोतांसि वहन्तम्. MY says pāsalla पार्श्व. Kula says विषमं पार्श्वायिता द्रुमाः येषु तानि. R says स्फटिकतटे उत्तानानि अगभीराणि सन्ति प्रस्थितानि¹ तत्र खातं कर्तुमशक्तत्वादिति भावः.

27. वाताविद्ध K (chāyā). वातप्रेरितैः शिखरनिर्झरैः क्षालयन्तम् K. वाताहतैः Kula. dhuantam धावन्तं क्षालयन्तमिति यावत् MY.

28. प्रज्वलितौषधिशिखाहतम् K (chāyā). K says दीर्घतरे शिखरे लनं, निशासु प्रज्वलितौषधिज्वालाभिराहतं, प्रकटितमृगकलङ्कं, ज्वालाहतत्वात् कञ्जलितोदरमिव मृगाङ्कं दधतम्.

29 उद्धृतया धरण्या हेतुना विशालम्, आदिवराहस्य महता शरीरेण हतपङ्कत्वाददूरमवगाढम् अगाधं समुद्रं नदीस्रोतोभिः पूरयन्तम् K.

30. K reads आकर्णितवनचरान् for ukkannia-vana-gae = उत्कर्णि-तवनगजान् (R and Kula). He says कुतः संभवतीति अविज्ञातागमनमार्गान्, वनचराकर्णितान् शृगेन्द्रनिनादान् वहन्तम्. MY says aannia आकर्णित । कर्तरि क्तः । शब्दानामागमनदिशोऽपरिज्ञानं तारतया प्रतिशब्दसन्निधानाद्वा अशेषदिग्व्यापितत्वात्.

31. गृहीतामिषाणां गृहीतभक्ष्याणां हरीणां सिंहानां दयितं, वेलानिलशीकरार्द्रेण वनेन हरितकृतं श्यामलितम् K. MY says गृहीतामिषहर्यतिगतं² प्राप्तं

¹ K says कुसुमभरितानि. स्फटिकमये तटे कटके उत्तानप्रस्थितानि स्फटिकतटवर्णनिर्दिशेषं प्रस्थितानि नदीस्रोतांसि.

² 1. e. aia = अतिगत. Cf. ainta 6.26 = अयमान, गच्छत् R.

हरिदयितमिति वा । वेलानिलशीकरार्द्रवनहरितीकृतमिति, भरितमिति वा । Kula says वेलानिलेन शीकरैर्यदाद्रीकरणं तेन हरिताचितं तृणव्याप्तम्. He seems to take ollavana as one word in the sense of आद्रीकरण.

32. Kula says प्रभूताः संमिता दश दिशो येषु तान्. K says मिलितसमुद्रैकदेशान्, अन्तःप्रकटनभोमण्डलान्, पर्याप्तदशदिशः, निजाम्यन्तर एव उदितास्तमितदिनकरान्, एवंभूतत्वात् भुवनविभागानिव दृश्यमानान् कन्दरान् वहन्तम्.

33 K and MY read -उच्चलित for ucchalia (R and Kula). K reads 'सलिलान् for bharie = भृतान् (R and Kula ?). K says उच्चलितसमुद्रसलिलान्, स्तोकस्रवदविच्छिन्नजलान् आदौ मूले मधुरान्, पुरतः प्रदेशे लवणान् शिखरजलप्रवाहान् वहन्तम्. R says निर्व्यूढानि सभूयोपचितानि जलानि येषु तान्.

34. K and MY read विपुल for pihula = पृथुल (R and Kula). K says भारातिशयाद्वलमानस्य वक्त्रीकृतशरीरस्य शेषस्य विपुलैः फणैः धूयमानम्. Kula says परिवर्तमानस्य.

35 K says नभस्तलवत् नीलान्, जलभ्रान्त्या उष्णाहतमहिषमार्गिता-वतरणपथान्, पार्श्वतः प्रसरत्किरणान् मणितटान् इन्द्रनीलवैडूर्यमणितटान् सरांसीव वहमानम्. Kula seems to say मृगैः तृष्ण्या पिपासया वेष्टितान्. SC says मृगतृष्णा मरीचिका इति केचित्. R says मृगतृष्ण्या आवेष्टितान् व्याप्तान् and explains the word as मरीचिका. MY says सरःसाम्यादेव पार्श्वप्रसरत्किरणानि मृगतृष्णावेष्टितानि स्थितानि चटुलोर्मिसंकुलानि सलिल-भृतानि सरांसीव । अथवा पार्श्वप्रसरत्किरणानि तदानीं मृगतृष्णावेष्टितानि स्थितानि सरांसीव किरणावरुद्धतया मृगतृष्णावेष्टिततया च वृत्तिवेष्टितानीति मत्वा महिषैः अवतरणमार्गमार्गणमित्यवसेयम्. R has उष्माहत, and Kula उष्णायित.

36. K (chāyā) has नखक्षित for muhoruddha = मुखावरुद्ध (R). K (comm.) says सिंहैः प्रतिसिहवुद्ध्या नखैरुत्क्षितरजतशिखरखण्डम्. Kula has मुख like R, but seems to read अवरुण, i. e., olugga for oruddha. cf. SC.

37. K, like R, explains उत्तार as उत्ताल, and says नदीसंगमेषु नदीनां संगमपदेषु उत्तालं प्रभूतं तृणं यत्र तम् । रलयोरभेदः. MY says गज-कुलमृदितनदीसंगमोत्तारवनम् । उत्तीर्यते तेनेत्युत्तारस्तीर्थम् । नदीसंगमावतारवनं वा. R seems to say नदीनां संगमे प्रवेशे. Kula seems to say नदीसंगमोत्तारस्य नदीसंगमतीरस्य तृणानि. cf. SC which gives Lokanātha's explanation नदीसंगमसंबन्धिनः अवतरस्य घट्टस्य तृणानि.

38. K and Kula read तट for तल. K says उपरितटस्य वनराजिषु परिघूर्णमानाः भ्रमन्तः उद्भटाः अतिप्रकाशाः तारा नक्षत्राणि यस्य तम्. K reads भुवनत्रयस्य¹ for bīa-bhuanassa = द्वितीयभुवनस्य (R and Kula) K (chāyā) has एव त्रिभुवनस्य. K says एवमतितुङ्गत्वात् पार्श्वे निपण्णस्य परितः प्रदेशेषु स्थितस्यापि भुवनत्रयस्योपरि तिष्ठन्तमिव । चन्द्रादित्यनक्षत्राणां शिखरात् अधस्तादेव संचारादेवमुत्प्रेक्षितम्. महिषैर्लिङ्गमानगिलम्. MY says vimharāvia (for °raia) विह्वलीकृत । samkhāa
संस्त्यान. Kula says आतपेनाहतं तप्तं यत् हरितालं तस्यामोदेन विस्मारिता

¹ SC says मूर्च्छितहरिणम् । विस्मापितेति कश्चित् (cf R) । तन्न, 'विम्हरावेइ' इति मूर्च्छिते देगी इति देगीसारदर्शनात्.

अपस्माररोगेण हृताः¹. Deśināmamāla 6.3 mentions pamhāra (=अपस्मार?)
In the sense of अपमृत्यु.

42 K and MY read रत्न for raaa = रजत (R and Kula). K reads ताराग्रं and लग्नं for tāram gaam and (mo)ttā-rangaam (R, Kula and MY); and सरिद्युत for sarujjua (R and others). K says तुङ्गरत्न-शिखराणामुद्गमैः ताराग्रमुज्ज्वलाग्रम् । सिंहनिहतानां गजानां लोहितेन मुक्ताभिश्च लग्नं व्याप्तम्. He seems to read tāraggaam and make it agree with his reading (mo)ttā-laggaam in the second line by the रलयोर-भेदः rule (cf. verses 37 and 44). He explains the last two lines as follows — गुरुणा धैर्येण निर्वाहितो यापितो बहूनां युगानां संक्षयो येन । उदधिसलिले संक्रान्ताभिः सरिद्धिः युताः शङ्खा यत्र तम्. Kula says तुङ्गै रजतशिखरैस्तारं विशुद्धमङ्गं यस्य तम्, and explains निर्वाहित in the third line as अतिक्रान्त. MY construes sarujjua as सरउदचत or सरऋजु. R says उदधिसलिलात् संक्रान्ताः सरसि ऋजुकाः संमुखाः शङ्खा यत्र. SC says यस्य सरसि समुद्रादागत्य शङ्खा विहरन्तीत्यर्थः । सरसि ऋजुकाः प्रगुणपङ्क्तय इति लोकनाथः.

43. MY says pahamma देवखात (B adds अकृत्रिमसरः). Kula says स्मरशरण्या मन्मथविधेयास्तेषां निद्रापदं निधुवनक्रीडाश्रान्तानां निद्रासुखदमित्यर्थः । अथवा सरःशरण्याः करिमहिषशूकरादयः तेषां निद्राकरं निद्राजनकम्. K says मणीन् पातीति मणिपः सर्पः । मणिपानां हर्म्यवत् सुष्ठु आमोदम् (मणिपाः सर्पाः मणिपानां हर्म्यैः सामोदम् MY) । मणिभिः मरकतादिभिः प्रहतत्वात् श्यामोदकम् । अथवा 'पहम्म'शब्दो भाजनवाचकः । मरकतादिमणि-

श्वभ्रेषु श्यामोदकम् । सरसेषु जलप्रस्रवणसहितेषु अरण्येषु निर्दावं दावाग्निरहितम् । सरःपरिसरमाश्रिताः सरःशरण्याः । सरः शरण्यं येषामिति बहुव्रीहिः । तेषां सौख्यातिशयात् निद्रापदम् । लोपोऽरण्य इति अकारलोपः (Vararuci 1.4).

R says मणीन् पान्तीति मणिपाः यक्षा सर्पा वा.

44. Unlike R and Kula, K and MY read here two verses. The first is a Mahāyamaka formed with the phrase dara-rakkhasā-moam.

(i) K says एकरूपपादचतुष्टयं महायमकमेतत् । यथोक्तमाचार्येण । एकाकारचतुष्पादं यन्महायमकाह्वयम् इति ।

तत्र द्दतराक्षसामोदकमिति प्रथमः पादः । दृप्तानां राक्षसानामामोदकं प्रीतिकरमतिगहनत्वात् राक्षसानामावासभूतमित्यर्थः । दरीग-ऋक्षश्यामोदयमिति द्वितीयः पादः¹ । दरीगतैः दरीवर्तिभिः ऋक्षैः भल्लकैर्हेतुभूतैः श्यामाया रात्रे-रुदयो यत्र । ऋक्षाणामतिकृष्णवर्णत्वादरीषु सदा रात्रिर्वर्तत इति प्रतिभातीत्यर्थः । दलितलक्षसामोदयमिति तृतीयः पादः । रलयोरभेदः । सामोदयो गजः । सामोद्भवः सिन्धुर इति हलायुधः । दलितानि विदारितानि लक्षाणि प्रतिगजा यैस्ते सामोदया यत्र तम् । दरीचरखश्यामोदकमिति चतुर्थः पादः । दरीषु स्पन्दमानं खमिव श्याममुदकं यत्र तम् । दरीषु प्रस्रवणादयः संभवन्तीति. Kula says दरीचरैरक्षैः विभीतकैः श्याममुदकं यत्र तम्.

(ii) The second verse introduced by K and MY is rendered by K as follows

रम्यसलिलपार्श्वलतं² रामासलीलवासालयम् ।

विषतरुप्रभावार्तं विशदरूप्यप्रभापात्रम् ॥

1 MY says दरीचराक्षश्यामोदयमिति द्वितीयः पादः । दरीवर्तिजननयनाना श्यामाया रात्रेरुदय प्रदोषः त दरीणा नित्यनिरातपतया अन्धकारास्पदत्वान् । akkha इत्यत्र 'स्क-ष्क-क्षा खः इति (Vararuci 3. 29) खत्वमेव । न 'अक्ष्यादिषु छः' इति (ibid 3.30) छत्वम् । Dhummakka इत्यादिवत्

2 This might be ramma-salila-pāsa-laam (or even vāsa laam, but the derivation of रामासलील etc from it is a tour de force not usual in the poem.

The second line is the same as the corresponding line of the verse as recorded by R and Kula except that MY and K seem to read attaam for antaam. K says रम्याः सलिलपार्श्वेषु लताः यत्र तम् । रामाणां सलीलवासायालयं सलीलनिवासार्थमालयभूतम् । विपतरूणां विषवृक्षाणां प्रभावेण आर्तम् आर्तमृगविहङ्गममित्यर्थः । विशदस्य रूप्यस्य रजतस्य प्रभायाः पात्रभूतम्. R says विशदरूप्यप्रभाभिः कान्तं कमनीयमित्यर्थः.

45. K says जरठाभिः परिणताभिः विषौषधिभिः विषहराभिरोपधिभिः वेष्टितत्वात् भुजङ्गमैः परित्यक्तचन्दनद्रुमस्कन्धम्. virāia (विराजित R) is explained as विलीन by K —अतिक्रामतां गच्छतां विषधराणां फणामणिप्रभाभिराहतत्वात् विलीना नष्टा द्रुमच्छाया यत्र तम्. Kula explains the word as विलीनीकृत. K seems to derive virāia from virāa = विशीर्ण, which he invariably translates as विलीन. cf. Hemacandra 4 56- विलीडेर्विरा—*virāi vilijja*1.

46. प्रलयसमयजलेनापि असंपूर्ण क्षालितम् K.

47. K says रम्याः कन्दरा कच्छा नदीतीरप्रदेशाश्च यत्र तम् । रमिः रतिः प्रीतिः तदयोग्यं रम्यं चन्द्रं हिरण्यं तस्य रागो वर्णो स छदः छादनं यस्य तथाभूतम् । प्रियङ्करस्वर्णप्रभाच्छादितमित्यर्थः । स्वर्गस्य ग्रहे ग्रहणे प्राप्तौ नितरां सामग्र्यं साधनसंपत्तिः यत्र तम्¹ । निशब्दो भृशार्थः । नि न्यग्भावनिकामयोरिति वैजयन्ती । स्वाग्रे स्वस्य शिखरे ग्रहाणां निशासु मार्गप्रदम् । गाङ्गेयं स्यात् गैरिकं भूरि चन्द्रं राः कल्याणं निष्कमष्टापदं चेति हलायुधः R says स्वर्गग्रहणीनां स्वर्गबन्दीनां सामग्र्यं साकल्यं यत्र. Kula's explanation is same except that he says सुरबन्दीनां सामग्र्यं समुदयं दयते रक्षतीति तम्.

48. पङ्कोत्तरणदशायामभिभूतेन पुनः प्रतिनिवृत्तेन (प्रवृत्तेन A) वराहेण वञ्चिताहतः सिंहो यत्र तम् MY. पङ्कादुत्तरता तदानीमेव सिंहलक्षितेन पुनः परिवृत्तेन अभिमुखीभूतेन वराहेण etc. K ²

1 MY says स्वर्गग्रहणसामग्र्यं स्वर्गग्रहण स्वर्गस्पर्शनम्.

2 Kula is incomplete SC says पङ्कादुत्तरन्त सिंहै लक्षिता आक्रान्ताः पञ्चान् परिवृत्ता ये वराहाः तैः वञ्चिता आहताश्च सिंहा यत्र तम् । तै वञ्चिताः न्यक्तप्रहारा इति कुलनाथः. R says आहतः ताडित इव.

49. K and MY read सेक for nīla (R). Kula has स्निग्ध. K says सजलसेकानां जलसकसहितानां मेघानां लावण्यं यत्र । अथवा सजलसेका मेघा एव लावण्यं यस्यास्ताम् । अथवा सजलसेकस्य मेघस्येव लावण्यं यस्यास्ताम् । ज्योतींषि नक्षत्राणि ज्योतिर्मय्या अपूर्वमेखलया वर्णितां शोभिताम् । वर्णो नीलादिविप्राधोः कीर्तौ गीतिक्रमे स्तुतौ । .. लेपशोभयोः ॥ इति वैजयन्ती । एवंभूतां नभ श्रियं बाहुभिरिव शिखरैः प्रच्छादयन्तम् आलिङ्गन्तं, तस्मात् कारणात् पश्चाद्विशा मन्युं कोपं ददतमिव नभःश्रीविषयात् सापत्न्यात् दिगङ्गनानां कोपं कुर्वाणमिव. MY says नभःश्रियं सजलसेकमेवलावण्यितां संजातलावण्यां, बद्ध-ज्योतिरपूर्वमेखलावर्णिताम् । अत्र ज्योतिर्नक्षत्रम् । मन्युं दिशामिव पश्चाददत्तं तासां मुखदीप्तिसंकोचात् मन्युं ददतमिवेत्याशयः. Kula says प्रच्छा-दयन्तमुपगृह्यन्तमिव, अत एव पश्चादनन्तरं दिशामपरनायिकानामिव मन्युमपराधं यान्तं प्राप्नुवन्तं ददत्तं वा (corrected from SC)

50. K, Kula and MY read vāsaam (पार्श्व and वास) for vālaam (R) K and MY read the second line first. K says सूर्यकान्त-मणिमयपार्श्वम् (Kula also) । सूरगं बहुभुजङ्गमित्यर्थः । तमसो निवासप्रदं गुहास्त्विति शेषः । असुरवन्दीनामसुरैः गृहीतानां वन्दीनां वन्दीभूतानां दिव्या-ङ्गनानां साधारणं सामान्यमावासम्, अत एव असुरवम् अशोभनशब्दयुक्तं तासां स्त्रीणामाक्रन्दनशब्दयुक्तमित्यर्थः । दिशां हारणमात्मविस्तारेण दिशामपहारकं, दिशां धारणमिति वा.

MY says सूर्यकान्तमणिपार्श्वं, सूरगं सुष्ठूरगं सूर्यस्पृशं वा । तमोनिवा-सम् । . . . असुरवं व्याकुलरवं, दिशाहारणं दिक्कवलनं दिग्ब्यापिनमित्यर्थः. Kula says तमसो निवासदम् । अथवा शूराः कान्ताश्च ये मणिपा यक्षास्ते-पामाश्रयम् (i. e., maniva + ā saam)

51. bhāreum पूरयितुम् MY (K and Kula also), भर्तुम् R. bhare-ūna = पूरयित्वा K and Kula, भृत्वा R

52. K says आसन्नशिखरवनदवेन अतिक्रान्तत्वात् कवलितत्वात् प्रणष्टमण्डलमदृष्टमण्डलम्, अग्निज्वालान्तरेभ्यो निर्गतोर्ध्वताम्रमयूखम्, अत एव अस्तमितमिव दिवसकरं वहन्तम्.

MY says atthāam अस्तमितम् । अधः शिखरप्रज्वलद्वनदवज्वालान्तरालेषु ऊर्ध्वस्फुरद्विवर्णकिरणमात्रव्यक्तमण्डलम् उपरि अतिक्रामन्तं रविमकालेऽस्तमितमिव वहन्तमित्यर्थः.

53. K and Kula read संतापं for samtāve (R). K reads कटकान् for ade a = तटान् च (R and Kula). As K omits व in the second line, he seems to read -Kulaharānam sariāna (cf. SC Text) for Kulaharāna va sariāna. K says वडवामुखेन कृतमात्मनः संतापं, समुद्रजलेषु अतिदूरमवगाढत्वात् वडवामुखाग्निसंतापः सुवेलस्य संभवतीति भावः, तथा भिन्नकटकान् गुरुन् तरङ्गप्रहारांश्च समुद्रस्य संवन्धिनः एतान् सरितामात्मसंभवानां कृतेन कृते सहमानम् । कथंभूतानाम्-अविरहितपितृगृहाणां समुद्रं प्रविष्टानामपि अपरित्यक्तपितृगृहाणाम् । यथा श्वसुरो जामातुरविनयं स्वसुतामुद्दिश्य सहते तद्वदिति.

MY says अत्राविरहितकुलगृहत्वं सरितां लालनप्रकाशनपरं स्रोतोविच्छेदविरहपरं च । sariāna kaam va इति पाठः । kaena इति पाठे इवेत्यध्याहार्यम्.

54. K says रजनीषु आताम्रमणिमयीषु पद्मरागमयीषु शिलासु एकैकं प्रत्येकं संक्रान्तां रवितुरङ्गमाणां गच्छतां खुरमुखमार्गमिव खुरस्य मुखविन्यासपरम्परामिव स्थितां मुग्धमृगाङ्गच्छायां बालेन्दुप्रतिविम्बमुद्रहन्तम्. MY remarks अत्र स्फटिकादेः परभागाभावादिन्द्रनीलादेस्तमःसहकारित्वाच्च रजन्यां प्रतिविम्बग्रहणासामर्थ्येन तत्समर्थस्य पद्मरागादेराताम्रपदेनोपादनमिति रहस्यम्. Kula reads अर्ध for muddha - अर्धमृगाङ्गस्य अर्धचन्द्रस्य.

55. K (chāyā) has विषमोर्ध्वायित. K says विषमपरिसंस्थितैः, विषममूर्ध्वाभूतलतागृहस्थगितैः, एवरूपत्वात् छिन्नातपमण्डलैरिव अन्तरान्तरामेघ-च्छायान्तरितातपमण्डलैरिव काञ्चनशिलातलैः परिक्षिप्तम्. MY says paricchittam परिक्षिप्तम् । अत्र शिलातलेषु विषमत्वं निम्नोन्नतत्वम्. Kula says काञ्चन-शिलानां दलैः खण्डैः । परिक्षिप्तं वेष्टितम्. SC says विषमोर्ध्वायितेन क्वचित् क्वचिदुद्गतेन लतागृहेणावस्थगितैः काञ्चनशिलातलैः.

56. MY says अप्राप्तो दिनकरो येषु तानि । अप्राप्त इति कर्तरि क्तः । सूर्यपथमुल्लङ्घ्य वर्तमानानि. K says अप्राप्तदिनकराणि दिनकरपथमतीत्य स्थितानि, अतएवोर्ध्वप्रवृत्तच्छायानि, आतपभयात् शिखरेषु स्वाग्रेषु स्थित-भुजङ्गानि वनानि वहन्तम्. Kula says अध.स्थितदिनकरत्वादेवोर्ध्वपरिवृद्धच्छा-यानि वनानि कटकैरुद्धहन्तम्.

57. K and MY read क्षतान् for ankie (R and probably Kula). MY has juala-kkhae. K reads कनक for kadaa = कटक (R). K says त्रिदशगजानां दन्तपरिघयुगलक्षतान् दन्तपरिघयुगलैः ग्रहतान्, विस्तृतेन विष्कम्भेण दन्तयोरन्तरालेन शिष्टः कथितो व्यञ्जितः मुखविस्तारो येषु तान् कनकतटान् वहन्तम्. MY says विष्कम्भः अवकाशः. Kula says तुङ्गत्वेन पर्याप्तान् संपन्नान् तुङ्गानित्यर्थः । विस्तृतेन अन्तरालेन मध्यभागेन.¹ Kula reads स्फटिक (phaliha) for kadaa

58. K reads हस्तोष्ठ for hatthumhā° = हस्तोष्मा° (R and Kula). K says त्रिदशगजानां हस्तोष्ठेन आहतत्वात् क्लान्तपल्लवरागान्, कटेषु गण्डेषु परिघूर्णेन कण्डूयनार्थं भ्रमणेन कपिलान् मदेन कपिलवर्णान्, तैश्चिर मूढविमुक्तान् क्रीडयोद्धवा विमुक्तान् पारिजातविटपान् वहन्तम्, Kula seems to say चिरमूढविमुक्तान् उद्गलितपारिजातकविटपान्.

59. K says स्फटिकमणितटमयूखधवलितमृगच्छर्वि, तदानीं पृष्ठे निपति-तरय महानिर्झरस्य जलाभिघातात् विपर्यस्तमण्डलमिव मृगाङ्गं वहन्तम् । चन्द्रस्योपरिभागे कलङ्को न संभवतीति भावः. MY says उद्धृतमण्डलतया

1 Cf Deśināmamālā 7 88 vikkhambho स्थानमन्तरालं च । विस्तारवाचकस्तु विष्क-म्भशब्दभवः

निष्कलङ्कपरिचमपार्श्वप्रकाशनं विवक्षितम्. Kula says चन्द्रस्य क्रोडभाग एव कलङ्को न पृष्ठे SC says माघेऽपि चन्द्रस्योपरिभागे कलङ्कशून्यत्वं वर्णितम् । उत्सङ्गसङ्ग्रिहरिणस्य मृगाङ्गमूर्तेरित्यपि माघे दृष्टत्वात्.¹

60. K, MY and Kula read raa for daia (R). K (chāyā) has परियत् for parilla (R). K (comm.) has परिवर्तमान, and his reading appears to be parinta (see verse 68 and 88) Ms. B of K has परिवृत्त which is less correct.

MY says salila-raa सलिलरजः । rao जवो वा. Kula says सलिलरजोभिः जलशीकरैः. K says सदा समुद्रजलसिक्तमूलत्वात् अभ्याशगता वनराजिः सलिलकणिकाधौतकुसुमा हरितबहुपत्रविटपबहुला च भवति । तस्मादुपरिदृश्यमानपरिवर्तमानजरठातपाम् । मध्यन्दिनेऽपि तीव्रातपः पत्रबहुलतया तदधस्तात् प्रवेष्टुं न शक्नुयादिति मकरगृहस्याभ्याशत्वात् अभ्यधिकश्यामलां वनराजिं वहन्तम्. Kula is corrupt. SC has परिल्ल (?); परिगत (chāyā). It says दृश्यमान उपरि परिगतो जरठः कर्कशः आलोकः सूर्यद्युतिः यत्र ताम्. R explains uvari-parilla as उपर्युपरि.

61. K and MY read annia (अन्वित, अनुगत) for unnia = उन्नीत (R). cf. Goldschmidt's footnotes on 13. 77. Kula seems to read annia. K says त्रिदशगजानां गतिमार्गान् वहन्तम् । कथंभूतान् — अवपतने प्रवर्तमानान् गगनात् शिखराग्रे निपत्य क्रीडितुमधस्तादवतरणसमये प्रवर्तमानान् प्रवृत्तपदविन्यासान् । चिरं विहृत्य पुनरुत्पतने प्रणष्टनिर्गमान् गगनचारित्वात् सहसा गगनोत्पतनसमये अदृष्टनिर्गमान् । वनमध्यादेव गगनमुत्पतन्तीति । णश अदर्शने । (मदजलपानार्थं SC) दूरान्वितमार्गा दूरमनुगतमार्गाः नभसि गन्तुमशक्यत्वात् निवृत्ताः तत्रत्या मधुकरा येषु तान्.

MY says दूरानुगतमार्गा गजोत्पतनदशायां नभसो निवृत्ता गिरिवनभृङ्गा येषु ते तथा (भूतान्) । गगनावपतनादारभ्य प्रवृत्तान्, वनविहारानन्तरं

¹ Kula is corrupt, but the quotation from Māgha 4. 22 appears in his gloss.

गगनोत्पतने सति प्रणष्टनिर्गमान् मार्गान् गमनमार्गानित्यर्थः. Kula is somewhat corrupt. He seems to say अवपतने समुद्रावगाहनार्थमवतरणे वृक्षतृणादेः तिर्यग्भावात् अधोमुखीभावात् प्रवर्तमानान् । उत्पतने च वृक्षतृणादेः प्रगुणीकरणात् प्रणष्टः अलक्ष्यतां गतः निर्गमः स्वर्गगमनं यत्र.

62. K reads उद्भिन्न (ubbhinna) for uttinna (R). Kula is uncertain, but SC has उद्भिन्न. K says निर्यदग्निना गर्भितानीव दृश्यमानानि स्तोकमुत्पन्नरत्नाङ्कुरस्थानानि किञ्चिदुत्पन्नानां रत्नाङ्कुराणां स्थानानि आकरस्थानि वहन्तम्.

63. त्रुटितप्रम्लानद्रुमान्, उद्वेल्लितावेष्टाः उदग्रथितावेष्टना भग्नाः पुञ्जिताश्च लता येषु तान् । वनगजानां युद्धपरिमर्दान् वहन्तम् । परिमर्देऽपि परिमल इति वैजयन्ती K

MY says pavvā म्लान शुष्केत्यर्थः । युद्धपरिमलान् युद्धोन्नायकान् मोटितद्रुमत्वादिप्रकारान् युद्धोन्नायकान् वहन्तमित्यर्थः. R says युद्धपरिमलान् युद्धविमर्दान्.

64 K and MY read uccahe for uccha° (R and Kula). K reads विच्छेदान् for vocchee (R, Kula and MY), MY says pahamma प्रखात । vocchea व्युच्छेद. R and Kula have व्यवच्छेद. Kula explains प्रहर्म्य as देवखात. K says पुरा मन्दरस्य प्रहारैः उच्चलितान्, अद्यापि विस्तीर्णेषु मणिमयेषु श्वभ्रेषु निहितान्, अनिर्गतामृतरसान् जलनिधिजलस्य एकदेशान् वहन्तम्

65 K, MY and Kula read शर for जल (R). K and Kula read वाणसमूहं for sara-samghāam (R) K says शरक्षोभकाले समुद्रमतीत्य लग्नमात्मनि लग्नं विषमभग्नपत्रसमूहं वज्रमुखत्रुटितस्य पक्षस्य शेषमिव दृश्यमानं राघववाणसमूहं वहन्तम्.

66. कुम्भाभिभवेन निपतितस्य करिणो हस्तेन त्रुटितसिंहकेसरसमूहम् । अन्यत्र विहत्यागच्छन्त्या सहचर्या विरुताकर्णनात् वलमानेन भ्रमतो भ्रमरेण

परिवर्तितं व्यावर्तितमधिष्ठितं लताकुसुमं यत्र तम् K. MY says oaggana-nivadā अभिभावनेन निपतितः. R says कुम्भयोरवक्रमणादतिक्रमणात् निपतितेन करिणा हस्तेन खण्डितः सिंहस्य केसरभारो यत्र तम्. Kula says कुम्भाववल्गनेन (?) निपतितः अभितोऽभिमुखमागत्य मिलितः करिहस्तेन चोत्खण्डितः (सिंह-केसरभारः यत्र).

67. K reads आघात for omāsa (R and Kula) = अवमर्ष. K says दिवसासारत्रुटितान्, दिवसं कालाध्वनोरत्यन्तसंयोगे इति द्वितीया, सर्वस्मिन् दिवसे त्रुटितासारान् विच्छिन्ननिष्यन्दान्, अत एव दरशुष्कसलिलान्, पवनाघातेन विषममुद्रतशैवालान् शशिमणिप्रवाहान् वहन्तम्. MY says ūsasia उच्छ्वसित उन्नामित । यत एव दिवसेषु आसारेण क्षरणेन त्रुटिता रहिता अत एव ईषच्छुष्कसलिलाः तान् प्रवाहानित्यर्थः. Kula says दिवसे अवतारेण खण्डितान्. This is amplified by SC — आसरणमासार आगमनमिति यावत् । दिवसे अवतारेण प्रसारेण खण्डितान् दिवसे प्रस्यन्दशून्यतया खण्डितप्रसरानित्यर्थः.

68. K and MY read परियत् for pavitta = प्रवृत्त (R). Their reading seems to be parinta found in ms. C of Goldschmidt.

K says विषममुल्ललितः उत्प्लुतः परिमलः परिभ्रमो येषां तान् । कमलिनीपत्रघूर्णमानजलच्छवीन्¹ । मरतकशिलातलोपरि परियतः परिस्फुरतः पारदरसान् । पारदो नाम रसायनसाधनभूतः क्वचिदप्यनश्वरो द्रवद्रव्यविशेषः MY says विषमोल्ललित विषमोन्मीलित । परिमललिङ्गम् (cf verse 63) । क्वचित् क्वचिदभिव्यक्ततत्तद्देशसंसर्गविशेषान् इतस्ततः परीयत् (परियतः ?) पारदरसानित्यर्थः.

Kula reads ullasia (SC Text also) for ullalia. Kula says विषमं स्पष्टं यथा स्यात्तथा उल्लसितः परिमलो गतागतविशेषो येषां तान् । मरकत-शिलातलोपरि परीतान् पारदरसान् समुद्रहमानम्. Here परीतान् stands for

¹ K (chāyā) has जलच्छायान्

परिगतान् (cf. SC), which shows that Kula's reading might be same as that of K and MY. See verse 88 below.

69. MY says uddhānta ऊर्ध्वायमान । अथवा उद्धावत् उच्चलदित्यर्थः. Kula also says ऊर्ध्वायमानम् ऊर्ध्वं गच्छत्. K says रविः दिवसमुखे उद्धावदूर्ध्वमण्डलः आरोहणक्लेशात् आतुराश्च भूत्वा यमारोहतीव । आरुह्य सममण्डलः सन् अतिक्रान्तः ततो दिनावसाने अधोमुखरथः सन् यम् अवतरतीव अवरोहतीव. Kula says ऊर्ध्वमतिर्यक् मण्डलं यस्य सः, ऊर्ध्वायमानोर्ध्वमण्डलश्चासौ तथोक्तः सन् रविरारोहति । आरुह्य च सममण्डलः दिवसमध्ये व्यवक्रान्तः प्रसृतः दिनावसाने चावतरतीव यस्मात् (partly corrected from quotation in SC).

70. In our copies K and MY (pratika) have puddanti, pudanti, and phuditi. Their reading seems to be phundanti for chundanti = क्षुन्दन्ति (R). K renders it as क्रामन्ति (आक्रामन्ति MY). Kula seems to agree with R cf. SC, K and MY read प्रचार (-ppacāra) for परिहार (R and Kula). K says यत्र निशासु तिमिरे विषमैः प्रचारैः परिवर्तमानाः, कटकेषु पुरतोऽतिक्रामन्तीभिः तारकाभिः कृतोदयोताः कृतप्रकाशाः वनचराः पथः मार्गान् क्रामन्ति गच्छन्ति. MY says panthe पथि । विषमे दुर्गमार्गे प्रचारो विषमप्रचारः । कृतोदयोताः तारकप्रभाभिः प्रकाशयमानाः तत्परिहाराय गूढमृगवधार्थिनो व्याधास्तारकाणि पादाक्रमणेन छादयन्तीत्यर्थः. MY seems to read tāraṇi for tāraāhi, taking it as the object of phundanti.

71 MY remarks अत्र विरहिणीभिः स्वप्रतिकूलं शशिविम्बम् अत्यासन्नतया कुसुमाञ्जलिव्याजेन प्रद्वेषात् संमुखं ताडयत इत्यर्थः. K says शशिविम्बम् अपक्रामति प्रहारभयात् धावतीति भावः.

72. नभश्चराणां विमानैः सहितम् । शिखररुद्धस्य क्षयमारुतस्य रभसस्य वेगस्य विमानकम् । विमाननमवज्ञा । अवज्ञाकरम् । रत्नशिखरस्य किरणोद्गमैः घनानां रागदं वर्णविरोधप्रदम् । दरीपु व्याकुलीभवतां सिंहानां घनेन

गम्भीरेण रावेण युक्तमित्यर्थः K. MY mentions suṃvanta (सूयमाण) as a variant for guppanta.

73 K remarks पर्वतस्यातिमहत्त्वेन मद्वादेः पृथग्दर्शनाभावात् तत् सर्वमस्मिन्नेव निषण्णमिवेति प्रतर्कः. Kula says यस्मिन् समाप्ता इव दिशः; तस्मिन्नेव (सर्वासां) दिशामुपलम्भात् । क्षीणेव मही, दिग्व्यापकत्वेन तस्यैव सर्वत्र प्रतीयमानत्वात् । कृतावसानमिव नभः, सकलनभोमण्डलाच्छादकत्वे तस्यैव दृश्यमानत्वात् । अस्तमित इव समुद्रः, यत्रस्थैस्तद्व्यतिरिक्तसमुद्रस्थान-स्यासम्भाव्यमानत्वात् । नष्टमिव रसातलम् उन्मूलिताशेषपातालकुक्षित्वात् । निषण्णमिव जगत्, क्षितिनभःसुरलोकनिवासिनां (तत्रैवावस्थानात् SC).

74. MY says यस्य तुङ्गेषु शिखरेषु गतिपथं निरुध्यावस्थितेषु प्रतिदिनं गतिभङ्गभीरुणारुणेन परिवर्तिता अश्वा अतएव घोणाघूर्णमानचामराः पार्श्वैः परिवृत्य गच्छन्तीत्यर्थः. K says आदित्यपथमतीत्य स्थितेषु यस्य शिखरेषु गतिरोधस्खलनात् भीतेनारुणेन च परिवर्तितघोणा व्यावर्तितनासिकाः, अतएव घूर्णमानचामराः, वलमाने व्यावर्त्यमाने युगे वलमानस्कन्धा रवितुरगा बहुशो वलन्ते गच्छन्ति. R says रवितुरगा यस्य शिखरे बहुशो वलन्ति वक्त्रीभवन्ति.

75. Kula reads निवहान् (nivahe, cf. SC Text) for nivaham. K and MY read अपचय for uccaa (R and Kula). K reads विभातविच्छिन्न, K says ज्योतिष्पथवर्तमानानि यस्मिन् वनानि निशासु कुसुमनिवहमिव नक्षत्रसमूहमूढ्वा विभाते विच्छिन्नतारकाणि अस्तमितनक्षत्राणि तानि गृहीतप्रथमा-पचयानीव दृश्यन्ते । गृहीतः कृतः प्रथमं कुसुमारामेभ्यः पूर्वमेव कुसुमापचयो येषामिति.

MY says joisavahe ज्योतिष्पथे नक्षत्रमार्गे । vodhūna ऊढ्वा । यस्मिन् निशासु नक्षत्रमार्गे वनानि निरन्तरतारकानिचिततया कुसुमनिवहमूढ्वेव स्थितानि, पश्चात् प्रभातव्युच्छिन्नतारकाणि सन्ति गृहीतप्रथमापचयानीव दृश्यन्ते । अपचीयत इत्यपचयः कुसुमनिवहः । joisaraham इति वा पाठः । तदा स्पष्टोऽर्थः.

Kula says यत्र निशासु ज्योतिषां तारकाणां वहान् निवहान् कुसुमनिवहानिव (ऊढवा) प्रभातव्यवच्छिन्नतारकाणि वनानि गृहीतप्रथमोच्चयानीव दृश्यन्ते इति व्याख्या.¹

76 K reads वेल्लित for पेलव (R and Kula), and विगलित for paadia = प्रकटित (R) K says यत्र वनमहिषाश्च निशासु निश्वासवायुना विधुतपरिवृत्तजलदाः, चन्द्रकिरणपरिमर्शात् विगलितैः शशिमणिसलिलनिर्झरैराहता भूत्वा निद्रां गमयन्ति. Kula reads प्रगलित (paalia, cf. SC) for विगलित.

77. K reads बन्ध for visama (R and Kula). K (chāyā) has घनवद्ध for panattha (R and Kula). MY seems to agree with K. K says यत्र च शिखरेषु आपतितं शिलाभित्तिबन्धस्य शिलामयस्य भित्तिनिवेशस्य पार्श्वगतं शशिविम्बं तत्रत्यानां भुजगेन्द्राणां मणिषु निकषणेन बहुलवद्धप्रभासञ्चयं भूत्वा वलति । शिलाभित्तिविषमपार्श्वगतमिति च पाठः.

MY says यत्र तुङ्गशिखरनिरुद्धपदं शशिविम्बं शिलाभित्तीनां संकटपार्श्वगतं, तत्रत्यभुजगफणामणिनिकषणसंबद्धोदयोतसञ्चयं भूत्वा वलति पार्श्वगतः परावृत्त्य गच्छतीत्यर्थः. Kula has शिलाविषमभित्तिपार्श्वीकृतम्. R says शिलाभित्तौ विषमं यथा स्यात् तथा पार्श्वीयितं तिर्यक् विवृत्तं पुरतः प्रतिरोधादित्यर्थः. SC says वलति तिर्यक् गच्छति । भुजगेन्द्रमणीना पाषाणकर्कशत्वात्. तन्निघर्षेण दर्पणादीनामिव प्रणष्ट उदयोतसञ्चयो यस्येदृशं शशिविम्बं वलति वर्णान्तरेण गच्छतीति लोकनाथः.

Kula reads प्रदयोत (pajjoa, cf SC Text) for ujjoa

78 K, MY and Kula read ummoia (उन्मोचित) for āmoia (R).

1 Kula seems to have an alternative explanation SC which reproduces Kula says अथवा ज्योतिःस्थो गगन तस्मिन् वर्तमानानि वनानि यत्र निशासु कुसुमनिवहानिव इत्यर्थान् तारकानिवहानूढ्वा प्रभातव्यवच्छिन्नतारकाणि सन्ति गृहीतप्रथमोच्चयानीव दृश्यन्ते इति व्याख्या.

K says यस्य क्षयकालोत्पातजनितेन कम्पेन निर्दयविधुतः समुद्रः उन्मुक्तपातालः सन् अप्रतीक्षितशेषसागरो भूत्वा भूतलं प्लावयति सागरान्तरनिरपेक्षः स्वयमेव प्लावयतीति.¹ Kula also says अप्रतीक्षितशेषसागरः. MY says apadicchia अप्रतीष्ट (cf. 7. 54, 10. 41). SC Text has avadikkhūa (अप्रतीक्षित). R has avalicchia (अप्रतीष्ट). He says अप्रतीष्टाः अनासादिताः शेषसागरा येन.

79. नखाङ्कुरैः प्रतिगजशङ्कया कृष्टा मुखराः शिखरसमासन्ना जलदाः यैस्ते केसरिणः K.

80. K says यत्र गजाः निर्झरमज्जनेन सुखिताः पुनरपि दिवसातपेन क्लाम्यन्तः स्कन्धैरुद्धृष्टेषु निकषितेषु हरिचन्दनद्रुमेषु निषण्णा अपाश्रिताः सन्तः निर्वान्ति सुखीभवन्ति. MY reads khandhugghattha for ogghu. Kula says हरिचन्दनद्रुमेषु गोशीर्षचन्दनतरुषु सुशीतलेषु निषण्णा निर्वाना भवन्ति गजाः प्रशान्ततापा भवन्तीत्यर्थः.

81. K says रवितुरगाणां गमनरभसात् भ्रमन्मधुकरं रवितुरगाणां गतं गमनं ज्ञायते. MY reads bhamia for bhamira, and explains it as भ्रामित, भृङ्गभ्रमणादिगमनवेगादिति ग्राह्यम्. R and Kula say भ्रमणशीला मधुकरा यत्र.

82 K says अञ्जनवर्णेन सदा धूसरस्वरूपाणि गण्डतलेषु स्खलितत्वात् विषममपसरन्ति सुरवन्दीनां नयनगलितानि अश्रूणि यत्र कल्पलतानामंशुकानि किसलयमयानि मलिनयन्ति.

83. विलुलितः प्रहृतः K. दक्षिणायनोत्तरायणाभ्यां नभोगमनागमनक्षुण्णो रविमार्गः यस्य एकस्मिन् शिखर एव समाप्यते पर्यवस्यति । यस्मिन् शृङ्गे रवेर्दक्षिणायनं रवेः तत्रैव उत्तरायणपीत्यर्थः MY.

¹ MY says यस्य प्रलयोत्पातरूपेण कम्पेन गाढविधुतः पार्श्ववर्ती समुद्र एव पाताल्मपि उन्मुच्य उच्चलितः शेषसागरानपेक्षो भुवं प्लावयतीत्यर्थः.

84. K says भरेण गौरवेण भिन्नवसुधम्, अवपूर्णरसातलम्, अवच्छा- दितगगनं, विक्षिप्तसर्वदिक्कं यथा वर्धमानेन येन त्रिभुवनं वर्धितमिव. K seems to read *samocchāra*¹ for samolthāra = समवस्थगित (R and probably Kula). MY has ācchunna (occhunna ?) अवक्षुण्ण for apphunna (R, K and Kula). It is a Deśi word explained as आक्रान्त by R and Kula, cf.
Hemacandra 4. 258. K takes it in the sense of अवपूर्णा, cf. Deśināmamālā 1. 20. K and R explain vicchūddha as विक्षिप्त (= प्रेरित R).
Kula says सर्वासु दिक्षु विच्युतं विक्षिप्तं प्रेरितम्. SC Text reads uvvūddha (see editor's f. n.), though SC comm. has निर्वृद्ध.

85. K and MY read gandhāiddha (गन्धाविद्ध) for gandhāvaddha
(R and Kula ?). K reads अनुचराः for anugaā (R); anuraā = अनुरताः
(Kula). K says गन्धैः पुष्पगन्धैः आकृष्टमधुकराः, अन्यत्र मदगन्धाकृष्टभ्रमराः, सुरवनं कल्पवृक्षवनं तत्र चारिणो वर्तमानाः । भिन्नलिङ्गत्वादन्योन्यं प्रतिकूला ऋतवो यत्र सममेव वसन्ति । एकस्तम्भे नियमिताः सुरगजा इव. MY reads ekkakkhambhālīā and explains it as एकस्तम्भानीताः (°स्तम्भाञ्जानिताः B)
He says udū ऋतवः । एकस्तम्भवद्धाः सुरगजा इव मिथोविरुद्धा अप्यृतव उक्तसाधर्म्यवन्तो यत्र समं वसन्तीत्यर्थः. K (chaya) has एकस्तम्भालीनाः, and his reading seems to be same as that of MY. The reading as recorded by MY is ālīā and K seems to derive it from आलीन (cf. lūā = लून). Ālīā however appears to be a Deśi word used at least twice in Svayambhū's Paumacariu in the sense of 'tied': ālāna- khambhe jaṃ āliya (also āliu) 19. 14. 3; 79. 12. 6 SC Text has ekka- kkhambha-nīālīā suragaa va udū. SC says एकस्मिन् स्तम्भे nīālīā निगडिताः. Kula is corrupt in our copy, but SC here reproduces Kula in toto. R agrees with Kula²

² R says एकस्तम्भनिगलिताः सुरगजा इव. Goldschmidt's tentative reading ekkakkhambhālīā (see his footnote) has been taken over in the N. S. edition

86. K reads अपि पलायमानः like R for vivalānto = विपलायमानः (Kula). K says आदित्य आत्मनोऽपर्याप्ते शिखरयोरन्तराले ससंभ्रमं प्रतिलानं कथंचिन्मोचितं तिर्यग्भूतं मण्डलं यस्य स तथाभूत्वा पलायमानो दृश्यते. MY says भयात् सप्रकाशं गन्तुमशक्नुवन् यस्मिन् शृङ्गान्तरालमार्गेण गूढं पलायत इत्यर्थः.

87. K (chāya) has सुखितावनिमीलिताक्षाणाम्. K and MY read visaria (विस्मृत) for visamia (R). Kula reads विघटित (vihadia). K says विरमृतरोमन्थानां मृगाणां विबुद्धं रोम आनन्दादुच्छ्वसितं रोम चिरेण पुनः स्थानमेति प्रकृतिं भजते. R explains visamia as विश्रमित, or विस्मृत, or विषमित (अन्तरान्तरा विच्छेदित).

88. K and MY read परियत् for pavitta = प्रवृत्त (R). Their reading seems to be parinta. See verse 68 above. K says तीरे परियतां परिचरतां मुखराणां कलहंसानां रोदः शब्दः तद्वत्सु सरउदरेषु कुपितैर्गजेन्द्रः बद्धकलहं सुवेलं ददृशुः । यत्र नभश्चरे चन्द्रे लग्नानाम् आसन्नं चन्द्रमाश्रितानां कुमुदवनानां दलाग्राणां रविकरदर्शनेऽपि भयं नास्ति तम्. K (chāya) has तीरपरियन्मुखरकलहंसरोदवत्सु सरउदरेषु.

MY says तीरपर्यन्मुखरकलहंसरोदरेषु¹, रोदरश्चक्रवाकः² कुपितगजेन्द्रबद्धकलहं सरउदरेषु । बद्धकलहमिति शैलविशेषणम् । हंसानां चक्रवाकानां च सरोऽन्तर्गजक्षोभात् तीराभिगमनम् । यत्र कुमुदवनानां नभश्चन्द्रलग्नानां दलाग्राणां रविकरदर्शनेऽपि न भयं, हतं हानिर्वा. Kula is here corrupt, but SC reproduces him correctly यत्र सरउदकेषु कुपितैः गजेन्द्रैः बद्धकलहं यथा स्यात् तथा तीरे

² रोदरेषु of the mss is a mistake as it goes against the Yamaka पर्यत् is a mistake for परियत्

³ B has रोदारः; A says रोदाश्चक्रवाकः. Monier-Williams records रोदर in this sense.

परीताः परिगताः (परिगाः Kula) मुखरा विरुवन्तो ये कलहंसाः तेषां रोचकेषु रुचिकारकेषु. Kula seems to read parinta like K and MY. cf. notes on 6. 57 and 7. 50.

89. K and MY read पार्श्वोच्चलत् (pāsuccalanta) for pāucchalanta (R). K says मधुमथने कदाचित् प्रतिबुध्य वलमाने विवर्तमाने सति तस्य गाढेन अतिमात्रेण भरेण उत्तानितं विकटं पार्श्वोच्चलद्रत्नोदयोतं फणविस्तारम् अनन्तश्च यत्र निक्षिपति विश्रमार्थं निदधाति. MY says nimeḥ निक्षिपति (अर्पयति Kula) । वलमाने पार्श्वपरिवृत्त्या श्याने सर्वदिग्विसृमरो रत्नालोको भारात्यर्था शैलनितम्बनिहिते फणे ऊर्ध्वपार्श्वमात्र एवोच्चलन् ज्ञायत इति पार्श्वोच्चलदित्युक्तम्. Kula reads विषदोच्छलत्, which seems to be a mistake for विषमो०, cf SC. R explains his reading (see above) as पादेषु प्रत्यन्तपर्वतेषु उच्छलद्रत्नानाम् उदयोतो यस्मात् तम्.

90. K says यस्य कटकमाश्रितो (कटकालीनो chaya) गच्छन् विवर-सदृशप्रकाशमृगच्छायः, अतएव कलङ्कप्रदेशस्योभयपार्श्वप्रसरन्मयूखो मृगाङ्गस्त-दानीं शिखरनिर्झरपातेन छिद्रितमण्डल इव दृश्यते. MY says avahovāsa उभयपार्श्व । ऊर्ध्वाधोभागप्रसृतमयूखत्वं निर्झरपतनप्रतीत्यापादकम्.

91. SC says यथा हरिभुजं वेष्टयित्वा वलयानि तथैनमपि वेष्टयित्वा भुवनानि स्थितानीत्यर्थः.

K says मध्ये करालानि सान्तरालानि बहिरण्डकटाहावृतत्वात् सान्तरालमध्यानि, निरन्तरप्रभूतानि अन्योन्यनिर्विवरपर्याप्तानि (निरन्तरमशिथिलं प्रभूतानि सम्मितानि Kula) त्रीण्यपि भुवनमण्डलानि यत्र समं स्थितानि । यत्र परितः स्थितानि । स्थूलोन्नते हरिभुजे त्रीणि वलयानीव. MY says स्थूलोन्नते हरेः त्रिविक्रमस्य भुजे वलयानीवेति. Kula says सममेककालं वलयानीव स्थितानि. R says समकं तुल्यम्.

92. रवेः पन्थानः ऋतावृतौ भिन्नाः पन्थानः K SC Text has śarā for śarā,

93. K and MY read त्रिदशवधूशिलातलान्तर¹ for tiasa-vahūnam silā-ala (R and Kula) K says यत्र त्रिदशवधूभिः शिलातलान्तरेषु भवस्तृतं मृदितं, तासामलकेषु प्रतिलग्नगन्धमलकेभ्यः प्रतिलग्नगन्धं वा, अवशुष्यदवस्थायां सुरभि तमालकिसलयं पवनः आक्षिपति (आकर्षति Kula). MY says त्रिदशवधूभिः शयनीयतया शिलातलान्तरावस्तृतमृदितम्.

94. K and MY read siharo° for salilo° (R) Kula is corrupt; SC agrees with K K and Kula read vilagganti विलगन्ति for vi la° (R). K says यस्य च दरीषु पवनाहृतपर्यस्ताः मेघाः निर्झराणां प्रतिस्रोतः प्रस्थितत्वादुन्मुखाः सन्तः मुहूर्तं पीतशिखरनिर्झरा भूत्वा पुनर्नभ आरोहन्ति. R says प्रतिस्रोतसा विपरीतमार्गेण प्रस्थिताः, अत एव उन्मुखा ऊर्ध्वमुखाः. MY says यत्र शिखरनिर्झरेषु पातुमारब्धाः जलधराः मध्ये पवनेनाधस्तात् पर्यस्ता दरीषु पातिताः पुनरपि प्रतिस्रोतस्कमुन्मुखं मुहूर्तपीतसलिला भूत्वा नभो विलगन्तीत्यर्थः². Kula says पवनाहतत्वेन दरीषु पर्यस्ताः पतिताः ततः प्रतिस्रोतः etc

95. The verse is not found in K, MY and Kula. Found in R and SC which says स्कन्धकमिदं कुलनाथे न धृतम्.

96 अनुरागः संभोगाभिलाषः K. MY says तुङ्गतटेभ्यः सशब्दं पतद्भिः निर्झरैः मुखरानिन्द्रनीलमयान् गण्डशैलप्रदेशान् सेवमानानां त्रिदशवधूनां तद्विषयोऽनुरागः अभिलाषः शैथिल्यं (न) प्राप्तः.

1. K reads विस्रब्ध¹ for visattha, and says निर्व्यक्तविस्रम्भं (निर्व्यक्त)स्थैर्यम् । विस्रब्धः स्थिर उच्यते इति हलायुधः । विस्रब्धमिति भावे निष्ठा, 1. e. visaddham. MY says nivvadia-visattham निर्भयतया पृथग्-भूत्वा विश्वस्तमवस्थितमित्यर्थः.

2. MY says *aṇocchunnā*² अनवक्षुण्णाः (K and Kula also) अनाक्रान्ता इति वा । anāḷiddhā अस्पृष्टाः (K also). अनाश्लिष्टाः Kula. त्रिदशैरपि परित्यक्ताः सुवेलप्रदेशाः K. विस्रब्धं निःशङ्कम् K. Kula reads addhanta (अर्धान्त) = एकदेश for ucchamga.

3. K and MY read this verse after 12. 29. K and Kula read अत्र मम वसति प्रियतमेति (ettha maham vasaḥ piyamatti, cf SC Text) for janaa..... tti (R). K reads आवद्धोभयरसा for uhaa rasandoliḥ (R). Kula seems to read प्रतिबद्धोभयरसा, and प्रभोः (pahuno) for pahunā, and निपतिता (nivadiā) for viinnā = वितीर्णा.

5. K says तावच्च तत्रान्तरे च आसन्नस्थितकपिवलनिर्घोषेण कलुषितस्य क्षुभितहृदयस्य दशवदनस्य भयङ्करं दृष्टिपातं दिवसो मुमोच । समापसृतपरिजनं दृष्टिपातस्य भयङ्करत्वात् सममेवापसृताः परिजनाः यथा भवन्ति तथा मुमोच । परिजनवत् भीतो दिवसो जगामेत्यर्थः. R says समपसृताः पलायिताः परिजना यस्मात् तम्.

6. यथा सुरगजस्य कमलरजोभिः शबलितः करविस्तारो वलते तद्वदिति K. रवेः करसमूहो वलति परावर्तते । सर्वतो वर्तुलीभवतीत्यर्थः R वलति प्रतीच्यामावर्जितो भवति Kula.

2 cf. occhundaī in verse 55. R has anu° (अनुक्षुण्णा.)

7. K says अस्तमयसमये सति प्रसारितस्य सर्वतः प्रसृतस्य आतपस्य क्षीयमाणत्वात् निरायतानाम्, अवरुणस्पर्शानां स्पर्शगुणविहीनानां द्रुमच्छायानामायम्यमानानामिव अतिदीर्घाक्रियमाणानामिव तलिनत्वम् अतितनुत्वं जातं, यथा तप्तस्य लोहस्य लोहान्तराघातात् अत्यायतीक्रियमाणस्य अतिलघुत्वं जायते तद्वदिति. Kula says आतपस्य क्षीयमाणत्वात् अवरुणो यथावत् त्वगिन्द्रियग्राह्यः स्पर्शो यासाम्. SC says अवरुणस्पर्शानां पूर्वमातपप्राचण्ड्यात् छायासुशीतलस्पर्शो गृहीत आसीत्, इदानीमातपमान्दयेन स्पर्शानुपलब्धेरिति भावः.

8 K does not explain the verse fully. K (chāyā) has वासुकिमण्डलसदृशम्. MY says makkalam सदृशम्¹. K remarks भोगस्य मण्डलावृत्तिकरणत्वं मण्डलम्. Kula says मन्दरस्य धातुना गैरिकेण कलङ्कितस्य लिप्तस्य वासुकेः कुण्डलीभूतशरीरमण्डलमिव निश्चक्रलं वर्तुलं रविविम्बं दृश्यते.

9. छाया भूच्छाया तम् इति यावत् । कलावशेषः अल्पावशेषः MY.

10. K says हतातपरजसि संहतातपशेषे । अन्यत्र हतरजसि आहतमहीपांसौ । दिवसे सुरगज इव अस्तपर्वतनितम्बे परिणते समाप्ते सति । अन्यत्र दन्तप्रहारं कृतवति सति । पर्यस्यमानम् अधोमुखीभवत् दिनकरविम्बं दन्तप्रहारेण विपर्यस्यमानं विघटितं धातुशिखरमिवाद्दृश्यत. MY says परिणतवति तिर्यग्दन्तप्रहारवति । (तथा) च मुक्तगगनतया अस्तनितम्बमात्रपर्यवसिते इत्यर्थद्वयम् । हतातपरजसीति रजसो हरणमुपादानम् । आतपस्य त्वपनयनम्. Kula says परिणते निषण्णे कृतदन्ताघाते (च). SC and R say पर्यस्यत् पतत्. R says परि सर्वतोभावेन नते उपनते प्राप्ते.

11. K reads विरमे (virame) for विगमे (R). He renders uppusia as उन्मृष्ट. Kula is incomplete, but SC has virame like K. Kula reads milanta (मिलत्) for kalinta (कलन्त), and says कमलानां दलानि गलितातपत्वात् मिलन्ति संकुचन्ति, संबध्यन्ते मुकुलीभवन्तीत्यर्थः.

¹ Deśināmamālā 4 39 gives the word in the sense of वर्तुल, like R and Kula.

12. कपिचरणैराहताया मद्या रजोभिः समाक्रान्तौ K.

13. परिप्लवमान चञ्चलीभवदित्यर्थः । *kilamma*₁ (for kili^o) अकाम्यत् MY. K (chāyā) has परिवर्तमानतलिनः. K (comm.) says परिवर्तमानत्वात् परिप्लवमानत्वात् तनुः.

14. MY reads osuddha (अवपातित) for āiddha (आविद्ध). Kula's reading might be the same as he says दिवसेन वनगजेनेव पराङ्मुखप(1)तितपादपस्येव रवेः. K seems to explain आविद्ध as क्षिप्त, and says वनगजेनेव दिवसेन आहत्य पराङ्मुखक्षिप्तस्य वृक्षस्येव रवेः स्थूलः करालः सान्तराल ऊर्ध्वः करप्राग्भारः मूलनिवह इव वृक्षस्य शिफासमूह इवाद्ध्यत. Kula says स्थूलकरालो विरलस्थितत्वात्. R says वनगजेनेव दिवसेन पराङ्मुखमन्यतोमुखं प्रेरितस्य सतः पादपस्य इव. SC says प्राग्भारः समूहः, and explains पराङ्मुखाविद्ध as अधःशिखरीकृतनिपातित.

15. K says अथ दिनकरबिम्बं सन्ध्यामये, तेजसीत्यव्याहार्यम्, निमग्नमभूत् । किमिव — रामबाणच्छिन्नस्य दशवदनस्य प्रथमशिरसो भयङ्करं छेदमण्डलं छेदप्रदेशमण्डलं भूतलगते निजरुधिरपङ्के यथा निमग्नं भविष्यति तद्वदित्यर्थः.

Kula says दिनकरबिम्बं सन्ध्यामये स्वकीयरुधिरसंघाते आसन्नविनाशस्य दशवदनस्य प्रथमशिरश्छेदमण्डलमिव निमग्नम्. MY says सन्ध्यारुणमस्तमयमानं रविविम्बं तत्क्षणोच्चलद्गुधिरनिमग्नदशमुखप्रथमकण्ठच्छेदबुद्धिमजनयत् लोकस्येत्याशयः.

16 K says अन्तर्गतेन भ्रमरभरेण अपवृत्तानि आक्रान्तानि, परिणतेभ्यो विकसितेभ्यः केसरेभ्यः प्रलुठितेन रजसा गुरूकृतानि, रविविरहात् म्लायन्ति पङ्कजानां दलानि करालानि संकोचक्रमेण मिथः सान्तरालानि अभवन्. K omits वि in the second line, so he seems to read mulantām metri c'. Others take mulanta as मिलत् instead of म्लायत् (K) R says अपवृत्तानि अवनतानि.

MY reads oagga (अभिभूत) for ovatta (अपवृत्त). Kula says भ्रमरभरावभग्नानि, He seems to read obhagga. MY says रविविरहात् मिलन्त्यपि घटमानान्यपि करालानि मध्यच्छिद्राणि (दलानि). Kula says रविविरहे मिलन्ति पङ्कजानां दलानि करालानि दन्तुराणि भवन्ति. He also omits m like K. R says रविविरहे सति परस्परं मिलन्त्यपि.

17. Kula and K read विषमः (visamo). K says अपरदिशि विस्तीर्णो दीर्घैः किरणैः विषमः प्रभासंघातः अस्तमितस्य रवेः प्रकाशसमूहः कालमुखेन आक्षिप्तस्य आकृष्टस्य दिवसस्य रजोनिर्भरो निकर्षणमार्ग इवाद्दृश्यत । अवयवभूतस्य अहोरात्रस्य प्रधानभूतसंवत्सरः कालशब्देनोच्यते. Kula says दीर्घा ये मयूखाः तैः विषमो नतोन्नतः प्रभासंघातः कालस्य मुहूर्तादिः मुखे पतितस्य दुःखेन आकृष्टस्य दिवसस्य etc.¹

18 K, MY and Kula read अवपतत् (ovaanta) for avaatta (अपवृत्त) found in R.² They also read उच्चलित for उच्छ^० (R).

K says ऊर्ध्वान्नभःप्रदेशात् अवपतद्विम्बे दिनकरे वेगेन महीमतिगत इव प्रविष्ट इव सति तस्योच्चलितातपवत् ताम्राः सन्ध्यारागयुक्ता मेघा नभसि प्रसृताः. R says मेघिका स्वल्पमेघः (Kula also). Kula). With regard to (1), K's reading might be uppusia which he often renders as उन्मृष्ट (cf verse 11). MY, however, reads upphattha (upphuttha ?) and renders it as उन्मृष्ट. See his gloss on verse 35 below and 11. 102.

K says अस्तगिरिशिखरे सन्ध्यारागोऽदृश्यत । किमिव— मेरुमभितो वलमानस्य त्वरितस्य रविरथस्य वलितस्थितो ध्वजपट इव । कथंभूतः ध्वजपटः— मेरुतटस्यात्यासन्नतया दीप्ततरेण आतपेन विलीनस्य मेरुतटस्य उन्मृष्टेनोज्ज्वलेन कनककर्दमेन ताम्रः कर्दमस्पर्शात् ताम्रः । अथवा मेरुतटात् स्फुटितविलीनस्य कनकस्य कर्दमेन ताम्रः.

20. K and MY read दृश्यते (dīśai) for vasai = विकसति (R and Kula). K says गजरुधिरस्पृष्टसिंहसटासदृशवर्णं कुमुदवनमदृश्यत.

21. K and MY read दीपा for dīhā (R and Kula) MY says अनुपजाततिमिरा प्रदोषशोभा निःशेषाव्युच्छिन्नविरलावस्थितसन्ध्यारागा, अत एव तदभिभवेन नातिभास्वरदीपा.

K says दिनावसानस्य छाया छविरेवमभूत् । कथम्—अविच्छिद्यमानविषमसन्ध्यारागा, अवद्वतिमिरा असंजाततिमिरा, अत एव अप्रकटदीपा etc. Kula takes the अ in apāada (अप्रकट) separately as he says भवति च प्रकटदीर्घा ईषद्व्यवच्छिद्यमानविषमसन्ध्यारागा etc

22. K, MY and Kula read सर्वत्र for samvatta found in R who mentions the other reading (savvattha) as a variant. K says सर्वत्र प्रदेशे सदृशरूपं जातम्. R says संवर्तेन प्रलयेन सदृश रूपं यस्य नादृक् जातम्. MY remarks पूर्वं रवावस्तमितमात्रे सन्ध्यारागानुवृत्त्या प्रदेशभेदेन उज्ज्वलानुज्ज्वलरूपमासीन्नभः । इदानीं तु दूरास्तमिते तस्मिन् सन्ध्यायाश्चोपरमे सर्वदिक्षु अनुज्ज्वलमेव जातमित्यर्थः.

With regard to nivvalanti, Hemacandra says nivvada पृथक् स्पष्टो वा भवति (4. 62), but derives nivvala from निष्पाद्यते (4 128). SC says nivvadanti पृथगुपलभ्यन्ते निष्पन्ना भवन्तीति वा.²

24. K reads विच्छिन्न for vo° = व्यव° (R and Kula). K says उभयंतटयोः सरसः तटद्वये पृथक्स्थितत्वात् मिलद्दृष्टिमात्ररतिसुखम् । अवशं दैवात् परवशम् । शोकातिरेकजनितो दीर्घनिश्वासपवनाक्रन्दो हुङ्कारः । हुङ्कार आयत्तमधीनं जीवितं यस्य तत्तथा । संस्तभ्यमानः स हुङ्कारो यदि निर्गच्छेत् तदा तेनैव सह जीवितमपि निर्गच्छतीति हुङ्कारायत्तजीवितं तत् चक्रवाकमिथुनं विच्छिन्नं विश्लिष्टमभूत्. MY says अथवा अन्योन्यजीवितधारणसूचकशोकविरुत्तरूपहुङ्कारश्रवणमात्रेण स्वजीवितं धारयदित्यर्थः. Kula says अवशं दैवगतिपरतन्त्रम्. He reads pemma for rāa (राग), i. e. विघटमानप्रेमनिगडं, and explains प्रेम as प्रेमभावारब्धालिङ्गनादिव्यापार, and remarks that it is not स्नेह, तस्याविघटितस्यैव स्थितत्वात्.

27. K does not explain the verse. The chāyā has तिमिरस्पृष्टमु- कुलमुग्धकिसलयाः. K seems to read maulanta for mailanta (R and Kula) Kula says तिमिरेणादिग्धानि विलिप्तानि मलिनायमानानि मुग्धकिसलयानि
येषां (ते द्रुमाः). Kula quotation in SC has आलिङ्गानि. R says आली- ङ्गानि स्पृष्टानि.

28. K and MY read अनुसदृशं (anusaṛisam) for anurūam
(R and Kula).

K says मिश्रीकृतसर्वदिक्कं, सूचयितव्यभूतलं स्पर्शानुमेयभूतलं तिमिरं

पुरुषपतनेऽपि भग्नसैन्यस्य भयान्ध्यादीदृशं तिमिरं भवतीति भावः. He also says सूचयितव्य गतिस्खलितविभाव्यमाननतोन्नतं महीतलं यत्र तत् तथाभूतम्.

1 SC says निकष. कर्दमालेपन गात्रघर्षणमिति कुलनाथः । गात्रनिर्घर्षस्थानमिति श्रीनि-
वासः. The correct reading of Kula seems to be कर्दमालेपेन गात्रनिर्घर्षः

29 K and MY read उत्तम्भयितव्य (utthambhiavva, cf. 5. '68); and बहुल for ukkhammavva = उत्खनितव्य¹; and bahala respectively (R). K reads सान्द्रः for joggo = योग्यः (R and Kula) K says अन्धकार एवं प्रसरति स्म । कुठारादिना अवखण्डयितव्यः छेत्तव्यो यथा भवति तथा दृढः । भार इव शिरसोत्तम्भयितव्यः धारयितव्यो बहुल उद्धातो घनीभावो यस्य स तथाभूतः । नीलपटादिवत् अवलम्बितव्यसान्द्रः । शशिना भेत्तव्यसंहतः पर्वत इव भेदनयोग्यः संहतोऽतिनिबिडः MY says द्रव्यवदुत्तम्भयितुं कराभ्यामुत्क्षेप्तुं यथा शक्येत तथा बहुलोद्धातः बहुलोच्चयः. Kula seems to explain avalambivva as अवलम्बन.

30. K and probably Kula read मार्गतः (maggao, cf. SC Text) for pacchao = पश्चात् (R) K says अतिसान्द्रः तमोनिवहो मूर्तद्रव्यवत् एवमकरोदिव । कथम्-महीतले भरितः बहुलः तमोनिवहो भुवि तिष्ठन्तं पुरुषमधस्तादाधारत्वेन वहतीव । मार्गतः पृष्ठभागतः तिमिरनिवहः तमेव नुदतीव । पुरतो गतः तिमिरनिवहः पृष्ठनोदात् पतन्तं पुरुषं धारयतीव अवलम्बत इव । पार्श्वगतस्तु तं पीडयतीव (MY also) । उपरि मूर्ध्नि स्थितोऽन्धकारः तस्य भारवत् गुरुर्भवतीवेति. युगक्षय इवादृश्यत. MY says nivvadia-dhūma पृथग्भूतधूम निर्धूमेत्यर्थः.
R says परभाग एकदेशः.

33. K reads बहुल for बहुञ् (R), and प्रोषित (i. e. pauttha) for panattha (R). K and MY have मूढ for muddha.

K says मूढेन अनुदितेन मृगाङ्गेन परिपाण्डरा, उदयपर्वतात् स्खलित-
बहुलज्योत्स्नानिवहा, अत एव प्रोषिततिमिरा व्यपगततिमिरा पूर्वाशा अच्छालोका जाता प्रसन्नप्रकाशा अभूत्. MY reads *paatta-timirā*¹ explained as प्रसरणोद्यततिमिरा. He remarks मृगाङ्गस्य मूढत्वमालोकप्रवृत्तावपि उदय-
गिरिगर्भवर्तितया स्वरूपतो नाभिव्यक्तिः । अत एव मूढमृगाङ्गा । अत एव
अच्छालोका विरलालोका । अथवा मूढत्वं नातिविशदप्रभत्वम्. MY explains
उदयगिरिस्खलित as उदयाद्रेर्निर्गतः.

34. MY has na ā for na tā (तावत्). K says तावत् तस्मिन्
क्षणे. K and Kula have ताम्र for आताम्र (R). MY remarks उदित-मात्रं शशिविम्बमसमग्रप्रभतया मुग्धताम्रं कमलेनोपमितमिति मन्तव्यम्.

35. K (chāyā) reads निहितं for mūliam (R). He says ततः क्रमात्
उदयगिरिशिखरस्थितम्, उन्मृष्टतिमिरत्वात् धवलशोभं शशिविम्बम् इतोऽभिमुख-
स्थितस्य सुरगजस्यैरावतस्य दन्तच्छेदवत् छिन्नस्य दन्तस्य छेदमण्डलवत्
परिमण्डलं जातम्.

MY says upphattha (upphu° B) उन्मृष्ट । छेदः छेदमार्गः.

Kula's gloss on 35 and 36 is mutilated.

36. Not found in K and MY.

37. K reads nūma (निमित्त chāyā) for mūlia (R, Kula and MY). K, MY and Kula read khauria for paripaṇḍura (R). See N. S.
ed. Goldschmidt adopts the former reading

K says दरनिहितचन्द्रकिरणा दग्धधूयमानेन तिमिरेण मिश्रितच्छवयः

पङ्कादिकमपनीय पाषाणादिवत् तमो निरस्य भूतलमुत्क्षिप्तमिवेत्यर्थः.

Kula reads विच्छिन्न for vitthinna (विस्तीर्ण). SC says jaha ujjua इति पाठे यथा ऋजवो नदीप्रवाहा यत्र इत्यर्थः. This might be Kula's reading, but our copy seems to have यथोज्ज्वला नदीप्रवाहा यत्र.

40. K, MY and Kula read बहुल for बहल (R). K (chaya) has बहुलेऽपि तमोनिवहे निर्व्यज्य (i. e. पृथग्भूय) सत्यापितरूपाः.

K says तमोनिवहे बहुले सत्यपि पृथक्त्वेन (i. e. पृथग्भूय) लक्षितरूपाः

पृथक् कृत्वेति कुलनाथः. The reading in our copy is corrupt, and followed by पृथक्कृत्य.

41. K and MY read परिमर्शन for parihattana = परिघट्टन (R and Kula). They read अप्रतीष्टैकैकं for avadicchiekkamekka = अप्रतीष्टैकैके (R) Kula's reading is same as R's, but he has अप्रतीक्षित. See below. K says शशी कुमुदं केवलं करालयति दलानामन्तरालं करोति छिद्रयत्येव । मधुपानोत्सुका भ्रमरास्तु मुखपरिमर्शनेन संमुखस्पर्शनेन समुच्छ्वसदलपुटं कुमुदमप्रतीष्टैकैकं परस्परमप्रतीष्टमन्योन्यस्य अवसरमप्रदाय एकैकमेव ते विशदं पाटयन्ति विकासयन्ति स्म.

MY has apadicchia for ava°; muha parimāsana (explained as अप्रपरिमर्शन); and pādentī for phālentī. SC has अप्रतीक्षित for अप्रतीष्ट, i. e. avadikkhla. Kula says ekamekka शब्दः अन्योन्यार्थे देशीयः.

42. SC says नुशब्द इवार्थ इति श्रीनिवासः (Kula also). MY has phusio for pusio (उन्मृष्टः K). K, Kula and MY render otthaio as अवस्थगितः. K and MY render virāo as विलीनः. K renders pellio as पीडितः (प्रेरितः R and Kula). Kula renders samatto as समाप्तः (समस्तः R and K). Kula says अवस्थगित इव, निर्दयं पीत इव समाप्तो- स्वसितः. K says समस्तः तमोनिवहः शशिना निरवशेषमुन्मृष्टो नु । सममेव

 स्थूलैः करैः पीडितो नु । निष्पिष्टो विलीनो नु । स्थगितो नु । निर्दयं पीतो नु ।
 कथं नष्ट इति नाज्ञायत.

43. Not found in K and MY.

With regard to khauriam, Kula who reads this verse after verse 36 says चन्द्रोदयोतेन नभःस्थलं मिश्रकलुषीकृतमिव. R says मुण्डितमिव धवलितमिवेति वा. cf. verse 37 above. Kula's gloss on this verse is incomplete. SC has maulia (मुकुलित) for mauha = मलिनित (R).
 SC says मुकुलितं संकुचितं दिक्चक्रं यस्मात्.

44. K and MY read प्रचलन्ति (paalanti) for paadanti = प्रक-ट्यन्ते (R). Kula is corrupt, but SC also has paalanti rendered as प्रगलन्ति. K says वनानि प्रचलन्तीव । चन्द्रकिरणैर्विरलसंस्पृष्टत्वादचलन्निव, प्रज्वलन्तीवेति वा. Kula reads धौत dhoa for thoa (स्तोक)– धौतानीव
 सुखालोकानि.

45. MY says novvitttha निर्विष्ट (K chayā and Kula also) उप-
 भुक्तेत्यर्थः । oagganti अध्यतिष्ठन् । अनेकरसज्ञा एव भृङ्गाः कुमुदासवं संभावितवन्त इत्यर्थः.

K (chāyā) has परिमृदितद्रुमकुसुमा उपयुक्तदिग्गजेन्द्रमदनिष्यन्दाः, not explained in the comm which has only उपभुक्तपङ्कजवना मधुकराः विकसितकुमुदोदराणि मधुपानरभसादभिभवन्ति स्म. K seems to read uautta or uvautta (उपयुक्त) for uahutta (उपभुक्त) in the first line. The word uautta occurs in Gaudavaho (350), but the comm. renders it as उपभुक्त,

46. K and Kula read nirāa-valambo (निरायतप्रलम्बः) found in SC Text and ms. C of Goldschmidt, for nirāaa-lambo (R).

47. K says गजकुलमलिने तमोनिवहे मृगेन्द्रधवलेन शशिना विद्राविते सति दीर्घाः भवनच्छायासमूहा विद्रुतानां गजानां निसृतकर्दमपदन्याससदृशा दृश्यन्ते स्म । निसृतं नितरां सृतं दीर्घाभूय गतम्. MY says निःसृतः कर्दमो येषां तानि पदानि तथा भवनच्छायाः तत्सदृशशोभा इत्यर्थः. Kula says निःसृते पलायने कर्दमलिप्तपादच्छायाकृतयो दृश्यन्ते.

48. K and MY read जालमुखाकृष्ट¹ for jalanlara-niggaa (R and Kula) K says तिर्यगुन्नमद्विम्बः, जालं गवाक्षः तदीयरन्ध्रेभ्यः आकृष्ट-प्रसरन्मयूखो, नाशितश्वभ्रान्धकारो, भग्नवृक्षादिच्छायादैर्घ्यः चन्द्रो विलगति गगनमिति शेषः. MY seems to read pasaram for pasaro. Kula says पूर्व जालान्तरेण निर्गता इदानीमपसरन्तो मयूखा यस्य स तथा.

49. K (pratīka) has vicchaddia like others. K says विकटेन गवाक्षेण प्रविष्टा, दीपप्रभाभिः मिलिता, तदानीं प्रसारितकुङ्कुमादिचूर्णनिभा, ईषत्पीतांशुकेन विशेषिता अतिशयिता अच्छा छाया छविः यस्या सा तथाभूता ज्योत्स्ना क्लाम्यति स्म. K explains vicchaddia as प्रसारित. R (chāyā) has विच्छर्दित explained in comm as पुञ्जीकृत. SC says विच्छर्दितं त्यक्तं विकीर्णमिति यावत्. MY says āpiamsua ईषत्पीतांशुक । ईषत्पीतेभ्यो-शुकेभ्यो व्यावर्तितस्वकीयधवलशोभेत्यर्थः. It will be seen that K and MY (SC Text also) read अच्छ for abbha (अभ्र) found in R, who mentions अच्छ as a variant Kula here is corrupt, but his nadio व्याकुले देशी. Deśināmamālā 4. 18 gives the word in the sense of वञ्चित and खेदित.

71. virāa is rendered as विलीन by K, MY and Kula. K says
आगतानां दयितानामभ्युत्थानाय त्वरितानां, दयितोपगूहनेन विलीनानां विद्रुत-
हृदयानाम्. SC says विलीनानां द्रवतामापन्नानामिति लोकनाथः, विरागाणां
विशिष्टरागाणामिति श्रीनिवासः.

72 K, MY and Kula read दत्तमुखः for diṇṇa-suho (R) R has hittha-hiao munijja = त्रस्तहृदयो ज्ञायते. K has त्रस्तहृदयैर्ज्ञायते in which case metre would require najja for munijja, as pointed out by Goldschmidt

K says प्रियरप्रसादितोऽपि तेषां दत्तमुखः, तद्दृष्ट्वा सखीभिः स्थिरया

Deva says यामच्छेदेन यामार्धेन विषममधिकं गते सति । अध्यर्धयामात्मकः
प्रदोषः । यामद्वयेऽर्तीतेऽयं विषमं गतो भवति.

Kula reads visame for visamam and takes paatta as प्रयत्न
also He says प्रसारितचन्द्रे, दूरोत्खण्डितायां निशायां प्रवृत्तविरामे, अथवा
दूरोत्खण्डितया निशया लोकानामभीष्टार्थं प्रति प्रयत्नस्य विरामः पर्यवसानं यत्र,

¹ निभृत° in our copy is incorrect. Goldschmidt mentions the correct reading, which is also found in the Trivandrum ms.

SC says प्रदोषे यामिनीयामस्य द्वितीयप्रहरस्य छेदेन खण्डनेन विषमं प्राप्तवैषम्यं यथा स्यात् तथा गते सतीति लोकनाथः.

Deva reads दूरोत्कण्ठित for durukkhandia. He says दूरोत्कण्ठित-निशाप्रवृत्तविरामे निशायाः प्रवृत्तो विरामः. . दृष्ट्वादुत्कण्ठितः प्रार्थितो यस्मिन् तस्मिन् (प्रदोषे) । प्रवृत्तविरामापि निशा अलब्धसुरतस्य रावणस्य दीर्घत्वात् अप्रवृत्तविरामेव प्रतिभाति. He gives another interpretation : दूरमुत्कण्ठिताया. अर्धरात्राविकं गताया. (निशायाः) प्रवृत्तः प्रारब्धो विरामो यस्मिन्.

MY seems to read cittavia as he says सुखितकामिनीजने (see K above). R says चेतित. प्राप्तचैतन्यः कामिनीजनो यत्र पूर्णकामतया मदापगमात्. Śrinivāsa explains cittavia as परितोषित acc to SC

2. K says चिन्तया रेचितधैर्यत्वात् परित्याजितधैर्यत्वात् दर्शितहृदयं प्रकाशितहृदयम्.

3 K, MY and Kula read parimusai for paripusai (R), rendered as परिप्रोञ्छति परिमार्ष्टि. MY says purimusai परिमार्ज. K says बाहुबलेन किमत्र क्रियत इति बाहुं परिमृशति स्म.

K says उवरति तप्यते. MY says jūrai अखिद्यत. Kula says क्रुध्यति क्रोधादेव बाहुं परिमृशति स्पृशति. Hemacandra 4, 132, 135 gives jūrai in the sense of खिद्यते and क्रुध्यति.

K says सीतायां निष्प्रसरः रावणहेतोः प्रसरः प्रवेशो यस्य नास्ति स मन्मथो यस्येति बहुव्रीहिः. Kula says सीतायां निष्प्रसरो निरवकाशो मन्मथो यस्य स तथाभूतो दशवदनः.

4. K, MY and Kula read this verse after verse 8. K says रावण. पूर्वं ह्रियमाणतया तदानीमुद्वृत्तया परिवृत्तया जनकतनयया स्पृष्टं निज-वक्षस्तटं बहु मेने. Kula also has स्पृष्ट. MY says ह्रियमाणोद्वृत्तया आवेगात् स्फुरन्त्या.

5. K reads भज्यमानं for bhijjante = भिद्यमाने (R and probably Kula)

K says प्रतिरुन्धतोऽपि यथाशक्ति निवारयतोऽपि अस्य धैर्यमुल्ललति गलति स्म । कथंभूतम्—प्रथममुत्कण्ठया भग्नं पुनः स्वेन बलेन प्रतिनिवृत्तं, परिस्थापितं यत्नात् स्थापितं च तत्क्षणमेव पुनरुत्कण्ठया भज्यमानं भूत्वा गलति स्म । धैर्यस्याधारे अलघुन्यपि अतिगुरुण्यपि हृदये विषमं भृशमुत्थितकम्पे¹ सति गलति स्म । प्रतिरुन्धत इत्यनादरे षष्ठी. K (chāyā) has विषमोत्थापित.

MY reads bhujjantam for bhijjante He says प्रथममुत्कण्ठया भग्नं पुनः स्वाभाविकतया प्रतिनिवृत्तं, यत्नात् स्थापितं च पुनरुत्कण्ठाबलात् भिद्यमानम् । अतएव उल्ललति स्म । visamuddhāia इति कादाचित्ककम्पे भ्रमति हृदय इत्यर्थः.

Kula says हृदये धैर्यं....स्थितिं न लभते । किंभूते हृदये—उपायशून्यतया भग्ने तदनभिमुखे (?) तत्प्रीत्या पुनर्निवृत्ते तदभिमुखीभूते, ततश्च मनोरथैः परिसंस्थापिते स्थिरीकृते, दुर्घटतया तच्चिन्तावर्जनस्य पुनरपि भिद्यमाने (?), विषमोद्धतकम्पे कामावेगादुद्भूतवेपथ्यावित्यर्थः.

8 K has श्रयति for mahar (R, Kula and MY) He says
शयनं श्रयति । पुनर्मुञ्चति. MY has jugucchar for juu° Kula says महति अभिलषति.

9. K says सीताप्रसङ्गं प्रच्छादयतोऽपि अस्य हृदयस्थितः सीतामय
आलापः प्रियाणामपि पुरो मुखनिवहेऽपि सममेव बहुशः प्रावर्तत.

10. MY says pula1amm1 प्रलोकिते प्रलोकनक्रियायाम् K says विलो-
किते प्रदेशे तामेव पश्यति स्म.

11. saha1 = शसति K and MY; शास्ति कथयति R

12. K, MY and Kula take bharovatta as bhara + ovatta (अपवृत्त). See below R takes it as uvatta (उद्वृत्त).

K says देहस्य परिणाहो विस्तारः तदनुरूपं विकटे विशालं, भरेण देह-
भरेण अपवृत्तं प्रेरितं दलितं च पार्श्वयोरर्धान्तं यत्र तत्र, दूरमवनतमध्ये भूमि-

Kula says भरापवृत्ते(न) अपवर्तनभरेण दलितपार्श्वैकदेशे. MY says स्वदेह-भरावनमितपार्श्वे भूमिनिहितास्तरणे, cf veovatta = वेगापवर्तित 14. 74. SC
Text has bharovatta

13. Kula reads janiukkantho (cf. SC Text) for dimnukkantho.
K says अस्य मुखनिवहः ...कृतोत्कण्ठः (दत्तोत्कण्ठः chāyā), अतएव च क्षणं
विलक्षः लज्जित उल्ललति तासां मुखेभ्यः स्खलति स्म. Kula says दाक्षिण्य-

वैवश्यः तस्य मुखनिवहो निजान्तःपुरमुखेषु उल्ललेति नावतिष्ठते.

14. K and Kula read nīsāsam for samtāvam (R).

R says गमयति प्रतारयति. MY says अगमयत् कथंचिदनयदित्यर्थः.
Kula is mostly corrupt, but SC reproduces him in the initial portion of its gloss on the verse — यावदन्येन मुखेन ummacchlam ईर्षोद्विग्नं विला- सिनीसार्थं हसन् गमयत्यभिव्यथं करोति । यद्वा सानुरागं पश्यत्यर्थात् रावणः.
Others read ummaccharam, i.e. उन्मत्सरम्. SC says ummacchia-शब्दः क्रोधे तज्जन्योद्विग्नतायामेव देशी.

K says उन्मत्सरम् उद्भूतमत्सरं विलासिनीजनमन्येन केनचिन्मुखेन
हसन् रावणो यावत् गमयति यत् किञ्चिदुक्त्वा यापयति, तावत् तस्यान्यत् मुखं

कामो हसन् अन्यतमेन मुखेन यावत् आभाषते तावदन्यत् मुखं उत्कण्ठया विषण्णं
दीर्घनिश्वासं च बभूवेत्यर्थः.

15. K and MY read अवधीरण for avahārana = अवधारण (R and Kula). K reads शून्य for ana (R and Kula)

K says प्रियाणामुपालम्भनिपुणेन हसितेनानुविद्धं युक्तं, सीतालाभस्याव-
धीरणमवज्ञारूपं सीता तव वशं न यास्यतीति विसंवादम्, आनुकूल्यं संवादः,

प्रार्थनीय एवेत्येवं परिहासानुगतं, सीतालाभस्याप्रार्थनीयत्वेन अवज्ञानात् यो
विसंवादः स्वाभिप्रायविरुद्धवचनं तदित्यर्थः. Kula explains विसंवाद as अन्यथा-
भाव. R says सीताया लम्भस्य प्राप्तेरवधारणम् अनेनोपायेन सीतालाभ इति
निश्चयस्तस्य विसंवादमन्यथाकरणं साध्वी सीता कथमनेन लब्धव्येत्यादिवचनरूपम्,
S.,...19

16. K says अक्षमा ईर्ष्या, परविभूतेरसाहिष्णुत्वं मत्सरः, ताभ्यां गुरुन् । अधिक्षेपो जुगुप्सा, उपालम्भो दोषारोपणम्, अधिक्षेपेण सह प्रवृत्तोपालम्भ-वाक्यान् कामिनीनां वल्लभानामालापान् विलक्षहसितैः कथं कथमपि गमयति यापयति स्म. MY says परगुणसंभावनासहिष्णुता मात्सर्यमिति भोजः । स्वान्यप्रवृत्तिगर्हा स्यादुपालम्भः प्रियं प्रतीति कथनात् अधिक्षेपः प्रियस्यैव प्रवृत्ते-र्गर्हेति विवेकः । कामिनीसमुल्लापान् विलक्षहसितैरगमयदिति कामिनीसमुल्लापेषु विलक्षहसितमेव परमकरोदित्यर्थः.

Kula saya गमयति प्रेरयति. R says वैलक्ष्यमप्रतिभा । अधिक्षेपः तर्जनासंवल्लिता निन्दा । उपालम्भोऽपकारोक्तिः.

17. K and Kula (?) read प्रतिबद्ध for padiruddha (R).

K says भयेन प्रतिबद्धस्य वचसः शेषं शेषभूतमुत्कण्ठया बाष्पपूर्णे कण्ठे विषमपदविन्यासं तस्य गोत्रस्खलितं नामधेयस्खलितं विषण्णाभिः प्रियाभिः शङ्क्यते स्म । विकलाक्षरत्वात् स्फुटं न ज्ञायते स्म.

MY says सीतागतमनसा बाष्पावस्थगितकण्ठतया विषमोपक्रान्तं, पुनः प्रतिसंधानेन अपह्नोतुमनसानुच्चारितवर्णशेषं गोत्रस्खलितमस्फुटतया शङ्क्यते, परं स्फुटं न तु निरचीयतेत्यर्थः. R says बाष्पावस्तृतेन कण्ठेन विषमः स्फुटास्फुटः पदनिक्षेपः पदोच्चारणं यत्र.

18 K, Kula and probably MY have यापयति for thaver = स्था-पयति (R). Their reading is javer, cf. S C Text. K (chāyā) has दत्तमोघोल्लापम्. Kula and MY also have उल्लापम्. K and probably MY read दयितानां for darāhi (R and Kula). SC Text has anālatta for anāla via, and palaiam for pu°. K says केनचित् अनालपिते सति चित्तविभ्रमात् किमिति दत्तमोघालापं, तदानां रोषेण निरुत्तराभिः प्रियाभिः विलोकितं गलितबाष्पमात्मानं रावणः कथंचित् यापयामास । दयितानामिति तृतीयार्थे षष्ठी. MY says स्त्रीणामनालसत्त्वेऽपि आलापाभावेऽपि वृथा दत्तः किमिति प्रश्नरूपः उल्लापो येन तत् यथा । गुरुबाष्पं भवति (यथा) तथा । रोषेणोत्तरमनुक्त्वा ताभिः केवलं प्रलोकितमात्मानं कथमपि व्यवस्थापयदित्यर्थः.

MY seems to read garua-bāham for galia^o. Kula says सीताप्रसक्तिवैम-नस्यात् अनालपिते अपृष्टे किमिति निरर्थकदत्तोल्लापम्, दयिताभिः गलितबाष्पं यथा स्यात् तथा प्रलोकितमात्मानं दशमुखः कथमपि यापयति व्यवस्थापयति.

19. K reads क्षपित (क्षयित Kula) i.e. °kkhavia for agghavia
= अर्धित (R) MY reads स्खलित (°kkhaha). See below. K says रावणः
प्रियाणामुन्मत्सरत्वात् प्रसारितः प्रारब्धः आभिजात्येन क्षपितो हुङ्कारो यत्र तत्,
रुषा समस्तनिष्पीडिताधरोष्ठं यथा विलोकितं विलोकनम् अहृदयोऽप्यन्यत्रगतहृद-
योऽपि अभिनन्दति तासां वाल्लभ्यादभिनन्दति स्म । अथवा अन्यहृदयः सन्नपि ।
प्राकृतलक्षणस्वातन्त्र्यमेतत्.

MY reads *nivvolia*¹, like ms. C of Goldschmidt, for nivvelha, and explains it as निष्क्रामित. K seems to explain nivvellia as निष्पी- डित (see above). R says दशवदनः प्रियाणां समस्तं संपूर्णं निर्वेल्लितं
प्ररफुरितमधरोष्ठं यत्र तादृशं प्रलोकितं दर्शनमभिनन्दति । किंभूतम्—उद्गतेन
मत्सरेण प्रसारितः समुत्थापितः, अथ च अन्यचित्तत्वात् रावणेन विलासबुद्ध्या
अर्धितः अर्चितः सत्कृतो हुङ्कारो यत्र तत्. MY says मत्सरेण प्रवर्तितो
रोषातिशयेन मध्ये स्खलितश्च हुङ्कारो यस्य तत् समस्तनिष्क्रामिताधरोष्ठं
प्रलोकितमहृदयोऽपि अनन्ददित्यर्थः । अत्र कोपस्य ललितत्वेन भावाख्यत्वं ग्राह्यम्.
Kula says ईर्षोद्वेगेन प्रसारितः रावणशङ्कया क्षयितः संहतो हुङ्कारो यत्र । समस्तो
निर्मलः (?) अधरोष्ठो यत्र तत् प्रियाणां प्रलोकितम् अहृदयोऽपि
हृदयशून्योऽपि दशवदनोऽभिनन्दति सौभाग्यसूचकत्वात् बहु मन्यत इत्यर्थः.
SC which reproduces Kula's gloss anonymously has समस्त — nivvellia
समग्रदष्टोऽधरोष्ठ उत्तराधरो यत्र. SC chaya has निर्वेल्लित.

20. K says दुश्चिन्तितपदेशं सीताविषयं दुश्चिन्तितमुद्दिश्य अहृदयत्वात्
विसर्जितासनम् आसनादुत्थाय गच्छन्तं पुनर्निवर्तमानं तदानीं प्रियाभिरुन्मत्सरं- ससंभ्रमं यथा कृतालोकमात्मानं क्षणं हसति किं कृतवानस्मीति स्वयमेव जहास.

1 Hemacandra 4 69 gives nivvolai in the sense of मन्युना ओष्ठं मलिनं करोति.

Kula says दुश्चिन्तितापदेशम् उन्मादकृतं किमप्यनिष्टं यत् तस्यापदेशो यथा स्यात् तथा प्रियाभिरुद्देगसंभ्रमाभ्यां कृतालोकं प्रयुक्तसंवरणवादमात्मानं हसति असंबद्धक्रियाया हासहेतुत्वात् उपहसतीत्यर्थः. Kula explains ummaccha as ईर्षोद्देग in verse 19, and here as उद्देग.

R explains अपदेश as व्याज, MY also says अनुचितचिन्तितापदेशम् असंगत(?)निरूपितोक्तस्वगमनव्याजं प्रियाभिरुन्मत्सरं संभ्रमेण कृतालोकम्. SC says दुःखेन चिन्तितोऽपदेशः संवरणं यत्र ईदृशम्. R mentions uvaesa(उपदेश) as a variant for ava° (अपदेश)—रम्भानलकूवरयोः शापतः स्वनाशहेतुत्वेन दुश्चिन्तितो बलादेव सीतामानयामीत्येवंरूप उपदेशः सीताप्राप्त्युपायो येनेत्यर्थः.

21. K and MY read च for स (R), and अनुकम्पितुमपि न दत्तः for anusorum na a tinno = अनुशोचितुं न च तीर्णः (R).¹ K says रावणस्तदा तथा चातिभूमि गतः उन्मादकाष्ठां गतः यथा प्रियाभिः विनिर्यन्त्रणं विशेषेण निर्यन्त्रणमनर्गलं यथा न न ज्ञातो, निःसशयम् असावुन्मादमोहित इति यथा ज्ञात एवाभूत् तथा अतिभूमिमगात् । ... ज्ञात्वा च ताभिर्यथा न न हसितः हसित एव तथोन्मत्तः । किञ्च हसित्वा च ताभिरनुकम्पितुमपि यथा न न दत्तः दत्त एव, अनुकम्पाया विषयीकृत इत्यर्थः । अभीष्टार्थदानादयं जीवतु इत्येवमनुकम्पितुमपि उचितो यथाभूत् तथातिभूमिं गत इत्यर्थः । अनुकम्पालक्षणमुक्तं भावविवेके—

अनुकम्पा तु सा ज्ञेया दुःखितान् प्रति देहिनः ।

उपकारपरत्वं या कुरुते चित्तविक्रिया ॥ इति.

R says न च न तीर्णः शक्तिः, अपि तु शक्तिः.

22. nimeṭṭa निधाय MY (K also). K says अनन्तरं स आसन्नमुखकपोलयोः बहूनां निरन्तराणां मुखानामासन्नयोः द्वयोः मुखकपोलयोरन्तराले

¹ Kula's reading seems to be same as that of R, but he reads च and अनुकम्पितुम् like K and MY एकं करं समं निधाय चिन्तयितुं च प्रवृत्तः । कथंभूतम्-उभयपार्श्वप्रसरदुष्ण-निश्वासहतम्.

23. K has स्वास्थ्यं for soattham rendered as शोकार्थम् by R and MY.

K says अङ्गमागतमासन्नं कपिवलं प्रदोषरतिविघ्नशङ्कितेन प्रदोषे राक्षसानां संभोगविघ्नः स्यादिति, मम च यदि कथंचित् सीता मदभिमुखीभवेत् तदा ममापि सुरतविघ्नः स्यादिति शङ्कमानेन मया सह्यते स्म । न विनाशितमिति यत् तत् कस्यापि पुरुषस्य स्वास्थ्यमभूत् । कस्यापीत्यनेन राम उक्तः । प्रदोषश्च व्यतीतः । तस्मादलब्धसुरतं मम हृदयमेव वलते भ्रमति व्यथत इत्यर्थः. K seems to take soattham in the same as sovattham mentioned in Deśināmamālā 8. 45 in the sense of उपकार.

MY says कस्यापि यादृशतादृशस्य शोकार्थमेतत् कपिवलम् आसन्नस्थितमपि पूर्वं रतिलाभशङ्कया तद्विघ्नबुद्ध्या उपेक्षितम् । इदानीं तु तदलाभे निश्चिते क्षुद्राणां शोकजननं तत् कपिवलं प्रति ममैव रावणस्यापि हृदयं वलते अभिगच्छति.

Kula takes soattham as शोकास्तम्. He says ममैव हृदयं शोकास्तं सीतासंभोगाप्राप्तेः शोके मग्नम् अतएवालब्धसुरतम् । तत् कस्यापि वलति, न ज्ञायते किं शुभायाशुभाय वा प्रवर्तत इत्यर्थः.

R says ममैव हृदयं यद्वलति सुरताभावाकुलतया यत् चञ्चलीभवति तत् कस्यापि रामस्य वा सीताया वा ममैव वा शोकार्थम्. Latakana says अलब्धसुरतं ममैव हृदयं कस्यापि शोकार्थं वलते प्रवर्तते रामस्यैव शोकमुत्पादयामीति भावः । कस्यापीति सामान्येन रामस्यैवाभिधानमिति.

24. K reads त्रस्त and MY उत्त्रस्त (upputtha) for °pphudā = स्फेटित (R and Kula). K, MY and Kula read निभृतं (nihuam) for niham (R). K reads स्थित (°tthua) for thiam (R and Kula). K says अतर्कितमेव आसन्नस्थितेन मदासन्नस्थित्या निष्फलं कापेयात् चटुलं मुखरं च

यथा भवति तथा मृदनामि किम्. MY says अभिमुखप्रसारितभुजश्रेणीमध्य-
भ्रमितसक्षोभोत्त्रस्तनिरस्ताकृष्टनिश्चेष्टं (कपिवलम्). K says गृहीताकृष्टं
कपिवलम्. R says सक्षोभेण भयेन (संचलनेन Kula) स्फेदितं भ्रष्टं पलायितमिति
यावत्. Kula says निरुद्धचेष्टत्वात् निमृतं निष्पन्दम्.

25. K reads andola-galia for andolamāna (R and Kula). K reads अभिभूत (ovaggia) for uttāma (R and Kula). MY's reading is same as K's. K says अथवा शशिकिरणाहतत्वात् उन्मीलितयोराघातादुन्मी- लितयोः नयनयोरान्दोलनगलद्वाष्पतरङ्गं¹, कचग्रहेण अभिभूतमुखी जनकसुता- मास्वादयामि. SC says कचग्रहेत्यादेः क्रियाविशेषणत्वमेव साधीयः. MY reads āsāsemi (आश्वासयामि) for āsāemi (आस्वादयामि). He says oaggia लङ्घित. Latakana says आसादयामि गृह्णामि.

26. K says इतरापि (Kula also) दिनकरविरहितापि. MY says इतरथापोति रवेरदर्शनेऽपीत्यर्थः. R agrees with MY.

27. K and Kula read शरीरभयं for °vaham (R). Ms. C of Goldschmidt reads °bhaam.

28. K, Kula and MY read केवलमियाद्वशं (यायात् MY) for navara hojja va vasā (R). Their reading is navaram ejja vasam (cf. SC Text).
Ms. C of Goldschmidt has navaram. Farther, K, MY and Kula read दर्शने for °damsanā (R) = °दर्शना.

K says पत्युर्माहात्म्ये निषण्णा कृतास्पदा, अतएवावधीरितशेषसत्पुरुष-
सामर्थ्या सीता छनस्य मायामयस्य राघवशिरसो दर्शने सति केवलं वशमियात्
उपेयात् यदि तदा वश्या भवेत् यदि इति वाक्यशेषः.

MY says भर्तृवैभवे व्यवस्थिता । अवज्ञातशेषपुरुषशौर्यातिशया.
Kula says शौटीर्यं वीर्याभिमानः.

29. K and MY read वित्रुटित (vikhudia ?) for valia (R and Kula) K says वित्रुटित. छिन्न । लज्जाविषयो लज्जनीयो लज्जानिमित्तभूतः ।

¹ K (chāyā) has आन्दोलनगलितवाष्पतरङ्गम्

स्थितिर्मर्यादा प्रातिव्रत्यादिः. MY says भयेन धृतिभङ्गसाहसं करोति. He seems to read dhī for thī. Kula says अदृष्टो लज्जनीयो लज्जाहेतुर्येन.

30. K and Kula read सभयं for samaam (R) MY has pāsehi (पार्श्वभ्याम्) for pāsesu. He says jambhāanta जृम्भमाण (K also). allino प्राप्तः (आश्रितः K, आलीनः K chāya). K says खेदात् उत्कण्ठा-खेदात् अलसजृम्भमाणो वलित ऊर्ध्वीकृतः मुखसंघातो यस्य तं रावणम्.

31. K and MY read वचनं दशभिरपि मुखैः for dasahu vi samaam muhehi (R and Kula).

K says एकत्र हृदये गुणितं प्रगल्भाभ्यस्तम्. MY says गुणितं कृताभ्यासम्. R says हृदयेन मनसा गुणितं चिन्तितं प्रमेयम्. Kula says एकेन हृदयेन गुणितमावर्तितम् । चिरकाङ्क्षितस्य रामवधप्रदर्शनेन सीतायत्तीकरणस्य लाभेन गर्भितैरक्षरैः हास्याङ्गत्वात्¹ गुरुकं दुःखोच्चार्यम्. K says एवंभूतं वचनं मायामयरामशिरोनिर्माणवचनं रावणः संभ्रमवशात् दशभिरपि मुखैर्युगपत् व्याहर्तुं (आभाषितु chāya) न प्रभवति न शशाक.

MY says चिरप्रार्थितस्यार्थस्य लाभेन गर्भितैः तत्तदुपायप्रतिपादकैरक्षरैः गुरु वचनं दशभिरपि मुखैर्वक्तुं न प्राभवदित्यर्थः. R says गर्भितानि तत्कालोत्पन्नहर्षेण गद्गदकण्ठतयास्फुटीभूतानि यानि वक्तव्याक्षराणि तैः गुरुकमतिशयितम्.

32. K says पूर्वप्रस्तुतं वचनं तस्य एकेन मुखेन समारब्धमन्येन हर्षात् गृहीतभ्रष्टं, पुनरन्येनार्धभणितं भूत्वा पुनरपरेण कथमपि समापितमिति.

33. K and MY read फलित for °kkhalia = स्खलित (R and Kula). K says मायारामशिरोदर्शनमूलस्य सीताधिगमोपायस्य अतीव दैन्यस्वरूपत्वात् अनन्यगतिकत्वाच्च ... तस्य वचनकथने सहसा शोकः समभूत् । एवमुद्गृहीतशोकं भणता तेन संतापितैकहृदयं शोकोष्मणा संतापितहृदयं यथा, दशसु कण्ठनालेषु फलितत्वात् प्रशीर्णत्वात् प्रलघुकं च यथा भवति तथा निश्वासितम् । जि फला विशरण इति धातुः.

¹ Quotation in SC has हासगर्भत्वात्.

MY says उपात्तचित्तवैधुर्यं भणता तेन मुखनिःसृतधूमं, संतापितैक हृदयं, दशकण्ठी विभक्तलघु निश्वसितम्. R explains उद्ग्राहित as प्रकाशित.

34. K and MY read अवनमित for unnamia (R and Kula).

K says मद्यां निहितोभयकरतलत्वात् तिर्यग्भूतेन त्रिकभरेण अवनमित-पश्चिमदेहभागान्.

MY says nimia निक्षिप्त । महीनिहितोभयकरतलाश्च ते त्र्यस्त्रावस्थितैः त्रिकभरैरवनमितदेहपश्चाद्भागाश्च इति विग्रहः.

K says प्रभोराज्ञायाः समकालमेव दत्तप्रतिसंलापानुक्तप्रतिवचनान् आदरेण भयेन च रावणस्य वाक्यविभागानां विरामे विरामे तथा क्रियत इति कृतप्रतिवचनानित्यर्थः.

R says तिर्यक् स्थितं यत् त्रिकं तत्र भरेणोन्नमितो देहाधो देहपश्चाद्भागो यैस्तान्.

35. K says तदिति वाक्योपक्रमे लोकोक्तिः । माययानिर्मितं रामशिरः सीतायै दर्शयत । कीदृशं — युद्धसमये रिपुदर्शनेन वलितम् ईषत्तिरश्चीनं विषमं क्रूरं निश्चलं च नयनं यस्य तत् etc. MY says nimmavia निर्मापित. Kula says मायया निर्मितं (K also), रिपुदर्शनाय वलिते व्यापारिते विषमे निश्चले नयने यत्र तत्.

36. K says अमर्षमिलिताभ्यां भ्रूभ्यामुद्गृहीतत्वात् तरङ्गितललाटतटम्. MY says अमर्षमेलितभ्रूकं च तत् उद्गृहीततरङ्गितललाटं चेति समासः । ललाटोद्ग्रहणं च करग्रहणादिति बोद्धव्यम्. Kula says अमर्षमेलितयोः भ्रुवोः उद्ग्राहितेन उत्क्षेपेण भ्रुकुटिरचनयेत्यर्थः तरङ्गितं ललाटतलं यत्र तत् (रामशिरः). R says अमर्षेण मेलिताभ्यामेकीभूताभ्यां भ्रूभ्यामुद्ग्राहितमुत्क्षिप्तम् अतएव तरङ्गितं सभ्रुकुटीकं ललाटतटं यत्र.

K says छिन्नानीतं साक्षात्तदेव रामशिर इव तदानीमेव मायामयं रामशिरो विरचितम्.

37. K and MY (?) read चरणावनतनिपतितोत्थिताः for calan-ovadaṇa-visamuṭṭhiā (R).

K says संभ्रमेण रावणचरणयोरवनतनिपतिताः पुनरुत्थिता, उत्कण्ठा-दुःखेन कथंचित् समस्तं व्याहृतायां दशवदनाज्ञप्तौ आज्ञापने व्यापृता राक्षसा रामशिरो गृहीत्वा प्रमदवनं क्रीडावनमशोकवनिकां प्रस्थिताश्च.

MY says कार्यत्वरिततया जानुभ्यां महीस्पर्शनमात्रेण प्रणतोत्थिता वक्तुमुपक्रान्तायां कथमपि मुखपरम्परया समापितायां दशमुखाज्ञायां व्यापृता रजनिचराः संप्रस्थिता इत्यर्थः. Kula's reading is uncertain, but विषमोत्थिताः appears in his gloss. He renders samatta as समाप्त instead of समस्त. SC says कथमपि समाप्तं appāhīam सन्देशो येन हर्षजाड्यात् एवंभूतस्य दशवदनस्य आज्ञप्तिव्यापृताः इति श्रीनिवासः.

38. K and Kula read स्फटिक (phalīha) for phudīa = स्फुटित (R). K and MY read विवरस्थित for uvaruṭṭhiā (R). K says स्फटिक-मणितटस्य विवरस्थेषु सलिलेषु बद्धानि कमलमुकुलानि यत्र तत् (प्रमदवनम्). Kula is corrupt, but SC has विवरस्थित like K and MY. Laṭakana-miśra reads padīa for phudīa, maṇīala for maṇīada, and raṇa for salīla. He says पतितानां मणितलानां हरिन्मणीनां विवरस्थितैरवकाशावस्थितै रत्नैः बद्धानि पंकजमुकुलानि यत्र । हरिन्मणिस्थले जलाकारे रत्नद्युतयः पङ्कजमुकुलानीव दृश्यन्ते.

39. K and MY read वितीर्ण (vinna) for ṇisaṇṇa (R and Kula). K reads वदनसंस्थित. He says सीतामपश्यंश्च । कथंभूताम् — सदा शोकात् वदने स्थितं ततो विसंवादितं शिथिलितमित्यर्थः, स्तने वितीर्णम-र्पितं करतलं यस्यास्ताम् । दशवदनागमशङ्कितत्वात् अन्यपदशब्देऽपि स एव पाप इति बुद्ध्या त्रस्तलोचनाम्.

MY and Kula read संस्थितवदन like R. MY says सर्वदा शोकेन स्वोपरि अवस्थितात् वदनात् विसंवादितमपनीतं स्तने दत्तं च करतलं यस्या- धौतकलधौतं विशुद्धरजतं तद्वत् पाण्डुरैः पतद्भिः बाष्पैः आहतोन्नतस्तनकलशाम्.

SC Text has pandara for pandura (R). MY says प्रियतमं प्रति स्वह-स्ततया प्रेषितेन मणिना शून्यीकृतः शिथिलश्चैकीभूतो वेणीबन्धो यस्यास्ताम्.
Kula reads मणिवर for मणि, and वेणी for addha-veni (R). cf. SC Text.

41. K, MY and Kula pratīka has aamia for ajamia (R). K (chayā) has धूसरदीर्घतरालकावस्तृतमुखीं ... परित्यक्तमण्डनार्पितलावण्याम्.
K says अयमितत्वात् असंस्कृतत्वात् पक्ष्मलवेणीं, पक्ष्मशब्देन केशाग्राण्युच्यन्ते, केशाग्रैर्बहुलवेणीम् । धूसरै रजोबहुलैः दीर्घतरैरलकैः छादितमुखीम् । रशना-
शून्यनितम्बां, परित्यक्तमण्डनत्वेऽपि पुञ्जितलावण्यां प्रकाशितकान्तिविशेषाम्.

MY says अयमितत्वादेव पक्ष्मला उच्छ्वासितकेशान्ता वेणी
यस्यास्ताम् । धूसरितदीर्घतरालकावस्थगितमुखीं¹, विच्छर्दितेन विगलितेन मण्डनेन
स्थितसहजलावण्यां छादकाभावादित्याशयः. K and MY seem to read dhūsaria dīha-arālaotthāia-mukhīm for bāha-jala-pahāvā° (R) Kula's reading is same as R's, but he says बाष्पजलावमलिनितेन अलके- नावस्थगितं मुखं यस्याः (ताम्). He reads अवमलिनित (omalia.

¹ Our copy has अवस्थितमुखी cf. SC Text) for pahavia (प्रधावित). He renders agghavia as अर्धित बहुमत.

42 K and MY read मुकुलीकृत for mauḍaa (मुकुलायत) (found in R and Kula. SC Text has maulā°. K says स्तोकं मुकुलीकृतस्थितं प्रियतमगतेन हृदयेन शून्यत्वात् निश्चलं नयनं यस्यास्ताम् । कपिसैन्यशब्दस्याकर्णनेन बाष्पतरङ्गेषु परिघूर्णमानप्रहर्षा प्रकाशमानहर्षामित्यर्थः. MY says maulāvia मुकुलीकृत । बाष्पतरङ्गेषु परिस्फुरन् प्रहर्षो यस्यास्ताम् । जातानन्दबाष्पामित्यर्थः. Kula says स्तोकमुकुलत्वात् आयतस्थिते नयने यस्याः ताम् । बाष्पतरङ्गेषु परिघूर्णमानो गतागतं कुर्वन् प्रहर्षा यस्यास्ताम्. R says स्तोकमीषन्मुकुलिते अत एवायतस्थिते दीर्घाभूते.

43. K reads क्षालितव्य (khāliavva ?) for vicchaddia = त्यक्त (R and Kula). The word occurs in verse 41 also. K says ईषत् रजसा भिन्नं मिश्रम् अतएव पाटलं शुष्कं परुषं च बाष्पबिन्दुस्थानं बाष्पबिन्दूनां पतनस्थानं यस्यास्ताम् । क्षालितव्यधूसरः क्षालनयोग्यमलिनः निजस्वभावेन परितः स्थितः अधररागो यस्यास्ताम्.

44. K and MY read कतिपयाहासन्न for kai-diahasanna = कतिदिवसा° (R and Kula).

K says अवरुणकपोलत्वात् शुष्ककपोलत्वात् व्यज्यमानायामं, कलाः चन्द्रभागाः, असमाप्तकलत्वात् दीर्घ, कतिपयैरहोभिरासन्नम् अचिरात् पूरयितव्यं शशिनमिव वदनं वहन्तीम्. K (chāyā) has निर्व्यज्यमान for nivvalanta. MY takes pūriavva as a noun — कतिपयैरहोभिरतिप्रत्यासन्नपूरणं शशिनमिवेत्यर्थः. Kula also says कतिभिरपि दिवसैः संनिहितपूरणम्. He renders nivvalanta as निष्पदच्यमान and says अवरुणकपोलत्वात् निष्पदच्यमान आयामो दैर्घ्यं यस्य तत् वदनम्. R says निर्वलन् स्पष्टीभवन् आयामः.¹

1 Hemacandra gives nivvala for निष्पद्यते (4. 128), and nivvada in the sense of पृथक् स्पष्टो वा भवति (4.62).

45. K, MY and Kula read दत्त for bhunna (R). K and MY read म्लान (uvvāa) for uvvatta = उवृत्त = (R). cf. Notes on 8. 2. K and Kula read तलिनस्थितान् for talinnattane = तलिनत्वान्- (R).

R says देहस्य स्वभावसिद्धा या छविर्गौरता तया निर्वलितान् पृथग्भूय प्रकाशमानान्.

K says देहवर्णात् पृथग्भूतान् (देहच्छविनिर्व्यक्तान् chāyā), दत्तया निहितया दरम्लानया रोचनया समानच्छायान्, लक्ष्यमाणावस्थायां तलिनस्थितान् तनुतरस्थितान् भूषणविन्यासप्रदेशान् वहन्तीम्. MY says दत्तया न्यस्तया ईषत् (म्लान)नया रोचनया सच्छायान्. Kula says लक्ष्यमाणं तलिनं तनुकं स्थितं स्थानं येषां तान् वहमानाम्. The rest of Kula is corrupt, SC says दरमीषत् उवृत्ता दूरीकृता या रोचना.

46. K reads लोलप्रस्फुरित for lālasa-pphuria (R and Kula).

K says द्रष्टव्ये राघवे चटुलनयनाम्, उपगूहनाय लोला लम्पटा स्फुरिता च बाहुलता यस्यास्ताम् । आसन्नस्थितप्रियतमाम् एकत्र शयन इव रसेन खिद्यमानाम् । भर्त्रा सहैकशयनगता वनिता केनचित् कारणेन पराङ्मुखीभूतत्वात् ततो रसेन प्रियोपभोगलोलुपा यथा खिद्यते तथा खिद्यमानामित्यर्थः.

Kula reads अवगूहन (oūhana, cf. SC Text) for uva° (उपगूहन). MY says दर्शनमेव द्रष्टव्यं तदुत्सुकनयनाम् । आसन्नदयितामित्युक्तत्वात् दर्शनोपगूहने दयितस्यैवेति लभ्यते. SC says रसेनानुरागेण.

47. SC Text reads viuna for duuna (द्विगुण).

48. K, MY and Kula read प्रावृत्त (pāvia) for pāada (प्रकट) found in R who mentions the former reading as a variant.

Kula says प्रियप्रेषितस्याङ्गुलीयकस्य मणेर्नीलवर्णस्येत्यर्थात् प्रभया प्रावृत्तैकपार्श्वमिव मुखं वहन्तीम्.

MY reads alaotthaam vahanām, and says अलकैरवस्तृतं, रामेण स्वद्वस्ततया¹ प्रेषितस्याङ्गुलीयकस्येन्द्रनीलप्रभाभिः प्रावृत्तैकपार्श्वमिव मुखं

1 See verse 40 above

वहन्तीम् । अत्रेवशब्दः चार्थे । अलकैश्च मणिप्रभाभिश्च अवच्छादितमित्यर्थः । alaotthaena vahantim इति पाठे तु अवस्तृतेनावस्तरणेनैवंभूतमिव लक्ष्यमाणमिति व्याख्येयम् । अत्र तु अङ्गुलीयकमणिप्रभागामपि परमार्थतः सत्त्वादुपमानवैयर्थ्यदोष इति विभावनीयम्.

K says बाष्पेण गुरुकत्वात् दूरप्रलम्बैरलकैरवस्तृतेन छन्नेन हस्तेन धृतत्वात् प्रियेण प्रेषितस्य हनुमता दत्तस्य अङ्गुलीयस्य हस्तगतस्य संबन्धिनो मणेरिन्द्रनीलमयस्य प्रभया प्रावृत्तैकपार्श्वमिव दृश्यमानं मुखं दधानाम्.

49 K, MY and Kula read कथं (kaha) for किं (R). K says आसन्नात् युद्धात् विमनसं, रामभुजबलविश्वासेन पृथग्भूतसंतापाम् (निर्व्यक्त-संतापाम् chaya), सहसा हृदयापतितरावणां हृदयगतरावणप्रतापाम्, रावणेन सह युद्धे कथं भविष्यति नूनमिति मुह्यन्तीम् (विमुह्यन्तीम् chaya).

K reads nivvadia fer nūthavia = निष्ठापित (R). MY reads nivvavia (निर्वापित). R says रामभुजयोरध्यवसायेन निष्ठापितो नाशितो युद्धे किं स्यादित्यादिसंतापो यस्यास्ताम्. MY says āsamgha आशंस निश्चय इत्यर्थः । कथं भविष्यतीति मन्य इति भङ्गोऽपि संभाव्यत इति पश्यामीति विमुखीभवन्तीम्. Kula says कथं मन्ये भविष्यतीति किं रामो जेष्यति रावणो वेति विमुह्यमानाम्. The rest of Kula is corrupt, but SC reproduces him. He reads nivvavia like MY and says रामभुजाशाबन्धेन निर्वापितसंतापाम्.

50. Kula says रामस्य विरहेऽपीयच्चिरं जीवामीति संमुखालोकने व्रीडितां, व्रीडितनिमीलितं च लज्जासंकुचितं च प्रियदर्शनोत्सुकं च हृदयं यस्याः ताम्, उत्सुकेन हृदयेनोन्मीलितां विकासितामुल्लासितामित्यर्थः, रामरावणयोः वीर्यपर्यालोचने उन्मीलितं चापसृतं च पतिमुखं यस्याः सा चासौ क्लाम्यन्ती चेति तथा ताम्. R says उन्मीलितेन नयनोन्मीलनेन भावनापरित्यागादप-सृतेऽदृष्टे सति पतिमुखे क्लाम्यन्तीम्. K reads रतिसुख for par-muha (R and Kula). K says संकल्पमयस्य परितः स्थितस्य प्रियस्य सहसा संमुखालोक-

नेन व्रीडितां, व्रीडया निमीलितनयनत्वान् प्रियस्य संकल्पमयस्य दर्शनोत्सुकहृद-याम्, उत्सुकहृदयत्वात् पुनरुन्मीलितनयनाम्, उन्मीलितनयनावस्थायां संकल्प-भ्रंशादपसृतेन नष्टेन रतिसुखेन क्लाम्यन्तीं सीतां ददृशुः. MY's reading seems to be same as K's. He says उन्मीलिते सति अपगतसमागमतया खिद्य-न्तीमित्यर्थः.

51. K says सीतां च दृष्ट्वा तस्यास्तथाविधक्लेशातिशयदर्शनात् परितप्ते
हृदये प्रघूर्णमानं प्रभ्रश्यमानं पुनः संस्मृतं कर्तव्यं येषां ते रजनिचराः माया- मयरामशिरआनयनेन कातरा विकलवा भूत्वा आलीनाः सीतासमीपमाश्रिताः.

MY (probably K also) reads allhana explained as प्रापण for ullaana found in R who says उल्लयनेऽर्पणे कातराः. Kula says राम-शिरसः अर्पणे कातरा व्यथितहृदयाः. He seems to read alliana which is the ms. reading of SC Text. See editor's f. n. MY says paholanta प्रघूर्णमान विस्मृतेति यावत्.

52. K says (छेद)प्रदेशे समुद्रवृत्तेन मांसेन समुद्रगतेन दत्तावेष्टम् आवे-
ष्टितं राघववदनम्. MY says छेदश्च धनुर्मध्ये विलग्नश्च वामहस्तो यस्य तत्तथा.
Kula says छेदसंभृतेन अथोद्गतेन मांसेन. R says छेदेन कर्तनेन समुद्र-वृत्तमुच्छ्वसितं यत् मांसं तेन. Kula seems to read alagga for vilagga.

54. K reads विरहापाण्डर for niroha-pandara (R and Kula). K says शोकात् शश्वन्निहितेन हस्तेन करतलेन तदानीं शिथिलितत्वात् विमुक्तत्वात् उच्छ्वसन् उन्नमन् विरहापाण्डरः कपोलो यस्याः सा । वामपार्श्वेन पतनात्
भुवि पीडितवामपयोधरा अतएव विषमोन्नतदक्षिणस्तनी भूत्वा सीता पतिता च.
SC says समुच्छ्वसन् यन्त्रणापायादुच्छ्वसतां गच्छन् कपोलो यस्याः. MY says पूर्वमाधारतया स्थापितेन हस्तेन पीडितावस्थितमिदानीं तदपगमात् प्रकृति- स्थं सत् कपोलं यस्याः सा तथा Kula says वामपयोधरेण भूमिनिषण्णेन
प्रेरिता धृता च सा विषमोन्नत(दक्षिण)स्तनी चेति तथाभूता जनकसुता पतिता
च. It will be seen that Kula puts pellia after paohara, cf. SC Text.

55. The verse is not found in K, MY and Kula, nor in Deva, SC and Latakana.

56. K says गतजीवितेव निःसहा विह्वला. MY says जीवनं हि मनःशरीरधारणं,¹ तस्य गमनं नाम सुषुप्तवदिन्द्रियात्मप्रदेशोऽवस्थानं संज्ञाविरह इति यावत्.

57. K reads पक्ष्म (pamha) for vatta = पत्र (R and Kula) K says तदानीं तस्या मुखं क्षणनिश्चलनिश्वासं, मोहान्धकारेण श्यामीकृतवर्णं, विरलघटिताक्षिपक्ष्म, मूर्च्छया व्यपनीयमानतारकं जातम्. R says विरलमल्पं मिलिते किञ्चित् मुद्रिते अक्षिपत्रे पक्ष्मणी यत्र.

58. K, MY and Kula read valia (विगलित) for visaria (विस्मृत) found in R; and वेदना (vanā) for dukkham (R), i. e. विगलितवियोग-वेदनं as found in K (chāyā) and Kula.

K (chāyā) has प्रमुषित (विस्मृत comm.) for pabbhatṭha (प्रभ्रष्ट) found in R and Kula. K's reading is same as that of MY who says pamhutṭha प्रस्मृत. Ms. C of Goldschmidt reads pamhatṭha. R explains प्रभ्रष्ट as प्रस्मृत. K explains navaram as अनन्तरम्. R and Kula have केवलम्. Hemacandra 2. 187, 188 gives navara (v. r. navaram) in the sense of केवल and navari in that of आनन्तर्य, but says that according to some उभावप्युभयार्थौ.

K says मूर्च्छानिमीलिताद्या सीतया अनन्तरं निद्रायमाणयेव सुखं लब्धम् । कीदृशं — विगलितभर्तृविरहव्यथं, तत्क्षणमेव विस्मृतराममरणदुःखम्.

59. K and Kula read परिणाहस्थगिते (parināha-tthare for °ho° (अवस्थगिते) found in R K reads विषमोच्छ्वसितं for pi samūsasiam (R and Kula).

60. K, MY and Kula read बध्यमान (bajjhanta) for anuvajjha (अनुबद्ध) found in R. K reads समुद्वृत्त (samuvvatta) for samuvvūḍha (R). Kula reads समुदगूढ.

1 our copy has शरीरे.

K says ततः अपरिस्फुटनिश्वासा सा मोहविरामेऽपि निःसहत्वात् अतिविह्वलत्वात् पतिता सती बध्यमानेन समुत्पतता वाष्पेण गुरूकृता दुःखेन कृच्छ्रेण समुद्वृत्ता पुनरावृत्ता तारका यथा भवति तथोन्मीलिता.

MY says निःसहः विवशः । बध्यमानः उत्पाद्यमानः । जायमान-वाष्पगुरुतया कृच्छ्रेण उन्मीलिता तारका यथा स्यात् तथा.

R says दुःखेन समुद्व्यूढे उत्तानिते तारके गोलके यत्र तद् यथा स्यात्.

61. K and MY read संधान-ऋजूकृत (probably samdhanujjua)¹ for samdhañcia (R). See below.

K says दूरं भृशं धनुषि सधानार्थमृजूक्रियमाणस्य शरस्य पुङ्खेन स्पृष्टत्वात् श्यामलितापाङ्गम् । अथवा धनुःसंधानोद्यतशरपुङ्खेति पाठः । दूरं धनुषि संधानवेलायाम् उद्यतस्योत्कृष्टस्य शरस्य पुङ्खेन स्पृष्टश्यामलितापाङ्गं रामशिरः पश्यति स्मेति संबन्धः. MY says क्रियमाणस्य धनुःसंधानस्य ऋजुः अतएव शरपुङ्खेन स्पृष्टः श्यामलितश्च अपाङ्गो यस्य तत्तथा.

R says दूरं व्याप्य धनुःसहिताञ्चितस्य धनुरारोपिताकृष्टस्य शरस्य etc. Kula also says धनुःसंहिताकृष्टस्य शरस्य. SC Text has *addhia*² (आकृष्ट) for añcia in the same sense. cf. Hemacandra 4. 187.

K says सरभसमपहतस्य निपातितस्य मण्डलाग्रस्य खड्गस्याभिघातेन प्रहारेण विषमच्छिन्नं विषमच्छिन्नकण्ठम्.

MY says oharia अवगूरित व्यापारितेति यावत्. Kula also says व्यापारितस्य मण्डलाग्रस्य.

62. K, MY and Kula read tajjanta for bhajjanta=भज्यमान (R). K and MY read प्रति for दर (R).

K says निर्व्यूढरुधिरत्वात् निर्गतरुधिरत्वात् पाण्डरेण ईषत्पाण्डुना मुकुलीभवता छेदमासेन छेदप्रदेशमासेन पीडितविवरं रुद्धकण्ठनालं, तर्जयत्-

2 The ms reading of SC Text acc. to the editor's f.n. is aṭṭhia. This form is provided in Sañjivani on Vararuci, p 336.

पतितस्य पतनरभसात् तर्जनं कुर्वतः पतितस्य प्रहरणस्य खड्गस्य कण्ठच्छेदे प्रतिलग्नं धाराचूर्णं खड्गस्य धारागतं चूर्णं कुङ्कुमादिरजो यस्य तत्. MY says तर्जयतः अभिभवतः पतितात् खड्गात् कण्ठच्छेदमार्गे प्रतिलग्नं धारानिहितं चूर्णं यस्य तत्तथा.

MY (pratīka) has nivvūḍha like R and K, but he says निर्वान्तः निर्गतः.

Kula reads तट for दर. He says गलितरुधिरत्वात्(?) पाण्डरं च तत्, संकुचता छेदमांसेन प्रेरितविवरं चेति । तथा तर्ज्यमानं सत्, पतितप्रहरणस्य कण्ठच्छेदतटे लग्नं धाराचूर्णं यत्र तत् तथा.

K and Kula seem to read pandara for pandura (R).

63 K reads मग्न¹ for ukkhutta = उत्क्षिप्त (R). K and MY read samghāa for samkhāa (R) = संस्त्यान. K (chāyā) has संघात. K (comm.) says संहतेन शोणितपङ्कपटलेन पूर्यमाणकृष्णकण्ठच्छेदम्.

K says निर्दयं संदष्टस्याधरस्य मूले मग्नदरदृष्टदन्तवज्रम्. MY reads ukkhāa for ukkhutta. He says रोषेण संदष्टाधरमूलादुत्खातं शिथिल-मीषदृष्टं च दंष्ट्रावज्रं यस्य । अथवा मूलखातेति पाठः । तदा मूललग्नेत्यर्थः । samghāa संस्त्यान K remarks हीरशब्दो वज्रपर्यायः । वज्रं रत्नभेदः. R says दंष्ट्राहीरकं दंष्ट्राग्रम्.

Kula reads mūla-kkhutta as he says अधरमूले क्षिप्तं लग्नम्. He reads the second line differently. He says संस्त्यानेन शोणितोत्पीडेन बहलः पूर्यमाणः कृष्णकण्ठच्छेदो यस्य तत्, i.e. soniuppīla-bāhāla for soniappanka-padāla.

64 K reads रुधिरप्रलघुर्कं (i. e. °ppalahuam) for ruhīraddha-lahuam (R and Kula) K says निश्चिरैः कचग्रहेण आनीतत्वात् कचेषु

प्रगृह्यानीतत्वात् ललाटतटे नष्टा भ्रुकुटिः रेखात्रयं भ्रूमङ्गश्च यस्य तत् ।
गलितरुधिरत्वात् प्रलघुकम्, अहृदयत्वात् ऊर्ध्वगततारकं रामशिरः पश्यति
स्म । अथवा अनधिगतोन्मीलिततारकमिति पाठः. Kula says अहृदयं
हृदयानधिष्ठितमुन्मीलितं तारकं यत्र तत्. R says अहृदयमचैतन्यादनभिप्रायम्.

MY says कचग्रहानीततया ललाटतटे नष्टो रोषोद्धततया भ्रुकुटी- रूपयोः भ्रुवोर्भङ्गो यत्रेति.

65 K and Kula read एव करः (i. e, ccca karo) for ccia hattho (R).

K says तस्या दृष्टिर्दर्शनात् प्रभृति तस्मिन् तथैव निहिता । प्रागेव
मुक्तकपोलो विधुरो वेपमानः करः उररयेव निहितः. MY says निमिता
निश्चलेत्यर्थः । विधुरः विवशः । स्तनभरो यत्र वलति तत्रैव पतिता न तु
स्वबुद्धयेत्यर्थः.

Kula says तथा मिलितैव रामशिरसि ...दृष्टिः. He says अनन्तरं च सा महीतलं etc. He reads navari a (cf SC Text) for navaram (केवलम्).

66. K says ततो मूर्च्छितायाः पश्चादुत्थितायाः किमिदमिति भ्रान्त्या
गगने दिक्षु च समं शून्यं लक्षहीनं घूर्णितं भ्रमितमक्षि यस्य तत् तस्या मुखं
मूढपरिदेवितम् अव्यक्तपरिदेवितं जातम् । न तु मुक्तकण्ठं रोदितुं शक्ता-
भूदित्यर्थः. MY says वचःस्तम्भेन सतोऽपि परिदेवितस्य अनभिव्यक्तेः
उन्नेयपरिदेवितं जातमित्यर्थः.

67. K reads ततोमुखोत्थितावसीदन्त्याः करः (i. e. tatto-huttutthi- osianta karo), and explains vaanam as वदनम्. MY's reading is the same.

K says तत् रामशिरो निर्वर्ण्य वीक्ष्य च तदभिमुखम् उत्थितायाः, अवसीदन्त्याः, कांक्षन्त्याः प्रेम्णा तथाभूतं तद्वदनं स्पृष्टुं कांक्षन्त्या अपि
अवसादात् करो वदनं न प्राप्तेः । उद्यनः करः पुनः पतितः । तथा

मर्तुं कांक्षन्त्याः तस्याः आत्मा कथमपि मरणं च न प्राप्तः. MY says कथमपि सर्वैरपि प्रकारैः.

Kula agrees with R whose reading is altogether different (अस्या आत्मा वचनं मरणं च न प्राप्तः etc.). Kula seems to read इव (va) for च (cf. SC Text). SC says यद्वा वचनं मरणं वा द्वयमपि न प्राप्तमित्यर्थः. R explains nisanna as निःसंज्ञ and निषण्ण.

68. K reads प्रविद्ध for parinna = प्रकीर्ण (R and Kula).

K says ततः अधोमुखं प्रसारिताङ्गी रजोभरितो धूलिधूसर उत्पथे इतस्ततः प्रविद्धो विक्षिप्तः वेणोबन्धः यस्या सा । उरसा संदानिते संस्पृष्टे महीतले चक्रीकृतस्तनौ भूत्वा पतिता. MY says उरसा सह संगतेन महीतलेन चक्रितौ स्तनौ यस्याः सा तथा. Kula says उरसा सदानितेन बद्धेन महीतलेन.

69. K says भुवि सर्वाङ्गैः निषण्णाया अपि तस्याः निःशेषं क्षपिता-स्तिरस्कृताः त्रयो बलिविभङ्गा यथा भवति तथा निरायतः, स्तनयोः जघनस्य (च) मध्ये करालितः सान्तरालः उन्नताभ्यां स्तनाभ्यां बृहता जघनेन च करालितो मध्यप्रदेशो वसुधां न प्राप्नोति न स्पृशति स्म. Kula says निरायतो दीर्घः स्तनजघनाभ्यां करालितो मध्ये सावकाशीकृतो मध्यप्रदेशः.

70. K, MY and Kula read सानुनय for sānusaa = सानुशय (R). K says दयितस्य मुखे सानुनयम् अनुनयवचनैः सह द्रष्टव्ये. MY says स्वप्रसादपरे द्रष्टव्ये. Kula seems to say अनुनयवादान्विते.

K and MY translate virāa as विलीन (विशीर्ण R). R says अनुशयः पश्चात्तापः, तथा च सानुगयं द्रष्टव्ये वियोगेन रावणवधविलम्बेन च सक्रोधं द्रष्टव्यमित्यवधारिते तस्मिन् दयितस्य रामस्य मुखे. Latakana says इदं मुखं पुरा मया न प्रकाममवलोकितं न चुम्बितमित्यनुशयः पश्चात्तापः.

71. K reads संस्थापयितुं for samgoveum = संगोपयितुं (R and Kula).

K says मार्गति कांक्षति स्म MY says oaggia अभिभूत (K also).
R says संगोपयितुं संगमयितुम्. SC says यथास्थानं नेतुमित्यर्थ इति केचित्.

72. MY says आवेगेन स्तनाघातायोत्क्षिप्तं खेदागमावसीदपवृत्तम्.
Only the chayā of this verse appears in our copy of K. R says अपवृत्तं स्खलितम् (Kula also).

73 K reads उन्नमत् for onamanta (अवनमत्) found in R,
MY and Kula. K reads चन्द्र for छन्द (R and MY). K says मूढ-
हृदयया रामशिरः संमुखं द्रष्टुं कथमपि अशक्नुवत्या तथा पश्चात् तिर्यगुन्न-मति ततो निःसहे परवशे वदनचन्द्रे वलितालकया भूत्वा तद्विलोकितम्. R says निःसहं ... यद्वदनं तस्य छन्देन, वशेन वलिता वक्रीभूता अलका यस्या- स्तया । यथा यथा शिरोदर्शनाय मुखं तिर्यक्कृत्यावनतं क्रियते तथा तथा विक्रीर्णा अलका अपि तिर्यगवनमन्तीत्यर्थः. Kula is partly corrupt, but acc. to quotation in SC he reads छन्न (chamma) for छन्द — एवंभूतस्य वदनस्य छन्ना व्याजेन वलितालकया.

MY says त्र्यश्रमवनमतः निःसहस्य वदनस्य छन्देन आनुकूलेन.

MY reads na pārantī for acāantī (अशक्नुवत्या). This would require elimination of kaha metri c.

74. K and MY read शरीरे विमुक्त° for sarīrapadīmukka (R).
K and probably MY read °दुःखा for dukkham (R and Kula).

K reads विस्तीर्ण¹ for vvanṇa (R and Kula).

K says करमार्गः करतलप्रहारः तेनोत्थितैः शोणितैः विशेषेण छादितो- न्नतपयोधरा.

MY says रामं प्रत्यात्मनो हृदये यदुःखं तत् स्वदेहे करप्रहारादिना
मुञ्चन्तीति निजशरीरे विमुक्तेत्यादेरर्थः. K says निजशरीरे विमुक्तराघवदुःखा ।

पूर्वं निजदुःखं राघवदुःखं चोभयं राघवे निहितमभूत् । अदच तन्नाशभ्रान्त्या राघवगतं दुःखं स्वशरीरे करप्रहारादिना निहितवतीत्यर्थः (cf. k's gloss on verse 76) । अथवा राघवं प्रत्यात्मनो हृदये यत् दुःखं वर्तते तस्य नाशात् तदुःखं स्वशरीरे कृतवतीत्यर्थः. Kula reads to naa-sarīra-mukka°.

He says ततो निजकशरीरे स्तनघातादिना मुक्तं राघवदुःखं यस्यास्तत् तथा.

75. K and MY read दुःखानां for dukkhassa (R and Kula).

K says दुःखमापाते आगमसमय एव भयङ्करं भवति । दुःखानां निर्वहणं चिरमनुभवः न दारुणं शनैर्यामनीयमित्यर्थः । कुतः महिलाबीभत्सं महिलानां स्त्रीणां जुगुप्सनीयं यथा भवति तथा तवावसानं मया दृष्टं सीदं च यत् तस्मादिति.

MY says दुःखानां निर्वहणं निष्ठा आपातभयङ्करमात्रमेव, न पुनः स्वरूपतो दारुणम् । अथवा दुःखानां दारुणं निर्वहणमापातभयङ्करमेव न भवति प्रमुखेऽपि असह्यं न भवति । महिलाबीभत्सं महिलानां लोकगर्हितम् । अथवा महिलानां बीभत्सं यथा भवति तथा दृष्टं सीदं चेत्यर्थः. Kula says दुःखस्य निर्वहणं समापनं न दारुणं भवति प्राणान्तं न करोतीत्यर्थः. SC says आपाततो यथा भयं तथा परिणामे न भवतीत्यर्थः.

76. K reads मूर्च्छिष्यति (mucchihī) for mocchihimi (मोक्षयामि) found in R. K and MY read अर्पितं (appiam) for samthiam = संस्थितं (R and Kula) K reads निर्याप्यतां¹ for niyavijjau = निर्वाप्यतां (R). The first line of the verse is quoted in Prakrit in K's gloss on verse 74. K says गृहनिर्गमनात् प्रवृत्तं बाष्पोष्णम् अनवरतं गलता शोकतीव्रेण बाष्पेणोष्णं मम हृदये वर्तमानं यत् दुःखं मयि मूर्च्छिष्यतीति मत्वा तवोरसि त्वय्यर्पितं तदिदानीमेवंभूते त्वयि कस्मिन् निर्याप्यतां स्थाप्यतां शंस.

1 i e niyavijjau Hemacandra 4 40 gives java and jāve for यापयति

MY reads mocchihiz (मोक्ष्यते) and nijajjau (निर्यात्यतां). He says गृहनिर्गमनादारभ्य उष्णवाष्पवत् तवोरसि मोक्ष्यत इति यत् मम हृदये अर्पितं तत् दुःखं कस्मिन् निर्यात्यतां शंसेत्यन्वयः.

Kula seems to read niverjjau, and, like MY, mocchihiz.

He says यत् दुःखं गृहनिर्गमात् प्रभृति प्रवृत्तं तवोरसि क्रीडे बाष्पोष्णं मोक्ष्यत इति मम हृदये संस्थितं तत् कथय कस्मिन् निवेद्यताम् (?).

R says दुःखं बाष्पेणोष्णं सत् तवोरसि मोक्ष्यामि तवोरसि रुदित्वा त्यक्ष्यामि इति यन्मम हृदये संस्थितमवधारितम् etc.

77 K and MY read त्वमेवमसि मे दृष्टः (tam ea si mè dittho) for tam esa mae etc (R) MY has . मया दृष्ट . Kula reads तदेवममि मया दृष्टः.

78. K says त्वयि अर्तातेऽपि पृथिव्याः पतिः अन्यो भविष्यति । राजसोऽच बहुपुरुषवेशेषेषु राजपुरुषेषु चञ्चला भविष्यति । कथमिदं ममैव तावत् निःसामान्यमनन्यसाधारणं वैधव्यमुपस्थितम् । तव पृथिवी श्रीरहं च परिग्रहा । ते तु द्वे यथाकथंचित् भर्तृमृत्यौ भविष्यतः । ममैव कथमिदमसाधारणं वैधव्यं जातमिति.

MY says kaha ā (for tā) करमात् तावत् Kula's reading is same, but he says आ सतापे । ममैव एवं (इदं ?) कथं निःसामान्य वैधव्यमुपस्थितम्.

79. K says हे नाथ प्राप्तवैधव्यया मया तव मुखमेवंभूतं दृष्ट्वा प्रथमं किमेतदिति भ्रान्त्या प्रलपितं, ततो मोहापगमे सति विषममुन्मीलिताभ्यां लोचनाभ्यां च दृष्टम् । ततो विगलिनलज्जया मया तव मुखमिति निश्चित्य स्फुटं प्ररुदितं भवति । न पुनः स्नेहानुरूपो मरणाध्यवसायः कृतः. MY says प्रलापाद्येव कृतं न तु मरणमित्यर्थः. Kula says विषादोन्मीलिताभ्यां लोचनाभ्याम्. SC says विशदं विस्पष्टम्. R has both विषम and विशद for visaa.

80. K reads वृत्तम् for uttham (R) rendered as व्युषितम्. MY says uttham उषितम् । इदं सर्वं द्रष्टुं त्वामित्यभविष्यत् यदीदानीमपि जीवितं व्यगलिष्यत्. Kula has उषितम्. Ms. C of Goldschmidt also has uttham. K says एतत् सर्वं व्यसनं त्वां द्रष्टुमनुभूतमित्यभविष्यत् इदानीमपि मम जीवितं यदि व्यगलिष्यत् । तच्च न गलितम् । अतो लोको मामन्यथा ज्ञास्यतीति शेषः.

81 K says प्रसह्य मरणव्यवसायमात्रेण त्वयि परलोकगतेऽपि द्रष्टव्ये जति सति मम हृदयं हर्षस्थानेऽपि हर्षावसरेऽपि दह्यते । कुतः—अदृष्टरावण-वधत्वादिति.

82. K reads कथं यावच्चिन्त्यमानं¹ for navari a cintijante = अनन्तरं च चिन्त्यमाने (R). Kula is partly corrupt, but he has विचार्यमाणे, i.e. चिन्त्यमाने. SC Text has navaram (केवलं). K says एवं मरण-व्यवसायात् बाष्पप्रसरं मुखं न धारयति । बाष्पो न निर्गच्छतीत्यर्थः । यः कश्चित् आशाबन्धोऽपि मम हृदयं न रुणद्धि विनाशोन्मुखं हृदयं न निवारयति । जीवितं तावत् केन संरुद्धमिति चिन्त्यमानमपि न विज्ञायते.

MY says मुखं बाष्पं न रुणद्धि । आशाबन्धोऽपि न हृदयम् । जीवितं तु केन रुध्यते इति न ज्ञायते । बाष्पजीवितयोः निर्गमने पूर्वं प्रतिबन्ध-कद्वयं जातम् । अमङ्गलाशङ्कया चाशाबन्धरचेति । तयोः प्रथमाभावादिदानीं बाष्पस्तावत् निर्याति । न तु द्वितीयाभावेऽपि जीवितमित्यत्र किं निमित्तमिति न ज्ञायत इति भावः । त्वद्दर्शनप्रत्याशायामसत्यामपि केवलं रोदिमि न म्रिय इत्यर्थः.

SC says मुखं कर्तृ बाष्पं न धारयति सदा बाष्पो बहत्येवेत्यर्थः । आशाबन्धोऽपि मे हृदयं न रुणद्धि आशाबन्धं परित्यज्य हृदयं मरणमेव धावतीत्यर्थः. R says न धारयति न प्रतिबध्नाति.

1 i.e., kaha tā cintijantam. cf verse 105.

83 K says एवं त्वया निर्व्यूढं मयि वात्सल्यानुरूपं सर्वं कृतमित्यर्थः । अकृतज्ञं मम हृदयमदद्यापि ध्रियते अवतिष्ठते । धृङ् अवस्थान इति धातुः. MY has maranam pi tae (for de), i.e. मरणमपि त्वया. He seems to read kae for kaena (कृतेन), K and MY pratika has bolino for volino (R). See N. S. ed. and SC Text.

84. K says जनस्तावकान् गुणान् गणयित्वा बहुश आवर्त्य त्वां पुरुष-मयः पौरुषमय इति उद्ग्रहीष्यति प्रशंसिष्यति । गलितस्त्रीस्वभावां मां च संस्मृत्य मत्संबद्धां कथां निवर्तयिष्यति मद्गतं किञ्चिदपि गुणान्तरं न वक्ष्यति ग्रहीष्यतीत्यर्थः.

K pratika has uggāhī like R.

MY pratika has uggāhā like ms. C of Goldschmidt. He says उद्गृह्णाति उत्कीर्तयति । पुरुषमय इति पुरुषैकस्वभावः क्लैव्यादिरहित इत्यर्थः. Kula says त्वां जनः पुरुषमतिक इति पुरुषाभिमानवानिति¹ गातेन वर्णयिष्यति । (i. c. उद्गास्यति as construed by R) । पतिमरणेऽपि अमरणात् गलितम हिलास्वभावां मम कथां संस्मृत्य निवर्तिष्यते कथां संत्यक्ष्यतीति भावः. SC says पुरुषमयः पुरुषप्रकृतिक इति श्रीनिवासः.

85. K and Kula read पतितं (padram) for nihaam (R).

K (chāyā) has मुखनिकायं. K says दशकण्ठस्य मुखसमूहं तव बाणोत्खातपतितं द्रक्ष्यामीति कृता मनोरथा मम भागधेयेन विधिना वलिताः स्खलिता, विशेषेण पराङ्मुखा भूत्वा पर्यस्ता विपर्यस्ताः. तस्यैव आयुधेन तवेदृशी दशाजातेत्यर्थः. MY has daccham (द्रक्ष्यामि) for dacchimi. He says मम भागधेयैः पूर्वकृतकर्मभिः विपराङ्मुखा वलिताः विपर्यस्ता इति । विपर्यासः द्विषद्वेष्टेण तवैव वधो जात इति.

86. K reads मनः for jano (R and Kula). K, MY and Kula read प्रत्यक्षं तस्य for pecchantie a = पश्यन्त्याश्च (R) K says अल्पेऽपि विरहे जनस्य मनः स्निग्धं जनमुद्दिश्य प्रेमाबन्धेन यदुरितं शङ्कते तस्यैव शङ्कितस्य

1 Our copy has पुरुषातिमानं.

MY says तस्य विरहस्य तादृशं शङ्कितरूपं फलं ममैव केवलं प्रत्यक्षं जातम्. Kula says यत्....जनस्य जन आशङ्कते....तस्यानिष्टाशङ्कितस्य तत्तादृशमिदं प्रत्यक्षं फलं मम केवलं जातम्.

87. K and Kula read निस्थामान (nitthāman, cf. SC Text) for nipphandam (R). MY has निस्थेमानम् = विवशाम्. K says निस्थामानं निःशक्तिम्. Kula says निःस्थामानं निःसहाम्.

K remarks त्रिजटानामा विन्ध्यनोमो राक्षसाध्यक्षस्य धर्मशीला दुहिता.

88. K reads अपरिगणकः for avarigaho = अपरिगलितः (R). K and Kula read अपण्डिता for akhandiā (R). K reads जानाति for pecchai (R and Kula)

K says विषादस्तावत् अपरिगणकः । इदमेव संभवति न वेति न परिगणयिता परिगणयितुमक्षम इत्यर्थः । परिगणयतीति परिगणकः । मुग्धता नाम स्त्रीणामभिजात्यनिबन्धनो विवेकशून्यो भावविशेषः । मुग्धता अपण्डिता मौग्ध्यादेव स्वभावात् विवेकतुमनिपुणा भवति । प्रेम स्नेहः । तत् किञ्चिदपि न जानाति । प्रकृत्या मूढः एतैर्युक्तो युवतिस्वभावः तिमिरादपि दिनकरस्य भयं निरूपयतीति सामान्योक्तिः.

Kula says अपरिगलितः (अपरिगणितः ?) परिचारशून्य (विचारशून्यः ?) विषादः । अपण्डिता विवेकशून्या मुग्धता मोहाक्रान्ता चित्तवृत्तिः । प्रेम कर्तुं युक्तं न पश्यति युक्तं न चिन्तयतीत्यर्थः । युवतिस्वभावो मूढो निश्चयशून्यो यतः तिमिरादपि दिनकरस्य भयं चिन्तयति । रावणादपि राममरणमाशङ्कत इति भावः. MY reads apariganto (cf. Kula) mentioned by R as a variant. SC says परिगणना विचार इति यावत् । विषादे विचारो न स्यादित्यर्थः.

R explains the first line differently — अपरिगलितः पूर्णो विषादः, अक्षुण्णा मुग्धता, प्रम च त्रयमपि न प्रेक्षते । वस्तुविचारक्षमं न भवतीत्यर्थः.

89. K and MY pratika has tihuvana.

K reads परिमुक्त for padī° (R and Kula). K and Kula read निर्व्यूढधुरं for vūdha-vana-dhurm. (R). Kula reads विधुर i.e. vihura, cf. SC Text for visadha (विश्लथ K; विहय R) K says त्रिभुवनस्याधारभूतानि पञ्च महाभूतानि । तेषामप्याधारभूतत्वात् मूलाधार इत्युक्तम् । विश्लथेन श्रान्तेन महेन्द्रेण परिमुक्ता आत्मना निर्व्यूढा धूलिभुवनस्य रक्षामरो येन तं पतिमेवंभूतं.... जानानापि त्वं शेषपुरुषानुमानेन, अयमपि अन्य—पुरुषसाधारण इति बुद्धिरनुमानं, तेनानुमानेन किं तुल्यसि किमधःकरोषि । तन्न युक्तमित्यर्थः.

MY says शेषपुरुषानुमानेन पुरुषत्वादिना तस्यापि तादृशत्वमनुमायेत्यर्थः. Kula says.. निर्जितेन विधुरेण महेन्द्रेण प्रतिमुक्ता, निर्व्यूढा दैत्यान् निर्जित्य धारिता धूर्येन तं नारायणं पतिं जानती किं त्वं शेषपुरुषानुमानेन तुल्यसि इतर पुरुषमिव शत्रुच्छिन्नशिरसं संभावयसीति भावः.

90. K reads °पर्वता for mahīharā (R and Kula), and भिन्न for chūṇa (R and Kula).

K says रामस्य भिन्नपतितं शिरः धरणी परस्परमसंकीर्णसागरजला, उत्पातवातैरुत्क्षिप्ता नभसि स्थिताः पर्वताः यस्या न भवन्ति सा तथा, तैरेव वायुभिः अनुद्धततला भूत्वा धारयेदिति कथं त्वं प्रत्येषि प्रमाणयसि । तस्य शिरःपतने सति भूमिरेवमाकुला भवेत् । तदभावात् न सत्यमित्यर्थः.

MY says अनघः निरुपद्रवः । anuvvattaalā अनुदवृत्तला (K chāyā also). R says अनघा अविशीर्णाः स्थिता महीधरा यत्र. SC says अनुदवृत्तमविपर्यस्तं तलं यस्या एवंभूता धरणी.

91. K's gloss on this verse is incomplete in our copy. K (chāyā) has परिमर्श for padimāsa (प्रतिमर्ष = स्पर्श), and व्रुटित for modia = मोटित (R and Kula). K (comm.) only says रामेणाभिभूतत्वात् रावणस्य गृहोद्यानं मारुतोदयपरिभवं निच्छायम् इति. Kula remarks वातचन्द्रयोरपि रावणानभीष्टाचरणात् मृषैव राममरणमिति भावः.

92. The verse is not found in Kula.

K says बाष्पं च उन्मृश मार्जय. He takes sambharia as संस्मृत. R has संस्मृत्य. MY reads phusasu (मार्जय). He reads apaāseūna (अप्रकाश्य) for uaūheūna (उपगूह्य), and says आलिङ्गयेति केचित्. K has the latter reading

93. K, MY and Kula omit अ in airā a dacchihi (R). K and Kula have अचिरात् द्रक्ष्यसि They seem to read dacchihi like SC Text and ms. C of Goldschmidt. MY however reads damsihisi = द्रक्ष्यसि. K and kula have pandara for pandura (R).

K says अवतारितचापत्वात् न्यस्तचापत्वात् निवृतम्. MY says अवरोपितं ज्येति यावत्.

94. K, MY and Kula pratika has pattha for pattihi (R). K says प्रतीहि विश्वसिहि प्रमाणीकुरु.

MY and Kula read कचग्रहावधुतं (kaa-ggahodhuam) for kaa-ggahuggam = कचग्रहीद्गतं (R). K (chayā) has वधूतं. K (comm) says राक्षसकृतेन कचंग्रहेण विधूतम्. R says हरेणाप्यप्रार्थनीयो वक्तुमप्यशक्यः कण्ठच्छेदो यस्य तत्, and quotes 'प्रार्थितः शत्रुसंरुद्धे याचितेऽभिहितेऽपि च.' SC says अप्रार्थनीयोऽसंभावनीयः.

95. K and MY read च for ti (R and Kula) They read भङ्गोत्पातं for bhamgupphālām (R and Kula), and प्रविद्ध (paviddha as stated by MY) for आविद्ध (R), explained as पातित. Kula reads प्रविद्ध. K says दशवदनस्य दर्पभङ्गार्थमुत्पातभूतम्. MY says भङ्गोत्पातं भङ्गसूचकमुत्पातम्.

MY reads samūsasīavve for samā° as he says समुच्छ्वसितव्ये समुच्छ्वासे हर्षे कर्तव्ये. R says समाश्वसितव्ये हर्षस्थाने. Kula is corrupt, but SC which reproduces him says रामाज्ञितिकरेण प्लवगेन हनूमता प्रविद्धा भग्नाः

पर्यासिता द्रुमा यत्र तत् प्रमदवनं दशवदनस्य दर्पभङ्गोत्फालं भज्यमानेन दर्पेण कृतभङ्गविक्षेपमिव पश्यन्ती किं मुह्यसि । यस्यैकस्य किंकरस्य एवंविधो विक्रमस्तस्य सुग्रीवविभीषणादिपुरःसरस्य कथं मोहादेवविधं मरणं प्रत्येषीति भावः.
R says दशवदनस्य यो दर्पभङ्गस्तदुत्फालं ततसूचकं प्रमदवनम्.

96 K says भुवनमिदं यस्य भुजव्यवष्टम्भं भुजाधारं तिष्ठति तेन रामेण विनाभूतं, निहतोत्खातस्वर्गं, दृष्टै राक्षससमूहैः पर्यस्यमानं परितो ध्वस्यमानं भूत्वा क्षणमपि कथमवतिष्ठते. K (chāyā) and MY take nihāa (निघात R) as निकाय (समूहेति यावत् MY). Kula says भुवनं यस्य भुजविधृतम्. MY says यस्य भुजापाश्रयमिदम्. SC says निघातेन समूहेन.

97. K and Kula read आगम for gaa (R), and निषण्ण (K chāyā) for visanṇa (R).

K says मूर्च्छागमेन पतितविह्वलनिलीनाङ्गी त्वं तथा मोहं गतासि । कथमिति चेत्, इदं सर्वं राक्षसमायेति स्फुटमेव जानती अहमपि यथा विषण्णा तथेति. Kula says मूर्च्छागमेन पतितानि निःसह—निषण्णानि अङ्गानि यस्याः सा. SC says निःसहानि करणव्यापारशून्यान्यङ्गानि यस्या इति लोकनाथः.

98. K reads पुरे (i.e. purae) for purao (R and Kula) = पुरतः.

MY also says मिलितानां निशाचराणां पुरतः, but he remarks nisāara-purae इति वा पाठः । तदा प्राप्तनिशाचरनगरे निशाचरनगरं प्राप्ते इत्यर्थः.

K says इतः पूर्वमादित्यादिभिरपि अनवगाढं निशाचरपुरं लङ्का येन मिलिता अवगाढा तस्मिन्, सुवेलमलययोरन्तराले समुद्रे निर्मितसेतुपथे, पीडितानि लङ्काधिष्ठानभूतानि त्रिकूटशिखराणि येन तस्मिन् राघवेऽद्यापि तव किमग्रहणं किमविश्वासो भवति. MY says aggahanam अप्रत्ययः अनिश्चयः. Kula says प्रेरितमाक्रान्तं शिखरं येन तस्मिन्. He takes अग्रहण as अनादर like R : राघवे किं तवादद्यापि अग्रहणमनादरो येनेदं सत्यमेव मन्यस इति भावः.

99. The verse is not found in K, MY and Kula.

100. K and MY read jīva-vimuhijjantī for jīva-mu⁰ (R). Kula says गतापनिवर्तमानेन जीवितेन विमुह्यमाना हतचैतन्या. His reading might be same as that of K and MY. His gloss on the verse is mutilated, and that on the next three verses is missing in our copy.

K says ततो गतापनिवर्तमानेन मुहुर्गच्छता मुहुर्निवर्तमानेन जीवेन विमुह्यन्ती, अत एव अगृहीतत्रिजटावाक्योपदेशा जनकसुता त्रिजटायाः सखीसद-भावस्य सख्यास्तस्याः सदभावस्य सदशमुरसि निषण्णाभूत्.

MY says सखीसद्भावः सखीस्वभावः.

101. K reads वेल्लन for pellana (R). K (chāyā) has उद्गमं for uggaam(R), but K comm. has अग्रं, i e. aggaam.

K says त्रिजटाया वक्षसि तिर्यक् निषण्णायाः तस्याः पूर्वं लोचनान्तराल-लग्नं बाष्पजलं कपोलवेल्लनेन कपोले परिवर्तनेन¹ पीड्यमानं तत्र पतितमलकाग्रं यथा भवति तथा गलितम्. R says कपोलेन यत् प्रेरणं तेन पीड्यमानाल्लेभ्य उद्रतं निःसृतं (बाष्पजलम्). MY says लोचनव्यतिकरवशं सखीदृष्टिसंमिश्रण-जनितमित्यर्थः. SC says लोचनयोर्व्यतिकरेण सपर्केण लग्नमिति कुलनाथः.

102. K reads वेणीमुखी (i.e. venī-muhā) for venī-muha (R), and स्फुट for ugghutṭha (R), i e. probably⁰ pphuda-mahī⁰.

K says पुनरपि अतर्कितोदितसंज्ञा, उरसि धूर्णमानवेणीमुखा, स्तनलग्नबहुभूमिरजस्का सीता विलपितुं प्रवृत्ता.

MY says सखीवक्षासः अतर्कितोत्थिता समुच्छ्रवसिता च. He reads upphutṭha = उन्मृष्ट for ugghutṭha, and remarks उन्मार्जनमपि रजसो वेणीमुखेनेत्यवसेयम्. of R who says उरसि धूर्णमानेन वेणीमुखेनोद्घृष्टमुत्-प्रोञ्छितं स्तनलग्नं महीरजो यस्याः.

1 Our copy has परिवर्तमानेन The Trivandrum ms. has also this reading.

103 K reads वदनं यदेव . तदेव for sāhasu ja ccia...sa ccia (R) MY's reading is the same as his pratika is vaanam like K's.

K says प्रथमं यदेवेदं वदनं दृष्ट्वाहं मद्यां पतिता, मोहादुन्मीलिता मोहापगमादुन्मीलितनयना पुनः तदेवेदं पश्यामि स्वस्था भूत्वा पश्यामि, इदानीं (च) जीवितं धारयामि । अहो कष्टम्.

MY says मोहादुन्मीलिता मोहं विहाय लब्धसंज्ञेत्यर्थः । प्रथमं मूर्छापि तवदासीत् इदानीं सापि गतेति सा हृदयमुपालभते स्म,

R says शाधि कथय । इदं रामशिरो दृष्ट्वा प्रथमं यैवाहं मद्या निषण्णा मूर्च्छितास्मीत्यर्थः, सैवाहं मोहे सति उन्मीलिता पुनः प्रातश्चैतन्या सती एतत् शिरः पश्यामि etc.

104. MY says वचनीयहतं रामात्ययेऽपि जानकी जीवति इत्यनेन परिवादेन हतमपीत्यर्थः.

105. K reads चिन्त्यमानं (cintijantam) for cintia-sulaham (R, MY and Kula), which is mentioned by him as a variant

MY says Kaha ā (for tā) कस्मात् तावत् । चिन्तितसुलभमित्यत्र अपिगद्दो व्याहर्तव्यः. K says मम तावत् चिन्त्यमानं मरणं महिलानां स्त्रीणां समुचितं कथं न संपतति.

106 K and MY read दृष्ट for sittha (शिष्ट) found in R who says शिष्टे कथिते सति. Kula also has कथित.

K says हे राघव इतः प्रतिनिवृत्तेन पवनयुतेन दृष्टत्वात् त्वरितम् इह मम जीवितमवलम्बितुम् आगच्छतः तव जीवितं विरहव्यथया लघुभूतमपि जीवन्त्या मया हतमभूत्.

MY says पवनयुतेन मरणाय त्वरिततया दृष्टं मम जीवितमवलम्बितुमागच्छतस्तव मद्विरहदुःखक्रिष्टमपि जीवितं प्रत्युत जीवन्त्या मया हतमित्यर्थः. R says विरहेण लघुकमपि गत्वरमपि मम जीवितमवलम्बितुं रक्षितुमिहागच्छतस्तव जीवितं जीवन्त्या मया हतम्.

107. MY reads जीवित for jampa (R and K)

He says मोहप्रातहृदया ईषज्जीवितनिःसहं गतप्रायजीविततया परवशा
यश्चा स्यात् तथा पुनरपि विसंज्ञा जातेत्यर्थः. K (chayā) has दरजल्पित-
निःसहं. K says लम्बैरलकैरन्धकारितमुखी, संमुखं पुरोभागमागतेन पुनः कण्ठे
परिवृत्तेन वेणीबन्धेन युक्ता सा मोहगृहीतहृदया भूत्वा दरविलपितविह्वलं यथा
पुनरपि निषण्णा. The verse is not found in our copy of Kula.

108. K and MY read शिथिल for phudia = स्फुटित (R and Kula). They read उन्नत for uggaa (R and Kula ?). They and Kula read प्रत्यास्तरणे for palhattharane (प्रयास्तरणे) found in R.

K says ततो मूर्च्छिता सा शिथिलस्य लिङ्गिष्ठस्य वेणीबन्धन(स्य)
संबन्धिनः भङ्गवदुन्नताः तरङ्गवदुन्नताः विषमाः केशा एव प्रत्यास्तरणं शयनं यत्र तस्मिन् महीतलोत्सङ्गे रामोरःस्थलशयने निराशहृदया पपात. MY says *paccattharane*¹ प्रत्यास्तरणे । शिथिलस्य वेणीबन्धस्य भङ्गेन कुटिलतया क्वचित् । क्वचिदुन्नतः अतएव विषमः केश एव प्रत्यास्तरणं यत्र तद्भूतलं तथा तस्मिन्
निपतितेत्यर्थः.

Kula says स्फुटितं विशिष्टं यत् वेणीबन्धनम्. R says वेण्या बन्धनस्य बन्धनपाशस्य भङ्गेनापगमेन उद्गताः प्रसृताः अत एव विषमा व्यस्ता ये केशाः etc. SC says भङ्गेन कौटिल्येनोद्गताः.

109. K and Kula read केवलं for kaha vi = कथमपि (R). K says
स्तनप्रहारैः ताम्राविह्वलेन नवपल्लवेनेव तस्या हस्तेन बाष्पविह्वलायाः तस्या हस्तेन
बाष्परजोदूषितं मुखं परिमार्ष्टुं न पारितं, केवलमेकत्र कपोले मिलितालकं कृतम्.

110. K reads मिलिता for mlham (R and Kula).

K says राघवमुखस्याभिमुखं प्रसृतापि बाष्पविह्वला तस्या दृष्टिः यदा
रूपं न गृह्णाति स्म, तदा कथं कथमपि मुखम् उभयकरोन्मृष्टलोचनबाष्पं कृतम्.
MY says तया तदिदृक्षारभसेन लोचनयुगलं करयुगलेन प्रमृष्टमित्यर्थः.

1 Ms c of Goldschmidt has this reading

R says संमुखमिलितमपि रूपं घटादिस्वरूपं यदा न गृह्णाति.

111. K and Kula read प्रविद्ध for painna = प्रकीर्ण (R) K and MY read रजोनिकरच्छन्ने for ṇisārocchunna = निशाचरावक्षुण्ण (R). K reads प्रलुठत् (palottantam) for (paholantam) = प्रघूर्णमानम् (R and Kula). MY's reading is same as K's

K says ततो भ्रमता मारुतेन विषमविक्षिप्तैरलकैः उन्मृष्टवाष्पजला सा रजोनिकरच्छन्ने पांसुनिवहेन छन्ने महीतले प्रलुठत् राघवमुखं पश्यति स्म. MY says raa-ṇara-cchanṇa-mahi-ala-palottantam रजोनिकरच्छन्ने महीतले प्रस्फुरत् रामशिरः.

Kula says राघववदनं (निशाचरैः ?) छिन्नं महीतले प्रघूर्णमानम्. He reads occhunṇa for occhunna (अवक्षुण्ण). SC says तत्कालच्छिन्नमिव विचेष्टमानम्.

112 K says तस्या दृष्टिर्दर्शनक्रिया वाष्पेण धाव्यते क्षाल्यते स्म विशदीकृता (MY also) । न पुनर्वाष्पप्रसरेण रुध्यते स्म । वाष्पश्च प्रवहत्येव । दृष्टिश्च रामवदनमेव पश्यति स्म.

MY says दृष्टिः दर्शनक्रिया तारका वा. SC says अत्र नयनं तारका, दृष्टिः नेत्रमिति श्रीनिवासः. K says अभ्यधिकोन्मीलितनिश्चलस्थितनयनसन्निवेशा, रामशिरसि बद्धलक्षा तस्या दृष्टिः.

113. K reads निर्भरनयनं for ṇisāraccham = निःसाराक्षम् (R) and Kula), and विलोकितं (pulaṇam) for vihasiam (R and Kula) K says तत् रामवदनं चिरं दृष्ट्वा ततः पुनः मरणैकरसया मरणैकरागया मरणैकनिश्चयया, त्रिजटागतनयना तथा मरिष्यन्तीं माम् आपृच्छस्व आभाषस्व इत्युक्ता वाष्पनिर्भरनयनं दीनं विलोकितं दर्शनं कृतम्. MY says āvucchasu आपृच्छस्व । आप्रश्नश्च प्रस्थातुकामस्य जनस्य संभाषणादिरिति. Kula reads आपृच्छ इति i.e. āuchāmi tti (cf. SC Text) for āvucchasu mam ti (आपृच्छस्व

मामिति), Kula's gloss is corrupt, but SC says आपृच्छे मरणोदयमेऽनुज्ञां गृह्णामीति कृत्वा, R says मामापृच्छस्व संवद मरणकृतोदयमां मामनुजानीहि.

114 K and MY read हस for sahasu = सहस्व (R and Kula). MY says दारुणे क्रूरे हृदये मया प्रतीष्टे वैधव्ये, hasasu हस, ममेदं निर्लेज्जं मरणं हसेति प्ररुदितेत्यन्वयः. K says प्रतीष्टे गृहीते. Kula says हे दारुणं हृदय मम निर्लेज्जं मरणमिदं सहस्व अनुभवेति प्ररुदिता.

115. K and Kula read अपि (vi) for a = च (R). K reads मानोन्नतजातेरयमवमानः for na uno etc. (R). MY's reading seems to be same as that of K except for a difference in construction (see below).

K and MY read अपमृष्ट इति (opusio tti) for anuserisam ti = अनुसदृशमिति (R). K and Kula read युगलं for °alasam = कलसम् (R).

K says सर्वस्यापि स्त्रीजनस्य एषैव गतिः । यदुत वैधव्यम् । किंतु मानोन्नताया जातेः क्षत्रियस्त्रीजातेरयमवमानः¹ अपमृष्टः² । पतिमरणं सोढ्वा पश्चात् स्वबुद्ध्या मरणं वैधव्यावलम्बनं वा अवमानः । स क्षत्रियस्त्रीभिः अपमृष्ट एव परिहृत एवेति भणन्ती हा हतास्म्यहमिति स्थिरं स्तनयुगलमाहत्य पतिता । opusia tti टाबन्तपाठे तु मानोन्नतजातेः पतिमरणात् पश्चात् मरणं वैधव्यं वा अवमान एव । अहमित्यध्याहार्यम् । अहमपमृष्टास्मि सर्वैः परिभूतास्मीति व्याख्येयम्. R says स्थिरं पतिता भूमावित्यर्थात्.

MY says सर्वोऽप्यविशेषादन्ततो प्रियत एव । तथा मानोन्नतया जात्या अयमस्मासु आपतितः पतिव्यसनेऽपि हृदयास्फुटनात्मकोऽवमानः अपमृष्टः परिहृत एव इतः पूर्वम् । तथा च स्त्रीषु मयि एवायमपूर्वः अवमानो जात इति भणन्तीत्यर्थः । टाबन्तपाठे तु मानोन्नतजात्याः (?) मानोन्नतानां स्त्रीणां पतिमरणं सोढ्वापि पश्चात् स्वबुद्ध्या मरणमवमान एव तथा च अपमृष्टास्मि देवा-

¹ K seems to read mānupnaa-jāie aamavamāno.

² Chāyā has अव.

दहं तथाविधतयापि नष्टारमीति भणन्तीति व्याख्येयम्. MY mentions the Prakrit reading, but our copy is here corrupt.

R reads na uno mānunnaāna imamavasānam He says सर्वस्य एषा गतिः । ... मानोन्नतानां पुनरिदमवसानम् एवंरूपेण मरणं नानुसदृशं न योग्यम्. Kula is mostly corrupt, but SC seems to follow him. He reads mānunnaa nāha tuha imam avasānam, anasarisam ti, i.e. (हे) मानोन्नत नाथ तव इदमवसानम् असदृशमिति.

116. K and Kula omit vi (अपि) after vilavantia (R). They seem to read vilavantie. K puts सीतया before प्रियेति.

117. K reads शीर्षे सा उरसि च (sīsammī sā urammī a) for aṅgammī sā parammī va (R and Kula).

K says शिरसि उरसि च प्रहारं न ददौ । बाष्पं न मुञ्चति स्म । रुणद्धि निर्गच्छन्तं बाष्पं रुरोध.

MY says marlavve मर्तव्ये मरणे लब्धप्रत्ययं लब्धनिश्चयम्.

118. K reads परिवर्तमान for amattanta = अनिवर्तमान (R and Kula). He reads विषमालीनां (visamallinām ?) for visamoṇnam = विषमवनताम् (R). SC Text has visamoallam rendered as विषमोत्कम्पाम् in the chāyā. This is also the reading of ms. C of Goldschmidt and of Kula who has दारुणकम्पा. See below. Deśināmamālā 1.165 gives कम्प and पर्यस्त among the meanings of oalla. See also Notes on 13.43 where oalla is explained as अवनत by Kula. This agrees with R's explanation of oanna.

R says धुताग्राभ्यां करतलाभ्यां किञ्चित् पतितं सत् प्रतीष्टमवलम्बितं यदङ्गं तेन विषमं व्यस्तं यथा स्यात् तथावनतां etc.

K says ततो मरणस्य निमित्ते उदबन्धनादौ परिवर्तमानहृदयां परिभ्रमन्मानसां त्रिजटा धुताभ्याम् अग्रकरतलाभ्यां दरपतितावस्थायां प्रतीष्टैः गृहीतैरङ्गैः

विषममालीनामङ्गे निलीनां तां वक्तुं प्रवृत्ता. MY says धुताग्रकरतलाम् ईषत्-
पतितां त्रिजटया प्रतीष्टाङ्गविषमावलम्बनां त्रिजटया पतनदशायामेव प्रतीष्टदेहा-
मीत्यर्थः. Kula says धुताग्रकरतला चासौ दरपतितप्रतीष्टेषु अङ्गेषु विषमावचला
दारुणकम्पा चेति ताम्.¹

119. K and MY pratika has jāṇasu (जानीहि) for jāṇai =
जानकि (R and Kula).

K, MY and Kula put this verse after 121.

120. K and Kula pratika has kūṃ va for kumu (R). K says
किमिव, Kula कि वा, MY pratika has kiva. The readings of K, Kula and MY require jāntīa metri c. for jī ° (R).

K says राघवस्य मरणं यद्यलीकं न भवेत् मृत्यं यदि भवेत् तदा
जोवन्त्या त्वया किं प्रयोजनं तदा मरणमेव श्रेय इत्यर्थः । रघुनाथे पुनरनघे
क्लेशरहिते सति तव मरणेन विधुरं पीडितं मे मनः क्लाम्यति.

121. K and MY have शक्यते, and Kula पार्यते for labbhāi = लभ्यते (R). Their reading is tīrāi found in SC Text and ms. C of Goldschmidt. kīrāi mentioned by MY seems to be a mistake for īrāi. Kula reads sambhāvanā for saṃsthā° (संस्थापना).

K says यथा संभावयसि यथा त्वं मन्यसे तथा तत् चिन्तयितुमपि न
शक्यते । तथेदं यदि भवेत् तत इदानीं जन इव प्राकृतजने यथा तथा त्वयि मम
संस्थापना समाश्वासना किमनुरूपा.

Kula says किं जन इव त्वयि संभावना ममानुरूपा । मृतपतिकाया-
स्तवानुमरणं किं वारयामोति भावः. He says चिन्तयितुमपि न पार्यते किं पुन-
रवधारयितुमिति भावः । यथा संभावयसि तथेदं यद्यभविष्यत्. R says न
युज्यते.

122. K reads स्फुट for सम (R, MY and Kula ?).

1 This explanation is anonymously reproduced in SC which has विषमावगला.

K reads अनघराक्षसो रामवधः for anaha-rakkhasam rahu-vadanam = अनघराक्षसं रघुपतनम् found in R.

K says निशाचरपुरी सर्वा गृहपरिपाटिषु गृहपंक्तिषु स्फुटनिर्होदिरोदन-शब्दा परिस्फुटगम्भीररुदितशब्दा एकेनैव कपिना कृता. R says निर्हूदितः शब्दान्तरोत्पादी रुदितरवः. MY says निर्गतेति केचित्.

Kula says कथं भविष्यति अनघराक्षसं 'रामवधं' i.e. he reads anaha-rakkhasam rāma-vaham found in SC Text. He remarks वधशब्दश्च प्राकृते नपुंसकलिङ्गोऽपि दृश्यते. K says एवंविधबहुसहस्रवानरपरिवारस्य रामस्य वधः कथमनघराक्षसो भविष्यति । तस्य वधे प्रस्तुते राक्षसानां कथं बाधा न भवेत्.

123. K and Kula read na hammar for nihammaï (निहन्यते) found in R who mentions the other reading as a variant.

K says त्वया शङ्किततमं नास्ति, रामो न हन्यते । प्रतीहि विश्वसिहि. MY says नास्तीति एतदिति शेषः. Kula says न भवत्येव तदित्यर्थः । तदेव द्रढयति, न हन्यते राम इति.

124. K and Kula read युगलं for vatṭham = पृष्ठम् (R). K and MY read स्वप्नेऽपि for saune = शकुने (R and Kula). They read sunā for sunasu MY says sunā शृणु मयोच्यमानमिति शेषः । sivine vi स्वप्नेऽपि. Lokanātha quoted by SC explains न वर्तते (na vatṭa) as अनुचित. Kula says शकुने मङ्गले.

125. K reads अन्येनापि केन कृतः for kena va annena kao = केन वान्येन कृतः (R and Kula). K says रघुनाथं मुक्त्वा अपहाय दशवदनः केनान्येन लज्जया आगतैः स्वेदबिन्दुभिः चीयमानमुखः पूर्यमाणमुखः, प्राकारेणान्तरितो व्यवहितः प्राकारान्तरालवर्ती निष्प्रभश्च कृतः । इतः पूर्वमन्येनापि केनैव कृतो रावणः.

MY has lajjāaa for lajjāgaa (लज्जागत). He says lajjāama इति पाठे लज्जागमात् etc. This reading is found in Kula who also says स्वैद्विन्दुकीर्यमाणमुखः (cf. K and SC), i.e., °bindu-ljjanta° for bindu-jjanta = बिन्दूयमान (R). Kula says प्राकारान्तरिते प्राकारबहिर्देशे निष्प्रभः. SC says प्राकाराद् बहिः प्रतापशून्य इत्यर्थः.

126. K and Kula read रघुपतिः for-suo (R). K reads मोचित (moīa) for muulia = मुकुलित (?) R, मृदूकृत Kula. K and MY read आक्षिप्त for ukkhutta = उत्क्षिप्त (R and Kula).

MY reads moīhu = मोचयिष्यति for mocchuhi (R) = मोक्ष्यति.

The reading of K and Kula is not clear, but they also say मोक्ष्यति. SC Text has mocchuhi.

MY says केशाग्रस्पर्शरसजनितवेपथुभिरङ्गुलिभिः आक्षिप्ताः समाकृष्टाः व्याकुलीभवन्तश्च विषमभागा यथा स्युस्तथा । मोचनदशायां वेण्या विशेषणमेतत्. MY seems to read vevia for vevanta = वेपमान (R, K and Kula).

K says अचिरात् रावणे हते रघुपतिस्ते वेणीं मोक्ष्यति चोद्वेष्टयति च । कथंभूताम् — स्पर्शसंभवेन स्वेदेन आर्द्राभवता हस्ताग्रेण मोचितकेशां, स्पर्शरसात् वेपमानाभिरङ्गुलिभिः आक्षिप्ता आकृष्टा गुप्यन्तो व्याकुलीभवन्तः विषमभागा यथा भवन्ति तथा भूतां मोक्ष्यति. R says वेपमानाभिरङ्गुलिभिरुत्क्षिप्ताः समीकृता विषमभागा यस्याः । प्रोषितो भर्ता समागत्य प्राक्कृतं विरहिण्या वेणीबन्धं मोचयतीति भावः.

127. K, MY and Kula read अपि (vi) for अ (R) in the second line. K and MY read प्रतापे for sahāve = स्वभावे (R and Kula).

MY says ea karantassa एवं कुर्वतः (K and Kula also) । tume त्वयि त्वया वा । जीवत्यपि रामे लज्जां विहाय छलमेवं कुर्वतो रावणस्य प्रभावे परिवृत्ते तथा दूये न तथा त्वयि एवमवस्थायामपीत्यर्थः. Kula says न तथा त्वयापि¹ दुःस्थितया. K says विगलितलज्जत्वात् लघु अतिक्षुद्रमेवं कुर्वतः.

1 Our copy has तथापि.

128 K, MY and Kula read मलय for valaa = वलय (R).

K says कक्षान्तरे रावणं प्रक्षिप्य चतुःसमुद्रेषु सान्ध्योपास्ति कृतवतो वालिनो वधे दृष्टसारम् । रोधिती वानरैरुपरोधिती लङ्कामलयाख्यः शैलो येन तत्तथाभूतं राघवस्य भुजबलं त्वं मा लघु पश्य. MY says आरूढलङ्कामलयाख्य-शैलम्.

MY has *galatthalia*¹ = नुन्न for galatthia (R). K says वाणविलो-
लितेन समुद्रेण दत्तसेतुपथम्. Kula says वाणपीडितसमुद्रदत्तस्थलपथम् ।
रोधितौ व्याप्तौ वा लङ्कामलयौ येन तत्. SC has रोधितौ गतागतैराक्रमितौ वा
व्याप्तौ वा.

129 K pratika has diṭṭhā tuvaṃ. K reads स्कन्धस्थित for khandhutṭhia = स्कन्धोत्थित (R) K says स्वप्ने त्वं मयैवं दृष्टा । कथम्—शशि-
सूर्यलेहनेन शोभितोन्मुखप्रतिमा । अयमर्थः—सुरगजस्कन्धस्थिता त्वम् आसन्न-
गतं शशिमण्डलं सूर्यमण्डलं च कौतुकात् विलोकितवती । तदा तयोर्मण्डलयोरा-
लेहनेन अवगाहनेन शोभितमुन्मुखमभिमुखं प्रतिविम्बं यस्याः सा तथा । सुरगज-स्कन्धस्थितत्वात् तदीयकर्णतालेन कर्णचलनेन विधुतोत्तरीयपटार्धान्ता. It will be seen that K reads पट for dasā (R and Kula)

MY says दृष्टासि च मे मया, i. e., a me for mae = मया (R and Kula). K seems to read diṭṭhā tuvaṃ a.

MY is somewhat corrupt here. He seems to say sasi-sūrā-lihana... तयोरुपजातप्रतिविम्बेत्यर्थः । आलेहनं² स्पर्शनम्.³

MY reads khandha-tṭhia like K, but he construes it as khandha+atṭhia (cf 135) He says स्कन्धे आस्थितस्य अधिष्ठितस्य सुरगज-

1 MY's reading is against metre Perhaps he reads sara for वाण.

2 Our copy has आहेन.

3 ālihana comes from ālīha = स्पृष्टि. See Hemacandra 4 182 Cf sasi-kīrālihana-kabburo viṃṣha-selo vva (Lilāvai, 456) where, however, the chāyā takes ālihana as आलिखन.

स्येत्यर्थः. Kula also says स्कन्धास्थितस्य आरूढस्कन्धस्य सुरगजस्य कर्ण-तालेन विधूतः कम्पितो धवलांशुकस्य दशैकदेशो यस्याः सा तथा.

R says शशिसूर्ययोरालिहनेन मिलनेन शोभिता उन्मुखी प्रतिमा
आकृतिर्यस्याः सा. Kula explains प्रतिमा as प्रतिकृति. SC says शशिसूर्ययोः
आलेहनेन संपर्केण शोभितोन्मुखी हर्षादुन्नतमुखी प्रतिमा प्रतिकृतिः यस्याः सा
तथा चन्द्रसूर्यप्रतिबिम्बितेत्यर्थः.

130. K reads मुखर for khahia = स्खलित (R chāyā). K (chāyā) has दरघटितोद्धटितमुखरमुखसंघातः.

K says दशमुखश्च मया स्वप्ने (दृष्टः) । कालेन दृढेन पाशेन कृष्टत्वात्
दरघटितविघटितमुखरमुखसमूहः । दशानां मुखानां परिपाट्यां पङ्क्त्यां विकट-
कर्षणमार्गो दशधा प्रकटितकर्षणपथः.

MY says मे मया ।घटितोद्धटित । उद्धटितमुत्क्षेपात् विघटनम्.
He reads vihala (विह्वल) for khahia.

Kula reads उत्खण्डित, i. e. ukkhudā (cf. SC Text and Hema-candra 1.53) for ugghadā = उद्धटित. He says कालस्य यमस्य पाशेन
कृष्टो दरघटितः किञ्चित् भग्नश्च उत्खण्डितश्च मुखसंघातो यस्य स तथा.

SC Text has padā for khahia like Ms. C of Goldschmidt. R
(com.) follows this reading – पतितो भूमावित्यर्थात् मुखसंघातो यस्य.

131. K reads तावत् for jāva = यावत् (R, MY and Kula). MY says यावत् साकल्येनेत्यर्थः । ohirā-nippalā (for ava°) त्वयानादृतत्वे विनिष्फला वैमनस्याख्यफलरहिता निवर्ततां माया.

Kula says यावदिदं सर्वमेतत् अमङ्गलं संप्रति नश्यतु.

132. The verse is not found in our copy of Kula. K and MY read करतलस्पर्शम् for kara-ppharisa-suham (R).

K says एतदवस्थमपि छिन्नमपि । करतलस्पर्शमास्वाद्य, MY has आसाद्य.

133. K says अन्यमयम् अन्यप्रकारम् अधिकतरम्. MY reads sambharia-mukka-kanthā He says sambharia संस्मारित । संकीर्तनेन प्रेय स्मारिता मुक्तकण्ठा प्रलपन्तीत्यर्थः । संस्मृत्येति ल्यवन्तमिति केचित्. K, Kula and R take sambharia (संस्मृत्य) separately and read °kantham.

134 K and MY read निश्रुतः for na suo=न श्रुतः (R and Kula). K reads विभात for pahāa=प्रभात (R and Kula).

K says ततस्त्रिजटावचनैरपि यावत् न संस्थिता न समाश्वस्ता (निश्चिता MY) तावत् तथा प्लवगानां कलकलः नितरां श्रुतः.

MY says *nisuo*¹ निश्रुतः cf निपाति (Rg veda 1 73 2)=नितरां पालयति Sayana.

Kula pratika has tā (तावत्) for to (ततः). He says तावत् त्रिजटावचनैरपि (न) संस्थिता यावत् तथा प्लवगकलकलः रणसंनाहगभीरो न श्रुतो राघवस्य प्रभातमङ्गलपटह इव.

135 K pratika has i₂ (इति) for aha (R). MY has ia. K reads उच्छ्वसितं (ūsasiam) for ni° (R).

K says एव बहुविधैः संस्थापनैराश्वासनैः प्रत्यानीयमानः पुनरानीयमानः जीविते आशाबन्धः यथा भवति तथा तथा गतशोकत्वात् विषममधिकं च दूरोन्नमितस्तनभरं च उच्छ्वसितम् उच्छ्वासो विमुक्तः. MY says विषमं पूर्वाभ्यधिकम्. The verse is not found in our copy of Kula R says गतेन शोकेन विषदमानन्दजत्वादानुष्णम्. SC says विशदं स्पष्टम्. K and MY seem to read visama for visaa.

136. K and Kula read विगलित for vihaḍiā=विघटित (R Text and chāyā). R comm. has विगलित. K and MY read संगलति for samghadaï=संघटते (R). Acc. to Hemacandra 4.113 samgalaï is an alternative form of samghadaï.

1 The word is frequently used along with cognate forms in Kōuhala's Lilāvaj (ed. Upadhye, 1949). See the word index.

K (chāyā) has पुनरुक्तसत्यापितविश्वस्ते. He says तत आश्वासित-त्वात् सुखिते, पुनरुक्तदृष्टविश्वासे, विगलितवैधव्यभये तस्या हृदये पुनरपि विरहदुःखं संगलति स्म । वैधव्यसंभ्रमादपक्रान्तं विरहदुःखं प्रकृतिस्थे हृदये पुनरपि प्रविष्टम्.

MĀY says कपिकलकलेन पुनरुक्तसत्यापिते विश्वस्ते तस्या हृदये पुनरपि विरहदुःखं समगलत् समापतदित्यर्थः. SC says पुनरुक्तमतिशयितं दृष्टे-विश्रम्भे निश्चितविश्वस्त इति केचित्. SC Text reads samgalaï like K and MĀY. Kula is corrupt, but quotation in SC has तस्या हृदये पुनरपि संमिलति विरहदुःखम्. As SC Text often preserves Kula's readings his reading might be samgalaï rendered as संमिलति.

137. MĀY says सहजस्नेहात् संस्तवजाताच्च अनुरागात् त्रिजटया यदुक्तं तस्या मरणव्यवसायनिवृत्तिरूपफलं देव्या दृष्टमनुभूतमित्यर्थः. R says फलं तात्पर्यं पर्यवसानं वा.

CANTO XII

1. K says नीलोत्पलानां प्रलुठिताभिः प्रसृताभिः धूलीभिः परागैः मलिनी-
भवत्—कलहंसकुलः....प्रत्यूषो जातः.

2. K and probably MY read अर्धान्तः for °cchāo=°च्छायः (R and Kula). K and Kula read यामः for bhāo=भागः (R).

K says अरुणेन उदयता किञ्चिदाताम्रैकदेशः, तदानीं नवसलिलवत्
ईषत्कलुषया चन्द्रिकयाहतमूलो रजन्याः पश्चिमयामः अपसरति अपजगाम ।

MY says अरुणेन आताम्रापरभागो, धातुकलङ्ककर्चुरो, नवसलिलवत्
अकलुषया चन्द्रिकया आहतपूर्वभागः¹ सन् तटवत् अवासरदित्यर्थः । अत्र
रजनी नदीत्वेन विवक्षिता.

Kula says अरुणेन रविसारथिना आताम्रच्छायः, तत्सम्पर्कात् नव-
सलिलवदाकलुषा चन्द्रिका तया हतमूलः क्षयितपूर्वभागः पतिताधोभागः (च)
रजनीपश्चिमयामः गैरिककलङ्केन मिश्रकलुषः तट इव अपसरति अपगच्छति ।
पक्षे पतति ।

3. K, Kula and probably MY read उद्वृत्त (uvvatta) for ovva- tta=अपवृत्त (R).

K says अरुणस्य शिखया प्रभया रुग्णचन्द्रिके महीतले तमःसमुदयात्
उद्वृत्तधूसराणाम् उद्वृत्तत्वात् धूसराणां मसृणानां केवलं वायुना चलन्तीनां
पादपच्छायानां रूपं निर्वर्ण्यते आलक्ष्यते स्म.

1 Our copy has अहत...

MY says (महीतले) अरुणस्य प्रथमोद्गतप्रभया परिम्लानज्योत्स्ने सति प्राग्भागं विहाय प्रत्यग्भागे प्रसृतानां छायानां रूपं चलनदशायामेव परमदृश्यत न त्वन्यदा धूसरतयेत्यर्थः.

Kula says उद्बृत्तधूसराणाम् उत्पृष्ठीकृतकदल्यादिपत्रवत् ईषत् पाण्डूनां चलन्तीनां पादपच्छायानां रूपं केवलं निर्वर्ण्यते, चक्षुर्ग्राह्यो गुणः परं प्रतीयते, न त्वरोषविशेषावगमो भवतीति भावः.

R says अपवृत्तानामपगतानाम्.

4. K and MY pratika has sammullaï for sammilar (R and Kula). K and SC Text read मन्द for muddha (R).

K (cbaya) has संमीलति; comm. says कुमुदवनं निमीलति स्म. K says रजनेः छाया स्वरूपशोभा गलति स्म । पूर्वा दिक् अरुणप्रभयोपहतत्वात् मन्दा मसृणास्तारका यस्याः सा तथाभूत्.

MY says प्रतिबलाक्रान्तस्य समित्रान्तःपुरस्य न्यग्भूतस्य राज्ञः समाधिरत्रानुसंधेयः.

Kula says अरुणाहतचन्द्रिका पूर्वदिक्. His reading seems to be different unless it is a mistake Besides he reads विगलितरजनीछाया (पूर्वदिक्) for valar (विगलति) etc.

5. K and MY read शिलातल for manasilā (R); and पर्वतमिव नभस्तलं for pavvaaddham va naham (R and Kula). K and MY read तलिन for तरुण (R and Kula). Kula reads cunna for भङ्ग.

K says तिमिरेण रेचितं परित्यक्तं, पल्लववत् ताम्रेण तरलितेन² तनुना अरुणेन आहतमेघं स्पृष्टमेघशकलयुक्तं नभस्तलं विषमभिन्नैः शिलातलभङ्गैः मणि-शिलातलभङ्गैः परुषेण निम्नोन्नतेन मणिपर्वतेन युक्तमिवाद्दृश्यत । एतदुक्तं भवति

1 SC says उद्बृत्तत्वात् परिवृत्तपार्श्वत्वात् इव धूसराणां महीरजोभिरीषत्पाण्डूनां पाद-पच्छायानाम्

2 Seems to be a mistake for तलिनेन. Goldschmidt's ms. has तलिन.

तिमिरेण रहितमरुणप्रभापाटलितमेघखण्डपूरितं नभस्तलं विषमभिन्नमणिशिला-
सङ्कटमणिपर्वतसदृशमदृश्यतेति.

MY reads भङ्ग for ताम्र. He says तिमिरेण रेचितं च तत्, प्रल्लव-
भङ्गतलिनारुणाहतमेघं चेति विग्रहः । तदानीं विषमभिन्नैः शिलातलभङ्गैः परुष-मणिपर्वतयुक्तमिव वियदलक्ष्यतेत्यर्थः.

Kula seems to read manasila like R. He says नभो विषमवि- भिन्नैः सम्यक् दलितैः मनःशिलाचूर्णैः परुषं रूक्षं मणिपर्वतार्धमिव दृश्यते.
He explains mihā differently— तरुणारुणेन बालार्केण आहतमिहिकमुत्सा- रितनिशातुषारं नभः.

6. K and probably Kula read पर्यस्यमान (i.e. palhatthanta, cf. 8.83, 11.96) for pāsallanta (R and MY) = पार्श्वयमान.

K says तावत् शशी च अस्तमयरागयोगात् नवजलपूर्णगजपदस्य भूमि-
गतस्य नवसलिलपूर्णस्य गजपदविन्यासस्य छविवत् कलुष ईषदरुणो भूत्वा

चन्द्रः तद्गतत्वात् आधारे पर्यस्यमाने तस्मात् भ्रश्यमान इव अस्तनितम्बं गत इति.

MY says गजपदच्छविकलुषः गजपदच्छायश्च कलुषश्चेति विग्रहः । pāsallanta पार्श्वमाश्रयत्. R says पार्श्वयमानं पूर्वपार्श्वेनोत्थितम्.

Kula says शशी नवसलिलापूर्णं यत् गजस्य पदस्थानं तद्वत् कलुष-
छविश्च । प्राकृतत्वात् पूर्वनिपातानियमः । अरुणोल्लासितपूर्वभागात् पर्यस्य-[मानात्] गगनात् अपसरन्निव....अस्तनितम्बं प्राप्तः.

7. K and Kula read श्रुत (sua) for phuda (R). K and MY read
भ्रमत् and ज्योत्स्ना for guñjanta and silhā (R and probably Kula).¹

1 Our copy fo Kula has कुञ्जत्. SC Text has kūjanta

K says वनानि ...भ्रमन्मधुकराणि, धुतया अपगतया उपरिस्थया ज्योत्स्नया हेतुना लघुभूतकिसलयानि अभवन्. He also says श्रुतानि मधुराणि विहङ्गानां निर्हादमानानि उच्चतराणि रुतानि येषां तानि.

MY says संघन्त (?) भ्रमत् । धुतानि ज्योत्स्नया रिक्तानि च किस-ल्यानि येषां तानि धुतज्योत्स्नालघुकिसलयानि । सुप्तप्रबुद्धसमाधिरत्रानुसंधेयः.
K remarks अयमत्र ध्वनिः । यथा केचित् महत्तरा रात्रौ सुखं प्रसुप्ताः प्रत्यूषे
संवाहकैः स्पृष्टचरणाः श्रुतमधुरबन्दिमङ्गलवादाः भ्रमत्परिजना विधुतनिद्रानुबन्ध-तया लघुपाणिपदा भूत्वा प्रबुध्यन्ते तद्वदिति ध्वनिः.

R says silhā शीते देशी. Kula says धूतशिशिरत्वात् लघुककिसल-यानि वनानि.

8. This verse is missing in our copy of K. According to Goldschmidt's ms., K reads कलुषितं for vāḥam, बहुल for बहल; शिखरे (Kula also), i.e., siharamm for siharāhi (R); and garuam for bhariam.

MY remarks रिपुतिरस्कृतस्य बहिरप्रसृतेन अभिमानमात्रावशेषेण तेजसा
गुरुकृतस्य सहायरहितस्य पततो राज्ञः समाधिर्द्रष्टव्यः.

Kula reads vāḥam and बहल like R, but, like K and MY, he has गुरुकम् for bhariam (R) He also says अरुणाक्रान्तत्वात्, विगलितं अष्टशोभम् (स्थानभ्रष्टम् R).

9. The verse is not found in K, MY and Kula.

10. K says मृगाङ्के समाश्रयति सति (प्राप्तवति सति MY) अस्त-
शिखरम् अभ्यधिकाभिरोषधिवृक्षाणां शिखाभिः ज्वालाभिः प्रकाशितपार्श्वमुज्ज्वली-
कृतपार्श्वम्, अधिकतरप्रवृत्तचन्द्रकान्तमणिनिष्यन्दं जातम्. Kula says पुनः-
प्रवृत्त etc. MY says पूर्वाधिकप्रभवच्चन्द्रकान्तस्रोतस्कम्. R says अन्यमय-मन्त्रादृशं यथा स्यात्. SC says करालितं विच्छुरितमिति कुलनाथः.

11. K and MY read उन्नतज्योत्स्नं for onaa° (R and Kula) =
अवनतं.

K says पश्चिमाशां प्रति दूरमवनतनक्षत्रं, शशिना सहितं नभः अस्तं गच्छदिवादृश्यत । अरुणप्रभया समाहतत्वात् प्रेरितोन्नतज्योत्स्नं पूर्वस्यां दिशि नभ उदयपर्वतात् उद्गच्छदिवाभूत् । चक्रभ्रान्तिसमाधिरत्र विवक्षितः.

MY says उन्नतज्योत्स्नमिति विमुक्तप्रसरोर्ध्वमात्रावस्थितज्योत्स्नम् । आधेयपतनोत्थानाभ्याम् आधारपतनोत्थानप्रतिभास इति तात्पर्यम्.

MY reads atthāi va (SC Text also) for atthamar va=अस्तायत इव (R).

12. K, MY and Kula read pia (प्रिय) for pari (R).

K says प्रदोषः प्रियलाभेन स्त्रीणां दत्तफलोऽभूत् । निशा रतिसुखेन दत्तफला । प्रत्यूषस्तु तासाम् आनीतप्रियविरहोत्कण्ठः, अतएव अनिर्विण्णमन्मथः । नक्तं यूनां सुरतसंविधानैः खिन्नः निर्विण्णः कामः, दिवा तदभावात् अनिर्विण्ण-मदनः तथाभूतो गलति स्म । निर्वेदः खेद उच्यते इति हलायुधः.

Kula is corrupt R explains अनिर्विण्ण as अनिर्वाण¹ or उदीत. SC has अक्षान्त.

13. K, MY and Kula read रतिराग for a₁ - अति (R). K and MY read त्रुटित, and Kula उत्खण्डित for °kkhalia स्खलित found in R. Their readings seem to be °kkhudia and ukkhudia respectively (HC 1.53; 4 116) K reads मदवक्तव्यं and MY मदवचनीयं, i.e., maa-vaani-jjam (cf. 11.104) for maena munam मदेन निपुणं (R). Kula reads मदप्रवीणं. SC Text has maa-ppatuttam. SC comm. says patuttam प्रवीणे देशी. It also says patuttam निर्व्याजमालिङ्गनादिप्रवीणमिति कुलनाथः. The reading recorded in SC is doubtful. Our copy of Kula has patla which no doubt stands for pattattha. This reading is also found in the verse as quoted in Bhoja's Śṅgārāprakāśa 22.25. Kula thus seems to read maa-pattattham like Bhoja.¹

K says विस्रम्भेण प्रणयकोपमानग्रहप्रसङ्गाभावात् रात्रौ च संभोगसुखेन विस्रम्भः अन्योन्यं विश्वासस्तेन वर्धितरसं, रतिरागेण सुरताभिनिवेशेन त्रुटिता-

¹ For the meaning of pattattha see notes on verse 34.

वशेषत्वेन अवस्थिता रशना यत्र तत्, तत् अपगतमधुमददोषं यूनां प्रत्यूषसमये रतं प्रदोषसुरतात् दूरमत्यन्तम् अभ्यधिकमभूत्.

MY says मानलज्जाविरहात् विस्रम्भः तेन वर्धितरसम् । प्रदोषे छिन्नशेषा स्थिता रशना इदानीं रतिरागेण त्रुटिता यत्र तत्तथा । मद एव वचनीय दोषो गलितो यत्रेति तथोक्तम् । प्रदोषः प्रदोषरतम् उपचारात् मञ्चाः क्रोशन्तीति वत्.

R says विगलितमदत्वेन हेतुना निपुणं चतुरं (प्रत्यूषरतम्).

Kula says सुरतविमर्दनोत्खण्डिता शेषसंस्थिता स्तोकावशिष्टा रसना यत्र तत् ।अतः प्रत्यूषरतं प्रदोषरतात् अत्यधिकमुत्कृष्टम्.

14. K says प्रदोषे कामिनीभिः पीतमुक्तं, संक्रान्ताधरालक्तकरसं, स्तोकसुरायां पीतशेषस्वल्पमद्ये स्थितेनोत्पलेन अर्धस्थगितं चषकं बलान्तबकुल-पुष्पगन्धवत् तनुः मृदुगन्धो मधुगन्धो न मुञ्चति स्म । मद्यगन्धस्य बकुलपुष्प-गन्धसादृश्यं प्रसिद्धम् । यथा रघुवंशे—सुवदनावदनासवसंभृतः etc. (9.30). MY says कामिनीभिरिदानीम् उपेक्षितं चषकं बकुलगन्धो नामुञ्चत् । अतिमन्दः अन्ववर्ततेति तात्पर्यम्.

15. K and MY read निवसन for mamba=नितम्ब (R and Kula).

K reads भुक्त for mukka (R and Kula ?)

K says प्रियतमैः परिभुक्तमुक्तत्वात्¹ तनुर्मृदितशरीर इत्यर्थः । विलासिनीजनः....उद्धर्तितया बहिःप्रकाशितया मेखलया निरुद्धवसनः, छायालग्न-परिमलः शोभारूपेण लग्नपरिमर्दचिह्नः । परिमर्देऽपि परिमल इति वैजयन्ती । तथा किरातार्जुनीये—अथ परिमलजामवाप्य लक्ष्मीं etc. (10.1).

MY says उद्धर्तितः बहिर्भावितान्तःपार्श्वः । niattha निवसन । शोभा-रूपेणालग्नोपभोगचिह्नः । tanuo तनुः कृशः खिन्न इति यावत्.

Kula says छायालग्नपरिमल आभासमात्रस्थितानुलेपनः. R says छायाया आभामात्रेण यत्किञ्चिदित्यर्थः.

1 K (chāyā) has प्रियतमभुक्ततनुः.

16. K reads स्खलत् for valanta (R and Kula) K (chāya) has युवतीनाम् in the second line.

K says (युवतीनां) प्रियैर्भुक्तसमनन्तरं प्रत्यासन्ननिजावासं प्रति निवृत्त-प्रस्थितं निवृत्त्य प्रस्थानं गमनं दुःखेन कृच्छ्रात् संस्थाप्यते निर्वाह्यते स्म । कथं-
भूतम्—दुर्निहितवामचरणं, स्त्रीणां वामपार्श्वे सविशेषमदनस्याधिष्ठानमिति वार्ता¹ ।

पादोद्धारो निक्षिप्तस्य पादस्योद्धरणं यत्र तत्तथा.

It will be seen that K takes hutta as भुक्त. Others take it in the sense of अभिमुख.

MY says प्रथमतो वामपादक्षेपः स्त्रीणां माङ्गलिकं कथयति । आप्रश्ने
सति भर्त्रभिमुखं पुनर्निवृत्तं प्रस्थितं प्रस्थानं विरहोत्कण्ठया संभोगक्लान्त्या च

स्वगृहप्रस्थितं कथमपि कृतमित्यर्थः । तत्र स्त्रीणां वामैरङ्गैः प्रथमप्रवृत्तिरिति वामेत्युक्तम्.

Kula says स्त्रीणां वामाङ्ग एव नखक्षतादिकं विहितम् । अतो दुर्निमित्त
ऊरुसन्धिगतनखक्षतपीडया दुःखेन निहितो वामचरणो यत्र । वलमानाभ्यां

17. K says दिवसस्य गजस्य च श्लेषः । संक्षोभितकमलाकरः सायं
संमीलितकमलाकरः, अन्यत्र विगाहनेन क्षोभितकमलिनीकः, सन्ध्यातपमयेन
घातुना कर्दमितमुखः दिवसः स्थानभ्रष्टो गज इव रात्रिं सकलां³ भ्रान्त्वा, अन्यत्र चरित्वा, प्रतिनिवृत्तः.

1 R says स्त्रियो हि प्रथमं वामपादमग्रे विन्यस्य पश्चात् दक्षिणपादमुत्थाप्य चलन्तीति स्वभावः.

2 SQ has तिर्यग्भूय चलद्भ्यां etc.

3 Our copy has सकमलां.

MY says संक्षोभो विकासात्मा । phidio भ्रष्टः । रात्रिमिति काला- ध्वनोरत्यन्तसंयोग इति द्वितीया.

Kula says ताम्रधातुः गैरिकम्.

18. K reads दिवसकरं for va (इव) diṇaaram (R and Kula); and विकसितानि for viḥadiāim=विघटितानि (R and Kula).

K says अरुणेन बोधितया प्रकाशितया, आगतं दिवसकरं भगवन्त-
मभ्युत्तिष्ठन्त्या दिवसलक्ष्म्या भुवि निहितं पदं विकसितानि कमलानि शंसन्ति

Kula says दिवसलक्ष्म्या निहितं पदं....कमलानि कथयन्तीव.

19. K reads विच्छिन्नं and विस्रब्ध for vo° and visattha (R). K and probably MY read विचलितं for viḥadīam (R).

K says प्रदोषे विस्रब्धं यथासुखमुदधिजले विचलितं, परस्परं विश्लिष्टं
शङ्खकुलं विभाते कातरं भीतं भूत्वा चन्द्रस्य प्रतिमां जलगतां जननीमिव
दृश्यमानामाश्रयति जननीति बुद्ध्या समाश्रयति स्म.

MY says निशि मिथो वियुक्तं, जलधौ स्वैरदूरगतं शङ्खकुलं शैत्य-
प्रियं घर्मारम्भकातरं सत् चन्द्रप्रतिमां जननीमिव प्रापेत्यर्थः । बाधकसंभावनया
जननीमपि प्रापेत्यर्थः. R says यद्वा—जननीमिव चन्द्रप्रतिमामालीयते इत्युत्प्रेक्षा.

The order of verses in K and MY is 17, 19, 18. Verse 19 is not found in Kula.

20. Kula says समुच्छ्वसतां विकसतां कमलाकराणां, चिरनिरोधेन
(चिरनिरोधात् नक्तं निरोधात् K) एकमुखः पिण्डीभूय निर्गच्छन्, संचालि-
तेन पवनोत्क्षिप्तेन मधुना मधुकृत्यः (? for मधुरः), मारुतेन भिन्नोऽपि

विक्रीर्णोऽपि मांसल एव गन्धो भवतीत्यर्थः. K says संचालितेन मधुरसेन मधुरो गन्धः. SC Text has māsalo for mamsalo.

21. K reads बाष्पविन्दुं for bāha-tthavaam = बाष्पस्तवकं (R). See 15.43 below. Kula has बाष्पविम्बं¹, which seems to be a mistake for °विन्दुं. cf. 5.62, 14.75, 15 43.

K says शोकात् मुक्तबाष्पविन्दुं कामिनीसार्थं गमनार्थमापृच्छमानानां राक्षसभटानां यदेवोपगूहनसौख्यमभूत् तदेव तेषां निष्पश्चिमं पश्चिमरहित-मुपगूहनसौख्यं जातम्.

Kula says विरहखेदात् मुक्तबाष्पविम्बं कामिनीसार्थमापृच्छमानानां प्रभाते गमनानुज्ञां प्रार्थयमानानां राक्षसभटानां यदेवोपगूहनसौख्यं जातं तदेव निष्पश्चिमं पश्चाद्वाविशून्यम्² उपगूहनसौख्यं जातम्.

22. K and Kula read प्राप्त for laddha (R).

K says समग्रमात्रेण अन्तरितसीतासङ्गमसुखः, दशमुखवैरस्य दशमुखेन कृतस्थापकारस्य प्रतिमोचनाय (R also) प्रत्यपकारार्थमागतदिवसः, प्राप्ता-मर्षावसरः प्राप्तः अमर्षमोक्षस्य अवसरो यस्य स राघवः अलब्धनिद्रोऽपि प्रतिबुद्धः युद्धाय उद्युक्तः.

MY says समरमात्रव्यवहितदेवीसमागमसुखो, दशमुखवैरनिर्यातनार्था-गतदिवसो, विरहादनिद्राणो विप्रतिबुद्धः शयनोत्थानादि कर्म कृतवानित्यर्थः.

Kula says दशमुखवैरस्य प्रतिमोचनायां³ गतं हृदयं यस्य..... विबुद्धः शयनादुत्थितः. It will be seen that Kula reads gaa-hlao for (ā)aa-diabo (आगतदिवसः). R says दशमुखे यद्वैरं तत्प्रतिमोचनाय आगतो दिवसो यस्य. Ms. C of Goldschmidt seems to have paḍim-oanā for °muñcanā found in SC Text. R takes it as °muñcana.

1 SC has स्तवकं, but the ms reading of SC Text is -tthevam which points to विन्दु. See notes on 1.40.

2 Our copy has अपरगूह...

3 Our copy has प्रतिलोचनायां.

23. MY says अन्तरं स्वरूपं चतुर्याममात्रस्वरूपवत् इत्यर्थः । सैकापि निशा दीर्घो गतश्च कालो न समौ, किंतु निशैव असह्यतरविरहदुःखा आसीत् । अरिबधाय प्रभातस्य आकांक्षिततमत्वादिति हृदयम्.

K says सीतावियोगदुःखं विषहमाणस्य निशा च गतो दीर्घः कालश्च, उभौ (न) समौ भवतः । निशैव दीर्घतराभूदित्यर्थः । पञ्चवर्षयुक्तोऽप्यस्य सीतावियोगकालो विरहदुःखेन युगसहस्रायमाणोऽभवत् । सा निशा तु प्रभाते विरहदुःखशान्तिसंभावनया सदाकांक्षितप्रभाता । ततोऽस्य जाग्रतो रामस्य तस्मादपि द्राघीयसी बभूवेत्यर्थः.

Kula says चतुर्याममात्रान्तरितं सीतावियोगदुःखं विषहमाणस्य रघुपतेः पूर्वं दीर्घश्च कालो गतः । तेन कालेन एका (च) निशा न समा ।.... सा रात्रिरक्षयेव भूता इति भावः.

R and Kula have गुरुकावलगित. R says अक्षिपत्राभ्यां स्खलिता पृथग्भूता.

25. K says रामः अवमर्दात् क्लान्तकुसुमम्, उभयोः पार्श्वयोरामर्देन मृदितोपधानप्रान्तं, सदादेहपरिवर्तनेन विषमं, हृदयावेगस्य हृदयदुःखस्य पिशुनं शिलागतं शयनीयं मुमोच च.

26. K and Kula read निज and निजक respectively, i.e., niaa for वाम (R). K says ततो रामः शैलवत् सारेण बलेन गुरुं, स्फुरन्तं स्पन्दमानं रणरागादभ्यधिकं पीनं, स्पन्दमानत्वात् भविष्यत्सीतासमागमपिशुनं निजं दक्षिणं भुजं सुचिरमभिनन्द । उत्तरगाथया संबन्धः. Kula also says स्फुरत्त्वात् स्फुरणशीलत्वात् अत्यधिकपीवरं निजकभुजं दक्षिणमित्यर्थात्. MY has only भुजं, and his reading is probably same as that of K and Kula.

27. K and MY read निर्मित for sammānia (R and Kula). MY says nimmānia निर्मित. K and Kula read नियमः for dharmo (R). K reads प्रतिष्ठापितं for परि° (R and Kula).

K says युद्धत्वरया क्षणे निर्मितसन्ध्यावन्दनादिनियमः रामः पूर्वत्रिकभागे समवृत्तबन्धं जटामण्डलं धनुषः कर्षणमार्गात् मोचयित्वा किञ्चिदुन्नतं बबन्ध । कथंभूतम्—मृदितविसर्जितेन तमालपल्लवशयनेन सुरभिम्.

Kula says क्षणं संमानितनियमः कृतसन्ध्यावन्दनादिनित्यकृत्यः धनुः-कर्षणमार्गात् मोचितम्¹ अपसारितं परिष्ठापितं निवेशितं....जटाप्राग्भारं बध्नाति.

28. K says अथ रामो विरहवेदनया रोषेण च गलितबाष्पां, चिरं धारितेन तदानीमापूर्यमाणेन रोषेण ताम्रां, समस्तव्यक्त्या तारक्या कनीनिक्या दुष्प्रेक्षां लोकैः दुरालोकां दृष्टि लङ्काभिमुखीं कृत्वा । उत्तरगाथया संबन्धः. R says समस्तं निर्वलितया विस्फारणात् पृथग्भूतया तारक्या.

29. K (chāyā) has मार्ग like R and Kula, but K (comm.) has भाग. K and MY read मलिन (maṭilā) for marā = मृदित (R). They read मुख first in nīmā-muha (R and Kula).

K says गृहीतस्थाम परिज्ञातस्थैर्य, सीतया शून्यीकृते शयनभागे स्थापितं, बहुशो विरहोत्कण्ठितेन, उत्कण्ठैव उत्कण्ठितम्, उत्कण्ठया शयनकाले मुखे निहिता अतएव रुदितेन मलिना कोटिः यस्य तच्चापं जग्राह रामः.

Kula says गृहीतस्थाम युद्धेषु विज्ञातसामर्थ्य....बहुशो विरहोत्(कण्ठितेन) निमित्तं निहितं यत् मुखं तस्यावरुदितेन....कोटिं चापं गृह्णाति. SC has मलिनकोटिं like K and MY. SC Text has malina. R renders nīmā as नियोजित; निवेशित.

MY says उत्कण्ठैव उत्कण्ठितं, शयनदशायामेव उत्कण्ठितेन मुखेन संश्लेषिता अवरुदितेन च मलिनीकृता च कोटिर्यस्य तत्.

K and MY read 10.3 after this verse.

1 Our copy has सेवितम्

30. K omits to (R) and reads तन्महीतलार्धनिमित्तं (chāya). Kula's reading is about the same.

K says ' अथ तेन तत् धनुः महीतलैकदेशे निहितमूलं, ततो वामकरा-
वेष्टनेन निष्ठुरमतिदृढं गृहीतं, वलमानस्य ईषन्नमतो देहस्य भरेण नामितं, सज्यं कृतम्¹.

Kula has to, but omits तं. He says ततो महीतले अर्धनिमित्तं
निहितैकदेश....दक्षिणहस्तेन दृष्टेन मद्यामारोपितं (स)गुणं कृतम्.

31. K says स रामः प्रतिपक्षं श्वसितमन्थरेण श्वसितभरितेन गुरुणा
शिरःकम्पेन तर्जितं कृत्वा² चलत्पर्वतविलग्नधनुर्मात्रसाधनः चलत्पर्वतसदृशं
गृहीतधनुर्मात्रं साधनं यस्य स तथा, अथवा भरन्यासरभसेन चलत्पर्वतश्च
विलग्नधनुर्मात्रसाधनश्चेति योज्यम् । एवंभूतश्चलितः योद्धुमिति शेषः.

R says चलति पर्वते विलगितं निवेशितं यत् धनुः तन्मात्रं साधनं
सिद्धिसामग्री यस्य. Kula says चलत्-पर्वतश्चासौ, विलगितं गृहीतं धनुर्मात्रं³
साधनं येन स चासाविति तथाभूतः, MY says चलितपर्वतश्च विलगितधनु- र्मात्रसाधनश्च चलित इत्यर्थः.

32. K says वानरसैन्यं चोद्धृतानां पर्वतानां मिलद्भिः शिखरैः नभसि
निर्मितैकमहीधरं घटितैकमहापर्वतम्, अनुरूपेषु केषांचित् भुजेषु वृक्षसदृशाकारेषु
स्थिता गृहीतस्थिताः विटपैश्छिन्नैः ज्ञायमानाः पादपा यस्य तत्तथाभूतं चलितम्

MY says अनुरूप समानरूप तुल्याकार.

33. संनहन्ति कवचं बध्नन्ति K. कवचायुधाद्युपकरणग्रहणं संनाहः MY..

34. K says मायायुद्धे निष्कलुषयुद्धे च समर्थ, लङ्काया मार्गे प्रवेशमार्गे
निपुणं विभीषणसैन्यम्. MY says मायानिष्कलुषः रिपुमायाजन्यापायरहितः.

1 Our copy has नामितं भूत्वा सज्जं कृतम्.

2 MY says रोषजनितेन श्वसितेन मन्थरगुरुणा च शिरःकम्पेन प्रतिपक्षं तर्जयन्निध.

3 Our copy has धर्ममात्रं.

R reads pabbuddham (see Goldschmidt) = प्रबुद्धम् explained as प्रवीणम्. K (chāyā) has निपुणम् and K (comm.) समर्थम्. MY's reading is corrupt, but he also says समर्थम्. Kula says puttaccham (?) प्रवीणम्, but this seems to be a mistake for pattattham. See notes on verse 13. The reading of K and MY might also be the same as that of Kula. The word pattattha is explained in Deśināmamālā 6,68 as बहुशिक्षित; as प्राप्तार्थः प्रतिष्ठां प्राप्तो निपुण इत्यर्थः in comm. on Lilāvatī 110; also as कुशल (ibid. 657).

Kula's gloss on this verse is reproduced almost verbatim in SC : मायासु निष्कलुषा अनाविला संमोहरहिता इति यावत्, ईदृशी या युद्धगतिः तत्र प्रवीणम्. SC Text, however, has patuṭṭham, प्रतुष्टम् (chāyā), which does not give the required meaning.

35. K reads कथमस्य प्रतिमोक्तव्यम् (kaha se padimottavvam) for sukaam (सुकृतं) kaha mottavvam (R)

K says गृहीतायुधे रामे सुग्रीवः समराय त्वरितस्य अस्य कथं मया प्रतिमोक्तव्यं प्रत्युपकर्तव्यमिति दूनः परितप्यते स्म.

MY and Kula agree with K.

36. -K and MY read विवर for vihua = विधुत (R and Kula). K reads प्रवेपते for va (इव) vevai (R and Kula).

K says रघुपतिना धनुषि क्षोभितगिरिविवरसागरे घोषेण संक्षोभित-गिरिगुहासमुद्रे, आस्फालिते निर्घोषिते सति.

MY says क्षोभितगिरिविवरसागरं यथा निर्हृदेन तथा धनुष्यास्फालित इत्यर्थः । amga-cchivana-visamam अङ्गाक्षेपणविषमम्. K says कम्पितगृह-प्राकारा लङ्का अङ्गक्षेपणविषमं प्रवेपते स्म केनाप्यङ्गक्षेपणे क्रियमाण इव प्राकम्पत, R says अङ्गानामवयवानां यत् क्षेपणमितस्ततः प्रापणं तेन विषमं यथा स्यादेवं वेपत इव. R has amga-kkhivana. Kula says क्षोभितो गिरिः सुवेलो विधुतः सागरः येन तस्मिन् धनुषि च रघुपतिना आस्फालिते सति गिरिसमुद्रयोः संक्षोभेणैव कम्पितगृहप्राकारा लङ्का etc.

37. K reads प्रथमालापम् for padhamullāvam (R and Kula).

38. K reads पातः¹ for ghāo = घातः (R and Kula). K (chāya) has परिजनं but comm. has पुरजनं.

Kula says व्यामोहयति किंकर्तव्यताविमूढं करोति.

MY remarks पुरीजनशब्दस्य गोबलीवर्दन्यायेन युवतिजनव्यतिरेक-विषयतया न पौनरुक्त्यम्.

39. K and MY read बल for वर (R); and pahammanta (प्रहन्यमान) for pasammanta = प्रशाम्यत् (R and Kula). K reads धुतसमावपातित for dhua-samaa-pahāvia = धुतसमयप्रधावित (R and Kula). K's reading seems to be dhua-sama-ovāia. cf. mvāia 13.2,77 and ovāia (अवपतित) used frequently in the poem.

K says कपिबलानां रभसादुत्थापितेन उत्क्षिप्तेन, धुतेन, समं युगपत् अवपातितेन अधःपातितेन उदधिना समाक्रान्तः, अतएव सलिलपूर्यमाणदरीमुखः धरणिधरः सुवेलः प्रहन्यमानप्रतिरवं दिङ्मुखेषु आहन्यमानप्रतिरवं यथा रसति स्म.

MY seems to read samuha for samaa. He says संमुखमृजु । कपिबलस्य रभसादूर्ध्वायितैः² उत्प्लवनैः धूतेन पुनः प्रतिनिवृत्त्य प्रतीपमृजु अपसृतेन उदधिना समाक्रान्तः (?) । pahammanta-padīravam उत्थाप्यमान-प्रतिशब्दम् । अभिभूयमानान्यरवमिति वा. MY has bharanta for bharenta (भ्रियमाण).

Kula says कपिबलस्य (?) रभसोद्धावितेन....नामितत्वात् धूतसमयो लङ्घितमर्यादो य उदधिः प्रधावितस्तेन समाक्रान्तः. SC has बल.

40. K and Kula read विस्मितानन for viambhūānana (विजृम्भितानन) found in R (see N.S.ed.). R's reading is against metre as pointed out by Goldschmidt who reads vimbhūānaṇa.

1 Ms. C of Goldschmidt has vāo.

2 Our copy has ऊर्ध्वान्वितैः.

K says रामधनुषो निर्घोषः सामर्षेण विस्मितेन दशवदनेन चाकर्णितः
 "चिरेण प्रशान्तः. Our copy of Kula has विमित which no doubt stands for विस्मित, i.e., vimhia of which vimbhia is a variant. cf. Lilāvatī, ed.
 Upadhye, verse 134, footnote. SC Text has vimhia.

41. प्राकारान्तरितं व्यवहितं, कटकितं कटको निवेशः कटकयुक्तं

 कितं वलयाकारेण वहिः कृतप्राकारवेष्टनम् । निजके निद्राक्षये विबुद्धः, न तु
 संभ्रमादकाले प्रबुद्ध इत्यर्थः Kula. कटकं वलयः, तद्वत् लङ्कामावेष्ट्य स्थितम् R.

42. K, MY and Kula read ohiranta which they explain differently for ohianta = अवहीयमान (R). cf. next verse.

R says दशवदनोऽवहीयमानं क्रमेण हूसमानं प्रचलायितं तल्पे आल-स्यात् घूर्णनं वहति.

K says विपलायितनिद्रां-विपलायितामपगच्छन्तीं निद्रां वहति स्म ।
 कथंभूतां-शयने द्वितीयस्य शरीरपार्श्वस्य परिवर्तनैरावद्धसुखां, विषमश्रुतमङ्गल-

 शरीरस्य घूर्णनं प्रचलायितं, बोधेन शनैरपह्रियमाणप्रचलायिताम्.

MY says ohiranta मूर्च्छत् । अपक्षीयमाणेति वा । paalaia ईषत्स्था- पानुवृत्त्या देहस्य प्रचलनम्.

Kula says विपलायिता निद्रा यत्र, द्वितीयपार्श्वपरिवर्तनेन आबद्धं सुखं यत्र, विषमसम्यक् श्रुतो मङ्गलरवः प्रभाततूर्यादिध्वनिः यत्र तत् तथाभूतम्,
 'अवधीरयत्' विषयान्तरावज्ञां विदधत् प्रचलायितं (निद्राशेषघूर्णितं¹ वहति).
 SC says विषममस्फुटमिति श्रीनिवासः । क्षणं श्रुतं क्षणमश्रुतमिति केचित् । अव-हीयमान इति श्रीनिवासः । तन्मते ohijjanta इति पाठः. Śrinivāsa has this reading for ohiranta in 13 33 also, and says अवहीयमाना अवसीदन्तः.
 See SC.

43. K and Kula read muccantam for muccantā^o found in R who mentions the other reading as a variant. R mentions also ohīanta (अवहीयमान=अपचीयमान) as a variant for ohīranta = अपह्रियमाण.

K says ततः मधुमदेन मुच्यमान, मसृणं मन्दमपह्रियमाणः शनैस्त्यज्यमानो लोहितः अक्षिसमूहो येन तत् रावणस्य निद्राशेषं रामधनुःशब्दश्रवणामर्षेण विगलितम्. R says muccantam इति पाठे निद्राशेषस्यैव विशेषणम् । मधुमदस्यापि तदानीमपगमादित्यर्थः. He explains his own reading thus—मधुमदेन मुच्यमानः अत एव आ ईषत् मसृणमपह्रियमाणो मन्दं मन्दमुन्मील्यमानो लोहिताक्षिसमूहो यत्र.

MY says ohiranta मूर्छित् विवशेत्यर्थः । niḥāa निकाय (K chāya also). Kula is mutilated, but SC says कुलनाथस्तु ततः प्रदोषपीतस्य मधुनो मदेन मुच्यमानं. निद्रागौरवात् मसृणो मन्दः स्वव्यापारमवधीरयन् च निद्राच्छेदात् लोहितः अक्षिसमूहो यत्र इत्याह.

44. K says ततो रावणः प्रबुध्यमानः अन्योन्यं लङ्घितैरङ्गुलिभिः करालानि सान्तरालानि, तदानीं तुङ्गानि मणितोरणानीव दृश्यमानानि भुजयुगलानि वलयित्वा निजे शयनोत्सङ्गे ऊर्ध्वं मुञ्चति जृम्भमाणत्वात् ऊर्ध्वं मुमोच.

वलयित्वा उत्क्षिप्य Kula. अन्योन्याधिष्ठिताङ्गुलितया मध्यच्छिद्राणि भुजयुगलानि MY. Kula is somewhat corrupt, but SC says कुलनाथस्तु अङ्गुलीनां सन्धिषु अङ्गुलीनां न्यासेन प्रत्येकलङ्घिताङ्गुलीनि च तानि करालानि चेति तथा भूतानि भुजयुगलानि कृष्णदेहत्वात् तुङ्गेन्द्रनीलमणितोरणानीव इत्याह.

45. MY says āhammīum आहन्तुम् आहतं भवितुम् । रणसंनाहो रणोद्योगः. K remarks रावणस्य रणोद्योग. शक्र प्रत्येव भवति । (अतः) भयमैरावतस्य.

46. Kula reads वेपमान (vevanta) for mīlanta (मीलत्). K and MY read संनाह्विबुद्धाः for sannā-padiuddhā = संज्ञाप्रतिबुद्धाः (R and Kula).

K says रणसंनाहतूर्येण विबुद्धाः...राक्षसा मीलनयनमेव कण्ठे लग्नं युवतिजनं किञ्चिदादाय निर्गताः. R says मीलनं व मुद्रितनेत्र एव etc

MY says रणसनाहः रणार्थं तूर्याघातः । mlanta मीलत् मुह्यत् । एवं-भूतं युवतिजनं गृहीत्वा स्तोकं निर्गता इति योज्यम्.

R says रणाय संज्ञा सकेतो वाद्यम्. तेन प्रतिबुद्धाः जागरिताः.

47 K says गन्तुमापृच्छमानानां प्रियाणा युवतिभिः गृहीता अधरोष्ठाः¹ अतर्कितमेव समरसज्ञापटहे समरसूचनापटहे श्रुते भीतानां युवतीनां मुखात् अमुक्ता अपि शिथिलस्थिताः सन्तः निर्यान्ति स्म स्वयमेव गलन्ति स्म. SC Text has nmti for nenti (निर्यान्ति).

MY says āucchamāna-gahīā आपृच्छयमानाभिः गृहीताः । althakkam अतर्कितम् । अमुक्ता अपि विरहकातरतया भिया च स्वयमेव शिथिलाः स्थिता निरीयुरित्यर्थः.

48. K and probably MY read ईषद्वितीर्णरणभयं for isi-nlham navara bhaam = ईषत् निभं केवलं भयं found in R who says तत्र भयं केवलं किञ्चित् निभं व्याजः.

K says प्रियतमानां कण्ठलग्नं युवतीनां बाहयुगलं बाहुयुगलं समरसंनाहरवे श्रुते ईषदत्तरणभयं यथा सुरतक्षेपेण चिकीर्षितस्य सुरतस्य क्षेपेण निरासेन गलति स्म

K (chāya) has कण्ठावलग्नं. MY has कण्ठावलगितं. He says सुरतखेदेन शिथिलीबभूव.

Kula reads isi-naam navara kaam, and says प्रियतमकण्ठे अवलगितमासक्तं बाहुयुगलं सुरतखेदेन ईषन्नतं केवलं कृतं श्रुते समरसंनाहरवे गलति भयात् भ्रश्यतीत्यर्थः.

1 Kula says प्रभाते स्वगृहगमनाय आपृच्छमानाः सन्तो गृहीताः युवतिभिः प्रियाणामधरोष्ठाः.

49 K reads गलित करतलं (cf MY) for valia-kara-alā (R).

K says श्रुतसंज्ञारवत्वात् त्वरिता राक्षसा वक्षसि बलमानस्तनं प्रियाश्लेष-सुखं प्रतिपन्नायुधत्वेन आसन्ने गृहीतायुधत्वेन विहस्ततथा व्याकुलतया
गलितकरतलं यथा उद्वेलयन्ति परिश्लथयन्ति स्म.

MY says गृहीतायुधं रणदोहलव्याकुलं स्वकामिन्याश्लेषात् शिथिलं
च करतलं यथा स्यात् तथेत्यर्थः । uvvellanti उद्वेलयन्¹ उदमोचयन्तित्यर्थः ।
प्रियावेष्टसुखं सुखरूपं प्रियावेष्टम्.

Kula reads gahia-kara-alā He says सुतेन संज्ञारवेण त्वरिताः, प्रति-
पन्न यत् आयुधं तेन विहस्ता व्यग्राश्चेति, उन्मोचनाय गृहीतप्रियाकरतलाश्चेति
तथाभूता निशाचराः वक्षसि बलन्तौ लुठन्तौ स्तनौ यत्र तत् प्रियावेष्टसुखं
प्रियाभुजपाशाश्लेषसुखम् उद्वेष्टयन्ति (?) उन्मोचयन्ति (?). Hemacandra
4.223 derives uvvella from उद्वेष्टयति. R says उद्वेलयन्ति चञ्चलयन्ति.

50 K pratīka has rumbhantīna (MY also) and not *rubbha*⁰ as in Goldschmidt's ms.

K says प्रियतमान् रुन्धतोनां गमनात् वारयन्तीनां युवतीनां चिराय
प्रवृद्धो मानः....तासां हृदये न लगति न तिष्ठति स्म । मानमप्यपास्य प्रियत-
मान् निवारयामासुरित्यर्थः । इदं च दुर्निमित्तमिति द्रष्टव्यम्. R says नायकैर-कृतपूर्वेऽपि प्रणयस्य भङ्गे नायिकान्तरासङ्गादिना कृते सति चिरप्ररूढो युवतीनां
मानः. K says मानः अकृतपूर्वे प्रणयभङ्गे अभ्यर्थनाभङ्गे कृतेऽपि भयत्रस्ते तासां हृदये न लगति etc.

MY says स्वोत्पत्तिकारणैश्चिरोत्पन्नो मानोऽपक्षीयमाण उपेक्षारूपेण
प्रणयभङ्गेनोदीपितोऽपि भयत्रस्तहृदये न व्यलगदित्यर्थः ।... अथवा चिरप्ररूढ इति चिराभ्यस्त इति तेन शेषमपि तदनुगुणं व्याख्येयम् MY has akaaa-puvve pi (अकृतपूर्वेऽपि) and explains प्रणय as प्रार्थना. Cf verse 52.

1 Our copy has उव्वेलन्ती उद्वेलयत्.

51. K, MY and Kula read प्रियाभिः for piā = प्रियमा (R); and सस्मृत (संस्मारित Kula) for sambhāva (R) K reads संमानितमत्सराणां for °maccharena (R, MY and Kula) K reads भटानां for bhadassa (R and Kula).

K says प्रियाभिः यथा यथा रुध्यते गमनमिति शेषः, तथा तथा संस्मृतेन स्वाम्यवमानेन स्वामिनो रावणस्यावमानो यो रामेण करिष्यमाणस्तेन अभ्यधिकं यथा (स्यात् तथा भटानाम्) उत्साहो वर्धते न हीयते स्म । कीदृशानाम्—संमानितमत्सराणां संमानितः समारोपितः मत्सरो राघ(वे यैः तेषाम्).

MY says प्रियाभिः समरोत्साहो यथा यथारुध्यत तथा तथा स्वामिपूर्वकृतावमानस्मरणेन स्वामिसंमानितैः सह मात्सर्येण च अवर्धतेत्यर्थः.

Kula says यथा यथा प्रियाभिः संस्मारितेन स्वामिकापमानेनाभ्यधिकं यथा स्यात् तथा रुध्यते वार्यते, तथा तथा भटस्य संमानितेन सह मात्सर्येण समरोत्साहो वर्धते R says संमानितेनादृतेन शत्रुं प्रति मात्सर्येण सह वर्धते.

It will be seen that K and others read sambhāva for sambhāva See above and cf 10 60. R says संभावितेन तर्कितेन.

52 K's gloss on this verse is somewhat incomplete, and the chāyā is missing. He has वलिताः for khaliā (R, Kula and MY) K says रणपरितोषेण भोगादभ्यधिकेन समरप्रहर्षेण निर्णीता निर्गता इत्यर्थः.

MY says प्रणयेन प्रार्थनया स्खलिता विलम्बिताः¹ प्रेमरागाभ्यां (रागः संभोगाभिनिवेशः K) हता अप्यभिमानेन योजुं व्यवस्थापिता रणदोहलेन nimiā (2) निष्क्रामिता इत्यर्थः.

It will be seen that K reads निर्णीताः and MY nimiā for niggaā = निर्गताः (R and Kula). MY's reading is against metre and obviously a scribal error. The reading of K and MY seems to be niniā from nir+ni 'to go' (Hemacandra 1.93, 4 162), rendered as निर्णीताः and explained as निर्गताः by K. The verb ni rendered as 1 Kula says प्रणयेन स्खलिताः कृतविधाता .

निरेति, निर्याति etc. including the present participle ninta is frequently used in the poem. The past participle na occurs in Svayambhū's Paumacariu 3 12.6 (niya. .vāhanahī cadeppinu). Here the gloss explains niya as निर्गतः. Hemacandra (ibid) mentions another verb ninaī in the same sense, of which the past participle is used in Puspadanta's Jasaharacariu 3 12.14 (nīny a-jihahu in the sense of निर्गतजिह्वस्य). But this is probably not the reading intended here.

53. K (chāyā) and Kula read लघुकागते for lahuāiammi (R) = लघुकायिते.

K says देवैः सह युद्धेषु उन्नताभिप्रायाः राक्षसाः कपिभिः समशीर्षत्वात् तिर्यग्भिः कपिभिः समं शर्षवन्धात् कपिभिः साम्यसंबन्धात् लघुत्वेनागते सति रणभरे संनद्धं संनाहं कर्तुमपि लज्जन्ते च । परस्य शत्रोः प्रसरं परितः प्रसर्पणं च न सहन्ते स्म । ततः संनाहमकुर्वन्. Kula says कपिसन्नाहस्पर्धया लघुके आगते रणभरे. SC says सादृश्ये samasisa- शब्दो देशीयः । अन्ये तु देवेन सह समरे उच्चाभिलाषत्वात् कपिभिः समरे समशीर्षेण तुल्यतया लघुनि आगते लघूकृते वा इति वदन्ति. R says कपिभिः समं समशीर्षेण रपर्धया लघुके.

54. K says महोदरस्य राक्षसस्य कवचं वक्षःस्थलेषु व्रणविवरेषु करालं सच्छिद्रं, व्रणवेष्टेषु महत्सु व्रणकिणेषु मुखरम् आयसत्वात् शब्दायमानं, स्खलदधन्तिम्, अतएवोरःस्थले विषमं पुञ्जितं, पृष्ठे पुनः आयुधव्रणरहितत्वात् निरायतमेव स्थितम्.

MY says उरोगतगम्भीरव्रणविवरेषु तत्स्पर्शनरहितं, व्रणवेष्टेषु कर्कशतया मुखरं, स्खलदेकदेशं चेत्येवमुरःस्थले विषमं सत् महोदरकवचं पृष्ठे निम्नोन्नताभावात् ऋजु अवस्थितमित्यर्थः । स्वयं महोदरतया वक्षःस्थलस्य व्रणसंकटतया च वक्षसो नापासरदिति तात्पर्यम्. Our copy of Kula has only the pratika of this verse but quotation in SC shows that he reads muhala-kkhalanta for muhalm kha° — मुखरस्खलदेकदेशमिति कुलनाथः.

55 The verse is not found in K, MY and our transcript of Kula.

56 The verse is missing in our transcript of Kula K says त्रिशिरसो राक्षसस्य बहुकण्ठान्तरकरालितः¹ बहूनां त्रयाणां कण्ठानाम् अनुरूपं छिद्रयुक्तः, उत्क्षिप्तनिहितः सनाहः एकमुखमुत्क्षिप्तहस्तत्वात् तनावुरसि शिथिलमेवापसृतः अधोगतः.

MY says त्रिशिरसो यथार्थनाम्नोऽन्तःप्रवेशितैः ऊर्ध्वमुखोत्क्षिप्तैः षड्भिर्हस्तैरुरसि तनूकृते संनह्यमानेनोत्क्षिप्तं कवचमयत्नेन शरीरं व्यासक्तं प्रावृणोदित्यर्थः. SC says समुत्क्षिप्तः करयोरुत्क्षेपणादूर्ध्वीकृतः. R says एकमुखेन एकोपक्रमेण उत्क्षिप्तैः संनाहवाहुमध्यप्रवेशनाय उत्तोलितैः हस्तैः तनुके.

57 K and MY have अकम्पन for महोदर (R and Kula) already mentioned in verse 54

K says स सनाहः भरेण आत्मना स्वयमेव (भरवशात् स्वयमेव MY) अपसरति स्म. Cf. Hemacandra 2. 209 — स्वयमित्यस्यार्थे appano वा प्रयोक्तव्यम्. R says सनाह आत्मनः संनाहस्यैव भरेण अपसरति. Kula says आत्मनो भरेणावसगति अवतरति.

58. K and MY read लोह for nihasa = निकष (R and Kula).

K says इन्द्रजितो वक्षसि कृतप्रहारस्य ऐरावतस्य दन्तमुसला वक्षःकाठिन्येन तत्र प्रवेष्टुमशक्नुवन्तः कवचमेव भित्त्वा निःसरन्ति । निःसृतैरावतदन्तमुसलत्वात् दृश्यमानमसृणितलोहच्छायम्, अत एव मध्ये सान्तरालं कवचमिन्द्रजित उरःस्थले उत्तम्यते विषमोन्नतमतिष्ठत्.

59. K and MY seem to read uddha-tthie for ūrūsu thia° (R). K reads देहं separately, and विच्छिन्न for vocchinna (R).

R says ऊर्वोः स्थितः प्रलम्बोऽवसारः प्रस्तारो यस्येत्यूरुपर्यन्तलम्बितेऽति-कायस्यापि रावणपुत्रस्य कवचे.

K says अतिकायस्यापि कवचे ऊर्ध्वं स्थितं (स्थिते ?) चिरेण प्रलम्बावसारे सति प्रभाविमुक्तं निजया प्रभया विमुक्तं तस्य देहं विच्छिन्नकृष्णमेघच्छादितं नभ इव जातम्.

MY says अतिकायस्य कवचे कायमहत्त्वेन ऊर्ध्वावस्थिते सुचिरेण प्रलम्बावसारे सति प्रलम्बो यथा स्यात् तथापसारो यस्य तस्मिन् तथा देहप्रभाविमुक्तं गगनं सहसा व्युपाच्छिन्नकृष्णमेघमिव जातमित्यर्थः.

Kula's readings are different. He says अतिकायस्यापि कवचं प्रलम्बावसारं बृहत्परिणाहमपि कायस्य महत्त्वात् चिरेण उरसि संस्थितं, देहप्रभाया वियुक्तं, जातं व्यवच्छिन्नकृष्णमिहिकमिव नभः लोहकवचं नभ इव कृष्णं विशालं चेत्यर्थः.

The reading कवचं found in Kula is mentioned by R as a variant. Kula explains अवसार as परिणाह (प्रस्तार acc. to R who has अवसार). It will be seen that Kula reads उरसि संस्थितं, i.e., ura-samthiam for ūrūsu thia°. Cf. SC Text, which however reads deha-pahānuviddham.

60 K says समराय त्वरितो धूम्राक्षः वज्रमुखच्छिन्नवन्धनम्, अतएवोरःस्थले उद्धृतं विवृतं दर्शितांसप्रदेशं कवचमावध्य, स्निदयते शत्रुवधाय

खिदचते रम. MY reads वज्रधर for वज्रमुख, and takes sovāsam separately. He says वज्रधरायोधने वज्रधरात् त्रुटितवन्धनमतण्व उरःस्थलादुद्वृत्तं दर्शितं सावकाशं (i.e. sovāsam) च कवचमावध्य समरत्वरितः कवचान्तरग्रहणविलम्बादखिद्यतेत्यर्थः. Kula is corrupt, but seems to say दर्शितां सावकाशमनावृतांसम्

61. K says चिरप्ररुद्धे चिरं रोपिते वद्धकिणे व्रणसंघाते रोपेण शरीरपोषात् स्फुटिते सति. R says रोपजन्यस्पन्दनेनोत्फुल्लतया कवचघर्षणात्.

62. K and Kula read aklhippanta (आक्षिप्यमाण) for u' (R and MY). K, Kula and probably MY read विघटित (tihadia) for viaha (R) = विगलित.

K says निकुम्भस्य उरसि अमर्षवेगेन वलिते विस्तारिते सति आक्षिप्यमाणत्वात् नितरामायता¹ माढी कवचं स्फुटदर्शितसीमन्ता स्फुटदर्शितभेदेरेखा भूत्वा विश्लिष्यति विघटिताभूत्² । जगरः कंकटो माढो दंसनं जालिका स्मृतेति हलायुधः ।

Kula says वलिते तिर्यगाक्षिप्ते । विघटिता लौहवल्या यत्र, छेदात् विश्लिष्टलौहकटिका । msallar विकसति उल्लसति । विकासादेव स्फुटदर्शितसीमन्ता व्यक्तीकृतसीमन्ताकारपार्श्वसन्धिरित्यर्थः. With regard to माढी, he says यत्र निबिडस्यूते कवचाञ्चलपर्यन्ते सन्धिवन्धदाह्यार्थं लौहादिघटितकटिका आवध्यते सा माढी. R says माढी देश्यां लौहाङ्गुलीयघटितो 'जिरह' इति प्रसिद्धः संनाहः. SC explains it as कवचबन्धनखिल्लिका.

1 Kula says आक्षिप्यमाणत्वात् निरायता प्रसारिता.

2 K (chāyā) has विघटितलोहवल्या विश्लिष्यति माढी

63. K and MY read सुपरीक्षितं for suparicchaam. (R and Kula).

K, Kula and MY read समुपस्थितं for samuha-ttithiam (R).

MY says suparicchiam. सुपरीक्षितम्. He mentions the other reading and says सुपरिच्छदं सम्यक् सिराबन्धनवल्यादिनिर्मितमित्यर्थः । रामशरा एव दुर्जातं व्यसनम् । सुराहवे सुपरीक्षितमभेद्यं कवचं शुको न्यबध्नात् । पुरतः समुपस्थितं दुर्वारं रामशरदुर्जातं नाज्ञासीदित्यर्थः. R says दुर्जातमुपद्रवम्.

Kula says सुपरिच्छदं विचित्रसुवर्णादिरचनम् पुरतः समुपस्थितं दुर्वारैः रामशरैर्दुर्जातमनर्थोपनिपातं न जानाति.

64. K says त्वरितमापृष्टायाः कामिन्या बलमानधन्योपगूहनस्याभिज्ञानभूतं स्तनपरिमलं स्तनविमर्दं दयमानः केवलमेव निर्याति स्म. R says निरैति युद्धाय गच्छत्येव. धावतो महेन्द्रस्य ये पदविक्षेपाः चिरावस्थिताः गोपुरे निर्मिताः ते केवलं कपिभिरेव त्रुटिता न तु महेन्द्रेणान्येन वेति भावः. MY seems to read samarāñchia like R who says समरादतिक्रान्तस्य पलायितस्य महेन्द्रस्य.

Kula reads navari (अनन्तरं) for navara (केवलं); and समरापवर्तित, i.e. samarovattia.¹ cf. veoyattia = वेगापवर्तित 14.74. He

1 SC Text has samaroattia.

2 Hemacandra 4. 222.

दृश्यते परिखातदस्थितकपिसैन्यस्यापि प्राकारसादृश्यात्. It will be seen that Kula reads क्षित, i.e., °kkhitta for vvūḍha = व्यूढ explained as उपचित (R), प्रवृत्त (K).

79 K reads विवर्जित for vihatta = विभक्त (R). He reads मण्डल for mandali (R, Kula and MY).

K says ततस्तत् बलमानविकटं¹ पण्डितःस्थितविशालं, विवर्जितद्वारविस्तारं वानरसैन्यं निरन्तरनिवहत्वात् लङ्कायाः प्राकारत्वेन घटितमण्डलबन्धं जातम् । लङ्कां परितो निरन्तरनिषण्णं तद्वानरसैन्यं गोपुररहितप्राकारमण्डलमिव जातमित्यर्थः.

MY says virikka विरिक्त (for vihatta), विमुक्तद्वारावकाशमिति यावत्. This seems to be the reading of K also, who has विवर्जित. See above. K (chāyā) has, विविक्त, which might be a scribal error for विरिक्त. MY goes on to say nvaha इति सवशो निरन्तरावस्थिततया लङ्काप्राकारस्य घटितो मण्डलीबन्धो वेष्टनं येन तत्तथा.

Kula reads vivikka-dādhāhoam (cf SC Text) for vihatta-dārāhoam विभक्तद्वाराभोगम् found in R. He says विविक्तदंष्ट्राभोगं प्रकटिताशेषदंष्ट्रम्. He explains valanta-viadam as वेष्टमानोच्छ्रितं (वानरसैन्यम्).

R's reading vihatta is also found in Śrinivāsa quoted in SC : ममेदं द्वारं तवेदमिति कृत्वा विभक्तद्वाराभोगम्. R says विभक्तः कपिमुख्येभ्यो विभज्य दत्तो द्वाराणामाभोगो येन. It may be noted that the reading virikka may also mean the same thing, as one of the meanings of विरिक्त (from वि+रिञ्च) is विभक्त. see Pāṇasadda° sub voce. 1 R says बलत् प्रवेशाय दिशि दिशि गच्छत् सत् विकटं विस्तीर्णम्

81. वानरैः दशमुखाधिष्ठाने लङ्कापुरे तुलिते परिभूते सति K. वानरैः तुलिते आक्रान्तत्वात् परिकलिते Kula तुलिते आक्रान्ते R. Sc quotes विश्व-अधिष्ठानं पुरे etc.

82. K reads महितः for tulio = त्वरितः (R). Kula also has त्वरितः. K reads भुग्न for bhagga (R) Kula seems to read लग्न, i.e., lagga.

K says समरपूजितः निकुम्भः सेनापतिः आसन्नानां गजेन्द्राणां लङ्घनाय प्रहाराय बलमानैः, युगभुग्नकेसरैः ग्रीवागतेन युगेन कुटिलीकृतकेसरैः शरभैर्युक्तं रथमारूढो नगरात् निर्ययौ । शरभः सिंह इव गजशत्रुः । तथा वैजयन्ती — शरभस्तु गजारातिरुत्पादश्चाष्टपादपि.

83. K and MY pratīka has kiha vi (कथमपि) for kaha vi (R and Kula). K and MY read आसादित for āsamgha (R and Kula)

K says अतित्वरया कथमपि बद्धकवचः समराय स्वबुद्ध्या प्रार्थित-सकलवानरलोकः प्रजङ्घः निर्ययौ.

My says Kiha vi कथमपि विलम्बासहतयेति भावः । समरासादित समरप्रतीष्ट. Cf. Pali āsādeti, to lay hand on, strike, assail etc.

R says समरेऽध्यवसितः सर्वैः सह मयैव योद्धव्यमिति स्थिरीकृतः समस्त-वानरलोको येन. Kula says समरे आसङ्घित शक्यो जेतुमिति अवधारितः समस्तो वानरलोको येन सः. K explains tūayā as त्वरित (R chāyā also). SC chāyā has त्वरायत. R comm says त्वरां कारिताः तुरङ्गमा येन.

86 K (chāyā) has आस्थानी K says आस्थानमण्डपमास्थानी तस्याः क्षोभेण तद्गतजनक्षोभेण यो हलहलः कोलाहलः तेन कारणेनोत्थितमुखरे उत्थाय शब्दायमाने निजबले etc.

Kula says आस्थानीक्षोभेणास्थानश्रितानां रोषावेशेन (८) यत् हलहलं रणौत्सुक्यतरलत्वं तेनोत्थितमुखरे कृतकोलाहले. R says अस्थानक्षोभात् आकस्मिकक्षोभात् उत्थितेन हलहलेन कलकलेन मुखरे शब्दायमाने पूर्वनिपाता- नियमात् । यद्वा हल्हलशब्दो युद्धोत्कण्ठायां देशी । युद्धोत्कण्ठया मुखर इत्यर्थः.

Kula says अविसर्जितनिष्क्रान्ते आदेशं विना निर्गते निजकबले.

87. K says रणाय त्वरितं युक्ता अश्वैर्युक्ता युज्यमानश्च रया यत्र तत्.
MY says रणत्वरितै रथिभिर्युक्त — युज्यमानरथमिति. K (chāyā) has सनत्तमनन्तमानभटं घटितघटमानगजघटं. R has घट्ट्यमान. Kula has, घटमान,

88. K (chāyā) has सत्यापित for saccavia. K (comm) says
रथगतैर्लक्षीकृतमुग्रीवलक्ष्मणम्. K (chāyā) has भूमिगतपरीयमाणवानरं निरेति
वल्लम्. K (comm) says पदातिभिः परीयमाणशेषवानरसैन्यं भूत्वा निर्ययौ.
K seems to read bhūmi-gaa-parintar-vānaram for bhūmi-gaa-varia-kailalam (R). For parinta see notes on 9.88. Here it is passive. Cf.
forms like bharanta (भ्रियमाण) 8.53, purenta (पूर्यमाण) 11.63 etc.

R says रथगतैः सत्यापितावेताभ्यां सहास्माभिः योद्धव्यमिति स्थिरीकृतौ
भौमित्रिन्दवगपती यत्र. SC says सत्यापितौ स्वीकृतौ.

MY says varia वृत्त प्रार्थितेति यावत् । saccavia लक्षित अन्विष्टेति यावत् । virikka शून्यीकृत. MY seems to read bhūmi-gaa-virikka-vānaram. He says भूमिगतैः पत्तिमात्रैः विरिक्ता अपक्रान्ताः शेषवानरा यस्य तत्तथा.

Kula says भूमिगतैः विद्युक्ताः (विविक्ताः SC) पृथक्कृता एकैकंशो युता (SC also) वानरा यत्र तत् बलं (i.e. राक्षसबलं) निर्याति. His reading might be bhūmi-gaa-virikka-vānaram.

89. K and Kula read भ्रमति for valai (R). Kula says भ्रमति
निरगतो यानि. K (chāyā) has, अघटमानैकमुखनिर्गमं, but comm says.
भटनन्तरेषु व्याकुलीभवन् एवमयमानैकमुखनिर्गमं बलं भ्रमति स्म एकेनैव गोपु- रमुत्तमं युगपन्निर्गमेन आगच्छति स्म. His reading seems to be aamāna for ambhanta — अघटमान (R and Kula). R on 6.26 translates aīnta as, भ्रमन्तः (गच्छन्), but that does not suit the metre here. Unless it is a scribal error, K's reading may be construed as एकमुखनिर्गमेन अयमानम् by the पूर्वनिपातानियम rule. R says तत् बलम् अघटमानाऽ-संपदचमान एकमुखेनैकोपक्रमेण, एकदेति यावत्, निर्गमो यस्य तथा सत् बलति निर्गमव्यग्रतया दिशि दिशि मण्डलीमाचरतीत्यर्थः. Kula says स्खलितं विध्नितम्.

90 K reads धनुः for jua = युग (R). and विलिखित (vilihia, cf. SC. Text) for vihadia = विघटित (R) K (chāya), SC and MY have तलिम for तडिम (R). Kula's readings are uncertain.

K says राक्षसरथा बलमानाभिरवनमन्तीभिः 'धनुष्कोटिभिः विलिखित-कपाटानि गोपुराणि तिर्यगवनमितैः ध्वजैराहतोपलाः सन्तो दुःखेन अतिक्रामन्ति स्म.

MY says महतामपि पुरद्वाराणां निष्क्रामणापर्याप्तावकाशतया तदुपरि-भागप्रतिबन्धतया त्र्यक्षीभूतैरेव नमितैः ध्वजैः स्पृश्यमानोपरितलिमा रथा गोपुराण्यत्यक्रामन्.

Kula says उपरित(लि)मं द्वारकूटपटलतलभागः. R says उपरितडिमं द्वारस्थोपरिभागः. SC says तलिमं कवाटोपरिकाष्ठविशेष इति केचित् । उपरि-वितानमिति केचित्, and quotes विश्व which gives वितानक as one of the meanings of तलिम.

91 K has निस्त्रुटित for nisudhia = निपातित (R). K pratika is nisudia K and MY read फणान्तरित for °pphanam dalia° (R) R says भग्ना भुजङ्गस्य शेषस्य फणा यस्मात् । तथा दलितं पातालं येन । भूपतनादित्यर्थः.

K says असहिष्णुतया विरुग्णदिग्गजेन्द्रं, भग्नैर्भुजङ्गफणैरन्तरितपातालं राक्षसानां प्रसरतां भरं गौरवातिशयं गुरुमपि अचिरात् लघुर्भविष्यतीति भूमिः सहते स्म.

MY reads nisudhia explained as अवपातित. He says अन्तरित व्यवहित. Kula reads निलुटित¹ निलुटिता आक्रान्ताः पृथिवी (धारयन्तः)

1. niludhia ? The pratika in our copy is nilutia which is a mistake

दिग्गजेन्द्रा येन. He says भग्नाभिः भुजङ्गस्य शेषस्य फणाभिः अपसृतं संकुचितं पातालं यत्र तम्. Kula's readings is °pphanosana

92. K reads विहल (vihalam) for pihulam = पृथुलं (R and Kula) He reads रसति for nū=निरैति, निर्याति (R and Kula)

K says अग्रस्कन्धो युद्धभूमिः तां प्राप्तं, मध्यप्रदेशे द्वारमुखरुद्धत्वात् पुञ्जितविहलं, पूरितरथ्यामुखं, कूलेन पृष्ठभागेन आपूरितभवनाङ्गणं भूत्वा रसति स्म । कलं तरे चभूकटावति वैजयन्ती. R says यद्वा अग्रस्कन्धे कपिसैन्याग्रे आपतितं स्वाग्रभागेनैवेत्यर्थात्. MY says अग्रस्कन्धावपतितं यत्र योद्धव्यं तत्रैव प्राप्तम् । ūsasia उच्छ्वासित (K chāyā also) । शाखी तिर्यग्रथ्या । पूरित-तिर्यग्रथ्यामुखमिति यावत्. K and MY seem to read ūsasia-sāhi for ūsasia-sāhi (R and Kula ?) Kula says अग्रस्कन्धे प्लवगबलेनापतितं शत्रु सैन्ये लग्नम्. He seems to say उच्छ्वासितशास्यामुखम्, 'साही' रथ्या, सावकाशीकृतरथ्यामुखम् (?). R says उच्छ्वासितं कियतां निर्गमनादसंबाधोकृतं रथ्यामुखं येन । साहिशब्दो राजमार्गे देशी.

93. K and MY read उत्तम्भं for °tthambham (R). K reads दर for dari (R and Kula)

K says तन्निशाचरसैन्यं द्वारे गोपुरमुखे कृतोत्तम्भं कृतसंमर्दं सङ्कटं, ततो विभिन्नविकटं पृथग्भूय प्रसृतं, तदानीमेकेन मुखेन दरं विनिर्गम्य समस्थले उत्तानप्रस्थितनदीप्रवहनिभं भूत्वा निर्ययौ. Cf R on 9 26.

MY says kautthambham (SC Text also) कृतोत्तम्भं कृतप्रतिबन्धम्. Kula says इत्युक्तप्रकारेण द्वारे....कृतान्योन्यघर्षं निर्याति विभिन्नं पृथग्भूतं ततो विकटं विततं निशाचरसैन्यम् । एकमुखदरिविनिर्गतायाः समस्थाने उत्तानमगम्भीरं प्रस्थिताया विततजलायाः नद्या इव छाया यस्य तत्तथा ¹ SC says द्वारेण कृत उत्तम्भो रोधो यस्येति केचित्.

1 Partly restored from SC which reproduces Kula anonymously After द्वारे SC omits a word which is partly corrupt in our copy, but seems to stand for कृतोत्तम्भं.

94. K (chāyā) has व्यतिरिक्तानि (विशेषेण रिक्तानि comm.), i.e. varikkāim for paī° (प्रतिरिक्तानि शून्यानि R)

MY seems to read punnojhbāa which he renders as पूर्णविक्षीण for punna-jbhina (पूर्णक्षीण). He says समरार्थं गतैर्योधैः शून्यीकृतानि भवनाङ्गणानि पूर्णतत्क्षणावक्षोणानां सरितां पुलिनसदृशानि आसन्नित्यर्थः.

95. K explains only a phrase of this verse. K (chāyā) has वात (Kula and MY also) for pavana (R), and विचलितः for paca° (R). In our transcript K (chāyā) has दवः, like R and Kula, but Goldschmidt's ms has तरुः. MY has द्रुम, and विवलितः for विचलितः. MY says लङ्कावेष्टनार्थं व्यग्रः कपिनिवहो निर्यद्राक्षसबलावलोकनेन प्रबलवाताहतद्रुमवत् विवलितः परावृत्त इत्यर्थः.

Kula says खरवातप्रेषितवनदव इव चलितः तदभिमुख प्रस्थितः. He seems to read vana-davo via calto as in ms C of Goldschmidt. cf SC Text.

96. MY says paharujjaa- pāikkam प्रहारोद्यतपादात् (K also). SC Text has paharujjaa. K explains मुवताङ्कुशमातङ्ग as प्रयुक्ताङ्कुशमातङ्गः. MY remarks उद्योजितमातङ्गम् उद्योजितरथं च राक्षससैन्यं जातमिति यावत्.

Kula reads परिवर्तते for parivaddai — निगाचरसैन्यं परिवर्तते कपि-सैन्यस्याभिमुखनित्यत्वात् SC says परिवर्तते वनगभिमुखीभूय धावति.

R says प्रहारे ऋजुका वेध्यसंमुखीकृतकुन्ताः पदातयो यत्र.

SC says त्वरार्थं मुक्ता अङ्कुशा यत्र एदंभूता मातङ्गा यत्र.

97. This is the last verse of the Canto in K, My and Muda, adapted to introduce the usual concluding word अनुगम. See below.

K, MY and Kula read नसोढ (nasahia, cf SC Text for mahiala (a). K and Muda read धावति (dhāi) for thūi = तिष्ठति (R and Kula) K, Muda and My read गृहीत नुराग, i.e. gahānuraam for anohina-bhadam अनवहीनभटं (R)

K says ततः कपिसन्यमेकत्वेन आगतवेगम् एकरूपागतवेगम्, अग्रतो दत्तमभ्यधिकं मदं परस्परं न सोढं येन तत्तथाभूतं, गृहीतयुद्धानुरागं, तथैव परितो मण्डलाकारेण प्रधावितं भूत्वा राक्षसबलमभितो धावति स्मेति¹.

My says ekkakkama अन्योन्य । तुल्यागतवेगम्, अन्योन्येन पराभिमुखदत्तमभ्यधिकपदमसहमानं, स्वीकृतरणानुराग, तथा परिमण्डलीभूय प्रधावितम् । यथा राक्षससैन्यं निरगात् तथा परिमण्डलीभूय तत्प्रतीच्छामकरोत् कपिबलमपीत्यर्थः.

R says अनवहीना अनपगतधैर्या भटा यत्र. Kula reads भर for भट. He says एकैकेन दत्तं न सोढमभ्यधिकं पदं येन तत् तथा cf. K chaya — एकैकदत्तनसोढाभ्यधिकपदं) । अनवहीनभरम् अपरित्यक्तरणभारं, यथा पूर्वं तथा परिमण्डलप्रधावितं कपिसैन्यं तिष्ठति । अभिमुखागतानपि राक्षसान् दृष्ट्वा तथैव सोत्साहं स्थितमित्यर्थः. The beginning of Kula's gloss is missing, but SC says एकरूपतया आगतो वेगो यस्य, समकृतवेगमिति कुलनाथः.

98 K and MY put this as the concluding verse of their Canto 13 as explained in the Introduction.

MY says केवलं रणानुरागेण न भज्यन्ते कदाचिदपि भग्नरणानुरागा न भवन्तीत्यर्थः R says प्रार्थयन्ते परानुपरुन्धन्ति युद्धायाकारयन्ति वा. Kula says प्रार्थयन्ते वरयन्ति परानित्यर्थात्. SC says अभियुञ्जन्ति.

The phrase na bhajjanti bhada recurs in 13 4 (न भज्यन्ते नापसरन्ति R).

1 Muda says गृहीतानुरागं गृहीतयुद्धाभिनिवेशं कपिसैन्यं तथा परिमण्डलप्रधावितमेव भूत्वा धावतीति । तथा परिमण्डलं प्रधावितं, यथा आरम्भदशायामपरिमण्डलं भवति उत्तरदशायामपि तथैव परिमण्डलं सत् प्रधावितमिति.

CANTO XIII

1. K says अनन्तरं लङ्कायाः निर्गतमिलितैः निर्गत्य समूढैः, पूर्वमालीनैः लङ्कासमीपाश्रितैः ततः समागतैः रजनिचरैः वानरैश्च विमुक्तरवं यथा गुरु अतिमहत् रणप्रस्थानं रणार्थं प्रयाणं दत्तं कृतम् । परस्परेण सोढं च Kula says निर्गतमिलितैः निष्क्रम्य लग्नै रजनिचरैः आलीनसमागतैः द्वौकित्वा मिश्रीभूतैश्च वानरैः.

Muda says निर्गतमिलितैः पुर्या निर्गतमात्रं गत्वा युद्धार्थं श्लिष्टैः, आलीन-समागतैः द्वीपान्तरादागत्य समालीनैः यथाक्रमं रजनीचरवानरैः गुरुकं रणप्रस्थानं रणप्रक्रिया दत्तं सोढं च । निर्गतमिलिताः रजनीचराः यथा प्रहरन्ति सहन्ते च समागतालीनवानरा अपि तथैव प्रहरन्ति सहन्ते चेत्यर्थः.

Kula says गुरुकरणप्रस्थानं महासमराघटनम्.

2. K reads taha vi (तथापि) for taha a (तथा च). K, MY. Kula and Muda read patthia for patthana = प्रस्थान (R), and aīgaā (अतिगताः) for ahugaā = अभिगताः (R).

K says पुरोभवतां प्रतिभटानां निपातितेषु देहेषु उपरिनिहितचरणाः सन्तः प्रस्थिताश्च सैनिका अन्योन्यं तथातिगता अतिक्रम्य गताः (Kula also) । कथमिति चेत्, प्रहारलालसाः ते यथा स्तोकमपसृताः । एतदुक्तं भवति—युद्धार्थमतिसंरब्धाः ते राक्षसवानराः प्रस्थानवेगातिशयात् पुरःस्थान् प्रत्यर्थिनो निपात्य तेषामुपरि कृतपदन्यासाः परस्परयोः अभ्यन्तरमवगाह्य पुनः प्रहारार्थं किञ्चिदपसृता इति.

MY says pnrilla पुरोगत । पुरोगतानां योधानां वेगवशात् निपतितदे-होपरि कृतपदाः त्वरया प्रस्थिताः सैनिकाः तथात्यन्तं पिलता यथा प्रहारावकाशार्थः पुनरपासरन् इत्यर्थः । अतिगता अतिसंश्लिष्टाः. Muda says त्वरेतं प्रस्थिताः प्रतिपुरुषाः तथा एकैकमतिगताः अत्यन्तमासन्नाः, प्रहारलालसाः प्रहारेच्छवः यथा स्तोकमपसृताः. Kula says एकैकं प्रत्येकम्.

3. K says पूर्व हृदये यथा युद्धे व्यवसितम् एवमेवं करिष्यामीति यथा अध्यवसितं, ततः समरभूमौ रजसा कलुषितैः नयनैः यथा लक्षितं (सत्यापितं chaya), राक्षसैः प्रतिपक्षे तथा प्रहारणमवहतं प्रयुक्तम् (विसृष्टम् Muda; व्यापारितम् Kula)

MY says saccavā लक्षित (दृष्ट Kula; लक्षीकृत Muda). Kula reads रजनीचरवानरैः (i.e., raaniara-vānarehim, like ms. C of Goldschmidt) for raaniarehi ranamuhe. Kula says यथा हृदयैर्व्यवसितं चिन्तितम्.

4. K and Muda read प्रतिष्ठापित (Kula also) for परि^०; भुजाः - for bhadā (भटाः); and sajjanti for bhajjanti = भज्यन्ते (R and Kula ')

K says पदशब्देन स्वामिना तत्काल एव प्रतिपादितः अधिकारविशेष उच्यते । तस्य लाभात् अभ्यधिकजवाः अतिप्रकृष्टप्रहाररभसा, मुष्टिषु प्रतिष्ठापित-निश्चलखट्वा, लक्षितलब्धलक्षा (सत्यापितलब्धलक्षाः chaya) भटानां भुजाः प्रहारविशदाः प्रथम एव विदारितलक्षा न सज्यन्ति (सज्यन्ते ?) न कुत्रचित् प्रतिहन्यन्ते स्म.

MY says पदं प्रहारस्थानं प्रहारविषयः तस्य लाभः । लक्षितलब्धलक्षाः यथा लक्षितं तथा लक्षं लब्धं यैस्ते तथा । प्रथमप्रहारात् नाश्राम्यन् किंतु संस्कारोद्बोधात् लघवः शक्त्यतिशययोगिनोऽभवन् इत्यर्थः.

Kula says सत्यीकृतो दृष्टो लब्धो लब्धः प्रहर्तव्यदेशो यैस्ते तथा । प्रथमप्रहारे अजातखेदत्वात् विशदाः पटवः अतएव जितश्रमत्वात् नावसीदन्ति. He seems to read bhajjanti lik R who syas न भज्यन्ते न पराजयन्ते. Kula says also पदलाभाय, प्रहारस्थानप्राप्तये, अथवा पदलाभेन...पदन्यासप्राप्त्या अत्यधिकजवाः वेगेन परिसृताः. It is not clear whether he read bhuā or bhadā (R). See above.

R takes visaa (विशद) as विषय (प्रथमप्रहारस्य विषया अपि), but mentions the other explanation

Muda pratika has अव, and he reads अवलम्बित for paa-lambha. He also reads प्रसार for प्रहार. He says अवलम्बिताभ्यधिक-जवाः स्वीकृतात्यर्थवेगाः, मुष्टिप्रतिष्ठापितत्वात् दृढगृहीतत्वात् निष्प्रकम्पस्वङ्गाः, लक्ष्मीकृतबद्धलक्षाः भुजाः प्रथमप्रसार एव विशदाः प्रथमप्रसार एव प्रहारकत्वेन प्रसिद्धाः भुजाः पुनर्न सज्यन्ते प्रथमप्रयोग एव कर्तव्यस्य परिसमापितत्वात् पुनर्न सज्यन्ते नोद्युक्ता भवन्ति. Muda seems to read बद्ध for लब्ध in the second line.

5. K says मातङ्गाः प्लवगैः स्वहस्तेन आविद्वान् क्षिप्तान्, चलित-शाखान्, मुखमण्डले घूर्णनेन अपमृष्टसिन्दूरविन्यासान्, कुम्भतटे मग्नान् वृक्षान् धून्वन्ति स्म. MY says Khutta खात (for ukkhutta)

6. Kula syas रामस्य रोषस्य राक्षसपतेः दुःसहस्य मदनस्य (च) सममेव द्वयोरपि राक्षसप्रक्षयहेतुत्वात् अनुरूपदाहणः परिणामः आरब्धः वृत्तः.

7. वानरा इत्यध्याहार्यम् K. प्रतिपक्षः प्रहारविषयः SC.

8. K and Kula read निर्भिन्न (nibbhinna used many times in the poem) for vikkinna = विकीर्ण (R).

K says तत्र राक्षसाः शरैः निर्भिन्नमहीधराः शरैः भिन्ना वानरमुक्ता महीधरा यैस्ते । तथा शरविघटितशेषाः शरैः विदारितशेषाः मुद्गरैः आहताः शैलाः यैस्ते । तथा प्रहारमार्गमतीता आसन्नत्वात् आयुधगोचरमतीताः भुजैरेव चूर्णिताः पर्वता यैस्ते । तथा भूत्वा भ्रमन्ति स्म.

My says शरमुद्गरादयशेषायुधैरपि अक्षता आसन्नतमा ये ते भुजैरेव राक्षसैः चूर्ण्यन्त इत्यर्थः. He says aincia अतिगत. Cf. 13. 28 below. Gn 13. 86 also he explains the word as अतिगत, and says जम्बुमालिनं हत्वा हनूमानतिगत इत्यर्थः.

K (Chāyā) has प्रहरणमार्ग. Kula says प्रहरणमार्गादतिक्रान्ता भुजैः चूर्णिताः पर्वताः यैस्ते निशाचराः.

9. K says विरतृतस्य गिरेः परिणाहवत् विस्तारवत् विकटे विशाळे
 पुवङ्गस्य स्कन्धे ग्रीवामूले भागपतितोऽपि यथास्थानपतितोऽपि गजस्य स्थूलः
 करविस्तारः अप्रभवदावेष्टः अपर्याप्नुवदावेष्टनो भूत्वा उल्ललति विगलति स्म.
 MY says अपर्याप्तदावेष्टनानुगुणैर्द्वयः उल्ललति विषमं स्खलतीत्यर्थः. Kula says भ्रमति. R says चञ्चलीभवति.

10. K says कपिना रोषात् प्रेषितस्य क्षिप्तस्य, रजनिचरोरःस्थले
 चूर्णितस्य शिखरिणो गिरेः रजो धूलिः ऊर्ध्वमुद्धावति स्म । तस्य शिलासंघातः अधोमुखोऽपसरति स्म.

11. K says रिपुबलस्य मध्ये निरायताः, निहताः निरन्तरं निपातिताः
 ज्ञायमानाः प्रख्याताः भटाः येषु, तेषां विक्रमणे कृते निःसामान्या निरुपमा, एवंभूताः भटानां गतिमार्गा द्रष्टुमपि दुष्कराः किं पुनः कर्तुमिति.

MY says भटानां ज्ञायमानत्वं प्रसिद्धता । विक्रमनिःसामान्या विक्रमेण
 निरुपमाः. A has विक्रमणे. Kula says निरायता दीर्घाः । निहता निचूर्ण-
 निपातिताः ज्ञायमानाः सुप्रसिद्धा भटा येषु ते तथा । (विक्रमेण) नि सामान्या असाधारणाः । अन्यैः भयहेतुत्वात् द्रष्टुमपि न शक्यन्त इत्यर्थः. Kula seems to read nicunṇia for niranṭara.

12. K says युद्धे योधैः शौण्डीर्यं स्वं सामर्थ्यं निरुह्यते निर्वर्त्यते स्म । अप्रतिहस्तलघुः — प्रतिहस्तः प्रतिद्वन्द्वी, अयोग्यप्रतिद्वन्द्वत्वात् लघुः प्रहारः
 आत्मीयः शस्त्रप्रहारः तैः हस्यते स्म । अथवा असदृशप्रतिभटत्वात् लघुः प्रहारः
 शत्रुणा कृतः शस्त्रप्रहारो वीरैरपहस्यते स्म । वीराणां वैर(र)बन्धो ववृधे ।
 समर्थाः साहसेषु अतिसन्धीयन्ते अतीव अभिनिविष्टा आसन् इत्यर्थः । कर्मकर्तरि
 परम्. For प्रतिहस्त see also verse 92.

MY says निरुह्यते प्राणव्ययेनार्पीति भावः । अप्रतिहस्तलघुः प्रति-
 प्रहाराभावलघुः । प्रहर्त्रैव स्वयमपहस्यते । समर्था एव साहसकरणेषु परैः अति-
 सन्धीयन्ते हन्यन्त इत्यर्थः । अथवा साहसेषु समर्थाः साहसानुष्ठातारः तदति
 शायिसाहसकरणात् स्पर्धमानैः अतिसन्धीयन्त इत्यर्थः. SC says जीयन्त इति
 श्रीनिवासः. Kula says शौटीर्यं शौर्याभिमानः । अप्रतिहस्तेन प्रतिप्रहारा-

प्रदानेन लघुकः परिभवनीयः प्रहारः प्रहारवान् पुरुषो हस्यते. Kula reads अभिसन्धीयन्ते, i. e., ah^o for ai samdhiijanti (अतिसन्धीयन्ते). He says समर्थाः प्राणनिरपेक्षकर्मसु अभिसन्धीयन्ते वञ्चयन्ते¹

13 K says शिरसि पतितेऽपि धैर्येण देहो न पतति रम । शूलेन विभिन्नमपि हृदयं नैव भिद्यते अन्तर्न विभिदे । अहङ्कारेण भटैः लभ्यमानमपि (chāyā also) आवेक्ष्यमानमपि रणभयं दुष्परिचितत्वात् प्रतिभटानां हृदये न लगति स्म. K's लभ्यमानम् might be a mistake for लाग्यमानम् = (āvijjantam (R)). R says लाग्यमानमपि शत्रुभिराधीयमानमपि. Cf. MY below.

R says शिरसि पतितेऽपि हृदयं न पतति ... न कातरतामवलम्बत इत्यर्थः. Kula says शूलेन समन्तात् भिन्नमपि न भिद्यते उन्नमपराङ्मुखं च² तिष्ठतीत्यर्थः । दुःपरिचितमननुभूतपूर्वम्.

MY says हृदयं न भिद्यते इति न भिद्यते नान्यथा भवति हृदयस्य व्यवसायभूयस्कृत्वादित्यर्थः. He has lāijjantam लिह्यमानम् (?), and says भटैः प्रतिभटानां प्रहारादिभिः आपाद्यमानमपि रणभयमपरिचिततया नालग दित्यर्थः. MY's लिह्यमानम् is a mistake for लाग्यमानम्. Kula is corrupt, but SC Text has lāijjantam, translated as लाग्यमानम् in the chāyā

14. K MY and Kula read hasāi for the first sahāi = सहते (R). K and My read प्रहार (pahāa) for dappa^o (R). K (chāyā) has अपसारेषु भटानां निर्दोषेष्वपि (SC Text also).

K says प्रहारेषु सत्सु प्रहृतानां भटानां दर्पः हसति विकसति स्म । पुरुषविश्वासः पुरुषः खलु अहमिति विश्वासः प्रहारस्य स्थानेषु विषयेषु प्राप्तैषु बलवत्तरेषु प्रतिभेदेषु (प्रतिभटेषु ?) प्रहर्तव्येषु सत्सु पुरुषाभिमानः सहते शक्नोति स्म । अतिभारेषु अभिमानिनामभिमानः साध्यं साधयतीति भावः ।

1. The word is restored from Kula quotation in SC which, however, has अर्धाकृष्टा वञ्चयन्ते.

2. Partially restored from SC,

निर्दोषेषु अपसारेषु करस्य वशादागतेषु (?) अपगतेषु भटानां रोपरसो नापसरति रम्. SC says pahara-tthānesu इपि पाठे प्रहारस्थानेषु प्रतिपक्षप्रहारसकटेषु इत्यर्थः.

MY says प्रहारेषु दर्पो हसति । प्रहृतः सन् भटः प्रहारमवजानातीति वा, प्रहृतरय भटस्य दर्पो वर्धत इति वार्थः । स्थानेषु अवसरेषु प्रहारं पुरुषांसा सहते । प्रहृतव्यस्य शूरतया प्रसिद्धिः । अभ्युद्यतं प्रहारमनुजानातीत्यर्थः. MY seems to read paharam tthānesu for pahara-tthānesu, which is K's reading

MY mentions another explanation सहते शोभत इत्यर्थः (cf Hemacandra 4 100) इति केचित् । हृदयस्थानेषु (प्रहारस्थानेषु ?) अपराङ्मु-स्तरय यः परकृतः प्रहारः तत्र तस्य पुरुषांसा शूरतराभिमान शोभत इत्यर्थः. He explains the second line thus आश्रयभूतेषु भटेषु अजनितभग्नदोषम-पसरत्सु अमित्रदर्शनादिना तदाश्रितो रोषो नापसरतीत्यर्थः R says निर्दोषेषु अपसारेषु न भयेन, किन्तु प्रहारसौकर्याय पश्चादागमनेष्वपि.

Kula says प्रहारेषु दर्पो हसति अवज्ञां करोति । पुरुषासङ्घः¹ पुरुषस्य शत्रुवधं प्रत्यासङ्गः(?)करत्वात् व्यवसायः² परप्रस्थानेषु पराभिमुखगमनेषु शोभते । भटानामिति सर्वत्र योज्यम्. Kula seems to read para-patthānesu (cf. SC text) and explains sahar as शोभते (cf MY above).

15 K reads दर for dadha = दृढ (R and Kula), and मुसल for मूल (R and Kula).

K says निमीलन्ति मृता इत्यर्थः । अन्यत् सुबोधम्. Kula says दृढं दण्टं दन्तमूलं दन्तनिर्गमस्थानं यैस्ते । समत्सरं सक्रोधम्.

16. K, MY and Kula read avahāranā (अवधारणा) for avahīranā = अवधीरणा (R) K reads bhajjai and Kula bhiyai for kiyai = क्रियते (R). They read cintiyjai for sumariijai = स्मर्यते (R). K reads संशये, i e. samsaamm for samsae vi (R and Kula).

1. Kula seems to say here āsamgha — गब्द आगाया देगीयः । -पुरुषाकाक्षा पुरुषस्य etc

2. SC says पुरुषस्य आशंसा शत्रुवधं प्रत्युत्साहः.

K says योधानामवधारणा अवश्यमेतं हनिष्यामीत्यव्यवसायः कदाचित् न भज्यते । संशये प्राणसंदेहे सति त्वामिना कृतं सुकृतं चिन्त्यते स्म । न तु स्मरणम् । विनिपातो विपत्तिः वाहनविनाशादिः न गण्यते स्म । भये दृष्टेऽपि लज्जा स्मर्यते पलायनप्रसङ्गे लज्जा स्मर्यते स्म.

MY says अवधारणा व्यवसायः । विनिपातो वधः । दृष्टे भये भयहेतौ.
his pratika is ohāranā

Kula says अवधारणा प्रतिज्ञा न भिद्यते । संशयेऽपि जीवितसंदेहेऽपि स्वामिसुकृतं चिन्त्यते. R says विनिपातो मरणम्.

17 K says राक्षसैः प्रथमानीताभिः सुरवन्दीभिः वन्दीभृताभिः सुर-स्त्रीभिः ये राक्षसाः जीवितसंशयेऽपि सुचिरं त्यक्ता अपरिगृहीताः, युद्धेऽभिमुखं निहताः त एव ताभिरभिसारिता देवत्वं गताः त एव ताभिः गृहीता इति.

MY has padicchūdhā (for परि^o) प्रतिक्षिप्ताः प्रत्याख्याता इति यावत्.

18. K reads भुजप्रहार¹ for अङ्गच्छेद (R) He says अवद्धरुधि-रत्वात् छेदलाघवेन अनुत्पन्नरुधिरत्वात् परिपाण्डरभुजप्रहारः, अगणितव्रणवेदनः, उष्णेन तीव्रेण प्रहारेण सरसः साभिनिवेशः कपिः रजनिचरेषु वद्धलक्षो भूत्वा प्रविवेशेत्यर्थः.

MY says उष्णप्रहारसरसः प्रत्यग्रप्रहारेण सोल्लासः । samallia प्राप्नोति (समाश्रयति K chāya). Kula says समालीयते ढौकते.

Kula says अगृहीतः रणकृतः सतापो येन. He reads *agahia-rana*² for agania-vāna^o. He says उष्णो दाहकारी प्रहारो यस्य स, तथापि सरसः सानुरागः.

R says अबद्धेन प्रवहता रुधिरेण परिपाण्डरः अङ्गच्छेदः क्षतं यस्य तथा. Kula says अबद्धेन गलता रुधिरेण परिपाण्डरव्रणच्छेदः. He thus reads paripandaravana-ccheo (cf. SC Text)

1 i. e. paripandara-bhua-ppaharo

2. This is the reading of ms C of Goldschmidt,

19 K says समर्थाः पराक्रमस्य अवसरं न प्रतीक्षन्ते न प्रतिपालयामासुः । परेण जनितं प्रतापं पौरुषमवधुन्दन्ति वभञ्जुः । यथाभणितं प्राक् प्रतिज्ञातमर्थम् अतिक्रामन्ति स्म तस्मादधिकं चक्रुः । साधुकारपुरतः अन्यैः क्रियमाणं साधुवादं पुरः कृत्वा प्रविशन्ति स्म (यन्ति chaya) । अथवा साधुकारं साधुक्रियां पुरस्कृत्य प्राविशन्निति.

MY says occhundanti अवधुन्दन्ति । opphundanti इति पाठे आक्रामन्तीत्यर्थः (Cf apphunda 6.57, 82) bolanti अतिक्रामन्ति । ततोऽपि अतिगयेन कुर्वन्तीत्यर्थः । अतियान्ति साधुकारस्य पुरतोऽतियान्ति । यत्र यत्र रिपून् ध्वन्तः शूराः प्रविशन्ति तत्र पश्चात् (तत्र तत्र A) भटैः कृतः साधुकारोऽपि प्रवर्तत इत्यर्थः । अत्र लट्प्रयोगेऽपि भूतविहितो लकारः तत्र तत्र निक्षेप्तव्यः.

Kula says अवसरं न प्रतीक्षन्ते कालक्षेपं न कुर्वन्ति. He also says साधुकारपुरतः इति यत्र साधुकारं शृण्वन्ति तदाभिमुखं समर्था आयान्ति¹ इत्यर्थः. R says साधुकारपुरतः प्रतिपक्षप्रहारादिकं दृष्ट्वा साधु साध्विति कृत्वा आयान्ति । तमेव (प्रति)प्रहर्तुमित्यर्थात् विपक्षकृतसाधुकारस्य पुरतः संमुखे आयान्ति इति वा.

20 K says इति तेषां तत् युद्धं व्यजृम्भत । कीदृशम् -- सुराङ्गनानाम् अमिनवदयितप्राप्त्या सुरतलाभस्य संकेतगृहं, धर्मयुद्धत्वात् भग्नयमलोकपथं खिली-भूतयमलोकमार्गं, महेन्द्रभवनममरावतीं तां प्रति ऋजूकृतमार्गम्. MY also has ऋजूकृत R says ऋजुकायितः समुखीकृतः.

21 K and Kula read हस्ति⁰ for दन्ति⁰. The beginning of K's gloss is not well preserved in our ms He says कपीनां वक्षस्तल-परिणतस्य (१) ... निजे (१) मुखे गजस्य मुख एवास्तमिता वक्षस्तलस्य काठिन्यातिशयात् प्रतिहता भूत्वा मूलभाग एवातिदूरं मग्ना हस्तिनां दन्ताख्याः परिधा यत्र तत् । निहतानां भटमहितानां भटप्रवराणां ग्रहणाय निपतितानां

1 Kula quotation in SC has अतिगच्छन्ति.

सुरवधूनां चलैः गमनरभसात् चलैः वलयः सुखराः प्लवगानां गतिपथा यत्र । वानरैः हतानां राक्षसभटानां ग्रहणाय वानराणां गतिपथाननुगच्छन्ति सुरस्त्रिय इत्यर्थः.

MY says कपिवक्षःसु तिर्यङ्निखाताः, तदाढ्यात् निजमुखेषु अस्तमिताश्च गजानां दन्तपरिधा यत्र तत्तथा.

R says निहतभटानां महितेन समीहया (Kula also) निपतितानां स्वर्गादागतानां सुरवधूनां etc.

Kula says कपिवक्षःस्थले परिणताः कृताघाता, निजकमुखेषु अस्तमिताः.... हस्तिदन्तपरिधा दन्तार्गला यत्र. R says कर्पीनां वक्षःस्थलेषु परिणतानां पश्चादागत्य दत्तदन्तप्रहाराणां पूर्वनिपातानियमादत्राकर्षणात् दन्तिनां निजकमुख एवास्तमिता.... दन्तपरिधा यत्र.

22. K reads रुद्ध for pavan = प्लवग (R and Kula) in the second line. He says प्लवगैः कृतेन अवपतनेन उपरि पतनेन निपातितरथम् । तेषामुत्पतनेन उत्क्षिप्तत्वात् विदार्यमाणगजेन्द्रम् (विघटमान....chāyā) । तैः गृहीतभ्रष्टतुरङ्गम् । अनुधावितरुद्धाः ततो निहतराक्षसयोधा यत्र तत्.

My says phida भ्रष्ट । प्रथमं भ्रष्टाः पुनर्गृहीताः तुरङ्गा यत्र तत्तथा. R says गृहीताः सन्तः स्फेदिताः चञ्चलत्वात् बहिर्गताः तुरङ्गा यत्र. Kula says गृहीताः प्रेषिताः तुरङ्गा यत्र. He reads मथित (mahia, cf. SC Text) for nihaa. He also says तेषामेवोत्पतनेन उत्क्षिप्य विघटमाना गजेन्द्रा यत्र¹

23. K reads निनद for lohn = लोभ (R and Kula). He says उरमि चूर्णितस्य चन्दनविटपस्य रसेन शीतलेन निर्वृतेन (निर्वाण chāyā) उरः-स्थलेन सुखं विपद्यमानचन्दनद्रुमप्रहारम् । कलकलनिनदार्थम् उद्घाटिते विवृते मुखे सहसा पतित्वा निष्क्रान्तरय मित्वा निर्गतय शरस्य मार्गेण निर्गमद्वारेण निर्यन्निनादम्.

Kula says कलकललोभेन विवृतेषु मुखेषु व्यतिक्रान्तानां निर्गम्य गतानां शराणां मार्गैः निर्यान्तो निनादा यत्र तत् तथा.

1 This is amplified by SC — पूर्वमाण्डेपु कपिषु तद्भगन् पतिता ये गजेन्द्राग्न एव तेषामुत्पतनेन गात्रमुत्क्षिप्य यत्र पलायिता

24 K reads ^०विद्ध for ^०रुद्ध (R and Kula ?). K and Kula read ^०आपूर्ण for ohunna = अपभिन्न=प्रतिहत (R). Their reading is āunna used in 12.6 (cf. SC Text).

K says भिन्नपुनर्घटमानगजसमूहं, प्रतिविद्धत्वात् अपसृत्य पुनः चक्रीकृतपदातिकं, पतितानामुपरि गमनात् रुधिरपूर्णरथपथं, हर्षाभावात् मुखेषु शुष्केषु फेनेषु लालफेनेषु मन्दहेषिततुरंगम् (निभृत^० chāyā).

Kula says मुखमुक्तैः फेनैः निभृतहेषिताः अव्यक्तध्वनयः तुरङ्गा यत्र तत् तथा. He reads mukka for sukka (शुष्क).

25 MY says virāa विलीन. K says रिपोः प्रहरणेन प्रहारेण परितोषितत्वात् साधुवादगर्भितं भूत्वा पतच्छिरस्कम्। प्रहारनिर्भिन्नमूर्च्छितत्वात्¹ वदनाभ्यन्तरे विलीनो भटानां घूत्कारो निनदो यत्र तत्. K (chāyā) has भटहुङ्कारम्. R says चुक्कारशब्दो देश्यां शब्दवाची. Kula is partly corrupt, but acc. to quotation in SC he reads बुक्कार for चु^० and explains it as सिंहनाद².

26 K says शैलप्रहारेण उद्वेजितत्वात् दुःखं कृच्छ्रात् व्यवस्थापितैः हरितभिः प्रस्थितयोधम्। भग्नध्वजचिह्नाः विमुखिताः प्रणष्टा अन्यत्र गताः, निजैः भटैः दुःखेन कथंचित् ज्ञायमाना रथा यत्र तत्.

K seems to read uvveia (उद्वेजित). cf. pahāruvveia which is the reading of ms C of Goldschmidt R reads uvvāia rendered as उद्वेदित. SC Text has uvvāvia rendered as उद्वेजित (शैलप्रहारेण उद्वेजितेषु त्रासात् विमुखीभवत्सु SC com). This seems to be Kula's reading. Kula is here partly corrupt, but he has विमुखीभवत्. See below.

- 1, Our copy of Kula has निर्गत for निर्भिन्न - निर्गताना प्रहारमूर्च्छितानां वदनाभ्यन्तरे etc This is a mistake, SC has निर्भीक (nibbhā) for nibbhinna.
- 2, Ms. C of Goldschmidt reads वोक्काररवं for भड-चुक्कार. SC remarks वस्तुतस्तु चुक्कारः सिंहनादे स्यादिति हारावली Kula's reading बुक्कार is however found in Gaudavaho (10) where it is explained as गर्जित in the comm.

My says दुःखव्यवस्थापितहस्तिप्रार्थितयोधं दुःखेनाभिमुखीकृतैः गजैः
जिघृक्षितयोधम् । indham (for cinha) चिहम् । vimuhia विमूढ । प्रथमं
प्रनष्टैः, ध्वजचिह्नभङ्गात् सहसा ज्ञातुमसमर्थैः... भटैः कृच्छ्रेण उन्नीयमानरथमित्यर्थः.

R says शैलप्रहारोद्वेदितैः, अत एव दुःखेन व्यवस्थापितैः स्थिरीकृतैः
हस्तिभिः प्रार्थिता रुध्यमाना योधा यत्र. Kula says शैलप्रहारेण¹
विमुखीभवन्तो दुःखेन.... स्थिरीकृता ये हस्तिनः तैः पराभिमुखं प्रस्थिता योधा
यत्र । भग्नध्वजचिह्नत्वात् विमोहितैरजातनिश्चयैः प्रनष्टनिजकभटैः निहतस्वयोधैः
दुःखेन ज्ञायमाना रथा यत्र तत् तथा. SC says प्रनष्टैरपसृतैः निजभटैः.

27. K (chāyā) has रजआवलिबिभिन्न (raāvali-vihinna) for rasomlia-bhinna = रसावमृदितभिन्न (R). Kula seems to read rasovalia
(रसाववलित).²

K says पर्वतेन आक्रान्तस्य रथस्य कर्षणेन विह्वलत्वात् प्रसारितमुख-
निनदत्तुरङ्गम् । महीतले प्रलुठितानां चूर्णितानां (पतितानां R) महीधराणां रजतरजसां रजतशकलानाम् आवलीभिः भिन्नत्वात् पाण्डररुधिरम्. K (chāyā) renders pellia as पीडित. MY says विभिन्न मिश्र । प्रसारितमुखत्वं गुरु- भाराकर्षणादिति ग्राह्यम्.

SC says कुलनाथस्तु महीतले प्रलुठितेन महीधरस्य रजतरसेन रूप्यद्रवेण
अववलितं प्रेरितं भिन्नं मिश्रीभूतं पाण्डरं रुधिरं यत्र तदित्याह । रथसंघट्टोष्मणा
द्रवत्वम्. R says रजतरसेन रूप्यक्षोदेन.

28. K and MY read sotta for magga (R and Kula ?) in the first line. The word añña is missing in the N. S. edition. K reads अपसृत (osaria) for oharia (अवहृत) in the second line³. K (chāyā)

1. Our copy has सैन्य.

2. Kula's gloss on this verse is missing in our copy, but it is quoted in SC.

3. R explains oharia as अवपातित, and says रक्षोभिरवपातितानामथ च कपिभिः
निःसृत्य वञ्चितानामसीनां मार्गे पतनपथेऽवपतन्तो वानरयोधा यत्र तथाभूतम् । तथा च यत्र ये स्थितास्ते बहिर्गताः, अन्ये पुनस्तत्र पतन्तः खण्डिताः etc.

renders the second line as अपसृतवञ्चितातीतासिमा गावपतद्वानरयोधम्.

Kula reads आपतत् (āvadanta) for ovadanta (अवपतत्)

K asys कपिमुक्तेषु राक्षसैः चूर्णितेषु शैलेषु ज्ञायमानानि सरसानि जलाद्राणि सरित्स्रोतांसि यत्र तत् । उद्यतं खड्गमालोक्य अपसृताः, राक्षसैः वञ्चितत्वात् अतिगता अतिलङ्घिता, असिमार्गेषु अवपतन्तो वानरयोधाः यत्र तत्.

My says विमुक्तैः चूर्णितस्थितैः शैलैः पूरिततया दुर्लक्षाणि केवलं सरसतया आर्द्रतया उन्नीयमानानि सरित्स्रोतांसि यत्र तत्तथा । oharia अवगूरित । aīñcia अतिक्रान्त (see verse 8) । असिगोचरीभूतः, अवगूरितो, वञ्चनया गलितश्च वानरयोधो यत्र तत्तथा.

MY on 13.55 says oharia अवगूरित । कर्तरि क्तः । कृतप्रहार इति यावत्. Kula explains oharia (अवहृत) as व्यापारित as elsewhere. His gloss is somewhat corrupt, but anonymously reproduced in SC. He says अवहृतानां व्यापारितानां वञ्चितानां परिहृताघातानाम् आकृष्टानाम्-सीनां खड्गानां मार्गेण आपतन्तः अभिमुखं धावन्तो वानरयोधा यत्र तत् तथा. Kula seems to read aīñchia (आकृष्ट) found in SC Text for aīñcia Cf. Kula on 14.59.

29. K reads पर्याप्तभाल for majjhant-bhāa = मध्यान्तभाग (R and Kula).

K says अभिधावतां प्लवङ्गमानामंसेषु मुक्ताः वितताः निरायताः केसरसटोद्धाता यत्र तत् । फालेषु (भालेषु ?) ललाटेषु पर्याप्तं निपतितेन दण्डायुधेन भिन्ना महीतले पतिताः (निपातित chāya) वानरभटा यत्र तत्.

MY reads पर्याप्त (pajjatta) like K, but has भाग like R and Kula. He says मुक्ता अनाकुलिताः (अनाकुञ्चिताः A) अंसे दीर्घा-श्चेति विग्रहः । pajjatta-bhāa-nivadia भागे प्रहारस्थाने पर्याप्तनिपतित, R says मुक्तो विकीर्णः.

Kula says मध्यान्तभागे शरीरमध्यदेशे निपतितैः दण्डायुधैः तोमरादिभिः भिन्ना महीतले अवविद्धाः कीलिताः भटा यत्र तत् तथा. R says मध्यस्यान्त-भागेन निपतितं यत् दण्डरूपमायुधं तेन भिन्नाः सन्तो महीतलेऽपविद्धाः पातिता भटा यत्र तत्. SC says मध्यान्तभागे शरीरमध्यभागे अन्तभागे च निपतितेन etc.

The commentary of Kṛṣṇa on Canto 13 (after verse 29) and Canto 14 is missing in our manuscripts. On this portion of the poem fuller extracts are given here from the commentaries of Mādhavaya-jvan and Kulanātha. The readings of Kṛṣṇa mentioned in this section are from those recorded by Goldschmidt in his edition.

30. MY reads रुष्ट for daṭṭha = दृष्ट (R and Kula) in the first line. He reads bharia for dharia (R and Kula) in the second line.

MY says प्रहर्तुं निशाचरकरावरुद्धशिरसा रुष्टेन कपिना तदुरःस्थ-लार्धारोपितदंष्ट्रमिति । प्रहरणतया वानरोन्नीतानां नभसि भरितानां पूरितानां (पर्वतानां निर्झर)–शीकरैः अवसन्नरजस्कमित्यर्थः. Kula says गृहीतैः शिरसि दष्टैः वानरैः निशाचराणामुरःस्थानार्धेषु रोपिता दंष्ट्रा यत्र. He explains अवसन्न as निरुद्धम्. R says नभसि धृतानां पर्वतानां निर्झरशीकरैः आर्द्रत्वात् गुरुणि सन्ति अवसन्नानि पतितानि रजांसि यत्र.

31. Kula says सारथिना हस्ततलेनाहतैः मुखेन पतितैः उत्थितैश्च तुरङ्गैः निर्व्यूढा रथा यत्र. MY says मुखेन पतितैः सारथिहस्ततलाघातात् (उत्थितैः) etc. R says प्रथमं संभ्रमेण पतिताः तदनु सारथिना हस्ततलेन आहतमुखत्वादुत्थिता ये तुरङ्गाः तैर्निर्व्यूढाः संचारिता रथा यत्र.

32. MY (B) pratīka has agganti A has *addanti*¹ (attanti ? like R) MY explains it as नश्यन्ति क्षीयन्ते (K also). MY says प्रतिसारितेति खण्डने सति अपसृतैकदेशानि (बलानि) । मुखं नासीरं, मुखशब्देन मुखस्थिता भटा विवक्षिताः । व्युच्छिद्यमानत्वं हन्यमानत्वम्. R explains प्रतिसारित as पराङ्मुखीकृत.

1. Kula pratīka also looks like addanti

K, MY and Kula read क्षीयमाण (jhijjanta) for bhijjanta (भिद्यमान) found in R.

Kula says असहमानानि असोढपराहानानि. The rest is missing in our copy, but the following quotation from Kula is found in SC—
व्यवच्छिद्यमानं विरलीभवत् सुखमग्रस्कन्धो येषाम् । क्षीयमाणा हीनबलाः सन्तः
अपसृताः प्रतिभटा येषु तानि बलानि अत्यन्ते हिंस्यन्ते. R says (attanti)
आवर्तन्ते परस्परमुपर्युपरि पतन्तीत्यर्थः.

MY says क्षीयमाणावस्थितप्रतिभटानीति पर्यायेणेति शेषः.

33. K and Kula read स्खलिताः (°kkhalīā) for ukkhudīā (उत्खण्डिताः) found in R. Kula says वानराणां प्रहारैः स्खलिता विह्वलगतयः.

MY says ohirantā vi विह्वलीभवन्तोऽपि¹, Kula says अनिरूपित-
लक्ष्यं प्रेषितासिप्रहरणाः क्षितखड्गप्रहाराः, मूर्च्छानिमीलिताक्षाः, अवह्रियमाणा
अपि मृत्युना आकृष्यमाणा अपि निशाचरा आलीयन्ते दौकन्ते. R says अप-
ह्रियमाणाः स्वीयैः पश्चान्नीयमाना अपि निशिचराः.....शत्रुणा आलीयन्ते
मिलन्ति.

34. MY reads bahua for garua=गुरुक (R and Kula). He has paatta (प्रयत्न) for paatta=प्रवृत्त (R) Kula is here corrupt, but SC has प्रयत्न like MY.

Kula explains oli-cchinna as आवलिच्छिन्नः पङ्क्तिभ्रष्टः. R says oli is a deśi word, but he says पङ्क्तिक्रमेण छिन्नः. MY reads ūlu-cchinna (ऊरुच्छिन्न). Cf. laa for raa (रजस्) in 13.57.

MY says स्फुरति व्याचेष्ट इत्यर्थः. Kula says स्फुरति तेजसा न हीयत इत्यर्थः. R says स्फुरति कम्पते.

35. K and MY read pahareṇa for °hi (R and Kula) K, MY and Kula read vikkameṇa for °hi (R) MY seems to read pahariso for pariaṇo (R and Kula).

¹ See also Extracts on 12 42, 43.

Kula says शौटीर्येण पुरुषकारेण प्रतापः, प्रहारैः छाया संभावना, विक्रमेण परिजनः.....रक्ष्यत इति सर्वत्र योज्यम्. MY says शौर्येण सत्व-गुणेन दुष्प्रधर्षता, छाया रूपं शूरतमप्रहारेण, आयोधनप्रहर्षणं (प्रहर्ष=प्रहर्षो ?
A) धारामार्गसंचरणेन, जीवत्यागेनापि वीर्याभिमानः, शरीरक्षत्यापि यशो रक्ष्यत इत्यर्थः.

SC says छाया गोत्रपरम्परागतख्यातिः कान्तिर्वा. Cf. 3 18 R says शौण्डीर्येणाहंकारेण युद्धचातुर्येण वा.

36. Kula reads भिद्यते (bhijjajai) for bhajjañ (भज्यते).

MY says वक्षःस्थले भिन्नेऽपि व्यवसायो न भिद्यते । एकरूप एवेति
यावत् । उत्साहः प्रयत्नः । शिरोनिकायच्छेदेऽपि रणश्रद्धा न छिद्यते इत्यर्थः.

37. K and MY seem to read sībhara-lohīena (शीकरलोहितेन K) for lohīa-sībharehī (R and Kula) K, MY and Kula read salīlena for salīlehi (R). K and MY read vocchijjanta-vīralam for vocchijjai pasariam (R and Kula). K seems to have vi° for vo°.

MY says कपिभिः प्रहरणतया क्षिप्तानां गिरीणां निर्झरैः गगने, हन्य
मानानां प्रतिभटानां समुच्चलितशीकरेण रुधिरेण सुभटधारामार्गे, मदसलिलेन
गजघटासु च महीरजउत्थानं व्युच्छिद्यमानतया विरलं जातमित्यर्थः.

Kula says शैलानां निर्झरैः... , धुतैः लोहितशीकरैः रुधिरकणैः
धारामार्गे रथगतिपथे¹, मदसलिलेन (गज)घटासु च व्यवच्छिद्यते प्रसृतं मही- रजउत्थानम्.

SC quotes विश्व-‘धारा सैन्याग्रिमस्कन्धसंतत्यां’ and Śrinivāsa who says धारामार्गे खड्गादिसंचरणपथे. R says धारामार्गे रणस्थाने.

38. K and MY read विशदं (visaam) for visamam (R). Kula’s gloss is incomplete, but his reading might be same as that of K, •
as SC text has visaam

MY says selāñchana-valīā शैलविक्षेपणवलिता निष्कम्पतया सौकर्य-
वशात् विशदमभज्यन्तेत्यर्थः-

K, MY and Kula read क्षीयमाण (jhijjanta) for bhijjanta (भिद्यमान) found in R.

Kula says असहमानानि असोढपराहानानि. The rest is missing in our copy, but the following quotation from Kula is found in SC—
व्यवच्छिद्यमानं विरलीभवत् मुखमग्रस्कन्धो येषाम् । क्षीयमाणा हीनबलाः सन्तः
अपसृताः प्रतिभटा येषु तानि बलानि अव्यन्ते हिंस्यन्ते. R says (attanti)
आवर्तन्ते परस्परमुपर्युपरि पतन्तीत्यर्थः.

MY says क्षीयमाणावस्थितप्रतिभटानीति पर्यायेणेति शेषः.

33. K and Kula read स्खलिताः (°kkhaliā) for ukkhudrā (उत्खण्डिताः) found in R. Kula says वानराणां प्रहारैः स्खलिता विह्वलगतयः.

MY says ohirantā vi विह्वलीभवन्तोऽपि¹, Kula says अनिरूपित-
लक्ष्यं प्रेषितासिप्रहरणाः क्षिप्तखड्गप्रहाराः, मूर्च्छानिमीलिताक्षाः, अवह्रियमाणा
अपि मृत्युना आकृष्यमाणा अपि निशाचरा आलीयन्ते ढौकन्ते. R says अप-
ह्रियमाणाः स्वीयैः पश्चान्तीयमाना अपि निशिचराः..... शत्रुणा आलीयन्ते
मिलन्ति.

34. MY reads bahua for garua=गुरुक (R and Kula). He has poatta (प्रयत्न) for paatta=प्रवृत्त (R) Kula is here corrupt, but SC has प्रयत्न like MY.

Kula explains oli-cchinna as आवलिच्छिन्नः पङ्क्तिभ्रष्टः. R says oli is a deśi word, but he says पङ्क्तिक्रमेण छिन्नः. MY reads ulu-cchinna (ऊरुच्छिन्न). Cf. laa for raa (रजस्) in 13.57

MY says स्फुरति व्याचेष्टत इत्यर्थः. Kula says स्फुरति तेजसा न
हीयत इत्यर्थः. R says स्फुरति कम्पते.

35. K and MY read pahareṇa for °hi (R and Kula). K, MY and Kula read vikkameṇa for °hi (R). MY seems to read pahariso for pariaṇo (R and Kula).

¹ See also Extracts on 12 42, 43.

Kula says शौटीर्येण पुरुषकारेण प्रतापः, प्रहारैः छाया संभावना, विक्रमेण परिजनः.....रक्ष्यत इति सर्वत्र योज्यम्. MY says शौर्येण सत्व-गुणेन दुष्प्रधर्षता, छाया रूपं शूरतमप्रहारेण, आयोधनप्रहर्षणं (प्रहर्ष=प्रहर्षो ? A) धारामार्गसंचरणेन, जीवत्यागेनापि वीर्याभिमानः, शरीरक्षत्यापि यशो रक्ष्यत इत्यर्थः.

SC says छाया गोत्रपरम्परागतख्यातिः कान्तिर्वा. Cf. 3 18. R says शौण्डीर्येणाहंकारेण युद्धचातुर्येण वा.

36. Kula reads भिद्यते (bhijjaī) for bhajjaī (भज्यते).

MY says वक्षःस्थले भिन्नेऽपि व्यवसायो न भिद्यते । एकरूप एवेति यावत् । उत्साहः प्रयत्नः । शिरोनिकायच्छेदेऽपि रणश्रद्धा न छिद्यते इत्यर्थः.

37 K and MY seem to read sibhara-lohiēna (शीकरलोहितेन K) for lohia-sibharehi (R and Kula). K, MY and Kula read salilēna for salilehi (R). K and MY read vocchijjanta-vīralam for vocchijjaī pasariam (R and Kula). K seems to have vi° for vo°.

MY says कपिभिः प्रहरणतया क्षिप्तानां गिरीणां निर्झरैः गगने, हन्यमानानां प्रतिभटानां समुच्चलितशीकरेण रुधिरेण सुभटधारामार्गे, मदसलिलेन गजघटासु च महीरजउत्थानं व्युच्छिद्यमानतया विरलं जातमित्यर्थः.

Kula says शैलानां निर्झरैः .., धुतैः लोहितशीकरैः रुधिरकणैः धारामार्गे रथगतिपथे¹, मदसलिलेन (गज)घटासु च व्यवच्छिद्यते प्रसृतं महीरजउत्थानम्.

SC quotes विश्व-‘धारा सैन्याग्रिमस्कन्धसंतत्यां’ and Śrinivāsa who says धारामार्गे खड्गादिसंचरणपथे. R says धारामार्गे रणस्थाने.

38. K and MY read विशदं (visaam) for visamam (R). Kula’s gloss is incomplete, but his reading might be same as that of K, as SC text has visaam.

MY says selāñchana-valiā शैलविक्षेपणवलिता निष्कम्पतया सौकर्य-वशात् विशदमभज्यन्तेत्यर्थः-

1. Restored from quotation in SC.

Kula says गजेन्द्रदन्तनिर्गताश्चाकुलाः प्रतिरूपाश्च (बाहुपरिधाः). He seems to read gaṇḍa-danta-niggaāula-padrūā for...lhiaggala... . R says गजेन्द्रदन्ताभ्यां लिखिता यागला तत्प्रतिरूपाः तत्तुल्याः । शैलानाम-तिक्रमेण क्षतोत्पत्त्या धारणासामर्थ्यादधःपतनेन वलिता यन्त्रणमासाद्य वक्रीभूताः. SC (chāyā) has शैलातिक्रमण.

39 MY says tanhāvīo तृषितः. R has tenhāio. Kula reads tanhāio. He says तृष्णाजितोऽपि तृष्णाभिभूतोऽपि विहङ्गः काकादिः.

MY, Kula and K (?) read ruhuam (SC Text also) for suram= सुचिरम् (R) MY says nivvadiā-loha-virasam पूर्वतः पृथग्भूतं यथा स्यात् तथा लोहेन विरसम् । विहङ्गः गृध्रः रुधिरं न पिबति किंतु किञ्चिदास्वाद्य त्यजतीत्यर्थः.

Kula's gloss is incomplete, but SC says कुलनाथस्तु लौहस्य संनाहस्य छेदैः गर्भिते व्याप्तमध्ये व्रणमुखे निर्वलितेन गृहीतसारेण लौहेन विरसमुद्वेजकं रुधिरं न पिबतीत्याह. SC's own explanation is निःशेषेण वलितैः चिरं संभक्तैः लोहैः....विरसम्. R says निर्वलितेन पृथग्भूतेन संनाहस्य लोहेन तत्कणेन विरसम्.

40. The verse is missing in our copy of Kula, but SC says छिन्नपतितेऽपि वदनेऽमर्षः क्रोधो भ्रुकुट्यादिरूपेण ध्रियते अवतिष्ठत इति कुलनाथः. Kula seems to read osuddhe vi, which occurs, also in MY, and is explained as अवपातितेऽपि. R reads osuddhammi. MY says dharāṇ अनुवर्तते.

R reads dhāvaṇ ukkhitta-etc., and says छिन्नमौलिरपि कवन्ध उत्क्षिप्ता कण्ठस्य लोहितधारा यत्र तथाभूतः सन् धावति. K reads thāi raukkhitta (रयोत्क्षिप्त). MY has the latter reading and explains it as रणवेगोत्क्षिप्त. It is found also in SC, which says कवन्धं ...रयेण वेगेनोत्क्षिप्तकण्ठलोहितधारं धावति (i.e., dhāi as required by the metre) । पाठान्तरं तिष्ठति (i.e., thāi as read by K) न पततीत्यर्थः.

41. Kula reads पर for रण in the second line. He says रिपुकृतः प्रहारो रसं ददाति उत्साहयति । बन्धुवधकृतो वैराबन्धो विक्रमस्य धुरं वहति शक्त्यनुरूपं चेष्टते । आकृष्टपररभसः अपनीतपरोत्साहः अतिभारो बलवता सह संग्राम आगतो दर्पं वर्धयति हर्षेण शक्यतिशयं जनयति. MY says अतिभारः अतिमात्र प्रतिबलोपनिपातः.

42. K reads सुकृतमिव मानम् for suham miva nāsam (R). MY says सुकृतं स्वामिनां प्रतिसुकृतम् K and MY seem to read sukaam va, but it is not clear whether MY also reads मानम्. Kula reads ṇāmam for ṇāsam.

MY says saheī साधयति । साधनमर्जनं निरसनं च । āāriam आकारितम् आह्वानमित्यर्थः.

Kula says साधयति मारयति पक्षे उपार्जयति, रिपुमिव यशः । लभते सुखमिव नाम ख्यातिम्. R says यथा परप्रहारादिना सुखं लभते तथा तेनैव नाशमपि.

43. mucchiḥjantoallā is explained by R as मूर्च्छायमानाः सन्तः अवमीलन्तो निमीलन्नयनाः. Kula says मूर्च्छन्मानावनताः. SC says ओअल्लशब्दोऽवनते देशी. This occurs in Kula in a corrupt form.

44. MY says न प्रत्येति न विश्वसिति भङ्गशङ्कया विभेतीति यावत् । जीवितव्येनापि मानयशसोरेव रक्षामकरोदित्यर्थः.

Kula says कुसुममिव मानं दयते रक्षति न म्लापयति । वर्धमानमपि अहतमक्षतम् अम्लानं (?) यशो न प्रत्येति न श्रद्धाति । लोकगुरुके लोकबहुमते जीवित एव केवलं भटसार्थः आदरं न करोति. Kula seems to read ahaam (अहतम्) for anaham (अनघम्) explained as निष्कलुषम् by R.

45. MY says आलक्षिताः प्रसिद्धाः । प्रसिद्धयोधवधात् स्वधारामार्गं लघूकृतेऽतिभारवदन्यस्यायोधनं व्यतिगच्छन्तीत्यर्थः.

Kula says निहता आलक्षिताः हन्तुं लक्ष्यीकृता योधा यत्र, तत्र निजक-
धारामार्गे खड्गगव्यापारपथे लघुके जाते परिवर्धमानातिभरं गुरुकं परसंकुलं शत्रु-
संमर्दमायान्ति समर्थाः. R says निजकधारामार्गे स्वारब्धसग्रामे लघौ जाते
सति निर्वाहिते सति समर्थाः परसंकुलं परचक्रमायान्ति । कीदृशम्--परिवर्धमान
आजिभरो येन.

संकुल in the sense of संमर्द is used in Artha-śāstra 14.1
धूमः... सग्रामावतरणावस्कन्दनसंकुलेषु प्रणीतः सर्वप्राणिनां नेत्रघ्नः.

46. Kula says धारयन्ति यशसो धुरं यशोहेतु कर्म न त्यजन्तीत्यर्थः ।
विक्रमस्य परिभ्रममागच्छन्तं शत्रुणा क्रियमाणं न सहन्ते । शत्रुवधेन रोषस्य
कुर्वन्ति धृतिम्. SC says रोषस्य धृतिं धारणं कुर्वन्ति । यद्वा शत्रुवधेन सरसी- करणात् तस्य प्रीतिमुत्पादयन्तीत्यर्थः.

MY says entam आयान्तम् । साहसस्य मानं कुर्वन्ति साहसं बहु
मन्यन्त इत्यर्थः. R says साहसस्य प्राणानपेक्षकर्मणो मानं परिमाणं वर्धयन्ति.

47. K and MY read क्षपित (khavia) for gahia (R) Kula reads ghadia K and MY read विभक्त (vihatta) for vidhatta = अर्जित (R and Kula).

Kula says प्रहरणेन परप्रयुक्तेन आसादितः प्राप्तो हर्षः प्रीतिर्यत्र । क्षण-मूर्च्छा घटितं रणमनोरथसौख्यं रणकीर्तितं¹ निर्वाणसुखं यत्र । जीवेन जीवदानेन
अर्जिताः अप्सरसो यत्र ... (तत्) समरं युद्धं विजृम्भते विकसति.

MY says जीवविभक्ताप्सरस्कं जीवदशायामेव भटानां भर्तृतया विभागं
कृतवत्योऽप्सरसो यत्र तत्तथा.

48. MY says प्राणसदेहेषु हस्यते, ततो न भयमिति यावत् । मरणे
सत्येव केवलं शौर्यधुरा निर्व्यूढेति गण्यत इत्यर्थः, Kula says हस्यते उत्साहः
क्रियते । विश्रम्यते निर्व्यापारैः स्थीयते. R says मरणे सति निर्व्यूढं स्वकृत्यं
निर्वाहितमिति गण्यते.

1 SC quotation has रणकाक्षितं.

49. MY says gaha ग्रह । उपरागेति यावत् । अभागे असमये (अन-वसरे Kula).

50. Kula says मूले...बहलोद्धातं प्रचुरनिचयं, मध्यावकाशे प्रसारितत्वेन तलिनं तनुकं....महीरजो दिक्षु गुरुत्वेन पतति. R says तडिनं विरलम् । तदुक्तं तडिनं विरले तुच्छे. Kula seems to read talino (SC also) for tadino.

51. Kula says मुञ्चति बिभर्ति नु वसुधाम् , दिशो निर्याति नु स्थग-यति दिक्चक्रम्, नभसो गगनात् पतति नु गगनमारोहति नु. Our copy of Kula has न throughout for नु, but it might be a mistake.

52. Kula says सान्द्ररजसा अन्तरितं, हतच्छायं विगलितप्रभं रजनीचर-बलं प्लवङ्गमयोधैः स्फुरद्रूपैः करणभूतैः अवश्यायेन नीहारेण हतस्य तिरो-हितस्य मणिपर्वतस्येव पुरतः स्थितं दृश्यते । एतेन रजसां नीहारसाम्यं मणि-पर्वतसाम्यं च वानराणामुक्तम्.

MY says gahia-cchāam इति पाठः (for va haa-cchāam found in R and Kula) । सान्द्ररजोऽन्तरितं (रजनीचर)बलं हिमच्छन्नेन्द्रनीलशैलस्य गृहीतशोभं शोभां गृहीत्वा पुरतः स्थितं प्लवङ्गैरदृश्यतेति योजना.

53. Kula says श्यामलितः आतपः सूर्यकिरणो येन स रजोनिवहः कृष्णमेघिकेव तनुको नभसि प्रसरति.

54. Kula says वानरै रभसेन (विसर्जितस्य) निवर्तितस्य (?) नभोऽङ्ग-नादवपतितस्य शैलस्य मार्गैः निरायतो दीर्घः, रजसः सम्पर्कात् कलुषच्छायो रवि-किरणानुघातः (किरणानामुद्धातः ?) प्रकाशः प्रणालनिर्झर इव पतति. Kula seems to read kiranugghāo for kiranujjoo (किरणोदयोतः). R on 13. 49 says उद्धातः घनीभूतः समूहः.

55. Kula says प्राकृते पूर्वनिपातानियमात् कुपितैः निशाचरैः अवहता व्यापारिताः, प्लवगानां दृढस्कन्धेषु विशीर्णा¹ अर्धान्ता एकदेशा यासां ताम्र,

1. Our copy has शीर्णा.

वद्धरुधिरासु असिधारासु मांसलमधुकोपनिभं घनमधुवाससदृशं रजो बध्यते युक्तं भवति.

MY says oharīa अवगूरित । कर्तरि क्तः । कृतप्रहार इति यावत् । कुपितावगूरितैः निशाचरैः प्लवङ्गानां दृढस्कन्धे धूर्णीकृतार्थान्तासु तक्षतजसिका-सिधारासु रजः संबध्यत इत्यर्थः.

Kula seems to read virāa (विशीर्ण), and MY cunṇia (चूर्णित), for pūria (पूरित) found in R in the first line R says कुपितैः निशाचरैरवहृतः अवपातितः, अत एव प्लवङ्गानां दृढेऽपि स्कन्धे पूरितो व्याप्तः, मग्न इति यावत्, अर्धान्तः अग्रभागो यासां तासु (असिधारासु). The words virāa and cunṇia are frequently used in the poem.

56. MY says parisakkana परिसंचरण. Kula has परिभ्रम. He then says शीकरैः मदजलकणैः 'संवलिता मिश्रिता ये रेणवः तैः कर्दमितानि मुखानि येषां ते तथाभूता गजेन्द्रा निर्वान्ति निर्वाणं निर्वृतिं (गच्छन्ति).

57. MY says ekkakkamena अन्योन्येन एकैकेन वा । शोणितस्रोतोभिः मूले सान्तरालानि रजांसि उपरि मिथः संबध्यन्त इत्यर्थः. Kula says मूलाभोगे (उत्पत्तिदेशे SC) कराला मध्ये सावकाशा महोरजःसमूहाः प्रत्येकमन्योन्यमुपरि संसक्ता भवन्ति.

58. MY pratika has nivvadeūna explained as पृथक् कृत्य for nivvāleūna. Kula's gloss is corrupt and mutilated, but he seems to say nivvāheūna² पृथक् कृत्वा. This reading is found in the ms. of SC text. See editor's footnote.

SC says गजानां सूत्कारितेन सशब्दनासापवनेन चलद्भिः ध्वजपटैः तन्वीं....छायापथस्य दक्षिणोत्तरगमनप्रसृतस्य देवमार्गस्य पृष्ठमिव धूसरां रजो-लेखां विषममितस्ततो नभसि पृथक् कृत्वा पवनः कर्षति.

59. Kula merely paraphrases this verse.

1. Restored from quotation in SC.

2. Our copy has निर्वाहितुन.

60. Kula reads विवर for magga=मार्ग (R). He says अनन्तरं च भटवक्षःस्थलव्रणविवरेभ्यः निरायतप्रस्थितोच्छलितया रुधिरनद्या महीरजः उन्मूलितकूलपादप इव पातितं प्रशमितमित्यर्थः. R says व्रणमार्गेभ्यो निरायतं दीर्घं यथा स्यादेवं प्रस्थितोच्छलितया etc. K reads मुख्यपर्यस्त for magga-nirāa. See Goldschmidt's footnote.

61. MY says saṃghāta संघातित (K also) समूहोक्त. R's rendering संघटित seems to be incorrect.

Kula says संहारितानां भग्नानां कमलनालानां तन्तुच्छायं सूत्रसदृशं, दरव्यवच्छिन्नमीषद्विघटितं, मारुतेन छिन्नमुत्सारितं (SC) सत् तडिनस्थितं रजः-शेषं घूर्णते भ्रमति. R says मारुतेन भिन्नं खण्डखण्डीकृतम्, अतः तडिनस्थितं विरलस्थितं सत् घूर्णते.

Kula's reading संहारित for saṃghāta might be sambhāria or perhaps saṃghāria. Cf. saṃghaa (संहत) used in 10.29.

62. MY says शैलनिवहान्तरालेन सरिदिव निहतगजकुलरुद्धमार्गा चमूः कुटिलमगच्छदित्यर्थः. R says वलति घूर्णते (भ्रमित्वा प्रसरति Kula).

63. MY says दुर्वहश्च आरोपितश्च समरस्य निर्व्यूढो भरो यैस्ते तथा । valagga (for vilagga) अवलग्न । occhuṇṇa आक्रान्त (अवक्षुण्ण R).

Kula says दुर्वहः, विलग्नः प्रतीष्टः, समरस्य निर्व्यूढो भरो यैः । अवक्षुण्णः (?)....दुर्दशः (for duggama) पन्था यैः. R says दुर्वहस्य....विलग्नस्य उपगतस्य समरस्य निर्व्यूढो निर्वाहितो भरो यैः.

64 K and MY read paccaa (प्रत्यय) for pabbala=प्रबल (R). Kula reads pavvaa (पर्वत). K, MY and Kula read लघुक (iahua) for pahua found in R and explained as प्रभूत (?).

MY says स्वभुजविश्वासात् ईषत्करतया कलितप्रतिवीरपतनमित्यर्थः । Kula says सहस्रपूरणस्य कबन्धस्य जनित आमोदो यत्र । सहस्रे पतिते एकः कबन्धो नृत्यतीति वार्ता । भटस्य दत्तः....(रसः) अनुरागो येन । रिपोः भुजपर्वतात् गृहीतोत्क्षिप्तस्य लघुकवीरस्य पतनं यत्र तत् तथाभूतं युद्धं (प्र)वर्तते.

R says भुजाम्यां प्रबलानां प्रभूतानामसंख्यानां वीराणां पतनं यत्र.

65. K and Kula read हर्तुम् (harium) for neum = नेतुम् (R). K and MY read mūla-cchea for mūlucchinna (R). Kula has mūla-cchinna.

MY says मणिवन्धप्राप्ताः तत्रैव पुञ्जिताः संनाहच्छेदा एव वलयानि तैः दत्तावेष्टम् । अत्र निशिचरभुजस्य मूलच्छेदः कपिभिः हठाकर्षणात् शिलापातनाद्वा.

Kula says मणिवन्धागतेन हस्तपुच्छलग्नेन पुञ्जितेन संनाहच्छेदेन वलये- नेव दत्तावेष्टं मलच्छिन्नं. ..गुरुकं निशाचरस्य भुजं शृगाली हर्तुं न शक्नोति.

66. Kula reads भ्रान्ताः (bhamiā) for vahā in the first line, and भ्रान्त्वा (bhamiūna) for padīūna (पतित्वा) in the second line. Cf. SC text.

67. MY says khuppanta खन्यमान । निमज्जदिति यावत् । osianta अवसीदत् । निमज्जदङ्कुशान् कुम्भान् धून्वन्तीत्यर्थः.

Kula says क्षेप्यमाणार्धा मग्नार्धा अङ्कुशा येषु तान् कुम्भान् गजेन्द्रा धून्वन्ति He seems to read khuppantaddha for o ntu o. Cf SC Text. SC comm. says क्षेप्यमाणार्धा निमज्जदर्धा अङ्कुशा etc. Hemacandra 4. 101 has *khuppa*₁=*majja*₁

68. K, MY and Kula read प्रहारोद्यत for paharujjua = प्रहार-ऋजुक (R). MY reads padhamullaa for padhamuggaa = प्रथमोद्गत (R).

MY says paharujjua प्रहारोद्यत । प्रहारो युद्धम् । padhamullaa प्राथमिकभङ्गस्येदम् । प्रथमतयाभियानात् दुष्करमित्यर्थः. K has प्रथमाश्रय.

The beginning of Kula's gloss is corrupt, but SC says अथानन्तरं वानरदरेण प्लवगेभ्यो भयेनोद्भ्रान्ताः सत्रस्ता व्याकुला इति कुलनाथः. Kula thus reads दर for भर.

Kula then says प्रहारोद्यतानां त्रिदशानां भङ्गदानाय समुचिता योग्या राक्षसयोधाः प्रथमत्वात् पूर्वमह(त्)त्वात् (१) दुष्करं यथा स्यात् तथा प्रति- पथाभिमुखाः पलायनोद्यता जाताः Kula seems to read padhamullaa like

1 Padhamullaa=padhama+ulla+a See Hemacandra 2 163, 4.430. C' puillaa ibid 2.164.

K and MY (see above). The ms. of SC text also has this reading. See editor's footnote.

R says प्रथममुद्गतमुपस्थित एव दुष्करं यथा स्यात् । राक्षसानां युधि पलायनमिदं प्रथममेवोपस्थितमिति लज्जावशादिति भावः.

R's reading padhamuggaa (प्रथमोद्गत) is an idiomatic expression found also in Hāla, verse 15—padhamuggaa-dohalinia (Weber).

69. MY says युद्धात् प्रतिनिवर्तमानदशायां निशाचरसैन्यमेवंभूतगज-रथादिकं जातमित्यर्थः. Kula says भग्नापनिवर्तिता विमुखीकृता गजा यत्र । निजनस्थानात् परिवर्तिता अवभग्ना रथा यत्र । एकस्मिन् पदे वलिताः पुनर्निवृत्ताः योधा यत्र¹ । परिवर्तनेन दत्तमण्डलीकाः तुरगा यत्र तत् तथा निशाचरसैन्यं जातमित्यर्थात्.

It will be seen that Kula reads maa-tthāna (Cf. SC Text) for bhamiam tthāna^o found in R who says निशाचरसैन्यं भ्रमित युद्धाय पुनः परावृत्तमित्यर्थः । स्थाने परिवर्तिता युद्धाय भ्रमिता अवभग्ना विमुखा रथा यत्र. He refers to the earlier interpretation of the verse—केचित्तु भ्रमितं पश्चाद्गतमिति व्याख्याय पलायनपरतयैव स्कन्धकमिदं व्याचक्षते. The reading bhamiam is found also in Lokanātha acc. to SC.

70. MY says vitthakkanta व्याकुलीभवन्तः वितर्कयन्तो वा । अमर्ष-परावृत्ताः प्रहारार्थं भ्रमित्वा प्लवगेष्वलब्धच्छिद्राः पश्चादनुधावतो निर्भयान् प्रतिभटान् भयेन वलितकन्धरा एव पश्यन्त एव पलायन्तेत्यर्थः.

MY's gist of the verse seems to agree with K's reading निवृत्ताक्षमुखाः (niattacchamuhā ?) for viatta-cchūdhā (विवृत्तक्षिप्ताः) found in R.

Kula says अमर्षेण क्रोधेन वितिष्ठमानाः, प्रतिपक्षपीडितत्वात् गलिता-मर्षाः, ईषन्निवृत्त्य (?) क्षिता असयः तैः वञ्चिताः....मन्दीकृता आलीनाः समीपोपगता वानरा यैः ते निशाचरा भ्रान्त्वा विपलायन्ते. Kula seems to read niatta-cchūdbāsi-vañciallina^o for viatta-cchūdhā nibbhiallina^o found in R who says निर्भीता अत एवालीनाः सगता वानरा येषां ते

1. R says एकपदेन एकोपक्रमेण वलिता वक्रीभूता योधाः पत्तयो यत्र.

रजनीचरा युद्धाय ईषद्विवृत्ताः परावृत्ताः, अथ क्षिताः प्रेरिताः सन्तः, कपि- भिरित्यर्थात्, पुनरपि भ्रमित्वा परावृत्त्य पलायन्ते He explains वितिष्ठमानाः as विलम्बिताः.

SC text has vivatta-vvūdhāsi-vañciallīna—. SC comm. says
ईषद्विवृत्तैः वलितकन्धरैः सद्भिः व्यापारिता व्यूढा येऽस्यः तैः वञ्चिता आलीनाः
पृष्ठगता वानरा यैस्ते रजनीचराः.

71. Kula says रथैः संदानिता बद्धाः (?) तुरगा यत्र । तुरगोपरि
प्रस्थिताः (स्खलिताश्च) पायिक्याः पदातयो यत्र । पायिक्येषु आपतिता गजा
यत्र । गजैः भज्यमानं रथसंकुलं रथसमहो¹ यत्र तत् तथाभूतं बलंपलायते.
It will be seen that Kula reads तुरगोपरिप्रस्थित (turaovarī-patthia) for turamgamora-īthala found in R who says तुरङ्गमाणामुरःस्थलात् स्खलिता घटिताः (पतिताः ?) पदातयो यत्र. K reads तुरगोपरिसंस्थित which is about the same as Kula's reading

R says पदातिभिरावलिताः पृष्ठे तुरङ्गमातिक्रमादुपरुद्धा गजा यत्र तत्.
Kula (see above) construes āvalia as आपतित. R also on 7. 42 and 11.49 explains āvalia as आपतित, i.e. taking it as āvadia which occurs as a variant. See Goldschmidt ad loc.

72. MY says गुरुभवन्तो भुजलम्बिताश्च अवभग्ना द्रुमा यस्य तत्तथा.

R says सन्ना अवसन्ना अपवाहिताः पातिता निशाचरा येन तत्तथा.
SC says सन्नमवसन्नं सत् अपवाहितं निष्क्रामितं निशाचरबलं येन तत् प्लव-
गबलं श्वसिति. Kula seems to say अनुपथमागता² अनुगता निशाचरा येन
तत् प्लवगबलम्. His reading might be anuvanthāgaa for sannovahia
(R). The form °vantha occurs frequently in the poem.

K reads अन्योन्यविभिन्ननिशिचरम्.

1. Cf Silā-samkula 1 57. See Extracts SC says रथैः संकुलं व्याप्तं दुःखगम्यम्.

2. As in similar cases, our copy has मार्थता.

Kula has अवभुग्न for obhagga (अवभग्न) in the first line. He reads obhagga like ms. C of Goldschmidt.

73. MY says sodira शौर्यं । अभ्रमन् कपिवलाभिमुखं युद्धाय परावर्तन्तेत्यर्थः. Kula says अखण्डितं शौटीर्यं शौर्याभिमानो¹ येषाम् । प्लवगैः प्रथममानीतः मानभङ्गावसरः पराजयो येषां ते राक्षसाः भग्ना अपि पुनर्भ्रमन्ति निवर्तन्ते, निःशेषमेकान्तं भयं न गृह्णन्ति.

74. MY says तथापि च अत्यन्तभयाग्रहणेऽपि पलायमाना एवेत्यर्थः । vidhatta अर्जित व्यवस्थितेति वा (°तेति यावत् A).

Kula says यद्यपि नाभिहितं तथापि निबद्धोत्साहत्वात् दरपरिवर्तितानामीषत् भ्रमितानां, चक्रलीक्रियमाणानां(मण्डलीक्रियमाणानां²), गुरुकाणां मन्दगतीनां (रथचक्राणां³) पन्था यस्य तत् तथा । वितिष्ठमानैः, प्रधावितैः समर्थैः संस्थापनया भग्नसैन्याश्वासनेन अर्जितं (रणे यशो) यत्र तत् तथा. The reference is to निशाचरसैन्यम् mentioned in verse 77.

R says दरपरिवर्तितः किञ्चित् भ्रामितः अतएव चक्रायमाणः चक्राकृतिः गुरुकचक्रस्य रथस्य पन्था यत्र.

75. MY says āhittha त्रस्त । कपिकलकलत्रस्तपलायमानानां करिणां प्रतिबलाभिमुखीकरणाय प्रयतमाननिषादिकमित्यर्थः.

Kula says वानरैः पराङ्मुखावनमिताः, केशेषु अपकृष्य अर्धमोहितललाटपट्टाः निशाचरा यत्र । परसैन्यस्य कलकलेन आविग्नानां प्रतिनिवर्तमानानां हस्तिनां विकला आरोहा यत्र तत् तथा. Kula reads hatthi-vibhālāroham (SC Text also) for gaa-violāroham (R). MY has kari for gaa. R says पलायमानेभ्यो गजेभ्यो विलोलाः चञ्चलाः, पतिता इति यावत्, आरोहा हस्तिपका यत्र. viola rendered as विलोल by R is however a deśi word. D. N. 7.63 gives it in the sense of आविग्न. MY seems to explain it as प्रयतमान (see above).

1, शौर्य is restored from SC.

2, Added from SC.

3. Restored from SC.

76 Kula says चलैः चपलैः वानरैरनुधावितैः वालेषु ध्रियमाणा निश्चलस्थिताः तुरगा यत्र । निहतभटाः पतितसारथयः प्लवङ्गनिर्भरा वानरा- क्रान्ताः तुरङ्गैः ह्रियमाणा रथा यत्र.

Kula reads निर्भर (nibbhara) for bhesia=भीषित (R and MY).

77. Kula is here mutilated, and has only the words तत् निशाचर-
सैन्यं भग्नम्.

K, MY and SC read अन्वित for unnia=उन्नीत (R) MY says annia अन्वित अनुगतेति यावत् । प्रथमं धारामार्गसंचारेषु निपातितेन राक्षस-बलेन गतिप्रतिबन्धात् कतिपयैरेव वानरैरनुगतमार्गम्.

K and MY read bhagga for bhaggam (R and Kula), and therefore galanta-ppaharana for °paharana. MY says भग्नैः गलद्भिश्च आयुधैः शून्याकृतोभयभुज जातमित्यर्थः.

R explains उन्नीत as ऊहित—वानरैरुन्नीता ऊहिता मार्गा यस्य ...
अत्र संचारचिह्नमनेन गता इत्यादि कपितर्कप्रसक्तिरित्यर्थः.

SC says धारामार्ग इति खड्गधारा अश्वगतिर्वा. R says धारामार्गे संग्रामे.

78. MY says भङ्गातिशयेन हतान्योन्यमत्सरा अपि अन्योन्यभङ्गाव-
लोकनपरिहाराभिनिविष्टमनसो दशमुखस्मरणेन रणभयं त्यक्त्वा पुनर्योद्धुं प्रति- निवृत्ता इत्यर्थः.

K and Kula read bhamā for valiā=वल्लिताः explained as घूर्णिताः
(R) Kula reads पक्ष for cakkhu. He says अथानन्तर हतेन मत्सरेण
अमर्षेण लघुकाः, प्रत्येकपक्षस्य रक्षणे पार्श्वरक्षाविधौ आहितहृदयाः कृतनिश्चयाः,
हृदये आपतितः स्मृतिपथं गतो ...दशमुखो येषाम्,

“रामादपि मर्तव्यं, मर्तव्य रावणादपि,

उभयादपि मर्तव्ये वरं रामान्न रावणात् ॥”

इति मत्वा प्रतिमुक्तरणभयाः रजनीचरा भ्रान्ताः परिवृत्त्य स्थिताः.¹

1. These two words are restored from SC.

R says 'एकैकक्रमेण परस्परं चक्षुषां रक्षणे ओहितानि अर्पितानि हृदयानि येस्ते । चक्षुःसंमुखे लज्जया परस्परं त्यक्तुमपारयन्त इति सहैव परावृत्ता इति भावः. SC says केचित्तु हतमात्सर्यत्वेन लघुका अपि लज्जायामाहितं हृदयं यैरेवंभूताः सन्तो भ्रमिता निवृत्त्यागता इत्यर्थः । 'cakkhu-rakkhaṇaā लज्जा' इति देशीसार इति प्राहुः. SC mentions another reading, cakka (चक्र) for cakkhu.

79. MY says निवृत्तं कथमपि संमुखस्थापितं च शौर्यमेषामिति ते तथोक्ताः । dupparialla दुष्परिकलनाः दुष्प्रधर्षा इति यावत्.

Kula says 'व्यवच्छिन्नमपसूत्रं संहितं पुनः समारोपितं यशो यैः निवर्तमानं संस्थापितं शौटीर्यं यैः । शिथिलिता'....प्रतिपन्ना गृहीता रणधूः यैः । रजनीचराः कपिसैन्यस्य दुष्परिकलनीयाः जेतुमशक्या भवन्ति । dupparialla शब्दो देश्यामशक्यः (Cf. Deśānamamālā 5,55). SC says अशक्यलङ्घने देशीति कुलनाथः. DN, however, has only अशक्य like Kula.

It will be seen that Kula reads niattanta-samṭhavia for niatta-samuha-tṭhavia found in R and MY.

80. MY says pasara प्रसर । प्रतिबलप्रधर्षणेति यावत् । varāria वृताकारित स्वयंगृहीताहृत.

Kula reads bhagga for भङ्ग (R and MY), and प्रवृत्तम् (paattam) for pavatta = प्रवर्तते (R). K has प्रवृद्धम्.

Kula says भग्नलज्जितानां राक्षसानां परिवर्धितप्रसरत्वेन हृष्टानां च वानराणां वृता योद्धुमङ्गीकृता आकारिता (आहूताः SG) भटा यत्र तत् युद्धं प्रवृत्तम्.

81. MY reads paccuccalia (प्रत्युच्चलित) for vacchucchalia = वक्ष उच्छलित (R and probably Kula). MY says हन्यमानाभिमुखोच्चलित.

MY remarks दत्तरणसुख इति रणस्य सुखतया वर्णनं सुग्रीवस्य शौर्यातिशयकथनपरम् । कुसुमितस्य सुरभेश्च सप्तच्छदस्य वधसाधनत्वकथनं च तद्वधाना-

यासप्रतिपादनार्थम् । कुसुमस्य अट्टहासतया रूपं तु रिपुशौर्योपालम्भकरणो- त्प्रेक्षासूचनाभिप्रायेणेति मन्तव्यम्.

82 MY pratika (B) has vivāhaassa for divi° (द्विविदाहतस्य).
The first word is missing in A. MY says onimillassa अवनिमीलितस्य (अप° A) अत्रापि पूर्ववदेव वधानायासे तात्पर्यम्.

Kula says द्विविदनाम्ना यूथपतिनाहतस्य समरे मधुरं मनोहरम् उरसि
पतितस्य सरसचन्दनद्रुमस्य गन्धमाजिघ्रतः सुखितावनिमीलितस्य अशनिप्रभनाम्नो
राक्षसस्य जीवितं गतम्. Kula reads मधुरम् (mahuram) for surahim.

83. K, MY and Kula read शिखामार्गपतित (sihā-magga-padia) for sihāmba-phudia=शिखाताम्रस्फुटित (R).

MY says āhittha आत्रस्त । त्रस्तदृष्टिनिर्गताया रोषज्वलनशिखाया
अनुमार्गनिपतितलोचनयुगलो यथा स्यात् तत्तथा हत्वा मैन्दो जहासेति योज्यम्.

Kula reads आयस्त (āattha, SC Text) for āhittha.

Kula says मैन्दनामापि यूथपतिः शिरसि मुष्टिघातेन पातितम्, आय-
स्तायाः क्रोधदीप्तायाः दृष्टेः निर्गतानां क्रोधज्वलनशिखानां मार्गेण पतितं लोचन-युगलं यस्य तं वज्रमुष्टिनामानं राक्षसं हत्वा हसति.

SC says मुष्टिघातेन पातितम्, आविद्धाया 'मइन्दं' प्रति क्षितायाः दृष्टेः
सकाशात् निर्गताया ज्वलदनलशिखाया मार्गे पश्चात् पतितं लोचनयुगलं यस्य
तमिति लोकनाथः. The latter seems to read āiddha for āhittha

84. K and MY read कक्ष (kakkha) for nakkha=नख (R).

MY says cra-jujjhia चिरयोधित (Kula also). R and SC have चिरयुद्ध.

MY says चरणयुगलाक्रान्ताभ्यां कक्षाभ्याम् उत्पाटितौ भुजौ यस्य स
तथा. SC says चरणयुगलेनावलम्बित आक्रान्तः, कक्षायाः सकाशादुत्क्षिप्य खण्डयित्वा ऊर्ध्वक्षिप्तौ भुजपरिधौ यस्येति लोकनाथः. Kula's reading is uncertain. He says धन्धक्षिप्तखण्डितोभयभुजपरिघः. If धन्ध stands for स्कन्ध, his reading might be khandha for kakkha.

85. K, MY and Kula read thio for kao=कृतः (R). K and probably MY read ऊर्ध्व for addha (R and Kula).

Kula says सोढप्रहारं यथा स्यात् तथा नलेनापि यूथपतिना तपननाम्नो राक्षसस्य तलाभिघातेन चपेटप्रहारेण (R also) मोटितकण्ठं शिरो देहे निहितं, देहः अर्धनिहितः अर्धमग्नो महीतले स्थितः. MY says तपनस्य शिरो देहे लग्नं, देहस्तु भूतले अर्धनिमग्नोर्ध्वावस्थित इत्यर्थः.

86. K, MY and Kula read शक्ति (satti) for jhatti=झटिति (R). They read मन्द for गाढ (R). MY has स्वकरतल for saala-tala.

Kula says पवनसुतो हनूमान् जम्बुमालिना शक्त्या विभिन्नः जम्बुमालिनं सकलतलस्य समग्रचपेटस्य मन्दताडनेन भिन्नात् शिरस उच्छलितेन मेदसा सिक्तदशदिशं हत्वा *añcio*¹ अतिक्रान्तः ।

MY says añcio अतिगतः । तच्छक्त्या प्रथमं भिन्नः पश्चात् स्वकरतलमन्दताडनभिन्नशीर्षोच्चलितमेदःसिक्तदशदिशं जम्बुमालिनं हत्वा हनूमानतिगत इत्यर्थः. MY reads uccalia for ucchalia as he and K often do.

87. Kula says इन्द्रजिद्वालितनययोः मेघनादाङ्गदयो रणशौटीर्यमतिभूमिं गृह्णाति प्रसरमासादयति । निहतान्योन्यपरिजनत्वात् स्वहस्तेन प्रतिपन्नः संशयतुलारोहो यत्र तत् तथा. R says स्वहस्तेन स्वकृत्या प्रतिपन्नः स्वीकृतः संशयरूपतुलायामारोह आरोहणं यस्मात् । ताभ्यामेवेत्यर्थात्. MY says मिथो निहतपरिजनतया स्वहस्ताभ्यामेव प्राप्तं प्राणसंशयेन साम्यं यत्र तत्तथा.

88. MY says विशेषयति स्म स्वस्मात् निकर्षयति स्मेत्यर्थः. Kula says आकर्षाकृष्टस्य धनुषो मण्डलेन परिगतं परं शत्रुं मेघनादं कपिरङ्गदः....गिरि-सहस्रैः विशेषयति तस्मादतिशयितो भवति. R says विशेषयति अतिक्रामति.

89. Kula says कुसुमेषु निर्भरं मिलिता, वलद्भिः विटपैरुपगूढा मधुकरा येषु, विप्रकीर्णफलत्वेन लघुकाः, धुतमध्याः खण्डिताः पल्लवा येषां ते द्रुमनिवहा निपतन्ति. R says धुताः सन्तो मध्ये अन्तरादेशे उत्खण्डिताः पल्लवा येषां ते.

1. Our copy has भूत्वा sahañjio SC says मन्दताडनेन लीलयाभिघातेन.

90. MY reads entam (आयान्तम्) for entā=आयान्तः (R. and Kula). Kula reads dumesu for dumehi, and प्राप्नुवन्ति (pāventi, cf. SC text) for lamghanti (R).

Kula says मेघनादमुक्तः शरसंघातः गगने द्रुमेषु गुप्यते तिरोधीयते । अतएव वालितनयं न प्राप्नोति । अङ्गदक्षिप्ता द्रुमा आगच्छन्तः अर्धपथे छिद्यन्ते, दशमुखसुतमिन्द्रजितं न प्राप्नुवन्ति. R says मेघनादस्य शरसंघातः अङ्गदक्षिप्तैः द्रुमैः गोप्यते तिरोधीयते व्याकुलीभवति वा ।

91. MY' pratika has vitthinna for vikkhitta=विक्षिप्तः (R). Kula reads vicchinna. K and MY read उत्थिततमाल for uddhāamāna (R and Kula). K and Kula read लव for दल (R).

MY says शरदलितोत्थितेत्यत्र तमालचन्दनयोः शरदलितत्वं तदन्धे तु उत्थितत्वमिति योज्यम्.

Kula says विच्छिन्नानि लोध्रकुसुमानि यत्र । शरदलितानां चन्दनानामूर्ध्वायमानो गन्धो यत्र. R says ऊर्ध्वायमान ऊर्ध्वप्रसारी उद्धावमानो वा गन्धो यत्र.

92. MY says समप्रतिहस्तं समप्रतिद्वन्द्वम्. Kula explains the expression as तुल्यप्रतिकृतम्. R says समः प्रतिहस्तः परप्रहारनिवारणादिरूपा प्रतिक्रिया प्रतिपक्षो वा यत्र. SC says तुल्यप्रतीकारमिति लोकनाथः.

K reads विजृम्भते (viambhāi) for pi vaddhāi=अपि वर्धते (R and Kula).

93. Kula says द्रुमकुसुममध्यनिर्गतानां शराणां प्राङ्मुखालग्न्या नीयमाना मधुकरा यत्र तत् तथा. R says किम्भूतं युद्धम्-अस्त्रीकृतवृक्षस्य कुसुमानां मध्येन निर्गतैः इन्द्रजितः शरैः पुङ्खेष्वालग्न्याः सन्तो नीयमाना मधुकरा यत्र । najjamāna इति पाठे शराणां पुङ्खालग्न्याः सन्तो ज्ञायमाना मधुकरा यत्रेत्यर्थः. This reading is found in SC (comm.) which mentions nijjamāna and sajjamāna as variants.

94. Kula reads अवस्थगित (otthāia) for uppaia=उत्पतितः (R). K reads अवपतित (ovaia) Kula seems to read visamā for sila in the second line.

Kula says दशमुखतनयेन विसर्जितैः मुक्तैः शरैः भृतं नभोऽङ्गनम् , अवस्थगितः (च) वालिसुतो यत्र । वालिसुतेन रोषेण प्रेषितैः (शाल)विषमशैलै रुद्धो दशमुखतनयो यत्र तत् तथा.

R says शरैः भृतात् पूरितात् नभोऽङ्गणात् उत्पतितः प्रहारवारणाय ऊर्ध्वगतो वालिसुतो यत्र । एवम्-वालिसुतेन रोषतः प्रेषितैः शालो वृक्षः शिलाः शैलाश्च तै रुद्धो न तु प्रतिहतः....दशमुखतनयो यत्र तत्.

95. K and Kula read ṇahābhoam (cf. SC Text and Goldschmidt's footnote) for disāhoam (R).

Kula says निशाचरस्येन्द्रजितः शरैः निर्दारितस्य वानरस्याङ्गदस्य देह-रुधिरेण अरुणो नभआभोगो गगनविस्तारो यत्र.

K reads ruhura-dara for ruhiroha=रुधिरौघ (R) Kula has only रुधिरं. His reading might be same as R's.

96. K and Kula read दीनवानरसैन्यम् for dīnna-vānara-soam=दत्तवानरशोकम् (R).

Kula says रिपोः इन्द्रजितः शूलेन व्यथितः अवह्रियमाणो मूर्च्छा(य)-मानो यो वालिसुतः तेन दीनं निरुत्साहं वानरसैन्यं यत्र. R says अवह्रियमाणः अवपात्यमानः यो वालिसुतः तेन दत्तो वानरेभ्यः शोको यत्र. MY says ohīramāna मूर्च्छत्.

97. MY says तारातनयातिशायितात् इन्द्रजितो हेतोः प्लवङ्गैः कृत-हर्षरवम् । मन्दोदरीसुताभितापितात् अङ्गदात् हेतोः हर्षमुखरराक्षसबलमित्यर्थः. Kula says अङ्गदेन विशेषिते न्यक्कृते रजनीचरे मेघनादे प्रवृत्तः प्लवगसैन्यस्य कलकलो यत्र.

K reads योधम् (joham) for loam (R and Kula) in the second line.

98. Kula reads पाण्डुरित (paṇḍaria, cf. SC Text) for paṇḍuria in the second line.

99. Kula says इन्द्रजिति वालितनयेन समरानुरागेण भग्नोत्साहे निरुद्यमे¹ कृतान्तर्धाने सति निहत इति हसन्ति कपयः etc. R says समरानुरागे भग्न उत्साहो यस्य तथाभूते सति.

1. Restored from SC. Our copy has only य.

CANTO XIV

1. MY. says jura अखिद्यत । गतदिवसानां निष्फलत्वम् । दशमुखेन सह समरालाभात् एतदेवाह । प्रतीष्टासघटमानेति अलसायमानो भूत्वा हत-राक्षसः । रावणनिष्क्रमणप्रत्याशया लङ्काभिमुख इति ग्राह्यम्.

Kula says प्रतीक्षितः असंघटमानो दशमुखलाभो यस्य स तथा । अत-
एव गतो निष्फलो दिवसो यस्य । अलसायमानेन मन्दयुद्धेन¹ हता राक्षसा येन
स रघुनाथो रामः रावणं दिदृक्षुः लङ्काभिमुखः क्रुध्यति.

MY seems to read padicchiāsamghadanta. Kula reads padicchiāsamghadanta found also in SC Text. K reads प्रतीक्षितासंपतत् acc. to Goldschmidt. R reads jahicchiāsampadanta, translated as यदृच्छा-संपद्यमान, but sampadanta is not=संपद्यमान, though it may serve as the meaning. R says यदृच्छया स्वेच्छया संपद्यमानः (असंपद्यमानः ?) दश-मुखस्य लम्भः प्राप्तिर्यस्य. R explains jahicchiā as यदृच्छा, but his reading may also be construed as jahicchiā (यथेप्सित)+ asampadanta, which practically gives the same meaning as the readings of K, MY and Kula,

2. K and MY read निश्वासान् (nīsāse) for sara-nivahe=शरनिवहान् (R). Kula is corrupt, but his reading might be same as R's, to judge from SC (text and comm.). The reading of K and MY is given as a variant in SC.

MY says एतेषु एतानधरीकृत्य स्वयं सुखेन स्थितः । रावणोद्देशेन प्रवृत्तान् समरालाभात् आत्मन एव दत्तायासान् कोपनिश्वासान् राक्षसेष्वेव प्रति-
मोक्तुमैच्छत् । निश्वासमोक्षमात्रमेव चास्य व्यापारः प्रतिबलवधाय पर्याप्तः तद्व-धाव्यभिचारी चेति तात्पर्यम्. SC says स्वरनिवहान् निश्वाससमूहान् मुञ्चतीति श्रीनिवासः अर्थान्तरं वदति । तथा च विश्वः 'स्वरो....ध्वनौ । उदात्तादिष्वपि प्रोक्तः स्वरो नासासमीरण ॥' इति.

1. Restored from SC.

3. MY says patthiammi प्रार्थिते । प्रस्थिते इति केचित् । आपतिते प्राप्ते. Kula says परे शत्रौ शरैः पात्यमाने हन्तव्याभावात् मोघोत्कर्षितद्रुमा निष्फलोल्लासितवृक्षाः प्लवङ्गमाः खिद्यमानाः समरे भ्राम्यन्ति. R says रणाभिमुखं प्रस्थिते च पलायिते वा परे, आपतिते निकटमागते च परे.

4. K, MY and Kula read tulia for turia = त्वरित (R). MY seems to read sela for silā. Kula reads dharāhara-nivāhe for silā-samghāe.

MY says. नासोरगतकृपिभिः तुलितमुक्तानपि शैलसंघातान् भित्त्वा मध्ये सुषिरं कृत्वा निर्गता रामशराः शिलाभ्यः पूर्वमेव परानसाधयन्नित्यर्थः.

Kula says प्लवगैः तुलितमुक्तान्, स्वात्मनोपप्रधावितान् धराधरनिवहान् भित्त्वा. R says त्वरितं यथा स्यात् तथा मुक्तान्, अथानुलोमं शरगन्तव्यदिगभिमुखं प्रधावितान् शिलासंघातान् भित्त्वा. SC says तुलितमुक्तान्....तोलयित्वा परिकलय्य मुक्तान्. But the reading tulia may also be taken as turia as in samara-tulia = समरत्वरित 12.82.

5. K and MY read bhujar for chujjā (R and Kula). K and Kula read शरैः (sarehi) for करेण (R). K reads प्लवङ्गमप्रहारः (pavamgam-apaharo) for pavamga-paharanam (R). Kula and MY also read प्रहारः like K.

Kula says राक्षसानां प्रहरणं रामस्य शरैः समं छिद्यते. R says राक्षसानां प्रहरणं शरादि करेण समं छिद्यते । रामशरैरित्यर्थात्.

MY says na allia₁ (nallia₁) न प्राप । प्रहारः प्रहरणमायुधमित्यर्थः. Kula says प्लवगानां प्रहारः अनघमक्षतशरीरं राक्षसं न प्राप्नोति.

6. Kula says शरैः अभिसंहितः¹ विफलीकृतः पराक्रमो येषां तैः प्लवगैः रोषविमुक्तं गिरिशिखरं छिन्नपातितशिरःस्थाने निपतति । भिन्ने वक्षसि शिला निपतति । एतेन रामशराणां शीघ्रत्वं दर्शितम्.

R says रामस्य शरेणाभिसंहितो वञ्चितः पराक्रमो येषां तैः । शत्रुमारणस्य तत एव सिद्धत्वात्. K reads अतिसंहित for ahusamdhia (अभिसंहित), acc. to Goldschmidt, cf. Extracts on 13.12,

1, Restored from SC.

7. R has acchiḥjaḥ = आच्छाद्यते ? MY reads avathakkaḥ translated as अवस्तीर्यते. B has atthakkaḥ. Kula and K have आस्तीर्यते = atthiḥjaḥ ?. SC Text has otthiḥjaḥ = अवस्तीर्यते SC comm.

8. Kula reads dari for विल in the first line. He says विषधरैः सर्पै रेचितानां दरीमुखानां बिलद्वाराणां प्रतिच्छन्दाः प्रतिरूपा बाणमार्गाः राक्षस-देहेषु (दृश्यन्ते) । तस्य रामस्य शरा अग्निबाणा निर्भिद्य गतत्वात् न दृश्यन्ते.

9. MY says उत्कर्षतः कोशात् खड्गमिति शेषः. Kula says खड्गम् (?) उत्कर्षतः उन्नामयतः करे, प्रार्थयमानस्य अभियोद्धुमिच्छोः हृदये, रसतो निनदतो मुखे पतिताः केवलं दृश्यन्ते निबद्धानां पतञ्जिकानिस्त्रातानां भटानां शिरःपतनैः सूचिता निर्नीताः रामशराः.

MY explains निबद्ध as अविच्छिन्न. He says वेगवशादविच्छिन्न शिरःपतनोन्नेयाः शरा यदा वेगक्षयस्तदापि यैरङ्गैरुद्युज्जते परे तेष्वेव परं न्यपतन् न पुनर्वृथेत्याशयः.

SC says निबद्धानां शिक्षणकौशलेन छिन्नलग्नानां शिरसां पतनेन सूचिताः । निबद्धानां मिलितानां शिरसां पतनेन सूचिता युगपत् पतितानां बहूनामित्यर्थ इति केचित्. R says निबद्धानां व्यूहे संयोजितानां वीराणां शिरःपतनेन सूचिताः प्रकाशिताः । यद्वा निबद्धं शिरस्त्राणादिसंबद्धं यच्छिरः तत्पतने etc । संप्रदायस्तु निबद्धं कबन्धसगतं यच्छिरः तत्पतनेन सूचिता इति व्याचष्टे.

10. K and MY read avhalo vva (अविहलो वा) for vialio vi = विगलितोऽपि (R). Kula seems to read चाविकलः, i. e. avhalo a. Loka-nātha quoted in SC says यत्र यस्याविकलः सावष्टम्भश्च निनादः श्रुतः. MY reads calio vva (K also) = चलितो वा for calio a (च) found in R and Kula. MY reads jatto ccia and says यत् एव यत्रैव इति यावत्. R has jattha ccia = यत्रैव (Kula also).

1. This word is added from quotation in SC, which however has पञ्जिकालिखितानां भटानां.

11. MY says दीर्घा दीर्घाध्वगा इत्यर्थः । कूलं कूलानीकस्कन्धं सेना-
पश्चाद्भागः. R says अग्रस्कन्धेन सेनामुखेन प्रवृत्ताः प्रविष्टाः....रामशराः.
Kula says पुरोभागे पतिताः.

12. MY says jaccia यावदेव for jam cia यदेव (R and Kula)
He says tā तावत् for tam = तत् (R and Kula). MY and K read समरे for samaam=समम् (R and Kula). SC Text has palāiavva for padā°.

MY says समरभूमिसंगतस्य निशाचरसैन्यस्य सहसैव रामशरनिकरव्या-
तावकाशतया पलायनावसरोऽपि न लब्ध इत्यतो निरवशेषं निहतमेवासीदिति
तात्पर्यार्थः.

14. Kula says यावदेवं तावच्च सरुधिरत्वादवशं यत् राक्षसबलं तेन
निर्विशेषं समानरूपं सन्ध्यातिमिरं यत्र स दिवसो गलितराक्षसभयः चिरस्य चिरेण
परमार्थत इव¹ निर्वाणः, न केवलमस्तंगतत्वात् परमनिवृत्तिप्राप्त्या च निर्वाण इत्यर्थः. Kula seems to read अवश for अरुण in the first line. His explanation of the verse is better than R's.

K reads राग for तिमिर, and अपि (vi) for va (इव). MY says nivvao निर्वाणः अस्तमित (अन्तरित A) इत्यर्थः । परमार्थतः यथाकालम्.

15. MY says uggahia उद्गृहीत (उद्ग्राहित R).

16. saccavia लक्षोकृतौ MY; दृष्टौ Kula; सत्यापितौ नागपाशलक्ष्य-त्वेन व्यवस्थापितौ R.

17. MY says tana ताभ्याम् । चतुर्थ्यन्तमेतत् । भुजङ्गमुख भुजङ्गा- कारमुख.

18. MY says (भुजङ्गमवाणाः) त्रिकसंदानितभुजाः, एकस्य भुजस्य
अङ्गददेशं भित्त्वा भुजान्तरस्यापि तत्प्रदेशविदारणेन दशितमुखा, उभावपि भुजौ
पृष्ठतो नीत्वा यावत्त्रिकमाकृष्य बद्ध्वा सश्लिष्टौ कृतवन्त इत्यर्थः.

1. Kula is here corrupt, but परमार्थत इव occurs more than once in SC

Kula reads पार्श्व (pāsa) for बाहु, and says भिन्नाद्देहाः, निर्दरिते द्वितीयपार्श्वे प्रकटितमुखाः .. भुजङ्गमवाणाः. He seems to read una-vāsa as found in SC Text K reads देहयोः (dehesu) for dehammi (देहे). Kula has राघवयोः देहे सुस्थिताः for rāhava-dehammi thiā (R). SC Text has rāhava-dehe a thia (राघवदेहे च स्थिताः).

19 MY says pajjala-muhā prajvalita-mukhāḥ. K and Kula read दशाननसुतस्य for visānala-phullinā (R) K reads सरथाननिवन्धाः for samdhāna-vimukkā (R and Kula).

R says निर्धातं दाहोत्तरं जले क्षिप्तं यदायसं लौहं तदन्नीलाः.

20. K and Kula read ताप (tāva) for तार (R). R says अराः किंभूताः—तालवृक्षात् समभ्यधिका महत्यो या लौहयष्टयः तच्छाया कान्तिः येषां ते. SC says तारेण मार्जनशुद्ध्या, पाठान्तरे तापेन समभ्यधिकाया अधिकोज्ज्वलाया लौहयष्टेरिव छाया येषां ते.

21. MY says प्रथमं धनुषो निर्गमने तेजःपुञ्जरूपतया रविविम्बच्छायाः, ततो नभोऽर्धपथापतिताः, गमनाविच्छेदेन उल्कावत् दीर्घाः, ततः अङ्गेषु भिन्दन्तो वाणीभवन्तः, ईप्सन्निभिन्ने अङ्गे आवेष्टनाय भ्रमिता (भुजेषु) भुजङ्गा बभूवुरित्यर्थः.

Kula says प्रथमं रविविम्बनिभाः, उल्कावर्णा, नभोऽर्धपथापतिताः. Kula's reading is ukkā-vannā nahaddha-vanthāvadiā (cf. SC Text) for palaikkā-samnihā nahaddha-padantā = प्रलयोल्कासंनिभा नभोऽर्धपतन्तः found in R MY's reading is same as Kula's except that he reads ukkā-dihā. K's reading given by Goldschmidt is imperfect, but closely resembles that of Kula and MY Kula has भ्रमणशीलाः (bhamirā, cf. SC Text) for bhamiā (MY and R Text). R (chāyā and comm) has भ्रमणशीलाः.

The expression °vanthāvadiā (see above) in Kula and MY's reading occurs elsewhere in the poem. Cf 6.34. See also Extracts on 15.45.

R says तयोर्भुजासु दर ईषन्निभिन्नं दष्टं यैस्तथाभूताः कृतकिञ्चिदंशाः, अथ च भ्रमणशीला भोगेन वलयाकाराः सन्तो भुजङ्गा भवन्तीति सर्वत्र संबध्यते.

22 K and MY read vijjhanti (विध्येते) for bajjhanti = बध्येते (R and probably Kula).

23. R reads bhinnamabhinna-hīaam and says अभिन्नहृदयम-पराङ्मुखचित्तं कपिवलं दिक्षु भिन्नं .वूर्णितम्. Kula says भिन्नहृदयं व्यथित-चित्तं कपिवलं दिक्षु भिन्नमितस्ततो गतम्. K and MY also have भिन्न-हृदयं like Kula except that K has भिद्यते (bhiḍḍa) for भिन्नम् (Kula) MY says भिन्नं विशीर्णं हृदयं यस्य तत्तथा । गलितधैर्यमिति यावत्.

24. MY says अनेन रोषानलप्रज्वलिततया वाडववत् दुरासदस्य हृदयस्य नागास्त्रैः परिहृतत्वेन जीवतस्थितिनिमित्तं सूचितम्.

25 MY says यथा मलयजा भुजङ्गैः वेष्टिताः सुनिश्चला भवन्ति तथा-नयोः भुजा अपि नागास्त्रवद्धतया निष्कम्पा जाता इत्यर्थः. Kula says तयोः भुजङ्गैः परिगता वेष्टिताः, दुःखेन प्रभवन्तः समाप्ति यान्तो विकटभोगावेष्टा येषु ते, मलयतटोत्पन्नचन्दनद्रुमा इव भुजाः. R says महत्त्वात् झटिति वेष्टयितुं न पारयन्तीत्यर्थः

26. MY says तहेत्यादि—धनुषि शरेषु च गृहीतेष्वपि निर्व्यापारौ इत्यर्थः.

K and Kula read सीव्यमान (sivijjanta) for nibbhijjanta=निर्भिद्यमान (R). They read निश्चलस्थापितभुजौ (niccala-ithavia-bhuā) for niccala-bhua-pphaliḥā=निश्चलभुजपरिधौ (R).

27. MY says pattana पत्र । शरैः निरन्तरभिन्नतया प्रदोपादिना मार्गणीयावयवौ । यावत्पुङ्खमावेष्टनात् ईषद्दृष्टेषु पत्रान्तरेषु निहितं संस्त्यानं रुधिरं ययोः तौ तथा । एवंभूतौ कृताविति वाक्यार्थः. Kula says पत्रणान्तरेषु पक्षसन्धिषु. R says पत्रणा पुङ्खः तदन्तरे तन्मध्ये. SC says शराणां दूरनिखा-ततया ईषद्दृष्टानां पत्रणानामन्तरेषु निहितानि संस्त्यानानि लोहितानि ययोरीदृशौ.

28. K and MY seem to read avagaam (अपगतम्) for avahaam=अपहतम् (R). Kula has व्यपरतम् (व्यु^० १) अवसितम्. SC Text has uvar-aam. SC comm. says उपरतमवसितमिति केचित्.

MY says अत्र शरस्यूतोरुयुगलत्वादिकं संचरणापगमनक्रियाविशेषणत्वेन योज्यम्. Ms. A has सवीत for स्यूत, and अवगमन for अपगमन.

29. K and Kula read विगलत् (vialanta) for vihalanta = विघट-मान (R). They read samdha (सहित) for samṭha=संस्थित (R). K, Kula and MY read राम for वाम (R) in the second line.

MY says रामेण धनुर्न त्यक्तम् । अपि तु विवशात् तस्य करात् स्वय-मेवापतदित्याशयः । रिपोरदृश्यत्वकथनमस्य शौर्यक्षतिशङ्कानिरासार्थम्.

30 MY says राघवयोः निर्व्यापारतया पतनात् प्रभृति पलायमानेषु विमानेषूपरितनप्रवृत्तिजिज्ञासया तज्जघनप्रदेशावस्थितानां विलोकयन्तीनां सुरवधूनां धनुःपतनदर्शनात् युगपदनेकवीणाशब्दोत्थानवत् भयशोकाभ्यामाक्रन्दः समुद्भूत इत्यर्थः.

Kula reads मुक्त (mukka) for visama in the second line. He says सहसा तत्क्षणं विपलायितानां विमानानां तल्लिमस्य (१) कुट्टिमस्य पश्चिम-देशे रामावलोकनार्थं विमानपश्चिमभागोत्थिताभिः सुरवधूभिः मुक्त आक्रन्दो रवः एकमुखाहतानां युगपत् ताडितानां रसन्तीनां तन्त्रीणां छाया ध्वनिसादृशं यस्य स ऊर्ध्वापितश्च उत्थितः. R says सुरवधूनां विषम आक्रन्द उद्भावित उत्थितश्च.

31. K, MY and Kula pratika has aha for to (R). Kula reads रघुतनयः for rahuṇāho.

32. MY says paṇao प्रणतः । तदाश्रित इत्यर्थः. K and Kula read अनुमार्गतः (i.e. aṇumaggaō for °am). R says पतितस्य रघुपतेरनुमार्गं पश्चात्.

33. MY says tamsa त्रयस्त्र । asi आसन् । निर्वर्णयन्तो भूत्वा संमुखागताः तत्पतनदर्शनेन भयाविग्नाश्चेति विग्रहः । अत्र भयाविग्नत्वं स्थान-

निमित्तोपचारात् मञ्चाः क्रोशन्तीतिवत् । उत्तानितैकचक्राः उत्पतनोपक्रमात् ऊर्ध्वमुखैकचक्राः.

MY seems to read samuhāgaa-bhaāhitthā for samuhonaa-bharuvvattā found in R, who says सुराणां रथा निर्वर्ण्यमाने रामलक्ष्मणौ जीवतो न वेति निरूप्यमाणे सति संमुखीभूय अवनतानामधोमुखानाम्, अर्थात् सुराणाम्, भरेण उद्वृत्ता नतोन्नताः चिरमासन्. K's reading is same as MY's.

Kula's reading is same as R's, but he reads bharakkantā for bharuvvattā Kula says सुराणां रथा निर्वर्ण्यतां निरूपयतां समुखावनतानां भरेण आक्रान्ताः. Kula reads tamsa-valiā (यस्यवल्लिताः) for tamsa-tadimā. R says तिर्यक्तडिमाः तिर्यगतपार्श्वभित्तय इत्यर्थः.

34. K, MY and Kula read निमग्नम् for nivadiam = निपतितम् (R). MY reads vihalam (विह्वलम्) for मूढं.

MY says niuddam निमग्नम् । हृदयपतनं संज्ञाप्रतिरोधः । तमः तिमिरं शोकश्च. MY (both mss.) has niuddha, but °dda occurs elsewhere in the poem (10.15, 15.74). cf. Hemacandra 4 101.

35 Kula says रामः परित्राणं रक्षा बलं यस्य तत् कपिसैन्यं भयेन ... पुञ्जीकृतं etc

36. The verse is not found in K, MY and Kula.

37. MY says रामस्य मुखप्रसादो जीवनाव्यभिचारी प्लवगेभ्यो ददावभयमित्यर्थः । pavaa-bala-mābhāim प्लवगबलस्य मा भैरिति वार्ताम्, अभयमिति यावत् । mahagghavio महार्घितः. Ms. A has मा भैरीरिति.

K has बल and अभयम्, and his reading seems to be same as MY's. Kula's reading is also same as that of MY. He says पतितस्यापि रघुपतेरविषादेन महार्घीकृतो बहुमानपात्रीकृतः मुखस्य प्रसादो दृश्यमानः प्लवगबलस्य माभीति¹ ददाति. SC Text has mābhūm, but Deśi-nānamālā 6. 129 says mābhāi अभयप्रदानम्, which is also MY's reading.

1. This word and पात्रीकृतः have been restored from SC,

R's reading is pavaa-vai-samlāvam. He says रघुपतेः सुखस्य प्रसादो दृश्यमानः सन्, अर्थात् सुग्रीवेण, प्लवगपतये सुग्रीवायैव संलापमाश्वास-वाक्यं ददाति.

38. K and Kula read nisiaro for nahaaro = नभश्चरः (R).

39. K and MY read अतिनीय for ahleūna=अभिलीय (R). MY says aineūna अतिनीय । रजनिचरं लङ्कामतिनीय केवलं स्थितः । न तु क्षणमपि विलम्बयेत्यर्थः. R says रजनीचरमिन्द्रजितं लङ्कामभिलीय प्रापय्य केवलं स्थितः.

Kula says ततो रोषेण तुलितपर्वतः, क्षणमपि ऊर्ध्वायित उत्थितः, (प्रधावितश्च) सुग्रीवो भयविपलायितं रजनिचरं मेघनादं लङ्कामतिलीय अनन्तरं स्थितः. If Kula's अतिलीय is a mistake for अतिनीय, his reading is same as that of K and MY. SC has ahineūna (अभिनीय). K, like Kula, has अथ स्थितः, i.e., navari a thio, for navaram thio = केवलं स्थितः (R) SC Text has navara-ithio=केवलं स्थितः (chaya).

R says रोषेण तुलितपर्वत उत्तोलितगिरिः सन् सहसा उद्धावितः कृतोत्फालः, तदनु प्रधावितः.

40 Kula has उल्लसितः for ūsasio (उच्छ्वसितः), but it might be a rendering rather than a variant. Kula like R says इन्द्रजिता विनिवेदितेन राघवनिघनेन सुखितो निशाचरनाथः. SC takes वि separately — इन्द्रजितापि निवेदितेन etc.

41 MY and Kula read sarasa-dūtha for dūtha° (R).

MY says दशमुखवचनेन युद्धभुवमानीता सरसदृष्टक्षणवैधव्या चेति विग्रहः. Kula says सरसमभिनवं दृष्टं क्षणं वैधव्यं यया सा जनकसुता. R says सरसं तात्कालिकं क्षणं व्याप्य वैधव्यम्.

42. R reads pabbhattha, and says प्रभ्रष्टं विस्मृतं सकलं सीता-दुःख येन. K has प्रमुषित, and Kula प्रस्मृत. MY says प्रस्मृत विस्मृते- त्यर्थः. SC (Text) and ms. C of Goldschmidt have pamhattha = प्रमुषित (SC chāyā). Ms. B of MY seems to have *pamhu*¹. Hemacandra 4.258 says pamhuttho Cf. Extracts on 6.12.

Kula says उन्मीलितः प्रबुद्धः.

43 K and Kula read गतः (gaṭ) for haṭ = हतः (R). Kula says गतः अतीतः.

R reads natthi jae (नास्ति जगति). K and MY read जनः (jano) for jae. Kula reads मन्ये, i.e. mane. Cf. SC (Text) and R on 5.20. Hemacandra 2.206. where the line is quoted, has vane for mane in the sense of संभावन-संभाव्यते एतदित्यर्थः.

MY aays यस्य धनुषि आरूढे सज्जीकृते त्रैलोक्यं प्राणसंशयमारोहतीत्यन्वयः । नास्ति जन इत्यत्र स इति शेषः. Kula says अतो मन्ये विधिपरिणामो दैवविपाकः यं न एति स नास्ति. R says जगति यं विधेरदृष्टस्य परिणामो नैति नागच्छति. SC says धनुषि आरूढे आरोपितमौर्वीके.

44. K reads कृतेन for kae=कृते (R), and गत for mukka=मुक्त (R). MY agrees with K as he says majjha kaena मम कृतेन. Kula agrees with R.

MY says imo असौ. He seems to read aha va imo for aha vāam = अथवायम् (R and Kula). Kula says अथवा मम् कृते मदर्थं मुक्तजीवितोऽयं सौमित्रिः कृतकार्यः कर्तव्यं कृतमनेनेत्यर्थः.

45. Kula says उत्साहस्य दर्शितः परिच्छेदः अवधिः यत्र । तत्क्षणोपस्थितायां मरणावस्थायां व्यवस्थापितं गाम्भीर्यं यत्र तद्वचनं मधुरं मनोहरं सुग्रीवं जल्पति. R says उत्साहेन दर्शितः परिच्छेदो लक्ष्मणेन सहानुमरणे निश्चयो यत्र । वक्तव्यभागपरिच्छेद इति वा. SC says उत्साहेन दर्शितः परिच्छेदो रावणवधरूपनिष्पत्तिर्येन.

1. The Prakrit word is missing in the other ms.

MY says उत्साह इति सुग्रीवसमरव्यापारानुरूपस्य उत्साहस्य स्वात्मना परिच्छेदो ज्ञानं दर्शितो येन तत् तथा. Ms. A has... व्यापाररूपस्य उत्साहस्य.

46. Kula says त्वया निर्व्यूढं यत् प्रतिज्ञातं तत् कृतम्. MY says त्वया यत् कर्तव्यं तत् सर्वं निर्व्यूढम् । असावपि कपिलोको रिपुबलभञ्जनात् उपभुक्तभुजबलः.

K and Kula read उपयुक्त for uahutta = उपभुक्त (MY and R). Kula says उपयुक्तभुजबलः कृतविक्रमोचितसमरव्यापारः कपिलोकः.

K and MY read kajjam for kammam (R and Kula). Kula says अनेनापि मारुतिना जगतः पृथग्भूतम् असाधारणं यशो यत्र, तच्च तत् दुष्करं चेति तथाभूतं कर्म कृतम्.

MY reads यथा (jaha) for jaa = जगत् (R and Kula) MY says यथा अभिव्यक्तयशस्करतया दुष्करं स्यात् तथा ममुना मारुतिनापि कार्यं कृतमित्यर्थः.

Kula reads वीर for धीर.

47. K reads दुःखायते तेन मम for dukkhena ena a maham = दुःखेन एतेन च मम (R and Kula who has तेन). MY's reading seems to be same as that of K as he says dukkhāa दुःखायते. K and MY read मरण for बाण (R and Kula ?). Kula reads आरब्ध for आवद्.

48 MY and Kula pratika has tam for tā = तावत् (R) Kula says ततस्तस्मात्. K and MY read parināmo for parināmam (R),

MY says यस्मात् त्वया कृत्यं सर्वं कृतं, दैवात् पुनरीदृशः परिणामः, अतो न प्राणाः त्वया परित्याज्याः, अपि तु स्वदेशस्वबान्धवाश्च द्रष्टव्याः । दुःखं दुष्करमित्यर्थः.

Kula also seems to read parināmo. He says दुःखं कालस्य (१) विलासो¹ ज्ञातुमशक्यमित्यर्थः. SC says शक्यं श्रमांसादिभिरिति² क्षुत् प्रति-

1 This seems to stand for परिणामः.

2 This should be श्रमांसादिभिरपि. See काव्यालंकारसूत्रवृत्ति of Vāmana 5,2,23, हन्तुमिति यत्....इति प्राञ्चः (e. g. K and probably Kula.) | नव्यास्तु (e. g. R) प्राकृते क्त्वा-तुम्-प्रत्यययोरेकरूपतया वैकल्पिकत्वात् कालस्य परिणामं विरसं ज्ञात्वा मा मुह्य,....बान्धववर्गं प्रेक्षस्व दुःखं दुःखितमिति बन्धुवर्ग-विशेषणं वेत्याहुः. R says कालस्य परिणामं दुःखं दुःखहेतुं ज्ञात्वा. For the construction दुःखं कालस्य परिणामो ज्ञातुम् found in K, MY and probably Kula cf. 1.9. (निर्वोदुं भवति दुष्करं काव्यकथा).

49. K, MY and Kula pratika has aha (अथ) for to= ततः (R). Our copy of Kula has muha which is obviously a mistake. SC mentions aha as a variant.

50. SC says वीरशय्यापदेन युद्धाभिहतस्य वीरस्य निषदनाय या शय्या साभिधीयते. R says वीरशयने आस्तरणं यस्य तम्. '

51. K and MY read आकारित for āsāta= आसादित (R and Kula).

MY says विद्युत्पतनातिरिक्तेन संपातेन गृहीतं क्षिप्तं च धनुर्यस्य तम् । अर्धोद्गुरितया, आहूतया, परावर्तितात् भुजादाक्षितया, ततो मोटितया च गदया विह्वलं निश्चेष्टम् । अत्राहूतत्वं नाम यावदाच्छेदयोग्यसमयं व्यापारप्रतिरोधनम् । एवंभूतं करिष्यामि दशमुखमित्यागामिना संबन्धः. For the reading āāna (आकारित) cf MY on 13. 42. For ohana cf. MY on 13.55.

Kula reads vajja for vyju. He says वज्रपतनातिरिक्तेन संपातेन संमुखगमनेन गृहीतं प्रविद्धं क्षिप्तं धनुर्यस्य तम् । अर्धविह्वतासादितात् स्तोक-व्यापारितप्राप्तात्, वलितादपवृत्तात् (?) भुजादाक्षितया, मोटितया गदया विह्वलं किंकर्तव्यमूढम्. Kula quotation in SC has वलितात् अपवर्जितात्. R says अर्धेन अर्धभागेन अवहृतया मदुपरि अवपातितया अथ तदैव मया-सादितया करेण धृतया तदनु वलितादामोट्य वक्रीकृतात् रावणस्य भुजादाक्षितया अतिक्रम्य गृहीतया पश्चात् मोटितया भग्नया गदया विह्वलम्.

52. MY pratika has khandhatthamia. He says स्कन्धास्तमितो हतश्च चन्द्रहासाद्यः खड्गो मध्ये वितीर्णेन चरणेन मूलाग्रग्राहिभ्यां हस्ताभ्यामवभग्नो यस्य तम्. MY's reading might be khandhatthamia-hiamajjha-carana-hatthobhagga-candahāsa-khaggam. K's readings are uncertain. See Goldschmidt's footnote ad loc.

R and Kula read khandhaddhantovāhia-kara-jualolugga-candahāsa-kkhaggam except that Kula reads obhagga for olugga = अवरुग्ण (R). Kula says (स्कन्धार्धान्ते अर्थात् मदीये SC) स्कन्धैकदेशे अवगाहितो विधूतः, करयुगलेन (अर्थात् मदीयेन SC) अवभग्नः चन्द्रहासनामा खड्गो यस्य. R says स्कन्धस्य अर्धान्ते अपवाहितः पातितः.

In the second line K and MY read valia for dalia. MY says प्रथममुत्प्लुतावपतितात्, चरणेन ताडितादत्त एव वलितादवनमितपार्श्वात् रथात् etc. Kula says आक्रान्तात्, चरणताडितात्, भग्नात् (i.e. दलितात्) रथात्¹ अधोमुखानि अपसरन्ति ग्रहरणानि यस्य तम्. SC says आक्रान्तेन दत्तभरेण चरणेन ताडितः सन् दलितो यो रथस्तस्मात्. R says अर्थात् मयैव आक्रान्तादधिष्ठितात्.

53. K and MY read °kkhalia (स्खलित) for (u)kkhudia = उत्खण्डित (R) Kula reads °kkhama, cf SC Text K, MY and Kula read garua for dinna (R) in the second line.

MY says purilla पुरोगत । भग्नतया विसंष्टुलेन पुरोगतभुजयुगलेन स्खलिता अपवृत्ताश्च अत एव निष्फलाश्च शेषबाहवो यत्र तम् । वज्रनिभाभिः संघशो निपतन्तीभिः गुर्वाभिः दृढाभिः मुष्टिभिः भिन्नवक्षोऽर्धान्तमित्यर्थः.² MY seems to explain hattha as संघशः. Deśināmamālā 8.59 gives the word in the sense of शीघ्र.

Kula says भग्नं ...यत् भुजयुगलं तेन (हेतुना SC) क्षयिता व्याहताः शेषा निष्फला बाहवो यस्य । वज्रनिभस्य (हस्तस्य) निपतता गुरुकेण दृढ-

1. Our copy has मुखात् !

2 छिन्न....B,

मुष्टिना भिन्नो वक्षोऽर्धान्तो¹ यस्य तम्. SC says वज्रनिभं यथा स्यात् तथा हस्तात् निपतता गुरुकेण मुष्टिना.

54. K and MY pratika has dhua for bhua (R and Kula). K and Kula read virasanta for visaranta (MY and R).

MY says nivvādia पृथक्कृत | paviddha प्रविद्ध | धुतेभ्यः शिरोऽन्तरेभ्यः पृथक्कृतमाकृष्टं, चुटितं, चैकमेकं विसरच्च, विक्षिप्तं शिरो यस्य तम्.

Kula says भुजाभ्यां पृथक्कृतानि, आकृष्टानि, खण्डितानि, प्रत्येकं रसन्ति आर्तनादं कुर्वन्ति, प्रविद्धानि² निक्षिप्तानि शिरांसि (यस्य) । निष्फलं.... सीतागतमनोरथं नखैः खण्डितं हृदयं यस्य. Kula seems to read nakkha-kkhubdia for *nakkhu*³. R says नखैस्खण्डितम्.

R construes paviddha as प्रवृद्ध. He says विसरन्ति भूमौ पतन्ति प्रवृद्धान्युपचितानि शिरांसि यस्य तम्.

55. MY says *dacchihi*³ द्रक्ष्यति | *jiam*⁴ va जीवन्ते वा. R reads va jianta-(rāhavam)=वा जीवद्(राघवम्). Kula reads जीवितं वा. He seems to read jiam va like MY.

SC Text has dacchu for dacchihi.

56. MY reads attham (अत्थम्) for mantam (R and Kula). Kula has हृदये (hīammi) for hīaena

57. K and MY read parinta for kuanta=कीर्यमाण (R).

MY says dhuvvamāna धाव्यमान. R says दोधूयमानः कम्प्यमानो, धाव्यमानः क्षाल्यमानो वा सुवेलो यत्र तादृशम्. MY says parinta परियत् । सहसोच्चलता सागरेण धाव्यमानसुवेलं, प्रचण्डपवनानीयमानराक्षमकलेवरं च भूतलं जातमित्यर्थः.

1. Our copy has this in neut

2. Our copy has प्रवृत्त्वानि.

3. B adds अ.

4. A has jiam.

R says खरेण....वातेन कीर्यमाणमितस्ततः प्रेर्यमाणं राक्षसानां कलेवरं यत्र तत्. Kula says खरवातेनाहतानि क्षिप्तानि प्रेरितानि त्यक्तजीवितानि रक्षसां कलेवराणि यत्र तथाभूतं धरातलं जातम्. Kula's reading is uncertain, but the ms. reading of SC Text is paritta which might be a mistake for parinta (K and MY) for kiranta (R).

58. K and Kula read निशा for महा. K, MY and Kula read हतपिञ्छ-पक्ष्मप्रकट° for nava-piñcha-maua-pamham = नवपिञ्छमृदुक-पक्ष्माणम् (R).

MY says पृष्ठे स्थिरनिहितमधुमथनावकाशो हतपक्ष्मभिः प्रकटो यस्य तम्. K, MY and Kula seem to read hia-piñcha-pamha-pāada°, but MY appears to read mahumahana-oāsam for mahumahasana-maggam

Kula says प्रेक्षते कनकमयस्य पक्षस्य बहलोदयोतेन प्रतिसारितनिशा-तिमिरम् उत्सारितरात्र्यन्धकारम् । वर्षणात् हतपिञ्छपक्ष्मत्वेन¹ प्रकटश्च स्थिरे पृष्ठे निहितो मधुमथनस्य आसनमार्गो यस्मिन् तं गरुडमिति योज्यम्.

SC has pecchana for pehuna (पिञ्छ R). SC says पेच्छणः पक्षे देशी.

59. MY reads pāalajjia = पातालार्जित. This is also the reading of K. R reads pāalañchia and says पातालादञ्चितः आकृष्टः.

Kula says पादाकृष्ट(कण्ठं) वलमान(?)स्थितमुरगं धारयन्तं गरुडं रामः प्रेक्षते चेति. Kula seems to read pāalañchia. This is also the ms. reading of SC Text. See editor's f.n. Hemacandra 4.187 gives āñcha₁ in the sense of कर्षति. He gives añca₁ also in the same sense. Cf. R above. Ms. C of Goldschmidt has olañcia.

MY says वासवायुघातविमुक्तः वज्रघातेन विगलितः.

1. Our copy read कृत for हत as it often does SC also has कृत, but it does not give any meaning.

60. K and MY read निष्ठित (niṭṭhia) for samthia=संस्थित (R). MY says संमुखनिष्ठितदृष्टे संमुखावस्थिते दृष्टे इत्यर्थः. Kula's reading is uncertain. He says संमुखस्थितदृष्टे.

61. The verse is not found in Kula and SC.

R reads appāhiattha-manto=अध्यापितास्त्रमन्त्रः. K reads आभाषितव्यशान्तः. Goldschmidt's suggestion that आभाषितव्य stands for appāhiavva is corroborated by MY who, however, reads avvāhiavva-santo rendered as व्याहृतेन प्रशान्तः.¹ Hemacandra 4 180 gives appāhai as an equivalent of संदिशति which also suits the sense. See Extracts on 10.74,75.

MY says गतगरुडदारुणः गतेन गरुडेन दारुणः दुःसहः गरुडापगमे परैः दुःसहवीर्यो जात इत्यर्थः.

62. K and Kula read rahu-tanae (रघुतनयौ) for °nāhe (°नाथौ) found in R.

MY says nimeī न्यधात्. K and SC chāyā have निदधाति. Kula says निमिनोति निदिशति.² R renders it as नियोजयति.

63. K and MY read ध्वजम् (dhaam) for bhuam=भुजम् (R). SC has dhaam, and this might be Kula's reading also, though our copy has रुद्धम् which is corrupt.

Kula and MY have paharaṇam for vikkamam (R).

MY says यथा रथेन युद्धभुवं नीयते तथा रोषेणापि । यथा चोत्साहः प्राणसंशयेऽपि एनं न जहाति तथा युद्धशिरसि सहायभूतं राक्षसबलमपि । ध्वजो यथा स्यात् साधारणं चिह्नं तद्वत् प्रहर्षोऽपि । यथा रिपुवधार्थमायुध-

1. B has अव्याहृतेन which is a scribal error, MY's avvāhiavva seems to be a mistake for appā°. In his gloss on 10,74 he says appāhiṇṇā व्याहृत्य, while K has आभाष्यते स्म. In 10,75 MY explains appāhento as व्याहरन्

2. Our copy has निदशति.

मुपादत्ते तथा बन्धुवधजनितं वैरमपि इत्येषामुपमानोपमेयभावोऽनुसंधेयः. R says यथा विक्रमं तथा वैराबन्धमपि बहमान इति सर्वत्र सहोपमा.

64. SC (Text) has वलवा for वडवा. Similarly, it reads गरुल for गरुड in verses 59 and 62. Verse numbers differ somewhat in SC. See printed Text.

R says संचरणपथे संमुखे.

65. MY says सैन्यव्यतिकरे सैन्ययोर्मिथःसंमेलने युद्ध इति यावत्. He and R render sambhāria as संस्मृत. Kula has संस्मारित.

MY says दारुणं घोरमवसानं विनिपातो यत्र तस्मिन्. R says दारुणमवसानं यस्य.

66. Kula says शरनिघातान् बाणसमूहान्. MY says रोमान्तर-लघ्नेत्यनेन शराणां भूयस्त्वेऽपि कुण्ठत्वं द्योत्यते । धूम्राक्षशरवर्षभगणयित्वैव तद्रथमवपतनरभसेनैव भंक्त्वा तत्क्षणात् तद्धनुराच्छिद्य पूर्ववदाकाशस्थो हनूमान् जहासेत्यर्थः. Kula says हतधूम्राक्षधनुः संस्थितः (सम्यक्स्थितः SC) हसति कपिः. R says हतमाच्छिद्य गृहीतं यत् धूम्राक्षस्य धनुः तत्र संस्थितः¹ हसति.

67. Goldschmidt and SC (Text) read uttham (दृष्टम्). N. S. edition has dattham.

MY says vīra व्यलीयत. Kula has विशीर्यते.

68. K, Kula and MY read आपीडन for āvedhana=आवेष्टन (R). Kula says ततो दीर्घवामकरतलप्रतिपन्नेन आपीडनेन अवनतगलोद्देशम्. MY says दीर्घत्वं प्रसारितत्वम् । अनादरात् वामेनैव प्रसारितेन करतलेन निर्वर्तितात् आपीडनात् अवनतो (?) गलप्रदेशो (यस्य तम्). MY seems to read nivatta for padivanna.

1. Dhanu—samthia seems to be an expression like dhanu nisanna used in Gāthāsaptatī 2 16, Gomgādhara says in his Comm.—धनुषि निषण्णा. क्षिति-तलनिहिताटनीकं धनुरवलम्ब्य स्थिताः. See N S ed. 1889. The idiom occurs in Bhāravi 14,37 : निषण्णमापत्प्रतिकारकारणे शरासने.

K and SC Text read क्षीयमाणतलिननिर्गत (jhijjanta-talina-niggaa) for rumbhanta-jiva-niggama=रुध्यमानजीवनिर्गम found in R. MY's reading appears to be same as that of K as he has अल्पनिर्गत. The Prakrit equivalent is corrupt in our copy, but it might be tanua-niggaa. Kula also says क्षीयमाणः तनुनिर्गतः वक्षसोऽभ्यन्तरे भ्रमन् सिंहनादो यस्य तम्. R says कण्ठस्य मोटित्वात् रुध्यमानो जीवनिर्गमस्तेन हेतुना वक्षोऽभ्यन्तरे भ्रमन् सिंहनिनादो यस्य तम्.

69. Kula reads व्यापृत, and MY व्यापारित for vāvāri=व्यापारिन् found in R. Ms. C of Goldschmidt has vāvāria, while SC Text has vāvadia. Kula says क्षणं व्यापृतौ,....गलप्रहरणौ, प्रलम्बितौ उभौ हस्तौ यस्य. MY says क्षणं व्यापारितौ, पुनः परवशौ, गलदायुधौ, प्रचलितौ (?) चोभौ हस्तौ यस्य तम्.

K, MY and Kula read uddha-tt̥ha for °ddhu° (R). MY says ऊर्ध्वस्थितदशायामेव मुक्तजीवितं न तु पतितदशायामित्यर्थः. R says ऊर्ध्व-मुत्थितं गतं सत् मुक्तं त्यक्तं जीवितं येन तादृशम्.

70. Kula reads निहते (nihae) for padie (पतिते). K reads आया-न्तम् (entam) for nintam = निर्यन्तम् R; निर्यान्तम् (Kula)

MY says दशमुखसंमुखज्ञप्तमिति समरप्रेषणलाभाय स्वयमेव संमुखस्थित-तया दशमुखेन प्रेषितमित्यर्थः.

71. MY says nīthia निष्ठित समापितेति यावत्.

R says वितीर्णं प्रहारायाग्रे कृत्वा दत्तं यदुरःस्थलं हनूमतेत्यर्थात् तत्र. Kula says विकीर्णं प्रसारिते (उरःस्थले) विश्वस्तमबहतो व्यापारितो, निष्ठितो नष्ट (?) आयुधनिवहो यस्य तम् । प्रत्येकं खण्डितो वि(प्र)कीर्णः अवयवो (यस्य तं) हनूमान् पातयति¹. R says निष्ठितः शतखण्डीभूय विनष्टः.

72. MY says आघातः युद्धम् । समतुलाग्रं समप्रतिद्वन्द्वम् । तेन हनूमता सह युद्धे द्वन्द्वात् भ्रष्टः । अथवा हनूमता स्वस्य आघाते² वधे प्राप्ते तत्क्षणं

1. Our copy has पतति. Besides, विकीर्णं in from SC. विभिन्नैः in our copy is corrupt.

2. स्वाघाते B.

भ्रष्ट इत्यर्थः. In the alternative explanation sama-tulagga is rendered as तत्क्षणम्. Cf. MY on 7.39 6.23. R says हनूमत्कृतादाघातात् समतुलाग्रेण काकतालीयसंवादसाम्येन दैवात् स्फोटितो बहिर्भूतः प्रहस्तो नाम राक्षसः. Cf. Muda on 4.27.

Kula says अथ दशमुखेन संदिष्टः, हनूमदाघात एव समतुलाग्रं परीक्षार्थं समीकृततुलाग्रसदृशं, तत्रारूढस्य संशयास्पदत्वात्, तस्मात् स्फोटितो भ्रष्टः¹....अलब्धसमरसुखत्वेन व्यथितस्य नीलस्य मुखे प्रहस्तः पतितः.

Śrinivāsa's explanation quoted by SC is far-fetched— हनूमदाघातसमात् तुलाग्रात् दैवात् भ्रष्टः । यथा हनूमत्कृतादाघातात् तथा दैवात् निज-भागधेयादपि स्खलित इत्यर्थः.

73. K and Kula read प्रस्थानसमम् (patthana - samam) for patthāne cca = प्रस्थाने एव (R).

Kula says अनन्तरं प्रस्थानसमं गमनसमकालं प्रहस्तेन मुक्तः कालायसः कृष्णलौहघटितो बाणः नीलस्योरसि पतितः समानवर्णतया दुर्लक्षः व्रणात् प्रतिभिन्नेन गलितेन रुधिरोद्गमेन पिशुनितः सूचितः.

74. K reads प्रतिपथ (padivantha) for padisotta = प्रतिस्रोतः (R and Kula ?).

Kula says वेगापवर्तितविटपं² वेगेन पश्चादावर्जितशाखं (?), सुरहस्तिनः परिमलेन सुरगजस्य मदकण्डूकषणेन (?) सुरभिम्, अत एव गतिमार्गेण लग्न-भ्रमरं, प्रतिस्रोतोगतं (?) विपरीतं प्रसारितांशुकं कल्पद्रुमं नीलो (?) मुञ्चति. R says प्रतिस्रोतसा पश्चाद्वर्त्मना प्रसारितमंशुकं वल्लं यस्य । वेगमारुतेन इत्यर्थात्. SC says प्रतिस्रोतोगतानि विपरीतप्रसारितानि अंशुकानि यस्य.

75. SC Text has bolenta for volanta (K, R and Kula) = व्यतिक्रामत्. Goldschmidt reads bolanta.

1, Partly corrected from quotation in SC where केचित् refers to Kula

2. SC has अववर्तित.

R reads thavaa (स्तवक) in the first line. K and SC Text read hea (छेद). Kula has बिन्दु. SC says जललवानां छेदनिभो बिन्दुसदृशः. Usually K has बिन्दु for R's thavaa leading to the reading theva. See notes on 1.40 and 15.43.

K reads mottia-pphala (SC Text also) for mottia-phala = मुक्ताफल (R). Kula reads mottia-dala. K and Kula read प्रकरः (paaro) for nvaho (R). Kula reads खण्डित (khudia, cf. SC Text) for khalia = स्खलित.

Kula says ततस्तस्य कल्पपादपस्य....आगमनपथे व्यतिक्रामतो जल-धरस्येव आसारजललवानाम् उद्गलितबिन्दुसदृशः, धुतेभ्यः विटपेभ्यः खण्डितः च्युतो मौक्तिकदलप्रकरः (i.e., mottia-dala-ppaaro) स्थितः.

76. Kula reads bhaa-vimukke for bhua-vimukko = भुजविमुक्तः. He reads °मौक्तिकदलप्रकरं in the locative for °mottia-pphala-vaaro = °मौक्तिकफलप्रकरः.

Kula says स कल्पद्रुमः तस्य प्रहस्तस्य भयविमुक्ते भयरहिते, भज्यमानेभ्यो विटपेभ्यो विगलितैः वृष्टैः सितांशुकैरापीतप्रहाररुधिरे, व्रणेषु भृतो मौक्तिकदलप्रकरो यत्र तस्मिन् उरसि भग्नः.¹

MY says सितांशुकापीत सितांशुकचूषित (शोषित A).

77. R and Kula read pāado (प्रकटः). MY has vāvado rendered as व्यावृतः (B)².

78. Kula reads विघटित (vihadia, cf. SC Text) for vialia = विगलित (R). Ms. C of Goldschmidt has vihalia.

Kula says शरघातैः दलन्तो विदीर्यन्तो विघटिताः शिलानिवहा येषु । दलितेभ्यः पर्वतेभ्यो (व्यव)च्छिद्यमाना निर्झरा येषु ते तथाभूता नभःस्थलो-द्देशा दृश्यन्ते.

1 Several words have been corrected from SC.

2 A is corrupt and has व्यानुवता. B adds प्रावृतः.

79. Khaura is rendered as मिश्रकलुष by Kula. R says गैरिकर-जोभिः कलुषः कर्बुरितः.

80. MY says अवपतनाक्षिप्तधनुर्भूत्वा पुनर्निवृत्तस्थित इत्यर्थः.

Kula says अनन्तरं च गगनोद्देशे अवपतनेन छिन्नधनुः (आच्छिन्नं ?) निवृत्तस्तिमितः अपसृत(ः)निश्चलश्च, तथा प्रथमविमुक्तैः शरसमूहैः धृत (धृत ?) इव कपिः नीलो दृश्यते.

R and MY have धृतः (dhario). Acc. to Goldschmidt, K (chāyā) also has धृत, but the comm. has छादित which points to vario = वृतः found in SC Text and chāyā.

81. SC Text has nadāla for ललाट (R Text).

K and Kula read mutta for vaṭṭa = पट्ट (R). K and MY read paccupphidiṃ = प्रत्युद्घष्टम् for paccupphaliṃ = प्रत्युत्फलितम् (R and Kula).

Kula reads भज्यमान (bhajjanta, cf. SC Text) for majjhammi = मध्ये (R and MY). Kula and MY read dharanta explained differently for dharenta = ध्रियमाण (R)

MY says dharanta-ravam ध्रियमाणरवम् । संमुखागतत्वरितवञ्चितं मुसलं मध्ये प्रतिपन्नं गृहीतमित्यर्थः.

Kula says अथ निशाचरेण ग्रहस्तेन नीलस्य करमुक्तं (ललाटे मुक्तं ? cf. SC) सत् प्रत्युत्फलितं प्रतीपीभूय उत्पतितं भज्यमानस्य (धरान्तस्य) पर्वतैकदेशस्येव रवो यस्य तत् तथाभूतं, संमुखागतं त्वरितवञ्चितम् अङ्गीकृत्य शीघ्रपरिहृतं (मुसलं) प्रतिपन्नं गृहीतम्. R says नीलस्य ललाटपट्टात् प्रत्युत्फलितम्.

SC says श्रीनिवासस्तु वज्रेण अन्तो नाशो यस्य एवंभूतस्य धरस्य अन्तः स्वरूपं समरवमित्याह, i.e., he reads vajjanta-dharanta-ravam for bhajjanta-dharanta° (Kula).

82. Kula says सुवेलस्य शिखरार्धे मग्नस्य (लग्नस्य) मेघस्येव छाया यस्याः.....तां कृष्णशिलां ज्वलनतनयो नीलो गृह्णाति च.

83. Kula seems to say (शिलातलेन) अवस्थगिते समाच्छादिते दिने करे. He appears to read otthare for otthaammi (अवस्तृते) found in R and SC Text and chāyā. SC comm. has अवस्थगिते like Kula. for otthare cf. 11.59.

MY says दिवसो नभसि जातः नभस्येव जात इत्यर्थः.

84. R reads ghāabbhantara-bhinno galanta-jia-rūhiro gaō dharani-alam = घाताभ्यन्तरभिन्नो गलजीवरुधिरो गतो धरणीतलम्. K and Kula seem to read ghāabbhantara-samkhoba-bhinna-galja-hiaō gao etc. This reading is found also in SC Text.

Kula says अथ नीलस्य ग्रहस्तो रणानुरागेण सोढगाढप्रहारः, घातस्य अभ्यन्तरे संक्षोभेण पीडाभरेण भिन्नं विदीर्णं गलितं व्यपगतं हृदयं वक्षो मनश्च यस्य स तथाभूतो धरणीतलं गतः.

MY's reading appears to be same as that of K and Kula as he says गलितहृदयो विसंज्ञ इत्यर्थः.

R says घातेन शिलाभिघातेन अभ्यन्तरे भिन्नः चूर्णो बहिः क्षता-भावात् । तत एव च गलत् बहिर्भवत् जीवः प्राणस्तद्रूपं रुधिरं यस्य तादृक्.

CANTO XV

1. K says अथ प्रहस्ते निहते बन्धूनां वधादमर्षाच्च निर्यद्वाष्पपूरो रावणः शिखिना अग्निना प्रत्युद्रतेन पुरस्कृतेन हुङ्कारेण दशभिर्मुखैः कृतेन पूर्यमाणादि-
ड्मुखो भूत्वा चलितः युद्धार्थमुत्थितः. MY says शिखिना प्रत्युद्रमनं च पातगोचरे अग्निजनकत्वम्.

2. K reads तथा च कुपितेन हसितं in the first line. He says कुपितेन तेन भयङ्कराभिः मुखकन्दराभिः पूर्यमाणदशांशं यथा तथा हसितं च । कथमिति चेत्-तस्य परिजनो यथा भयेन तूष्णींभूतो भवनस्तम्भेषु तिरोबभूव.

MY says niluggo (nilukko ?) निलीनः छन्न इति यावत् A has niluko, K (chāyā) has निलीनः, R (chāyā) has निलुकितः.

3 K seems to read भरभुग्न for pāa-bhara in the first line. He reads सारथिसंरुध्यमानं (MY and Kula also) for sārahinā rubbhantam (R).

K says ततो रावणो राक्षसपरिवृतं, स्वदेहस्य भारेण कुटिलितनम-त्पश्चिमतलं, पुरस्तुरङ्गबहुलतया रथस्य पश्चिमभाग एवारोहणयोग्यः, सारथिना धार्यमाणं, चटुलतुरङ्गध्वजं रथमारूढः.

MY says nisudbhāvia अवपातित. His reading is possibly paa-bhara-n:sudhāvia for pāa-bharonamanta = पादभरावनमत् (R). He says sārubbhantam संरुध्यमानम्. He remarks पश्चिमतलिमभागेनारोहणनिय-मात् वेगातिशयाच्च विशेषणानि समर्थनीयानि.

4. K MY and Kula read सभा (sahā) for महा° (R) in the first line. K reads पुरि for पुर; MY seems to read अरि Kula's reading seems to be पुरी (puri°), cf. SC Text.

K says तत्तदुद्देशजृम्भमाणेन तेन तेन शब्देन रावणः तत्र तत्र चलित इति वानरैर्ज्ञातम् । पुरीति सप्तम्यन्तं पदम् । सभायां कृतेन रावणस्य हुङ्कारेण तस्याः चलित इति ज्ञातः ततः क्षुभितायाः सभाया आस्थानजनसमूहस्य परितश्चलितस्य कलकलेन लङ्कामध्यं गत इति । ततः पुरि सर्वस्या सैन्यस्य कलकलेन पुनश्चलित इति ज्ञात इति क्रमः.

MY says सभायां वर्तत इति वानरैः हुङ्कारेण ज्ञातः । लङ्कामध्ये राज भवनाङ्गने वर्तत इति क्षुभितसभाकलकलेन । चलित इति अरिसैन्यकलकलेन चेत्यर्थः. (Ms. A has आदिसैन्य).

Kula has हलहलेन for kalaalena. For the reading हलहल see Extracts on 12 86 See also verse 33 below. Kula says रोषगर्भेण सभायां हुङ्कारेण, क्षुभितायाः सभायाः प्रचलितायाः हलहलेन तारतम्येन लङ्कामध्ये, पुर्याः पुरनिवासिजनस्य सैन्यस्य च कलकलेन च दशमुखः चलित इति वानरैः ज्ञातः. SC says पुरीस्थितानां सैन्यानां कलकलेन.

5. K says अथ मुखनिवहस्य उपरि कृच्छ्रात् पर्याप्तधवलातपत्रच्छायः । अनेन मुखानां विकासातिशय उक्तः MY says दुष्प्रभूतः (दुःखप्र° B) कृच्छ्रेण पर्याप्तः. He reads bhinda for bhañja. K says एवंभूतो लङ्काया निर्गत्य तत्क्षणमेव भग्नरणासंनहं (भग्नरणमत्सरं chāya) कपिसैन्यं दर्शनेनैव भनक्ति बभञ्ज. SC says मत्सरः शत्रुजिगीषा.

6. K reads महा for agga (R and Kula) K, Kula and MY read laggam for laggā (R).

K says रावणदर्शनेन भयात् पलायनपराः सुखमात्रेण वलमानाः परावृत्ताः, पश्चिमाभिः केसरसटाभिराहतमहास्कन्धाः कपिनिवहा भग्नानामनुमार्गे पृष्ठतो लग्नं रावणमपश्यन्, MY says भग्नानां स्वेषामनुमार्गलग्नं कपयः प्रत्येकमपश्यन्तित्यर्थः.

7. K reads आक्रान्ति for akkanta = आक्रान्त.

K says ततो ज्वलनसुतो नीलः दशवदनस्य आक्रान्त्या अभिभवेन दत्तविद्रुतपदान् कृतपलायनपदन्यासान्, भिन्नप्रवृत्तान् भिन्नप्रवृत्तीन्, अथवा पूर्वस्थितिं भित्त्वा प्रवर्तमानान्, विस्मृतप्रतिज्ञावचनान्, समुत्पन्नरणभयान् तानुवाच.

MY says bhinna-paatte भिन्नप्रयत्नान् । dinna-viddavia-pae दत्तविद्रावितपदान् कृतपलायनपदानित्यर्थः. R says विद्रवितं शीघ्रं विसण्डुलं वा.

Kula says भिन्नप्रवृत्तान् इतस्ततो विद्रुतान् । दशवदनेन आक्रान्त-त्वात् आसादित्वात् दत्तं न्यस्तं विद्रुतं स्खलितं पदं येषां (तान्) । प्रमृष्टं (?) प्रस्मृतं तथाभणितं प्र(ति)ज्ञातरावणयुद्धं यैस्तान् K (chāyā) has प्रमुषितयथा-भणितान्. R has प्रभ्रष्ट explained as प्रस्मृत, which gives pabbhattha for pamhattha. Cf. Notes on 14.42.

8. K reads शैल (sela) for malaa (R and Kula) K (chāyā) has यस्य कृतेन पलायध्वे तदेव वो हरति जीवितं प्लवगपतिः.

9. K has this verse after 6 It does not occur in Kula. K reads स्फुटं for चिर. He says सीताहृतहृदयेन सीतया हृतमनसा रावणेन. R says सीताहितहृदयेन सीतायामाहितचित्तेन.

10 K reads bhinna for chinna (R and Kula) in the second line He says पराङ्मुखत्वात् वानरैरपहस्यमानरथ इति योज्यम् । अन्यत् स्पष्टम्. MY's readings are different. He says parammuhoharijjanta-rahō पराङ्मुखोपह्रियमाणरथः (B has पराङ्मुखाप ...) । lamkā-hutto लङ्काभिमुखः. Kula takes parammuho separately, and says पराङ्मुखः प्लवगैः हन्यमानरथः (i.e., hanjijantaraho).

11. K and Kula read धुरं for paam = पदं (R) in the first line. K reads प्रसुप्त (i.e., °ppasutta) for uvasutta = उपसुप्त (R and Kula).

K says ततः प्राप्तविनाशेन आसन्नविनाशेन अनेन रावणेन सुखप्रसुप्तस्य कुम्भकर्णस्य अकाले प्रतिबोधनं लघूकृतयशो यथा, मुक्तसामर्थ्यधुरं च यथा कृतम् । अकाले तस्य प्रबोधनात् यशश्च लघूकृतं स्वसामर्थ्यधुरा च विमुक्ता-भूदित्यर्थः. Kula says मुक्ता शौटीर्यस्य धूः यथा स्यात् तथा. K (chāyā) has शौण्डीर्य. K pratika has to nena for to tena (R and Kula)

MY says प्राप्तविनाशेन । विनाशः पलायनम्.

12. K explains शिरोऽर्धान्त as शिरःप्रदेश.

13. K pratīka has avacunna, but chāyā has अवक्षुण्ण, MY has occhunna आक्रान्त. Kula says अवक्षुण्णो भग्नः, K, MY and Kula read gaho for khaho (R).

K says परिकरशब्देन परिधानीयमुच्यते । राज्ञः परिकरो राजपरिकरः । तपनीयरागपरिकर इति वा । तपनीयवर्णः परिकर इत्यर्थः. MY says तपनीय-रागपरिकरः कनकरञ्जितसिचयः । रविपथमाक्रामन्नपि प्राकारः कुम्भकर्णस्योरुद-न्नतया ईषत्सस्तं कनकरञ्जितं परिधानमिवालक्ष्यतेत्यर्थः. Kula says सुवर्णांशुकस्य परिकर इव वेष्ट इव जातः, He seems to read tavanijja-vāsa-pariāro for °raa°. Cf. SC Text. SC chāyā has तपनीयवासःपरिकरः.

R remarks परिकरो मेखलावत् त्रिके निबध्यत इति समाचारः । स तु सुप्तोत्थितस्य शिथिलीभवत्येवेति ध्वनिः.

14. viyalāa in the first line (see Goldschmidt's edition) is rendered as विपलायित (K and Kula). Kula has जानुप्रसारमलिनाः for jāṇu-ppamāṇa-salilā. MY says परिखागताः समुद्रार्धान्ता इति समुद्रं यावत् निखाते भूभागे समुद्रा एव परिखा भवन्तीति यावत्.

15. K and MY read मार्गाभिमुखाः (probably maggaahuttā) for pacchāhuttā = पश्चादभिमुखाः (R). K says पराङ्मुखाः इत्यर्थः । शेषं स्पष्टार्थम्. Kula's reading is same as that of K and MY, but he construes it differently. See below. K, MY and Kula read प्रधाविताः (pahāvīā) for padāiā=पलायिताः (R). Kula reads विमुक्त (vimukka) for ṇlatta (निवृत्त).

MY says स्वकरेभ्यो निपतद्भिः गिरिभिरेव स्वयमाक्रान्ता यथागत-मार्गाभिमुखाः सर्वेऽपि कपयः प्रधावितुमारब्धा इत्यर्थः, Kula says मार्गकेषु (SC adds अन्वेषकेषु अभिमुखाः पृष्ठग्राहिषु दत्तपृष्ठाः. SC Text has *magga-ahuttā*¹, which is Kula's reading.

1. The ms. of SC has maggāhuttā marginally, acc. to the editor Ms C ९. Goldschmidt also has this reading The word as given in DN 6.111 is magga

16, 17. The verses are not found in K, MY and Kula. The latter shows slight variations and remarks एतत् पद्यद्वयं केनापि टीकाकारेण न धृतमिति.

18. K says चिरयुद्धस्य चिरं कृतयुद्धस्य । अन्यत् सुबोधम्. MY says चिरयोधितस्य (R also) चिरं कृतयुद्धस्येति यावत् । donna vi द्वावपि । छेदान्तरं रुधिरागमे (रुधिरोद्गमे A) प्राप्ते भुजपतनात् पश्चाद्भावकथनं रामस्य लघु-हस्तताद्योतनार्थम्.

19. K (chāyā) has सागरलब्धस्थामा (otthāmo) like R Ha says अनुवेलम् अनुसमुद्रतीरम् । अन्यत् स्पष्टम्. MY says आक्रान्तवेलाभ्यर्णतया द्वितीयसुवेलबुद्धिमेको बाहुरकरोत् । द्वितीयस्तु तत्रालब्धावकाशतया सीमन्तित-सागरस्थितो द्वितीयसेतुभ्रान्तिमजनयदित्यर्थः । एकस्मिन् भुजे वेलोद्देशे पतिते द्वितीयस्य जलधावेव पतनं वेलायामनवकाशादिति तात्पर्यम्.

Kula says सागर लब्धस्थाघो द्वितीयो भुजः. He reads thāhā for thāma (स्थामन्) as in 8 40 (sāara-laddha-tthāham), where he says सागरे लब्धः स्थाघो येन तं धराधरम्. R says ad loc. सागरे लब्धः स्थाघो (मूलं) येन तम् । लब्धसागरमूलं यं यं धराधरम्.

20. K (chāyā) renders cakkahā as चक्रीकृत, and has उत्त्रुटितम् for ukkhādam Hemacandra 4.116 gives khudai, tudai, tuttai etc. as equivalents of तुड् meaning तोडन. R has उत्खण्डितम्.

21. K and MY read bhinna for chinna (R and Kula) K reads जातः (jāo) for vi kao =अपि कृतः. Kula seems to read च (a) for vi.

22. K and MY read रुग्ण for bhagga भग्न (R). MY says dara-lugga ईषद्रुग्ण. K (chāyā) has प्लावयति. MY has pavvālei प्राप्लावयत्. K (chāyā) has पक्कग्राहः (pakkaggāho) rendered by R as प्रग्राहः जल-सिंहः. Kula seems to explain the word as समर्था ग्राहा जलहस्तिनः.

in the sense of पश्चात्. R on Setu 1.51 explains maggānugao as मार्गो रामस्य पश्चात् तमनुगतः and says मार्गशब्दः पश्चादर्थे निपातितः.

Deśināmamālā 6.64 has pakkha in the sense of दृष्ट and समर्थ, but in 6. 23 gives pakkaggāha in the sense of मकर.

SC explains dara-bhagga as भयभान. Kula is corrupt SC, however, says दूरं पलायिता विलीना इति कुलनाथः.

23. K, MY and Kula pratika has aha for to = ततः (R). K (chāyā) has रोषेण भ्रियमाणः for rosāava-rajjanam = रोषातपरज्यमानम् (R and probably Kula).

K says प्रहस्ताभ्यधिकम् । शेषः सुबोधः. MY says प्रहस्ताभ्यधिकं प्रहस्तमरणाभ्यधिकम्.

24. K says तां वेलां तस्यां वेलायां निर्गच्छत इत्यर्थः । अन्यत् स्पष्टम्. MY says पूर्व एव स्तम्भान्तरविस्ताराः रोषपरिवर्धितस्य वक्षसो न पर्याप्ता इत्यन्वयः. Kula says स्तम्भानाम् अन्तरविस्तारा महान्तोऽन्तरालदेशाः त एव पूर्वं सुखनिर्गमा एव वक्षःस्थलस्य न प्रभूता निर्गमोचिता इत्यर्थः.

25. K reads ऋज्वायत (ujjāaa) for ugghādia = उद्धाटित = प्रकाशित (R). MY reads ऋज्वागत. See below.

K says अथ किञ्चित् निर्गतस्य तस्य मेघनाद इति सुत इन्द्रजित् जानुभ्यां निपत्य उत्थितः, ऋजुना अवक्रेण उन्नतेन आयतेन च वक्षसा पूरित-भवनाभ्यन्तरो हसित्वा जल्पति स्म. Kula says जानुना पतितस्थितः (padia - tthio for padtu^o).

MY says ujjāgaa ऋज्वागतश्च, वक्षोभृतभवनोत्सङ्गश्चेति विग्रहः. Kula also reads ujjāgaa, but explains it differently — ऊर्जागतेन बल-पूर्णेन वक्षसा भूतभवनोत्सङ्गः.

26. K, MY and Kula pratika has nimmānammi (निर्मिते K and MY) for ñimmānammi (R). K and MY read पुत्रैः for putteṇa in the second line. They and Kula read garuammi for garue vi = गुरुकेऽपि (R).

K is not well-preserved here. He says साहसेन बलात्कारादिना गुरुणि कार्ये एव....पित्रा निमित्ते सति पुत्रैः तिष्ठद्विः पुत्रसदृशं पुत्रैः यादृशः (?) स्पर्शः स्यात् तथाविधं पुत्रस्पर्शं पिता न प्रापितः स्यात् । पुत्रसदृशं पुत्रकार्यमिति....¹ सत्पुत्राणाम् अनुरूपं पितुः पुत्रेषु स्पर्शमित्यर्थः.

R says गुरुके लोकैरादृते.

MY says निर्मिते साहसगुरुणि कार्ये सरसफलादौ गुरुणात्मनैव उपयुक्ते सति पुत्रैः कर्तुमुचितं पुत्रस्पर्शसुखं पुत्रैः न प्रापितः पिता । नूनमपि (नूनमिति A_) स्यादित्यर्थः । यदि पितुः पुत्रेषु स्नेहस्तदा सुखातिशयहेतूनामीदृशानां कार्याणां प्रसक्तौ तेषु नियोजनमेव कार्यमिति तात्पर्यम्.² MY seems to read nūna (नूनम्) for hor in the second line. Cf. 5.6. SC says पुत्रेण पुत्रसदृशं पुत्रस्योचितं पुत्रस्पर्शं पिता प्रापितो न भवति । कृतकार्यागतस्य पुत्रस्यालिङ्गनेन स्पर्शजन्यसुखं पुत्रेण पिता प्रापितो भवतीत्यर्थः.

27. K reads श्वसति for dharente=ध्रियमाणे (R and Kula). K and MY read nīha (निर्याथ) for nīsi=निर्यासि (Kula), निरैषि (R). K and MY read lahuantā in the plural for lahuanto (R and Kula).

K says मयि श्वसति जीवति मानुषमात्रस्य रामस्य कृते कस्मात् आत्मनैव एवं निर्गच्छथ निर्याथ chayā) । अस्माकं राक्षसवंशस्य यशो लघू-कुर्वाणाः (लघयन्तः chayā) । अस्माकं कुलस्येति वक्तव्ये राक्षसशब्दः प्रसिद्धि-हेतोः प्रयुक्तः.

MY says kisa कस्मात्. Kula says ध्रियमाणे अवतिष्ठमाने । इत्येवम् अस्माकं राक्षसकुलस्य यशो (लघू)कुर्वन्.

28. K and MY read ānaha (जानीथ) for ānasi=जानासि. They read mamam for सम (R and Kula). K (chayā) has त्रिभुवनस्य समस्तस्य भरसहम्.

1. Ms. has कार्याणा here.

2. A reads तेषु नियोज्य गमनं कार्यमिति...

K says उत्खातभुजङ्गफणरत्नम् । अनेन पातालविजय उक्तः । भग्न-
नन्दनवनम् इत्यनेन स्वर्गजय उक्तः । प्रलोठितशैलम् इत्यनेन भूमण्डलविमर्दनम् ।
एवं त्रिभुवनस्य भरसहं त्रिभुवनस्य धारणे समर्थम् । अथवा परिभवितुमुद्यतस्य
त्रिभुवनस्य गौरवसहं माम् आत्मानं भवन्तमिव (न) जानीथ किम् इति शेषः.
MY says युष्मत्सदृशं मामद्यापि न जानीथेत्यर्थः.

Kula and R have निपातितनन्दनवनम्. Kula says प्रलोठितः (?)
पर्यासितः शैलः कैलासो येन तम्. R (chāyā) has प्रलोठित, but comm.
says प्रलोठितः परिवर्तितः. Kula says सममेककालम्.

29. K reads रघुतनयम् for rahunāham (R and Kula). K (chāyā) has वलमान—वडवामुखान्. He says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. MY says रामस्यापदान-
भूतम् एकसागरशोषणं किं सप्तसागरशोषणेन अतिशाययेयम् उत तस्यैव वधेन
चेति तात्पर्यम्. MY has nihaṇammi for nihanemi (निहन्मि).

30. K and MY read निर्गम for vikkama (R and Kula) in the second line.

K says एवं ज्ञापित (दशमुखः) इन्द्रजित् — रथस्य पुरस्तात् पृष्ठतश्च
तुरङ्गा युज्यन्ते । तत्र पश्चिमतुरङ्गवाहकः सारथिः पश्चिमसारथिः । तस्य करे
प्रागेव स्थापितशिरस्त्राणं, शीर्षकमिति शिरस्त्रपर्यायः, आबद्धकवचभरत्वात् मन्थरेण
गौरवात् मन्देन पदनिर्गमेन पदक्षेपेण नमद्विस्तृततलम् (°तलिमम् chāyā) ।
उत्तरत्र संबन्धः.

It will be seen that K reads sisakkam for °sisakko (R and Kula) in the first line. Kula says पश्चिमस्य पृष्ठस्थितसारथेः करे (?) स्थापितं शिरस्त्रं येन स मेघनादः. R says पश्चिमेन पश्चाद्वर्तिना सारथिना करे स्थापितं
शीर्षकं शिरस्त्राणं यस्य स तथा.

MY says sisakkam शिरस्त्राणम् । पश्चिमे तलिमे कवचमाबध्य मन्थर-पदं निर्गच्छतोऽस्य भरेण पश्चिमतलिममेव यथा नमेत् तथाभूतमित्यर्थः. R says भरेण गौरवेण नमत् .. विस्तृतं तडिमं पश्चाद्वर्तिभित्तिभागो यस्य तम्. Kula says विक्रमस्य पादन्यासस्य भरेण । तलिमं (?) कुट्टिमम्.

31. K reads पात्यमान (see MY below) for muccanta = मुच्यमान (R and Kula)

K says ध्वजशिखरस्थितेन मेघेन पात्यमानायामशनौ प्रतिफलितरविक्रिणं रथं श्रुतासन्नरामधनुर्निनादः अतएव समरत्वरित आरोहति स्म.

MY says sumbhanta अवपात्यमान, Kula says ध्वजशिखरे स्थितेन जलधरेण मुच्यमानासु अशनिषु प्रतिफलिताः सक्रान्ताः सूर्यकरा यत्र तम्.

32. K pratika has aha (अथ) for ia (इति). K (chayā) has दशवदनाज्ञप्तिविलगितोत्क्षिप्तधुरः. K comm. says दशवदनस्याज्ञप्त्या समारोपितोन्नतकार्यभरः । शेषं सुबोधम्. MY says निवारितदशवदनः, निवारणं च रणोद्योगात्. SC says विलगिता गृहीता स्वीकृतेत्यर्थः, उत्क्षिप्ता उपरिनिहिता (धूः) समरभारी येनेति लोकनाथः. SC Text has ^०धुरो for ^०भरो.

33 K reads रणे for a se (चास्य), and कलकल for हलहल. He says निर्गच्छतस्तस्य दशमुखभवनाग्रद्वारे रावणभवनस्य बहिर्द्वारे यो वेगः प्रवृत्तः, त्वरितचोदितरथस्य तस्य नगरद्वारे यो वेगः, सहसा रणभुवं गत्वा कपिवलं क्षोभयतः तस्य स एव वेगः प्रवृत्तकलकलोऽभूत् । अनेन तस्य गमनशैव्यातिशय उक्तः. R says वेगः कीदृक्—प्रवृत्तो हलहलः क्षोभविशेषो यस्मात् विपक्षाणामित्यर्थात् । शब्दोऽयं देशी. MY seems to read कलकल like K. He says तस्य कपिवलक्षोभेषु (क्षोभणेषु A) एक एव प्रवृत्तहर्षरवो वेगः प्रावर्तत । न तु विरम्येत्यर्थः.

Verses 32 and 33 are missing in our copy of Kula.

34. K, MY and Kula read समरलब्धलक्षः for rāma-baddha-lakṣho (R). K and MY read dhanio for lanio=वृतः (R and Kula).

K says प्रागेव समरे नागाक्षप्रयोगे लब्धलक्ष इन्द्रजित् प्रथमोत्थापितप्लवङ्गक्षपितबलः प्रथममेवोत्थापितैः कपिभिः ध्वंसितसैन्यः । अन्यत् स्पष्टम्.

R says प्रथमोद्भावितमग्रेकृतवेगम् अतएव प्लवङ्गमैः क्षपितं नाशितं बलं यस्य स तथा । ये पुरः समागताः ते कपिभिः हता-इत्यर्थः. Kula says प्रथम-

मुद्धावितानां प्लवङ्गानां क्षपितं (?) बलं सैन्यं येन (स) दशाननतनयः वानरयोधैः
समं ज्वलनसुतेन नीलेन वृतः प्रतीष्टः. MY says समरेषु अमोघविक्रमो,
नासीरप्रधावितैः कपिभिः निवारितसैन्यः, कपियोधसहितेन नीलेन निवारितोऽ-भूदित्यर्थः. MY seems to read vāṇia for °kkhavia (क्षपित); and dhario like K, whose chāyā has धारितः.

35. K says निगदव्याख्यातमेतत्. Kula reads vārei for dārei
(दारयति). He says वारयति निराकरोति.

36. K, MY and Kula read vārei (वारयति) for vāreha=वार-यत (R).

K says निष्कुम्भिला (chāyā also) नाम भद्रकाली । सा राक्षसा-
नामभीष्टार्थप्रदेति प्रसिद्धा । प्लवङ्गान् विजित्य निकुम्भिलायतनाभिमुखलक्षित-
प्रयाणम् इन्द्रजितं विभीषणेन कथितवृत्तान्तः सौमित्रिः वारयामासेति. K
(chāyā) renders saccavia as सत्यापित. Kula has सत्यीकृतं दृष्टम्. R says सत्यापितं स्थिरीकृतं प्रस्थानं येन तं मेघनादं वारयत.

MY says विक्रमामोघत्वसिद्धये निकुम्भिलाख्यचण्डिकाभिमुखं लक्षीकृत-पथं मेघनादं तत्प्रवेशात् प्रागेव विभीषणोक्तः सौमित्रिः न्यवारयदित्यर्थः. Ms.
A has निकुम्भिका. R says निकुम्भिला नाम यज्ञस्थानम्.

37. K says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. K (chāyā) renders seleh as शैलैः. R has शल्यैः Cf. Assamese śel (lance). MY says jujjhiassa योधितवतः (युद्धस्य K and R; युद्धं कृतवतः Kula).

38 The verse is not found in K and MY. Goldschmidt and N. S text read nivadaṭ tuppam va, but R's reading, as pointed out by the former, is nivalaṭ ghaam va (निर्वलति पृथग्भूय पतति ..वृतमिव R com). Kula on the second line is somewhat corrupt, but he has तैल¹ for tuppam=वृतम्.

¹ (अभ्युत्तेजितानाम्) उत्कर्षि(त)दशाना (दीपाना) तत्क्षणं निपतितं तैलमिव
Kula's reading might be padiam neham va SC Text has valaṭ sṇeha vva,

39. K pratika has suddhe (पतिते chāyā) for nihae=निहते (R and Kula). K comm. has हते. MY pratika has padie (पतिते). K, MY and Kula have शोक (soa) for iosa (R). MY says परिवर्तमानेन परा- ङ्मुखीभवतेति यावत् । अत्र शोकः पुत्रव्यसनजात्मनः पीडा । विषादस्तु कार्या- वसादजेति विभागः.

40 MY says बन्धूनां नि शेषहततया एकाकित्वेऽपि भुजमुखबाहुल्यात्
सकलबन्धुसहित इव लक्ष्यमाणो विनिर्गत इत्यर्थः.

K says अयमर्थः कालिदासेनापि उक्त —

भुजमूर्धोरुबाहुल्यादेकोऽपि धनदानुजः ।

ददृशे ह्ययथापूर्वं मातृवंश इव स्थितः ॥ Raghu 12 88

41 K reads दरावच्छादितसूर्यकरम् (chāyā) for darandhaāria- sūram = darandhakaritasūram (R and probably Kula). K's reading seems to be darocchaia-sūra-arām MY's reading appears to be about the same. He says ईषदवस्थगितसूर्यम्¹. Ms. C of Goldschmidt has dara-tthāia-sūra-aram.

K says अनन्तरं पवनप्रणुन्नया कृष्णवर्णया पताकया दरच्छादितरवि-
किरण, परिणतस्य दन्तप्रहारं कुर्वतो मत्तस्यैरावतस्य मदजलक्षालिततुरङ्गकेसर-भारम् । उत्तरत्र सवन्धः.

42. K says रथस्य नभसि मार्गवशादुपेते तुङ्गप्रदेशारोहणावरोहणे
सति आरोहणसमये रथस्य चक्रगतेन मलेन मलिनितोदरः चन्द्रस्य पश्चिमभागः,
पुनरवरोहणे तस्य ध्वजपटेन उन्मृष्टो निरस्तमलो भवति यस्येति बहुव्रीहिः । धन-देन सह युद्धे तस्य गदाताडनेनोद्धतया दहनज्वाल्या तप्तं रथमारूढः.

MY says अत्र रथचक्रे चन्द्रमालिन्यं कुरुते, ध्वजपटेन मालिन्यमपाकुरुत इति द्वन्द्वमपि विवक्षितम् । alumbia (alumkhia?) उपतप्त । स्पृष्टेति वा.
Ms. A has alamghua. Kula is corrupt, but he has स्पृष्ट (SC also).

1. This is incomplete सूर्यम् should be सूर्यकरम्. The Prakrit equivalent is corrupt in the mss, but darocchaia appears in B.

SC Text has alamghia. R explains alumkhia as कलुषित. See also R on 1.21. Hemacandra 4.182, 208 gives alumkha in the sense of स्पृशति and दहति.

43. K and Kula¹ read बाष्पविन्दवः for bāha lthavaa = वाष्पस्न-बकाः (R). Their reading is theva for thavaa. See Extracts on 1.40. Cf. SC Text. SC says थेव-शब्दो बिन्दुवचनो देजीयः².

K says निर्गच्छन्तं रावणं दृष्ट्वा राक्षसीभिर्दयिताभिः बाष्पविन्दवो लोचनैः पीता अन्तर्निरूढाः । प्रथमं शोकावेगात् यत एव येभ्यो निर्गताः तैरेव नयनैः पीताः । कथंभूताभिः—मङ्गलमनोभिः भर्तुर्मङ्गले मनांसि यासां ताभिः.

44. K and MY pratika has to nena for to tena (R and SC Text). K (chaya) has tतोऽनेन, but comm. has तेन (Kula also). Hemacandra 3.70, who quotes the beginning of the verse, has nena and explains it as तेन.

K and Kula read निर्वापित (nivvavia) for nivvaria (R) = निर्धृत explained as शीतलित.

K says ततस्तेन जात्या लघुकं वानरसैन्यं दृष्टिभिश्च बाणैश्च तुलिनं पुवङ्गजात्या लघुत्वात् दृष्टिभिरवज्ञातं, बाणैः मुक्तैः तुलितम् अपःकृतम् । कथंभूतम्—करतलगृहीतानां शैलानां निर्झरैः पतद्भिः निर्वापितं शमितान्तस्तापं वधस्तटं यस्य तत् । अन्तस्तापश्च रावणदर्शनसंभवः.

SC says जात्या कुलेन स्वभावेन वा लघुकं सारगून्यं, संकटदर्शनादेव विस्मृतपराक्रमं वा.

MY says भयात् करतलस्थितशैलविक्षेपेऽपि जातिलघुतया विधिलोधमं कपिबलं दृष्टिभिः बाणैश्च सारतस्तुलितमभूदित्यर्थः. Kula also says जातिलघुकं पुवङ्गमसैन्यम्. The rest is corrupt³. R's construction is jā: lahara:

1. Kula ms here jumbles up the verses. After the beginning of the gloss on verse 43 appear verses 50—57, followed by the concluding portion of verse 43. After this come verses 44—49.

2. This remark is from Kula's gloss which is here mutilated.

3. SC says दृष्टिपातैश्चबाणैश्च तुलितं परिकल्पितमिति कुत्नायः. Here पतित is a mistake for परिकल्पितं. See Kula on 2.37.

(याति लघुताम्), He says प्रथमं दर्शनेनैव ज्ञात कपिवलमिदं मदुपमदं न सहिष्यते चरमं शरत्यागे निर्धारितमिति तुलितपदार्थः । सांमुख्ये सति क्षुब्धं शरत्यागे सति क्षुब्धतरमभूदिति लघुतापदार्थः.

For tulia cf notes on 2.37. तुलित means weighed, estimated, gauged, ascertained etc. The word is also used in Pali in the same sense. See PTS Dict. sub voce which cites Therīgāthā 153 where the word is explained as परिच्छिन्न in the commentary. K's expl. of तुलित as अवज्ञात, अधःकृत is however supported by its use in Māgha 15.30, 61 where Mallinātha explains it as अवधूत, तिरस्कृत, अवधीरित. Vallabha on Māgha 15 61 (68 in Kashmir ed.) explains it as परिच्छिन्न.

45. K, MY and Kula pratika has pantha for pāsa=पाश्व (R) K and possibly Kula have वश for रस (R) in the second line.

K says विभीषणे अभिमुखमार्गमापतिते सत्यपि (पथि आपतितेऽपि chāya) रावणस्य अमर्षवशात् धनुषि संहितोऽपि शरः असौ दीनः बन्धुवर्गपरित्यागात् कपिवलपरिवृतत्वाच्च, क्षीण¹ इति च, सोदर इति च मन्यमानस्य शर उल्ललति शिथिलीवभूव । अनेन तस्य माहात्म्यं भ्रातृस्नेहगौरवं च दर्शितम्. MY says शरपथापतिते दीन इति उदरभरणपर इति उल्ललति स्खलतीत्यर्थः. The reading of K, MY and Kula i. e. panthāvadā (Cf. SC Text) is found also in Setu 6.34.

46. K and MY read प्रथमप्रहारमहितः (padhama-ppahāra - mahio) for visahia-padhama-ppaharo=विसोढप्रथमप्रहारः (R and Kula). K and Kula read तेन धनुः^o (tena or nena dhanu^o) for rosena (R).

K says युद्धेषु प्रथमप्रहारेण महितो वीरैः पूजितः, अतएव धनुषि संहितविभीषणशरः (संहितोद्भटवाणः chāya) लक्ष्मणः तेन रावणेन शक्त्या आयुधविशेषेण उरसि भिन्नः इन्द्रस्याशन्या वृक्ष इव प्रहतः.

MY says प्रथमप्रहारमहितः प्रथममेव शत्रुं प्रहृत्यातएव पूजितस्थितः. Kula has धनुषि संहितोत्कटवाणः.

1. This seems to be a mistake.

47. K and Kula read अभ्युदय (abbhūaa) for abbhahua = अभ्यधिक (R).

K says स लक्ष्मणश्च पवनसुतेनानीतस्य गिरेरोपधिभिः मृतसन्नीवनी-
प्रभृतिभिः दत्तजीविताभ्युधः¹ (वितीर्णजीवाभ्युदयः chayā) तथैव पूर्ववत् सद्वित-शरचापो भूत्वा राक्षसैः सह योज्जुमारब्धः.

Kula reads स एव (so ccia) for so vi a (सोऽपि च).

48. K reads विषम for uhala=विहल (R). He says अथ राम-
तुरगखुरप्रहारैः विषमीकृतजलधरपृष्ठभागं, स्थितेन विश्रम्य स्थितेन वज्रधरेणा- लम्बितात् कनकध्वजस्तम्भात् निर्वमत्परिमलं निर्गच्छन्महेन्द्रशरीराङ्गरागपरिमलं

तदङ्गगतकस्तूरिकासंस्पृष्टात् ध्वजस्तम्भात् निर्यत्परिमलम्. R says स्थितेन
वज्रधरेण आलम्बितात् पृष्ठेनावष्टब्धात्.

Kula has भिन्न for विहल. He says तुरगानां खुरप्रहारैः भिन्नजल-धरपृष्ठम्.

49. K and MY read तुण्ड for दण्ड (R). K says वामकरेण
गृहीततुरङ्गरज्जोः मातलेः स्थितस्य देहस्य (भरेण) नमितं दीर्घतरं² धूरतुण्डं रथस्य
मुखप्रदेशे धूः धुरा तस्याः तुण्डोऽग्नौ यस्य तम् । धूः स्याद यानमुखे भारे ऽपि

3. R says अवनतानि सन्ति निपण्णानि मिथो भिन्नितानि चामगणः प. ३३३. ३३.

वशात् उन्नतपश्चिमतलं (°तलिमं chaya) स्वर्गात् गरुडमिव निपतन्तं हिरण्मयं रथमपश्यत्. MY says आकारतो गरुडमिवेति वर्णयतः कवेस्तस्यैव भगवद्ब्रह्म-शक्तता चेत्यभिप्रायः.

Kula reads सितार्धान्तम् (siaddhantam) for siha° (शिखार्धान्तम्). He says ध्वजपटैः सितार्धान्तं धवलैकदेशम्. R says शशिनो निघर्षे सति तदीयतुषारैराद्रीकृतः पश्चात् तदधोवर्तिनो रवेः करैः शुष्को ध्वजपटस्य शिखा अग्रं तदर्धान्तो यत्र तम्.

51. K, MY and Kula read प्रथमतर for padhama-dara = प्रथम-दर (R).

K says मातलेराभाषणात् प्रथमतरमेव आभाषणार्थमुन्मुखमुन्नतं प्रसन्नं मुखं यस्य स रामः अत्यन्तमवनमिताननेन मातलिना त्रिदशबहुमानगुरुकं त्रिद-शानां देवानां रामविषयेण बहुमानेन गुरु यथा भवति तथा प्रणतः नमस्कृतः.

Kula says प्रथमतराभाषणाय उन्मुखं सादरं प्रसन्नं मुखं यस्य स रामः. He reads त्रिदशपति (tiāsa-paī) for tiāsa-bahu°

R explains प्रथमदर ... as प्राथमिके कुशलप्रश्नादिरूपे किञ्चिदाभाषणे उन्मुखं सत् प्रसन्नं मुखं यस्य सः.

52. K, MY and Kula read करोत्क्षेपण for kara-kkhivana = कर-क्षेपण (R)

K says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. MY has avaha for uhā (उभय). Cf Hema-candra 2 138 MY says karukkhivana करोत्क्षेपण । त्रिभुवनपतेरिति महेन्द्रस्य । nimmahanta निर्यत् (निर्वमत् K chāya) । पूर्वं रथे पुञ्जितस्थितं पश्चादुभयकरोत्क्षेपणप्रकटितविस्तारं तदेव ... इन्द्रस्य कवचं रामाय प्रादादित्यर्थः.

MY says सुराधिपस्य सहस्रसंख्यतया सर्वाङ्गपर्याप्तानां लोचनानां कृते सुखस्पर्शनिमित्तमित्यर्थः.

54. K reads महीतलपरिष्ठितेन for mahu-alamoinnena=महीतलमवतीर्णेन (R and Kula). He says रथमारूढस्य तस्य वक्षःस्थलगतं क्वचं महीतलस्थितेन परिजनवत् अधस्तात् स्थितेन नातलिना तस्य सर्वाङ्गिकं सर्वाङ्गव्यापित्वं च । कीदृशम्—सुरपतेः हस्तस्पर्शात् सदा दुर्ललितं गर्वितम्.

MY says parimāsa परिमर्श । savvamgiām सर्वाङ्गीणं सर्वाङ्गव्यापित्वमित्यर्थः. R says सुरपतेर्हस्ताभ्यां परिमर्षेण रजोमार्जनादिना व्यापारणं दुर्ललितं स्नेहपात्रीकृतम्. Kula says दुर्ललितं सुकुमीरत्वात् असकृत् रपृष्टम्.

55. K says ततो नीलसुग्रीवाभ्यां सह राघवमाश्रितो लक्ष्मणः तत्क्षण-गृहीतधनुर्गर्भितं करं धरण्यां निधाय प्रणम्य भणति स्म.

MY says samallio प्राप्तः । नीलसुग्रीवाभ्यां सह समुपगतो¹ लक्ष्मणो धनुर्गर्भितमेव करं भूमौ विन्यस्याभणदिति । अत्र करं धरण्यां निमित्तयेति प्रणाम-प्रकारो दर्शितः.² Kula renders samallio as समन्वितः like R (समाश्रित. K chāyā). R says नीलसुग्रीवाभ्यां समन्वितः सुमित्रातनयः....राघवं भणति.

56. K, MY and Kula read प्रभो मीलतु युष्मद्वनुः for visamṛa tumha cāvam = विश्राम्यतु तव चापम् (R). Their reading seems to be pahu millau tumha dhanum Cf. SC Text.

K says हे प्रभो युष्मद्वनुः अटनिमुखात् भ्रष्टशिथिलव्याचक्ष्यं भूत्वा मीलतु युद्धसंनाहमपहाय निषीदतु । अचिरान् रावणं मयि नीजे वा सुभागे वा विलीनं पश्य.

1. समुपगतः A.

2. SC says गृहीतास्त्र पाणि भूमौ निवेद्य प्रणम्यात्मनिवेदनं करणं प्रणम्यः,

MY says pahu प्रभो । millau मीलतु निर्व्यापारी भवतु । virāam विलीनं हतम् । युष्माकं धनुः कोटितः शिथिलज्याबन्धं भूत्वा निमीलतु । अस्मासु अन्यतमेन हन्यमानो दशमुखस्त्वया केवलं निरीक्षितव्यः.

Phidia is rendered as स्फेटित = उत्तारित by R; भ्रष्ट (K). R renders virāa as विशीर्ण.

57 K and MY read समुच्छ्रितमपि सुरगजः for sama-thalim va vana-gac=समस्थलीं वा वनगजः (R). Their reading seems to be samūsiām vi sura-gao. K says गुरुणि कार्यं कोपं कुरु । लघुनि रावणवधे अमर्षं मुञ्च । सुरगजः तुङ्गं गिरितटं निपातयति । समुच्छ्रितमपि नदीतटं (नदी-वप्रं chāyā) न निपातयति. K chāyā has खलु (na hu) for na a (न च) in the second line

MY says गुरौ वधे इति शेषः निमित्तसप्तमो चेयम् । nisubbhaḥ (for nsumbhaḥ) अवपातयति । सुरगजो हि उच्छ्रितमपि नदीकूलं न निपातयति, अपि तु तुङ्गगिरिशिखरमित्यर्थः । पूर्वं हीनतरो रावणस्त्वया न प्रतीद्वन्द्वीकर्तव्य इत्युक्तम्.

Kula is corrupt, but he reads sura-gao, as he has ऐरावतः. He seems to read sama-tthalim like R, as सम appears in his gloss. SC says वप्रो मृत्कूट इति कुलनाथः.

58 K, MY and Kula read pulaīena (see below) for pecchiēna=प्रेक्षितेन (R). K and MY read tihuanam for vi tiuram = अपि त्रिपुरम् (R and Kula).

K says अर्धलोचनविलोकनेन (विलोकितेन chāyā) नयनस्यापाङ्गविलोकनेनैव समस्तं त्रिभुवनं दुग्धं पर्याप्तस्य त्रिनयनस्य त्रिपुरदहनस्य साधनसंपादनात् आज्ञा (त्रिदशैः कृता) किं न श्रूयते । तस्मादस्मानेव रावणवधे नियुङ्क्ष्वेति वाक्यशेषः. K (chāyā) has किमिव न श्रूयते आज्ञप्तिस्त्रिनयनस्य त्रिदशैः कृता. Kula says किं वा न श्रूयते.

MY says samaltam (for °ltham R) समस्तम् । addhacchi-pula-īena अर्धाक्षिप्रलोकितेन (Kula also).

59 K (chāyā) has विलोकितनीलरविमुतः. He says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. R and Kula have प्रलोकित. MY says panaam प्रणतम्, but ms. B has vaanam वचनम्.

60. K and probably MY read समरभारम् for jampiānam = जल्पितानाम् (R and Kula). They read नाशङ्कते for āsanghar = अध्यवस्यति (R), आशंसति=संप्रत्येति, अवधारयति वा (SC). Kula is here corrupt.

K says युष्मद्व्यवसितं व्यवसाय एव व्यवसितं युष्मदध्यवसितं निर्व्यूढ-समरभारमित्यत्र मम हृदयं न शङ्कते (नाशङ्कते chāyā) न संशेते । अथवा युष्मद्व्यवसितमर्थान्तर निर्व्यूढसमरभारमेव स्यात् । किं पुनः कितु स्वयमेवा-निष्ठापितदशसुखः अविश्वंसितरावणो मम भुजः भर इव भविष्यति. MY says मम हृदयं बहुपदानदर्शनादेव त्वद्व्यवसायनिर्वहणं प्रति न संशेते.

Kula says निर्व्यूढं जल्पितं प्रतिज्ञातं यैस्तेषां युष्माकम् R says मम हृदय निर्व्यूढजल्पितानां निर्वाहितस्वप्रतिज्ञाना युष्माकं व्यवसितं कर्म अध्यवस्यति सिद्धत्वेन जानातीत्यर्थः.

61. K says वानराधिराजस्तावत् बलवत्तरं कुम्भं हतवान् । नीलश्च प्रहस्तं जघान । त्वमपीन्द्रजितमवधीः । एवं यूयमेकैकैः अपदानैः तुष्यत । मम मुखे पतितं रावणं मा हरत मापकर्षत । केसरिणः पुरोगतं वनगजमिव.

MY says tūsaha (for dūsaha found in R) तुष्यत.

62. K and MY read व्युच्छिन्दन्निव for vocchundantassa = व्यवच्छिन्दतो (R). Kula has व्यवच्छिन्दन्निव. MY says vocchindanto vva व्युच्छिन्दन्निव व्युच्छेदकरणाभिसन्धिनेति यावत्. Kula explains it as समापयन्निव.

MY reads oaggium for ummūlum=उन्मूलयितुम् (R), and explains it as अभिभवितुम् found in K (chāyā) also. K says नात्र दुर्बोधमस्ति. Kula has अवकल्पितुमाक्षन्दिनुम्, but is corrupt. If he reads अववल्गितुम्, his reading is same as that of K and MY SC Text has ovaggiūm rendered as आक्रमितुम्.

63. K and Kula read रावणस्य for dahamuhassa. K (chāyā) has बाणपरिभ्रष्ट K says . द्वयोरपि समसारं सदृशवीर्योत्कर्षं, बाणपथादपगतैः देवैः दृश्यमानमेकतरस्य द्वयोरन्यतरस्य मरणात् गुरुकं महत् युद्धं जातम्. R says बाणपथस्फेदिता बाणपातभिया बहिर्भूतस्थिताः. Kula says बाणपथात् स्फेदितैरपगतैः

64 K chāyā has करमिलत् (kara-milanta, for किरणघडिभ = °घटित (R). Kula has °मिञ्जित. K says रावणेन चापं कुण्डलमणिकिरणमिल-ज्ज्याबन्ध यथा आकृष्य, i e, आकर्णमाकृष्य (MY), रामस्योरसि शरः प्रथमं मुक्त.. Kula says आकर्णाकर्षणात् कुण्डलमणीनां किरणैः मिलितज्याबन्धं चापं कृष्ट्वा.

65. K says उरसि वेगपतितेन तेन शरेण रामश्च धीरोऽपि अप्र-कम्प्योऽपि तथा प्रकम्पितः । कथम्--अनेन कम्पेन हेतुना सकलं त्रैलोक्यमात्मनो निर्विशेषं यथा परिकम्पितम्. R says वस्तुतस्तु आत्मनो निर्विशेषमभिन्नमात्म-स्वरूपं त्रैलोक्यं कम्पितम्.

66. K and Kula read milia for ghadia (R). K and MY read phidia for phudia = स्फुटित (R). K and MY read sāla-duma for tāla-vana (R and Kula) Kula reads स्तम्भ (khambha) for khandha (स्कन्ध). He reads स्फटिक (phaliha) for phudia (see above).

K says रामस्यापि शरो रावणस्य पार्श्वे पतन् भुजपरम्परामनुपरिपाटि, परिपाटिरनुक्रमः, परिपाटिमनुबध्य मिलितभ्रष्टानि केयूराणि यथा भवन्ति तथा, पूर्वं सप्तसालस्कन्धभेदपरिचयेन अतिगतः भित्त्वा अतिक्रान्तः । milia-p-phidia इति वा पाठः । मृदितभ्रष्टमित्यर्थः¹

1. Our copy has मिलितभ्रष्टम्, but milia is मृदित.

MY says phidia भ्रष्ट । अतिगतः भित्त्वा गतः । प्रागेव सालस्कन्ध-परम्पराभेदनाभ्यासेन रावणस्य दश भुजानपि भित्त्वैव असक्तो गत इत्यर्थः Kula says अनुपरिपाट्या यथाक्रमम्. He has अभिगतः for अतिगतः, and says तालवनस्तम्भानां परिचयेन पूर्वानुभवेन अभिगतः विद्वा निष्क्रान्तः.

R says अनुपरिपाट्यानुक्रमेण घटिता एकाभिमुख्येन स्थिताः, अथ च स्फुटिता बाणेनैव विद्धाः केयूरा यस्मिन् तमित्यङ्गदस्थान एव भुजानभिनदित्याशयः.

67. K reads आकर्षणनमत् for āaddhna-nirāa = आकृष्टनिरायतः (R and Kula).

K says रावणस्य वामभुजेषु एकं चापं संहितशरमभूत् । शरं संधाय रभसाकर्षणात् नमत्पृष्ठमन्यत् । अन्यत् धनुः मुक्तशरत्वात् लघुकृतोदरमभूत् । एवं सममेव ददृशे. Kula says अन्यत् शरलघुकृतोदरं मुक्तशरं समं युगपदेव रावणस्य धनुर्भवति.

MY says अन्यदत्र अन्यदन्यदिति वीप्सा द्रष्टव्या । तेन धनुषामुक्तन्यायेन व्यवस्थत्वेऽपि दशसंख्यत्वाविरोधः. Kula follows the same line of interpretation. R explains अन्यत् as अन्यावस्थम्, and takes the epithets to denote different aspects of the same bow. He says राक्षसपतेर्धनुः सममेकदैव भवति । कीदृशम्—संहितबाणं सत् अन्यत् अन्यावस्थं समकोटिद्वयत्वात् । रभसेनाकृष्टत्वात् निरायतपृष्ठमुत्थापितपृष्ठं सदन्यत् कोटिद्वयनमनात् ।इति संधानाकर्षणत्यागानामेककालिकत्वेन शिक्षाकौशलमुक्तम्. SC says निरायतमदीर्घम्; 'contracted' (M-Williams) The word means also 'stretched out', and nirāa is often used in the sense of 'long' in the poem.

68. K and Kula read मुक्तरवम् for mukka-saram (R). K says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. MY says एकस्यापि रामधनुषो युगपत् शरसंधानाकर्षणमोक्षणैः व्यवस्थत्वं वेगवशाददृश्यतेत्यर्थः. Kula says सदा संहिता निर्यान्तः शरा यस्मात् ।सदा मुक्तो रवो येन । सदा मण्डलितं विकटं विशालम् (?) उदरं

यस्य तत् तथाभूतं रामधनुर्दृश्यते, R says सदा मण्डलितं मण्डलाकारं सत् विकटोदरं तुच्छोदरं त्यक्तशरत्वात्.

69. K reads निगलितः (chāyā) for nvadio = निपतितः (R and Kula). SC Text has nialio = निगडितः (chāyā).

K says तयोः वामो हस्तः प्रसारित एव ददृशे । दक्षिणहस्तः शरा-
कर्षणं कुर्वन् अपाङ्गदेशे (नि)गलितः लग्नः । चापयोश्च शरास्तथा निहिताः ।
एवं हस्ताश्च शराश्च लाघवातिशयात् एककरोपस्थिताः । तथापि तयोरन्तराल-
प्रदेशेषु अन्योन्यं मुक्ताः शरा दृश्यन्ते स्म । शराणां संधानाकर्षणविसर्गाः कथं- चिदपि नोपलक्षिता इत्यर्थः.

MY says भुजाश्च चापानि च शराश्च लाघवातिशयेन निर्व्यापारवत्
एकरूपा अलक्ष्यन्त । तथापि तयोरन्तरालदेशः शरनिरन्तरोऽदृश्यतेत्यर्थः.

Kula says चापेषु तथा मिलिताः संहिताः (शराः). His reading might be miliā for ñimuā (निहिताः K; नियोजिताः R). It is possible, however, that K reads ñhiā. Cf. 2.19; 13 85.

70. K and Kula read जनकतनयावियोगप्रतप्तम् for siā-vioa- sai-samtattam = सीतावियोगसदासतप्तम् (R). K, Kula and MY read अमुक्तवेदनम् for amukka-dhīram = अमुक्तधैर्यम् (R).

K says सीतावियोगदुःखेन प्रतप्तम्, अतएवामुक्तवेदनं रामस्य हृदयं
रावणमुक्तेन शरेण निघातात् प्रहारात् भिन्नमपि तेन न ज्ञातम्.

MY says amukka-vīanam अमुक्तवेदनम्. He explains ñhāa as निखात (for निघात), and says रावणशरेण गाढभिन्नमपि स्वहृदयं सीता-
वियोगवेदनातिशयानुबन्धात् रामेण न ज्ञातमित्यर्थः. R says निघातः संघट्ट-
विशेषः. Kula says गुरुप्रहारेण भिन्नमपि.

MY reads pavvantam explained as क्लान्तम् for samtattam. Cf.
Hemacandra 4.18 —स्लेर्वा—पंवायौ—वाइ पंवायइ मिलाइ.

71. K (chāyā) has ललाटपट्टः (Kula also) in the second line.
He says सुबोधोऽर्थः.

72. K pratīka has to mucchā He reads ततो मूर्च्छागममुकुलः¹ for to se mucchā-vihalo = ततोऽस्य मूर्च्छाविहलः (R). Kula has ततस्तस्य मूर्च्छया मृदुकः², i.e. to se mucchā-mauo. K seems to read to mucchāgama-maulo. He reads प्रलुठितः (palot̃to) for paat̃to = प्रवृत्तः (R). Kula's gloss is here incomplete. SC Tex has palot̃to.

K says ततो रावणस्य मुखसंघातः मूर्च्छागमेन मुकुलो मुकुलिताकारः, रुधिरनिष्यन्दघूर्णन्नयननिवहः (लोहितनिष्यन्दभरितलोचननिवहः chaya) सन् बाहुशिखरेषु पर्यायेण लुठितः (प्रलुठितः chaya) भ्रान्तः. Kula explains लोहित as रुधिरः.

73. K reads निवह for pamha = पक्ष्मन् (R and Kula). K says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. K (chaya) has ततः गतमोहोन्मीलितो नयनहुताशनप्रदीप्तपत्रनिवहम् । ...वाणम् ॥ R says पत्रणा पुङ्खः तस्य पक्ष्माण्यग्राणि (रोमाणि Kula). SC says पत्रणायाः पक्ष्मरचनायाः पक्ष्माणि. Kula says उन्मीलितः प्रबुद्धः. R explains ummilla as उन्मीलितनयन.

74. The verse is not found in K and MY. Kula says निमग्नो नष्टः. SC Text has niunno for niuddo = निमग्नः (R). Further, it reads pakkhante (पक्षान्ते) for panthaddhe (पथ्यर्धे) i.e. अर्धे पथि found in R. SC says पक्षान्त इत्यनेन अकालग्रहोत्पातसूचनात् संनिहितो रावणविनाशः सूचित इति श्रीनिवासः. The corresponding reading is missing in our copy of Kula.

75. K says रामोऽपि शरं सधैर्यं तूणीरात् उत्कृष्य आसन्ने संनिकर्षे शीघ्रमेव लवितव्यं छेत्तव्यं रावणं रावणस्य मुखसमूहमित्यर्थः फुल्लं कमलाकरमिवापश्यत्.

1. Explained as मूर्च्छागमेन मुकुलो मुकुलिताकारः,

2. SC remarks मूर्च्छया विहलः । पाठान्तरे मृदुको हस्तादिस्पन्दशून्य इति लोकनाथः.

MY says ukkariseūna उत्कृष्य । āsaṇṇa-lālavvaṃ आसनलाव्यम्.
Kula says संहितच्छेदनम्. He takes lālavva as a noun.

76. K says उत्कृष्टं शरं रामः सदधाति धनुषि संदधे । तेन रावणवधं
निश्चित्य राक्षसश्रीः विभीषणान्तेन विभीषणसमीपेन विभीषणं प्रति वलते रावण-सकाशात् परावर्तते स्म etc. MY says अन्तशब्दः पार्श्ववाची He reads viḥṣaṇa for viḥṣaṇa.

77. The verse is not found in K, MY and Kula.

78. K and MY read वर्धितरभसनिनादे for vaccha-bharantucchange=वक्षोभ्रियमाणोत्सङ्गे (R and Kula). K reads बिन्दवः for thavaā= स्तवकाः (R and Kula). See 15.43 above.

K says वर्धितरभसनिनादे प्रवृद्धाकर्षणरभसनादे धनुषि रामेण कृष्यमाणे
सति कृष्यमाणस्य रामस्य शरस्य पत्रैरिव सुरवधूनां वाष्पविन्दव इवोन्मृष्टाः.
MY says रामेण सहितशरे धनुषि कृष्यमाणे तारध्वनिश्रवणादेव सुरवन्दीनां
रावणविनाशनिश्चयात् अश्रूणि तत्क्षणात् व्यरमन् इति तात्पर्यम्.

Kula says वक्षसा विततेन हेतुना तेन भ्रियमाणोत्सङ्गे विस्तार्यमाण-
मध्ये, संहितबाणे धनुषि कृष्यमाणे etc. R says रामशरस्य पत्रणं पुङ्खवर्तिपक्षाः तैरिव उत्प्रोज्झिताः (Kula also) मार्जिताः. Kula also has पत्रण (pattana) rendered as पत्र by K (chāyā and comm.).

79. K says स्पष्टोऽर्थः. MY says यो हि दशमुखस्य मुखसंघातः
चन्द्रहासेनैकेन पर्यायशः छिन्नः स एवैकेन रामशरेण युगपदेव छिन्न इत्यर्थः.
Kula says वारंवारं क्रमशः, and explains एकमुखः as एकच्छेदमार्गः.
R says एकं मुखमुपक्रमो यस्य स एकोपक्रमः सन् छिनः । एकदैव छिन्न इत्यर्थः.

80. K reads सुविभक्त for avihatta=अविभक्त (R and Kula). K and probably MY read परिसंस्थितः for padutthito=प्रत्युत्थितः (R).

K says रामशरेण युगपत् छिन्नः, सुविभक्तैः कण्ठैः छिन्नशेषैः कण्ठ-
प्रदेशैः गुरः, भुवि पतित्वा निजच्छेदैः परिसंस्थितो जीवदवस्थायामिव भुवि

स्थितो मुखनिवहः छिन्नोऽपि भयङ्करोऽभूत् । कथमिति चेत् मायया भूयो
धरणीतलोत्तीर्णस्येव पातालात् धरणीतलं भित्त्वा उत्तीर्णस्येव दृश्यमानस्य रावणस्य ।
राक्षसानामसुराणां च पातालनिवासित्वं प्रसिद्धम् ।

असुरा दानवा दैत्या दैतेयाः सुरशत्रवः ।

पूर्वदेवाः शुक्रशिष्याः पातालनिलयाः स्मृताः ॥ इति हलायुधः.

MY says निजच्छेदमार्गेण पृथिव्यां प्रतिष्ठितः अस्य मुखसंघातः पूर्वतो
निर्विशेषतया पातालादुत्पतनशङ्कामकरोदित्यर्थः.

Kula says अविभक्तैः स्कन्धेन सह छिन्नत्वात् अपृथग्भूतैः कण्ठैः गुरुकः
अप्रधृष्यः, छिन्नोऽपि दशमुखस्य मुखनिवहो निजकेन छेदेन (छेद)स्थानेन पतितः धरणीतलात् उत्तीर्णस्येव धरणीतलं भित्त्वा निर्गतस्येव भयङ्करो भवति. Kula's reading might be पतितस्थितः (padia-(thio), Cf. SC Text, for padiu° (R). See above. SC says निजच्छेदेन पतितस्थितः छेदानुरूपेण पङ्क्तीभूय पतित इत्यर्थः. R says निजकच्छेदेभ्यः प्रत्युत्थित इव पूर्ववत् पुन-
रुत्पन्न इव.

81. K says रणमुखे तस्य रावणस्य आत्मा जीवात्मा शिखाकरा-
लोऽग्निरिव सर्वेषामभिमुखं प्रत्यक्षमेव दशभिरपि मुखैः निष्क्रान्तः. Kula says शिखाभिः करालो महान् हुतवह इव. R says करालः सच्छिद्रो दन्तुरो वा.
Kula says तस्य राक्षसनाथस्य अभिमुखं रणमुखे हतस्य....सममेककालम्....

82. K reads समस्ते (i.e., samattammi) for samantao (R and Kula).

K says अथ रावणे निहते त्रैलोक्ये चोच्छ्वसिते रामस्य वदने भ्रुकुटि- रुन्मृष्टा । रामेण चापं चावतारितम् अवरोपितमौर्वीकं कृतम्.

Kula seems to read samuppusiā for a uppusiā as he has समुत्प्रोज्झिता.

83. The verse is not found in K and probably MY. The latter on verse 81 says गाथाचतुष्टयं स्फुटम्. The next verse he explains is 86.

84. K reads विभीषणेन चाशून्यहृदयेन for vibhīṣanassa vi anto-hiaammi=विभीषणस्यापि अन्तर्हृदये (R and Kula). K and Kula (?) read बाष्पविन्दवः for bāha-tthavao = बाष्पस्तवकः (R). See 15.43 above. SC Text has bāha-tthevā = ०विन्दवः.

K says तदानीमशून्यहृदयेन च । हेतौ तृतीया । धैर्यात् कथंचित् अशून्यहृदयत्वेन हेतुना अविनष्टसंज्ञत्वेन इत्यर्थः । सुबोधमन्यत.

85. K (chāyā) has अथ निहते दशमुखे for nihaammi a daha-vaane (R and Kula).

K says रावणे भ्रातरि हते विभीषणो निन्दितामरत्वशब्दः, वरप्रदान-समये ब्रह्मा विभीषणाय प्रसादात् अमरत्वं दत्तवानिति प्रसिद्धम्, तस्मात् भ्रातरि हते सति आत्मनो मरणाभावात् निन्दतीत्यर्थः । मरणादपि अभ्यधिकेन दुःखेन दत्तायासं यथा परिदेवितुमारब्धः, K (chāyā) has दत्तायासः.

86. K says स्पष्टोऽर्यः. In K (chāyā) jo ccia is rendered as यत एव. R has य एव. In the second line K (chāyā) has पार्थिव कथम् (i.e., patthiva kham) for kaha nu patthiva (R). Kula also has only कथम् like K, and says तमेव यमलोकमिदानीं कथम् 'अशेष'जनसामान्यं द्रक्ष्यसि. Kula seems to read saala (सकल) for sesa like ms. C of Goldschmidt.

MY reads dicchihisi (द्रक्ष्यसि) for dīshihisi (R). Ms. B of MY has dasihisi which seems to be a mistake for dīsi°. SC Text has dacchihisi, MY and SC Text have enbim for १° (इदानीम्).

87. K reads निहतेन रणमुखे पुनः for sama-nīhanena ranamuhe= समनिघनेन रणमुखे (R and Kula). He reads अनुसदृशम् (anusatisam) and कृतम् (kaam) for padimukkam (प्रतिमुक्तम्) and tuham (तव) found in R and Kula.

K says हे राक्षसाधिप ते त्वया अवधीरितोपदेशेन । अहं च कुम्भ-कर्णश्च त्वयावधीरितोपदेशौ जातौ । त्वया हता रामपत्नी पुनस्तस्मै प्रदीयता-

मित्युपदिशन् अहं च कुम्भकर्णश्च त्वया पूर्वमवज्ञातौ । ततोऽहं भवन्तं परित्यज्य
राममाश्रितः । त्वयावधीरितोपदेशेनापि त्वामपरित्यज्यरणमुखे निहतेन कुम्भकर्णेन
एकेन केवलमनुसदृशं कृतम् । भ्रातृस्नेहसदृशं कृतम् । मया तु नृशंसमनुष्ठित-मित्यर्थः.

MY says पूर्वं हितमुपदिशन्नपि त्वयावधीरितः कुम्भकर्ण एक एव त्वदर्थं रणे मुक्तजीवितो यशः कृतवानित्यर्थः.

Kula says त्वया पूर्वमवधुतहितोपदेशेनापि तेन कुम्भकर्णेन केवलं रण-मुखे समनिधनेन समकालप्राप्तनिधनेन तव प्रतिमुक्तं सुकृतं शोधितमित्यर्थः.

Kula seems to read avahua-hiovaesena (अवधुतहितोपदेशेन) for avahirio° (अवधीरितोपदेशेन).¹

R says ते तव अवधीरित उपदेशो येन । पूर्वं प्रतिक्षिप्तभवदाज्ञेनापि
स्वतन्त्रत्वात्.

88. K reads ganijjāi (गण्यते) for ganijjau = गण्यताम् (R and Kula).

K says समसुखदुःखैः बान्धवैः सर्वैः अमुक्तं त्वां मुञ्चन् अहं धर्म-
प्रधानो यदि धर्म एव प्रधानं यस्य स तथा स्यां यदि अधर्मप्रधानानां मध्ये पूर्वं
को गण्यते । जगति अधार्मिकाणामग्रणीरहमेव हि गणनीय इत्यर्थः.

MY says ham अहम् । tumam त्वाम् । ahamma - pahānāna
(adhamma° A) अधर्मप्रधानानाम् । purao पुरतः प्रथमत इति यावत् । सम-
दुःखसुखेषु बन्धुषु अमुञ्चत्सु त्वां पितृतुल्यं मुञ्चन् अहं कथं धर्मप्रधान इत्यर्थः.
It will be seen that MY reads adhamma° or ahamma° for dhamma°, like ms. C of Goldschmidt, but it violates the metre. The sense, however, requires it; and the other commentaries appear to construe dhamma-pahānāna as (a)dhamma° (अधर्मप्रधानानाम्). It may be noted that ms. A of MY actually reads *adhamma-pahunāna*² (for °pahāna), which suits the metre, but pahuna does not give प्रधान.

1. Cf SC Text which, however, has avahaa (अवहत)

2. Our copy has °nānām which is a scribal error.

There is a deśi word *pahana*¹ in the sense of कुल (D. N. 6.5) which is not suitable either. SC Text has adhamma-pavanāna (अधर्मप्रवणानां) which looks like an attempt to avoid the metrical difficulty, but mars the antithesis between धर्मप्रधान and अधर्मप्रधान.

89, 90 The verses are not found in K and MY. Kula has विसर्जय माम् in verse 90 R has विसृज.

91. K reads दत्तमन्युस्तम्भम् for jānuampena = जातानुकम्पेन (R) Kula has दत्तानुकम्पेन. K reads आज्ञतः (ānatto) for pavana-suo (R), and आरब्धः (ādhatto) for ānatto = आज्ञतः (R and Kula). K reads संस्कारः (MY also) for (sakkāre = संस्कारे (R). Kula's reading is same as R's, but he says सत्कारे अग्निदाने.²

K says महीतलपतितविसंस्थुलस्य विभीषणस्य विलापैः दत्तः कृतः रामस्य मन्युस्तम्भः कोपप्रशमो यथा भवति तथा रामेणापि आज्ञतः रावणस्य अन्त्यः संस्कार आरब्धः. Kula says विसंष्टुलस्य व्याकुलस्य विभीषणस्य विलापेन.

MY's readings appear to be same as those of K. He says विभीषणादिषु भयादप्रार्थयमानेषु अपि अस्य सरकारो रामेण स्वयमेवाज्ञापित इत्यर्थः. Ms. A of MY gives सत्कार as the equivalent of sakkāra. Cf. Kula above.

92. K says रावणे हते रामस्य सीतालाभोऽवश्यमेव सिद्ध इति विश्वसता सुग्रीवेण. MY says āsamghantena आशंसमानेन निश्चिन्वता.

93. K reads रघुतनय for rahuvai (R and Kula). This shows that he reads visajjiteṇa for vi° (R) K and MY read नीतः (nio) for

1 K and Muda in their gloss on 3 6 construe chāā-vahana as छायाप्रधान Muda explains the form pahana by referring the word प्रधान to the उत्खात group mentioned by Hemacandra 1.67 (ukkhāa, ukkhāa etc.) but प्रधान is not included in that group

2 Some words are missing in Kula's gloss on the verse kao = कृतः (R and Kula). K (chāyā) has जलधरयुक्तवज्रपटः for jalaha-ra-guppanta-dhao found in R and Kula (गुप्यमान Kuia; व्याकुलायमान R). K does not explain the verse, and says स्पष्टम्.

94. K has गृहीत्वा च जनकसुताम् for ghettūna janāa-tanaam (R and Kula).

95. K, MY and Kula read हृदय (hūa) for राम (R) in the first line. K reads सतृष्णसुख (saanha-suha) for samattha-jana = समस्तजन (R).

K says रामस्य सीतालाभेन अभिषेकोत्सवादपि अभ्यधिकेन जनित-हृदयाभ्युदयं जनितरामहृदयाभ्युदयम्, अनुरागशब्दैरुच्छ्वासान्तेषु अङ्कितम्, सतृष्णानां सुखं सुखकरो निर्वेशः अनुभवो यस्य, 'निर्वेशः समूर्च्छने स्यात् कर्मभृत्युपभोगयोः' इति वैजयन्ती, रावणवध इत्येतत् काव्यमत्रैव समाप्यते । नातः परं वक्ष्यत इत्यर्थः.

Kula says सकर्णानां सुखहेतुः निवेशः (निर्वेशः ?) अनुभवः¹ यस्य तत् तथा. He seems to read saanna-suha MY's reading appears to be same as Kula's. He says श्रोत्रवता² कृतप्रबन्धांशमात्रेणैव सुखहेतुत्वात् हृदयोद्वेजनाजनकत्वाच्च इत्यर्थः । सीतालाभावसानिकतया हृदयोत्सवहेतुत्वाच्च इत्यर्थः (अत्रैव समाप्यते).

R (MY also) explains nyvesa as निर्वेष. R says समस्तजनस्य द्वेषशून्यं सीतारामसंबन्धित्वेन अनुरक्तसर्वजनमित्यर्थः. Cf MY above—हृदयोद्वेजनाजनक.

1. Our copy has अनुतनो, but the sense is clear from K's gloss.

2. Corresponds to सकर्णानाम् which is the reading of Kula Ms. A of MY has श्रोत्रवता कवीना प्रबन्धाशमात्रेणैव etc

Appendix

I

As pointed out in the Introduction, section V, the South Indian recension of the Setubandha contains some verses which are not found in Rāmadāsa. Four of these verses are, however, found also in Kulānātha, showing that they are common to the South Indian and Bengal recensions. They are included in the text accompanying the Setutattvacandrikā commentary compiled in Bengal at a later date, and reproduced below with extracts from the commentaries.

The verse numbers are those of the Calcutta edition of the Rāvanavaha-mahākāvya with the above-mentioned commentary.

गरुणं वि समर-कञ्जे विभसन्ते च्चिच्च रस लहन्ति समत्था ।

वद्ध-फलमि कुसुमे वीलीणो होइ महुअराण अवसरो ॥ 3.6

K pratika has guruammi. He says गुरुणि समरकार्ये विकसत्येव रस लभन्ते समर्थाः रसं विजयसुखास्वादं लभन्ते । अत्रोदाहरणमाह—कुसुमे वद्ध-फले जातफले सति मधुकराणामवसरो मधुपानामवकाशः अतिक्रान्तो भवतीति तद्वत् अन्यैः सेवकैः निर्वर्तितप्राये सति कार्ये समर्थानां पराक्रमावसरोऽतिक्रान्तः स्यादिति यावत्. Kula's gloss on the verse is anonymously reproduced in SC.

जलण-प्पहाणुविद्धं आवत्त-भमन्त-पव्वअ-दुमालगं ।

संवद्ध-रअण-पुप्फं फुरइ फुरन्त-प्पहं पवाल-किसलअं ॥ 5.49

K says आवर्तेषु भ्रमतां पर्वतानां द्रुमेषु आलग्नं, ज्वलनप्रभयानुविद्धं, संवद्धरत्नपुष्पं, स्फुरत्प्रभं प्रवालकिसलयं विद्रुमकिसलयं स्फुरति स्म । रत्नं मौक्तिकं, तदेव वृक्षाणां पुष्पमिवासीत् । विद्रुम एव किसलयमभूत् । इदं विशेष्यपदम्.

Kula says ज्वलनप्रभया तुल्यवर्णयानुविद्धं सत् स्फुरत्प्रभं स्फुरति राजते. बाणोसारिअ-सलिला थोउविभज्जन्त-पाअडिअ-सिप्पि-उडा ।

विभसन्ति विभसिआअव-वसुआअन्त-मणि-गविभणा पुलिण-वहा ॥ 5.72

K seems to read thoobhiyanta for thoubbhi^o in the first line. He says स्तोकमीषत् अवभिद्यमानो विदीर्यमाणः प्रकटितः शुक्तिपुटो यत्र । अन्यत् स्पष्टम्, MY says vasuāanta शुभ्यत् । gabbhinā गर्भिताः । पुलिनानां विकासो जलक्षयात् विस्तारः. Kula has स्तोकोद्विद्यमानप्रकटितशुक्तिपुटाः.

आइद्ध-महिहर-णिहं उअहि-जल-पलोद्द-मेह-अड-पम्भारं ।

पडइ व पुरओहुत्तं टङ्क-च्छिण्णं व सेउ-बन्धस्स णहं ॥ 8.58

This is Kula's reading of the verse. The South-Indian commentators read the second line differently. K (chāyā) has पततीव पुरतोऽभिमुखं टङ्कच्छेदे सेतुबन्धस्य मुखम्, Kula's gloss on the verse is missing in our copy SC says सेतुबन्धस्य पुरतोऽभिमुखं टङ्कच्छिन्नमिव नभः पतति । टङ्कः पाषाणदारणे इति नभसः पाषाणसादृश्यं समाहितं टङ्करूपेण सेतुना छिन्नं यत् पुरोऽभिमुखं पततीवेत्यर्थः ।....उदधिजलपर्यस्ता मेघतटप्राग्भारा अर्थात् गिरिशिखरप्रेरिता यस्मात् । एतेन मेघानां टङ्कच्छिन्नस्य नभसोऽवयवसाम्यमुक्तम् ।... प्रक्षिप्तमहीधरनिभं नभ इत्यर्थः.

K says टङ्कः पाषाणभेदनः । आविद्धमहीधरनिभं पृथग्विभिन्नपर्वतनिभं समुद्रजले प्रलुठितं मेघतटजालं पर्वतैः सह पतितमेघजालं विरराजेत्यध्याहार्यम् । अत्रोत्प्रेक्ष्यते-सेतुं विरचयतो विश्वकर्मतनयस्य टङ्कच्छेदे पर्वतघटनार्थं टङ्कच्छेदे पर्वतघटनार्थं टङ्कच्छेदे सति पुरोमुखं सेतुबन्धस्य मुखमपतदिवेति । मुखशब्देन पर्वतखण्ड उच्यते. MY says उदधिजले प्रलुठितो मेघतटप्राग्भारो यत्र तत्तथा । आविद्धः रभसक्षिप्तः¹ महीधरो यस्य तदाविद्धमहीधरम्, तत्सदृशमेवंभूतं सेतुबन्धस्य मुखं टङ्कच्छेदे सति पुरतोऽभिमुखमपतदिवेति वासितक्षणच्छेदमन्वभूदिवेत्यर्थः. Deva reads मुखे for मुखम् and says...मेघतटप्राग्भारं सेतुबन्धस्य मुखे यः टङ्कच्छेदः पाषाणसन्धिः तस्मिन् विवरे पततीव.
